RIO DE JANEIRO, OCT.31-(AP)-ALL BRAZIL WAS CALM TODAY AS A NEW GOVERNMENT, HEADED BY A CIVILIAN JURIST AND SUPPORTED BY THE COUNTRY'S ARMED FORCES, BEGAN ITS FIRST DAY IN OFFICE FOLLOWING A BLOODLESS COUP WHICH ENDED THE 15-YEAR-REIGN OF PRESIDENT GETULIO VARGAS.

THE NEW REGIME HAS PLEDGED ITSELF TO STEP DOWN AFTER THE DEC.2 ELECTIONS. CHIEF JUSTICE JOSE LINHARES, WHO FORMALLY ASSUMED THE PRESIDENCY YESTERDAY AFTERNOON, ANNOUNCED HE WOULD HAND OVER HIS OFFICE TO THE CHOSEN REPRESENTATIVE OF THE PEOPLE.

THE GOVERNMENT BEGAN ITS TASK WITH A FULL CABINET WHICH INCLUDED ONLY ONE HOLDOVER FROM THE VARGAS REGIME--VETERAN DIPLOMAT PEDRO LEAO VELLOSO, WHO WAS ACTING FOREIGN MINISTER UNDER VARGAS AND NOW BECOMES FOREIGN MINISTER. HE LED THE BRAZILIAN DELEGATIONS AT THE MEXICO CITY AND SAN FRANCISCO CONFERENCES.

OTHER MEMBERS OF THE CABINET ARE:

GEN.SALVADOR CESAR OBINO, MINISTER OF WAR; ADMIRAL DODSWORTH MARTINS, MINISTER OF NAVY; BRIG.ARMANDO TROMPOLSKY, MINISTER OF AVIATION; T.SAMPAIO DORIA, MINISTER OF JUSTICE; J.PIRES DO RIO, MINISTER OF FINANCE; MELLO MORAES, MINISTER OF AGRICULTURE; MAURICIO JOPPERT, MINISTER OF PUBLIC WORKS; ROBERTO CARNEIRO MENDONCA, MINISTER OF LABOR; LEITAO DE CUNHA, MINISTER OF EDUCATION.

THE NEW CHIEF OF THE FEDERAL POLICE IS RIBIERO DA COSTA, A CIVILIAN WHO WAS AN APPELLATE COURT JUDGE.

THE WHEREABOUTS OF VARGAS' BROTHER, BENJAMIN, WAS NOT CLEAR. PRESIDENT VARGAS PRECIPITATED THE MOVEMENT WHICH UNSEATED HIM WHEN HE APPOINTED HIS BROTHER, KNOWN AS HIS TROUBLE-SHOOTER, TO THE IMPORTANT POST OF CHIEF OF THE FEDERAL POLICE, FORCING A SHOWDOWN IN THE BATTLE OF NERVES WITH THE ARMY TO ASSURE NATIONAL ELECTIONS.

A27

THE COMMUNISTS HAVE BEEN DEMANDING A CONSTITUENT ASSEMBLY RATHER THAN ELECTIONS, CLAIMING THAT THE NATION NEEDED A NEW CONSTITUTION. IN THIS THEY WERE JOINED BY THE QUEREMISTAS, THE PARTY WHICH SOUGHT TO RETAIN VARGAS IN OFFICE. APPARENTLY THE QUEREMISTAS NOW ARE DISORGANIZED.

COMMUNIST LEADER LUIZ CARLOS PRESETES WAS BELIEVED TO BE AT HIS OWN HOME.

THE SWIFT, EFFECTIVE COUP BY THE ARMED FORCES WAS INTERPRETED BY DIPLOMATIC OBSERVERS HERE AS ENTIRELY LEGAL, SINCE THE PRESIDENT RESIGNED BEFORE LINHARES TOOK OFFICE UNDER A 1937 LAW REQUIRING THE HEAD OF THE SUPREME COURT TO ASSUME THE PRESIDENCY IN THE EVENT OF THE EXECUTIVE'S REMOVAL. IT WAS LEARNED THAT THE OTHER AMERICAN NATIONS WOULD BE TOLD THE NEW GOVERNMENT IS ENTIRELY INTERIM IN CHARACTER AND DID NOT BELIEVE IT WOULD BE NECESSARY TO HOLD CONSULTATIONS REGARDING RECOGNITION.

LINHARES SAID VARGAS WOULD BE FLOWN IN AN ARMY PLANE TO HIS FAMILY HOME AT SAO BORJA IN THE STATE OF RIO GRANDE DO SUL IN SOUTHERN BRAZIL.

WASHINGTON,OCT.31-(AP)-MAINTENANCE OF AN INTELLIGENCE AND COUNTER-INTELLIGENCE SYSTEM TO KEEP THIS COUNTRY INFORMED ON WORLD DEVELOPMENTS WAS URGED TODAY BY REP. MARTIN (R-IOWA).

MEMBER OF A CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE RECENTLY CREATED TO STUDY A PEACETIME INTELLIGENCE SYSTEM, THE IOWAN SAID IN AN INTERVIEW:

"THIS KIND OF SERVICE, IF WE ARE TO KEEP OURSELVES PROPERLY INFORMED, IS AS IMPORTANT AS CAN BE. IT'S THE SORT OF WORK CARRIED ON DURING THE WAR BY THE OFFICE OF STRATEGIC SERVICES.

"AND LET US HOPE THAT WHEN WE KNOW WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE WORLD--IF IT THREATENS THE WELFARE OF OUR NATION, THAT WE HAVE THE INTELLIGENCE TO ACT BEFORE IT IS TOO LATE. BEING FOREWARNED IS BEING FOREARMED."

HE SAID THE MOVEMENT OF GERMANY INTO THE RHINELAND WAS AN EXAMPLE OF OUR POSSESSING KNOWLEDGE VITAL TO THE PEACE OF THE WORLD BUT ABOUT WHICH NOTHING WAS DONE.

"THERE'S NOTHING SENSATIONAL ABOUT THE WORK CONTEMPLATED BY THE COMMITTEE ON WHICH I WILL SERVE," MARTIN CONTINUED. "IT IS SIMPLY A CONSTRUCTIVE EFFORT TO LOOK INTO THE SUBJECT TO SEE WHAT CAN BE DONE TO FURTHER THE PROTECTION OF OUR COUNTRY."

HEARINGS BY THE GROUP, HEADED BY CHAIRMAN MAY (D-KY) OF THE HOUSE MILITARY AFFAIRS COMMITTEE, ARE EXPECTED TO BEGIN SOON. BESIDES MAY AND MARTIN, OTHERS ON THE NEW COMMITTEE ARE REPS. SPARKMAN (D-ALA), DURHAM (D-NC), WINSTEAD (D-MISS), ELSTON (R-O) AND FENTON (R-PA).

BRITISH CONCLUDE HITLER KILLED HIMSELF APRIL 30

Intelligence Reports Held Certain as Could Be Without Bodies.

HIS MISTRESS TOOK POISON

Suicides Took Place as Reds Stormed Berlin—Remains Burned by Aids.

Berlin, Nov. 1 (A. P.).—British headquarters said tonight that evidence sifted from intelligence reports shows "as conclusively as possible without the bodies" that Hitler and his mistress, Eva Braun, died last April 30 in the bunker of the Reichs-Chancellory.

Their bodies later were burned just outside the bunker, the British intelligence reports said, even as Russian armies were applying the last touches to the conquest of Berlin.

The British report said both committed suicide, Hitler by shooting himself through the mouth and his mistress by taking poison.

"After the suicide the bodies were taken into the garden just outside the bunker by Goebbels (Propaganda Minister) and Bormann (Martin Bormann, deputy leader of the Nazi party) and several others, drenched with gasoline and burned," the British concluded.

Hitler Death 'Certain'

London, Nov. 1 (AP)—A Reuters dispatch from Berlin today said a British intelligence report declared it had been definitely established that Adolf Hitler is dead.

The dispatch said the report concluded that Hitler shot himself and that his mistress, Eva Braun, poisoned herself at 2.30 A.M. on April 30 in the Berlin Reichschancellory.

ALLIED PROBERS BELIEVE HITLER TOOK OWN LIFE

BERLIN, Nov. 1—(AP) Allied investigators today pictured Adolf Hitler as a trembling Fuehrer who aged rapidly in the war's last months and then shot himself while his mistress, Eva Braun, was taking poison.

British intelligence officers said it has been proved "as conclusively as possible without bodies" that Hitler and Miss Braun—declared by the Russians to have been Hitler's last-minute bride—committed suicide.

The British report said evidence showed Hitler shot himself through the mouth, and that Miss Braun took poison at 2:30 a. m. April 30, in a bunker of the Reichschancellory.

"After the suicide," it added, "the bodies were taken into a garden just outside the bunker by Goebbels, Bormann and others, drenched with gasoline and burned."

American interrogators released the first reports on questioning of three physicians who attended Hitler from 1934 to 1944. The doctors told Army authorities that Hitler looked his age until 1943, but after that "he gave the appearance of having grown old."

The three doctors questioned were Erwin Geising, an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist; Hans Karl von Hasselbach, who was with Hitler through most of the 10 years, and Karl Bramdt, Reichs commissioner for health and on Hitler's personal medical staff until October, 1944.

Summing up psychiatric data gathered in the questioning, the Army report said the trio agreed "that Hitler's orientation was excellent, his memory for events—both near and remote—good. His judgment was good, and, though he was somewhat restless, his attention (power of concentration) always met the needs of the moment."

Contrary to reports in some Allied countries, Hitler apparently had no venereal disease, and was normal sexually.

The Army report quoted von Hasselbach as describing Hitler as "emotionally liable," and adding:

"Hitler could hate deeply in some fields, while forgiving almost anything to those he loved."

"Geising notes," said the report, "that the subject (Hitler) believed he was chosen by fate to be the leader of the German people and that he felt his ideas must be carried out even if Germany and her people were destroyed in the process."

Von Hasselbach was quoted as observing "that Hitler's mental endurance was astonishing, and that he loved to be merry and gay. The patient generally appeared to be calm and deliberate,—but on occasion he reacted with a vehement attack of anger, which subsided and disappeared quite rapidly. Hitler complained of bad sleep but was not inclined to sleep long hours."

Von Hasselbach also gave this report on Hitler's general state of health:

"Up to 1940 Hitler appeared to be much younger than he actually was. After that date he aged quite rapidly. From 1940 to 1943 he actually looked his age, while after that time he gave the appearance of having grown old. His hair turned grey during the last months.

"Hitler's body began to stoop which may have been due in part to a lack of exercise. The patient did not like to walk, even short distances.

"A tremor of his head and hands was quite noticeable, particularly when the subject brought a cup to his mouth or signed documents. Towards the end his features still appeared to be smooth and relatively juvenile."

Hitler's appetite was good, but he limited his food intake to offset a "predisposition toward adiposity," the report said.

The doctor's testimony showed Hitler received only superficial skin wounds in the bomb attempt on his life Aug. 20, 1944.

Giesing expressed belief that Hitler's recurrent intestinal cramps over a long period after 1933 were caused by hysteria or from an overdose of drugs. Von Hesselbach said the cramps probably were due to a neurosis, because "the prescription of unsuitable and useless drugs for these complaints brought about improvement."

Brandt reported Hitler suffered both cramps and vomiting during 1944 and 1945, and said "these probably were the result of constant strychnine and atropin medication, and were not of hysteric origin."

"No disintegration of personality occurred up to October, 1944," Brandt added. "However, Hitler's actions did become less intelligible after Aug. 20, 1944. It is assumed that a slight commotion of the cerebri occurred after the (bomb) attack, but no signs, such as coma, vomiting or pulse disturbance, were evident.

Hitler Aged Rapidly.

Frankfurt, Nov. 1 (A. P.).—Hitler aged rapidly in the last months of the war, developing tremors of both the head and hands, three doctors who attended him have told American interrogators. They said that even earlier in his career, although usually in good health, he displayed symptoms of hysteria.

The first reports were released today on the questioning of men who attended the Fuehrer during the ten years from 1934 to 1944. Army authorities disclosed that they had been told that Hitler possessed an excellent memory, good judgment and adequate powers of concentration and, contrary to a popular belief in Allied countries, he appeared to be normal sexually and free of venereal disease.

British Government in Move To Control Civilian Airlines

LONDON, Nov. 1 — (AP)—Britain's labor government tonight reached out for control of all British civilian airlines and a communication network operating throughout the empire in a sweeping expansion of its nationalization program.

Prime Minister Attlee's government also announced plans to control rents of both houses and apartments.

Government spokesmen declared legislation would be introduced quickly to achieve these objectives, and enactment appeared certain in view of the Labor party's overwhelming majority in Commons.

Here are the proposals:

1. Public ownership of the telecommunications services now operated by the $120,000,000 cable and wireless, ltd., whose 335,000-mile network serves parts of Europe, the dominions, the Middle East, and parts of the Far East. The cable and wireless would become a unit in an empire-wide communications system directed by a central body in London.

2. Creation of three airline corporations — "each of them to be wholly financed out of government funds"—to carry Britain's flag in developing world air trade. This announcement was made almost simultaneously in both Commons and the House of Lords. The Minister of Civial Aviation, Lord Winster, said the government had decided that public ownership "shall be the over-ruling principle in air transport."

3. Health Minister Aneurin Bevan announced the government would introduce immediately a measure to control rents on furnished houses and flats. Unfurnished rented dwellings already are controlled. There have been charges of widespread speculation in furnished quarters, and even modestly-furnished London apartments rent for $40 to $56 a week with only sitting room, a bedroom, bath, and tiny kitchen.

Public ownership of the tele-communications services, Commons was told, will be part of a plan recommended by an empire communications commission earlier this year to coordinate their systems.

Public Ownership of Air Lines Proposed by Attlee Regime

Nationalization of $120,000,000 World Cable and Wireless Network Also to Be Asked of Parliament.

London, Nov. 1 (A. P.).—The Laborite Government, in far-reaching announcements today, expanded its economic nationalization program to include public ownership of civilian air lines and a $120,000,000 world communications network.

Almost simultaneously, the Minister of Health, Aneurin Bevan, told the House of Commons that the Government plans to control the rent of furnished houses and apartments, and the Majority Leader, Herbert Morrison, served notice that the Government will continue its scrutiny of private munition manufacturers' costs. In response to a question from the Opposition leader, Winston Churchill, Morrison said that there would "be plenty of opportunity" for a debate on the measure later.

Government spokesmen said that legislation to cover all these proposals would be introduced quickly. While Conservative members of Parliament are sure to protest against several of the moves, their enactment by the overwhelming Laborite majority appeared certain.

Plan for Air Lines.

Lord Winster, Minister of Civil Aviation, said in the House of Lords that the Government had decided that public ownership "shall be the overruling principle in air transport." He said that there will be fair compensation for any material assets taken over.

Ivor Thomas, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Civil Aviation, told the Commons that the Government has decided upon a national air lines plan "so framed that it can be fitted into any cheme of the commonwealth or international organization which may be subsequently promoted." It is proposed to create three air line corporations—"each of them to be wholly financed out of Government funds"—to carry the British flag in the developing race for world air trade. All airdromes required for regularly scheduled air service would be acquired by the Government under this plan.

Thomas said it was regarded as impractical at present to form an international organization for the ownership and operation of air transport services and that the national plan was decided upon instead.

Cables and Wireless.

The telecommunications services now operated by Cable & Wireless, Ltd., is the communications network involved. The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Hugh Dalton, announced that the Government has decided to press for public ownership of this company, which operates the wireless and cable circuits that link the countries of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Dalton said that the United Kingdom Government had accepted, "as far as they affected this country," the recommendations of the Commonwealth Telecommunications Conference held in London earlier this year. That conference recommended public ownership of telecommunication services of all Commonwealth governments; replacement of the existing Commonwealth Telecommunication Council by a new board with wider functions, representing all the governments of the Commonwealth and financial contributions by members of the Commonwealth for the maintenance and use of the cable system.

The Exchange Telegraph news agency reported that Cable & Wireless, Ltd., in a letter to the stockholders, quoted its directors as saying that the Government's proposal is "inimical to the interests of the empire and to all classes of telecommunications users," and that the scheme is "impractical and unworkable . . . dangerous to the foreign concessions." The directors added that they "entertain the gravest apprehensions in regard to the setting up of the overriding authority which would control the operations in the Dominions."

The letter said that under the plan, the Government would acquire all shares of the operating company of Cable & Wireless, Ltd., the capital of which is now £30,000,000 ($120,000,000). The Government now holds shares valued at £2,600,000 ($10,400,000.)

British City Elections Bring Big Labor Gains

London, Nov. 1 (AP)—Sweeping Labor gains throughout Britain were reported tonight as the first returns came in from the nation's municipal elections held today.

Early reports showed that Labor won control of the municipal councils of Bristol, Carlisle, Plymouth, Wallsall, Wakefield and Widnes and captured four new seats in Reading. The Conservatives were the major losers.

British City Voting Swept By Laborites

London, Friday, Nov. 2 (AP)—Britain's Socialistic Labor party swept municipal elections all over England yesterday with the results confirming Labor's July landslide in the parliamentary elections.

With ballots counted today in 113 of the major 130 provincial boroughs, Labor recorded a net gain of 688 council seats while the Conservatives took a net loss of 318 seats. Liberals and Independents lost heavily, too.

The great Labor gains gave the party control of the council in almost every major city and town.

LONDON CITY ELECTS

London, Nov. 1 (A. P.).—Ralph Assheton, chairman of the Conservative party, was today elected to the House of Commons by the city of London in a by-election forced by the elevation of Sir George Broadbridge to the House of Lords. He defeated A. S. Comynscarr, Liberal, by a majority of 3,003, roughly the same as that by which Sir George carried the city at the general election. The Labor party did not challenge the seat.

Meanwhile, the Provinces were holding their first municipal elections since 1938. The Labor party has entered 2,766 candidates for the 3,073 Town and City Council posts to be filled. The Conservatives presented 1,324, the Liberals 463 and the Communists 138, and there are also 1,534 independent candidates. In the last election, Laborites won 969 seats, Conservatives 937, Liberals 242 and independents 910. Several districts have since been realigned and a number of new ones created.

Commons Foreign Debate

LONDON, Nov. 1 (AP). — The House of Commons will hold a limited debate on foreign affairs before Prime Minister Attlee leaves for his conference with President Truman in Washington. Majority Leader Herbert Morrison scheduled the debate for next Wednesday, and said Palestine would not be included in the discussion. Opposition Leader Winston Churchill agreed to limit debate to "the American sphere and to President Truman's declaration on world peace."

London Nov. 1 (AP)—The trial of Norman Baillie-Stewart on charges of high treason was continued until tomorrow when the 36-year-old former lieutenant in Seaforth Highlanders appeared at Bow Street Court today. Stewart is charged with having broadcast propaganda for the Germans.

British Leftist Weekly Assails Truman on Peace

Says Navy Day Talk Fostered Apprehension of Disaster

LONDON, Nov. 1 (AP).—The Leftist weekly "Tribune" today described President Truman's twelve-point world peace declaration as a policy of "armed world power combined with uncertain isolationism."

Declaring "it would be difficult to exaggerate the disastrous setback to all hopes of international collaboration" should the United States follow out the policy, the magazine said: "President Truman declared that American predominance in arms was in the interests of peace because the United States was a peace-loving nation. One is inclined to ask: 'So what?' The British people are equally peace-loving, and so are the Russian people. If the recent Russian actions in Europe and the Far East show anything, they show that Russia fears war and wishes at all costs to safeguard herself against it."

The magazine said Truman's Navy Day speech, in which he enunciated the twelve-point policy, had started "rapid and unchecked growth of the deadly feeling that the world was drifting into a disaster-packed future."

G.I. PHONE EXCHANGE IN BRITAIN CLOSES

LONDON, Nov. 1—(AP) Three hundred British girls who worked in the U. S. Army telephone exchange throughout the war gave a damp-eyed farewell tea party today for their GI "employers."

In a couple of days, the few officers and dozen enlisted men still remaining at the exchange—largest in the United Kingdom—will be transferred, and the British postoffice will take over its operation.

Mrs. Ivy Teaden, one of the supervisors, said "gosh we're sorry" to see the Americans go.

On the whole, the GI's were not exactly broken up about terminating their telephone duties.

Sgt. William Hoover of Mobile, Ala., said it was a pleasant ending, since he was scheduled to go home soon.

The British operators, said Sgt. Louis Windholz of Springfield, Mass., were "really very attractive." Several English operators married American soldiers.

Wilhelmina Visits London

LONDON, Nov. 1 (AP).—Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands came to London today to pay her respects to Britain's royal family. A Dutch official said the Queen "is here purely on a courtesy visit" and would thank King George VI and Queen Elizabeth for their kindness during her years in exile after the Nazis overran her homeland.

Nearly 350,000 GI's Return During October

Paris, Nov. 1 (AP)—Almost 350,000 American soldiers were sent home from the European theater during October, the month in which the big liners, the Aquitania and the Queen Elizabeth, were withdrawn from United States troop-ferry service, the Army announced today.

Ships headed toward France were loaded with Christmas packages. Army postal authorities said more than 3,000,000 parcels already have been received.

Suicide Of Soldiers Unknown To Officer

Paris, Nov. 1 (AP)—Col. Herbert A. Hall of the Paris Communications Zone headquarters said tonight that he had not heard of a report that six American soldiers had committed suicide and twelve others went insane because of delays in redeployment from France.

The report was given currency in New York yesterday by Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime Union (CIO), who said service men told him of the casualties during his recent trip to Europe. Curran said he would recommend that the union refuse to provide crews for any except troopships unless the Government speeded up its redeployment to get high-point men home by Christmas.

If shipping has been diverted to other countries by private interests as Curran also asserted, Colonel Hall said, the Communications Zone office is unaware of it.

Reds Buried Alive By Nazis, Belief

Metz, France, Nov. 1 (AP)—Examiners at the mass graves of 23,000 Russian prisoners of war near Boulay said today they had found evidence that many victims were buried alive by their Nazi captors.

German prisoners of war continued exhuming the bodies by the thousands, working in shifts around the clock in the two enormous pits.

Doctors said the positions of the bodies indicated many had died after they had been placed in the ditches. Other bodies gave evidence of incomplete cremation, apparently by gasoline and other inflammables.

Frenchmen living near the prisoner-of-war camp close by the Maginot Line said the Germans had concentrated invalid Russians at the place, most of the men suffering from tuberculosis.

The Germans for the most part kept the French as far from the camp and graves as possible.

Horrible Conditions

One witness said conditions at the hospital were horrible as far as sanitation, food and medical treatment were concerned.

Another said that the Germans had opened old Jewish graves and stolen jewels, gold and silver dental work from bodies. All personal effects of the Russians, including gold from their teeth, were taken.

The investigators said evidence indicated the Germans herded thousands of underfed and improperly clothed Russians into German-operated factories near the barracks and worked them until they collapsed or died. The victims were tossed unceremoniously into the death pits.

Berlin G.I.'s in Rush for Dollars

New Yorker Stands Five Days in Line to Buy Money Orders With Marks.

Berlin, Nov. 1 (A. P.).—Pfc. Elmer Pemberton said today that he was the saddest of all Sad Sacks in the Berlin gold rush for money orders. He had been waiting at the Army Post Office for three days and nights to exchange occupation marks for dollars and he still had not reached the window yet.

New restrictions limiting the amount of money occupation troops can send home go into effect on November 10. The rush to get dollars for occupation marks at the military exchange rate of one to ten has turned into a stampede. The marks, largely from Russian printing presses, are received by Americans in trading with Soviet troops over the demarkation line and must eventually be redeemed by American tax money.

Pemberton, who hails from Fields Landing, Cal., is an agent for his unit and has been advancing in the line to the window where more than ten money orders are written for each person. His speed has been that of a glacier, because each man in the line usually has several dozen orders written for him. Three days ago, Pemberton was eighth in line. Today he hopes to make it, so he won't have to sleep again on the post office floor.

The iron man of the gold hush is Pfc. Joseph Weiss of 236 East Second street, New York, who has been living in the post office for five days and four nights. Weiss came in on October 28 with 170,000 marks or $17,000 plus a pile of applications for maximum money orders of $100 each. He has been to the window twice, but this particular aperture limits the G. I. to ten money orders of $100 each so Weiss still has most of the money on hand. Both men have been using stand-ins for meals.

Reds Seizing German State, Nazi Properties

Berlin, Nov. 1 (AP)—Marshal Zhukov today ordered seizure of all properties of the German state, the Nazi party and its former leaders in the Russian-occupied zone in Germany.

Xhukov's sequestrration order affected properties belonging to:

The German state and all its central and local agencies,

Former Nazi leaders and all former party members and "influential adherents,"

German military authorities and organizations,

Forbidden and disbanded business clubs and organizations,

Properties within the occupied zone belonging to nationals of other countries which fought on Germany's side in the war, and Properties of persons "who are on special lists or are otherwise marked" by the Soviet military command.

Persons having knowledge of properties of the German state or former individual Nazis were ordered to report their information within fifteen days.

Zhukov said the properties were sequestered in order "to prevent their misuse and devote them to the best interest of the people and the occupation forces."

21 GERMAN BANK DIRECTORS HELD, FINANCED HITLER

FRANKFURT, Germany Nov. 1—(AP) Twenty-one directors of Germany's six greatest banks have been arrested on charges that they worked hand-in-glove with the Nazi party "in a conspiracy to dominate the world," financing Hitler's armies and helping exploit conquered nations, U. S. Army authorities announced today.

Twenty other tycoons of the powerful banks are sought.

"It seems pretty sure that we will recommend trial of these men as war criminals," declared R. A. Nixon, deputy director of the military government division investigating cartels.

Nixon said the directors of the "big six" banks began pouring money into German rearmament as early as 1935, and during the war "served as virtual spies in the economic and political fields."

He declared German banking and German industry were so interlocked that it was impossible to separate them, and that the concentration of economic power by the "Big Six" was "of a scope and dominance far beyond anything that has ever existed in the United States."

He listed the six banks as the Deutsche bank, the Dresdener bank, the Commerzbank, the Bank der Deutschen-Arbeit, the Reichs Kredit-Gesellschaft and the Berliner Handels Gesellschaft.

"There is a strong presumption, based on our preliminary investigation, that these six big German banks have been guilty of such war crimes as employment of slave labor in the industries they controlled, the imposition of excessive occupation costs and plunder and spoilation of public and private property," Nixon said. "Without any doubt they contributed substantially to the preparation and waging of aggressive warfare."

He added there were documents showing that the Dressdener bank, "headed by Karl Goetz of Munich, had made secret contributions to the so-called 'S' account set up by Himmler for special area work." Goetz, he said, was chairman of the Deutsche Sud Amerikansche—South American chain of banks.

The big six banks had book assets in 1944 of more than 28 billion Reichsmarks, greater than the combined assets of all the rest of Germany's 665 banks, Nixon continued.

"After the Austrian anschluss in 1938, these six banks secured through varying degrees of 'persuasion' ownership or control of leading banks and chains in Austria, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Romania and Poland, at least one key bank in Hungary, Luxembourg, Holland and Belgium and arranged for 'collaboration' with all three principal banks in Greece," he explained.

Nixon said the investigation had not disclosed any dealings between the six German banks and any British or American banks.

Zhukov Orders Seizure

In Berlin, meanwhile, Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov ordered the seizure of all properties of the German state, Nazi party members and "influential adherents," German military authorities and organizations and forbidden and disbanded business organizations in the Soviet zone of occupation. The order also affected properties of nationals of other countries which fought on Germany's side, and of persons "who are on special lists or are otherwise marked" by the Soviet military command.

In informed American quarters Zhukov's order was interpreted as a statement of policy which in most respects already had been executed in fact.

R. A. Nixon, deputy director of the United States military government division investigating cartels, said "it seems pretty sure that we will recommend trial of these men as war criminals." He said the six "German banks started financing Hitler's rearmament back in 1935 and served virtually as spies during the war in economic and political affairs."

Nixon listed the big six banks as the Deutsche Bank, the Dresdener Bank, the Commerzbank, the Bank Der Deutschen-Arbeit, the Reichs Kredit-Gesellschaft and the Berliner Handels Gessellschaft.

The Berliner Handels Gessellschaft and the Bank Der Deutschen-Arbeit are now closed. The others are doing business on a limited basis. The Army is looking for other directors.

Von Schroeder Is Held.

Baron Von Schroeder, a friend of Heinrich Himmler, the Gestapo chieftain, was being held in Duesseldorf pending a decision on his indictment as a war criminal. Von Schroeder was said to have been one of a group that collected 1,100,000 Reichsmarks a year from each of their companies to be placed at the disposal of Himmler.

"There is a strong presumption based on our preliminary investigation that these six big German banks have been guilty of such war crimes as employment of slave labor in industries they controlled, the imposition of excessive occupation costs and the plunder and spoilation of public and private property," said Nixon. Without any doubt they contributed substantially to the preparation and waging of aggressive warfare."

Banking Interlocked.

German banking and industry were so interlocked that it is impossible to separate them, he said. The banks worked hand in glove with the Nazi party, he charged, "in a conspiracy to dominate the world."

He said that documents had been uncovered that the Dresdner bank headed by Karl of Munich made secret contributions to the so-called "S" account set up by Himmler for special work.

Nixon said investigations had uncovered no dealings between the six big banks and American or British banks.

The six German banks had total book assets of more than 28,000,000,000 reichsmarks, greater than the combined assets of all the other 665 commercial banks in Germany, he said.

Denies Being In 'Belsen Gang'

Lueneburg, Germany, Nov. 1 (AP). Anton Polanski, one of the 45 defendants at the Belsen war crimes trial, denied today that he was a block leader at the Belsen concentration camp.

Polanski said he was a prisoner at Belsen for only one week, had been forced to dig graves, and had been wrongly identified later as a member of the "Belsen gang." Two other defendants have offered similar defense.

Lueneburg, Germany, Nov. 1 (A. P.).—A Polish girl today came to the defense of her countrywoman Stanislawa Staroska, one of the forty-five Belsen concentration camp officials on trial here, and swore that the defendant saved her and twenty others from death in the Nazi gas chambers. The Staroska woman has testified that she deliberately curried favor with her SS masters to win a place as block leader so that she could alleviate the sufferings of prisoners, first at Oswiecim and then Belsen.

Today's witness, 18-year-old Anna Wovciechowska, said: "I was arrested when 15 for avoiding slave labor. I lost my shoes and was sent to block 25 to await the gas chamber, for I no longer could work without shoes. Staroska came to the block and saw me and twenty others without shoes. She took us to the supply store and got shoes for us and we returned to work."

U.S. Rounds Up Nazi Bankers

21 Are Arrested and Accused of Financing German War Machine.

Frankfurt, Nov. 1 (A. P.).—The United States Army started rounding up leading bankers in the American occupation zone today and arrested twenty-one directors of the six largest institutions, accusing them of financing the German war machine and helping the Nazis exploit occupied countries.

REDS AIM GIBES AT BELSEN TRIAL

Moscow, Nov. 1 (A. P.).—The Red Star, expressing Russia's concern at the length to which the Belsen war crime trial is dragging, criticized the British-conducted proceedings today by publishing a caustic caricature and poem.

A defendant at the trial at Lueneburg, now in its seventh week, was fed and cared for until "he shines from tail to neck," the newspaper said, adding: "He is ardently defended before the court. "He howls and screams back. What are the judges waiting for? When will they hang the dog?"

Both the defense attorney and the accused were pictured as dogs.

Tobacco Firm's Chief Reinstated In Germany

Heidelberg, Germany, Nov. 1 (AP). Franz Leibhold, Jewish president of the $1,500,000 Havilla Tobacco Company of Heidelberg until forced out by the Nazis in 1933, was deinstalled today by the American Military Government.

Liebhold went to France after being forced to sell al lhis possessions for $1,200 in 1933.

Nazi General's Daughter Held

Munich, Oct. 31 (AP—Delayed) — Military Government officials announced today the arrest of Monika Dittmar, daughter of the captive Lieut. Gen. Kurt Dittmar, Nazi military commentator.

She vainly attempted suicide by jumping out a window at army headquarters in Oberammergau after admitting she was a captain in the women's S.S. Auxiliary and once worked at the Dachau concentration camp as a dental assistant, an officer said. She also served at one time with a tan division on the Eastern front.

Headquarters said Miss Dittmar posed as a Latvian refugee when an American driver found her wet and hungry on a road near Oberammergau, but broke down when questioning exposed the fact she knew little of the Latvian language.

Sweden Ends Coffee Rationing

Stockholm, Nov. 1 (AP)—The government announced coffee rationing no longer will be necessary.

Italy To Decide On Compulsory Voting

Rome, Nov. 1 (AP)—The Italian Consultative Assembly will be asked this month for an opinion on whether voting should be made compulsory in the general elections which will be held not later than next April to select a constitutional convention.

The Cabinet has not yet decided whether the fate of Italy's monarchy will rest with the constitutional convention.

Gen. Roatta's Wife Acquitted At Trial

Rome, Nov. 1 (AP)—A Roman court last night acquitted Signora Ines Mancini Roatta of complicity in the sensational escape of her husband, Gen. Mario Roatta, from a military hospital at the time of his trial for Fascist crimes last March. Three carabinieri assigned to guard duty at the hospital drew sentences of less than one year.

The escape of Roatta, wanted by Yugoslavia as a war criminal, caused rioting in Rome and precipitated a Government crisis.

He said the Cabinet would be sworn in tonight in the regent's palace.

The new Premier, leader of the Unionist party, formerly was a professor of law at Athens University, and was banished from Greece for several years during the régime of Premier John Metaxas.

P. PAPALIGOURAS, undersecretary of supplies.

GREGORY KASSIMATIS, finance.

NICOLAS PANAGOPOULOS, welfare.

DEMETRIUS KATAVOLAS, labor.

BASIL VOILAS, health.

DEMETRIUS GALANIS, national economy.

M. GEORGES OECONOMOPOULOS, justice.

CHARALAMBES PSARROS, interior.

CONSTANTIN CALLIAS, state insurance.

JOHN THEODORACOPOULOS, education.

ANARGYROS DEMETRICAPOULOS, public works.

ADMIRAL ALEXANDRIS, mercantile marine.

GEN. SPYCIDON GEORGOULIS, war.

CONSTANTINE TSATOS, air.

CONSTANTINE TSATSO, undersecretary of the press.

Brig. Pausamias Katzotas was named to the newly created post of undersecretary of public order.

Former Vice Premier Forms New Government For Greece

Athens, Nov. 1 (AP)—Panayotis Kanellopoulos, former Greek Vice Premier and later Navy Minister in George Papandreou cabinet, formed a new government tonight on assignment from Regent Archbishop Damaskinos.

Kanellopoulos, a Heidelberg University graduate who fought in the Greco-Albanian war as a line private, organized his government to succeed the provisional one set up by Damaskinos as a climax to an extended cabinet crisis.

New Premier An Ex-Professor

Kanellopoulos himself took the portfolios of foreign affairs and marine minister on a provisional basis.

Jap Control Accord

Moscow, Nov. 1 (AP)—The Soviet news agency Tass said today in a dispatch from Washington that the Soviet Union favors a control council for Japan made up of Russian, American, Chinese and British representatives, with an American as permanent chairman.

[In Washington President Truman said yesterday he had received a satisfactory reply from Generalissimo Stalin to his recent letter on the current diplomatic difficulties. The President said that on the basis of the reply he expected Russia to join the Far Eastern advisory commission soon.]

Not Taking Part Now

The Tass dispatch said that in the interest of clarity it should be pointed out that the Soviet Union is not taking part "at present" in the Commission.

"The Soviet Government feels that the question of the Commission should be solved in connection with the formation of a control organ for Japan which would consist of representatives of the four powers . . . under the chairmanship of the United States representative."

Way Believed Clear

The Soviet Union has not stated at any time it would not participate in the commission.

Acceptance of an American as chairman of the proposed control council was believed in informed diplomatic circles here to remove the last obstacle toward a meeting of minds among the four powers on the subject of Japan.

Balkan Problem Held Chief U.S.-Red Snag

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP)—United States-Russian differences over how to bring forth pro-Soviet governments in central and eastern Europe appeared today to be the great bar to closer co-operation between the two powers.

This problem, it was learned, formed an important part of Generalissimo Stalin's reply to President Truman's letter urging tighter relations:

It played a major part also in Secretary of State Byrnes's speech before the Herald-Tribune forum in New York last night. With respect to those countries, mainly the Balkan states, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Poland, Byrnes laid down a three-point policy:

1. The United States fully recognizes Russia's "special security interests" in having friendly governments there. He implied this country would readily accept an Eastern European system, similar to the Pan-American system around Russian leadership.

No Imposition By Force

2. The United States does not recognize, however, the right of Russia or any nation to impose governments on other peoples by force. This country believes the only way to build a peaceful world is to let the peoples choose their own governments.

3. Any regional leadership arrangement, must, in the American view, "be but part of the United Nations world security system" because "in this atomic age regional isolationism is even more dangerous than is national isolationism."

The speech capped a day in which President Truman told a new conference that Premier Stalin's response to his message had been a friendly one.

The response was contained in a report from Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, who had two long talks with Stalin.

Problems Of Peace

Harriman and the President based their appeal to the Generalissimo on the argument that nations that had co-operated in winning the war should be able to solve co-operatively the problems of peace.

Stalin is reported to have agreed that this could and would be done and to have reaffirmed Russia's policy of international co-operation. The faith of some American officials in this had been shaken by the recent failure of the Foreign Ministers Council at London.

The principal cause of the failure of this conference was the fact that Foreign Commissar Molotov virtually demanded and Secretary of State Byrnes refused immediate recognition for the Soviet-sponsored governments of Romania and Bulgaria.

Difference In Terms

The question came up in the Harriman-Stalin talks and developed with discussion over the differing ways in which Americans and Russians use such terms as "democratic procedures" and "free and unfettered elections."

In other words, this problem was boiled down to methods of setting up governments in the Balkans that would be friendly to Russia and acceptable to the United States.

U.S., Russia Nearer Accord On Balkans And Jap Control

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP)—Progress toward settlement of Soviet-American disputes over Balkan issues as well as control of Japan was reported by diplomatic authorities today as a result of intense negotiations between Washington and Moscow.

It is understood that Generalissimo Stalin has indicated to the United States Government his desire for an early settlement of outstanding Balkan issues as a part of the same pattern of negotiations involving Japan.

Decision In Big-Four Hands

The State Department announced that the Japanese problem posed by Russia's demand for an Allied control agency at Tokyo is being decided by the big powers alone—that is, the United States, Russia, Britain and China, and not by all ten members of the newly created Far Eastern Advisory Commission.

President Truman announced that Edwin W. Pauley will leave for Japan early this month to develop a reparations program designed to deprive the defeated enemy of resources for making war again. The President indicated that Pauley's mission is aimed at an eventual joint reparations program of the Allied powers similar to that worked out for Germany.

The Soviet news agency Tass was quoted in reports from Moscow as saying that Russia favors a control council for Japan made up of Big Four representatives "under the chairmanship of the United States representative," who would presumably be General MacArthur.

Reported By Harriman

Officials here said that the whole development of Russian-United States relations based on handling the Japanese and Balkans issues as parts of the same problem of Allied co-operation in the organization of the postwar world is moving along quite satisfactorily.

Stalin's views were reported to President Truman and Secretary Byrnes by Ambassador W. Averell Harriman following two talks with the Soviet leader last week. Harriman's report has not been made public but it was learned that the Generalissimo developed the point that the question of Russian interest in the Balkan states parallels that of United States interest in Japan.

American officials noted that Secretary Byrnes, speaking in New York last night, sought to reassure Russia that the United States fully recognized Russian security interests in such nations as Romania and Bulgaria and desires only that the peoples of those nations have an opportunity to choose their own governments.

May Have Greater Voice

Some authorities predict that any settlement which results in Russia's having a hand in the management of Japan will also, at least eventually, result in greater freedom of movement and a greater voice for United States representatives in the Balkan nations.

In his announcement on Pauley, Mr. Truman said that the ambassador will not be subordinate to General MacArthur but, as the President's personal representative, "will work in close co-operation" with him.

The President credited Pauley with developing the German reparations program—adopted at the Berlin conference—and said the plan for Japan "will be directed toward the same fundamental goal—to put an end for all time to Japanese aggression."

By linking the German and Japanese programs, Mr. Truman implied that he expects the same sort of Allied handling of reparations in Japan as in Germany.

Russians Refuse To End Censorship

Moscow, Nov. 1 (A. P.).—Foreign Commissar Molotov answered by letter today a request by the British-American Correspondents Association for removal of censorship by stating that he could not consider the request because it contained no substantial reasons.

Stalin Not Expected At Washington Meeting

Moscow, Nov. 1 (AP)—The impending meeting of Prime Minister Attlee and President Truman in Washington does not in any way indicate that Generalissimo Stalin may be expected, it was pointed out in informed circles today.

Generalissimo Stalin is either still on vacation at the Black Sea resort of Sochi or on his way back to the capital for ceremonies on November 7th, anniversary of the revolution and he has no intention of journeying to Washington despite reports from abroad.

It is not certain, it was pointed out, that it was even suggested that the Russian leader attend the Washington meeting.

CHINESE REGULARS REACH MANCHURIA

American Transports Land Chiang's Troops, Russians Withdrawing.

CHUNGKING, Friday, Nov. 2—(AP) Chinese Central government troops have begun landing from United States transports at the Manchurian ports of Hulutao and Yingkow, the army newspaper Sao Tang Pao reported today.

The troops, belonging to China's 13th, 16th and 94th armies, were moved from Haiphong, Indo-China and Hong Kong.

Yingkow, former treaty port, is better known as Newchowang. Before the Japanese conquest of Manchuria, the Chinese were developing Hulutao as a potential rival to Japanese-held Dairen.

A semi-official dispatch from Tientsin yesterday said the Russians will begin their large scale withdrawal from Manchuria today and will be out by Dec. 1. Squarely across the path the Chinese government will take to relieve them are massed forces of fighting Chinese Communists.

Nevertheless, government soldiers will move north this month in strength, and will take over from the Russians by Dec. 3, a Chinese dispatch from Changchun insisted.

Scattered fighting—with wooden cannon and home-made knives, among other weapons—continued today through 11 northern provinces.

Government sources here acknowledged that:

1. Communists now control most of Shantung Province, virtually isolating the U. S. Marine-held port of Tsingtao from which Central China hoped to get coal.

2. Both central government and Shansi Provincial forces which encountered Chinese Communist troops in the north have "taken a beating."

A government source also confirmed withdrawal of the Communists' new fourth army from points south of the Yangtze river, but said it is being moved north to attack and dislocate the Peiping-Hankow and Tientsin-Pukow (Tientsin-Nanking) railroads, thus blocking movement of government forces in strength into North China and Manchuria. The Communists want to control Manchuria themselves, he said.

Troops Lightly Equipped

The comparatively few Government troops which thus far have been in action in the north were lightly equipped and in consequence suffered "considerable casualties" in clashes with Communists, this source declared.

Communists, he added, have massed large forces on the Peiping-Suiyan railroad, as well as "sabotaging" the lines south from Peiping and from Tientsin.

He said he hoped that the important Shansi rail junction of Tatung could be "retrieved," but admitted that the plight of its outnumbered garrison, in the face of a well-armed Communist attack, was serious.

Communists claimed possession of Peitaiho station on the Peiping-Mukden railroad, only ten miles from the port of Chinwangtao, now held by United States Marines. But other reports indicated coal from inland mines was moving smoothly into Chingwangtao for shipment southward—as though the Communists, if they did hold any inland rail points, were not interfering.

Say Settlement Is Aim

Communist spokesmen in Chungking reiterated their official attitude: That they seek only a peaceful settlement of their differences with Generalissimo Chiang's Government. Several added today a sharp note of rebuke to America for transporting Chiang's troops into "strategic" areas, however.

One Chinese Communist who said the current fighting is fiercest in Shansi province, also complained that Gov. Yen Hsi-shan had lined up 30,000 Japanese "volunteers" to battle the Communists there.

The Communists have organized local partisans, he said, armed with such makeshift weapons as wooden cannon, long swords, obsolete rifles, home-made knives and grenades. Yen said yesterday that Communists descending upon Tatung were armed with modern field artillery and tanks.

Russ Reported Ready To Quit Manchuria

Chungking, Nov. 1 (AP)—A semi-official Chinese dispatch from Tientsin today said that Soviet forces in Manchuria would start a large-scale withdrawal tomorrow and that it would be completed by December 1.

The Chinese report, from Changchun, asserted that Chinese forces would shortly be transferred to Manchuria to take over garrison duties and the entire operation would be completed by December 3.

Transfer Problems Settled

Problems connected with the transfer of authority have been settled, the report said.

Negotiations leading to the settlement were conducted for China by Gen. Hsiung Shih-hui, director of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's branch headquarters at Changchun, and Chiang Chung-kuo, the Generalissimo's elder son, who is special commissioner for foreign affairs in Manchuria.

Chinese Communists protested the role played by United States forces in China and spurned the latest proposal of the Central Government aimed at avoiding civil war.

Communist Gives Views

The No. 2 Communist leader, Gen. Chou En-lai, said here that there "is no necessity at all for United States transportation of Kuomintang (Government) troops to areas which Communists have recovered from the Japanese."

Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of American military forces in China, has agreed in interviews that the role of his men in redistributing Central Government forces does strengthen Chiang's position, but he has insisted that it does not constitute direct action against the Communists.

The Central Government has proposed that the Communist forces in the trouble spots of North China withdraw from railroad lines as evidence of good faith in return for permission to police sectors they now occupy.

Counterproposals By Reds

Informed quarters said the Communists have rejected that proposal and countered with these:

1. Government forces should halt their advances and cease occupying new territories.

2. Government forces should stop alleged utilization of Japanese and puppets to fight the Communists.

3. Both Government and Communist troops should stay away from railroad lines in the troubled areas.

4. The Government should not transport troops along railroads without previous approval by the Communists.

Chinese Dollar Sets Record

Shanghai, Oct. 31 [AP—Delayed]—The gyrating value of the Chinese national dollar in relation to gold reached a record Shanghai high today of 2,000 to one American dollar. As swarms of takers lined up at exchange houses, the price dropped to 1,700 and continued declining rapidly.

New Troubles Hit Palestine

Jerusalem, Nov. 1 (AP)—A sudden outburst of violence in Palestine early today paralyzed the country's railroad system, killed four or five persons and injured at least nine.

A British military communiqué blamed the attacks upon the Jews, but did not name any specific group.

Motor Traffic Curbed

A secret underground Jewish radio station, returning to the air after an absence of several days, reported the outbreaks without comment and announced the first communiqué of the Hebrew resistance group would be issued tomorrow.

It was estimated that it would take 48 to 72 hours to repair the damage to the transportation system, described as the most widespread act of organized sabotage in the country's history.

Maj. Gen. John D'Arcy, British commander in Palestine, immediately banned movement of all motor traffic on all highways between 10 P.M. and 6 A.M., except in municipal areas.

Railway Lines Cut

The attackers cut railways lines at approximately 50 places throughout the length and breadth of the country, exploded one police launch in Jaffa port and seriously damaged two others anchored at Haifa. The vessels had been mined.

The British communiqué listed these casualties:

One British soldier dead and one wounded; one Palestine policeman killed, one believed killed and one wounded; two Palestine railway staff workers killed and six wounded, one critically.

Five Armed Jews Arrested

The only arrests announced were of five armed Jews captured by police after a train was held up between Jerusalem and Lydda, about 25 miles to the northwest. The men were tracked down after an exchange of shots.

Military authorities said they were conducting an exhaustive investigation in all parts of Palestine.

The Holy Land has been relatively quiet for three weeks, since the raid on the Athlit detention camp in which 200 Jewish illegal immigrants were set free. A British constable was killed when a police party pursuing the group was ambushed.

Explosions Rock Jerusalem

Shortly after midnight this morning explosions rocked Jerusalem, Haifa and Tel Aviv. These were attributed to the railway attacks and the harbor blasts.

The heaviest assault was believed to have occurred on the Lydda station, about 25 miles northwest of Jerusalem. One train and three locomotives were damaged extensively, and a locomotive shed was set afire. Other locomotives were mined and the signal box damaged.

The railway lines were slashed at approximately 50 places between Lydda, Jerusalem, Haifa, Acre and Gaza.

One Body Found

One body was found in the rubble at the Consolidated refineries installation after a heavy explosion.

[In London the Arab office issued a statement asserting the outbreak was "the work of the Zionists," and accusing Zionist leaders of trying "to force the British Government into decisions in favor of the Jews."

[The statement said that if widespread revolt develops "it will be a revolt of the Zionists against the Palestine Government and not a civil war between Arabs and Jews."]

Three Coincidental Facts

The underground radio, which describes itself as the voice of Hebrew resistance, asserted that Palestine Jews have no intention of attacking the Arabs.

There was no official comment on which the outbreaks occurred.

It was pointed out in official circles, however, that there were three coincidental facts: A British government statement on Palestine expected here for a week was again delayed, a nationwide Balfour Day work stoppage by the Arabs is scheduled for tomorrow, and the outbreak coincided with a one-day visit to Palestine and Transjordan by Field Marshal Lord Allen Francis Brooke, chief of the imperial general staff.

4 More Injured In Attacks On Railroads

Jerusalem, Nov. 1 (AP)—Four persons were killed and at least ten injured as Jewish-Arab political differences led to a new outbreak of disorders today during which systematic attacks were made on railway communications throughout Palestine.

[A Reuter report said that six persons were killed in the outbreak.]

British military headquarters announced that Palestine rail lines were cut in about 50 places.

Armed Men Seized

A British military communiqué attributed the attacks to Jews. Blame was not immediately attached to any specific group, but a police and military investigation was under way.

Police captured five armed Jews following the holdup of a train between Jerusalem and Lydda.

Police launches in Haifa and Jaffa harbors blew up from mines at 2 A.M. One sank and two others were seriously damaged.

A mysterious explosion which rocked Jerusalem shortly before midnight was believed to have been the result of an attack upon the railroad.

British Soldier Killed

British military sources said casualties included one British soldier killed and another wounded, one Palestine policeman killed and one wounded, two Palestine railway workers killed and six others wounded, one of them critically.

In what appeared to be the heaviest attack three locomotives and one train were badly damaged at the Lydda railway station. The locomotive shed was set afire. The attackers struck at 3.45 A.M.

[Another Reuter dispatch said Maj. Gen. John D'Arcy, British commander in Palestine, imposed a curfew from 11 P.M. to 6 A.M. on all vehicular traffic outside municipal areas throughout Palestine.]

Arabs Blame Zionists

London, Nov. 1 (AP)—The Arab office in London blamed Zionists today for the outbreak of violence in Palestine.

A statement from the office said: "This is one more proof, if any is required, of the fact that the present trouble in Palestine is the work of the Zionists who, on more than one accosion, have made public their intention to direct the utmose violence against the Government and who have now apparently proceeded to carry out their threat on a serious scale."

"Aims" Are Cited

The Arab office said the disturbances were "an attempt on the part of the Zionist leaders to force the British Government into decisions in favor of the Jews."

The statement continued that if widespread revolt developed in Palestine, "it will be a revolt of the Zionists against the Palestine Government and not a civil war between the Arabs and Jews."

British Planes Blast Indonesian Extremists

Situation Tense as English Tank Squadron Reaches Trouble Zone.

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 1—(AP) British planes struck at Indonesian extremists stepping up their attacks tonight against British forces in central and eastern Java despite orders from their own "president" Soekarno to lay down arms.

With fighter plane aid, the thin-spread Indian troops recaptured most of Magelang, 260 miles southwest of Batavia. At least three Thunderbolts went into action, shooting up three staff cars and as many trucks, after the Indonesians opened fire with mortars.

A British spokesman described the situation as "close to war." A squadron of tanks arrived at still-tense Soerabaja, naval base where Brig. A. W. F. Mallaby was slain Tuesday night.

Soekarno, head of the "Indonesian Republic," met with Dutch leaders last night, and flew today into the interior in a yet unsuccessful mission to make his followers halt the fighting.

Soekarno tonight was believed to be at Jogjakarta, headquarters of youthful extremists who were said to be sending reinforcements to Indonesians near Magelang, 30 miles to the north.

Soekarno conferred last night with acting Lt.-Gov. Hubertus Van Mook. The Dutch information service here said Van Mook urged cooperation as serving the best interests of all concerned, and that Soekarno presented arguments for recognition of a de facto government headed by himself.

Dutch Repudiate Talks

(The Dutch information service at the Hague announced that if Van Mook had conferred with Soekarno, he had "acted against the express wish and instructions of the government" since the government holds there is no common ground for discussions with the Indonesian leader.)

Soekarno stopped today at Semarang, 40 miles northwest of Magelang, and attempted unsuccessfully to persuade Brigadier Richard Bethel to accompany him to Jogjakarta.

The official Dutch news agency Aneta said Soekarno had reached Magelang, but had failed to pacify extremists there.

A British army spokesman said that intelligence had been trying to locate Indonesian rebel stations which were inciting natives to violence in defiance of Soekarno's instructions to cease fighting.

Immediately after Soekarno broadcast his orders to Indonesians last night, the Indonesian-held Soerabaja radio station replied defiantly that "real revolutionaries will not by any means accept Soekarno's peace talk."

The broadcaster, describing his station as "the voice of the people," asserted it was necessary to continue "killing all the enemies of the revolution with all possible means and weapons."

There were no reports as yet of tanks going into action against the Indonesians at Soerabaja, but the situation there was explosive. The terms of the truce negotiated on Tuesday weer not being observed.

Five Officers Missing

At least five British officers were known to be missing there. British Red Cross personnel and workers from the organization aiding Allied prisoners of war and internees were not released.

The body of Brigadier Mallaby had not yet been recovered, officials here said.

Aneta said the main British forces were concentrated in the harbor and barracks area at Soerabaja, but that isolated detachments were spread throughout the city guarding internee camps and other important points.

Britain Backs General

[In London the British Government pledged "full support" to the warning of Lieut. Gen. Sir Philip Christison, Allied commander in the Netherlands East Indies, that "all modern arms" would be used against those responsible for Mallaby's murder.

[J. J. Lawson, War Secretary, told Commons that it "is to be hoped that the great body of Indonesians will make it clear that they disassociate themselves from the lawless acts of the extremists, which cannot but retard a return to peace conditions and constitutional reform, and therefore jeopardize the welfare of the whole country."]

Java Fighting Growing In Intensity

Batavia, Java, Nov. 1 (AP)—Extremist Indonesian forces, apparently out of control of President Soekarno of the "Indonesian republic," were reported intensifying their attacks on thin British forces in several sections of central and western Java tonight in defiance of an order of their President to cease fighting.

At Magelang three British fighter planes struck at extremists and supported Gurkha troops in recapturing most of the town after the Indonesians had opened up with mortars. A bombing line was reported to have been established at Magelang to prevent extremist forces from reaching the town.

Tanks Unloaded

A squadron of Stuart tanks of the 11th Cavalry was unloaded at Soerabaja today to reinforce British troops at that naval base.

Tension lifted perceptibly elsewhere in Java after a conference between Dutch and Nationalist leaders at Batavia. The Dutch Information Service said the meeting was cordial, and "discussions were of an orientating nature."

Soekarno argued for recognition of an Indonesian de factor government, and the Dutch pleaded for co-operation as serving the best interests of all concerned, the service said.

After the conference, Soekarno was reported en route to Jogakarta, in central Java, to urge members of fighting youth movements there to cease hostilities.

The British cruisers Sussex and Bulolo and a number of destroyers arrived off Soerabaja to evacuate Allied women and children.

Britain's Prestige

Lieut. Gen. Sir Philip Christison, Allied commander in the Netherlands East Indies, was host for the meeting and its chief architect. It seemed clear that Britain was anxious to show the world she could be scrupulously fair in arbitrating such differences and wanted to solve the crisis in order to raise her prestige in the Far East.

In a broadcast appeal to the Indonesians last night Soekarno told the Indonesians to lay down their arms and "solve all misunderstandings in close co-operation with the Allies." He said differences of opinion over trivialities could be readily solved.

"There is no reason for us to take up arms against the Allied forces," Soekarno said. "They come only to disarm and evacuate the Japanese and further to take care of internees and to maintain law and order in Allied occupation areas."

DUTCH GOVERNMENT REJECTS SOEKARNO

Says if van Mook Is Talking With Indonesian Chief He Is Disobeying Instructions

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands, Nov. 1 (AP)—The Netherlands Government said today that if Lieutenant Governor General Hubertus J. van Mook actually was negotiating in the Netherlands Indies with the "Indonesian President," Achmed Soekarno, "he was doing so against the express wish and instructions of the Government."

The Government Information Service issued this statement:

"If it must be accepted that Dr. H. J. van Mook had a conference with Soekarno, the only statement which can be made is that such would have occurred against the express wish of the (Queen Wilhelmina's) Government and her instructions. The guiding principle for the Government remains that no common ground for discussion exists between her and Soekarno and that a discussion therefore would be unjust. The Government is acting accordingly."

[An Associated Press dispatch Saturday from The Hague declared that the Netherlands Government had ordered Dr. van Mook to begin negotiations with the Indonesian Nationalists.

[On the following day Dr. van Mook said that he always had been in full agreement with the Netherlands Ministry for Overseas Territories "about the possibility and scope of discussions" between himself and the Indonesian Nationalist. The Associated Press also reported.]

Jinnah Sees Victory In India Election

Bombay, Nov. 1 (AP)—Mahomed Ali Jinnah, president of the Moslem League, predicted today that the forthcoming Indian elections would see his party win a majority of the seats allotted to Moslems in the new Central Assembly.

The victory, he declared, will be followed promptly by moves to fulfill the league's ambition of establishing a separate Moslem state to be known as Pakistan.

198,000 Vets Bound Home From Pacific

Honolulu, Nov. 1 (AP)—A total of 198,000 American troops are in the process of being returned home from the Pacific today.

A naval headquarters announcement said that of the total, 66,000 would land today in San Francisco, San Diego and San Pedro, Cal.; that 100,000 others were en route to the United States aboard transports and the others were being loaded aboard ships in various Pacific ports.

Vessels Are Listed

The following vessels are expected to arrive at San Francisco:

Attack transports St. Mary's from Okinawa and Cavalier from Pearl Harbor, and the hospital ship Tranquillity from Guam. The three will carry 4,200 returning veterans.

At San Pedro the escort carrier Thetis Bay will land with 1,200 and the carrier Breton will dock at San Diego with approximately the same number.

Including those scheduled to dock today, a total of 83 ships are en route home today, the release said.

Part Of New Program

The big movement, it was explained, is a part of the Navy's "magic carpet" shuttle service, set up October 3 under Rear Admiral Henry S. Kendall, commander of Carrier Division 24, with 316 vessels assigned for the return of veterans from the Pacific. So far 258 of the 316 have reported for shuttle duty.

The announcement provided the following information on ships heading for the States and loading in the Pacific:

Twenty-three sailed from Okinawa and Japan wfth 32,000 passengers, 19 from the Marianas with 27,00, from the Philippines with approximately 28,000, 12 from Hawaii with 17,000 and 9 from all other Pacific areas with about 13,000.

Loading In Japan

At Okinawa and Japan 25 ships with 36,000 capacity were loading, in the Philippines 10 ships with 14,000, in the Marianas 18 with 25,000, in Hawaii 4 with 6,000 capacity and in other areas one ship was loading.

Forty other vessels are en route from the West Coast to Pacific embarkation points to return more veterans home. The 40 can carry 56,000 passengers, which will be taken from all the Pacific embarkation points.

JAPS BEASTS, WITNESS SAYS

Yamashita Court Told Of Killing Of 1,500 At Club

Manila, Friday, Nov. 2 (AP)—Shouting that Japanese soldiers were "sadists and beasts," a witness at the war crimes trial of Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita described today the killing and burning of at least 1,500 civilians at the German club February 10 in the battle for Manila.

The witness, Francisco Lopez, who represented Metro-Goldwin-Mayer, said:

"Yamashita's soldiers took women, poured gasoline on their heads and set them afire."

Two girls were abused by Japanese before others at a club.

His mother, two brothers and an aunt perished at the club.

Lopez, taking shelter outside, was shot in the foot. He heard the screams of people who were burned while he was in hiding under a building.

Tells Of Own Escape

A woman spared fro ma saturnalia of rape by a Japanese officer friend testified yesterday that orders for one last blood orgy in Manila were issued by the Imperial High Command itself.

The story of her own escape from the mass rape of 25 Manila girls by Japanese troops during the battle of Manila was told behind closed doors at the war crimes trial of Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita.

Identified only as "Mrs. N," the witness told the military commission that with her infant son in her arms she was forced to go to the Bayview Hotel, scene of night-long orgies. She said that by chance she met a Captain Akashi, a Japanese officer she knew, and he hid her in a room.

In Answer To Protest

Later, she continued, she was taken to the hotel dining room, swarming with Japanese marines, where she faced an unnamed officer and protested the violation of the Filipino girls.

The officer told her that his troops were under an "order from the high command to kill all civilians in Manila and that the Japanese hated all white women."

A Japanese lieutenant by the name of Kito then told "Mrs. N" that he was powerless to stop the rapings because the soldiers and marines were fresh from the front lines and could do as they wished.

Seven women victims previously had testified as to how the 25 were chosen for their beauty last Feb. 9 from among 400 women rounded up in Manila's exclusive Ermita district.

They were taken to Bayview, where they were passed from room to room with an accompaniment of slaps and kicks and forced to submit to the Japanese officers and men.

Their stories, substantially in agreement, said they managed to escape Feb. 12 when the flames of the battle of Manila spread to the hotel, but only after some had been criminally assaulted 15 times.

Some said they were stripped and forced to submit under threats that their husbands or other members of the family would be murdered unless they yielded. Some victims were only 12 years old.

Press, Public Barred

To spare them the painful publicity, the witness testified with the press and public excluded from the court room. The press was handed censored transcripts of the testimony afterward.

Military police stood in the halls of the trial building and escorted the brightly-dressed women to authorities outside.

When the open hearings were resumed, the prosecution presented five witnesses who told new stories of massacre to be added to the list of crimes by Japanese troops for which Yamashita, as commander in the Philippines, may have to answer with his life.

Yamashita sat stolidly as a Filipino physician declared that a Japanese marine found four Filipinos hiding in the attic of a house Feb. 10 and killed one and wounded the rest with a phosphorus grenade.

Dr. Antonio G. Sison, head of the Philippine General hospital, testified that the Japanese fortified hospital outbuildings late in January and fought there until Feb. 17 while more than 9,000 patients cowered inside.

Hans Luhrse, a German Jewish chemist, sobbed as he told how he held his dead wife in his arms while the Japanese penned him and 13 others in his house, set it afire, and shot those who tried to escape.

Exhibiting terrible scars on arms and legs, he said he managed to flee through the flames holding his infant daughter.

Dr. Walter Frankel, a surgeon, said the Japanese, some armed with spears, forced the victims in Luhrse's house to kneel with their faces to the wall, spread gasoline on the furniture and set it afire. He told of seeing a servant girl run through the flames a living torch.

Manuel Elizalde, brother of Joaquin Elizalde, former Philippines resident commissioner in Washington, told how Japanese troops killed Henry Daland and his son, Tony, both American citizens, two Spaniards and two Filipinos at Daland compound.

Yamashita won a point near the end of the day's session when Maj. Gen. R. B. Reynolds, commission president, rejected a prosecution exhibit showing the slaying of two Germans and one Russian.

He held that the exhibit would have to be supported by testimony and witnesses.

Maj. Robert M. Kerr, the prosecutor, told the commission that many cases would be presented based solely on such documentary evidence obtained by the war crimes commission.

The court then adjourned for the remainder of the day to study the question.

Manila Girls Accuse Japs Of Rape Orgy

Manila, Nov. 1 (AP)—Details of the mass raping of 25 Manila girls—many of them only 12 to 14 years old—who were passed from Japanese to Japanese were related today at the war-crimes trial of Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita.

The 25 were selected from among 400 females rounded up from Manila's rich Ermita district and submitted to a selection board which picked out the most comely for the lustful orgy.

The Filipinas were passed from man to man and room to room. Their protests and screams brought only slaps and more brutal treatment.

Cries For Mothers

Pitiful screams, "Mother, Mother," were heard throughout the night.

So frank and detailed was the Filipinas' testimony that correspondents as well as the public were barred from the room where a United States military commission of five generals is trying Yamashita. The press was handed resumés of the testimony to spare the witnesses embarrassment.

Yamashita, as commander in the Philippines, is charged with responsibility for the actions of his troops.

Their Testimony

Witnesses told these stories:

After the 25 women and girls were selected on February 9 they were taken to the Bayview Hotel, where Japanese officers and enlisted men took turns raping them in a night-long orgy. Next day, the Filipinas were taken to the near-by Alhambra apartment and subjected to continued brutalities.

A witness identified as "Miss A" said a Marine who selected her was unable to effect an attack, so he performed a "bad operation" with a knife—then raped her.

A Miss G said she was raped by twelve to fifteen Japanese Marines one night.

Fires Brought Freedom

Fires which raged in Manila on February 12 brought them freedom. The girls escaped as the Japanese fled before the flames.

Eight women, from a district where some of the more prominent families in the Philippines live, testified at the closed session.

Their stories, virtually the same, also embraced incidents at the Miramar apartment house.

Spared For Possible Protection

Miss N testified that she protested to Japanese officers at the Bayview against the treatment of the women and girls and was told that "we have an order from the high command to kill all civilians in Manila and we hate all white women."

The reason the women were not all killed, she said, was that the Japanese decided they might wish to put them in the front lines to prevent the Americans from attacking.

Miss N said a Japanese lieutenant named Kito told her he was powerless to stop the orgy, since the men and officers involved were from the front lines and were at liberty to do anything they desired.

Other witnesses told the commission that they were forced to yield to the Japanese on the threat that otherwise their husbands and other members of their families would be killed.

Tells Of Grenade Use

First witness after the hearing was reopened to the public was a Filipino who testified that one of his countrymen was killed and three others wounded by a "phosphorus grenade" tossed into their attic hiding place by a Japanese marine last February 10.

Dr. Antonio G. Sison, head of the Philippine General Hospital, described the Japanese fortification of the building. He said there were more than 9,000 patients and refugees there during the bitter battle on its grounds and that, although the institution was marked clearly with the Red Cross, the Japanese fought to its steps before liberating Americans arrived.

Exhibiting scarred arms and legs, Chemist Hans Luhrse sobbed as he told the commission how his wife died in his arms while he and thirteen others were trapped behind a pile of flaming furniture in his home, set afire by Japanese soldiers a few hours before the Americans reached the heart of Manila. His limbs were burned, he said, as he scrambled to safety through the flames with his infant daughter.

Dr. Walter Frankel, a surgeon, testified that Japanese troops, some armed with spears, forced a group to enter Luhrse's house, tied their hands and made them kneel down with their faces toward a wall before they spread gasoline on the furniture and ignited it. Covered with his dying wife's blood, Frankel said he watched a servant girl run through the flames and become a living, screaming human torch.

Manuel Elizalde, brother of Juan Elizalde, former Philippines resident commissioner in Washington, described the slaying of Henry Daland and his son, Tony, American citizens, with two Spaniards, and two Filipinos in Daland compound.

U.S. Move Seen As Bombshell For Japan

Tokyo, Nov. 1 (AP)—The newest indirect accusation that Emperor Hirohito was partly to blame for the war—Washington's announcement that his personal fortune will have to stand part of the reparations bill—is apt to become the biggest political and social bombshell yet involving the already harried monarch.

The economic value of the move is as yet indefinite, pending further investigation of what appears to be a land-and-bond-poor fortune.

"A Drop In The Bucket"

The imperial balance sheet, somewhat more than $106,000,000, is a mere drop in the reparations bucket at best. Only $22,410,658 is in liquid assets.

Japanese likely will have little to say now, but are almost certain generally to interpret the action as an indirect labeling of Hirohito as a war criminal. They heretofore have made little distinction between those openly blamed and those considered to have been indirectly responsible.

"No Distinction," Pauley Says

Edwin W. Pauley, American member of the Reparations Committee, voiced what for the Japanese was a revolutionary conception in asserting that there could be no distinction between the Emperor and his Government.

The Japanese have considered the Government as an instrument of the Emperor, but he personally has been held too high to be responsible for its mistakes.

It is doubtful that many of the Japanese, even those highly placed, ever considered the possibility that the Emperor might be held to blame for the war, although reparations payments have been constantly on the minds of Government officials.

Fortune Thought Inviolate

The Emperor's fortune has been hitherto considered so inviolate that the mere American demand for the imperial balance sheet brought the first silent resentment among the people at occupation methods.

The fortune, however, has turned out to be disappointingly small in proportion to the reportedly fabulous figures it was supposed to reach. If the Emperor actually is required to foot much of the reparations bill, it appears likely that the crown jewelry and what art objects he possesses will go on the block. The jewelry, art objects and stored gold and silver bullion have not yet been reported. They are not expected, however, to amount to any great sums. The effect of the announcement probably will be much greater in its political aspect than in the actual reparations produced.

Laurel's Property Frozen

Supreme headquarters, in a new directive, told the Japanese to freeze the bank accounts and other property of all members and former officials of the puppet Philippine Government, including those of President Jose B. Laurel and his two sons, Paceniah and Arsenio.

Special American detectives unearthed nearly two tons of secret Japanese military maps, including many on Alaska, and one set of carefully segregated Civil War Gettysburg battle maps. Why the latter were held was not explained.

Meanwhile, Japanese and American authorities were hunting today for huge amounts of missing war material and funds.

The Japanese War Ministry, to quiet public clamor for an accounting of tax payments, began an audit of the billions squandered by the army and navy on their lost war. It hoped to find, too, great quantities of military goods which disappeared between the surrender and the occupation.

Black Market Goods Sought

American military police extended their search for some $500,000 worth of United States army rations and clothing which apparently had been diverted into civilian channels through a big black-market operation.

Director of the War Ministry's Accounts Bureau, Col. Takekatsu Endo, said that military spending in the war years, 1937 to 1945, totaled 222,000,000,000 yen, about $31,500,000,000 at the present exchange rate but $100,000,000,000 at the pre-Pearl Harbor rate.

Four Yanks Arrested

Four American soldiers and several Italian and Japanese nationals were arrested yesterday for questioning in the disappearance of the American Army's rations and clothing.

One of the Italians, Marino Bocca, was being questioned in an attempt to learn the names of others who might be connected with the missing goods. Some authorities said they believed that Bocca, former secretary to the air attaché at the Italian Embassy in Tokyo, was the director of the ring.

Today As D-Day

Today would have been D-day for Japan if the nation had chosen to fight to the end. Instead, American troops are engaged in routine occupation tasks.

Two new news agencies, Kyodo and Jiji, began operation today, replacing Domei. Kyodo will distribute Associated Press news reports to every paper in Japan.

Sixteen New Parties

With political activity increasing, sixteen new parties have come into existence. The strongest appears to be composed of Liberals or Socialists backboned by Diet members.

The Government began its first census since before the war.

Secret Jap Maps Include Oddity

Tokyo, Nov. 1 (AP) — Searchers among Japanese records today dug up an unexplained oddity.

Among two tons of secret Japanese military maps was a set of Civil War maps of the Battle of Gettysburg.

The Allied authorities were conducting their search for records of the billions expended by Japan's army and navy during the war and for vanished military goods and funds.

Marcus Japs Eat Snails

Tokyo, Nov. 1 (AP)—Japanese soldiers repatriated today from Marcus Island said they had been without arms and ammunition and that their only food for many weeks had been snails and grasshoppers caught by patrols.

Jap Food Demands

Tokyo, Nov. 1 (AP)—Several hundred Japanese men, women and children demanded at a rally in Hibiya Park today that the wealthy of Japan turn over their jewels to the Government to pay for imports of food.

Jap Admiral Lacked Only A Navy

Tokyo, Nov. 1 (AP) — Virgil B. Warren, 24, signalman 2/c, USNR, of Tampa, Fla., was on guard duty at Yokosuka one night when he ran across a Japanese in a gaudy uniform.

"Who are you?" asked Warren.

"I am an admiral," the man replied.

"Well," pressed Warren, "if you're an admiral, how come you aren't in the navy?"

The Japanese blinked, then replied briskly: "No navy."

Nisei Women To Help Bridge Language Gap

Tokyo, Friday, Nov. 2 (AP)—Thirteen Nisei women from Hawaii have arrived in Tokyo by airplane to assist the Army in bridging the language gap between Americans and Japanese.

The girls, all dressed in American army uniforms, although retaining their civilian status, are among the first women to come to Japan from the United States since the occupation.

Admits Wrecking Perry Monument

Yokohama, Friday, Nov. 2 (AP)—The Governor of Kanagawa prefecture acknowledged today that, in an effort to whip up patriotism, he had ordered the destruction of the famous monument commemorating the landing of Commodore Perry in 1853 which ended Japan's closed-door policy.

United States Army investigators are taking a serious view of the incident because it occurred February 8, 1945, rather than near the outbreak of war.

The Army is trying to determine whether Gov. Takao Fujiwara was influenced by the government.

Fujiwara accepted responsibility, stating he was chairman of a local committee for protection of the monument at Kurihama beach at Yokosuka City, where Marines landed August 30.

The Governor added that since the end of the war he had made preparations to erect another Perry monument, believing that was fully justified under "present and entirely changed circumstances."

Americans Dynamite Japanese Naval Guns

Kure, Friday, Nov. 2 (AP)—American dynamite today destroyed half a dozen naval guns which the Japanese had hidden around the Kobe naval repair base for use in event of an invasion.

The 120-mm. dual purpose seacoast and anti-aircraft guns were credited with having downed "a few" of the B-29's, which had destroyed the area around them but left the weapons undamaged.

A 33d Infantry Division demolition unit found the well camouflaged guns, which could have swept Kobe harbor and Osaka Bay.

A Ship In The Making—The U.S.S. Why Not Now

Irumagawa, Japan, Nov. 1 (AP)—A formal "call to work" on construction of a sailboat, "the U.S.S. Why Not Nok?" has been posted by the men of the 5th Air Force 11th Replacement Depot.

The notice explains all:

"Don't delay, act now! If you're a carpenter, draftsman, sailmaker, steamfitter, boilermaker, welder, you can help. Get in there and pitch! Volunteer now to work on the U.S.S. Why Not Now? Our goal is to be home for Christmas—1946!" working together, we can achieve that aim!"

Way Cleared In Brazil For Separate Elections

Rio de Janeiro, Nov. 1 (AP)—President Jose Linhares cleared the way today for Brazil's presidential election December 2 by revoking a decree by former President Getulio Vargas which had set both the national and state elections for the same day.

Linhares's decree restored the state elections to their original date of May 6, 1946.

The action of Vargas in ordering both state and national elections held on December 2 was one of the major causes of the political upheaval Monday which removed Vargas from office.

Under the Vargas decree, with both state and national elections set for the same day and with Vargas-appointed state interventors (governors) having the authority to formulate state constitutions, it would have meant that the Vargas-backed candidate for president would have the aid of the state government machinery.

Pawley To Visit U.S.

Lima, Nov. 1 (AP)—United States Ambassador William Douglas Pawley will depart in his private plane tomorrow for a short visit to Washington.

TRUMAN SEES REPARATIONS BAR TO WAR

Says Program Is Designed to Stop Threat of Jap Aggression.

PAULEY GOING TO TOKYO

Presidential Expert's View That Hirihito Must Pay, Called Political Bombshell.

Washington, Nov. 1 (A. P.).—President Truman declared today that the reparations program for Japan will be designed to put an end for all time to Japanese aggression. His statement was issued in connection with the expected departure this week for Japan of Edwin W. Pauley, the President's personal representative on reparation matters.

Pauley told White House reporters yesterday that the personal fortune of Emperors Hirohito, estimated in excess of $100,000,000, would be included in Japanese assets which may be taken as reparations for war damages. Most of Pauley's staff were scheduled to leave today.

The President's statement follows:

"The problem of what to do with Germany and Japan is one of the greatest challenges in the whole effort to achieve lasting peace.

"The program for reparations from Germany which was developed by Ambassador Pauley adopted at the Berlin conference will go a long way toward helping us achieve complete victory over Germany, by depriving her of the means ever again to wage another war. The reparations program which Ambassador Pauley will develop for Japan will be directed toward the same fundamental goal—to put an end for all time to Japanese aggression.

"In carrying out this mission for me Ambassador Pauley and his staff will work in close cooperation with Gen. MacArthur and his staff and will make full use of the surveys which have already been made by the industrial experts now on Gen. McArthur's staff."

Nimitz, MacArthur Urged Fighting Services Merger

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—(AP) Gen. Douglas MacArthur in 1944 testimony made public today proposed integration of the U. S. armed forces so close that they would wear the same uniforms.

MacArthur urged sweeping changes in the present service academies at West Point and Annapolis and elimination of army-navy athletic rivalry.

The general's ideas, along with those of other top army and navy leaders, were made public by the Senate Military committee which is studying the hotly controverial proposal to merge the services under a single cabinet officer.

In the lot were expressions in favor of the plan by Admirals Chester W. Nimitz and William F. Halsey, both of whom have changed their minds since then.

Nimitz Changes View

In the 1944 testimony Nimitz favored "a single civilian secretary of the armed forces." He as reversed that stand in the meantime, however. In a Navy speech from Honolulu, Hawaii, on Oct. 27, 1945, the Pacific Fleet commander praised unity of command but said he wanted a separate Navy department.

His stand apparently was closely parallel to that of Admiral Halsey. The Third Fleet commander, quoted in 1944 as favoring merger if it would not injure the Navy's standing, issued a statement tonight opposing a single department but saying we "must" have single command in combat.

Secretary of the Navy Forrestal and Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King have strongly opposed the merger, which the Army in general has favored.

The Nimitz and MacArthur testimony along with that of more than 60 other top Army and Navy leaders was taken by a special committee of the joint Chiefs of Staff. This group recommended plans for a single armed forces agency and senators had asked a copy of that report. Instead the committee received the complete testimony on which the staff study was based. It had been collected by the special group of admirals and generals who wrote the report that will follow later.

General MacArthur said there should be a "complete amalgamation of the various fighting forces."

Wants Same Uniform

"I believe they should wear the same uniform," the report said. "I believe they should be one family instead of three."

The joint staff group asked how this would fit in with the Army's West Point and the Navy's Annapolis.

"I wouldn't have those schools," he replied. "No man is a stronger advocate of athletics than myself, but those games have caused feeling so intense that they color a man's whole life."

This appeared to be a reference to the annual Army-Navy football clash.

MacArthur said that future war leaders must not be trained simply on air, land or sea tactics but must have a grasp of all three.

"The military character of a soldier, a sailor or a marine should be molded along the same lines," he added. "You don't get unity of command simply by having a sole man placed in command of three branches."

Admiral Nimitz favored unity of the armed forces when questioned at Pearl Harbor Dec. 8, 1944.

"I favor a single civilian secretary of armed forces," he said. "With complete elimination of civilian secretaries for the Army, for the Navy, and for the air force, with the idea of reducing any tendency to separatism."

The admiral warned that any change in this direction should come slowly because there is a large "civilian staff" and "if you move too fast, they are going to block you."

Nimitz suggested that in the single armed-force arrangement, officers concentrate on their specialties until they become Army captains or Navy lieutenants. After that:

"The closer we can throw our officers together the more quickly they will reach that state where they have mutual respect for each other. I think it is separating them, keeping them separated, that engenders distrust, we'll say, or suspicion, perhaps dislike."

General Dwight Eisenhower, European Theater commander, also supported the single department to obtain a "definite unification of all fighting forces" and to "avoid duplication."

Eisenhower testified that the postwar military and naval forces would require a "system of universal training."

Admiral William F. Halsey, whose Third fleet was largely instrumental in beating down Japan, in 1944 favored a single department if it would not injure Navy standing.

Tonight, however, the Navy made public a statement from Halsey, issued at his Wilmington, Del., home, which said:

"I find that now, as a combat commander, I cannot favor it."

The admiral said his 1944 opinion was "based on my strong, continuing knowledge that a unified command was an imperative factor in successful combat operations. I have not changed my mind on the latter score. I do not for one instant contend that we should not have unified command in the field—in the theater of operations. We should, we must."

Contending that naval supply and support involves a special know-how, Halsey suggested the single operational command coupled with:

"Separate War and Navy departments—and by this token, separate administration and supply;

"Retention of the joint purchasing board for subsistence and items common to both the Army and the Navy."

Admiral R. A. Spruance told the group there is a need for coordination of policy between Army and Navy leaders and favored a stronger joint chiefs of staff. He said this would allow the professional military and Navy leaders to get their views "directly to the President, rather than passing them through the civilian heads of the War and Navy departments, who might not be in favor of the program."

Lt. Gen. Carl Spaatz, leader of heavy bombers in Europe and the Pacific, favored a single department and single over-all commander if air forces was raised to equal status.

Vice Admiral M. Mitscher, Navy air expert, said "drastic changes" are needed but opposed giving the Army Air forces any say about the naval air arm. He opposed a single department but predicted the next war will be fought largely in and from the air. At one point he said that "as far as I can see the battleship is completely out of the picture as a military weapon."

Outlawing Of Atomic Bomb Asked

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP)—Representative Neely (D., W.Va.) proposed today that President Truman call a conference of the United Nations to work out an agreement for outlawing use of the atomic bomb.

His suggestion was in a House resolution which also recommended that at the conference "a drastic reduction" be agreed upon in the military strength of the nations involved.

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP)—The Senate heard demands today that the atomic bomb be outlawed by international agreement as a weapon too terrible ever to be used again.

Voiced first by Senator McKellar (D., Tenn.), they stirred a flurry of debate ranging from questioning as to whether reliance could be placed on such an agreement to a suggestion that the arguments against use of the atomic bomb applied also to other air bombs.

McKellar, the chamber's dean in service, left the presiding officer's chair to plead that the United States seek to bind all nations in a pledge against using atomic bombs.

Johnson Skeptical

Until such a pledge is won, he told his colleagues, this country should keep what secrets it has on release of nuclear energy.

Senator Johnson (D., Col.), acting chairman of the Military Committee, was skeptical.

"If it is possible to outlaw the bomb, why not go the whole step and outlaw war?" he demanded.

McKellar recalled this country spent $2,000,000,000 to develop the bomb. No other nation would spend such a sum, he contended, if there was an agreement against use of atomic bombs.

The Tennesean recalled that use of poison gas had been outlawed by international agreement and said that it was not used in this war.

Wheeler's Stand

That brought from Johnson the retort that it was not humanitarian principles but fear that it would be used against them which led Germany and Japan to avoid use of gas.

Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.) put in, "I agree with everything the Senator from Tennessee had said about not giving away the atomic bomb to anyone else."

McKellar had spoken of how an atomic bomb could lay waste an entire great city, killing innocent women and children.

Senator Chavez (D., N.M.), alluding to that, said he saw no difference in principle between killing civilians with ordinary bombs and with atomic bombs.

He said Britain was reported sending bombers over Java because of the killing of a British general in disorders there.

Fulbright's Question

"If Britain sends 30, 40 or 50 bombers into Java, we know people are going to be killed who had no more to do with the killing of the British general than we did," he said.

Senator Fulbright (D., Ark.), wanted to know how the United States can go about keeping the atomic bomb secret if Britain and Canada also know how to construct it.

McKellar said he believed they would agree, if asked by the United States, to outlaw its use.

He contended an international agreement against its use might be impossible to get "if we first gave away our formula to other nations."

As for use of the bomb against Japan, McKellar said that was justified because the Japanese had exhibited utter disregard for the rules of warfare.

Special Committee Meets

The debate demonstrated the wide range of opinion which the special Senate committee on atomic energy must consider.

That group, headed by Senator McMahon (D., Conn.), held its first meeting just before the Senate session.

McMahon said that "the problems we anticipate will be presented" were discussed but no "final judgments" reached as to the direction of its work or the personnel it will need.

He declined to answer a question as to whether the committee members expect to take part in forthcoming discussions of atomic energy between President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee.

Urey Foresees Dictatorship

Chicago, Nov. 1 (AP)—Dr. Harold C. Urey, Nobel prize winner who helped develop the atomic bomb, declared today that in "five years or perhaps less," when any nation can make the bamb, it may be necessary for the United States to establish a dictatorship form of government to act quickly against an atomic war threat.

"I do not see any way to keep our democratic form of government if everybody has atomic bombs," Urey said.

Hints France Has Secret

"If everyone has them, it will be necessary for our Government to move quickly in a manner not now possible under our diffuse form of government. This would mean that we would have to concentrate power in one or a few individuals, and that would mean dictatorship."

Urey told a news conference after a University Citizens' Board luncheon that both Denmark and France presumably possess the "know-how" of atomic-bomb manufacture.

"It is possible," Dr. Urey said, "that even other countries also know the answers."

Dr. Urey won the Nobel Prize for is discovery of heavy water.

Senate Atom Unit Begins Its Work

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP)—The Special Senate Committee on Atomic Energy opened for business today receptive to some scientific advice on a sheaf of control proposals.

When Chairman McMahon (D., Conn.) called the committee to organize it hadn't even been assigned quarters and had to borrow space from the Agriculture Committee.

Hopes Scientists Will Aid

McMahon let it be known that he hopes the scientists who worked on the atomic bomb will give the committee the technical aid it must have for intelligent legislation on developing and controlling the new power source.

McMahon said he is deeply conscious he is a layman, not a physicist, but "if we are provided with the facts, we should be able to make logical decisions."

Proposals Faced

Among the proposals before the committee are:

A bill by Senator Johnson (D., Col.), companion measure to one sponsored by Representative May (D., Ky.) in the House, calling for establishment of a nine-member Atomic Energy Commission that would supervise the sources, production and release of atomic energy.

A resolution by Senator Hill (D., Ala.) authorizing experiments in the atomic bombing of naval vessels.

A measure by Senator Thomas (D., Utah) for a control commission including representatives of the House, Senate, Supreme Court and industry.

McMahon's own control bill, under which a majority of the control board would be Cabinet members.

McMahon's committee colleagues are Democrats Johnson, of Colorado; Connally, of Texas; Russell, of Georgia; Byrd, of Virginia, and Tydings, of Maryland, and Republicans Vandenberg, of Michigan; Millikin, of Colorado; Austin, of Vermont; Hickenlooper, of Iowa, and Hart, of Connecticut.

M'KELLAR WANTS BOMB SECRET KEPT

Washington, Nov. 1 (A. P.)—Senator McKellar (D.-Tenn.) told the Senate today the United States should retain its nuclear energy secrets while working for an international agreement to outlaw the atomic bomb.

The Senate president pro tem, pore said in a prepared address that this country might find it impossible to get an agreement outlawing use of the bomb "if we first gave away our formula to other nations."

McKellar, who sits in the Vice-President's chair at Cabinet meetings, said the bomb's development cost the United States $2,600,000,000. Even if the cost were halved since then, he said no other nation could afford to spend $1,300,000,000 to develop its own. He asked: "Does any American really and honestly or even remotely dream that if conditions were reversed and some other nation had discovered the formula of the atomic bomb that such nation would transfer the formula to us without money and without price?"

Radioactive Cartons Linked To Bomb

Boston, Nov. 1 (AP)—Scientists in many parts of the country are trying to learn why cardboard made from straw cut in Illinois 23 days after the atomic-bomb test at Los Alamos, N.M., is strongly radioactive, according to Dr. Robley D. Evans, Massachusetts Institute of Technology physicist.

Tests of the strawboard delivered to the Eastman Kodak Company at Rochester, N.Y., Dr. Evans said in an interview, showed that it was so intensely radioactive that it would have ruined any film packed in it.

The mystery, Dr. Evans explained, is: Whence did the radioactive elements come?

Two Possibilities

Dr. Evans, who is director of the M.I.T. radioactive laboratories, said that he and other physicists had not reached a final solution but were considering two possibilities.

One is that the explosion of the atomic bomb at Los Alamos may have been responsible. Scientists are trying to determine whether active ingredients of the bomb, which were not "smashed," were carried to great altitudes, caught in prevailing winds and borne eastward to be deposited by rain on the fields of southern Illinois.

The second possibility, Dr. Evans explained, is that the cardboard was contaminated with radioactive elements from some other source, such as water of the Wabash River.

May Take Months

The research, he said, may not be completed for weeks, or months. Thus far, it had been determined that the radioactive agent is not radium, he added.

Attempts of the Eastman company to use cardboard largely made from straw for film containers followed previous troubles with radioactivity in paper and cardboard—arising from the widespread dispersal of tiny quantities of radium paint in the waste paper used in the making of cardboard.

Traced To Radium Paint

Experts had discovered the black spots on film which were attributed to radioactive elements in the container. The trouble was traced to tiny, often invisible, particles of radium paint imbedded in the cardboard. They concluded that particles of radium paint, widely used on many gadgets—including aircraft instruments—had been left on containers and wrappings salvaged for reuse in making cardboard.

A large part of the paper products now in use are radioactive to some degree, Dr. Evans said, pointing out that a sheet of newsprint placed over unexposed film would cause spotting.

Atom 'Secret' Held To Be Misnomer

Biloxi, Miss., Nov. 1 (AP)—A newspaper men who has studied closely the development of atomic power declared today the so-called secret of the bomb is just a "misnomer" and that the "basic principles already are known the world over."

"The bomb is a secret the same as a 16-inch gun," Howard W. Blakeslee, Associated Press science editor, asserted in a speech at the convention of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation.

Only Some Details Secret

Every nation knows about the giant naval gun, and the United States keeps to itself merely such information as the formula for mixing the metals and powder, and the precise curves of the rifling, Blakeslee pointed out, adding:

"It is only details like that which we have not published to the world on the atomic bomb. It is unlikely we will give those away."

BARUCH CITES SCIENCE PLAN

Urges U.S.-First Policy For America's Resources

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP)—Bernard M. Baruch, adviser to Presidents since Woodrow Wilson, urged today that America's own needs get "first priority" on American resources.

He proposed an inventory to see what can be spared for other countries.

The 75-year-old financier coupled that advice with a recommendation that it be accepted as a fact that Germans and Japanese will strive through science to create the means of waging another world war.

Favors Science Foundation

He fully endorsed legislation for a national science foundation as a means both of developing and maintaining American resources, and of keeping possible scientific aggressors in check.

Baruch, whose 75 years seem to rest upon him as lightly as his full crop of silver-gray hair, was a witness before Senate Military-Commerce subcommittees considering bills to create a Federally financed program of aid to research.

In a question-and-answer exchange with Senators Kilgore (D., W.Va.) and Magnuson (D., Wash.) after his formal testimony, Baruch stressed a need of a national inventory of America's resources.

Horn Of Plenty

"First priority" on these resources, he said, must be assurance of enough for this country, certainly enough to prevent inflationary bidding here for scarce goods.

"We think of America as a horn of plenty, with an inexhaustible amount of wealth," he continued. "But we ought to find out for sure."

He added:

"I do not in any way oppose helping other nations. They have made great sacrifices. I don't say we have exhausted our resources. I would like to see help allocated to the people who need it most—I would like to help them help themselves. But we must have enough here to prevent inflation."

"Everybody Wants Everything"

"What is our production?" he asked. "What are the resources of our soil, the resources of our minds? What are we going to do with that production?

"Everybody wants everything all over the world."

On his second main point, Baruch suggested that the proposed national science foundation provide "expert counsel for the freest world-wide exchange of scientific knowledge and for effective policing of the war-geared science of Germany and Japan."

Germans, Japs Will Try Again

"Be assured," he read slowly and deliberately from his prepared statement, "that the Germans and Japanese will strive increasingly through science, technology and engineering to devise some means for waging a third world war.

"The long-time control of the scientific resources of Germany and Japan must continue for many years after the last occupation troops leave those lands — until there has been a spiritual rebirth of those peoples.

"If such control is to be effective, our scientists will have to co-operate closely with the military or civil authorities responsible for the occupation."

Scientific Program

Baruch suggested these other courses for a peacetime scientific program for the Government:

"1. Greatly increase our scientific brainpower, using scholarships and other aids to develop new scientific talent in American youth.

"2. Continued, vigilant military research in developing new weapons for national defense.

"3. Intensify science's war against disease.

"4. Offset the depletion, of our natural resources.

"Stimulate Basic Research"

"5. Stimulate basic scientific research to assure a continued flow of new, fundamental, scientific knowledge.

"6. The widest, most efficient spread of scientific information, both of as yet undisclosed war discoveries and future findings.

"7. Create a new, permanent, government agency to coordinate these many activities into an integrated, national scientific policy."

Atom Bomb And Fish

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP)—Officials of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service expressed concern today that the Navy's ocean tests of the atomic bomb might destroy large numbers of commercially important fish.

Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of naval operations, has announced that bombs will be exploded both in and above the sea to determine the effects on the hulls of surface ships and submarines.

Elmer Higgins, chief fishery biologist of the Fish and Wildlife Service, said the concussion from underwater explosions of dynamite kills sea life within thousands of feet.

Effects Anticipated

"It is assumed," Higgins said, "that the atom bomb explosion will be the most potent that ever has occurred in the sea. In addition to the concussion, it is likely that radio-activity started by the bomb will be deadly to the fish."

Army Lowers Score to 60 to Benefit900,000

Total Cut to 34 for Wacs; Action Urged on Bill to End Point System

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP).—The Army's discharge score for enlisted men was lowered today from seventy to sixty, making approximately 900,000 additional soldiers eligible for release.

Announcement that the reduction would be effective today previously had been made by General of the Army George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff.

The discharge score for enlisted Wacs also was dropped from thirty-six to thirty-four, but scores for all officers and nurses were left unchanged.

The Army Air Forces, meanwhile, announced that A. A. F. enlisted men who have fifty or more points and two years of service will be discharged providing they are classed as surplus and are in the United States.

Surplus enlisted Wacs in the air forces also will be released if they have at least twenty-nine points and a year of service.

Commands and air forces within the United States have been authorized to declare such personnel surplus provided they are not actually needed and their discharge would not interfere with the release of those eligible for discharge under the sixty-point rating.

Enlisted A. A. F. men who have fifty points but are now overseas will be eligible for discharge upon their return to this country, providing they are classed as surplus.

Action on legislation to discard the point system of discharging service personnel was sought today by Representative Paul W. Shafer, Republican, of Michigan.

His bill, now before the House Military Affairs Committee, would permit all inductees to obtain their release, upon request, after two years of service.

Representative Shafer filed a petition to require the committee to bring the measure before the House for action. He said more than fifty signatures were obtained almost immediately. In order to force action, 218 signatures are required.

Senator William F. Knowland, Republican, of California, proposed today that a co-ordinator of military transportation be designated to speed the return of overseas troops.

The Californian, a former Army major, told the Senate he is not satisfied that men have been brought back to this country as rapidly as possible.

He said British liners which had been carrying American troops were turned back to Great Britain without any plans being made to replace them with American ships.

Co-ordination of military transport is needed to solve such problems, Senator Knowland said.

Senator Knowland made public a letter from Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson disclosing that 512 regular troop carriers are being used to bring men home from various theaters.

Mr. Patterson said that through September 1,473,000 men had been returned from Europe and 208,000 from the Pacific.

In line with a request from Prime Minister Attlee, Mr. Patterson said, this government has turned back the Aquitania to Great Britain and given the British shipping equivalent to another of the queen ships.

"The release of this shipping will cost us about 120,000 personnel spaces by the end of December," Mr. Patterson wrote. "It is expected that this loss will be made up by the end of January, 1946, at which time the shipping then available in the Atlantic will be able to return men from Europe as rapidly as the theater can release them."

DISCARD OF POINT SYSTEM ADVOCATED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—(AP) Action on legislation to discard the point system of discharging service personnel was sought today by Rep. Shafer (R-Mich.).

His bill, now before the House Military committee, would permit all inductees to obtain their release, upon request, after two years of service.

Shafer filed a petition to require the committee to bring the measure before the House for action. He said more than 50 signatures were obtained almost immediately. In order to force action 218 signatures are required.

He called the point system "unfair," saying it failed to take into account personnel who have served in the United States "through no choice of their own," those on limited service and conscientious objectors.

Shafer also asserted that the bill "only makes mandatory the announced program of the War department" to discharge members of the armed forces with two years service, beginning early next year.

The Army today cut its discharge score for enlisted men from 70 to 60 points, as Gen. George C. Marshall recently announced it would do.

The score for enlisted WACS was cut from 36 to 34, but the standard for release of officers and nurses was left unchanged.

The air forces made a still deeper cut for personnel who are in this country and are surplus. Enlisted men in that category were made eligible if they have 50 or more points and have been in service two years. For surplus enlisted WACS in the air forces the requirement was dropped to 29 points and a year in uniform.

TAX CUTTING BILL GOES TO TRUMAN

Senate Approves Conference Report, Presidential Approval Likely.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—(AP) Right on a deadline set two months ago, Congress completed legislative action today on a $5,920,000,000 tax reduction bill and sent it to the White House.

The Internal Revenue bureau has to print new tax returns and withholding tables, and asked that details of the legislation be worked out by November 1.

According to revenue experts who tried to figure out the effect of the bill, it would cause these reductions in 1946:

Individual income taxpayers, $2,644,000,000.

Corporations, $3,136,000,000.

Repeal of use tax on cars and boats, $140,000,000.

Just before the Senate approved the conference report which sent the bill to the White House, Finance Committee Chairman George (D-Ga.) expressed the opinion that the actual reduction in federal revenue will not be as great as $5,920,000,000, due to stimulation of business activity.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) estimated that the actual loss during the current fiscal year which ends next June 30 will not exceed $1,000,000,000.

"There has been some criticism of making any tax reduction at a time when the country is spending more than its income," Taft observed. "The purpose of this bill is not to hand out pie to taxpayers but to encourage business activity."

The Ohioan said he believes no further business tax reductions will be possible for at least three years, but that there should be another cut in individual income taxes next year and a reduction in excise taxes.

Capitol Hill understood the bill just approved is satisfactory to the President and will be signed, although Secretary of the Treasury Vinson recommended cuts not to exceed $5,000,000,000.

The most important corporate tax change eliminates the wartime excess profits levy, effective Jan. 1. All corporations also get reductions ranging from 2 to 4 per cent in their combined normal and surtax.

The individual income tax reductions eliminate 12,000,000 persons from the rolls.

Payers of the 3 per cent normal tax are given the same exemptions as for the graduated surtax—$500 apiece for the taxpayer and each dependent. The rate in each surtax bracket is cut by 3 percentage points, and after computing the total tax obligation, the taxpayer is allowed to knock off 5 per cent.

Enlisted men will be forgiven federal income taxes on their service pay for the war years, beginning in 1941, and officers will be given an additional three years to pay off their back taxes without penalty.

The Social Security payroll tax is held for another year at the current rate of 1 per cent each for employers and employes. Had Congress not included that provision, the rate would have jumped automatically to 1 1-2 per cent Jan. 1 under the Social Security law.

Strike-Idle Drop 20,000 In Day To 255,000

[By the Associated Press]

Continuing labor disputes across the country today kept idle about 255,000 workers, a drop of some 20,000 in the last twenty-four hours.

A strike vote involving 50,000 Western Union Telegraph Company employes outside New York City was asked yesterday by an AFL board representing three unions after members said efforts to settle a wage dispute failed.

WLB Ruling Called Unfair

The union, asking a 25 per cent wage boost, said the company had refused any increase and termed "grossly unfair" a War Labor Board order for a flat 5 cent-an-hour hike. The board said a nation-wide strike "would tie up the reconversion program."

In New York a company spokesman said both the union and the company had agreed to accept the WLB decision and the company had received no official protest against the ruling.

More Idle In Frisco Area

The number of workers in the San Francisco Bay area made idle by a strike of 10,000 AFL and CIO machinists increased to about 45,000 today as labor and management resumed conferences aimed to settle the wage dispute. Operations in about 200 plants were halted or curtailed and the closing of a plant producing paper cartons imperiled milk deliveries. Milk was still available in most San Francisco stores, however, and supplies to hospitals were near normal.

President Truman's Tuesday night speech advocating a reasonable boost in wages for workers resulted in new demands by two unions.

Reuther Follows Up

In Detroit, Walter P. Reuther, vice president of the CIO United Automobile Workers, demanded that General Motors Corporation reconsider its "flat rejection" of the union's 30 per cent wage increase demand in view of Mr. Truman's address. The demands, which the union is asking for half a million auto workers, were rejected by General Motors as "unreasonable."

The G.M. employés, as well as workers at Chrysler Corporation, in strike votes have approved work stoppages. Henry Ford 2d, president of the Ford Motor Company, said negotiations would begin November 20 with the CIO-UAW over the union's wage demands. A strike ballot among Ford employés is scheduled November 7.

Also Electrical Union

In Pittsburgh, the CIO-United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers asked Westinghouse Electric Corporation to renew collective bargaining conferences in view of the President's wage-price policy. The union recently authorized a petition for a strike vote among 106,000 Westinghouse workers in 25 cities after the company rejected a $2-a-day wage demand.

A six-day strike of 5,000 CIO employés at the General Electric company's Philadelphia plant appeared ended as the employés voted to return to work. Union leaders said the employés agreed to accept the company's offer that negotiations over a wage dispute begin simultaneously with the return to work of the strikers.

Hospital Strike Continues

In New York city, 170 employés at two hospitals, Beth-El and Beth Moses, were on strike again yesterday in a dispute over the alleged failure of the hospitals to obey WLB directives granting higher wages. Nurses were kept on their jobs.

A CIO union official said 200 workers from the Israel Zion Hospital would quit work today while others who left their jobs earlier would return. Some strikers from Israel Zion walked out with Beth-El and Beth Moses employés Tuesday, but went back yesterday.

At Lafayette, Ga., 315 employés of the Walker County Hosiery Mills are idle as a result of a strike called by the American Federation of Hosiery Workers (CIO) yesterday, the mills' president announced. He said the workers walked out after demanding a closed shop, a 20 per cent raise and free insurance and hospitalization.

SINATRA APPEALS TO STUDENTS TO CALL OFF STRIKE

GARY, Ind., Nov. 1.—(AP) More than 5,000 enraptured students joined Frank Sinatra, singer and actor, today in a pledge to the "American way," as The Voice sought to persuade striking white High school students to return to class rooms.

Bobby soxers screamed, shouted, whistled, stamped their feet and a few even sobbed as The Voice stepped to the stage of the overflowing auditorium to appeal for an end of the strike at Froebel High school which started Monday, the second this semester.

The auditorium's seating facilities of 4,800 were filled. Several hundred other students, both white and negro, crowded aisles and a crowd estimated by fireguard Nick Odinsoff at 1,000 stood in the street to hear the proceedings over amplifiers.

Repeating after Sinatra, the students pleged "allegiance to the democratic ideals in our home, schools, in our independent youth organizations. We strive to work together to prove that the American way is the fair and only way."

"x x x The eyes of the nation are watching Gary," The Voice asserted. "Maybe you think you have a right to pull a strike. Maybe you have. I am not going to argue with you, but I have found out there are a few people from Gary who have nothing to do with schools who are not parents, and yet who have had a word in your strike.

"People who have absolutely nothing to do with your strike have taken charge of it. And now you have nothing more to say about what is going on at your school. What are you going to do about it? Are you going to get the situation back in your hands?"

There were some faltering shouts of "yes."

Sinatra urged the students to "practice patience with your fellowmen."

The students struck originally in protest against what they described as bi-racial policies of their principal, R. A. Nuzum, whom they accused of showing favoritism to negro students. Students returned to classrooms after several days but struck for the second time Monday after an investigating committee did not blame Principal Nuzum.

Sinatra came to Gary at the invitation of the Anselm Youth Organization. He was met at the Chicago airport by Mayor Joseph Finerty, of Gary, and five youths representing various Gary youth organizations.

JOHN L. LEWIS SEES TRUMAN ON LABOR TALKS

Miners' Chief Pays First Visit to White House in Four Years.

DISCUSSION ON PRINCIPLES

Manufacturers' Association Head Is Among Others to Call on President.

Washington, Nov. 1 (A. P.).—John L. Lewis visited the White House today for the first time in four years.

The United Mine Workers chieftain called on President Truman as a delegate to the labor-management conference opening here Monday. The conference hopes to develop methods of settling labor disputes once the War Labor Board goes out of existence.

Lewis's visit lasted fifteen minutes. He said that he and his companions had discussed with the President "matters germane to the labor-management conference—not in detail but in principle."

Asked what he thought would come from the conference, Lewis grinned and replied, "I haven't anything to say."

T. C. Cashen, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives Council, interposed that "principle is the thing which is important" in the coming conference.

Murray Also Calls.

A. C. I. O. group headed by President Philip Murray called on the President after Lewis's visit. Murray said the callers told Mr. Truman that the C. I. O. delegation proposed "to extend every possible degree of constructive co-operation to all the delegates in working out a mutually satisfactory plan."

Lewis was accompanied by U. M. W. Secretary Thomas Kennedy, who likewise has been a rare visitor at the White House since Lewis broke with the late President Roosevelt prior to the 1940 elections.

A. E. Lyon, secretary of the Railway Labor Executives, accompanied Cashen.

36 Delegates to Vote.

The labor-management conference will have thirty-six voting delegates, eighteen of them representing labor and eighteen for management. The management votes are being apportioned by the National Association of Manufacturers and the United States Chamber of Commerce. The labor votes are divided this way: Eight votes to the A. F. of L., eight to the C. I. O. and two to independents. The independents are Lewis and Cashen. Kennedy is Lewis's alternate and Lyon is alternate for Cashen.

Lewis had not been to the White House since December 17, 1941, when he attended a labor-management session at which President Roosevelt obtained the war-time no-strike, no-lockout pledge.

The President devoted most of his day to talks with both management and labor groups.

M. M. Anderson of Pittsburgh, vice-president of the Aluminum Company of America, said after his talk that he thought Mr. Truman "recognizes the conference to be a most serious one and we who represent management made it clear we recognize that collective bargaining must be carried on in true fashion, not permissible during the war."

Callers From New York.

Accompanying Anderson were Edward P. Palmer of New York, president of Senior & Palmer, Inc.; Fred Smith of Simon & Schuster Publishing Company of New York, who will direct public information at the conference, and W. J. Grede, president of Grede Foundries, Inc., Milwaukee.

Ira Mosher, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, told newsmen after his White House visit that his group had "assured the President of their keen interest in doing what they can and going into the conference with an open mind and sincere hope it will produce real results."

Mosher declined to comment on Mr. Truman's wage-price policy speech of Tuesday night.

ACTION BY NMU IS THREATENED

Wants More Ships Assigned To Return Troops Home

New York, Nov. 1 (AP)—The National Maritime Union (CIO) said today it had set December 1 as the deadline when it would recommend that the union's members refuse to man ships not assigned to return troops from overseas.

In a statement issued after an emergency meeting of the union's national officers, the NMU said:

"Unless by December 1 the authorities in Washington, including the joint chiefs of staff and the War Shipping Administration, allocate increased tonnage to speed our troops home it will be our patriotic duty to recommend that no crews be provided to commercial vessels.

"Private Gains For A Few"

"Without such a guarantee to our troops, we are confident that the seamen will refuse to help promote private gains for a few while hundreds of thousands of our heroic fighting men remain stranded in Europe and the Pacific.

The union also issued a letter which it said was addressed to Frederick N. Myers, vice president, and was signed by 32 officers and men stationed at Le Havre, France.

The letter, the NMU said, read:

"We have been hearing all sorts of excuses for the lack of shipping which will bring us back to the States and home. They have accused the war with Japan, the end of war, lack of ships, the weather, the British, the trade unions, redeployment, reconversion and even officers' animal pets.

"We greet with considerable satisfaction and appreciation your promise to expose the real SNAFU by providing crews only for troop transports."

Includes Farm Labor Costs

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP)—Farm state representatives tied a demand for increased agricultural prices today to President Truman's call for an increase in industrial wages.

Led by Representative Pace (D., Ga.), they sought to rewrite the farm parity formula so as to include the cost of farm labor in the "fair-price" computation.

Parity is deemed to be a farm commodity price which will give farmers a purchasing power equivalent to a former favorable period, usually 1909-1914.

31 P.C. Increase Indicated

Pace said it is as necessary to maintain the purchasing power of the farmer as that of the laborer.

The formula revision, agriculture experts said, would boost many parity prices by about 31 per cent. For example, the Government under present conditions would consider 28.4 cents a pound a "fair price" for cotton instead of the present 21.7 cents parity level; $2.02 a bushel for wheat instead of $1.55, and $1.47 a bushel for corn instead of $1.12.

The House has approved the partiy change twice in recent years but the Senate has not gone along.

Formal Report Scheduled

With the unanimous approval of the House Agriculture Committee, Pace expected to present the legislation to the House in a formal report again today. He said he did not know when the House would vote on it.

Pace said that possibly labor costs were not included in the original parity formula because in 1909-14 farm labor outlays were considered by experts to be of little consequence. But farm wages now are three and a half times what they were before the war, he declared.

The Government supports parity prices through various commodity loan or purchase programs.

New Parity Plea

BOWLES TO KEEP PRICE LID DOWN

Commerce Department Says Industry Can Grant 10% Pay Boost.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—(AP) Chester Bowles tonight announced a policy of keeping the price lid on, while a Commerce department report held that industry could grant 10 per cent higher pay next year without forcing prices up.

The OPA Administrator gave the country its first official picture of how President Truman's new policy—permitting price boosts in some cases to provide needed wage rises—would work out in practice.

Bowles' conclusion: Price increases will be "negligible."

These other developments kept the wage-price pot boiling:

Secretary of Commerce Wallace told reporters the administration feared "another 1932"—a depression lasting several years—if corporate profits continue to rise and wage rates and farm income continue to decline.

The Administration does not intend to ask Congress for price ceilings on houses at this time, Reconversion Director John W. Snyder announced.

Bowles told newsmen that retail price ceilings for all makes of new autos will be announced in four or five days. No change in plans to price them at or near 1942 prices was indicated.

Rep. De Lacy (D-Wash.), in a House speech, urged 48 hours' pay for a 40-hour work week for government employes, to "lead the way" for wage boosts in private industry. Unless wages are raised, factory workers will have 10 per cent less purchasing power next year than in 1941, he said.

The Commerce department report, prepared by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, stated that "present cost-price relationships are such throughout industry that a basic wage increase is possible without raising prices."

In automobiles, said the study, wages can be increased as much as 25 per cent within the next two years while profits still might run three times larger than in the 1936-39 period.

"For 1946 a general increase of 10 per cent is possible," the report continued, with reference to all industry.

"Such an average would mean a rise of 15 per cent or a little more in the manufacturing industries. Some industries could afford more, some not so much."

The auto industry, it was stated, is among the better situated groups. "Fifteen per cent can be granted without adverse results in the first postwar year of restricted operations, and a further increase of 10 per cent can be given for 1947 when production will have reached peak rates."

Of industry generally the Bureau said: "A much higher wage income will have to be secured if demand is to be sufficient to produce full employment by 1948."

The report was not released for publication, but its contents "leaked" in much the same manner that a similar report prepared by Snyder's staff in the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion became public last week. De Lacy used the OWMR report in his House speech.

The Commerce bureau said its estimate of automobile industry profits three times larger than those of 1936-39 was based on expected sales 2 1-2 times as large.

Prices at the 1942 level, it was held, would yield profits even at low volume of output and the high costs of wages and materials assumed for 1947. Profits would be made even at a production rate of 2,000,000 cars annually, about half the pre-war volume, it was stated.

To "Hold the Line"

Bowles, in a statement, said the wage-price policy laid down by Mr. Truman Tuesday was "one more indication of our determination to hold the price line against inflation."

"Some additional price increases may be required," he conceded, under the new White House order, which permits wage increases regardless of the effect on prices in these three cases:

First, where average straight time hourly earnings have not kept pace with the increase in the cost of living since January, 1941; second, to correct certain wage inequities within localities or industries; third, where necessary to lure manpower into industries essential to reconversion.

JUNE 30 DATE SET FOR USES

Truman Accepts It As Deadline For Transfer To States

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP)—The Administration offered today to accept next June 30 as an "absolute deadline" for returning the United States Employment Service to control of the states.

Informed sources said Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach made this proposal at a closed meeting of a Senate Appropriations Subcommittee in an effort to stave off a still earlier date.

President Truman, only last Tuesday night, criticized moves in Congress to turn the Employment Service back quickly to the states. He asked another year of control by the federal government, which took the service over January 1, 1942, as a wartime measure. Altogether the Administration had made a concession of a year or more. In his September 6 message to Congress Mr. Truman suggested that USES stay in federal hands at least until June 30, 1947.

Substitute oFr "Rider"

Schwellenbach was reported to have given the committee a suggested draft of language calling for return to the States by June 30 "or such earlier date as he (the Secretary of Labor) may deem feasible."

A bill before the committee providing for withdrawal of $52,000,000,000 in war appropriations includes a House-approved "rider" which directs a return to state controll within 30 days.

Schwellenbach asked that his proposal be submitted for the "rider."

A majority of the committee was represented as indicating belief the service should go back to the States much earlier than June 30 and hence to be unwilling to accept Schwellenbach's proposition.

McKellar's Instruction

Senator Kenneth McKellar (D., Tenn.), chairman, instructed that representatives of the Labor Department talk things over with Stanley Rector, representing the Association of State Employment Services, to determine what "area of agreement" there is.

Pending those conferences, the subcommittee postponed a decision.

Rector, who is with Wisconsin's employment service, said 46 States have advised that they can take over the service within 30 days. States not heard from were Louisana and Rhode Island.

Prior to the meeting, McKellar told a reporter that the only issue is the time when the service shall be returned to the States. He expresesd doubt that the transfer is feasible within 30 days.

Established In 1933

Originally established in 1933, the Employment Service was operated by the States, with aid of federal funds, until 1942.

When the Federal Government took it over, it was argued that wartime interstate migrations of workers necessitated centralized control. President Truman's contention is that for months to come there will still be such migrations.

During federal operation, the number of employés increased from 9,000 to 23,000 and the future employment of many of them is involved in the issue of Federal or State control.

Personnel Consideration

In most instances, the State pay scale for employment service workers is lower than what the Federal Government has been paying.

While many of the new employés have been qualified under State civil service or merit systems, Rector said about 28 per cent have not. He said the States are willing to include in any transfer legislation a provision for opportunity for these employés to qualify.

Carrier Enterprise To Become Shrine

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP)—The heroic aircraft carrier Enterprise, too old to fight any more, will become a national shrine, the Navy disclosed today.

President Truman has approved a proposal from Navy Secretary Forrestal to preserve the "fightingest ship of the fleet," affectionately known to her crew as the "Big E" and the "Gallopin' Ghost of the Oahu Coast."

Details concerning her preservation, including where she will be berthed, have not been completed.

Forrestal's Plea

President Truman authorized the preservation by approving Forrestal's letter which read:

"Time has accomplished what the enemy failed to do in four years of desperate and costly effort; the U.S.S. Enterprise must be taken out of service because modern planes cannot be flown in combat from her flight deck.

"This ship was the heart of the fleet when the war was going badly for us. The names of more than a score of battles are in her record of service and she has survived many attacks.

First Attack In Marshalls

"She made our first attack on Japanese territory at the Marshalls and Gilberts in February of 1942. She flew the flag of Admiral (then rear admiral) Spruance at the battle of Midway, one of the decisive battles of history; and after the Hornet was lost in the battle of the Santa Cruz Islands, the Enterprise was our only carrier in the Pacific.

"Her crew proudly proclaimed that it was the Enterprise against Japan and steamed into the battle of Guadalcanal. Her squadrons shot down nearly a thousand of the enemy's planes and sank 74 of his ships.

Men Love Her

"The men who have fought (with) her love this ship. It would grieve me to put my name to the documents which would consign her to be broken up for scrap.

"I believe, Mr. President, that the Enterprise should be retained permanently at some proper place as a visible symbol of American valor and tenacity in war, and of our will to fight all enemies who assail us, and I request your approval of this proposal."

TO PERPETUATE F.D.R. IDEALS

Roosevelt Foundation Set Up As A 'Living Memorial'

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP) — Men long associated with the late Franklin D. Roosevelt established a foundation today dedicated to the perpetuation of his ideals.

George E. Allen, Washington insurance man and former District of Columbia commissioner, was elected as first president. In a statement he outlined plans for a "living memorial" to carry on the "broad humanitarian purposes" which he attributed to Roosevelt:

"First, to bring security and a decent standard of living to all of his countrymen.

"Second, to overthrow nazism and fascism all over the world, and to bring about lasting world peace under the principles of the Atlantic Charter and the Four Freedoms."

Widow As Honorary Chairman

President Truman was asked to serve as honorary president and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt as honorary chairman at a meeting held in the White House where Roosevelt served so long.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., a member of the executive committee of the foundation, remained with other members of the group for luncheon at the White House.

He is on terminal leave from the Navy and has been interested in obtaining temporary housing in New York for returning veterans.

Campaign For Funds Planned

Allen said letters and telegrams had been received from all over the country containing various suggestions as to the most appropriate memorial to the late President. He said the foundation will select from among them the projects which would most effectively carry on the Roosevelt "humanitarian purposes."

A campaign will start soon, he said, to obtain funds. It will not overlap or interfere with "the noble work of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis."

Serving with Allen as officers will be four vice presidents—Cordell Hull, former Secretary of State; Miss Frances Perkins, former Labor Secretary; Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Commerce, and Marshall Field, Chicago publisher. Secretary-treasurer will be Joseph E. Davies, former Ambassador to Russia.

held up under the test, however, by a vote of 188 to 168.

The Administration, led by Majority leader McCormick of Massachusetts protested the action. He said it was a penalty on the starving women and children of Europe and "people can't live on freedom of the press."

The Democrats however, in the test, lost the votes of such southerners as Rankin of Mississippi, Herbert of Louisiana, an ex-city editor, and Manasco of Alabama.

McCormick asserted that withholding of UNRRA funds for such a reason might promote communism and anarchy in distressed nations where government would refuse to agree to such a requirement.

MARTIN APPOINTED TO CROWLEY POST

Washington, Nov. 1 (A. P.).—President Truman today nominated William McChesney Martin Jr., former president of the New York Stock Exchange to be a member of the board of directors of the Export-Import Bank.

The President told his news conference yesterday that he would decide during the day on the vacancy on the bank's board. Leo T. Crowley had served as chairman of the bank by virtue of his post as Foreign Economics Administrator, a post he resigned some weeks ago. The President had told the newsmen that Crowley was being considered for membership on the board.

Martin left the presidency of the New York Stock Exchange to enter the service during the war.

White House aids said later they understood Crowley is still under consideration for appointment as a member of the board, under legislation providing for five directors including the Secretary of State and the FEA administrator. They said there was one Republican and one Democratic post yet to be filled. The President will designate a chairman, they said.

Freedom of News Amendment Is Added to UNRRA Measure

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—(AP) The House today voted a new UNRRA appropriation but tagged onto it a requirement that any nation benefitting from the funds must provide U. S. reporters free access to news about UNRRA.

Republicans, aided by southern Democrats, pushed through the news freedom amendment over protests of administration leaders.

Passage of the $550,000,000 contribution to the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration was itself routine. The vote, sending the bill to the Senate, was 339 to 17.

But before this was done, the House engaged in a sharp duel over the news freedom amendment by Reps. Dirksen (R-Ill) and Brown (R-Ohio).

The amendment says any nation receiving U.S. funds from UNRRA must allow American newspapers and radio to function without interference in getting any news pertaining to UNRRA.

It was rejected first by the appropriations committee. Then after hours of debate, the House tentatively accepted the amendment this afternoon, 158 to 147.

This was subject to a roll call, immediately demanded by the Administration forces. The provision

Drafted Lawyer Sues Navy

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 1 (AP)—A Benton (Ark.) attorney who served in the navy almost three years as a yeoman has filed suit in United States District Court here asking $6,500 as the difference between what he was paid by the navy and the value he placed on his service in Hawaii.

The suit was filed by Attorney Lee Ward under the Tucker Act.

He alleged that his services were worth $8,000 a year, base pay of a four-star admiral of the fleet.

Quotes Recruiter

Ward said a Navy recruiting officer assured him upon enlistment that the Navy did not need his services in a legal capacity, but did have urgent need for men experienced in clerical and secretarial work.

If the Navy needed ihs legal qualifications at some future date, it would be willing to pay in proportion to the value of the services, Ward said he was told.

Searched 300 Titles

The attorney said he was assigned to the real-estate branch where he made more than 300 separate land title examinations, covering land valued at more than $5,000,000.

He seeks a total compensation of $10,000 for the time he spent in the real-estate division, deducting the $3,500 paid him by the Navy as a yeoman.

16 PW's And GI Die In Wreck

Blissfield, Mich., Nov. 1 (AP)—Sixteen German prisoners of war and an American soldier were fatally injured when a train smashed into their truck at a crossing near here yesterday.

Pfc. Edward Loughrin, of Cadillac, military policeman in charge of the group, died this morning in an Adrian Hospital. Three prisoners were reported in serious condition at the hospital.

A New York Central passenger train demolished the truck, striking it broadside and strewing bodies of victims and wreckage 300 feet along the right-of-way. The men were returning to the Blissfield POW camp after work on a beet farm.

Mass Funeral Set

Mass funeral services will be held at Fort Custer Saturday. Both Catholic and Protestant rituals will be used. The German imperial religious service will be included.

Army officers withheld names of the Nazi dead and injured pending further investigation.

Pascal Martinez, 42, of Blissfield, owner of the farm on which the Germans worked and driver of the truck, was on the danger list.

SEEK TO BROADEN HAWAIIAN INQUIRY

Washington, Nov. 1 (A. P.).—The Republican minority on the Pearl Harbor Committee sought modification today of a presidential order they contend may prevent their opening some lines of inquiry.

Under his wartime powers as commander in chief, the President has ruled it will require a committee majority request to obtain Army and Navy records or call witnesses from the armed forces.

The Democrats have six members on the joint Senate-House group, the Republicans four.

At a committee meeting today the Republicans are expected to ask that the President's order be changed to permit them to see such evidence as an unpublished portion of a naval inquiry board's report on Pearl Harbor.

Committee Calls Off Trip To Pearl Harbor

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP)—A Senate-House committee today called off a scheduled inspection trip to Pearl Harbor in connection with its investigation of the Japanese attack on the naval base in 1941.

Chairman Barkley (D., Ky.) said members decided it would "not be very constructive" for them to make the trip, at least until some hearings are held here. The group had intended to leave Monday.

Members reported some progress was made, meanwhile, toward an agreement on procedure. Republicans have complained that the Democratic majority would have a strangle hold under an order that records would be made available only on the order of a committee majority.

Nimitz Predicted As King Successor

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP)—The Army and Navy Bulletin, in its issue appearing tomorrow, predicts the appointment of Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz as chief of naval operations, succeeding Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King.

The Navy declined any comment on the report. Any such appointment, the Navy said, is a Presidential prerogative.

The bulletin, an unofficial publication devoted to the interests of Army and Navy personnel, both active and reserve, based its forecast on "high congressional sources." the paper said there was a concerted demand for Nimitz's appointment because "the people want him."

The paper added, however, that support for Nimitz ran counter to the reported desire of Secretary Forrestal for the choice of Admiral R. S. Edwards, now deputy chief of naval operations, and against that of Admiral King who was reported supporting Admiral Rayomnd A. Spruance, now commander of the 5th Fleet.

The paper said the principal argument raised against Nimitz was the fact that he would be eligible for retirement in another two years.

NAVY PLANE CRASH KILLS CREW OF 14

Page, Okla., Nov. 1 (A. P.).—The burned and mangled bodies of fourteen persons killed in the crash of a Navy transport plane on Rich Mountain near here yesterday were being removed from the isolated area today, United States Forestry Service officials said.

[In Washington, the Navy identified two of the victims as Lieut. (j. g.) Joseph Casella, 2249 Webster avenue, the Bronx, and Lieut. (j. g.) John L. Nardi, 3802 Avenue P, Brooklyn.]

The entire crew was killed when the transport plunged into the mountain near the Arkansas-Oklahoma border and burst into flames, scattering the bodies over a wide area. A heavy fog was believed to have caused the crash about noon yesterday. The plane, reported to be based at the Clinton, Okla., naval air base, was en route to Jackson, Miss.

CASUALTY LIST

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—(AP) The nation's war casualty toll dropped 409 today to a total of 1,068,794, chiefly because of the return of missing men.

The Army reported 922,655 casualties and the Navy 146,139.

Army casualties and those reported a week ago: killed 217,569 and 216,966; wounded 571,442 and 571,330; missing 18,311 and 18,565; prisoners 115,333 and 115,784.

The Navy casualties: killed 56,261 and 55,896; wounded 80,260 and 80,256; missing 8,908 and 9,287; prisoners 710 and 1,119.

Of the Army prisoners, 107,444 have been exchanged or returned to military control.

Chandler's Resignation As Senator Is Accepted

But Governor Willis Makes no Mention of Successor

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 1 (AP).—Governor Simeon Willis formally accepted Senator A. B. Chandler's resignation today, but declined to give any information as to his successor.

Noting in his formal reply to the Democratic Senator that the Senator was quitting his post, effective today, in order to devote full time to his duties as baseball commissioner, the Republican Governor wrote, "I am sure that all Kentuckians join me in wishing you happiness in your new field of endeavor."

The Vehicles Sent Allies

Boston, Nov. 1 (AP)—Allied nations received more American tanks and trucks than the United States overseas forces, according to Col. H. B. Sheets, commander of the Boston Ordnance District.

Sheets said statistics showed that Russian, English and Chinese troops received 785,939 vehicles of all kinds, compared with 654,085 shipped to American supply depots abroad.

He said Russia received 459,481, the United Kingdom 298,110 and China 28,348.

More than 358,000 1½ and 2½ ton trucks were shipped to Russia—65,000 more than American troops received.

Sheets said that nearly 2,000 more tanks were shipped to Britain than to our own forces in the Pacific, Mediterranean and European theaters.

Sugar Trade Talks At Capital Postponed

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP)—Cuban and American officials agreed today to postpone negotiations for the United States purchase of Cuban 1946 sugar crop until December 4, a source close to their meetings said tonight.

Conferees had been discussing the 1946 contract since October 17. United States officials were reported to have rejected conditions proposed by the Cuban negotiators.

Sugar trade experts expressed belief that the suspension was agreed upon because:

The United States delegates have declined to commit this country to a price for the 1947 and 1948 crops equal to the 3.675 cents a pound offered for the 1946 crop.

The Cubans are asking that any preferential trade treatment extended to the Philippines when they get their independence also be granted to Cuba. United States officials ha vbeeen reported as saying that this is a matter for Congress.

Treasury Probes Aides In War-Job Contracting

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP)—Treasury officials said today they are investigating three employés of the procurement division to determine whether they accepted gratuities from war contractors.

The officials said they "got wind" of a report that the employés had accepted payment for hotel bills, dinners and other expenses in violation of a Federal law. No large sums of money are involved, the Treasury men said, nor has evidence been uncovered to indicate the Government was defrauded.

The Treasury officials said the gratuities allegedly were paid in an effort to influence the awarding of war contracts.

Federal employes are not permitted to accept favors from anyone doing business with the Government.

Truman Would Accept Job Bill Compromise

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—(AP) President Truman let Congress know today that he is willing to back up a little in his idea of "full employment" legislation.

House Majority Leader McCormack of Massachusetts made public a letter from the White House dated Oct. 29, the day before the speech in which Mr. Truman castigated the lawmakers for bottling the measure.

In that letter, Mr. Truman said he wanted a bill passed but he wasn't insisting on "any specific bill."

"I refer," he wrote in the "Dear John" missive, "to the generla purposes and principles of full employment legislation."

Demobilization Seen As Occupational Snag

San Francisco, Nov. 1 (AP)—John J. McCloy, Assistant Secretary of War, returning from a tour of former war fronts, said today: "Demobilization is greatly complicating occupational work in the field."

"We are losing trained men while much work remains to be done," he declared.

He added that he had no solution to offer now to that phase of the problem. His full report, however, will be made to Secretary of War Patterson. McCloy and his party of aides arrived here by Army air transport from Honolulu.

The trip concludes the next to last leg of a round-the-world hop which started from Washington, D.C., last September 28. He is scheduled to leave for the Capital by plane tomorrow.

Mrs. Roosevelt Says U.S. Must Lead World

Boston, Nov. 1 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt says the United States must lead the world because there is no one else to do the job.

She told the Massachusetts Citizens Political Action Committee last night that it was "not a job of government alone or of leadership, but a task in which every American citizen must take part."

Mrs. Roosevelt said that "devastated Europe and Asia looks to us for hope, generosity and understanding."

500 Students Protest Permit To Gerald Smith

Los Angeles, Nov. 1 (AP)—Five hundred high-school students, deserting their classrooms, demonstrated today before the board of education offices, protesting the board's granting a second permit to Gerald L. K. Smith for use of Polytechnic High School auditorium Saturday.

Smith, former America First leader, was denounced as a "Fascist" on banners carried by the shouting youths. Other signs read: "Down with the school board."

After three student leaders conferred with the superintendent of schools, Vierling Kersey, the students held a mass meeting in Roosevelt High School auditorium.

Government Deferments End

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP). President Truman today made public a report that occupational draft deferments for 83,681 government employees under thirty were wiped out after a special committee took over deferments in February, 1944. The report, by Edgar F. Puryear, chairman of the review committee on deferment of government employees, was issued along with a letter from Mr. Truman praising the committee for keeping down the number of deferments.

Two Labor Relations Officials Quit Posts

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP)—Chairman J. A. Krug today announced the resignations of two labor relations vice chairmen of the War Production Board and praised the contribution of labor in government during the war.

The resignations were those of Joseph D. Keenan, vice chairman for labor production, and Clinton S. Golden, vice chairman for manpower requirements.

William H. Davis Named N.Y. Strike Arbitrator

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP)—William H. Davis, former head of the War Labor Board, tonight was appointed to arbitrate the New York Longshoremen's contract dispute, which resulted in a long waterfront tieup in October.

Davis, now a New York tax attorney, was appointed by Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach and the WLB.

The appointment of an arbitrator was requested by the New York Shipping Association and the International Longshoremen's Association (AFL) after contract negotiations reached an impasse.

WAR BRIDES, BABIES LAND IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Nov. 1—(AP) War brides and their babies stole the show from 8,100 overseas veterans today as the Coast Guard-manned transport Wakefield docked at Commonwealth pier.

Wide-eyed with excitement and chatting happily in their native tongues, 26 war brides openly expressed their happiness and gratitude in reaching the homeland of their soldier-bridegrooms.

The babies were not so impressed and bawled lustily as they were taken to the shelter of an im promptu nursery set up by the Re Cross.

End Of Year Deadline Set For Redeployment

New York, Nov. 1 (AP)—All troops except occupation forces should be home from Italy, Austria and Germany by the end of next month, Charles Kalloch, director of the Mediterranean area for the War Shipping Administration, said today.

Kalloch, departing by plane for Europe, said it was the aim of authorities to complete redeployment from those countries by December 31 but added it depended upon how the chiefs of staff arranged their redeployment program for other areas.

He said that, with the capacity of regular troop-carrying ships increased 30 per cent and other naval craft now being employed for transport purposes, it was hoped there would be sufficient transportation facilities for the contemplated plan.

SECOND NIGHT LEAD HITLER

BY RICHARD R.KASISCHKE

BERLIN, NOV. 1-(AP)-BRITISH INTELLIGENCE OFFICERS SAID TODAY THAT IT HAD BEEN PROVED "AS CONCLUSIVELY AS POSSIBLE WITHOUT THE BODIES" THAT ADOLF HITLER AND EVA BRAUN, HIS MISTRESS AND LAST-MINUTE BRIDE, COMMITTED SUICIDE AMIDST THE FLAMING RUINS OF BERLIN LAST APRIL 30.

IN ANOTHER REPORT RELEASED BY AMERICAN OFFICIALS, THREE GERMAN DOCTORS PICTURED HITLER AS A TREMBLING FUEHRER WHO AGED RAPIDLY IN THE LAST MONTHS OF THE WAR. THE DOCTORS SAID THAT AFTER THE BOMB ATTEMPT ON HIS LIFE JULY 20, 1944 HIS ACTIONS BECAME "LESS INTELLIGIBLE."

ALTHOUGH NO ONE ACTUALLY WITNESSED THE DEATHS OF HITLER AND HIS MISTRESS THE BRITISH REPORT SAID "THEY BOTH COMMITTED SUICIDE--HITLER BY SHOOTING HIMSELF APPARENTLY THROUGH THE MOUTH; EVA BRAUN APPARENTLY BY TAKING POISON, ALTHOUGH SHE WAS SUPPLIED WITH A REVOLVER."

AFTER THE SUICIDES, THE REPORT ADDED, THE BODIES WERE TAKEN INTO A GARDEN JUST OUTSIDE THE REICHSCHANCELLERY AIR RAID SHELTER BY PROPAGANDA MINISTER PAUL JOSEPH GOEBBELS, MARTIN BORMANN, HITLER'S DEPUTY, AND OTHERS, DRENCHED WITH GASOLINE AND BURNED.

THE BRITISH REPORT--WHICH POSSIBLY MAY BE THE LAST OFFICIAL INVESTIGATION OF THE FACTS SURROUNDING HITLER'S FINAL DAYS IN BERLIN--SAID THAT HITLER'S ORIGINAL INTENTIONS WERE TO FLY TO BERCHTESGADEN ON APRIL 20 "AND FROM THERE CONTINUE THE FIGHT."

"WHEN THAT TIME CAME," THE REPORT SAID, "HE POSTPONED HIS DEPARTURE. ON APRIL 22 AT ABOUT 4:30 P.M. HE HELD A STAFF CONFERENCE AT WHICH HE MADE IT CLEAR TO HIS ADVISERS THAT HE CONSIDERED THE WAR LOST AND THAT HE INTENDED TO REMAIN IN BERLIN TO THE LAST--IF BERLIN FELL HE WOULD DIE THERE."

FROM THAT TIME ON HE NEVER LEFT THE AIRRAID SHELTER ALIVE.

"ON THE EVENING OF APRIL 29," THE REPORT CONTINUED, "HITLER MARRIED EVA BRAUN, THE CEREMONY BEING PERFORMED BY AN OFFICIAL FROM THE PROPAGANDA MINISTRY IN A SMALL CONFERENCE ROOM IN THE BUNKER. X X X

"AFTER THE CEREMONY THE NEWLY MARRIED COUPLE SHOOK HANDS WITH ALL PRESENT AND RETIRED TO THEIR SUITE X X X.

"AT ABOUT 2:30 A.M., ON APRIL 30 HITLER SAID GOODBYE TO ABOUT 20 PEOPLE. ON THE SAME DAY ABOUT 2:30 P.M., THOUGH THE EXACT TIME IS UNCERTAIN, ORDERS WERE SENT TO THE TRANSPORT OFFICE REQUIRING IMMEDIATE DISPATCH TO THE BUNKER OF 200 LITERS OF PETROL. X X X

"AT THE SAME TIME HITLER AND MISS BRAUN MADE THEIR LAST APPEARANCE ALIVE. THEY WENT AROUND THE BUNKER AND SHOOK HANDS WITH THEIR IMMEDIATE ENTOURAGE AND RETIRED TO THEIR OWN APARTMENT WHEREBY THEY BOTH COMMITTED SUICIDE. X X X

"AFTER THE SUICIDES THE BODIES WERE TAKEN INTO THE GARDEN JUST OUTSIDE THE BUNKER BY GOEBBELS, BORMANN AND ONE OR TWO OTHERS, HITLER WRAPPED IN A BLANKET, PRESUMABLY BECAUSE HE WAS BLOODY."

THE REPORT SAID THE BODIES WERE PLACED SIDE BY SIDE AND DRENCHED WITH GASOLINE. BECAUSE OF THE RUSSIAN SHELLING THE FUNERAL PARTY WITHDREW TO THE ENTRANCE OF THE SHELTER AND THREW LIGHTED RAGS ON THE BODIES "WHICH AT ONCE CAUGHT FIRE."

"THE PARTY THEN STOOD AT ATTENTION, GAVE THE HITLER SALUTE AND RETIRED."

THE REPORT ENDED BY SAYING THAT "THERE IS NO EVIDENCE WHATEVER TO SUPPORT ANY OF THE THEORIES WHICH HAVE BEEN CIRCULATED AND WHICH PRESUPPOSE HITLER IS STILL ALIVE. ALL SUCH STORIES WHICH HAVE BEEN REPORTED HAVE BEEN INVESTIGATED AND FOUND QUITE BASELESS X X X."

THE BRITISH INTELLIGENCE OFFICER WHO DIRECTED THE INVESTIGATION SAID THAT THE CONCLUSION HITLER WAS DEAD WAS BASED ON EYEWITNESS ACCOUNTS OBTAINED FROM THOSE IN THE SHELTER AND THAT WHILE THE INVESTIGATIONS WERE CONTINUING, ANY ADDITIONAL WITNESSES QUESTIONED "PROBABLY ONLY WILL SUPPORT THE EVIDENCE ALREADY ACQUIRED."

THE INTELLIGENCE OFFICER ADDED, HOWEVER, THAT THE RUSSIANS, WHO DUG UP 160 BODIES FROM THE CHANCELLERY GARDEN WITHOUT FINDING ANY TRACE OF HITLER, STILL WERE "SLIGHTLY SKEPTICAL" ABOUT HIS BEING DEAD.

FRANKFURT, GERMANY, NOV.1-(AP)-A POLL OF PROMINENT GERMANS IN VIRTUALLY ALL SECTIONS OF THE CONQUERED REICH INDICATED TODAY THAT, ALTHOUGH THE PEOPLE AS A WHOLE APPROVE THE NUERNBERG WAR CRIMINAL TRIALS, THEIR ATTITUDE TOWARD PUNISHMENT OF STAFF OFFICERS IS LUKEWARM AND THEY WISH A GERMAN JUDGE WAS SITTING ON THE COURT.

THESE THREE MAIN POINTS WERE BROUGHT OUT WHEN SIX ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENTS QUESTIONED GERMANS IN SCATTERED COMMUNITIES --AMONG THEM BERLIN, HAMBURG AND MUNICH. AMONG THOSE POLLED WERE PASTOR MARTIN NIEMOELLER, MINISTER-PRESIDENT WILHELM HOEGNER OF BAVARIA, NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS, STEAMSHIP LINE EXECUTIVES AND SCORES OF ORDINARY GERMAN CITIZENS.

MANY WERE APATHETIC TO THE WHOLE QUESTION. SOME CRITICIZED THE TRIALS AS TOO SLOW, SAYING THAT IF THE NAZIS HAD WON THERE WOULD BE SHOOTINGS, NOT TRIALS. THEY ADVISED THE ALLIES TO FOLLOW A SIMILAR COURSE. OTHERS, SUCH AS NIEMOELLER, PROTESTED AGAINST BLANKET INDICTMENT OF THE SS. ONE ELDERLY BANKER DECLARED THE TRIALS WERE JUST ALLIED PROPAGANDA AND ADDED: "OTHER POWERS WERE AFRAID BECAUSE HITLER'S NATIONAL SOCIALISM WAS TOO SUCCESSFUL."

THE AVERAGE GERMAN SEEMED TO HAVE LITTLE CONCEPTION OF THE ALLIED IDEA OF JUSTICE OR WHAT THE TRIALS ARE INTENDED TO ACCOMPLISH. THEY WERE INTERESTED IN SEEING NAZI LEADERS WIPED OUT ONLY BECAUSE THEY BLAME THEM FOR THEIR PRESENT MISFORTUNE--NOT FOR MORWL REASONS, BUT CHIEFLY BECAUSE THEY WERE ON

THEY BLAME THEM FOR THEIR PRESENT MISFORTUNE--NOT FOR MORAL REASONS, BUT CHIEFLY BECAUSE THEY WERE ON THE LOSING SIDE.

THE GERMANS SOUGHT IN MANY CASES TO DIFFERENTIATE BETWEEN NAZIS AND MILITARY MEN, EXHIBITING A STRONG FEELING THAT THE SOLDIERS WERE JUST THAT, HAD DONE THEIR BEST, AND DID NOT DESERVE PUNISHMENT IN THE SAME CATEGORY AS THE NAZIS.

PARENTHETICALLY, MANY ALLIED MILITARY MEN IN THIS THEATER ALSO EXPRESS OPPOSITION TO THE TRIAL OF GERMAN SOLDIERS EXCEPT IN ATROCITY CASES OR MISCONDUCT BY OFFICERS.

A142

ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENTS IN BERLIN HEARD WIDESPREAD EXPRESSIONS OF FEELING THAT BLANKET CONVICTION OF THE SS AND GERMAN GENERAL STAFF MIGHT DO A GREAT INJUSTICE TO MANY THOUSANDS OF GERMANS.

NIEMOELLER SAID: "THERE SHOULD BE DIFFERENTIATION MADE BETWEEN THE GUILT OF A GENERAL WHO MERELY EXERCISED MILITARY STRATEGY UNDER ORDERS AND THE GENERAL WHO INSTIGATED, INSPIRED OR INCITED HITLER'S AGGRESSIONS. MANY YOUNG GERMANS WHO WERE DRAFTED MERELY AS SOLDIERS WERE THROWN INTO SS AND SA UNITS WITHOUT THEIR CONSENT."

IT IS A MATTER OF FACT THAT THE NUERNBERG INDICTMENT ACCUSES SPECIFIC CATEGORIES OF SUPREME COMMAND OFFICERS AND NOT THE GENERAL STAFF AS A UNIT, WHILE THE SS AND SA WERE INDICTED AS ORGANIZATIONS. EACH MEMBER OF THESE GROUPS WILL HAVE HEARINGS TO DETERMINE TO WHAT EXTENT HE WAS AN ACTIVE PARTICIPANT.

HANS FALLADA, AUTHOR OF "LITTLE MAN, WHAT NOW?", WHO WAS JAILED FOR SIX MONTHS LAST YEAR AS A "SPIRITUAL CRIMINAL," SAID: "WHATEVER PUNISHMENT THOSE THUGS RECEIVE WILL BE TOO GOOD FOR THEM. ANTI-NAZIS BELIEVE IT WOULD HAVE BEEN BETTER FOR GERMANY IF THEY HAD BEEN KILLED LONG AGO. WE ARE NOT INTERESTED IN TECHNICAL MATTERS OF LEGAL PROCEDURE."

AN ELDERLY NAZI BANKER NOW DRIVING A JEEP FOR THE ALLIES SAID: "OH, IT'S PROPAGANDA BY THE ALLIED POWERS. THAT CRIMINAL ACTS WERE COMMITTED BY THE NAZIS IS ONE THING. THAT THE CAUSE OF WAR WAS ALL ON THEIR SHOULDERS IS DIFFERENT. OTHER POWERS WERE AFRAID HITLER'S NATIONAL SOCIALISM WAS TOO SUCCESSFUL. AMERICANS OUGHT TO CONSIDER WHAT TRYING TO ESTABLISH A PRINCIPLE OF WAR GUILT NOW WOULD MEAN IF AMERICA AND RUSSIA FIGHT EACH OTHER IN THE FUTURE."

IN BATTERED HAMBURG, THE POPULATION APPEARS A LITTLE MORE ANXIOUS THAT THE TRIALS GO ON AND THE DEFENDANTS BE EXECUTED.

"HANG THE WHOLE LOT! HANG THEM WITHOUT TECHNICALITIES OF TRIAL," SAID ROBERT LACHMANN, PREWAR EXPORT LEADER WHO WAS IMPRISONED BY THE NAZIS IN 1938 ON POLITICAL CHARGES.

MAX BADE, DIRECTOR OF THE GERMAN AFRIKA STEAMSHIP LINE, COMMENTED: "THE GERMANS WOULD BE MORE IMPRESSED IF AN IMPARTIAL GERMAN JUDGE COULD HAVE A PART IN TRYING THE ACCUSED. THE COURT MIGHT GIVE THEM HARDER PUNISHMENT."

GERHARD BUCERIUS, A HAMBURG ATTORNEY, WAS ONE OF THE FEW WHO OPPOSED A GERMAN JUDGE, SAYING IT WOULD BE IMPOSSIBLE TO FIND ONE WHO WAS IMPARTIAL.

MANY GERMANS WERE INDIFFERENT AND CYNICAL, SAYING: "THE ONLY COUNTRY GUILTY OF WAR CRIMES IS THE ONE WHICH LOST THE WAR."

IN BAVARIA, MINISTER-PRESIDENT WILHELM HOEGNER SAID: "THE ACCUSED HAVE COMMITTED SERIOUS CRIMES PUNISHABLE EVERYWHERE IN THE WORLD."

HE SAID THE PROCEEDINGS WOULD BE VALUABLE DEMONSTRATIONS OF DEMOCRATIC METHODS.

PAUL SCHMIDT, MAYOR OF BAD WIESSE, APPROVED THE TRIAL, BUT SUGGESTED A GERMAN JUDGE SHOULD SIT ON THE COURT. HE EXPRESSED DOUBT THAT ANY DEFENDANT COULD PROVE HIMSELF INNOCENT.

MANY OF THE GERMANS INTERVIEWED OBVIOUSLY HOPED THE TRIALS WOULD CONVINCE THE WORLD THAT THE GERMAN PEOPLE WERE MISLED BY THEIR RULERS AND SHIFT THE BLAME FROM THE PEOPLE'S SHOULDERS.

ONE, PAUL SCHAEFER OF LEIPZIG, SAID: "THESE LEADERS HAVE MADE GERMANY GUILTY IN THE EYES OF THE WORLD OF CRIMES FOR WHICH WE, AS INDIVIDUALS, CANNOT FEEL PERSONALLY RESPONSIBLE."

IN THE FRANKFURT AREA, DR.WILHELM KARI GERET, EDITOR OF THE FRANKFURTER RUNDSCHAU, WHICH HAS A 500,000 CIRCULATION, SAID HE COULD NOT UNDERSTAND WHY MEN SUCH AS KEITEL, SCHACHT AND JODL WERE PLACED IN THE FIRST CATEGORY OF WAR CRIMINALS. AT THE SAME TIME HE EXPRESSED A FEAR THE TRIALS WOULD DRAG TOO LONG TO RETAIN POPULAR INTEREST AND WOULD "LOSE THEIR VALUE TO THE GERMAN PEOPLE."

FRITZ OTTO ULM, PUBLISHER OF THE MIESBADENER KURIER, SAID: "PEOPLE WOULD BE FAR MORE IMPRESSED IF GOERING WERE ACCUSED OF ORDERING THE EXECUTION OF SOME PARTICULAR INDIVIDUAL INSTEAD OF VAGUELY BREAKING THE LAWS OF HUMANITY AND WAR. AT PRESENT GERMANS ARE INDIFFERENT TO THE TRIALS, BUT MORE CONCRETE CHARGES WOULD HELP BRING THE REALITY OF THE CRIMES HOME TO THEM."

SHANGHAI, NOV. 1-(AP)-U.S. NAVY MEN WHO PLAYED A LITTLE-KNOWN BUT IMPORTANT PART IN THE WAR AGAINST THE JAPANESE INSIDE CHINA HAD SUCH LIMITED SUPPLIES TO WORK WITH THEY HAD TO BE EXPERTS AT IMPROVISING.

THEIR NOVEL BUT EFFECTIVE WAY OF DOING THINGS ON A SHOESTRING CONSTANTLY ASTOUNDED THE CHINESE ALONGSIDE WHOM THEY FOUGHT, AND SNAGGED JAPANESE PLANS FOR QUICK CONQUEST IN THE 10,000-SQUARE-MILE AREA WEST OF SHANGHAI IN WHICH THE AMERICANS OPERATED.

AS AN EXAMPLE, THESE NAVAL OFFICERS AND MEN, ATTACHED TO THE SINO-AMERICAN COOPERATIVE ORGANIZATION (SACO), DEVISED AN EFFECTIVE METHOD OF SINKING JAPANESE SHIPS ECONOMICALLY--WITH SMALL CHARGES OF EXPLOSIVE.

LT. JOSEPH E. CHAMPE, WHOSE WIFE, KATHERINE, LIVES AT POMPTON LAKES N.J., EXPLAINED HOW THIS WAS DONE. CHAMPE, FORMER ELECTRICAL ENGINEER IN A MIDDLETOWN, CONN., AVIATION PLANT, SPENT TWO AND A HALF YEARS IN CHINA, FIRST ATTACHED TO THE CHINESE NAVY AND THEN TO SACO.

CHAMPE WAS SENT OUT TO WORK WITH THE CHINESE ON THE CONSTRUCTION OF MINES AT SENCHI, HUNAN PROVINCE. HERE THE CHINESE HAD AN ELABORATE PLANT FULL OF FORGES, LATHES AND OTHER EQUIPMENT SALVAGED FROM THE OLD SHANGHAI NAVY YARD BEFORE IT FELL TO THE JAPANESE.

HE WORKED WITH CHIEF ELECTRICIAN'S MATE CHARLES W. ROBERTS OF HOPKINSVILLE, KY., AND CHIEF TORPEDOMAN JOSEPH BRADLEY, WHO COMES FROM EASTERN KENTUCKY, ON A METHOD OF BLOWING UP ENEMY SHIPPING WITH SMALL CHARGES. THEY PROCEEDED ON THE THEORY THAT A SMALL CHARGE CLOSE TO ITS OBJECTIVE IS AS EFFECTIVE AS A LARGER CHARGE FARTHER AWAY.

THE RESULT WAS SIMPLE ENOUGH. THEY FLOATED TWO SMALL CHARGES -- SEVEN AND ONE-HALF POUNDS IN ALL--ON DRIFTWOOD LOGS CONNECTED WITH A 100-FOOT ROPE. NATIVES IN SAMPANS MERELY ROWED OUT UNOBTRUSIVELY WITH THE TWO LOGS AND LET THEM DRIFT DOWNSTREAM TOWARD AN ANCHORED JAPANESE SHIP.

THE ROPE WOULD CATCH ON THE ANCHOR CHAIN, THE CHARGES WOULD SWING BACK AGAINST THE HULL, AND AFTER A CONTROLLED INTERVAL THE SHIP WOULD BLOW UP.

B44

THEY SANK THREE SMALL FREIGHTERS THAT WAY WITH A TOTAL EXPENDITURES OF 22 POUNDS OF TNT.

CHAMPE ALSO DEVELOPED INGENUOUS LAND MINES FROM VIRTUALLY ANYTHING HIS MEN COULD LAY THEIR HANDS ON. LAST YEAR HE WAS AT CHANGSHA, IN THE PATH OF A VIGOROUS JAPANESE OFFENSIVE, WITH ROBERTS, CHIEF PHARMACIST'S MATE CLARENCE E. RICHARDSON OF HILLSBORO, ILL., AND RADIOMAN 1/C LEE COMER OF KANSAS CITY, MO.

THEY HAD ONLY A QUANTITY OF GRANULAR TNT, BUT LAID DOWN ABOUT 1,000 CONTROLLED LAND MINES AND PUT AN EFFECTIVE MINE BLOCKADE ACROSS THE SHANG RIVER. THEY MADE THE GROUND MINES WITH GLASSIJARF FILLED WITH METAL SCRAPS, BROKEN GLASS, NUTS AND BOLTS--ANYTHING THEY COULD FIND. THE RIVER MINES WERE CONTAINED IN SEALED CHUNKS OF BAMBOO.

CHAMPE HELPED TRAIN FOUR SPECIAL "SABOTAGE UNITS" OF 12 TO 15 MEN APIECE, THESE WERE SENT INTO THE PUCHI, KIUKING, WUCHANG AND SIENING AREAS FOR DEMOLITION WORK. THEY BLEW BRIDGES, CUT COMMUNICATIONS AND GENERALLY MADE THEMSELVES REPULSIVE TO THE ENEMY.

IN ADDITION, SACO OPERATED THREE BATTALIONS, 250 TO 300 MEN EACH, OF CHINESE AND AMERICAN PERSONNEL TRAINED RIGOROUSLY FOR LARGER TASKS, SUCH AS RAIDING JAPANESE-HELD VILLAGES AND SUPPLY AREAS.

THE AMERICANS LIVED AND FOUGHT ALONGSIDE THE CHINESE AND SUFFERED THE SAME HARDSHIPS. MANY TIMES THEY WENT FOR DAYS WITH ONLY DRIED SWEET POTATOES FOR FOOD. TRANSPORTATION WAS SO SCARCE THAT A HIKE OF 300 MILES WAS NOT RARE. CHAMPE HIMSELF WALKED 300 MILES IN EIGHT AND ONE-HALF DAYS TO REACH CHUNGKING LAST MAY WHEN HE WAS RELIEVED

TOKYO,NOV.1 (AP)-A STARTLED JAPAN LEARNED TODAY THAT AMERICA MAY REQUIRE EMPEROR HIROHITO HIMSELF TO PAY PART OF THE DEFEATED NATION'S UNTOTALLED REPARATIONS BILL.

A WELFARE MINISTRY ANNOUNCEMENT BROUGHT STILL SHARPER REALIZATION OF THE COST OF THE WAR: IT DISCLOSED THAT AMERICAN AIR RAIDS HAD DESTROYED OR BURNED NEARLY 2,500,000 BUILDINGS IN JAPAN.

WHETHER HIROHITO'S PERSONAL FORTUNE OF $106,000,000 COULD BE CONSIDERED MORE THAN A DROP IN THE REPARATIONS BUCKET WAS A MINOR MATTER

IN TOKYO. FAR MORE IMPORTANT TO JAPANESE WAS THE SUDDEN THOUGHT THAT WASHINGTON'S DECISION INDIRECTLY LABELS THEIR EMPEROR AS A WAR CRIMINAL.

HERETOFORE HIS FORTUNE HAS BEEN CONSIDERED INVOLATE. EVEN THE RECENT ALLIED DEMANDS FOR THE IMPERIAL BANKBOOKS STIRRED SILENT RESENTMENT.

ANOTHER POLITICAL SHOCK TO JAPANESE WAS THE ABRUPT ANNOUNCEMENT BY ALLIED HEADQUARTERS TODAY THAT IT HAD NOT DESIGNATED PRINCE FUMIMARO KONOYE TO REVISE THE JAPANESE CONSTITUTION--A TASK HE ALREADY HAD ASSUMED. THE ANNOUNCEMENT BEDIMMED HIS PRESTIGE ON THE EVE OF HIS EVIDENTLY-PLANNED NEW POLITICAL CAREER AS A COMMONER AND LIBERAL LEADER.

THE JAPANESE GOVERNMENT ALSO WAS INSTRUCTED TODAY TO FREEZE BANK ACCOUNTS AND OTHER PROPERTY OF FORMER KEY FIGURES IN THE PUPPET PHILIPPINE GOVERNMENT. INCLUDED WERE ASSETS OF PRESIDENT JOSE P.LAUR AND TWO SONS.

WASHINGTON'S ANNOUNCEMENT THAT EMPEROR HIROHITO MUST PAY PART OF JAPAN'S REPARATIONS BILL FROM HIS HUGE PERSONAL FORTUNE IS APT TO BECOME AN EVEN BIGGER POLITICAL BOMBSHELL, HOWEVER. IT WAS THE FIRST ACCUSATION THAT THE EMPEROR MAY BE BLAMED, AT LEAST PARTLY, FOR THE WAR.

TOKYO, NOV.1-(AP)-ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, IN A STATEMENT AMOUNTING IN JAPANESE EYES TO A PUBLIC REBUKE OF PRINCE FUMIMARO KONOYE, DENIED TODAY ANY SPONSORSHIP ON THE PART OF GENERAL MACARTHUR FOR THE PRINCE'S EFFORTS AT REVISION OF THE JAPANESE CONSTITUTION.

THE STATEMENT, OBSERVING THAT MISCONCEPTION SEEMED TO EXIST AS TO THE PRINCE'S RELATION TO THE CONSTITUTIONAL REVISION MOVEMENT, SAID HE WAS NOT SELECTED BY THE ALLIED HEADQUARTERS.

THE UNUSUAL ANNOUNCEMENT, COMING AT A TIME WHEN REVISION IS AT A LOW EBB IN PUBLIC INTEREST, WAS SEEN AS SIDESTEPPING WHAT APPEARS TO HAVE BEEN AN ATTEMPT BY THE JAPANESE TO FIX RESPONSIBILITY FOR FUTURE GOVERNMENT DEVELOPMENTS ON THE OCCUUPATION AUTHORITIES.

LIKEWISE IT CONSIDERABLY HAMPERED THE PRINCE'S RECENT EFFORTS TO ACHIEVE ACTIVE POLITICAL LEADERSHIP BEHIND THE GOVERNMENT BY RIDING ON THE COAT-TAILS OF ALLIED HEADQUARTERS.

THE HEADQUARTERS SPOKESMAN SAID THAT WHEN KONOYE WAS DEPUTY PREMIER IN THE CABINET OF PRINCE HIGASHI-KUNI, HE (KONOYE) WAS ARRIVED IN HIS OFFICIAL CAPACITY THE CONSTITUTION WOULD NEED REVISION.

BUT THE HIGASHI-KUNI CABINET RESIGNED THE FOLLOWING DAY, AND THE SPOKESMAN SAID, "INSOFAR AS ALLIED AUTHORITIES ARE CONCERNED THE PRINCE (KONOYE) HAD NO FURTHER CONNECTION WITH THE MATTER."

MACARTHUR THEN INFORMED THE NEW PREMIER, BARON KIJURO SHIDEHARA, OF HIS DIRECTIVE TO REVISE THE CONSTITUTION.

"PRELIMINARY WORK ALONG THIS LINE IS BEING CARRIED OUT BY THE JAPANESE GOVERNMENT AND IN DUE COURSE THIS WHOLE SUBJECT WILL BE FULLY PRESENTED TO THE JAPANESE PEOPLE FOR THEIR COMPLETE, THOROUGH DISCUSSION BEFORE THE FINAL REVISION IS ADOPTED BY THEM," THE SPOKESMAN SAID.

TOKYO PRESS RECENTLY REPORTED KONOYE WAS CONSIDERING RENUNCIATION OF HIS TITLE AND COURT CONNECTIONS, A MOVE INTERPRETED AS INTENDED TO BOLSTER HIS POLITICAL POPULARITY.

THE PRINCE WAS NOT AVAILABLE FOR COMMENT IMMEDIATELY. BY JAPANESE STANDARD THE PRINCE LOST "FACE" AND MUCH PRESTIGE. KONOYE HAS SAID THAT BESIDES BEING ASKED TO CONSIDER REVISION, HE ALSO HAD RECEIVED THE SUGGESTION FROM GENERAL MACARTHUR THAT HE (KONOYE) HEAD THE LIBERALIST PARTY IN JAPAN.

RIO DE JANEIRO, NOV.1-(AP)-BRAZILIANS WERE TOLD TODAY THE CIVIL LIBERTIES OF ALL CITIZENS WOULD BE GUARANTEED WITHOUT POLITICAL OR RELIGIOUS DISCRIMINATION AS THE GOVERNMENT WHICH SUPPLANTED THE 15-YEAR REGIME OF GETULIO VARGAS PAVED THE WAY FOR NATIONAL ELECTIONS ON DEC.2.

THE CABINET OF PRESIDENT JOSE LINHARES, EMERGING FROM ITS FIRST MEETING, ANNOUNCED ADOPTION OF A RESOLUTION THAT ITS FIRST DUTY WOULD BE TO PREPARE THE NATION FOR THE ELECTION OF A PRESIDENT.

IT WAS BELIEVED LIKELY THAT THE NEW JUSTICE MINISTER, T.SAMPAIO DORIA, WOULD RECOMMEND REPEAL OF A VARGAS DECREE WHICH REQUIRED STATE ELECTIONS TO BE HELD CONCURRENTLY WITH NATIONAL BALLOTING, A MEASURE WHICH PERMITTED VARGAS TO PLACE HIS APPOINTED GOVERNORS IN CONTROL OF STATE ELECTIONS.

SAMPAIO DORIA, COMMENTING ON RUMORS THAT COMMUNISTS WERE BEING ROUNDED UP, ASSERTED THAT UNDER THE PRESENT GOVERNMENT "NO PERSON CAN BE ARRESTED FOR BEING A COMMUNIST OR AN ATHEIST."

AT THE SAME TIME THE NEW POLICE CHIEF, RIBEIRO DA COSTA, ISSUED A MESSAGE TO THE PUBLIC WHICH SAID:

"AS A JURIST I WILL GUARANTEE THE LIBERTY OF ALL CITIZENS WITHOUT DISTINCTION AS TO THEIR POLITICAL, RELIGIOUS OR MORAL ATTITUDES, FIXING AS A LIMIT THAT POINT WHERE THEIR FREEDOM IMPAIRS THAT OF OTHERS.

"THERE WILL BE NO POLITICAL PRISONERS."

THE ANNOUNCEMENT WAS OF PARTICULAR INTEREST TO THE COMMUNISTS, WHO HAD BEEN DEMANDING A CONSTITUENT ASSEMBLY INSTEAD OF NATIONAL ELECTIONS ON THE GROUNDS THAT THE NATION NEEDS A NEW CONSTITUTION. THE COMMUNIST LEADER LUIS CARLOS PRESTES IS BELIEVED TO BE IN HIDING, SINCE THE GOVERNMENT INSISTS HE IS NOT A PRISONER.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT ALSO WAS WELCOMED BY THE LABOR PARTY, WHICH HAD NAMED VARGAS ITS HONORARY PRESIDENT. FORMER LABOR MINISTER ALEXANDRE MARCONDES, JR., HAS BEEN CONFINED TO HIS HOME, AND THE FORMER SECRETARY OF THE LABOR DEPARTMENT, SEGADAS VIANA, HAS BEEN PUT UNDER ARMY CUSTODY ON CHARGES OF SEEKING TO CAUSE A GENERAL STRIKE IN PROTEST AGAINST THE VARGAS OUSTER.

ANTI-JEWISH RIOTS FLARE IN CAIRO AND ALEXANDRIA

Arabs Launch Anti-Zionist Campaign in Palestine, Egypt and Levant.

GORT QUITS AS GOVERNOR

London Government Officially Lays Blame for Holy Land Disorders on Organized Hebrews.

Cairo, Nov. 2 (A. P.).—Strife over Palestine spread today to Egypt, where a general strike of anti-Zionist elements led to rioting, street fighting and attacks on Jewish and foreign interests.

The general strike had been called in protest against the Balfour Declaration, which was issued twenty-eight years ago today, promising Palestine to the Jews as a Jewish national home.

Arab sections in Palestine also began a general strike against the Balfour Declaration and still others were in progress in the Levantine states of Syria and Lebanon, which lie on the opposite side of Palestine from Egypt. Street cars and taxis stopped running, huge demonstrations took place in the larger cities, and the Syrian and Lebanese newspapers featured anti-Zionist articles.

[In London, meanwhile, the Colonial Secretary, George Hall, told Parliament that Field Marshal Lord Gort resigned as High Commissioner of Palestine because of illness, and that the "dastardly series of outrages" in the Holyland resulted from "very careful planning by a very considerable organization among the Jewish communities.]

Disturbances in Egypt centered in Cairo and Alexandria. Crowds of rioters, protesting on this Twenty Eighth anniversary of the Balfour Declaration promising the Jews a national home in Palestine, hurled stones and bricks at all other places bearing foreign names. Egyptian troops patrolled the streets, firing into the air to disperse crowds.

Police and firemen joined Egyptian troops in attempting to quell riots. American service troops were ordered to remain in their barracks. Sound trucks coursed Cairo, ordering British troops to leave the streets.

Many Taken To Hospital

Ambulances carried scores to hospitals from the scenes of rioting in Cairo. Numerous arrests were made by helmeted troops, armed with clubs and rifles.

The demonstrators left paths of broken glass from store windows in their marches from Mustafa Kemel Square to Abdien Palace.

Strikes against the Balfour Declaration occured also in the Mediterranean states of Syria and Lebanon, between Palestine and Egypt. Streetcars and taxis stopped. Huge demonstrations were made in the larger cities. Syrian and Lebanese newspapers featured anti-Zionist articles.

Demonstrators in Cairo went through the Bazaar, breaking windows and looting Jewish shops. The largest Jewish department store in Cairo was set afire, but the blaze was quickly extinguished by fire brigades.

Tear Gas Used

Outside the Azahar Mosque police used tear gas to disperse crowds who stoned the officers.

Pamphlets were distributed among the crowds saying: "We must wake up the Zionists from their dream of a home in Palestine." The pamphlets blamed the British for trying to create a national home for Jews there.

Jews 'On the Offensive'

In Jerusalem, meanwhile, the independent Palestine Post said: "The Jews have gone over from the defensive to the offensive."

It was also learned that prior to yesterday's nationwide wave of disorders, saboteurs had cut the Palestine railroads at 153 places and that only sketchy service has been restored. At least four saboteurs were killed, two while trying to set off explosives at the Haifa oil refinery.

Communications Halted

All communications in Cairo had been halted as demonstrators paraded the streets carrying signs reading: "Down with the Zionists."

Delegates of five Arab associations presented a note to all foreign diplomats, which said:

"We beg to inform your country that all the Arab world is starting today this active struggle against the Zionists, who will threaten the Arab world by their existence in Palestine. We demand that the British Government halt atrocities and unjust treatment against Arab leaders and immediately release the leader of Palestine, Grand Mufti Haji Amin Al Husseini—now a prisoner of the French in Paris.

"We demand that the British Government stop helping the Jews from behind curtains and also disarm Jews in Palestine, protect Arab rights in Palestine and immediately cut in half Jewish immigration to Palestine. The Arabs are competent to help govern Palestine."

At Azahar Palace, several mounted policemen were knocked from their horses in an hour-long battle with crowds armed with stones and clubs. Police fired into the mob but no estimate of the number injured was available.

Started March On Palace

Demonstrators had started a march to Abdien Palace, the residence of King Farouk.

The newspaper Egyptian Mail said that strike leaders had threatened to wreck shops unless they remained closed.

...ops, armed with long whips, also stood at strategic points. He said 100 persons, mostly looters, were arrested.

Steel-helmeted police fired into the air, used tear gas, and swung clubs trying to disperse the crowds who seethed into Cairo streets on the 28th anniversary of the Lord Balfour note promising the Jews a national home in Palestine.

In Palestine, where Balfour day coincided with an announcement that Lord Gort had resigned as high commissioner, because of his health, there were only minor disturbances accompanying a nationwide Arab general strike.

An official announcement in Jerusalem said Lord Gort resigned "on grounds of ill health, which in the opinion of his medical advisors makes its necessary for him to return immediately to England for investigation and treatment."

Ultimatum to Terrorists

In London, the British government, through Secretary of Colonies George Hall, served an ultimatum to terrorists in Palestine's Jewish community that unless there is a cessation of the "dastardly series of outrages" in the Holy Land, negotiations for settling the Jewish problem would be halted.

He referred to yesterday's organized attacks on Palestine's transportation system that cost five lives and wounded at least eight persons. He delivered the warning in Commons while announcing Lord Gort's resignation from the Palestine post.

Fitzpatrick said the Cairo rioting was kept from spreading to the European parts of the city. Foreign establishments in the riot area also were attacked.

He said a synagogue was set afire by the rioters with "fairly extensive" damage.

Declaring the rioters had "fought themselves out and are now licking their wounds," Fitzpatrick said he did not anticipate renewed outbreaks tomorrow. Only sporadic outbursts were noted in a drive through the city late today and tonight.

American Troops Confined

American troops were ordered into their barracks. Later British military police toured the city with sound trucks ordering Tommies to return immediately to quarters.

The rioting broke out in Mustafa Kemal square in the heart of the city, moved through the prinicpal thoroughfares and all the main squares, and wound up with the greatest disorders in the Malika Farida square in the Bazaar section.

Shop windows were smashed, with the Jewish-owned establishments suffering the heaviest. Some Jewish stores were looted.

One alert Jewish shopowner hung an Egyptian flag from his window and the rioters ceased their bombardment with bricks.

The demonstrators marched also to Abdien palace, one of the residences of King Farouk. The king was not there, so the crowd returned to Malaka Farida square, named after Egypt's queen.

The route taken by the rioters was strewn with smashed glass.

Big Store Set Afire

The largest Jewish department store in Cairo was set afire, but the blaze was extinguished by fire brigades. Outside the Azahar mosque, largest in the Moslem world, police used tear gas in an effort to disperse the crowds, who hurled stones in return.

Pamphlets were distributed among the crowds asserting it was necessary to "wake up the Zionists from their dream of a home in Palestine." The British were blamed for trying to create a national home for the Jews.

The general strike itself halted all communications in Cairo, and delegates of five Arab associations presented notes of protest to all foreign diplomats.

"We beg to inform your country that all the Arab world is starting this day an active struggle against Zionists who will threaten the Arab world by their existence in Palestine." the note said.

The note demanded that the British disarm Jews in Palestine and halt immediately immigration of Jews into the Holy Land.

Other rioting in Egypt occurred in the cities of Port Said, Zagazig and Mansura.

Demonstration In Damascus

The general strike spread also to Syria and Lebanon, where transportation facilities were shut down and demonstrations against Zionism were held. In Damascus Arabs staged a peaceful demonstration.

In Commons, Minister of Colonies Hall declared that the uprisings in Palestine showed evidence of "very careful planning by a very considerable organization among the Jewish community," but declined to elaborate further.

"While the government is examining all possible means for solution of the Jewish problem, it is a matter of profound regret that there should be this wanton resort to force," he said.

"Unless it is stopped and suppressed, progress in relation to Palestine will be impossible and further steps we had in mind in our endeavor to settle this difficult problem will be brought to naught."

He added that the government was satisfied that the Jews as a whole were not responsible for the violence.

Hall said Lord Gort's successor would be named "as soon as possible," and that J. V. W. Shaw, chief secretary would administer the Palestine government for the present.

Stones Hurled in Palestine

In Palestine, where the Arab general strike followed on the heels of yesterday's attacks paralyzing of the country's railroad system, scattered incidents of stone throwing by the Arabs was reported.

A Jewish bus was stoned at Ramles on the road between Jerusalem and Tel Aviv, seriously injuring the driver and causing slight injuries to several passengers. A similar incident was reported in Acre.

Local Arab leaders delivered numerous speeches against Zionism and there were many demonstrations protesting additional immigration of Jews into Palestine.

Arab newspapers ran stories about the Balfour declaration boxed in boldfaced mourning borders.

"The Jews feel anxious about this unanimous demonstration of Arab feeling," said the newspaper Falastin. "Egypt in particular seems to be the source of their anxiety, for it is the first time Egypt has demonstrated against the Balfour declaration."

A leading Jewish labor paper, Davar, declared that if the Jews will "struggle for renewal of the alliance with the nation in whose name the Balfour declaration was given we shall realize the Balfour declaration in all its magnificent splendor."

Meanwhile, construction of four new Jewish land settlements was started today. Two are located in Galilee and two in the coastal plain between Tel Aviv and Haifa.

Arab Stand Laid To British Officers

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—Arab opposition to the free immigration of Jews into Palestine is "largely the manipulation of British foreign and colonial officers," Senator Robert F. Wagner (D., N.Y.) declared tonight.

In an address before delegates of 29 nations attending the International Christian Conference for Palestine, Wagner expressed grave fears for a "sound world order" if Britain "is not faithful to her promises" to the Jews in Palestine.

"As a member of the United States Senate," he asserted, "I regard Palestine as a testing ground of British good faith."

U. S. Refinery Deal Threatened

BEIRUT, Lebanon, Nov. 2 (AP)—Deputy Saab Slam, President of the Parliamentary Foreign Committee, declared today that unless President Truman's reported "pro-Zionist attitude" changed, a proposed agreement with Lebanon for an American oil refinery could not be approved.

Lord Gort Quits Position In Palestine

London, Nov. 2 (AP)—Field Marshall Lord Gort resigned today as High Commissioner of turbulent Palestine, as the British Government laid the blame for terrorism there on Jewish elements.

Colonial Secretary George Hall described the most widespread and highly organized sabotage in the history of the country as a "dastardly series of outrages" resulting from very careful planning by a very considerable organization among Jewish communities."

Arabs Strike In Palestine

Arab sections of Palestine started a general strike against the Balfour declaration and Zionist aims. Arab shops closed and prayers were called in the mosques.

Hall told Commons that Lord Gort resigned because he was ill and that a successor would be named as soon as possible. J. V. W. Shaw, chief secretary, will administer the Palestine Government in the interim. Apparently there was no direct connection between Gort's resignation and the uprisings in Palestine.

Hall expressed regret "that there would be this wanton resort to force" while the British were examining all means to solve the Jewish-Arab problem. He said that there were sufficient forces in Palestine to deal with the uprisings but that "both the Palestine police and the forces have a difficult and delicate task to perform."

Apparently there was no direct connection between the rioting and Lord Gort's resignation. Hall told the House of Commons that Lord Gort resigned because he was ill, that a successor would be named as soon as possible,, and that J. V. W. Shaw, the Chief Secretary for Palestine, will administer the Government in the interim.

Rail Service Renewed

A Jerusalem dispatch said sketchy service was resumed on the railroads, which had been cut in 153 places 24 hours before in a nation-wide wave of sabotage.

At least four saboteurs were known to have been killed in terrorist attacks. Two were slain when they tried to set off explosives at the Haifa oil refinery, the British military said.

By command of Maj. Gen. John D'Arcy, British commander in Palestine, movement of all motor traffic was banned between 10 P.M. and 6 A.M., except in municipal areas.

"Shift To Offensive"

In Palestine, the Palestine Post said the outbursts there indicated that the Jews "have gone over from defensive to offensive action" in their campaign for the lifting of British white-paper quota restrictions on Jewish immigration. The newspaper said the acts represented "a new step in defiance which the Jewish people were driven to proclaim because it was clear that the white paper, far from being revoked, was to be continued in force."

"Resistance has now emerged as a primary challenge," declared the paper in a lengthy editorial commenting on the outbreaks.

"Fight For Lives"

"Unless there is a change of heart in London—both in London and Washington, the alarming prospect must be faced (of) a people who consider that fight for their very lives has been forced upon them," the paper concluded.

A spokesman here for the Jewish agency said the organization "repudiates recourse to violence as an instrument of political struggle" but "finds its capacity to impose restraint severely tried by the maintenance of a policy which Jews regard as fatal to their future."

Report On Casualties

In Palestine, an underground radio station, describing itself as "The Voice of Jewish Resistance," promised that a Hebrew resistance group comminiqué would be issued today. It asserted that the Palestine Jews have no intention of attacking the Arabs.

Hall told Commons that casualties in the outbreaks in Palestine were five killed and at least eight wounded, adding that because of the widespread nature of the attacks, reports on them were incomplete. He said he had received no report yet on the number of arrests made in connection with the outbreaks.

Unless the use of force is stopped and suppressed, Hall said, "progress in relation to Palestine will be impossible, and further steps we had in mind in our endeavor to settle this difficult problem will be brought to nought."

A Jerusalem dispatch said the erection of four new Jewish settlements was begun this morning in Palestine, two in Galilee and the other two in the coastal plain between Tel Aviv and Haifa.

Soviets See Disaster For U.S. Unless Atomic Bomb Is Shared

London, Nov. 2 (AP)—An editorial read over the Moscow radio tonight said that unless the secret of the atomic bomb is shared by all nations, the "consequences may be disastrous not only for other countries but for America itself."

"This view is held by newspapers (in America) of the most diverse political trend," said the editorial, from Moscow's New Times.

"Many American and British newspapers hold that any attempt to use this scientific achievement to terrorize other countries by the permanent threat of attack will only result in the biggest armament race in history," it said.

History Of Warfare Cited

Tracing the history of warfare, the article commented that "newly invented means of offensive or defensive war never remained in the possession of any one country for long."

New Times reported President Truman's Navy Day speech at length and said: "Both those who advocate international co-operation and those who insist that America should pursue power politics claimed that the President's message supported precisely their point of view.

"In the opinion of reactionary elements, it is of the utmost importance to maintain the secret of the atom bomb and they are not inclined to attach any particular significance to the reference of necessity of international agreements regarding atomic energy," the editorial said.

Warns On Possible Disaster

"The second World War has clearly demonstrated that only firm co-operation among peace-loving nations can save the world from an unprecedented disaster," the paper added.

"At the same time, it has been convincingly proved that the attempt of any country to achieve world domination with the aid of new weapons is doomed to failure.

"The attempt to refashion the world with the help of atomic diplomacy can lead to no good. . . .

"A sober view is being expressed in the foreign press that science and industry today have attained such heights in all major countries that any production secret one country may possess is bound sooner or later to be discovered by another.

Bigger Bombs Seen

"It is certain that other countries, by independent research, can achieve technical design and industrial methods of producing atomic power which are at present secrets of the United States, Britain and Canada.

"Before many years they also may be manufacturing bombs, perhaps tens, hundreds or even thousands of times more powerful than those which caused such devastation in Japan."

Halifax, Others Invited To Talks On Atom

London, Nov. 2 (AP)—Ambassador Lord Halifax and other high British officials now in the United States have been invited by Prime Minister Attlee to participate in his atomic energy talks with President Truman next week.

Attlee will fly to Washington. He will be accompanied by Sir John Anderson, chairman of the British advisory committee on atomic energy; Neville Butler, Assistant Undersecretary of the Foreign Office; Maj. Gen. E. I. C. Jacob and D. H. F. Ricket, military experts and his public relations chief, Francis Williams.

When the party reaches the United States it will be joined by Lord Halifax, Air Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder, representing the British air staff, and Field Marshal Sir Henry Maitland Wilson.

STEPS TO BUILD PEACE ARE CITED BY MOSCOW

LONDON, Nov. 2 (AP)—The Moscow radio declared today, in an English language broadcast, that the Soviet Union "has repeatedly demonstrated its readiness and willingness to work hand in hand with its allies in attaining a really lasting and just peace."

Quoting the Soviet publication New Times, the broadcast reviewed what it called Russian cooperation at Dumbarton Oaks and San Francisco in laying the foundation for an effective organization of international security.

"It would be a mistake," the broadcast said, "to think that even in wartime the cooperation between the Soviet Union and other freedom-loving countries was always attended by absolute identity of attitude and unanimity on all points. Both in our social system and ideology the Soviet Socialist State differs materially from the United States and its allies.

"Naturally, this could not fail at times to be the cause of divergencies even on important matters. It suffices to recall the question of the second front in Europe.

"But this did not prevent us in the end from finding a common ground with our allies on the chief and most fundamental question of all—namely, the organization of victory over the Nazi-Japanese imperialists."

"Peace that has been won must be safeguarded," the broadcast concluded. "This is in the interests of the Soviet Union, a strong bulwark of universal peace and security, and in the interests of all other freedom-loving nations."

LABOR TIGHTENS GRIP IN BRITAIN

London, Nov. 2 (A. P.).—Britain's Labor party tightened its control of the nation today as returns in yesterday's local elections—the first since 1938—gave Laborite municipal councilors throughout England and Wales a majority over the Conservatives of approximately two-to-one.

The sweeping victory was on the same scale as last July's national election landslide which gave the Labor party its first uncontested grip on Parliament in Britain's history. The results were a complete reversal of 1938, when the Conservatives retained a two-to-one grip.

Some boroughs did not begin to count ballots until today, among them twenty-four in London and several in the provinces. But with most returns in from the 130 major provincial boroughs, Labor showed net gains of 745 seats. The party won 766 seats previously held by the opposition and dropped only twenty-one previously held by Labor councilors. The Conservatives lost 381 seats, and gained only nineteen they had not previously held. The net loss was 362 seats.

Britain's third party—the Liberals—staggered under a net loss of 110 seats, being assured thus far of only nine-two representatives in local governments. The party took a similar beating in the national elections. Independents of various shades also lost to Labor candidates with a net decline of 270 seats. This was the first municipal election in which women voted.

B-29's Reported Slated For Duty In Germany

London, Nov. 2 (AP)—B-29 Superfortresses soon will comprise the major part of the United States occupational air force bomber strength in Germany, the British aviation magazine Aeroplane said today.

Five groups of Superfortresses, numbering about 250, will be moved to Europe as soon as runways are built to accommodate them, the publication reported in a dispatch from Germany.

Superfortresses were not used in the air war against Germany.

Youth Parley Urges Anti-Fascist Crusade

London, Nov. 2 (AP)—The World Youth Conference, attended by 500 delegates from 64 nations, today called for a youth crusade against "Fascistic" governments of Spain Argentina and Portugal.

Another resolution placed before the conference by Olga Chechetkin of Russia, called for sharing of the atomic bomb secret by the United States, and demanded that the bomb "never again be used as an instrument of war." The resolution urged placing of the bomb under United Nations' control.

Baillie-Stewart Says He Aided Allies

London, Nov. 2 (A. P.).—Norman Baillie-Stewart, on trial for high treason as a Nazi broadcaster, asserted today he gave the Allies a tip which prevented the suicide of his former superior, Secretary of State Bohle, head of the organization of Germans in foreign lands.

"This enabled the Allies to obtain valuable information they otherwise would have lost," the suave-voiced native of England said in a statement. Baillie-Stewart said he informed an American major of Bohles's intention to kill himself after arrest. He contended he was a German citizen and that no propaganda was attached to his broadcasts.

British Unmoved By Change in Brazil

London, Nov. 2 (A. P.).—The British government does not regard the changes in Brazil were a revolution and does not consider it necessary to give recognition to the new Brazilian Government, a Foreign Office spokesman said today.

Eyes Mine Nationalization

London, Nov. 2 (AP)—Emanuel Shinwell, Minister of Fuel and Power, told a press conference today he hoped a bill for the nationalization of Britain's coal mines would be introduced before Christmas.

Swiss Recognize Austria.

London, Nov. 2 (A. P.).—The Swiss Federal Council decided today to recognize the provisional Austrian Government of Chancellor Karl Renner, the Swiss radio said.

HESS BELIEVED AMNESIA CASE

Former No. 3 Nazi May Escape Trial In Germany

Nuernberg, Germany, Nov. 2 (AP)—Among interrogators of the 22 top-ranking Nazis awaiting trial here, the consensus is that Rudolph Hess, once the No. 3 Nazi, is not faking his mental illness, and there are indications that he might escape trial with his one-time colleagues.

One doctor still believes the former deputy Führer is only pretending to be an amnesia victim.

He is Lieut. Col. Rene H. Juchli, of Amsterdam, N.Y., one of two physicians exercising constant surveillance on the physical condition of the prisoners. He believes Hess is indulging in some form of self-induced amnesia.

Meets Goering, Von Papen

But the arrival of a Russian psychiatrist today to examine Hess, and a proposal that a board, including at least one German psychiatrist, be created to pass on his mental condition are among numerous indications that Hess might be withdrawn as a defendant at this time.

Hess is emaciated, he has lost weight, and now is the lightest man among the defendants, weighing less than 140 pounds.

Shortly after his arrival at Nuernberg early in October, Hess was brought face to face with Hermann Goering, Franz von Papen, Dr. Karl Haushoffer and other old comrades in a series of encounters in the interrogation chambers in an effort to shake away the veil, feigned or otherwise, that lay across his memory.

"I Don't Remember"

Hess looked at each in turn and always said, "I don't remember."

Goering pleaded with him to remember, recalling old times, but Hess only stared into his friend's eyes and repeated "I don't remember," interrogators said.

When von Papen asked Hess "do you know me?" he was greeted only by silence. He declined to repeat the effort, saying "there's no need to say more. He doesn't remember me."

Old Dr. Haushoffer, a very old friend and teacher, evoked some faint glimmerings by speaking to Hess of his wife and children.

Hess remembered them and said he was "very glad" they were well, but to everything else he returned the same mild stare and replied "I don't remember."

Raeder, Fritzsche In Nuernberg Cells

Nuernberg, Germany, Nov. 2 (AP). Admiral Erich Raeder and Hans Fritzsche gave fellow Nazis in the Nuernberg jail glowing accounts today of their treatment during the three months they were in Russian custody.

Gone trembling, 70-year-old Raeder, former commander in chief of the German Navy, and the stiffly erect Fritzsche, Nazi radio propaganda expert, arrived here from Berlin last night in custody of five Russian officers and nine guards.

Was Fed Well, Raeder Says

The two were arrested by the Red Army. They will face trial with twenty others November 20 before an international military court. Their codefendants were captured by American and British forces.

"The Russians gave me every consideration," said Raeder. "They fed me well. They were solicitous as to my health. They permitted my wife to live with me all the time I was in Moscow."

Fritzsche said he had no complaint.

Col. B. C. Andrus, prison commandant, placed them in adjoining cells.

Only Gustav Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach, German munitions king and only civilian among the top-ranking Nazis indicted, is not in the cell block in the jail's criminal wing.

He is in a private nursing home near Nuernberg, recovering from a serious ailment.

Yanks In Reich Will Be Ready To Quit June 1

Frankfurt, Nov. 2 (AP)—The United States Army stands ready to meet the June 1 goal which President Truman has set for transfer of the American occupation zone government from military to civilian hands.

Military government officials welcomed word that a civilian governor or high commisioner would take over under the State Department or some other designated agency. Scarcely a soldier from General Eisenhower on down does not look forward to the transfer with joy.

Recommended By "Ike"

The goal announced by President Truman was set on recommendation of General Eisenhower and will not affect the military occupation.

Simultaneous switchovers from military to civilian rule in all four occupation zones would be desirable, military government officials believe. They said the British and perhaps the Russians would appreciate the value of concurrent action. The French attitude they term uncertain.

Some Progress Already

The task of demilitarizing the United States occupation government has made some progress already and speedier action is expected as the kinks are worked out in the coming months.

Before winter ends, the Army expects to have at least half of the military government posts filled by civilians. All military government functions will be withdrawn from the 3d and 7th armies on December 31. From that date, military detachments at Wiesbaden, Stuttgart and Munich will report directly to Frankfurt and Berlin headquarter.

Move Planned From First

Staff officers emphasized that the idea of turning over the occupation government to a civilian agency was inherent in the original planning of the United States military government. For instance, a constabulary which would have military organization but which could be easily converted to a civilian status was planned.

From the army viewpoint, the appearance of civilian administrators would be a happy event. They frankly admit irritation that General Eisenhower was made the target of criticism for his handling of problems which, they say, the Army could not possibly have been expected to meet in a universally satisfactory manner.

CAMPS FOR JEWS PASS INSPECTION

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 2 —(AP) Judge Simon Rifkind, Gen. Eisenhower's new adviser on Jewish matters, reported today he found matters generally satisfactory in five displaced persons camps for Jews he had visited.

Without mentioning specifically the report in which Earl G. Harrison told President Truman that the U. S. Army was treating Jewish displaced persons little better than had the Nazis, Judge Rifkind declared in an interview:

"I found no barbed wire, no military guards, no restrictions on movements of residents. The only police I saw were appointed from among the displaced Jews themselves. Their health seemed good and they all reported they had gained weight. I heard no serious complaints about the quantity of food, but there were some complaints about the variety. Housing conditions range all the way from good to poor with none scandalous."

He visited camps at Landsberg, Stuttgart, Feldafing, Fahrenwald and St. Ottilien. He said he saw little provision for family life and privacy and that long-term residence facilities were inadequate.

"Without Palestine, the problem of displaced Jews in Europe is "insoluble," he said. "The preponderance of desire to emigrate to Palestine is overwhelming, none desires to remain in Germany. If Palestine were opened at once, they would forget all their sufferings and privations."

GERMAN DOCTOR, 41 OTHERS FACE TRIAL FOR LIVES

WIESBADEN, Germany, Nov. 2 —(AP) Forty-one members of the Nazi SS corps and Dr. Klaus Karl Schilling, who conducted material experiments on internees, were charged today with violating the laws and usages of war in killing and torturing thousands at the Dachau concentration camp.

The Army's judge advocate said the 42 probably would go on trial Nov. 15 before an eight-man military court headed by Brig. Gen. John M. Lentz of the Third Army's 15th corps.

The charges state that between 1942 and 1945 the defendants subjected civilians of many nationalities, as well as members of the Allied armed forces, to "killings, tortures, starvation, abuses and indignities."

Chief defendants, in addition to Schilling, are Dr. Fritz Hintermeyer and Dr. Wilhelm Witteler, who are accused of conducting low and high altitude tests and cold water endurance tests on internees, many of whom died or lost their reason as a result.

Others include Martin Weiss, Dachau commandant from September, 1942, to November, 1943; Johann Eichelsdorfer, and Otto Foerchner, commanding officers of prison subcamps, and Freidrich Wilhelm Ruppert, an SS oberstrumfuehrer.

Col. Leon Jaworski of Houston, Tex., chief of the Third Army's war criminal trial section, said all defendants had key positions in the camp or in the Landsberg subsidiary camp, where mostly Jews were mistreated and killed.

Prosecutors will include Lt. Col. William Denson of Birmingham, Ala., Capt. Richard G. McCacky of Canton, Ohio Capt. William D Lines of Quincy, Fla., and Capt. Phillip Heller of New York City.

Belsen Inmates Beaten, Polish Woman Admits

Lueneburg, Germany, Nov. 2 (AP). Helena Kopper, 35-year-old Polish woman whose job was spying on concentration-camp prisoners for the SS at Belsen, admitted in court today that she beat the inmates, but declared she "didn't cause them harm."

She said she used a black oilcloth strap for the beatings.

The witness created a scene in the courtroom earlier in the seven-week trial by crying out that British guards were hitting her. The guards said she had just been nudged for spitting on the floor.

Allies Abolish Nazi Judicial System

Berlin, Nov. 2 (AP)—The Allied Control Council formally abolished the Nazi judicial system today and reorganized the German courts on the basis of the judiciary law of 1877.

The council re-established the system of police, country and superior courts, provided for their de-Nazification and denied them jurisdiction in cases involving Allied forces or matters of occupational control.

Specifically ruled out of German court jurisdiction were:

Criminal offenses against Allied occupation forces; offenses by Nazis or others against citizens of Allied nations and their property, as well as any attempts directed toward reviving Nazism; offenses involving personnel of Allied forces or citizens of Allied nations, and other "selected cases" which the Allied command may designate.

"To effect the reorganization of the judicial system," said the edict, "all former members of the Nazi party who have been more than nominal participants in its activities and all other persons who directly followed the punitive practices of the Hitler regime must be dismissed from appointments as judges and prosecutors and will not be admitted to these appointments."

21 IN U. S. PLANE KILLED

3 Survive C-47 Crash in Germany —15 Reported Dead in Italy

WIESBADEN, Germany, Nov. 2 (AP)—United States Army officials said today that twenty-one soldiers were killed yesterday when a C-47 plane crashed near Karlsruhe. There were at least three survivors.

A board of inquiry began an investigation. The names of the casualties were not disclosed.

LEOPOLD DENIES RELATIONS WITH HITLER 'CORDIAL'

BRUSSELS, Nov. 2—(AP) King Leopold today described as inaccurate a report declaring he was on cordial terms with Hitler at a meeting five years ago, and had thanked Hitler for "personal favors" including the return of Leopold's children from Spain.

The report, a 2,000-word document, released today by Premier Achille van Acker, was an account prepared by Paul Schmidt, Hitler's interpreter at the Berchtesgaden meeting in November, 1940.

Calls Charge False

Leopold, in a letter released simultaneously by the government, charged that Schmidt attributed to him phrases uttered by Hitler, and declared "a sentence in which I am alleged to have spoken of an eventual collaboration between Belgium and Germany is entirely false."

Leopold denied he entered "into any political negotiations" with Hitler, or had made any promises to him, and said he went to Berchtesgaden only "to negotiate the release of our prisoners of war, to improve our food rations, and to lighten the economic and financial burden" imposed on Belgium.

Schmidt's report said the interview was "most cordial" and that Leopold had thanked Hitler "for all he had done for Belgium and expressed his gratitude for all the personal favors accorded him, especially for allowing his children to return from Spain." Hitler, said Schmidt, expressed regret the interview should take place "under such circumstances."

While anti-Leopoldists considered the document as proof that Leopold had had political negotiations with Hitler in order to safeguard his dynasty, many Belgians said they attached little or no significance to the report, describing it as the "German version."

The Schmidt document was captured by American troops, and turned over to van Acker's government.

For months there has been a political battle over whether Leopold should be allowed to return to Belgium. Parliament has refused to permit his entry, and the king now is living in Switzerland.

Schmidt at Interview

Leopold's letter, addressed to his private secretary, Jacques Pirenne, said Schmidt was present at the interview to act only as interpreter because Leopold wished to speak in French. He said he had asked for a copy of Schmidt's translation after the interview, but this was refused. Leopold said the report was not a verbatim text, and declared that former U. S. Under-Secretary of State Sumner Welles once had remarked that notes attributed to Schmidt were not always accurate.

Schmidt quoted Leopold as saying "I have come to this interview with the Fuehrer in full confidence, because I know how to appreciate the great work done by the Fuehrer and because I know his desire to give to Europe a lasting peace based on justice, collaboration, and solidarity between the peoples."

Continuing, it said Leopold asked Hitler if he would guarantee Belgium's political independence after the war, and that Hitler said such independence would depend on the orientation of Belgium's military and political views toward Germany.

Hitler was quoted as saying Germany had to attack Belgium because of Belgium's strategic position, and as declaring that "the Belgian government was never really neutral. The Belgian government has played the role that Great Britain and France had assigned her to play."

Leopold's letter said "I have nothing to hide and my dossier is at the full disposal of the nation. But I will disclose it in its full light with the guarantees of impartiality to which I have the right, and to which each man has to defend himself."

Leopold-Hitler Meeting Report Is Released

Brussels, Nov. 2 (AP)—Premier Van Acker released today a report of King Leopold's meeting with Hitler at Berchtesgaden November 19, 1940, and declared it showed the exiled King was on cordial terms with the Führer after Belgium's conquest.

Leopold, in a statement released at the same time, declared the report was inaccurate. The report, captured by Americans, was an account of the talks kept by Hitler's stenographer, Paul Schmidt.

Appreciates "Great Work"

"I have come to this interview with the Führer in full confidence," the reported quoted Leopold as telling Hitler, "because I know how to appreciate the great work done by the Führer and because I know his desire to give to Europe a lasting peace based on justice, collaboration and solidarity between the peoples."

Leopold said the report was not a verbatim text of the conversation and declared Sumner Welles, former United States Under Secretary of State, once said notes attributed to Schmidt were not always accurate.

Part Of Battle Over King

In the interview Hitler declared Belgium's independence hinged on

"the orientation of the military and poitical view as of Belgium toward Germany."

The exchange is part of a continuing political battle over the future of the monarchy in which Parliament has refused to permit Leopold to return to this country. He is now in Switzerland.

Greece Plans To Seek Increased Allied Aid

Athens, Nov. 2 (AP)—Gregory Kassamatis, Finance Minister in Premier Panayotis Kanellopoulos's new Cabinet, said today that Greece would seek increased Allied aid because "it is humanly impossible for Greece to live on her own lean flesh."

The Government's first duty will be financial reconstruction of Greece, he said, and the Government plans steps for equitable, quick distribution of all available goods and equitable taxation.

MILAN, Italy, Nov. 2 (AP).—An American plane crashed into a mountain near Cuneo Oct. 30 and all fifteen occupants were reported killed. The names were not announced.

Pope Receives Senator Thomas

Vatican City, Nov. 2 (A. P.).—Pope Pius XII granted an audience today to Senator Elbert D. Thomas (D.-Utah), Chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee. Major-Gen. Ralph Smith, United States Military Attache in Paris, also was present.

New Labor Cabinet Formed in Norway

Oslo, Norway, Nov. 2 (A. P.).—Norway's Labor party, winner in elections last month, announced today membership of a new Cabinet which will take office November 5, succeeding the interian coalition Cabinet.

Einar Gerhardsen will continue as Prime Minister, and two present Cabinet members, Trygve Lie and Oscar Torp, also were retained. The new Cabinet will be the most youthful in the nation's history. One member is only 30 years old, and several others are in their thirties. There is also one women member.

Jap Legation Sealed in Sweden

Stockholm, Nov. 2 (A. P.).—Representatives of the American, British, Russian and Chinese legations sealed the Japanese legation in Stockholm today, in line with Gen. MacArthur's order closing all Japanese diplomatic outposts.

An Allied official said the legation appeared to have been emptied of all papers and documents, which apparently were burned.

Shooting at Utrecht Meeting

UTRECHT, Holland, Nov. 2 (AP).—One man was wounded when a flurry of shots broke up a meeting last night of the Indonesian Society, to which many Utrecht University students belong.

The difficulty began when a speaker upheld Soekarno, President of the "Indonesian Republic."

TURKS ARE UNEASY

Edwin Greenwald

Ankara, Nov. 2 (A. P.).—The National Assembly, apprehensive over the imminent end of the Treaty of Friendship and Nonaggression with the Soviet Union, weighed today the declaration of President Ismet Inonu that Turkey has "no debts to pay anybody."

The assembly, opening on a note of anxiety over the future of the Bosporus and Dardanelles Straits, Turkish-controlled lanes to the Black Sea, was told in an address by the President:

"I have no illusion that it will be easy to explain to Russia, Britain or the United States the Turkish role in the war."

He said he had not lost hope of concluding an understanding with the Soviet Union. Turkey entered the war against the Axis only last March at the request of the Allies.

CHINESE 6TH ARMY LAUNCHES ATTACK ON COMMUNISTS

Yank - Equipped, Trained Forces Now in Field, Declare Reds.

FIGHTING IS HEAVY

Great Offensive Started by Nationalists at Rail Line Opening.

CHUNGKING, Nov. 2—(AP) A Chinese Communist dispatch charged today that the Central government's new Sixth army, equipped and trained by Americans, is in action against the Reds along the southern section of the Tientsin-Pukow railroad.

It was the first accusation that American drilled and supplied Chinese troops were involved in the current strife.

Previously the Communists had expressed open irritation over the employment of United States transports to take Central government forces to Chinese communist "liberated areas."

The Chinese Sixth army fought the Japanese in northern Burma ahead of construction crews building the Stilwell highway.

Along sections of the north-south railroad between Peiping and Hankow, which parallels the Tientsin-Pukow railroad to the east, the Communists said large scale fighting is in progress.

Offensive Is Reported

Communist sources told of a "great offensive" by the government aimed at opening the Peiping-Hankow line for unrestricted movements of Chiang's armies to North China and Manchuria.

The Reds charged that two brigades of Japanese troops were cooperating with government forces in one sector.

A government spokesman in the 12th war zone said between 100,000 and 120,000 Communists, fully equipped with artillery, were closing in from the northeast and south of Kweisui, capital of the rich Suiyuan province in Inner Mongolia.

Kweisui is under siege, Chinese dispatches reported today.

The dispatches said the city was in grave danger and that thousands of inhabitants were pouring out in hurried flight.

Gen. Ho Lung, one of the most able Red commanders, is leading the attack, the dispatches said, as the Communists seek to widen their Suiyuan holdings and bar any overland movement of Central government troops from Hipa north into Manchuria.

Communist occupation of Kweisui would seriously interfere with any eastward drive of government Commander Gen. Fu Tso-Yi along the Peiping-Suiyuan railroad toward Red held Kalgan, strategic rail center lying northwest of Peiping.

Other dispatches today reported besieged Tatung, important rail junction in northern Shansi province, still as in the hands of its 10,000 Nationalist defenders, despite an attack by an estimated 100,000 Reds under the reported direction of Gen. Chu Teh, Communist commander-in-chief.

In Peiping, Associated Press Correspondent Spencer Davis quoted Gen. Ho Ying-Chin, North China commander-in-chief, as announcing intentions to open all communication lines.

Full Scale War Near

That would mean sending Central government troops straight into Communist centers, particularly Suiyuan and Chahar provinces. Spencer's dispatch said the outbreak of full scale civil war was "an almost momentary possibility."

At Kalgan, in Chahar, are at least 100,000 troops of the veteran Eight route (Communist) army who boast "the Japanese couldn't beat us; how can (Generalissimo) Chiang?" They have made no secret of intention to hold Kalgan at all cost. That trade and rail center, on the great wall, is the point where for centuries caravans from inner Mongolia entered North China.

Official China awaited today the return from Washington of U. S. Ambassador Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley in the hope he might help avert full-scale civil war, while in Peiping Gen. Li Tsung-Jen, highest ranking government officer in the strife-torn north, sounded a lonely note of optimism.

"There may be a small war now in China," between the Central government and Chinese Communists, Li acklowledged, but "major differences can be decided by negotiations."

Hurley generally is credited with helping to bring the Chinese Communist leader, Gen. Mao Tse-Tung, to Chungking to begin such negotiations. They now are deadlocked while sporadic battling marks the thrusts of government troops into the Red-dominated provinces of the north.

Li blamed Communists for current violence, said neither American men nor American equipment were being used against the Reds. He predicted that Communist efforts to control the north will fail because, he said, they lack both troops and popular support.

American Marines, Li asserted, "have seen enough fighting on Guadalcanal and Okinawa—there is no need for them to become involved in our internal troubles, which we will settle among ourselves."

1,500 Marines Leave

(Tientsin reported that the first contingent of 1,500 Marines sailed for home today from Taku. Approximately 70,000 have been scattered through the troubled north from Tsingtao to Tientsin, Peiping and Chinwangtao, disarming Japanese and waiting for Central government troops to arrive and assume control).

Although Mao and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek reached an understanding at Chungking, Li continued, "either Mao didn't give the order to his subordinates to stop fighting, or he doesn't have control over them."

During the war, Li also complained, Communists said they were attacking the Japanese-cut Tientsin-Pukow and Peiping-Hankow railroads, but instead "they were exchanging commodities and war supplies with the Japanese."

Chinese Communists today reiterated that same complaint against Gen. Yen Hsi-Shan, governor of Shansi province in which major Communist - government clashes have occurred. He cooperated with Japanese against Communists both during and after the war, they alleged.

Li, who commands the provinces of Hopeh, Shantung, Suiyuan, Chahar and Jehol—an area of which large sectors already are held by Chinese Communists—outlined this future policy for his troops as they push into the north:

They will bypass the Communists if possible; failing that, they will negotiate; but, if attacked, "we are obliged to defend ourselves."

"An External Affair"

Although massed Communist forces blocked the overland route, other Government troops carried in United States transports began landing today at two ports in Manchuria—the day Russian occupation forces were scheduled to begin withdrawing. Landings were at Hulutao, 70 miles northeast of the trouble spot of Chinwangtao, and at Yingkow, across Liaotung Bay. Both ports have rail links with Mukden.

The Russian withdrawal from Manchuria was not linked with North China violence, Li declared. That withdrawal is "an external affair; our trouble is an internal affair, separate and distinct."

CHINA AWAITS HURLEY'S AID

Hopes U. S. Envoy Returns Soon to Mediate.

Chungking, Nov. 2 (A. P.).—Official Chinese quarters today anxiously awaited the return to China of United States Ambassador Patrick J. Hurley in the hope he might help Central Government and communist disputants compose their differences and prevent civil war. Chiang Kai-Shek told foreign correspondents October 15 he would welcome Hurley's good offices.

It was announced in Washington a few weeks ago that Hurley would return to China, but with the situation daily becoming more critical, Chinese quarters were anxious to know when he would actually be back in Chungking.

Reoccupy Manchurian Ports.

Meanwhile Chinese Government troops, pouring from United States transports, began reoccupation landings at two ports in Manchuria on the same day the Russians were scheduled to begin withdrawing from the country, the army newspaper Sao Tang Pao reported. Japan wrested Manchuria from China in 1931.

The landing points were on opposite sides of Liaotung Bay.

On the west side, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's men went ashore at Hulutao, seventy miles northeast of the scene of clashes between his soldiers and Chinese communists in the area of Chinwangtao.

On the east side, the troops were landed at Yingkow, 100 miles southwest of Mukden and 140 miles north of Port Arthur.

Both Yingkow and Hulutao have rail connections with Mukden. The alnding at Hulutao places Chiang's men near rail lines to the rear of Chinese Communist forces which are opposing any overland movement of Central Government troops toward Manchuria through North China.

Meanwhile, as scattered fighting occurred in eleven northern provinces of China, a Central Government Cabinet spokesman charged anew that the Chinese communists had threatened to fire on any Government soldiers landed from United States ships in communist "liberated areas." He said the communists issued the warning during peace negotiations in Chungking.

After the first such charge, it was denied by one of the leading communist negotiators, Gen. Chou En-lai.

Hurley Still Undecided On Chungking Return

Santa Fe, N.M., Nov. 2 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, United States Ambassador to China, said today he was not ready to announce whether he will return to Chungking and probably will not decide until after an impending trip to Washington.

He declined to discuss for publication a Chungking dispatch which reported official Chinese quarters anxiously awaited his return in hope Hurley might help prevent civil war.

CHENNAULT DENIES RETURN TO CHINA

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 2.—(AP) Maj-Gen. Claire L. Chennault, three days out of the Army, spiked a report today that he might soon head a post-war sequel to his famous "Flying Tigers."

Queried about a report from Washington that the Chinese government wants him to head a school for fliers, Chennault said he had not been approached.

Asked what he would do if he were approached, he said:

"I do not intend to return to China in the immediate future."

Reports have been current that China is recruiting ex-Army fliers in the United States for its air force, and today a Chinese embassy official commented:

"Chinese aviation is expected to require a large number of trained and experienced men to help us in the future."

An air force spokesman said there were no plans by the Chinese to use "our personnel" and that a statement would be issued soon, possibly in conjunction with one from the Chinese.

NOV 3 1945

Army Denies Helping Chinese Recruit Yanks

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—The United States Army said today it is not helping the Chinese recruit discharged American air-force men.

Chinese officials here discussing published reports that China is recruiting such men, said their country will need a "large number of experienced flyers" to assist in training Chinese air-force personnel. They confined their discussion to training phases, without mention of any recruiting of Americans to man Chinese planes.

Later in the day the War Department issued an official denial of a published report which said the Army had approved a Chinese program for recruiting recently discharged American army flyers and ground crews.

The department statement said American fliers or ground crewmen up for point discharge must secured the approval of the commander in the theater if they are to be discharged and remain in a foreign country (apparently a reference to the report that Americans are being recruited directly in China).

No Strings On Discharged

The department said there is no indication American commanders in China have given such approvals.

The announcement, however, did contain a statement indicating the Army has no strings on men discharged in this country who decide to go back to China. AAF veterans, said the statement, may "accept 'jobs' with a foreign government to return to that country after discharge in the United States."

The department's announcement also contained what it said was a statement by the Chinese air attaché here as follows:

"The Chinese air-force office in Washington has not been recruiting discharged American flyers and ground crews, and has no knowledge of any such recruiting program, either in this country or in China."

nists of attempting to gain political power through military force.

He asserted in an interview at his headquarters at the resplendent Peiping winter palace that openly declared civil war is inevitable unless the Communists cease attempts to bar Koumintang troops from occupying areas surrendered by the Japanese.

Chiang's Representative

The marshal is direct representative of the Generalissimo and the highest ranking officer in North China.

Li said that although Chiang and the Communist leader, Gen. Mao Tse-tung, had reached an understanding during their Chungking conversations to avoid civil war, "either Mao didn't give the order to his subordinates to stop fighting or he doesn't have control over them."

Commands Several Provinces

As director of the Peiping field headquarters of the National Military Council, Li is in command of the provinces of Hopeh, Shantung, Suiyuan, Chahar and Jehol. His troops have a difficult task in taking over large areas already held by the Communist 8th Route Army, but the general who directed the victory at Taierchwang early in the war pointed out:

"Since China is one of the great world powers, instability of the political situation in China will have an effect on world peace. Although there may be a small war now in China, I believe major differences can be decided by negotiations."

Communists Doomed

In his opinion, the Communists were doomed to failure for two reasons—they do not have enough troops and they do not have the sympathy of the Chinese people at large.

Reviewing at length the long history of the struggle between the Central Government and the Communist forces, Li said it was the policy of Chiang's Government to decide the issues by political means and not by war, and that during eight years' struggle against Japan every effort had been made not to irritate the Communists in order to preserve national unity. But during this time, he declared, "illegal actions" had been taken by the Communist 8th Route Army.

China Communists Accused Of Seeking Power By Force

Peiping, Nov. 2 (AP)—Gen. Li Tsung-jen, second only to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in the Nationalist Government and one of China's eight fighting marshals, today accused the Chinese Communists of attempting to gain political power through military force.

Shanghai Styles Amaze Yanks

New Yorker Who Trained Powers Models Sees Startling Fashion Show.

Shanghai, Nov. 2 (A. P.).—Shanghai's most exclusive set sipped tea and nibbled cake last night at this city's first fashion show in five years, but the loudest applause for chic tailored suits and slinky low-cut evening gowns came from twoscore Americans who had enough connections to get in.

Two blond models and two brunettes—a little heftier than the type usually used, but poised—paraded around the jam-packed Paramount ballroom in sixty-one suits and dresses so American in taste that you imagined you were thumbing through today's New York fashion magazines.

This was startling because this international city has been out of touch with style centers and the newest fashion magazines are not yet obtainable. Not only were the styles excellent, but the materials — largely purchased through the black market, I understand — were unbelievably lovely.

The Boys Sit Up.

Suits were heavily trimmed with leopard, mink and other furs with hats, large purses, gloves, shoes and accessories to match. Tea dresses for the most part were gathered at the left hip and were closed up the back with snaps. The colors were subdued—rust, beige, and dark green—except for one royal blue job trimmed with mink.

But the boys really sat up for the main course, the evening gowns. Here the Chinese influense was evident. A blonde paraded in a Chinese three-quarter length skirt slit ten inches up the front. A brunette modeled a high necked silver lame formal which gave her the appearance of being wrapped in foil.

Colors ranged from fuchsia to black. Snoods, apparently worn with everything out here, were integral.

New York Expert on Hand.

What really startled the boys was a style called Nuit de Paris. This black, full-length dress was simple except that the waist and hips were covered with white netting which looked like a corset worn outside. An Army nurse, Lieut. Irene Marsh of Eastland, Tex., who had been watching with a faraway look, said it was the best thing she had seen outside of the States.

"They all look good to me after wearing these olive drabs—especially that tomato red affair," she said sadly.

"Sure reminds me of the States," was the reaction of a sailor, Truman Barbier of Dearborn, Mich. "Boy, oh boy, did you see that brunette in the light blue formal?"

Radioman 3/c Patrick Gillespie of New York had a good reason for being on hand. He used to train Powers models to walk. He commented that the styles closely followed those of Hollywood and that only one was overdone.

"I knew Shanghai was international, but I am surprised to find that not the French but the Russians set the style here."

Ship To Move 820 British

Shanghai, Nov. 2 (AP)—The repatriation ship Arawa will leave here November 11 with 820 British subjects. Others will be picked up at Hong Kong. The movement leaves 1,340 British still here.

Chinwangtao Landing Confirmed

Tientsin, Nov. 2 (AP)—The Marine 3d Amphibious Corps headquarters today confirmed reports that Chinese Nationalist troops had been landed at Chinwangtao in troubled northeast China.

There were no indications as to the strength of the Kuomintang force. The Communists are known to have thousands of troops around the all-weather northern port where American Marines are under instructions to support Nationalist policy—short of actual hostilities.

American Marines totaling approximately 70,000 are scattered from Tsingtao to Tientsin, Peiping and Chinwangtao.

Cut In Malayan Rubber Price Urged

Singapore, Nov. 2 (AP) — The Straits Times urged editorially today a revision of Malayan rubber prices, saying "synthetic rubber will only be a menace to the natural product if the American consumer gets the idea that he is being exploited."

"Attempts to exact a fictitious charge for handling constitute an effective method of encouraging that idea," the newspaper said.

It termed the handling charge of 10 Straits cents a pound "grossly excessive and calculated to force the price of natural rubber to an artificially high level."

The editorial said the export tax of 4 Straits cents a pound "is nearly four times the amount of the tax which was levied immediately before the war with Japan."

KOREAN INDEPENDENCE DIFFICULTIES ARISE

SEOUL, Korea, Nov. 2—(AP) A three-hour conference today of more than 100 official and unofficial representatives of Korea's political parties resulted in a growing belief that there are many difficulties in the path of this long suppressed nation's bid for independence.

Dr. Syngman Rhee, former "president" of the Korea provisional government in exile, is working on a program to unify the various political parties and establish a provisional government that would be recognized by America.

A message Rhee drafted for presentation to the United Nations was presented to the conference but temporarily sidetracked for "revision."

Australia Releases 70,000 Men

Melbourne, Nov. 2 (AP)—Prime Minister Joseph B. Chifley disclosed today that 70,000 men have been released from the Australian armed forces since the end of the war with Japan and predicted that 200,000 more would be restored to civilian life by January 31, 1946.

SHARP FIGHTING FLARES IN BATAVIA

Indonesian Extremists in Action Hour Before British Restore Order.

BATAVIA, Nov. 2 — (AP) Sharp encounters with Indonesian extremists broke out in Batavia today after heavy fighting at Magelang was halted under a temporary truce negotiated with the aid of President Soekarno of the "Indonesian republic."

Fighting in the capital began in Indonesian headquarters behind the Hotel Des Indes, and snipers fired machine guns for an hour before British Seaforth Highlanders restored order. Casualties on both sides were believed light, said the Dutch news agency Aneta.

R.A.F. planes again strafed Indonesian forces battling British Indian troops in Magelang before the truce was achieved. The planes also dropped supplies to the British forces at the naval base of Soerabaja, where a spokesman said the situation remained "very delicate."

Aneta quoted pilots returning from Soerabaja as saying they saw fighting in progress by the light of huge fires raging in the naval base city.

Confer in Magelang

In Magelang, 180 miles southeast of Soerabaja, British and Indonesian representatives were conferring.

Last night one company of Ghurkas had been hard pressed in Magelang but the situation was restored after reinforcements arrived. The R.A.F. planes enabled the Ghurkas to reoccupy a part of the town and reduce danger to the Magelang hospital, where many women and children had taken refuge.

At Semarang, port city 45 miles northwest of Magelang, the situation remained quiet, perhaps because of the visit there by Soekarno.

Dutch forces were reported able to cope with roving unorganized bandits from east and central Java on the outskirts of Batavia. The Dutch estimated their number at approximately 30,000. They were making no concentrated attacks but fighting in packs of a few hundred.

Meanwhile Capt. T. L. Laughland, one of two officers who escaped from Soerabaja when British Brigadier A. W. F. Mallaby was slain, returned to Batavia by air and was hospitalized.

A British headquarters report declared Mallaby was shot while leaning out of an automobile to answer someone who had called to him.

The statement gave this account:

Mallaby, accompanied by Laughland, two other officers and four Indonesians, left their headquarters in Soerabaja last Tuesday in an attempt to halt fighting in the International Bank square.

Mallaby quieted one group of Indonesians, but a second group stopped him, taking the Briton's arms.

The Indonesians refused to permit Mallaby to approach his Indian troops, who dispersed one attempt by the Indonesians to rush them, and during a lull two Indonesians approached Mallaby's car and called out.

Killed Instantly

Mallaby leaned forward and was shot, dying instantly. Capt. Laughland and Capt. R. C. Smith received slight wounds, but escaped by throwing grenades and plunging into a river.

The Indonesian government released a report saying Mallaby and his officers were caught in a crossfire between British and Indian troops and "it is not clear whether he died from shots of British, Indian troops or Indonesians." The Indonesians claimed their representatives took the same risks as Mallaby and the British were the first to open fire.

Meanwhile little progress was reported in negotiations between the Dutch and the Indonesians toward ending the prolonged strife.

A statement of Dutch policy, presented by acting Lt. Gov. Hubertus Van Mook to Nationalists at their first conference, was withheld at the request of Nationalist leaders who feared that its publication might further excite the Indonesian people.

(In London Premier William Schermerhorn of the Netherlands and J. M. S. Logeman, Dutch minister of overseas territories, conferred with Queen Wilhelmina on the situation in Java. The queen is in London to wind up personal affairs.)

Dutch Bar Only Soekarno

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Nov. 2 (AP)—The Dutch Government statement that Dr. Hubertus J. van Mook, acting Lieut. Governor General in the Netherlands Indies, is not empowered to negotiate with President Soekarno of the "Indonesian Republic" refers only to Mr. Soekarno and does not rule out negotiation with other Nationalist leaders, a Government spokesman said today.

An official announcement yesterday said that if Dr. van Mook had met with Mr. Soekarno in Batavia he was acting "against the express wish and instructions of the Government."

THREE JAPS HELD AS EXECUTIONERS

Jailed As Suspects In Deaths Of Doolittle Flyers

Tokyo, Nov. 2 (AP)—Three suspected executioners of Doolittle flyers and the head of Japan's Gestapo were jailed today.

In Omori prison camp was Lieut. Gen. Shigeru Sawada, former deputy chief of the imperial general staff, who commanded the Shanghai area when three captured Doolittle flyers fell before a firing squad October 15, 1942.

Also placed in Omori for questioning was Lieut. Yusei Wamitsu, son of the president of the Greater East Asia Independence Society. The third suspect, a Major Hata, was in custody in the Tokyo military hospital with stomach ulcers.

Security Transactions Frozen

Genki Abe, former Japanese Home Minister who led in organizing the terroristic "thought" police which at times out-Gestapoed the Nazi Gestapo, also surrendered at Omori.

General MacArthur had ordered his arrest on war-criminal charges. As yet no formal charge has been lodged against the three suspected of having a hand in the slaying of the first Americans to bomb Toyko.

MacArthur also issued a directive today freezing security transactions of the fifteen greatest financial houses in the empire.

The order was applied to such well-known family empires as Mitsui, Mitsubishi, Yasuda and Kawasaki—some of which involves the fortune of the Emperor himself—all marked for dissolution.

Public Health Group Dissolved

MacArthur also dissolved Dojinkai, the Japanese public health organization which only recently Prince Fumimaro Konoye had asked the Allies to allow to operate in areas formerly conquered by Japan.

Far from being an institution similar to the Rockefeller Foundation, as Konoye claimed, Allied headquarters said they had found Dojinkai's medical pretentions seriously compromised by outright propaganda activity.

Brig. Gen. Elliot R. Thorpe, head of the counterintelligence section, reported the Allied army of occupation must remain vigilant against fanatic Japanese who still dream of conquest.

Coal Output Boost Sought

The attitude of revenge now is limited among the Japanese, he said, but it would be folly to assume that thousands of returning soldiers and more particularly the terrorists of the gendarmerie of Japan would abandon overnight their deeply indoctrinated fanaticism.

In an attempt to boost coal production against the rigors of the approaching winter, supreme Allied headquarters told the Japanese Government to permit Korean miners to send their earnings home.

Maj. Gen. A. D. Bruce, commander of the United States 77th Infantry Division, told Chinese and Korean miners at Sapporo in northern Japan that they would be given priority for return to their homes if meantime they would work to the utmost to mine coal.

Koreans generally in Japan were clamoring to return home, and Allied headquarters appealed to them to stay where they were to avoid delaying repatriation. An estimated 1,500,000 Koreans were swarming through Japan's ports trying to get ships home.

Allies Watching For Resurgent Japanese Brines

Tokyo, Nov. 2 (AP)—Vigilance against resurgent Japanese who still dream of reconquest and revenge while outwardly appearing complacent, an Allied headquarters authority declared today, is more important at present than the rounding up of war criminals.

Brig. Gen. Elliot R. Thorpe said, however, the activities is limited to a few individuals with small followings. Other Allied sources said there was potential danger that this type of thinking would increase when large numbers of demobilized troops are repatriated from China and other regions where they felt no physical defeat.

Won't Change Ideas Overnight

Thorpe added his department did not consider it likely that thousands of able-bodied Japanese ex-service men, and more particularly the former members of the disbanded rabid and rough gendarmerie, could abandon overnight their carefully indoctrinated fanaticism and belief in Japan's ruling destiny.

"We are more interested," he said, "in what's going on day by day in Japan, and less interested in what was done in the past by men who have already been arrested by the Japanese police and have no chance of escape."

3 Queried In Slaying Of Flyers

Simultaneously, Allied headquarters disclosed that three Japanese army officers under arrest are being questioned about the execution of three Doolittle airmen on October 15, 1942, at Kiangwan, near Shanghai.

A Major Hata is in protective custody of the Japanese Government at a military hospital in Tokyo. The Government has guaranteed his delivery to Omoro prison camp near Yokohama.

The others are Lieut. Yusei Wamitsu, listed in the 1940 Tokyo city directory as the only son of Yonefusa Wamitsu, president of the Greater Eastern Asia Independence Society and former vice president of the Tokyo Bar Association, and Lieut. Gen. Shigeru Sawada, former deputy chief of staff, who commanded the Shanghai area when the Doolittle flyers were executed. Both are at Omori. No specific charges have been filed.

Abe At Omori

Latest arrival at Omori was Genki Abe, former Japanese Home Minister who played a major part in formation of Nippon's disbanded "though police." The former Suzuki Cabinet member who headed the metropolitan police board surrendered at the prison today. The Allied command last Tuesday directed the Japanese Government to hand him over for trial on war-criminal charges.

Meanwhile, two members of the powerful Iwasaki family resigned from key positions in the Mitsubishi Holding Company—last of the great financial family heads to yield to American pressure—it was reported authoritatively today.

Others Already Resigned

Baron Koyata Iwasaki, president of the Mitsubishi Holding Company, and Hikoyata Iwasaki, vice president, resigned at a stockholders meeting yesterday. They had held their positions 30 and 10 years, respectively. Previously one of the company's principal officials had told the Associated Press the Iwasakis had no retirement plans.

Leading officials of Yasuda and Sumitomo—two others of the Big Four family combines — already had resigned and Mitsui has announced the prospective retirement of members of ten Mitsui families, including Baron Takakimi Mitsui, president of Mitsui Holding Company.

It is understood that American authorities are concentrating upon these combines as the major oldline zaibatsu and that less pressure has been applied to Okura, considered the fifth ranking family monopoly.

The Iwasakis also resigned positions in numerous Mitsubishi subsidiaries. The newspaper Asahi reported that Ryozo Tanaka, former president of Mitsubishi Trading Company, was named president of the holding company. Harunosuke Suzuki retains his position as the principal managing director.

Await Word From D.C.

It is understood further that reorganization plans under consideration for the zaibatsu include liquidation of most and possibly all of their holding companies. Final action is awaiting a clarification of policy from Washington.

Japanese investors stand to lose 90,000,000,000 yen ($6,000,000,000) invested in munitions companies, but the Government presumably will defray part of the loss. The estimate, including 42,000,000,000 yen, due various arms plants for wartime losses, was made by the Ministry of Commerce and Industry.

Army officers at Yokohama said Gov. Takao Fujiwara of Kanegawa prefecture has admitted having ordered the destruction last February of a monument commemorating Admiral Perry's visit in 1853 which opened up world trade with Japan.

American officials are investigating whether Fujiwara, who said he acted to boost Japanese morale, was solely to blame or whether he acted on Government orders. The monument was at Kurihama beach at Yokosuka city, where American Marines landed August 30.

Zaibatsu Stock Deals Are Banned

Tokyo, Nov. 2 (AP)—Japan's fifteen greatest industrial and financial empires were barred today from all stock transactions until the economic control section of Allied headquarters makes up its mind what to do about the zaibatsu.

Col. Raymond O. Kramer, chief of the economic section, explained that without the freeze order the great family monopolies could easily so change their corporate structure as to defeat occupation force efforts to dissolve the Japanese trusts.

The order covered "sale, trade or other transfer or adjustment of capital stocks, bonds, debentures, voting trust or other forms of capital securities."

The firms affected included the great houses of Mitsui, Mitsubishi, Sumimoto and Asano; the Yasuda Hzensha Kawaska & Co., Dissan & Co., Fuji Industrial Company, Shibusawa Dozoku & Co., Furukawa & Co., Okrsa & Co., Nomura & Co., Ricken & Co., Nissan & Co. and the Nippon Nitrogeneus Fertilizer Manufacturing Company.

De Seversky Sees Atomic Bomb Making Little Warfare Change

TOKYO, Nov. 2—(AP) Maj. Alexander P. De Seversky declared today the fearsome atomic bomb that hastened Japan's defeat could kill no more people than a regular 10-ton bomb if dropped on U. S. cities of steel and concrete.

The famed warplane designer, arguing against "getting hysterical" about the atomic bomb, told a news conference he also doubted if it could sink a battleship unless it scored a direct hit.

De Seversky, who is studying bomb damage in Japan, said he thought the atomic bomb wrought such heavy devastation in Hiroshima and Nagasaka because of their flimsy wood construction.

"If a bomb like that dropped over Hiroshima were dropped over one of our cities," he asserted, "we would lose a lot of glass if the windows were closed. Chicago would require a great many atomic bombs to do any great deal of damage."

Thus he flew in the face of widespread expert opinion, just as he has in the past by preaching his thesis that huge fleets of long-distance bombers could make armies and navies obsolete.

De Seversky said the atomic bombs as far as he could learn started no fires in the two Japanese cities, but that the fires broke out from stoves and gas leaks after the mighty blast leveled homes and buildings.

For that reason, he continued, he remained unconvinced that the atomic bomb could displace "incendiaries and high explosives if we are going to tackle well-prepared cities with concrete structures."

"Nothing happened at Nagasaki or Hiroshima," De Seversky added, "that indicates to me a radical revolution in the science of warfare to the point where we can dispense with the Army, Navy and Air Force.

He hastened to add, however, that he considered the atomic bomb "a great step in the science of demolition."

But it still will be necessary to win air supremacy, both as a defense against the atomic bomb and as a means of employing it on the offense, De Seversky argued. For that reason, he said, America must remain strong in the air and should have an independent air force.

Fresh from an audience with Emperor Hirohito, De Seversky said the Emperor believed aviation would play a major role in cementing friendship among the nations of the world.

JAP REPARATIONS MAY BE GIVEN ASIA

Tokyo, Nov. 2 (A. P.).—Japan has so little left that the United States could use that her war reparation will probably consist of contributing materials and machines to the rehabilitation of Asia—much as was intended in her own wartime Great East Asia program, but without profit to herself.

What manufacturing plants remain usable are mostly those suited to turning out machinery needed in the rehabilitation of China and other Asiatic nations. As a result, the United States—not needing and not wanting these products—is expected by informed persons here to draw up a reparations plan based on use of these plants for the benefit of Asia. So far as money and securities are concerned, competent observers point out that these, too, are valueless to the United States as reparations. They have been revalued, and under existing regulations cannot be sent out of the country.

Pacific Welfare Plans Made

Tokyo, Nov. 2 (AP)—Two hundred and fifty Red Cross workers in the Japan-Korea area and 75 others with armed forces in the Southwest Pacific soon will begin the most extensive welfare and recreation program ever attempted in the Pacific, Red Cross Director Nyles I. Christensen said today.

8TH ARMY SPEEDS ITS MEN'S RETURN

Tokyo, Nov. 2 (A. P.).—Col. A. E. Schanze, acting Chief of Staff of the Eighth Army, said today the homeward movement of troops from the fourth replacement depot now is approaching 1,000 men daily. He added that all of the 28,000 men of the Eighth Army area who are in the 60 to 70 point bracket are expected to be en route home by the end of the month.

Tientsin, Nov. 2 (A. P.).—The first contingent of American Marines to start for home from the Far East, 1,150 officers and men, sailed from Taku today bound either for San Francisco or San Diego.

Dutch Bar Only Soekarno

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Nov. 2 (AP)—The Dutch Government statement that Dr. Hubertus J. van Mook, acting Lieut. Governor General in the Netherlands Indies, is not empowered to negotiate with President Soekarno of the "Indonesian Republic" refers only to Mr. Soekarno and does not rule out negotiation with other Nationalist leaders, a Government spokesman said today.

An official announcement yesterday said that if Dr. van Mook had met with Mr. Soekarno in Batavia he was acting "against the express wish and instructions of the Government."

THREE JAPS HELD AS EXECUTIONERS

Jailed As Suspects In Deaths Of Doolittle Flyers

Tokyo, Nov. 2 (AP)—Three suspected executioners of Doolittle flyers and the head of Japan's Gestapo were jailed today.

In Omori prison camp was Lieut. Gen. Shigeru Sawada, former deputy chief of the imperial general staff, who commanded the Shanghai area when three captured Doolittle flyers fell before a firing squad October 15, 1942.

Also placed in Omori for questioning was Lieut. Yusei Wamitsu, son of the president of the Greater East Asia Independence Society. The third suspect, a Major Hata, was in custody in the Tokyo military hospital with stomach ulcers.

Security Transactions Frozen

Genki Abe, former Japanese Home Minister who led in organizing the terroristic "thought" police which at times out-Gestapoed the Nazi Gestapo, also surrendered at Omori.

General MacArthur had ordered his arrest on war-criminal charges. As yet no formal charge has been lodged against the three suspected of having a hand in the slaying of the first Americans to bomb Toyko.

MacArthur also issued a directive today freezing security transactions of the fifteen greatest financial houses in the empire.

The order was applied to such well-known family empires as Mitsui, Mitsubishi, Yasuda and Kawasaki—some of which involves the fortune of the Emperor himself—all marked for dissolution.

Public Health Group Dissolved

MacArthur also dissolved Dojinkai, the Japanese public health organization which only recently Prince Fumimaro Konoye had asked the Allies to allow to operate in areas formerly conquered by Japan.

Far from being an institution similar to the Rockefeller Foundation, as Konoye claimed, Allied headquarters said they had found Dojinkai's medical pretentions seriously compromised by outright propaganda activity.

Brig. Gen. Elliot R. Thorpe, head of the counterintelligence section, reported the Allied army of occupation must remain vigilant against fanatic Japanese who still dream of conquest.

Coal Output Boost Sought

The attitude of revenge now is limited among the Japanese, he said, but it would be folly to assume that thousands of returning soldiers and more particularly the terrorists of the gendarmerie of Japan would abandon overnight their deeply indoctrinated fanaticism.

In an attempt to boost coal production against the rigors of the approaching winter, supreme Allied headquarters told the Japanese Government to permit Korean miners to send their earnings home.

Maj. Gen. A. D. Bruce, commander of the United States 77th Infantry Division, told Chinese and Korean miners at Sapporo in northern Japan that they would be given priority for return to their homes if meantime they would work to the utmost to mine coal.

Koreans generally in Japan were clamoring to return home, and Allied headquarters appealed to them to stay where they were to avoid delaying repatriation. An estimated 1,500,000 Koreans were swarming through Japan's ports trying to get ships home.

Allies Watching For Resurgent Japanese Brines

Tokyo, Nov. 2 (AP)—Vigilance against resurgent Japanese who still dream of reconquest and revenge while outwardly appearing complacent, an Allied headquarters authority declared today, is more important at present than the rounding up of war criminals.

Brig. Gen. Elliot R. Thorpe said, however, the attitude is limited to a few individuals with small followings. Other Allied sources said there was potential danger that this type of thinking would increase when large numbers of demobilized troops are repatriated from China and other regions where they felt no physical defeat.

Won't Change Ideas Overnight

Thorpe added his department did not consider it likely that thousands of able-bodied Japanese ex-service men, and more particularly the former members of the disbanded rabid and rough gendarmerie, could abandon overnight their carefully indoctrinated fanaticism and belief in Japan's ruling destiny.

"We are more interested," he said, "in what's going on day by day in Japan, and less interested in what was done in the past by men who have already been arrested by the Japanese police and have no chance of escape."

3 Queried In Slaying Of Flyers

Simultaneously, Allied headquarters disclosed that three Japanese army officers under arrest are being questioned about the execution of three Doolittle airmen on October 15, 1942, at Kiangwan, near Shanghai.

A Major Hata is in protective custody of the Japanese Government at a military hospital in Tokyo. The Government has guaranteed his delivery to Omoro prison camp near Yokohama.

The others are Lieut. Yusei Wamitsu, listed in the 1940 Tokyo city directory as the only son of Yonefusa Wamitsu, president of the Greater Eastern Asia Independence Society and former vice president of the Tokyo Bar Association, and Lieut. Gen. Shigeru Sawada, former deputy chief of staff, who commanded the Shanghai area when the Doolittle flyers were executed. Both are at Omori. No specific charges have been filed.

Abe At Omori

Latest arrival at Omori was Genki Abe, former Japanese Home Minister who played a major part in formation of Nippon's disbanded "though police." The former Suzuki Cabinet member who headed the metropolitan police board surrendered at the prison today. The Allied command last Tuesday directed the Japanese Government to hand him over for trial on war-criminal charges.

Meanwhile, two members of the powerful Iwasaki family resigned from key positions in the Mitsubishi Holding Company—last of the great financial family heads to yield to American pressure—it was reported authoritatively today.

Others Already Resigned

Baron Koyata Iwasaki, president of the Mitsubishi Holding Company, and Hikoyata Iwasaki, vice president, resigned at a stockholders meeting yesterday. They had held their positions 30 and 10 years, respectively. Previously one of the company's principal officials had told the Associated Press the Iwasakis had no retirement plans.

Leading officials of Yasuda and Sumitomo—two others of the Big Four family combines — already had resigned and Mitsui has announced the prospective retirement of members of ten Mitsui families, including Baron Takakimi Mitsui, president of Mitsui Holding Company.

It is understood that American authorities are concentrating upon these combines as the major old-line zaibatsu and that less pressure has been applied to Okura, considered the fifth ranking family monopoly.

The Iwasakis also resigned positions in numerous Mitsubishi subsidiaries. The newspaper Asahi reported that Ryozo Tanaka, former president of Mitsubishi Trading Company, was named president of the holding company. Harunosuke Suzuki retains his position as the principal managing director.

Await Word From D.C.

It is understood further that reorganization plans under consideration for the zaibatsu include liquidation of most and possibly all of their holding companies. Final action is awaiting a clarification of policy from Washington.

Japanese investors stand to lose 90,000,000,000 yen ($6,000,000,000) invested in munitions companies, but the Government presumably will defray part of the loss. The estimate, including 42,000,000,000 yen, due various arms plants for wartime losses, was made by the Ministry of Commerce and Industry.

Army officers at Yokohama said Gov. Takao Fujiwara of Kanegawa prefecture has admitted having ordered the destruction last February of a monument commemorating Admiral Perry's visit in 1853 which opened up world trade with Japan.

American officials are investigating whether Fujiwara, who said he acted to boost Japanese morale, was solely to blame or whether he acted on Government orders. The monument was at Kurihama beach at Yokosuka city, where American Marines landed August 30.

Zaibatsu Stock Deals Are Banned

Tokyo, Nov. 2 (AP)—Japan's fifteen greatest industrial and financial empires were barred today from all stock transactions until the economic control section of Allied headquarters makes up its mind what to do about the zaibatsu.

Col. Raymond O. Kramer, chief of the economic section, explained that without the freeze order the great family monopolies could easily so change their corporate structure as to defeat occupation force efforts to dissolve the Japanese trusts.

The order covered "sale, trade or other transfer or adjustment of capital stocks, bonds, debentures, voting trust or other forms of capital securities."

The firms affected included the great houses of Mitsui, Mitsubishi, Sumimoto and Asano; the Yasuda Hzensha Kawaska & Co., Dissan & Co., Fuji Industrial Company, Shibusawa Dozoku & Co., Furukawa & Co., Okrsa & Co., Nomura & Co., Ricken & Co., Nissan & Co. and the Nippon Nitrogeneus Fertilizer Manufacturing Company.

De Seversky Sees Atomic Bomb Making Little Warfare Change

TOKYO, Nov. 2—(AP) Maj. Alexander P. De Seversky declared today the fearsome atomic bomb that hastened Japan's defeat could kill no more people than a regular 10-ton bomb if dropped on U. S. cities of steel and concrete.

The famed warplane designer, arguing against "getting hysterical" about the atomic bomb, told a news conference he also doubted if it could sink a battleship unless it scored a direct hit.

De Seversky, who is studying bomb damage in Japan, said he thought the atomic bomb wrought such heavy devastation in Hiroshima and Nagasaka because of their flimsy wood construction.

"If a bomb like that dropped over Hiroshima were dropped over one of our cities," he asserted, "we would lose a lot of glass if the windows were closed. Chicago would require a great many atomic bombs to do any great deal of damage."

Thus he flew in the face of widespread expert opinion, just as he has in the past by preaching his thesis that huge fleets of long-distance bombers could make armies and navies obsolete.

De Seversky said the atomic bombs as far as he could learn started no fires in the two Japanese cities, but that the fires broke out from stoves and gas leaks after the mighty blast leveled homes and buildings.

For that reason, he continued, he remained unconvinced that the atomic bomb could displace "incendiaries and high explosives if we are going to tackle well-prepared cities with concrete structures."

"Nothing happened at Nagasaki or Hiroshima," De Seversky added, "that indicates to me a radical revolution in the science of warfare to the point where we can dispense with the Army, Navy and Air Force.

He hastened to add, however, that he considered the atomic bomb "a great step in the science of demolition."

But it still will be necessary to win air supremacy, both as a defense against the atomic bomb and as a means of employing it on the offense, De Seversky argued. For that reason, he said, America must remain strong in the air and should have an independent air force.

Fresh from an audience with Emperor Hirohito, De Seversky said the Emperor believed aviation would play a major role in cementing friendship among the nations of the world.

Yokohama, Nov. 2 (A. P.).—The Army transports General Randall and Sea Runner will embark tomorrow with 7,348 veterans from the Eighth Army and Air Forces bound for home and civilian life.

The U. S. S. Sea Witch, which arrived yesterday, is scheduled to depart November 11 with eighty-eight officers and 1,478 men of the veteran American division. The ship is undergoing repairs which may delay the departure.

Minimizes Atom Bomb Damage

De Seversky Convinced That Army, Navy and Air Forces Still Are Needed.

Tokyo, Nov. 2 (A. P.).—Major Alexander P. de Seversky, warplane designer who is studying aerial bomb damage in Japan, said today he found nothing in an inspection of atom-bombed Hiroshima and Nagasaki "that indicates to me a radical revolution in the science of warfare to the point where we can dispense with the Army, Navy and Air Forces."

He told a news conference he failed to find any indication of primary fire caused by the bombs, and said they "fired the imagination more than they fired the cities."

Most of the 60,000 deaths reported from Hiroshima, he said, resulted from falling parts of flimsy structures. The fire that followed the bombing, he added, was started by hot stoves.

De Seversky expressed the opinion that the bomb was highly effective against Japanese cities of much wood construction, but he doubted that they would be equally destructive against a modern Western city of concrete and steel structures.

"If a bomb like that dropped over Hiroshima were dropped over one of our cities," he said, "we would lose a lot of glass if windows were closed" and the loss of life in the center of the bombed area would be "no more than that from a 20,000-pound bomb."

The plane designer said he was not convinced that the atomic bomb would make it possible "to dispense with incendiaries and high explosives if we are going to tackle well-prepared cities with concrete structures."

He warned against getting hysterical about atomic bomb efficiency, but call it "a great step in the science of demolition. It's only the beginning, and great strides may be made," he added.

De Seversky said he was anxious for a test of an atomic bomb against a battleship and predicted that one would be made shortly. He expressed the opinion that a bomb like the one used at Nagasaki would have little effect unless a direct hit were scored, and "then the results would be phenomenal."

After a 15-minute conference with Emperor Hirohito, De Seversky came away from the palace with the impression that the imperial head of Japan believed that aviation will play a large part in cementing worldwide friendship of nations.

De Seversky said he told the Emperor that the latter had a good understanding of air power, evidenced by his decision to end the war and save Japanese lives —"a better understanding than Goering had."

De Seversky called the atomic bomb a good means of applying power "at the right time and place," but he added that a strong air force must first win supremacy in the skies before atomic bomb planes could get over their targets.

He acknowledged the possibility of a surprise atom bomb attack, and urged maintenance of a strong, permanent air force.

"Only airmen can handle this," he said. "That's why we are anxious to have an autonomous force."

BURIALS ALIVE LAID TO JAPS

Yamashita Trial Told Of Mass Murder In Manila Hole

Manila, Saturday, Nov. 3 (AP)—A Filipino boy who escaped a hole in which 40 persons perished, some buried alive, on February 10 during the battle of Manila, testified today at the war crimes trial of Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita.

Witnesses at this morning's hearing before the United States Army Commission told of at least 300 male civilians being tied, tortured and killed on that day by Yamashita's soldiers.

The Filipino boy said he had been used for labor, then was blindfolded and pushed into the hole where several were dead, others dying.

Girl In Accusations

A Japanese tossed in a grenade. Fragments wounded the boy in the arm and leg. Then the soldiers shoveled dirt into the hole while some of the occupants either moaned or screamed for mercy.

A 17-year-old Filipino girl witness at the war crimes trial of Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita shattered the quiet of the session today with screaming accusations at the Japanese army commander.

"You ought to be hanged and cut up in little pieces," Julieta Milanes shouted at Yamashita, after reciting how Japanese soldiers entered her home last February 10 and bore her father and brother to their death.

Yamashita Sits Unmoved

"You are laughing at me," the girl screamed, pointing at the Japanese. "You should be shot. Don't you sit and laugh at me any more."

Yamashita sat unmoved through the testimony.

Nipponese troops machine-gunned and burned 500 to 1,000 persons in a carnival of murder at the German club last February, other witnesses related yesterday.

One witness testified that the Japanese during the battle of Manila led the victims from hiding places under the club building and tortured and shot them after performing acts so "bestial it is hard to find words to describe them."

Proceedings In Uproar

Once the military commission proceedings were thrown into an uproar when a Chinese woman witness, completing her testimony, leaped to her feet and shouted in Chinese at Yamashita, "I'd like to kill that man."

She was escorted forcibly from the courtroom, yelling over her shoulder: "He's got to be killed for what he has done."

She had testified that she had lost nine out of her family of twelve in the slaughter by Yamashita's troops of 39 Chinese in a Manila lumber yard February 10. She said her 4-year-old son had been bayoneted repeatedly.

Escapes From Flaming Grave

A pretty Filipino girl said her mother and four brothers were killed by Japanese, who set fire to a building in their yard where they had taken refuge, then threw in hand grenades.

She herself escaped with horrible leg burns from a flaming grave into which she said the Japanese had tossed her.

Jose Maldonado, a Spaniard, said that during the fighting the Japanese came to his home where at least 50 persons had sought safety, locked the men in the bathroom and threw in a grenade, and bayoneted and raped the women.

Yamashita's Name Not Mentioned

Yamashita's name was not mentioned throughout the testimony of the crimes of his troops, for which the prosecution is demanding his death.

His counsel declined to cross-examine witnesses, except to bring out that most of the Japanese personnel in Manila was naval. That may be used by the defense in an attempt to show that the navy—not the men of Yamashita's army—was responsible.

Witnesses Demand Yamashita's Death

Manila, Nov. 2 (AP)—Chinese, Filipino and Spanish witnesses who hysterically cursed the Japanese and screamed for the death of Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, threw the war criminal trial of the former Japanese commander in chief in the Philippines in continual turmoil today.

Members of the prosecution staff and interpreters both were required to quiet a Chinese woman whose 4-year-old son had been snatched from her arms and repeatedly bayoneted.

The woman testified she had lost nine of the twelve in her family, had seen women and children slain and ravished when 39 Chinese were herded into a lumber yard and murdered last February 10.

Blamed For Everything

"I'd like to kill that Japanese man," she screamed in Chinese at Yamashita as she finished her testimony.

"That Jap is to blame for everything. He's got to be killed to pay for what he's done."

Scenes so "bestial it is hard to find words to describe them," were related by witnesses of the mass slaying of 500 to 1,000 civilians who had taken refuge in the Manila German club on the same day.

Spanish Francisco Lopez, former Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer representative in the Philippines, shouted that all Japanese soldiers were "sadists and beasts" as he testified that Yamashita's troops poured gasoline over women's heads and set them afire, made sport of young girls for the entertainment of other Japanese at a club and then raped one of the girls after she was dead.

Says Wife Was Stabbed

Another Spaniard, Jose Maldonado, described the tossing of a hand grenade into a bathroom where the Japanese had locked up all the men of a group of 50 who sought refuge in a certain home. Five were killed and many maimed.

He said his wife, 22-year-old Maria, was stabbed in the back with a bayonet and the point stuck out two inches from her chest.

An elderly Spaniard glared hard at Yamashita as he told of being wounded in the bathroom and then stumbling out into the kitchen where he found three women who had been misued by the Japanese and then slain.

A pretty, 21-year-old Filipino girl, who exhibited a horribly scarred leg, testified how she and some 50 others had been shut in a walled yard, the entrances set afire and grenades thrown at them. She escaped by running through the flames.

DUTRA CONTINUES DRIVE IN BRAZIL

Rio De Janeiro, Nov. 2 (A. P.).—Gen. Eurico Gaspar Dutra said in a statement carried by the Brazilian press today that he would continue to campaign for the presidency in the same manner as he had before the political upheavel which ousted his supporter, President Getulio Vargas.

Dutra said that the upheaval had no connection with any political party or with the campaign itself. The opposition candidate is Gen. Eduardo Gomes. Vargas himself was not a candidate.

The interim Government of President Jose Linahres, paving the way for the December 2 national elections, issued decree No. 1 yesterday, abolishing a Vargas measure which would have given Vargas-appointed State officials a degree of control over the elections. The decree set May 6 for state elections, which no longer will be held concurrently with the national elections.

U.S. Due To Net Less Newsprint

Montreal, Nov. 2—Canada will send more newsprint to the United States next year than ever in its history. The shortage that has hampered American newspapers during the war probably will continue, however.

The answer, according to manufacturers here, is simple. United States' mills more and more are devoting their available resources to the production of expensive magazine and book papers instead of newsprint.

Change Is Noted

Twenty-eight per cent of the American market was supplied by United States sources in September, 1939. By January of this year the proportion had fallen to 22 per cent. For the first six months of next year, on the basis of preliminary estimates, it will be only a little more than seventeen per cent.

Canada's share, in the meantime, has risen from 60 to 77.5 per cent.

Canadian mills expect to ship 1,500,000 tons of newsprint in the first six months of 1946, or at the rate of 3,000,000 tons a year. The figure is more than one quarter higher than 1939.

U.S.-Output Decline

Supplies from United States mills, on the other hand, are estimated for the first six months of the year at 335,000 tons, only about three fourths of the 1939 rate. The only other source of any consequence is expected to be Newfoundland, with about 100,000 tons.

Wartime timber controls are still retained in Canada. But increased shipments depend less upon controls than upon the number of workmen available in the forests at present and during the coming winter. Campaigns to recruit returning service men for forest work have met little response.

So far there has been a little improvement over last year, most of which has been erased by the unusually wet October weather.

Pay Fight Scrimmage Spreads to Government

Truman Advocates 20 Per Cent Wage Increase for Federal Civil Service Workers; Auto Workers Seek to Block Car Price Hike.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 — (AP) The steaming wage battle took new, sharp turns today with the scrimmage spreading into the government itself and no solution in sight.

Here, in short order, were the main points:

1. The White House threw its weight behind a proposal to boost federal civil service workers' salaries 20 per cent. Senator Byrd (D-Va) protested.

2. The C.I.O. Auto Workers, seeking a 30 per cent wage raise, threatened court action to prevent any "unwarranted increases" in new car prices.

3. None of the labor and management leaders—coming in batches from conferences with President Truman—predicted positive results from the labor-management conference starting Monday. But some were hopeful of some good.

Follows Truman Policy

Arthur S. Flemming, civil service commissioner, said he was authorized to state that the 20 per cent raise for federal workers would be "in conformity with the program of the President."

The pay scales of government workers, he told the Senate Civil Service committee, are below the levels of private industry and a raise is needed to bring them "to a plane of equality."

The endorsement for the 20 per cent raise for the bulk of government workers was accompanied by this recommendation:

A $10,000 a year raise for congressmen, federal judges, top people in the administrative branch—such as cabinet members—and more pay for other government officials such as undersecretaries and assistant secretaries and agency heads.

For congressmen and most judges the $10,000 hike would be a 100 per cent increase. All the increases, Fleming said, would come within the "government's wage stabilization policy."

Senator Byrd said that the Senate committee session the 20 per cent increase for federal employes would "set standards for the entire country."

Vice President Walter Reuther of the C.I.O. Auto Workers said his organization would go into court to prevent higher passenger car prices from going into effect if OPA should grant "unwarranted increases."

OPA Boss Chester Bowles has said retail price ceilings on all major makes of new cars would be announced within a few days.

Reuther said his union had been denied a look at the cost and price figures given OPA by auto makers as a basis fo rthe nwe car price schedules which Bowles is to announce.

Reuther told a news conference his union would "fight just as hard against price increases as it will fight for a 30 per cent wage increase."

The commerce department reported Thursday that the auto industry by 1947 could pay a 25 per cent higher wage. Reuther said that if this report was "brought up to date" it would show that General Motors is able to meet his union's full wage demand—a 30 per cent hike—immediately. Reuther said the report had been prepared last spring.

The Senate Civil Service committee has before it a bill by Senator Downey (D-Calif) embodying a 20 per cent boost for federal civil service workers. Flemming, the civil service chief, told the committee that higher scales are among the steps needed to "make the United States government stand out as one of the most progressive employers in the nation."

Cost of the whole program was estimated by Flemming at $415,570,000 a year, based on his figure of 860,000 affected civil service employes on next June 30.

This would be a sharp drop from the 1,221,000 on the federal payroll as of Sept. 30 who would be affected by the proposed pay increase.

Byrd took issue with the estimated decline in federal payrolls. "Present tendencies" do not indicate such a drop by next June, he asserted at the committee session.

More than 300,000 postal service workers would not be included in the pay rise, he added. He predicted that they would demand, and said they should have, equal treatment.

Byrd argued that the government's industrial workers, such as those in shipyards, would ask for the same increase, and the move would spread to private industry.

"What you would be doing would be to set standards for the entire country," he asserted.

"Grossly Underpaid"

Flemming recalled for the committee that Mr. Truman said in his Sept. 6 message that Congress members were "grossly underpaid" and that the federal judiciary should also be raised.

Flemming said federal civil service employes had received increases averaging 21.3 per cent since January, 1941, while the cost of living had risen 30 per cent.

In private industry, he argued, straight-time hourly earnings have gone up 30 per cent and "the President has urged private employers to increase wages" above that figure.

While the wage question thus boiled up within the federal family, President Truman took up the question of industry-labor peace with his cabinet and with more spokesmen for management and unions.

He talked with a dozen or more of the delegates to the national labor-management peace conference opening here Monday, and as they left the White House they gave varying opinions to reporters on its chances of success.

Said R. J. Thomas, Detroit, president of the C.I.O. United Automobile Workers: "I'm hoping something will be worked out at the labor-management conference."

Charles E. Wilson, president of General Motors—with whom the auto workers are embroiled in one of the nation's major wage disputes—took a more optimistic line.

The GM executive likened the conference to "an old New England town meeting on a tremendous scale" in which experienced business and labor leaders will "try to make a recommendation to the country."

No Definite Commitments

Neither side, he said, is in a position to make definite commitments binding upon all unions or all employers.

Earlier indications that the management delegates would seek from the session a commitment endorsing mutual responsibility in observing contracts were substantiated by the comment of James Tanham, New York, vice president of the Texas Co.

"Collective bargaining doesn't get anywhere unless there is responsibility to carry out a contract after it is made," he said. "x x x Some form of responsibility has to be attached to labor leaders to carry out contracts."

Emil Rieve, president of the C.I.O. Textile Workers, told reporters:

"The President is feeling his responsibility and is appealing to both groups to make this thing work.

"We promised to cooperate in an attempt to reach an understanding between the groups. Whether it will be a success or not is another matter."

Mr. Truman will address the opening session briefly on Monday, the White House said, but the speech will not be broadcast nationally.

United Nations Conference Seeks Educational Unity

NEW YORK, Nov. 2—(AP) An international concept of education is now being forged in London, where the United Nations educational organization, with delegates from 37 nations, met this week.

A draft constitution, adopted by Allied ministers of education last summer, already has received the tentative endorsement of 20 governments, including the United States.

In essence, the United Nations seek to develop better cultural understanding among the peoples of the world and to foster international cooperation in improving educational levels.

The task before the conference runs the whole gamut of educational and human relations. It can develop into an instrument for international peace based upon mutual understanding between nations. It can at least define the areas of disagreement to be worked over on a bisis of mutual appreciation of each nation's cultural and educational problems.

The destruction of constructive thinking in the conquered nations of the world and the imposition of a superstructure of totalitarian philosophy upon the educational foundations of such countries calls for their complete overhauling. This is now in process in most countries, but a general policy, whereby there can exist a free exchange of ideas and scholarship has yet to be worked out. This will be one of the chief tasks of the present conference.

Must Retrain Youth

The problem of developing democratic leaders in the former totalitarian countries means that their youth must be retained. In some measure this can be done within the individual countries; in a larger measure, there must be established a free exchange of teachers and students between democratic and former Fascist states, with its consequent free exchange of ideas and philosophies.

The conference can do much to outlaw biased distortions of historical events that now appear in many textbooks. It can promote the free exchange of books, written to interpret events in an international rather than nationalistic vein.

The devastated countries are in great need of new educational plants and libraries. The conference can do much toward fulfiling these needs.

Of paramount importance is the free exchange of scientific data for the betterment of society generally. An international body could help tremendously to coordinate and assimilate the results of scientific research.

These are but a few of the problems which the conference must face in the next four weeks.

The U. S. official delegation is headed by Archibald MacLeish, a former assistant secretary of state. The USSR has not sent delegates to London, a fact which will tend to limit the value of the conference's conclusions.

G. O. P., Democrats Fight New Pearl Harbor Battle

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 — (AP) Republicans and Democrats fought a new Pearl Harbor battle on the Senate floor today over Republican complaints that their inquiries into the disaster are being blocked.

Senator Brewster (R.-Me.) charged he had been denied by a five to three party vote of a Senate-House Inquiry committee the right to check a tip that vital documents are missing from Army and Communications commission files.

Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.) said that so far as the committee and its counsel know "there are no missing papers."

Senator Ferguson (R.-Mich.) asserted that William D. Mitchell, committee counsel, had "taken it upon himself to make policy decisions" by inviting the Army to pick some engineers to testify as witnesses.

Charges Prejudice Attempt

Senator George (D.-Ga.) retorted that Ferguson was trying to prejudice the case by "parading before the public" a memorandum from Mitchell that other committee members didn't know about.

Brewster declared that Army officers had changed their testimony when former Secretary of War Stimson sent Maj. Henry C. Clausen "around the world" to trace down new leads after an Army inquiry board had made its report.

The Republicans complained bitterly that while a committee action earlier in the day opened the way to government officials to volunteer information, they still are barred from looking at records unless a majority of the committee approves.

Barkley, chairman of the Senate-House group, replied that the inquiry would never get anywhere "if every member were authorized to be a private detective boring around in every department in Washington."

The committee decided to start open hearings Nov. 15.

The verbal battle developed when the two Republican senators took the floor to report to their colleagues that they didn't think the committee's action today lent itself to the impartial investigation Barkley had promised.

Earlier the 10-member group, on which there are six Democrats and four Republicans, had unanimously approved a request to the President to change an existing executive order.

Barkley explained that if the President approves the committee request, the procedure will be this:

Any individual in the government can volunteer information to a committee member. But the member will have to ask the committee for its approval before he can go to a government department and look at records.

Request Vote Down

Brewster asked specifically to look at War department records to see if an important telegram actually is missing. He wanted to check Communication commission files to determine if certain radio monitoring records have been destroyed. He offered to take a member of the committee's legal staff with him.

The committee voted down the request.

Then Ferguson sought approval for a proposal under which the President would direct all government officials to give the committee, individual members and counsel access to all records and documents.

Five Democrats voted against this. They were Senators Barkley and George (Ga.), and Representatives Cooper (D.-Tenn.), Clark (D.-N. C.) and Murphy (D.-Pa.). Three Republicans, Ferguson, Brewster and Representative Gearhart (Cal.) supported it.

The committee then agreed to ask the President to modify an executive order of Oct. 23 to permit government officials to "volunteer any information of which they may have knowledge bearing on the subject of the committee's investigation."

The Oct. 23 order was described by Mitchell, committee counsel, as a modification of an Aug. 11 order by the President which prohibited Army and Navy personnel from discussing or disclosing records in connection with the Navy's breaking of the Japanese diplomatic code in November, 1941.

Secretary of the Navy Forrestal recently urged the Senate Naval Affairs committee not to make public a portion of an inquiry board's report including intercepted code messages.

Backed by Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King, he said any such disclosure would dry up some continuing sources of information on which the Navy relies.

Brewster Says Official Records On Pearl Harbor Are Lost

Senator Declares He's Informed Other Files Have Been Destroyed—Inquiry Votes to Hear U. S. Employees.

Washington, Nov. 2 (A. P.).—Senator Brewster (R.-Me.) told the Senate today that he was reliably informed that certain Government records bearing on the Pearl Harbor inquiry are missing and that other files have been destroyed.

Brewster took the floor to complain that the procedure adopted by the Senate-House Committee investigating the Japanese attack on the naval base in 1941, gave its Republican members "concern" that the impartial inquiry promised by the Democratic leader, Senator Barkley (Ky.), could not be attained. He told his colleagues that the Republicans wanted authority for individual members to look at Government records, if the committee chairman approved. They wanted to trace some reports they had received, he said, adding: "Certain records are missing and certain files are destroyed, we are reliably informed." He did not elaborate.

Asks Volunteer Witnesses.

Earlier today the committee had voted to ask President Truman to modify an existing executive order to permit any Government employee to volunteer information to committee members.

The action came as a compromise after 5 to 3 rejection of a proposal by Republicans that any committee member be permitted to examine records bearing on the committee's inquiry into the disaster.

The group voted to ask Mr. Truman to revise his October 23 order which Republicans have interpreted as giving the Democratic majority a strangle-hold on directing the course of the investigation. They said that under the October order, that a majority committee vote was needed to obtain Government records or to call Army and Navy officials for testimony.

The effect of today's request would be to permit any person in the Government not only to give any information he has about the Pearl Harbor attack but also to volunteer facts to committee members.

The individual members, however would not be permitted to delve into records unless the committee first designated them as its agent.

The President's October order modified an order he issued on August 28 which forbade Army and Navy officials to discuss the Navy's breaking of the Japanese diplomatic code in November, 1941.

If today's request is met by the President, all of the information about the code breaking, as well as any other bearing on the inquiry, would be made available to the committee.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky announced that the group would start hearings on November 15.

The Republican proposal to throw the inquiry open to individual operations was defeated by a solid vote of the Democratic members present.

Voting for it were Senators Ferguson of Michigan, Brewster of Maine and Representative Gearhart of California, Republicans. Opposing it were Senators Barkley, George of Georgia, and Representatives Cooper of Tennessee, Clark of North Carolina, and Murphy of Pennsylvania, Democrats.

Joint Committee Votes For Sneak Modification

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—A Senate-House committee voted today to ask President Truman to issue a new executive order permitting any Government official to volunteer information about the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941.

The action came as a compromise after 5-to-3 rejection of a proposal by Republicans that any committee member be permitted to examine records bearing on the committee's inquiry into the disaster.

The group voted to ask President Truman to revise his October 23 order which Republicans have interpreted as giving the Democratic majority a stranglehold on directing the course of the investigation.

Effect Of New Request

They said that under the October order, a majority committee vote was needed to obtain Government records or to call army and navy officials for testimony.

The effect of today's request would be to permit any person in the Government not only to give any information he has about the Pearl Harbor attack but also to volunteer facts to committee members.

The individual members, however, would not be permitted to delve into records unless the committee first designated them as its agent.

Modified Previous Order

The President's October order modified a previous order he issued on August 28 which forbade army and navy officials to discuss the Navy's breaking of the Japanese diplomatic code in November, 1941.

If today's request is met by the President, all of the information about the code breaking, as well as any other bearing on the inquiry, would be made available to the committee.

Chairman Barkley (D., Ky.) announced that the group would start hearings on November 15.

The Republican proposal to throw the inquiry open to individual operations was defeated by a solid vote of the Democratic members present.

Those Who Voted

Vo ting for it were Senators Ferguson of Michigan, and Brewster of Maine, and Representative Gearhart of California, Republicans. Opposing it were Senators Barkley and George of Georgia, and Representatives Cooper of Tennessee, Clark of North Carolina, and Murphy of Pennsylvania, Democrats.

The committee last night called off a projected trip to Pearl Harbor. Barkley said members felt that it was more important to start hearings here.

Police Power to Curb Atom Bomb Urged for United Nations by Taft

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 — (AP) Senator Taft (R-Ohio) suggested today that use of the atomic bomb might be successfully outlawed by giving the United Nations peace organization police power to see that no nation makes one.

He said this might include provisions for inspections in all countries and an understanding that United Nations forces will "move in" if evidence of preparations to use atomic energy militarily is found.

The Ohioan advanced this idea during another round of impromptu Senate debate on the atomic bomb and the future. Senator Hatch (D-NM) touched off the discussion with a caution against reliance on a "paper" agreement to outlaw the bomb.

"Any international agreement," Hatch said, "must be backed by something more than the paper on which it is written."

While the Senate debated, President James B. Conant of Harvard University advised one of its committees against banking on outlawing the bomb.

He expressed his views at joint hearings by military and commerce subcommittees on legislation to set up a national science foundation.

Senator Fulbright (D-Ark) brought up the subject by asking if an analogy could be drawn between existing agreements outlawing use of poison gas and suggestions that use of the bomb be banned.

"No," Conant replied. "Poison gas was not used in the last war, not because it was outlawed, but because it was not an effective weapon."

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) came in with this rhetorical question:

"If you can outlaw the bomb why can't you outlaw cannon and airplanes and navies?"

"That certainly can't apply to the atomic bomb," Fulbright commented.

In response to other questions, Conant estimated it might take Russia 5 to 15 years to catch up with the United States in the field of atomic energy, but he said that was "a guessing game."

An eminent chemist, Dr. Conant was a member during the war of the top policy commission of the government on the whole field of uranium from which atomic energy may be released.

Hatch said he brought up the subject because Senator McKellar (D-Tenn) had urged yesterday that the United States seek an international agreement not to use the bomb.

"You cannot outlaw it by simple agreement and I don't want the people of the world to think that the U. S. Senate thinks that," Hatch said.

McKellar, leaving the presiding officer's chair and taking the floor again as he did yesterday, said "the agreement has to be implemented of course." He said that if Hatch had interpreted his remarks other wise he had "misapprehended" them.

"I'd put the figure at five to fifteen years," Conant replied. "It's a guessing game."

As Conant saw it, there are three lines of defense against the atomic bomb: (1) International arrangements, (2) Military preparations and (3) Basic research.

He also said that, just as the atomic bomb "is peculiarly the product of a highly industrial society, it is peculiarly adapted to the destructon of an industrial society."

Holds Country Weakened

This was in reply to an observation by Fulbright that discovery of the atom bomb has had the effect of weakening this country, making it more vulnerable to sudden and destructive aggression.

"We're the least likely country to use it first," Fulbright remarked.

The atomic-bomb discussion sprang up apart from Conant's prepared statement, in which he said that projected scholarships and fellowships in science "are by far the most important parts of the bill" under consideration.

Little Chance To Outlaw Bomb Seen By Conant

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—President James B. Conant, of Harvard University, advised today against pinning hopes on outlawing such terrible weapons as the atomic bomb.

For example, he said, poison gas was not used in the World War II "not because it was outlawed, but because it was not an effective weapon." The atomic bomb, he commented, is effective.

Dr. Conant, an emient chemist, was a witness at the last day of public hearings by Senate Military and Commerce subcommittees on legislation to set up a national science foundation.

Asks About Russia

Senator Fulbright (D., Ark.) asked Conant whether it would take three or five years for other countries such as Russia to catch up with America in the field of atomic energy.

"I'd put the figure at five to fifteen years," Conant replied. "It's a guessing game."

As Conant saw it, there are three lines of defense against the atomic bomb: (1) International arrangements, (2) Military preparations and (3) Basic research.

Hatch Fearful Of Agreements

Senator Hatch (D., N.M.) subsequently told the Senate that this country could put no trust in an agreement outlawing the atomic bomb without enforcement machinery.

Hatch said he was making the statement because of the address yesterday by Senator McKellar (D., States seek an international agreement not to use the bomb.

"You cannot outlaw it by simple agreement and I don't want the people of the world to think that the United States' Senate thinks that," Hatch asserted.

Challenged By McKellar

McKellar left the presiding officer's chair to go down on the floor for an exchange with the New Mexican.

The Tennessean said Hatch "misapprehended" his remarks.

"The agreement has to be implemented, of course," McKellar added. "But we can take the lead—the great, kindly neighborly lead."

Senator Taft (R., Ohio) put in that he did not see why it could not be outlawed and inspection machinery set up under the United Nations Organization with arrangements to "move in" if any country was found making the bomb.

The hearings have been conducted largely by Senators Kilgore (D., W.Va.) of the Military Committee and Magnuson (D., Wash.) of the Commerce Committee. Others who have participated include Senators LaFollette (Prog., Wis.), Cordon (R., Ore.), Brooks (R., Ill.) and Fulbright.

Reviewing Opinions Next Week

Next week, in executive session, senators will survey the mass of testimony they have received and attempt to put together a mutually satisfactory bill.

The project is a broad one. Pending bills call for authorizing "such sums as may be necessary" to spur research in military, medical and other fields.

These were among problems requiring adjustment:

1. Shall control of the proposed national science foundation be lodged in the hands of a single Federal official or in a board of experts? President Truman and Government officials say one-man responsibility is best; scientists ask for board direction.

Patents And Profits

2. Who shall get the patent benefits deriving from Federally financed research? Mr. Truman favors royalty-free, nonexclusive licensing of such patents. Objectors say if the Government helped equip a college laboratory it might order free use of everything the laboratory subsequently developed.

A national research foundation was porposed July 19 by Dr. Vannever Bush, director of the Office of Scientific Research and Development. Bush then estimated the cost at $33,500,000 a year at the outset and $122,500,000 annually after five years.

Outlaw Atomic Bomb, Say Executives Of CIO

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—The executive board of the CIO called on Congress and President Truman today to outlaw the atomic bomb as an instrument of war and urged that atomic energy controls be placed in the hands of the United Nations.

The United States' industrial know-how would, at best, provide only a temporary advantage "in any world race for atomic armament," the board said, and added:

"To enter any such atomic armament race with other powers would destroy any hope of international co-operation and could only end in disaster for the world."

The board threw its influence against compulsory military training on the grounds that "we cannot have both collective security and overwhelming national armaments."

The CIO leaders, who will participate in Mr. Truman's labor-management conference opening Monday, said in a statement that "the vast powers which are now being liberated for industrial, scientific and medical purposes must not become the tools of monopoly, but must remain in the hands of the people."

Campaign Traced

Kenney, a veteran of 30 years of service, traced the Southwest Pacific campaign from the outposts of Australia to Japan, asserting:

"In the Southwest Pacific enough forces never were available. This is not a criticism; it is a fact."

General Kenney said the lack caused General MacArthur to take several "desperate gambles" in which success resulted only because air power was flexible and under a single head.

Kenney said he was "unable to understand" arguments that the system which he said was required for victory in a theater—a single overall command—was not required for postwar defense and training.

Looks To Future

"I believe it follows naturally that we must have unity of command at the head and heart of our military structure at home," he said.

As to the future, General Kenney said that the "next aggressor" was certain to turn to the newer more powerful weapons such as guided missiles and atomic power, with the United States liable to become an active theater.

Delay In Victory Blamed On Rows

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—Gen. George C. Kenney told senators today that "Army and Navy arguments and compromises" caused delays in the war against Japan.

Kenney, who directed the air forces under General MacArthur for three years, urged immediate congressional approval of a "single department of armed forces with co-equal, co-ordinate combatant arms of land, sea and air."

"Even under war conditions the present system (separate Army and Navy departments) frequently resulted in time lost due to Army and Navy arguments and compromises," he said. "If such delays resulted in prolonging the war just one day, what price can we place upon the lives thus lost?"

"We are not looking for a beautifully dressed parade Army and Navy," he said. "We want and need an efficient, business-like fighting organization — an organization which gets us there in a hurry and which wins for us and will tolerate equipment only if it is the best available to do its job."

Delay Is Urged

Earlier the Navy League of the United States asserted proposals to merge the armed forces should be studied for at least a year before Congress acts.

At the same time the Senate Military Committee learned that two top admirals who favored integrating the services in 1944 have changed their minds.

Any attempt to place the Army, Navy and Air Forces under a single cabinet department would be a "grab for power at the expense of the public and the Navy," the Navy League declared in a protest filed with the committee.

Called Revolutionary

The league president, Sheldon Clark, said that the organization was a nonprofit, educational group of civilians formed in 1922 to support the Navy.

"We subscribe to the charge made by Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King that any move which places all military power under control of one man is revolutionary," he said.

"It is as much of a revolution as any military coup anywhere in the world, whether by force of arms or by stealth of selfish political interest."

Backed By MacArthur

The League's stand maintained the generally unbroken lineup of army people for the merger and navy people against it.

The committee learned yesterday that General Douglas MacArthur was strongly for it when he testified before a staff group of admirals and army officers in 1944.

Some surprise was expressed when the same testimony showed Admirals Chester W. Nimitz and William F. Halsey also favored merger at that time.

Stands Reversed

Halsey was quoted as saying there were no objections if it did not impair the Navy's standing. But last night he issued a statement disclosing he now wants a separate navy department, although he believes there "must" be a single command when forces are in combat.

As for Nimitz, he already had departed from his 1944 testimony that he favored "a single civilian secretary of the armed forces." He said in a Navy Day speech October 27 he wants an independent navy. He, too, praised unity of command in wartime.

Purpose of the 1944 staff meeting was to draft a plan for a unification of the services. The Senate Committee has been promised a copy of the findings later.

Truman Takes Labor Problem To Cabinet

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—President Truman today plunged into new conferences seeking the solution to labor strife and took the problem also to his Cabinet.

Fresh batches of industry spokesment and labor leaders conferred with the President on the national labor-management peace conference starting Monday.

As he left the White House, James Tanham, vice president of the Texas Company and a conference delegate, told reporters that "collective bargaining doesn't get anywhere unless there is responsibility to carry out a contract after it is laid."

Thomas "Hopeful"

R. J. Thomas, president of the CIO United Automobile Workers, said he would enter the conference with an "open mind" but observed:

"I'm hopeful something can be worked out, although I wouldn't go so far as to say something will be worked out at the labor-management conference."

Charles E. Wilson, president of General Motors, another White House caller, likened the forthcoming conference to an "old New England town meeting on a tremendous scale."

"A Citizens Meeting"

He said that it would be a sort of "citizens meeting" in which the men experienced in labor and management will be the citizens and try to make a recommendation to the country.

Neither side, he said, is in a position to make definite commitments binding upon unions and employers.

After today's 30-minute Cabinet session, Attorney General Clark said its principal topic of discussion was the approaching labor meeting, called by Mr. Truman to seek a substitute for the War Labor Board and the wartime no-strike no-lockout agreement.

The President's brief speech at the conference opening will not be broadcast nationally, the White House said.

Must Obey Contracts

Tanham said he was convinced, from collective bargaining in the oil industry, that "some form of responsibility has to be attached to labor leaders to carry out contracts where they are made."

"We've seen some of the fruits of collective bargaining in outlaw and wildcat strikes," he added. The Texas Company was one of the eleven involved in the recent dispute with the CIO United Oil Workers which resulted in navy seizure of more than 50 refineries.

The New York oilman's remarks bore out earlier indications that business representatives at the conference would seek from the meeting some form of commitment on full mutual observance of labor contracts.

UMW Journal Critical

At the same time the Journal of John L. Lewis's United Mine Workers asserted that "those in the know now look upon the outcome with less probability of success than would have existed a month or more ago." It also cast doubt on whether management delegates could bind their industries to any agreements reached.

The eighteen delegates of the National Association of Manufacturers and the United States Chamber of Commerce gathered today for a huddle before the main meeting Monday.

NAM Polls Employers

NAM carried into the caucus first returns from a hurry-up telegraphic poll of 15,000 employers to ascertain what industry generally favors or will accept in the way of machinery to abate labor strife.

The mine workers Journal charged that the administration became sponsor of the session without having "any practical plan of the whys and wherefores of such a meeting," and after waiting so long that strife had displaced peaceful labor relations.

Agenda Called Too Broad

"The conference agenda is broad enough to accommodate one of the navy's newest battle-wagons, and if the conferees expect to discuss each of the points . . . it may be presumed the conference will still be in session when the milennium arrives," the Journal said.

There were signs that management would join Lewis in seeking to limit the scope of discussion. One United States Chamber official said peace procedures—not wage issues, nor the full employment and jobless pay bills which CIO President Philip Murray wishes to include—should be the meeting's sole concern.

Scope Of Power Questioned

The UMW editorial went on to raise the question whether the "delegation representation has the power to execute an agreement of any kind or character that binds industry, saying:

"In the case of labor unions the authority is not as vague as in industry, but the same assurance should be forthcoming."

Truman's Strength In House 'Good'

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—House leaders declared today that President Truman's criticism of Congress this week did not harm his legislative program, and may help it.

This view was expressed by Democratic Leader McCormack, of Massachusetts, and Party Whip Ramspeck, of Georgia, when asked about the President's reference to "damaging delay" by House committees in handling of jobless pay and full employment bills.

Summary Of Opinions

The two gave slightly varying interpretations of what they expect, but their opinions summarized were:

1. Members of the committees involved resented the criticism, but for the present no minds were changed, one way or the other.

2. The appeal for action may stir up public support for the bills and switch some votes.

McCormack and Ramspeck both said they believed that the House Expenditures Committee will approve "some type of acceptable full-employment legislation" before the first of the year.

The committee has been considering a Senate-passed bill on the subject for nearly six weeks.

Jobless Pay Views Differ

The two leaders had varying opinions, however, about prospects of the unemployment-compensation measure before the Ways and Means Committee.

McCormack said he is still hopeful for favorable action soon. He said he believed that "some Republicans on the committee will see the light." Ten Democrats voted for consideration of the legislation recently, with ten Republicans and four Democrats opposed.

Ramspeck said he doubted that the committee would change its position unless members became convinced through messages from voters that the public wants it to do so.

"The entire effect of Mr. Truman's remarks about Congress will be the reaction it provokes among the people," Ramspeck said.

"Influenced By The People"

"Very few congressmen are ever influenced one way or the other by such a request. It is what the people want that influences them."

The jobless pay bill which Mr. Truman has requested would provide unemployment benefits up to a maximum of $25 weekly for 26 weeks.

The full employment measure would enunciate a Government policy of supplementing private industry, when necessary, with enough works projects to assure job opportunities for all Americans able and willing to work.

Rent Lid to Precede Building

Ceilings to Be Set on New Houses Before They Are Constructed, Bowles Says.

Washington, Nov. 2 (A. P.).—The OPA today announced that hereafter it will fix rent ceilings on houses before they are built.

Price Administrator Chester Bowles said the program would:

1. Encourage builders to proceed promptly, assured of the maximum rents they may charge.

2. Protect tenants from inflationary rents by providing additional housing.

Previously landlords could not obtain a rental ceiling on new housing until construction was completed.

Under the new policy rents for new units will be based on those for comparable accommodations in the same area, plus a "substantial allowance" to compensate for increased building costs since 1939. The OPA did not disclose how much this allowance will be, or whether it will vary from area to area.

NOV 3 1945

Fair to Both Bowles Says.

"The new policy," Bowles said, "is designed to assure ceiling rents on new housing units that are fair to both tenants and builders. It will protect tenants during the acute housing shortage from inflationary rents that would result if ceilings were removed. In addition, it provides liberal allowances to builders that will cover war-time increases."

He said that without this "vital" program there would be a "building lag."

This is the procedure:

Builders will present plans and specifications to their local OPA rent office, together with a proposed schedule of rents. The OPA will check the proposals against rent ceilings on comparable units in the area and add "an appropriate allowance" for increased costs. From this, the OPA will set the present ceilings.

Called Guard Against Inflation.

Bowles said rent ceilings "must continue to be placed on newly constructed units to prevent discrimination against landlords with fixed rent ceilings and to protect tenants from inflationary rents."

Until October 15, the OPA based its rent ceilings on new housing on figures supplied by the National Housing Administration. Since the removal of construction controls, the NHA has not set rent ceilings. The new program was worked out because of this, the OPA said.

HIGGINS OFFERS TO SELL PLANTS

Proposes Strikers Purchase Three Closed Louisiana Boat Shops.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Andrew J. Higgins, New Orleans boat builder, proposed yesterday that A.F.L. unoins purchase and operate the three plants he closed because of their strike.

"There'll be no more Higgins Industries, Inc., in the manufacturing business in New Orleans," he said in an interview after suddenly shutting down the plants on the fourth day of a strike by about 2,000 members of 33 A.F.L. locals.

Planned to Hire 30,000

His discarded postwar plans, Higgins said, called for employment of 30,000 persons "and millions in payrolls annually." At the wartime peak the plants employed 13,000 but the number has fallen to 2,500 since.

Other major labor developments included:

1. The C.I.O. United Automobile Workers threatened to go to court to prevent increases in passenger car prices if the OPA should grant "unwarranted increases."

2. A.F.L. employes of Western Union in at least four cities stopped work for several hours despite a union cancellation of a nation-wide stoppage.

3. The administration urged Congress to grant higher salaries to civil service and other federal employes.

4. A Big Fir operators' offer of 12½ cents an hour wage increase was accepted by the C.I.O. International woodworkers union in the Pacific Northwest lumber industry.

5. The number on strike or indirectly unable to work because of labor disputes over the nation totaled 266,000, compared with 244,000 on Thursday.

Strikers at Higgins Industries said they were protesting refusal by Higgins to negotiate with their unions for a new contract. At the time the plants were shut down, Higgins said, the firm had contracts for $40,000,000 for pleasure craft and other goods.

Higgins declared the only way he would reopen negotiations was for the unions "to give me proof that they have enough money to seriously negotiate to buy the plants." Officials of union councils said they would meet to decide the next step.

The A.F.L. strike was called "unfortunate and pointless" by two C.I.O. officials, Robert Starnes and W. T. Crist. "It appears to be designed to impede the National Labor Relations board hearing," they said.

The NLRB has in progress a hearing on the C.I.O.'s application for an election among Higgins workers to determine collective bargaining agents.

Fights Price Increase

Walter P. Reuther, vice president of the C.I.O. United Automobile Workers, announced in Washington the union would take court action to keep passenger automobile prices down. He said his union had been denied access to cost and price figures submitted to OPA by automobile manufacturers as a basis for new car price schedules.

In rejecting the union's demand for a 30 per cent wage rate increase, General Motors corporation said granting of it would mean higher prices, fewer automobiles sold and consequently less employment. The union maintained prices could be cut, wages increased and company earnings boosted.

Ignoring appeals from the A.F.L. Commercial Telegraphers' union, some Western Union employes stopped work for several hours in Philadelphia, Detroit, Hartford, Conn., and Providence, R. I.

The company placed the number participating in the stoppage at 1,100 but the union said there were 2,460.

Most traffic over company lines to and from the cities involved was halted by the walkout. Exceptions were urgent government messages and illness and death telegrams, the company said.

Originally the stoppage was called as a nation-wide demonstration by 40,000 Western Union employes protesting a War Labor board grant of a four cents an hour pay increase after the union had asked from 15 to 16 cents. In other cities the demonstration was called off on an appeal from national C.T.U. officers.

Before the stoppage started, the Western Union president warned locals the action was, in effect, a short-time strike and a violation of a management-union agreement.

In the wake of President Truman's appeal for higher wages in industry, the administration urged Congress to grant a straight 20 per cent salary increase for Federal civil service employes.

A Senate committee was notified that the President also wished that pay of Congress members, cabinet officers and Federal judges be raised $10,000 a year generally.

Arthur S. Flemming, civil service commissioner, said straight-time hourly earnings in most industries were 30 per cent above the January, 1941, rate and that the President had urged private employers to hike wages above that figure.

Textile Workers Out

More than 25,000 C.I.O. textile workers were on strike over the nation as about 16,500 remained away from 19 plants in Maine, New Hampshire and Connecticut, in additional to 10,000 who have been out in southern mills for several weeks.

The 2,500 Connecticut and 4,000 New Hampshire workers struck for a closed shop or a union shop, while those in Maine, numbering 10,000, demanded a ten cents an hour wage increase.

Earlier members of the same union struck at 12 plants in North and South Carolina, Georgia and Texas.

16,500 Textile Workers Go On Strike

[By the Associated Press]

Approximately 16,500 textile workers struck today in nineteen plants in three New England states. Nine mills employing 10,000 were involved in Maine; eight employing 2,500 in Connecticut, and two with a working force of 4,000 in New Hampshire.

Union officials said the Connecticut and New Hampshire workers wanted closed or union shops and the Maine operatives sought pay increases and other benefits in addition to union shops.

Also about 800 workers at the Warwick Mills in Warwick, R.I., and the Interlaken Mills at Harris, R.I., are on strike.

Union Shop Sought

They called their stoppage yesterday. Warwick workers sought wage increases and Interlaken employés demanded a union shop.

The Maine strike vote followed an impasse over union demands that included union shop clauses and a 10-cent-an-hour increase in wages. The mills rejected the union shop but offered 8 cents an hour wage hikes.

The New Hampshire workers walked out after negotiations for a new contract, involving the union shop, broke down.

Mills Are Listed

Maine mill involved included York, of Saco; Androscoggin, Hill, Bates, Continental, Lewiston Bleachery and Dye Works (Pepperell) and W. S. Libbey, all of Lewiston; the Pepperell, Biddeford, and Edwards, Augusta.

Connecticut companies affected were the Putnam plant of Powdrell and Alexander, Inc., curtain and materials makers; Jewett City plant, of the Ashland Company, and the Taftville plant of the Poneman mills.

Both plants in New Hampshire are operated by the Nashua Manufacturing Company.

14TH AGENCY MADE IMMUNE

Senate Adds Army Engineers To List Of 'Sacred Cows'

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—The Senate added a fourteenth agency today to the list of Government boards, commissions and bureaus marked untouchable in its version of legislation authorizing the President to reorganize the executive branch.

By a roll call vote of 36 to 18 the chamber approved an amendment by Senator Overton (D., La.) exempting civil functions of the Army Engineer Corps from reorganization.

Overton argued that the Judiciary Committee in reporting the bill had classified thirteen agencies as "sacred cows." He added that to leave the Army engineers out of the same classification was to "invite" the President to give such jobs as river control and harbor work to some other Government branch.

Others Marked For Exemption

The other agencies marked for exemption by the committee are the Interstate Commerce, Federal Communications, Federal Trade, Securities and Exchange, Tariff and Federal Power Commissions, the National Mediation, National Railroad Adjustment and Railroad Retirement boards, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, the Federal Land Bank System, the District of Columbia Government and the General Accounting Office.

Senator Murdock (D., Utah), floor manager for the measure, debated vainly against Overton's amendment. He declared it was opening the way for further changes which would destroy effectiveness of the legislation.

"We can't get reorganization unless we are willing to delegate some of the powers to the President and repose some confidence in him," Murdock told the Senate.

Many Amendments Still Pending

With many amendments remaining to be acted upon, the bill apparently will not reach a final vote until next week. Leaders had difficulty keeping anything resembling a quorum on the floor.

Under the committee's recommendations, either house of Congress could keep a presidential reorganization plan from going into effect by adopting a simple resolution of disapproval. If the Congress took no action, the President's shifts would be made.

The administration would like to get rid of that feature. Senator Donnell (R., Mo.) counseled a "positive" approach to the problem. He presented an amendment which would require active approval of both houses before any reorganization plan could be put into force. The committee bill, he complained, is a "delegation of legislative powers to the President."

Navy Assigns Ports for 2,080 Laid-Up Ships

2 Major Areas Picked, 753 Vessels to Go to Florida and 506 Craft to Oregon

30.24 - 31379

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 (AP).—Berthing ports for 2,080 ships of the fleet to be kept in inactive status were announced today by the Navy.

Assignments were by categories of ships and represented space available, the Navy said, but specific assignments of ships by name have not been made.

Of the total, 1,007 will be berthed in east coast areas, 924 on the west coast, and 194 on the Gulf coast. The Navy said five other berthing areas are under study for accommodation of other ships if needed.

The 2,080 ships represent about a fifth of the Navy's war-time strength of 11,500 regularly manned vessels, of which some 5,500 are destined to be sold or scrapped. The rest will be retained either in active or reserve status. Plans call for rotation of individual ships between active and reserve fleets.

Of the ships assigned to inactive berthing, 400 are combat ships. The rest include mine, patrol, landing and auxiliary vessels and district craft of various types.

Two Major Areas

The two major berthing areas, on a numerical basis, will be the St. John's River, at Green Cove Springs, Fla., where 753 vessels will be tied up, and Tongue Point, Astoria, Ore., with 506.

New stations were established at Orange, Tex., and Tacoma, Wash. At existing naval stations, new piers are being added where needed.

The Navy said berthing schedules at Bremerton, Wash., and San Diego, Calif., were subject to modification. Construction of berthing piers at those points may be reduced by transfer of some ships allocated there to other localities where additional Navy-owned piers may become available.

Alternate locations now under study are the naval supply depot, Stockton, Calif.; the naval station at Seattle, and naval air stations at Alameda and San Diego, Calif.

Berthing space at the Todd Shipyards at Tacoma and Seattle was obtained by an agreement through which the Navy traded Navy-owned equipment for Todd-owned property. By the agreement the Todd company kept the Seattle yards and the Navy acquired facilities at Tacoma for use in berthing ships, making confiscation procedure unnecessary.

Florida Deal Worked Out

A similar agreement was worked out for the Green Cove Springs, Fla., site, where the waterfront property is owned by the naval air station. Under the agreement the Navy will take over the waterfront for berthing and maintaining the landing strip for emergency use.

All ships in the inactive fleet will be secured to berths, made airtight to prevent interior corrosion and decomposition and dehumidified by an inexpensive form of air-conditioning. All stores except provisions, ammunition and fuel will be kept aboard, cutting the cost of building warehousing space.

One ship in each "nest" will house a crew charged with general maintenance of all ships in the "nest," and each of the large combatant ships, such as battleships, heavy cruisers and carriers will be staffed by a skeleton crew in caretaker status.

All ships will be prepared for manning within ten days, and ready for sea action after a twenty-day shakedown cruise.

The assignments include:

New London, Conn., submarine base, fifty submarines, two submarine tenders, two big harbor tugs.

Bayonne, N. J., annex is under consideration for assignment of four battleships, four aircraft carriers and fifteen escort airsraft carriers if such additional berths are required.

650 Restrictions Listed

These restrictions on business are all that remain of 650 which were in effect at one time during the war.

In a farewell statement, J. A. Krug, retiring WPB chairman, said:

"I want to take this opportunity to again thank the nation's war workers and American industry for the untiring effort and wholehearted co-operation which made possible the unparalleled achievement of providing our armed forces and those of our allies with the mightiest arsenal that the world ha: ever known."

Co-Operation Needed

Krug said the same kind of co-operation among Government, industry and labor "is needed at this time to solve the problems which confront us."

Krug was away from his office today and could not be reached for comment on reports that he may take another Government post. He asserted some time ago that he planned to enter private industry.

WPB Set To Quit Business Today

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—Its job a part of history, the War Production Board goes out of business tomorrow.

The new Civilian Production Administration, successor to WPB, then will take over the task of guiding industry back to full peacetime operation.

"We hope to do as good a job as our predecessor," said a statement by John D. Small, who, as head of CPA, will administer the 52 industry controls and three priorities regulations which remain on the books.

SINATRA'S EFFORT TO SETTLE STRIKE AT SCHOOL FAILS

NOV 3 1945

GARY, Ind., Nov. 2—(AP) Evidence that Frank Sinatra, radio singer and actor, had failed in his attempt to induce striking Froebel High school students to return to their class rooms was presented at the school today. Nearly all white students remained away from classes.

Sinatra spoke and sang before a 'teen age audience of 5,800 at municipal auditorium yesterday. He led the audience in repeating a pledge of allegiance to the "democratic ideals of our home, schools and in our independent youth organizations."

But Leonard Levenda, 17-year-old spokesman for the strikers, said Sinatra had "made the situation worse instead of better."

Levenda said the strikers had taken exception to some of the crooner's references to two Gary citizens. He said the students were angered by Sinatra's reference to one of the men as "a two-bit politician."

Mayor Joseph Finerty, who was instrumental in arranging Sinatra's visit here, said he was "amazed" at the singer's remarks and that he had told Sinatra after the meeting:

"Your remarks were most unfortunate. You were ill advised in your statements and what you said in your personal remarks was a disservice to the cause and to the community."

Finerty said he had apologized personally to the two men.

The strike was called several days ago. The students said they were not attending classes because the school board had not disciplined Principal R. A. Nuzum for what they termed his favoritism to Negro students. An earlier strike had been called in September in protest to Nuzum's so-called favoritism. The school board exonerated Nuzum of the charge.

LONG JOB AHEAD, SAYS FORRESTAL

NEW YORK, Nov. 2—(AP) Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal today told 1,121 members of the final graduating class of the Columbia University U. S. Naval Reserve Midshipmen's school that the navy's job "is not yet finished."

Addressing the newly commissioned ensigns in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, Forrestal added:

"It will not be finished in either your lifetime or mine, because no matter how deep our physical and moral faiths in the construction of a world society built on law, power and force will nevertheless be necessary to that new order if it is to have a practical chance of working."

He said demobilization of reserve officers would take place "as soon as it is possible to bring it about."

Following his address, Forrestal told newsmen the Navy's strength probably would be down to 500,000 enlisted men and 50,000 officers by about next Sept. 1.

Secretary of the Navy Forrestal presented awards to outstanding members of the graduation class. Among them was Robert N. MacGlathlin of Kingston, Mass., for excellence in ordnance.

Oil Agreement Sent To Senate

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—President Truman today submitted the new Anglo-American petroleum agreement to the Senate for its ratification.

The agreement was worked out in London recently by the British and an American delegation headed by Interior Secretary Ickes. It replaces an earlier agreement which former President Franklin D. Roosevelt withdrew after it was criticized by industry.

The agreement, involving the United States and the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, was signed last month in London. It was made public then.

Transmits Agreement

The President's message follows:

"To the Senate of the United States:

"With a view to receiving the advice and consent of the Senate to ratification, if it approves thereof, I transmit herewith an agreement on petroleum between the Government of the United States of America and the Government of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland signed in London September 24, 1945.

"With the agreement I transmit for the information of the Senate the report made to me by the Secretary of State relating thereto, together with a copy of a letter addressed to me by the Secretary of the Interior and Petroleum Administrator for War relating to the agreement, and also a list of territories to which the agreement is intended to apply."

Former Enemy Areas To Get Jap War Plants

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—Edwin W. Pauley, President Truman's personal representative on Japanese reparations, said tonight that Japan's war plants capable of peacetime use will be moved to former enemy-dominated countries.

The reparations program in Japan, he said in a broadcast interview, will follow the same pattern as that for Germany" with the idea of putting a final end to Japan's war-making capacity.

The Japanese industry which is to be moved, Pauley said, "will go to those countries which as victims of Japanese aggression have valid reparations claims. It will be used to make the countries of East Asia, which were formerly dependent upon Japan economically, strong and independent in their own right.

He said Japanese steel production will be "kept down to the point where it is able to supply only minimum civilian requirements."

Dutch Get New U. S. Credit

$50,000,000 Sum Granted to Buy American Products

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 (AP). — The Export-Import Bank today announced an additional $50,000,000 credit for the Netherlands, to finance the purchase of United States products.

The terms are generally the same as those provided for under an earlier $50,000,000 credit.

Notes evidencing the first ten of thirty semi-annual installments will bear interest at 2½ per cent and will fall due commencing June 30, 1951. Those evidencing the next ten will bear interest at 3 per cent and will fall due commencing June 30, 1956. Those evidencing the last ten will bear interest at 3½ per cent and will mature commencing June 30, 1961.

The bank, in announcing the credit, said it stands ready to sell the Netherlands notes to commercial banks on "appropriate terms," which, it is understood, will be at par plus accrued interest.

Navy Jabbed On Doctors

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP) — The Navy Medical Corps was criticized today by Representative Boren (D., Okla.) for "holding doctors in the service who have no work to perform."

"I know of one case where a doctor has half a dozen convalescent patients, requiring about one hour a day of his time," Boren said. "His only other duty in the past five weeks has been to dispose of the carcass of a cow which was believed to be endangering the health of those in the naval establishment by drawing flies."

In another case, he declared, twelve doctors are attending eleven patients."

"These are not unusual incidents in the Navy's waste of medical manpower at this time," he asserted.

Retired Veteran Sues On Pay Issue

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 2 (AP)—Federal Court was asked today to decide whether a returned war veteran restored to his former job was entitled to wage increases he would have obtained through senority had he remained on the company's payroll.

The action was filed here by James W. Nevins, of Columbus, a toolmaker at the Curtiss Wright Corporation's Columbus warplane plant until his induction September 30, 1942. Nevin was honorably discharged last April 21 and restored to his former job May 23.

His Claim

His suit against Curtiss-Wright contends his pay was $1.15 an hour before entering the Army and that he was rehired at $1.20 an hour. He contended, however, that continuous employment under a CIO union contract would have made him elegible to receive $1.50 an hour, instead of $1.20.

The suit asks the court to order the company to pay Nevins the wage he would have received.

Curtiss-Wright officials explained that the question of a union contract was not involved and that the action applied only to the seniority issue.

Many Troops Only 'Killing Time,' Charge

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—Representative Bender (R., Ohio) may give the War Department the benefit of correspondence indicating that thousands of troops are doing nothing but "killing time."

Following a House speech yesterday on army discharges, Bender said he would like the department to see letters he has from "literally hundreds of young men sweating it out in forgotten corners of the world."

"Most of these men overseas and in camps right here at home are doing absolutely nothing," Bender told the House. "There isn't a reason in the world why they should not be furloughed home while they are waiting for discharges."

Ships-To-States Bill Introduced

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—Legislation authorizing the Secretary of the Navy to give interested states various obsolete or condemned vessels for use as shrines has been introduced by Chairman Walsh (D., Mass.), of the Senate Naval Committee.

NOV 3 1945

One bill would specifically give the famous aircraft carrier Enterprise to the State of New York, if wanted there as a memorial or shrine.

The proposal follows an offer by Secretary James Forrestal to give the battleships Texas and Louisiana to the states for which they were named. Another measure by Walsh would authorize the Navy to give captured or condemned guns, projectiles, flags, documents or other items to non-profit and patriotic organizations.

Improvement Urged In Artificial Limbs

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—A congressional committee said today that artificial limbs made for amputee war veterans are no better now that those made in Civil War days.

A report written by Chairman Kelley (D., Pa.) of a House Labor subcommittee on its investigations of aid for the physically handicapped advocated a well financed research program under the United States Public Health Service.

Kelley also recommended immediate discharge from the armed forces of all experienced makers of artificial limbs, expanded manufacturing and repair services, and intensive Government "policing" of the limb-making industry to "prevent fraud."

Every veteran, the committee report said, should get any artificial limb he needs, regardless of cost.

BILL WOULD INCREASE ARMY OFFICER STRENGTH

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2—(AP) Legislation providing an authorized strength of 25,000 officers in the Regular Army, as compared with the present figure of 16,000 was introduced today by Senator Johnson (D-Colo) at the request of the War department.

The increase would be made up by appointment of officers, in grades up through major, who have been in active service during the war as members of the Army of the United States, as contrasted with the Regular Army.

U.S. Jury Indicts 'Master Nazi Spy'

Philadelphia, Nov. 2 (AP)—George Lang, often called Nazi Germany's master spy—reported to be still at large in Europe—has been indicted by a Federal grand jury here on a charge of conspiracy to commit espionage against the United States.

Lang, according to the indictment returned yesterday, is charged with bribing Spanish merchant seamen entering the port of Philadelphia to make sketches of harbor facilities, war plants, army and navy concentrations and report all war activities.

The jury said Lang faces a death sentence or 30 years' imprisonment if convicted of the charge.

General Clay Returns For Washington Talks

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Lucius Clay, deputy military governor in the American zone of occupation in Germany, has returned to Washington for a series of conferences.

Clay arrived yesterday, accompanied by Robert Murphy, legal adviser to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, governor of the zone.

War Department officials, asked if Eisenhower also planned to come here at an early date, said they had received no word to that effect. They added it was possible Eisenhower would visit the Capital at some future time.

Clay was assigned temporary office space in the Pentagon Building upon his arrival here and was in conference with War Department officials during the day.

55 Pupils Arrested Over Gerald Smith

Los Angeles, Nov. 2 (AP)—Detention of 55 high-school students today broke up a second student demonstration in two days against use by Gerald L. K. Smith, America First party leader, of a school auditorium for a speech tomorrow night.

The students were detained while resisting efforts of 75 policemen to disperse 1,000 youths milling before the city board of education offices. Some fought with officers.

The 55 were taken to the juvenile detention station, where most of them were released. Thirteen were recalcitrant in questioning, police said, and were held until their parents came after them. No charges were filed.

MUSSOLINI'S BRAIN BEING STUDIED IN U.S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2—(AP) Microscopic examination of tissue from Benito Mussolini's brain by Army doctors in this country has given no clue as to how Il Duce got that way.

Col. J. E. Ash, director of the Army Medical museum, told a reporter today that "two scraps" from the forebrain of the fallen dictator have been received at the museum. He said that still incomplete study of the specimens has disclosed "no disease or structural abnormalities" such as often account for personality traits.

James Roosevelt Denies Political Aspirations

Beverly Hills, Cal., Nov. 2 (AP)—James Roosevelt, recently reported to be a possible candidate for Governor or State Senator, said today he has no current political aspirations.

The eldest son of the late President, in a news conference, said he was being kept busy as executor and trustee of his father's estate.

Senate Confirms Two As 4-Star Admirals

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—The Senate confirmed Frederick J. Horne and Richard E. Edwards today as four-star admirals.

William S. Farber and Harry W. Hill were confirmed as vice admirals.

The Senate also approved the promotion of 53 naval officers to the rank of rear admiral.

'Commando' Kelly Likes Filling-Station Job

Pittsburgh, Nov. 2 (AP) — Swapping bullets for gasoline, ex-Sergt. Charles (Commando) Kelly, Congressional Medal of Honor winner, was back today at a peacetime job of running a filling station.

Kelly, who won fame by slaying 40 Germans single-handed in 20 minutes, said he's happy filling up tanks.

"It's an honest living," he declared. "I like it."

NAVY NEGROES LAUDED

Washington, Nov. 2 (A. P.).—Lester Granger, special assistant to Navy Secretary Forrestal, and adviser on Negroes in the service, said today that the actual practice of the Navy's anti-discrimination policy in the Pacific lags behind standards on the mainland.

On a Pacific tour, he said, he found these two complaints prevailing among Negro Navy men. Slowness of promotion, due both to prejudice by commanding officers and to the fact Negroes were admitted to general duty too late in the war to have acquired seniority and segregation more frequently than on the mainland and sometimes enforced with unusual stupidity.

Yet Granger reported excellent examples of command of Negro Navy personnel in the Pacific. He said Fleet Admiral Nimitz had assured him Negroes, by their wartime service, had proved their right to continued admission to general Navy service in peacetime. Before the war they were limited to steward duty.

Surplus Property Official Resigns

Washington, Nov. 2 (A. P.).—William S. Bradley resigned today as director of the Office of Surplus Property in the Department of Commerce, protesting against revised regulations affecting purchases of surpluses by veterans. Bradley announced his resignation at a meeting of business paper editors where he was a guest speaker.

Five Nations Authorized To Purchase U.S. Wheat

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—The Agriculture Department today authorized five countries to purchase a total of 200,500 tons of wheat through regular trade channels for loading in December.

The authorizations included Belgium, 100,000 long tons; The Netherlands, 75,000 tons; Brazil, 8,500 tons; Portugal and Spain, 8,500 tons each.

The department said the authorization to Spain and Portugal stipulated that the wheat must be loaded at North Pacific ports. Shipments to the other countries may be loaded at any port.

Program Urged To Deal With Mental Disorders

New York, Nov. 2 (AP)—Dr. Robert H. Felix, medical director of the mental hygiene department, United States Public Health Service, today recommended a national public health program to deal with persons who have mental and nervous disorders.

"More than half of all the hospital beds in the United States are occupied by persons with mental and nervous disorders," he said in an address at the thirty-sixth annual meeting of the National Committee for Mental Hygiene.

TROOPSHIP HIT BY 7-DAY STORM

LaCrosse Victory Has Roughest Atlantic Voyage In Years

New York, Nov. 2 (AP)—Seven WAC's came home from France today aboard the army transport La Crosse Victory with approximately 2,000 men, who, said the WAC's, were "perfect gentlemen" and didn't utter a single "wolf call" the entire trip.

The women, six officers and one of enlisted rank, also said they went through a seven-day storm so bad that even pet dogs on the vessel were ill for nearly the whole voyage.

Two of the WAC's got so sick they were taken to the hospital at Camp Shanks, N.Y., where the troops debarked, to recuperate and another said she was "out like a light for five days solid" during the trip.

Roughest Trip In Years

The troopship went through what its officers and men said was one of the roughest North Atlantic trips in years. At times the gale was as great as 60 miles an hour and waves sometimes 20 feet high lashed the ship, whose speed was reduced to only four knots, they said. It sailed from Le Havre October 22.

The arriving WAC's were Lieut. Ruby R. Downs, Leoti, Kan.; Lieut. Ruth R. Johnson, Milton, Ore.; Lieut. Harriet H. Tuttle, Comstock, Mich.

Lieut. Emma Johnson, of Jackson, Miss.; Lieut. Johnnie J. Akin, Breckenridge, Texas, and Sergt. Lena Ward, Duluth, Minn.

Another troopship arriving was the navy transport Gen. George O. Squier from Karachi, India, with 3,329 troops, 17 Office of War Information personnel and "Susie" a 6-month-old monkey belonging to Sergt. Carl E. Mauldin, Phoenix, Arizona.

13 Reach East Coast

The La Crosse and the General Squier were two of thirteen transports carrying some 16,800 service men which arrived here and in Boston today. On the West Coast there were 22 more vessels with at least 11,500 troops.

Other ships docking in New York were the Zane Grey, with 108 men; Williams Victory, 1,951; Webster Victory, 1,934; Texarkana Victory, 1,935; Merak, 114; Sheepshead Bay Victory, 1,934, and the Samuel Gompers 30.

The Sea Spike originally was scheduled to arrive here today but now is not expected until Monday.

At Other Ports

Vessels reaching other ports, with the numbers aboard:

Boston—The China Mail, 21; William Mosely, 645; Laconia Victory, 1,986, and Jonathan Edwards, 650.

San Francisco—West Wind, Rutilicus, Green Bay Victory and the Machineel, carrying a total of 180 navy and Marine passengers.

San Diego, Cal.—The Escort Carrier Shamrock Bay, 1,365, including 4th Division Marines, and the assault transport Highlands, with 1,800 service men.

At Four Western Cities

Seattle, Wash.—The Toloa, 270; Sacajawea, 735 service men and 191 civilians, and the Cape Johnson, 570 army and 766 navy men.

Tacoma, Wash.—Cape Clear, 1,802.

Los Angeles—Destroyer Walter Young, 70, and the LSM Flotilla 8 of nine ships, total passengers undesignated.

Portland, Ore.—Omar Bundy, 367 army nurses, 47 officers, 2,720 enlisted men and 16 Red Cross workers, and the Gasconade, with 26 navy officers and 915 navy personnel.

A BRITISH INTELLIGENCE OFFICER WHO DIRECTED THE STUDIES SAID TODAY THAT MARTIN BORMANN, THE FUEHRER'S DEPUTY, ALSO WAS REPORTED TO HAVE DIED TRYING TO ESCAPE THE BESIEGING RUSSIONS.

BORMANN IS UNDER INDICTMENT AS A WAR CRIMINAL FOR TRIAL AT NUERNBERG. HIS WHEREABOUTS NEVER HAVE BEEN OFFICIALLY PLACED.

THE EXHAUSTIVE BRITISH INTELLIGENCE INVESTIGATION CONCLUDED THAT HITLER AND THE BRAUN WOMAN WERE DEAD AND THEIR BODIES BURNED OUTSIDE

THE BUNKER OF THE REICHSCHANCELLORY WHERE EVA SWALLOWED POISON AND HITLER SENT A BULLET CRASHING INTO HIS MOUTH ON APRIL 30.

"THERE IS NO EVIDENCE WHATEVER TO SUPPORT ANY OF THE THEORIES WHICH HAVE BEEN CIRCULATED AND WHICH PRESUPPOSE HITLER IS STILL ALIVE," THE BRITISH STATEMENT SAID.

"ALL SUCH STORIES WHICH HAVE BEEN REPORTED HAVE BEEN INVESTIGATED AND FOUND QUITE BASELESS; MOST OF THEM HAVE BEEN DISSOLVED AT THE FIRST TOUCH OF FACT AND SOME OF THEM HAVE BEEN ADMITTED BY THEIR AUTHORS TO HAVE BEEN PURE FABRICATION."

THE INTELLIGENCE REPORT TOLD THIS TALE OF THE LAST DAYS OF THE GERMAN DICTATOR AS GATHERED FROM EYEWITNESSES: NOV 3 1945

HITLER'S ORIGINAL PLAN WAS TO FLY TO BERCHTESGADEN APRIL 20 AND CONTINUE THE FIGHT. BUT TWO DAYS LATER, HE CONCLUDED THAT THE WAR WAS LOST AND TOLD HIS ADVISORS HE WOULD DIE IN BERLIN.
HE SUFFERED FROM NERVOUS PROSTRATION AND SOMETIMES HAD TAMTRUMS.
B79

HE COMPLETED PLANS FOR HIS SUICIDE THE FOLLOWING NIGHT AND FOR THE BURNING OF HIS BODY.

HITLER MARRIED EVA BRAUN ON APRIL 29 AND RETIRED WITH HER TO THEIR SUITE FOR A WEDDING FEAST, BUT THE CONVERSATION ABOUT THE SUICIDE WAS SO OPPRESSIVE THAT HITLER'S SECRETARY HAD TO LEAVE.

HITLER SAID GOODBYE TO ABOUT 20 PEOPLE ON APRIL 30 AND SENT FOR 200 LITRES MORE THAN 50 GALLONS) OF GASOLINE WHICH WERE DEPOSITED OUTSIDE THE BUNKER. THEN HE AND THE BRAUN WOMAN RETIRED TO THEIR SUITE "WHERE THEY BOTH COMMITTED SUICIDE--HITLER BY SHOOTING HIMSELF THROUGH THE MOUTH, EVA BRAUN APPARENTLY BY TAKING POISON" ALTHOUGH SHE HAD A REVOLVER.

PROPAGANDA MINISTER JOSEPH GOEBBELS AND BORMANN AND PERHAPS OTHERS WRAPPED HITLER'S BLOODY BODY IN A BLANKET AND PLACED IT IN THE GARDEN BESIDE THE WOMAN'S BODY. BOTH WERE DRENCHED WITH GASOLINE AND LIGHTED. HIS ASSOCIATES GAVE THE HITLER SALUTE AND RETIRED BECAUSE RUSSIAN GUNFIRE WAS HEAVY. THE BODIES APPARENTLY WERE RESAOKED SEVERAL TIMES AND BURNED AGAIN AND AGAIN UNTIL NOTHING RECOGNIZABLE REMAINED.
IF ANY BONES WERE LEFT THESE WERE BROKEN UP AND PROBABLY BURIED.

"ANY THEORY THAT HITLER IS STILL ALIVE WOULD REQUIRE THAT HITLER ESCAPED AFTER 2:30 P.M. ON APRIL 30 AND THAT EVA BRAUN WAS FOBBED OFF WITH THE CORPSE OF A DOUBLE," THE REPORT SAID, "BUT ESCAPE AFTER 2:30 P.M. WAS ALMOST CERTAINLY IMPOSSIBLE."

ROME, NOV. 2-(AP)-THE ITALIAN GOVERNMENT ANNOUNCED TODAY IT HAD APPEALED TO "ALL ALLIED GOVERNMENTS" TO PREVENT "ECONOMIC DISINTEGRATION" OF THE VENEZIA GIULIA AREA OCCUPIED BY YUGOSLAVIA.

IN A COMMUNIQUE, THE GOVERNMENT SAID IT WAS "PREOCCUPIED BY ALARMING NEWS FROM CAPODISTRIA AND IN GENERAL FROM THE B REGION BEYOND THE MORGAN LINE."

WHILE THE ANNOUNCEMENT DID NOT SPECIFY THE NATURE OF THE NEWS, A GOVERNMENT PRESS OFFICE SPOKESMAN SAID IT REFERRED TO DISPATCHES IN THE ITALIAN PRESS THAT YUGOSLAVS HAD PUT MORE THAN 1,000,000,000 OCCUPATION LIRE IN CIRCULATION IN ISTRIA AND FIUME.

THE MONARCHIST NEWSPAPER ITALIA NUOVA SAID 60,000,000 SUCH LIRE WERE PLACED IN THE YUGOSLAV BANK AT CAPODISTRIA, A TOWN OF 15,000, AND THAT YUGOSLAV AGENTS WERE TAKING ITALIAN LIRA OUT OF CIRCULATION XXX THROUGHOUT ISTRIA.

THE NEWSPAPER SAID THAT ITALIANS REFUSED TO HONOR THE OCCUPATION MONEY AS LEGAL TENDER AND THAT A GENERAL STRIKE WAS DECLARED WHEN THE YUGOSLAVS ATTEMPTED TO FORCE USE OF THE MONEY.

ROME, NOV. 2--(AP)---THE HIGH COMMISSIARIAT FOR PUNISHMENT OF FASCIST CRIMES ANNOUNCED TODAY THE ARREST OF UMBERTO AND SALVATORE SCALERA, BROTHERS, ON A CHARGE OF FINANCING MUSSOLINI'S MARCH ON ROME IN 1922.

THE PROSECUTOR'S OFFICE SAID THE SCALERAS, PROMINENT CONTRACTORS, WERE ACCUSED OF CONTRIBUTING MORE THAN 2,000,000 LIRE TO THAT MOVEMENT WHICH PUT ITALY UNDER FASCIST RULE.

(IN MOSCOW, INFORMED SOURCES SAID THEY ANTICIPATED NO IMMEDIATE DIPLOMATIC DEVELOPMENTS FOLLOWING THE EXPIRATION OF THE TREATY NOV. 7. THEY SAID THERE WAS NO CAUSE FOR ANXIETY.)

INONU TOLD THE ASSEMBLY:

"IT WOULD BE UNEXPLAINABLE UNDER A SENSE OF JUSTICE THAT ANY TERRITORY OR TURKISH RIGHTS BE JEOPARDIZED UNDER ANY KIND OF PRETEXT. WE DO NOT DOUBT THAT IF WE COULD EXPLAIN PAST EVENTS AND TURKISH RIGHTS TO THE SOVIET UNION, THE BRITISH EMPIRE AND THE UNITED STATES, THAT THESE NATIONS WOULD FIND US RIGHT. JERUSALEM, NOV 2-(AP)-THE PALESTINE POST ASSERTED TODAY THAT OUTBURSTS OF VIOLENCE WHICH PARALYZED PALESTINE'S RAILROADS AND COST AT LEAST FOUR LIVES YESTERDAY INDICATED "THE JEWS HAVE GONE OVER FROM DEFENSIVE TO OFFENSIVE ACTION" IN THEIR CAMPAIGN FOR REVISION OF THE BRITISH WHITE PAPER QUOTA RESTRICTING JEWISH IMMIGRATION.

"RESISTANCE HAS NOW EMERGED AS A PRIMARY CHALLENGE," DECLARED THE PAPER IN A LENGTHY EDITORIAL COMMENTING ON THE OUTBREAKS, WHICH A BRITISH MILITARY COMMUNIQUE BLAMED UPON JEWISH ELEMENTS.

"THESE ACTS OF DESPERATION REPRESENT A NEW, IF NOT UNEXPECTED, STEP IN DEFIANCE WHICH THE JEWISH PEOPLE WERE DRIVEN TO PROCLAIM BECAUSE IT WAS CLEAR THAT THE WHITE PAPER, FAR FROM BEING REVOKED, WAS TO BE CONTINUED IN FORCE X X X," THE EDITORIAL DECLARED.

"UNLESS THERE IS A CHANGE OF HEART IN LONDON OR BOTH IN LONDON AND WASHINGTON, THE ALARMING PROSPECT MUST BE FACED XXX (OF) A PEOPLE WHO CONSIDER THAT A FIGHT FOR THEIR VERY LIVES HAS BEEN FORCED UPON THEM," THE PAPER CONCLUDED.

(A LONDON SPOKESMAN FOR THE JEWISH AGENCY SAID THE ORGANIZATION "REPUDIATES RECOURSE TO VIOLENCE AS AN INSTRUMENT OF POLITICAL STRUGGLE" BUT "FINDS ITS CAPACITY TO IMPOSE RESTRAINT SEVERELY TRIED BY THE MAINTENANCE OF A POLICY WHICH JEWS REGARD AS FATAL TO THEIR FUTURE.")

THE SITUATION REMAINED TENSE IN PALESTINE. BY COMMAND OF MAJ. GEN. JOHN D'ARCY, BRITISH COMMANDER, MOVEMENT OF ALL MOTOR TRAFFIC BETWEEN 10 P.M. AND 6 A.M. WAS BANNED, EXCEPT IN MUNICIPAL AREAS.

AN UNDERGROUND RADIO STATION, DESCRIBING ITSELF AS "THE VOICE OF JEWISH RESISTANCE", PROMISED A HEBREW RESISTANCE GROUP COMMUNIQUE WOULD BE ISSUED TODAY. IT ASSERTED THAT THE PALESTINE JEWS HAVE NO INTENTION OF ATTACKING THE ARABS.

SINGAPORE, NOV 1-(AP)-TRANSPORT IS THE CHIEF BOTTLENECK IN THE EARLY RESUMPTION OF MALAYA'S RUBBER PRODUCTION, WHILE A COMMUNIST ELEMENT AMONG THE WORKERS MAY COMPLICATE THE PLANTERS' PROBLEMS LATER ON.

A REQUEST FOR RELAXATION OF RESTRICTIONS ON THE USE OF LEND-LEASE VEHICLES HAS BEEN FORWARDED TO WASHINGTON SO THAT MALAYA'S DRASTIC TRANSPORT SHORTAGE MAY BE RELIEVED.

ABOUT 300 PLANTERS ARE EXPECTED TO ARRIVE IN SINGAPORE WITHIN A MONTH TO BEGIN RUBBER PRODUCTION OPERATIONS, BUT UNLESS AN ORDER PROHIBITING USE OF LEND-LEASE EQUIPMENT FOR REHABILITATION AND INDUSTRIAL PURPOSES IS RESCINDED THE EXPERTS WILL BE UNABLE TO OPERATE.

IF WORK IS STARTED BEFORE THE END OF THE YEAR, SOME TRANSPORT MUST BE OBTAINED IMMEDIATELY, SAID ONE MEMBER OF A PLANTERS SURVEY GROUP. HE SAID IT WOULD TAKE SIX MONTHS TO IMPORT TRUCKS FROM BRITAIN.

ALTHOUGH ONLY ABOUT 25 PER CENT OF THE 1,000,000 MALAYAN RUBBER PLANTATION WORKERS REMAIN IN THE COUNTRY, OPERATIONS CAN BE STARTED IN NEARLY ALL AREAS BY TEACHING FORMER MAINTENANCE AND FIELD WORKERS THE TECHNIQUE OF TAPPING THE TREES. MANY WORKERS ARE DRIFTING BACK AND ABOUT 20,000 TAMIL LABORERS WHO WERE TRANSPORTED TO SIAM BY THE JAPANESE ARE AWAITING MEANS OF GETTING HOME.

THE MAJORITY OF PLANTATIONS HAVE BEEN FOUND IN CONDITION FOR OPERATIONS ALTHOUGH SOME MACHINERY WAS LOOTED BETWEEN THE TIME OF THE DEPARTURE OF THE JAPANESE AND THE ARRIVAL OF PLANTERS' SURVEY PARTIES.

A NUMBER OF PLANTATIONS ARE NOW GUARDED BY UNITS OF THE MALAYAN PEOPLES' ANTI-JAPANESE RESISTANCE ARMY WHICH IS MADE UP LARGELY OF CHINESE COMMUNISTS.

SOME SOURCES EXPRESS FEAR THAT THIS GROUP MAY PROVIDE A STUMBLING BLOCK LATER ON WHEN PRODUCTION ACTUALLY BEGINS. ALREADY THERE HAVE BEEN CASES OF ARMY UNIT LEADERS HALTING PLANTATION WORK. THE RESPGTANCE ARMY IS ADVOCATING A DAILY WAGE OF $3.50 (AMERICAN) FOR PLANTATION LABOR, COMPARED TO A PRE-WAR WAGE OF 70 TO 85 CENTS.

COLLECTION OF 35,000 TO 50,000 TONS OF RUBBER STOCKS LEFT BEHIND BY THE JAPANESE IS PROCEEDING, BUT MOVEMENT OF THE STOCKS BY SEA IS RETARDED BY LACK OF SHIPPING. ONE AMERICAN SHIP WILL CARRY THE FIRST SHIPMENT DIREGT TO THE UNITED STATES IS LOADING 6,000 TONS AT PENANG AND WILL TAKE ON MORE AT SINGAPORE.

JAPANESE STOCKS WERE FOUND IN ALL SORTS OF STORAGE PLACES BUT MUCH WAS LEFT IN THE OPEN AND SOME OF IT MAY NOT BE USABLE WHEN IT REACHES AMERICAN OR BRITISH FACTORIES.

BATAVIA, NOV 2-(AP)-PEACE WAS RESTORED IN THE MAGELANG AREA AT NOON TODAY BY A TEMPORARY TRUCE WHICH FOLLOWED A NIGHT OF SHARP FIGHTING BETWEEN INDONESIAN EXTREMISTS AND BRITISH INDIAN TROOPS, DURING WHICH RAF PLANES AGAIN STRAFED THE INDONESIAN FORCES.

ELSEWHERE IN CENTRAL AND EASTERN JAVA CONDITIONS WERE REPORTED GENERALLY UNIMPROVED, ALTHOUGH THE SITUATION AT THE NAVAL BASE OF SOERABAJA WAS DESCRIBED AS "VERY DELICATE."

COL. C.H.O.PUGH, COMMANDER OF THE BRITISH GARRISON AT SOERABAJA, SUCCEEDED IN EFFECTING THE EVACUATION OF 1,500 DUTCH NATIONALS,--MOSTLY WOMEN AND CHILDREN--AND A SIMILAR NUMBER WERE EXPECTED TO EMBARK TONIGHT.

A72

AT MAGELANG, BRITISH AND INDONESIAN LEADERS WERE REPORTED CONFERRING DURING THE TRUCE, EFFECTED WITH THE AID OF DR. SOEKARNO, PRESIDENT OF THE "INDONESIAN REPUBLIC," WHOSE CEASE FIRE ORDERS PREVIOUSLY HAD BEEN IGNORED BY THE EXTREMISTS. OUTCOME OF THE NEGOTIATIONS REMAINED IN DOUBT.

THE RAF STRAFING DURING THE NIGHT ENABLED GURKHA INFANTRY TO REOCCUPY ADDITIONAL AREAS IN THE TOWN, WHICH IS ABOUT 250 MILES SOUTHWEST OF BATAVIA, AND REDUCED DANGER TO THE HOSPITAL, PREVIOUSLY REPORTED UNDER FIRE BY THE INDONESIANS.

A BRITISH COMMENTATOR SAID THE FIGHTING INVOLVED EXTREMISTS APPARENTLY OUT OF THE CONTROL OF DR. SOEKARNO, PRESIDENT OF THE "INDONESIAN REPUBLIC," AND ADDED THAT A PEACEFUL SOLUTION DEPENDED UPON WHETHER THE EXTREMISTS WOULD OBEY SOEKARNO'S INSTRUCTIONS TO CEASE FIGHTING.

THE BRITISH FORMULA FOR SOLVING THE DIFFICULTIES WAS SUMMED UP IN A BROADCAST BY PSYCHOLOGICAL WARFARE EXPERTS OVER THE BATAVIA RADIO, WHO CONCLUDED THAT "THE BATTLEFIELD OF DEMOCRACY IS THE COUNCIL TABLE." THE BROADCAST SAID THOSE RESPONSIBLE FOR THE CURRENT DISORDERS IN JAVA WERE THE JAPANESE, WHO ORIGINALLY "GAVE UP THEIR CONTROL TO THOSE WHOSE DESIRE FOR SELF-GOVERNMENT THEY FIRST ENCOURAGED. THE JAPANESE WILL BE REQUIRED TO ANSWER FOR THIS DISOBEDIENCE OF ALLIED ORDERS, THE BROADCAST SAID.

IN THE BACKGROUND OF THE TROUBLED POLITICAL SITUATION, DUTCH ECONOMIC EXPERTS WERE ATTEMPTING TO COMPILE COMPLETE INFORMATION ON

30.74-31389

CURRENT INDONESIAN ECONOMIC CONDITIONS.

LACK OF A PROPER INVENTORY OF WHAT THE JAPANESE LEFT OF THE NETHERLANDS EAST INDIES PRODUCTION SYSTEM MAKES IT IMPOSSIBLE TO MAKE A DEFINITE STATEMENT REGARDING FUTURE DEVELOPMENTS, SAID A. LUYTJES, AGRICULTURAL CHIEF OF THE ECONOMIC AFFAIRS DEPARTMENT.

QUININE PRODUCTION WAS BEST PRESERVED, BECAUSE THE JAPANESE THEMSELVES WERE INTERESTED IN IT, HE SAID. THE RUBBER PLANTATIONS CAME THROUGH RATHER WELL, HE ADDED, WITH ONLY MINOR AREAS CONVERTED INTO VEGETABLE FIELDS. THE INDIES FORMERLY SUPPLIED 40 PER CENT OF THE WORLD'S RUBBER DEMAND, AND PROBABLY WILL BE BACK AT FULL CAPACITY PRODUCTION AS SOON AS NORMAL CONDITIONS RETURN, HE SAID.

BY HARRY FRAWLEY

PEARL HARBOR, NOV. 2-(AP)-ADMIRAL NIMITZ, USING AS HIS YARDSTICK, "HOW WILL IT AFFECT SEA POWER," EMPHATICALLY IS OPPOSED TO A SINGLE DEPARTMENT OF NATIONAL DEFENSE.

THE FIVE-STAR ADMIRAL WHO TEAMED WITH A FIVE-STAR GENERAL, MACARTHUR, TO DEFEAT JAPAN THUS ALIGNED HIMSELF ON THE OPPOSITE SIDE OF THE FENCE FROM HIS ARMY COLLEAGUE. MACARTHUR FAVORS A SINGLE DEPARTMENT.

THE SINCERITY AND DETERMINATION OF NIMITZ WERE NEVER MORE IN EVIDENCE THAN AT AN HOUR LONG CONFERENCE LATE YESTERDAY IN WHICH HE ELABORATED ON A 2,000 WORD STATEMENT OPPOSING A MERGER OF THE WAR AND NAVY DEPARTMENTS.

(THIS IS A CHANGE OF STAND BY NIMITZ. IN WASHINGTON, THE SENATE MILITARY COMMITTEE MADE PUBLIC TESTIMONY HE GAVE DEC. 8, 1944, AT PEARL HARBOR TO A SPECIAL COMMITTEE OF THE JOINT CHIEFS OF STAFF FAVORING THE MERGER IDEA.

(IN HIS TESTIMONY THEN NIMITZ ADVOCATED MERGER UNDER A SINGLE CABINET OFFICER TO REDUCE "ANY TENDENCY TO SEPARATISM" AND COMMENTED THAT KEEPING OFFICERS IN SEPARATE BRANCHES "ENGENDERS DISTRUST, WE'LL SAY, OR SUSPICION. PERHAPS DISLIKE."

IN THE STATEMENT, REEMPHASIZING THE POSITION HE TOOK ON OCT. 27 IN A NAVY DAY ADDRESS, NIMITZ SAID HE BELIEVED THE THEORETICAL ADVANTAGE CLAIMED BY ADVOCATES OF A SINGLE DEPARTMENT WAS NOT OBTAINABLE. HE HOLDS THAT THE DISADVANTAGES OF MERGER ARE SO SERIOUS AS TO MAKE THE PROPOSAL UNACCEPTABLE.

"I'VE SET UP FOR MYSELF A YARDSTICK AGAINST WHICH I MEASURE ANY PROPOSAL AFFECTING NATIONAL DEFENSE," HE SAID.

"HOW WILL IT AFFECT SEA POWER? WILL IT BE PREJUDICIAL OR TEND TO IMPROVE IT?"

NIMITZ SAID THE CLOSEST APPROACH TO A SINGLE DEPARTMENT WAS THE PLAN EMPLOYED BY GERMANY -- "HOW IT WORKED FOR GERMANY IS A MATTER OF HISTORY."

NIMITZ POINTED OUT THAT AMERICA STARTED OUT WITH A SINGLE DEPARTMENT OF NATIONAL DEFENSE BUT WHEN EXTERNAL TROUBLE THREATENED -- POSSIBLE WAR WITH FRANCE -- THE WAR DEPARTMENT HAD CONGRESS IN 1798 ESTABLISH A NAVY DEPARTMENT.

NIMITZ SPOKE OF THE PRIDE IN THE SEAMEN'S PROFESSION AND THE NEED FOR COMPETITION IN PEACE AMONG BRANCHES OF THE ARMED SERVICES. HE EXPRESSED CONVICTION THAT THERE WAS GREATER NEED FOR SOLVING IMPORTANT DOMESTIC PROBLEMS -- UNEMPLOYMENT, MANAGEMENT-LABOR STRIFE -- THAN IN TOYING WITH AN UNTRIED SINGLE DEPARTMENT IDEA.

"WE HAVE PROOF IN ACCOMPLISHMENT -- WINNING THE WAR UNDER THE PRESENT SYSTEM," NIMITZ CONCLUDED.

QUEBEC, NOV 2-(AP)-DELEGATES HEADED HOME FROM THE FIRST CONFERENCE OF THE UNITED NATIONS FOOD AND AGRICURE ORGANIZATI

CONFERENCE OF THE UNITED NATIONS FOOD AND AGRICULTURE ORGANIZATION TODAY AFTER HEARING CHAIRMAN L.B. PEARSON OF CANADA MAKE A FINAL APPEARL YESTERDAY FOR ALL MEMBER NATIONS TO HELP DISPEL HUNGER AND MALNUTRITION THROUGHOUT THE WORLD.

WASHINGTON, NOV 1-(AP)-A COMMERCE DEPARTMENT REPORT SAYS WAGES CAN RISE SUBSTANTIALLY WITHOUT ANY CORRESPONDING INCREASE IN PRICES.

THE REPORT DEALS CHIEFLY WITH THE AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY.

IN THIS INDUSTRY, SAYS THE REPORT, WAGES CAN BE INCREASED AS MUCH AS 25 PER CENT WITHIN THE NEXT TWO YEARS AND PROFITS STILL MAY BE THREE TIMES LARGER THAN IN THE 1936-1939 PERIOD.

SAID THE REPORT, WHICH WAS PREPARED BY THE BUREAU OF FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC COMMERCE:

"EVEN WITH A 25 PER CENT WAGE INCREASE (IN THE AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY), AND SOME INCREASE IN MATERIALS COSTS, PROFITS THREE TIMES LARGER THAN IN THE 1936-1939 PERIOD CAN BE EXPECTED, ON SALES TWO AND ONE-HALF TIMES AS LARGE.

"(THE YEARS 1936-1939 ARE USED AS A REFERENCE HERE BECAUSE THEY SERVE AS THE BASE IN CALCULATIONS FOR THE EXCESS PROFITS TAX AND WERE USED BY OPA IN DEVELOPING PROFIT MARGINS FOR PRICE SETTING."

CONTINUING TO DISCUSS THE AUTMOBILE INDUSTRY, THE REPORT SAID:

"WHILE SALES NEXT YEAR, EXCLUSIVE OF MILITARY PRODUCTS, WILL PROBABLY BE ABOUT EIGHT PER CENT BELOW 1941, PROFITS ACCRUED FROM THESE SALES WOULD BE APPROXIMATELY ONE-THIRD LOWER. PROFITS BEFORE TAXES WOULD, HOWEVER, STILL BE HIGHER THAN IN ANY YEAR PRIOR TO 1941.

"THE INCREASE IN MATERIALS COSTS IN THE PAST FOUR YEARS AND THE RISE IN WAGES, PAST AND FORECAST, EXPLAIN NEXT YEAR'S PROFIT POSITION RELATIVE TO 1941. AT THE SAME TIME IT SHOULD BE REMEMBERED THAT 1941 WAS AN EXTRAORDINARY PROFIT YEAR, NOT ONLY BECAUSE OF THE LARGE PRODUCTION BUT ALSO BECAUSE OF SUBSTANTIAL PRICE INCREASES."

THE REPORT PRESENTED THESE GENERAL FINDINGS:

"1. FOR A GIVEN SET OF COST ASSUMPTIONS IN A PARTICULAR YEAR, PROFITS RISE MUCH MORE RAPIDLY THAN PRODUCTION. THUS, A SIX-FOLD INCREASE IN PRODUCTION WILL YIELD A PROFIT 13 TIMES HIGHER. THE DIFFERENTIAL IS NATURALLY MUCH LARGER BETWEEN THE EXTREMES AND TENDS TO DIMINISH AT THE HIGHER LEVELS OF OUTPUT.

"2. 1942 MODEL PRICES ARE HIGH ENOUGH TO YIELD PROFITS AT LOW VOLUMES OF OUTPUT--EVEN WITH THE HIGH WAGE AND MATERIALS COSTS ASSUMED FOR 1947. PROFITS WOULD BE MADE FROM THE MANUFACTURING PROCESS WITH A 2,000,000- CAR OUTPUT.

"3. PRICES THAT WOULD YIELD PROFITS AT LOW-UTILIZATION OF CAPACITY HAVE BEEN CHARACTERISTIC OF THIS INDUSTRY. THE AUTOMOTIVE GROUPS HAVE EXPERIENCED A LOSS IN ONLY ONE YEAR--1932."

D60WX

1929	451
1937	338
1940	390
1941	423
1946	390
1947	610
1948	670

NOV 3 1945

"THUS," THE REPORT SAID, "AFTER TAXES THE PROFITS IN 1948 WOULD BE ABOUT THREE-FIFTHS HIGHER THAN IN 1941. THESE ESTIMATES DO NOT TAKE INTO ACCOUNT ANY BENEFITS THAT MAY ACCRUE TO THE INDUSTRY IN 1946 AND 1947 FROM THE PERMITTED SPEEDUP IN THE AMORTIZATION OF FACILITIES BOUGHT IN THE LAST FEW YEARS, SINCE SUCH PROFITS WOULD BE ALLOCATED TO THE WAR YEARS AND HENCE WOULD SWELL WARTIME, RATHER THAN POSTWAR PROFITS."

THE BUREAU SAID THAT THIS WAS THE "SIGNIFICANCE" OF ITS FINDINGS:

"IT IS APPARENT THAT PRESENT COST PRICE RELATIONSHIPS ARE SUCH THROUGHOUT INDUSTRY THAT A BASIC WAGE INCREASE IS POSSIBLE WITHOUT RAISING PRICES.

"FOR 1946 A GENERAL INCREASE OF TEN PER CENT IS POSSIBLE. SUCH AN AVERAGE WOULD MEAN A RISE OF 15 PER CENT OR A LITTLE MORE IN THE MANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES. SOME INDUSTRIES COULD AFFORD MORE, SOME NOT SO MUCH.. THE AUTOMOBILE IS IN THE FORMER CLASS--15 PER CENT CAN BE GRANTED WITHOUT ADVERSE RESULTS IN THE FIRST PREWAR YEAR OF RESTRICTED OPERATIONS, AND A FURTHER INCREASE OF TEN PER CENT CAN BE GIVEN FOR 1947 WHEN PRODUCTION WILL HAVE REACHED PEAK RATES.

"A MUCH HIGHER WAGE INCOME WILL HAVE TO BE SECURED IF DEMAND IS TO BE SUFFICIENT TO PRODUCE FULL EMPLOYMENT BY 1948."

NEW YORK, NOV 2-(AP)-THE NEW YORK TIMES SAID IN A MOSCOW DISPATCH TODAY THAT "NOBODY WAS MORE SURPRISED THAN MEMBERS OF THE ANGLO-AMERICAN CORRESPONDENTS ASSOCIATION" WHEN THE SOVIET CENSOR PASSED STORIES THIS WEEK CONCERNING THEIR CRITICISM OF RUSSIAN CENSORSHIP.

THE ASSOCIATION ASKED FOREIGN COMMISSAR VYACHESLAV M.MOLOTOV BY LETTER OCT. 20 FOR REMOVAL OF CENSORSHIP ON DISPATCHES TO BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES, SAYING "IT DESTROY THE VALUE OF FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE IN A FREE WORLD AND HAS CREATED GENERAL DISTRUST ABROAD OF ALL NEWS EMANATING FROM THE SOVIET UNION."

MOLOTOV WROTE THE ASSOCIATION THAT HE COULD NOT CONSIDER THE REQUEST BECAUSE IT CONTAINED NO SUBSTANTIAL REASONS.

"THE CORRESPONDENTS AGREED (AMONG THEMSELVES) TO SUBMIT THE LETTER AND THE STORIES TO THE CENSOR," WROTE BROOKS ATKINSON, MOSCOW CORRESPONDENT OF THE TIMES. "ALL STORIES WERE RELEASED FOR TRANSMISSION"

HE SAID THE CORRESPONDENTS HAD NOT SUPPOSED THAT A LETTER FROM THEM WOULD ALTER THE SOVIET POLICY, BUT WISHED TO PUT THEMSELVES ON RECORD AS OPPOSED TO CENSORSHIP AND WHY.

THE LETTER SAID SOVIET CENSORSHIP WAS "DICTATORIAL AND ARBITRARY" AND CHARGED THAT CENSORS FREQUENTLY HAD DISTORTED THE MEANING OF THE MESSAGES BY ALTERING THE WORDING. IT SAID SOME CENSORS WERE NOT SUFFICIENTLY FAMILIAR WITH THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE TO UNDERSTAND THE MATERIAL SUBMITTED AND OFTEN WERE NOT INFORMED ON CURRENT EVENTS.

SOME MESSAGES, IT SAID, HAD BEEN DELAYED FOR DAYS UNTIL THEIR NEWS VALUE WAS DESTROYED. IT WAS CHARGED ALSO THAT CENSORS HAD ASSUMED AUTHORITY ON MATTERS OUTSIDE THEIR PROVINCE IN CENSORING INFORMATION FROM NON-SOVIET SOURCES DEALING WITH NON-SOVIET AFFAIRS.

"NOW THAT THE WAR IS OVER WE RESPECTFULLY REQUEST THAT YOU ESTABLISH THE SAME CONDITIONS FOR FREE REPORTING THAT SOVIET JOURNALISTS HAVE IN GREAT BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES," THE LETTER SAID.

ATKINSON COMMENTED THAT CENSORSHIP WAS "THE MOST SERIOUS SITUATION WITH WHICH FOREIGN CORRESPONDENTS HAVE TO CONTEND IN THE SOVIET UNION."

"AS A GENERAL RULE ANYTHING PUBLISHED IN THE SOVIET PRESS WILL BE PASSED BY A CENSOR AFTER HE HAS COMPARED THE QUOTATIONS AND SUMMARIES WITH THE ORIGINAL. IN A DISPATCH THAT USES MATERIAL GATHERED OVER A LONG PERIOD IT TAKES A CENSOR A LONG TIME TO CHECK THE REFERENCES EVEN WHEN THE CORRESPONDENT SUBMITS WITH THE STORY A LIST OF THE SOURCES."

ALL CENSORS ARE PERSONALLY AGREEABLE AND A PROTESTING CORRESPONDENT IS COURTEOUSLY RECEIVED FOR RECONSIDERATION OF DELETIONS, THE WRITER ADDED, "BUT ALL THIS TAKES TIME."

NEW RIOTS IN CAIRO QUICKLY SUPPRESSED

Anti-Zionist Mobs Stone M.-G.-M. Theater—Yesterday's Casualties Put at 320—Egyptian Premier Blames Riff-raff.

Cairo, Nov. 3 (AP)—Anti-Zionist riots broke out in Cairo again today, but were swiftly suppressed by police.

Heavy patrols remained on duty throughout the city to prevent further renewal of the bloody violence yesterday in Alexandria, Cairo, Port Said and other Egyptian cities.

Maj. Gen. T. W. Fitzpatrick, acting commandant of Cairo police, personally directed his men as they broke up crowds that were stoning business establishments in the city's main business district today.

Shop Windows Broken

Windows of most shops along Soliman Pasha street were smashed and merchants were forced to shutter their stores before the short-lived outbreak was quelled.

[The British radio said that 230 persons, including 90 policemen, were officially listed as casualties in yesterday's rioting in Cairo, and that an official announcement listed nine persons as killed.

[The BBC said police in Cairo and Alexandria were ordered to shoot to kill if necessary.

Situation "Still Grave"

[A Mutual Broadcasting System correspondent said: "The situation is still grave." He said fourteen platoons of the Egyptian Army have been called out, along with tanks.]

The new flareup came after Prime Minister Nokrashi Pasha had blamed the Balfour anniversary fighting yesterday upon "riffraff" and predicted there would be no recurrence of mob violence.

The rioters stoned the Metro cinema on Soliman Pasha street, one of the main thoroughfares. The theater is owned by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Police In Army Trucks

Then they swept on to other main squares. Police toured the city in army trucks in an effort to forestall further fighting.

Crowds continued to mill through Cairo's Malika Farida Square, center of the capital's heaviest battles yesterday. Jewish shops in that section made no effort to reopen. Heavy police patrols protected them from looting.

Shouts of "Down with Zionism!" were heard as college students demonstrated within their school grounds.

U.S. Troops Restricted

American troops remained restricted to their barracks. Before the new riots broke out the British had expressed hope that restrictions on their forces could be lifted today.

In Alexandria's shopping center not one pane of glass remained intact. Communications were at a standstill, cafes closed and theaters not operating. Alexandria's death toll was set at six.

Premier Pasha said that Cairo casualties totaled 320, including 90 police, while 200 were injured in Alexandria. He reported 310 arrests in Cairo, including 150 for looting.

The Premier, who drove to the scene of one of yesterday's riots, said he personally arrested several looters when the mob raided a large department store.

"Seized By Neck"

"I seized them by the scruff of the neck and placed them under arrest," the Premier said.

The interior of one Cairo synagogue was smashed. Rioters overturned streetcars and attacked Jewish homes as well as places of business.

Several reponsible Arab sources publicly deplored yesterday's outbreaks today. Abul Eyoun, Grand Ulema of Alexandria (a religious teacher), said the rioting hurt the Arab cause because it was directed against "our Jewish and European friends."

Youth Leader Agrees

Salem Arb Pasha, leader of the Young Moslem organization, concurred in that opinion.

However, the influential weekly newspaper Akbar el Youm claimed it had learned that Cairo Zionist leaders had hired "mobsters" to stone Jewish shops in order to discredit the strike which had been called in protest against the Balfour note promising establishment of a Jewish homeland in Palestine.

CAIRO POLICE QUICKLY HALT NEW RIOTING

Death Toll In Two Cities Raised To 9 In Anti-Zionist Attacks

Cairo, Nov. 3 (AP)—Club-swinging police quickly suppressed a new outburst of anti-Zionist rioting today when mobs for the second day stoned business establishments and smashed shop windows in downtown Cairo.

The riots, which killed nine persons and injured 520 in Cairo and Alexandria, were strongly denounced by Premier Mahmund Fahmy Nokrashi Pasha as inspired by "evil hands." He promised "justice will take its full course with the criminals."

Most of Cairo had returned to near-normal this afternoon.

Stone Metro Cinema

The renewed demonstrations lasted less than an hour, but crowds surged through Soliman Pasha street, one of Cairo's most fashionable shopping centers, smashing numerous windows and stoning the Metro cinema, operated by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

From Soliman Pasha street, the rioting spread to other main streets in the business district. Shopkeepers immediately started closing their establishments, lowering metal drop doors or wooden shutters over the windows.

In Cairo's Malika Farida square, the center of yesterday's heaviest rioting, all Jewish shops remained closed. In Alexandria's shopping center not one pane of glass remained intact. Communications were at a complete standstill. Cafés and cinemas remained closed. Many shops in the bazaar section of Cairo were badly shattered, but workmen already had begun repairs.

Demonstrations By Students

College students continued demonstrations within college grounds, shouting "Down with Zionism!" but no disturbances were reported. Students at Fuad University sent a note to the British and American embassies protesting against the policies of the two countries on Palestine.

Reports from Alexandria said three more persons had died after yesterday's rioting, bringing the total deaths there to nine. No deaths were reported in Cairo or Port Said, Zagazig and Mansura—which were said to be quiet today.

Maj. Gen. T. W. Fitzpatrick, acting commandant of the Cairo police, took personal charge of the police detachments which broke up this morning's outbursts.

Premier Arrests Looters

Strong police forces patrolled the business sections of Cairo and Alexandria in army trucks and mounted guard over damaged shops to prevent looting. Hundreds of demonstrators were arrested during the day, in addition to 310 persons which the Premier said were arrested yesterday.

Nokrashi Pasha drove to one of the rioting scenes yesterday and, when a mob raided a large department store, personally arrested some of the looters. He said he seized them by the "scruff of the neck and placed them in custody."

American and British troops were still restricted to barracks.

The influential weekly newspaper Akbar El Youm said it had learned that Zionist leaders in Cairo hired hoodlums to stone Jewish shops in order to discredit the demonstrations, called in protest on the twenty-eighth anniversary of the issuance of the Balfour declaration promising a Jewish national home in Palestine.

Palestine Is Quiet

JERUSALEM, Nov. 3 (AP).—The clandestine Jewish radio station "Voice of Israel" said today that the anti-Zionist outbreaks in Egypt demonstrated the insecurity of Jews in neighboring Arab countries, and proved that Palestine should be made a sanctuary for them as well as for European Jews who survived Nazi persecution.

Palestine was quiet again after the widespread action against the country's communication lines earlier in the week. The only incident during the last twenty-four hours involved a British constable who was reported by police to have been insulted and manhandled by a large Jewish crowd at Tel Aviv today. The constable was rescued by two army officers and a military police detail after he arrest a man for a traffic-law violation, police said.

The clandestine radio announcer referred to yesterday's statement by British Colonial Secretary George H. Hall that "nothing could do a greater disservice" to the Jewish cause in Palestine than acts of sabotage at a time when the position of the Jews "commands much sympathy in many quarters." World-wide sympathy, the announcer said, did not prevent the death of 6,000,000 European Jews during the war, nor the issuance of the British White Paper in 1939, without which, he said, many Jews of Europe could have been saved.

Palestine Plea Made at Parley Of World Youth

Jewish Delegate Speaks to Egypt Representatives; Cartel Control Proposed

LONDON, Nov. 3 (AP).—Proposals for support of Jewish immigration into Palestine and for creation of a United Nations commission to control international cartels were placed today before the World Youth Conference.

Gedshon Hersh, Palestine delegates, addressing the Egyptian delegation, the only one present representing Arab countries in the Middle East, said: "I appeal to you. Let Jews into the empty spaces of Palestine, and Jews and Arabs will work together to raise the standard of living for all."

Hersh said he would attempt to have the conference commission on relief and international friendship embody his Palestine proposal in a resolution.

Elsa Graves, of Chicago, representing the Young Women's Christian Association's national council, drew cheers with her plan to have the United Nations set up a commission for control of cartels, trusts and monopolies. She said that "to talk about full employment is wasted effort unless we root out forever those forces which line up through international monopolies."

Youth Conference Urged To Back Jews

London, Nov. 3 (AP)—Support of the World Youth Conference for Jewish immigration to Palestine was urged by a Palestine delegate at the organization's session here today.

The speaker, Gershon Hersh, turned toward the Egyptian delegation—the only one present representing Middle East Arab countries—and said:

"I appeal to you. Let Jews into the empty spaces of Palestine and Jews will work together to raise the standard of living for all."

He urged European delegates to work for greater friendliness toward Jewish survivors in their own countries.

Cartel Control Wanted

Creation of a United Nations commission under the Security Council to control international cartels was recommended by an American delegate, Elsa Graves, of Chicago.

"To talk about full employment is wasted effort unless we root out forever those forces which line up through international monopolies, cartels and trusts to thwart the efforts of people to maintain peace and security," she said.

Youth Commission Urged

Representing the Young Women's Christian Association's national council, Miss Graves also advocated a youth commission under the United Nations, saying that "when dash and daring and courage were needed, our countries did not hesitate to use our services."

The American delegation suggested establishment of a commission to find ways and means of effecting fair employment practices throughout the world, regardless of race, color, creed or political beliefs.

ABUSE IN MALAYA CITED

British Women Reported Displayed in Windows by Japanese

LONDON, Nov. 3 (AP)—It was a "common occurence" for Japanese in Malaya to strip British women and place them naked in shop windows on public display a week at a time, a high ranking British officer reported today to the United Nations War Crimes Commission.

The officer, whose name was withheld by the commission, asserted that "shooting is too good" for the Japanese and "I hope they will be hanged."

In a letter to the commission the officer, who had interviewed men and women tortured by the Japanese, said that nineteen nurses who "refused to submit to these sex maniacs were taken out and bayoneted to death in front of other female prisoners, who had to bury them."

Detailing other atrocities, he wrote:

"Our troops found a woman and she was dead, thank God. Lighted cigarettes were in her nostrils. There were other atrocious details that are quite unprintable."

He suggested that the commission "show my letter to anyone who is sorry for the Japs."

Only 12,269 Returned of 73,502 Impressed by Japanese

LONDON, Nov. 3 (AP). — Southeast Asia Command headquarters said in a statement today that, of 73,502 persons sent into forced labor by the Japanese to build the Siam-Burma supply railway, only 12,269 returned. The known dead were listed at 24,490.

The figures were disclosed, headquarters said, when the Japanese handed to the British intelligence branch at Kuala Lumpur a sheet of figures — "without a vestige of embarassment of regret" —showing the disposition of forced labor sent from Malaya.

90 Million Face Hunger

LONDON, Nov. 3 (AP).—Ninety million European allies in urban areas may be "near starvation" this winter, Dr. H. C. M. Case, an agricultural economics expert of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, said tonight.

Dr. Case issued the statement after studying food production in Czechoslovakia, Greece, Italy, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, Yugoslavia and Norway.

Domestic food production will provide an average of only 1,200 calories daily this winter for about 90,000,000 persons, he said. Nutritionists generally consider 2,600 calories as "an acceptable minimum average."

"If the amount consumed by people off farms is to be raised to even 2,000 calories daily, the nations we have studied must import approximately 9,000,000 tons of food before the 1946 harvest."

Dr. Case said the U. N. R. R. A. already has shipped more than 1,000,000 tons of food into eastern and southern Europe, along with 2,400 milk cows to increase livestock production. The U. N. R. R. A. is scheduled to ship 5,000 head of cows, horses and mules a month during the rest of the fall and winter.

Germans Returned By French Declared Unfit To Work

This dispatch was written by Mel Most, who spent seven months in a German internment camp after his capture in the German occupation of Vichy.

By Mel Most

Croutoy, France, Nov. 3 (AP)—The first German prisoners of war returned to United States Army control by the French have been classified by American medical authorities as unfit to work and from personal examination I can report that many of them look almost like corpses resurrected from the horror camps of their own fatherland.

The former German soldiers, who had been turned over to the French as laborers, are being taken back by the Americans under a project identified by the army code name "Operation Skinny." They were called back after International Red Cross charges that they were being treated below standards set by international convention.

More Transfers Halted

The charges resulted in General Eisenhower halting more transfers to the French and then agreeing to take back those unfit for labor. The French have insisted that most of them were returned in the same condition in which they had been received.

One group of 1,151 prisoners arrived yesterday. It was a beggar army of pale, thin men clad in vermin-infested tatters. United States sources say the men had been adequately fed, clothed, shod and equipped with blankets when they were turned over to the French four months ago.

Associated Press Photographer Henry Griffin, who took pictures of the piled corpses in every German concentration camp from Buchenwald to Dachau, looked at them and said:

"The only difference I can see between these men and those corpses is that here they're still breathing."

[Griffin formerly worked in the Baltimore bureau of the Associated Press.]

Four On Stretchers

All said they had not eaten in two days. Four were brought in on stretchers. A few were hospitalized immediately and fed intravenously. The rest, after a light meal, filled out a questionnaire on their treatment by the French. Then they were deloused, given blankets and assigned to winterized tents to await medical screening.

At the screening it was hard to believe that some of them could be alive. One gray-haired 47-year-old man weighed only 92 pounds and his sore-blotched and scaly skin hung in thin folds.

This group followed two earlier batches totaling 1,323, bringing to 2,474 the number of Germans returned here for general rehabilitation so they can be sent home.

19 P.C. Severe Cases

Screening of the previous arrivals confirmed that all were unfit to work—three quarters of them because of malnutrition. Medical officers said nineteen per cent were severe cases requiring infirmary treatment and 31 per cent were "more or less severe."

General de Gaulle has told General Eisenhower that many French-held prisoners were received in a "deplorable state." Many of the new arrivals here confirmed that they had been classed unfit to work from the start, but previous groups said they had been worked in stone quarries, coal mines, farms and cleanup details of northwest France. Men in both categories said their condition worsened in French custody.

Germans Not Coddled

A visit to camps where the French are still working prisoners undoubtedly would reveal better conditions than among those returned, who are the worst off and who are not expected to number more than 100,000 of the 500,000 in French hands.

The Germans receive medical treatment and other consideration but are not coddled upon their return here. This camp—which has 28,279 other prisoners — is well-disciplined.

Official French comment upon this dispatch was not available today.

General de Gaulle told newsmen a short time after the ban on further prisoner ships that he believed such prisoners should be sent to their homes in Germany.

An original American-French agreement reached last spring called for transfer of 1,300,000 German prisoners to France to help in rehabilitation work. Some 700,000 had been turned over to France before the process was halted.

U.S. Provided Medicine

The Red Cross representations to the United States Army charged many prisoners were suffering from malnutrition, and that the French were not living up to their agreement.

United States authorities, taking the stand they were responsible for prisoners their forces captured, even though the prisoners were loaned to the French, immediately placed food and medicine at the disposal of the Red Cross.

Investigation of the situation was complicated by the fact that the 700,000 American-captured Germans were mixed with 150,000 Germans the French themselves captured.

I. L. O. Accepts Decision It Must Seat Argentines

Acts Despite Protest From Mexican Delegate

PARIS, Nov. 3 (AP).—The International Labor Conference accepted today the decision of its credentials committee that it had no authority to exclude Argentine government delegates from its meetings.

The conference's plenary session heard Vincente Lombardo Toledano, Mexican workers' delegate, protest the presence of the delegation from Argentina, which he called "a government founded upon the political theories of Adolf Hitler."

An Argentine delegate was present, but did not speak.

There was no indication that the issue would be taken to a higher authority, although some delegates said earlier that the latter might be referred to the United Nations Organization.

Germany's final seizure of Austria in 1938 was arranged by high Nazi officials in telephone conversations. BERLIN, Nov. 3 (AP)—At 8:48 P. M., on March 11, 1938, Reich Marshal Hermann Goering dictated the telegram the puppet Arthur Seyss-Inquart was to prepare inviting German armed forces into Austria.

Goering said that the puppet would not even have to go through the formality of sending the telegram—he would merely have to acknowledge agreement with its contents.

"Tell him," said Goering in breathless haste to the German State Secretary Wilhelm Keppler, "it is not necessary that he send the telegram. He only has to say agreed!"

Thus was arranged the pretext for the march of German troops into Austria, the act that led to the extinction of Austria as an independent state and her annexation on March 13, 1938, to Hitler's Greater Reich.

Out of the mouths of the Nazis themselves, living and dead, comes this inside story of the Anschluss.

Telephone Records Cited

The whole swaggering minute-by-minute account was shouted over the long distance telephone—Berlin to Vienna, to Rome, to London, to Linz—as the Nazis threatened, bluffed, cajoled, lied and dictated according to the necessities of the occasion.

At Goering's Air Ministry an efficient listening post copied down the torrent of angry words, fulsome boasts and wheedling flattery, and when Austria was delivered bag and baggage, Air Ministry officials bound the entire record of 100 neatly typed pages and 30,000 words inside a plain black cardboard folder labeled "Secret Archives. Conversations—Austrian case, March, 1938."

The historic folder went unnoticed among the tons of documents strewn about the wrecked palace of the Luftwaffe when the Red Army occupied Berlin this spring.

For two cigarettes two elderly Germans, who were cleaning up and burning the tattered paper in the court yard, loaded my jeep with these records. The folder on the Austrian case was included in the salvage.

Details of Blackmail Listed

Translated and condensed, the folder gave the detailed and chronological history of the biggest blackmail of its time.

The story was told largely in the stammering, repetitious slang of Goering's conversations with Seyss-Inquart, the Nazi Trojan horse and other Nazis in Vienna, with Ambassador Joachim von Ribbentrop in London who was to become Foreign Minister, with Prince Philip of Hesse, the son-in-law of the King of Italy whose royal wife died in the Buchenwald concentration camp, and with Maj. Gen. Karl Bodenschatz, Cabinet chief in Goering's Air Ministry office who was on the scene at Linz. Hitler himself came in on the wire once.

At the height of its blustering, Goering gave Austria an ultimatum to form a new Nazi government in less than two hours or 240,000 German troops would march into the country.

He commented that if 66-year-old Austrian President Wilhelm Miklas could not understand in four hours what had already been said, perhaps he could understand that language in four minutes.

The record opens with Goering's personal transcript of an international telephone conversation at 2:45 P. M. on Friday, March 11, the day before the German march into Austria, with Seyss-Inquart, the National Socialist Minister of Interior and Public Security whom Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg had taken into the Cabinet in an effort to appease Hitler.

Following is the transcription of that conversation:

Goering: "How goes it with you now? Did you resign, is there anything new to tell?"

Seyss-Inquart: "The Chancellor has called off the elections."

Schuschnigg Ouster Demanded

Goering: "Chancellor Schuschnigg's action is not sufficient. Calling off the elections can be only a postponement, but no change in the present situation which was created by Schuschnigg's behavior in breaking the Berchtesgaden agreement. It must be expected that the National Socialist Ministers, you and the others, will hand in their resignations to the Chancellor, and he will resign too. Send the telegram we have spoken of to the Fuehrer. Only through Schuschnigg's resignation can you receive an immediate order from the Federal President to form a new Cabinet."

This conversation referred to the national plebiscite that Dr. Schuschnigg, in a surprise move two days before, had called for the following Sunday on the Austrian Government's policy of independence toward Germany.

Next in the record was the transcription of this telephone conversation Goering had at 5 P. M. March 11 with one Dombrowski of the German Legation in Vienna, calling for the removal of the ban on the Austrian National Socialist party:

Goering: "By 7:30 a Cabinet must be formed and several measures taken, too. The demand to allow the party must be made at once. With all formations—the SA, SS!"

Dombrowski: "It is * * * there is no discussion necessary."

Goering: "With all their affiliates?"

Dombrowski: "With all their formations in the interior of the country."

Goering: "In uniform?"

SA and SS in Action

Dombrowski: "In uniform! The SA and SS already have been doing their duty for half an hour. All is in order."

Goering: "Someone special will go down there and say what kind of election it should be."

Dombrowski: "All right, there is time for it."

Goering: "Seyss-Inquart intends to put relations between Germany and Austria on a new basis?"

Dombrowski: "Yes, he intends that the independence of Austria continue, nicht wahr [is it not so]? And there should only be National Socialist control."

Goering: "He must also talk at 7:30 with the Fuehrer. About the Cabinet Keppler will give the names. Justice is simple—you know whom?" [Keppler was the German State Secretary temporarily stationed at the German Legation in Vienna.]

Dombrowski: "Yes, yes."

Goering: "Give the name!"

Dombrowski: "Your brother-in-law, yes?"

Goering: "Yes."

Dombrowski: "That is all in order."

Goering: "Be careful, all the people of the press must leave at once * * * The press people must be disposed of immediately."

Demands Disarming of Reds

The following telephone conversation at 5:20 P. M., March 11, between Goering and Dr. Franz Huber, who was in Vienna, was then recorded:

Goering: "Listen, Franz, you take Justice [the Justice Ministry in the new Cabinet], and on the Fuehrer's wish, also the Foreign Ministry which later on someone else will get. An important point—I forgot it before but it is self-evident. The speediest disarming, regardless of consequences, of the Reds who were armed yesterday."

At 5:26 P. M. the same day Goering talked again with Seyss-Inquart, and the following conversation was recorded:

Seyss-Inquart: "The Federal President accepted the resignation [of Schuschnigg], but he wants to give the Chancellorship to a man like Ender. [Dr. Otto Ender, Chancellor in 1930-31, and later an inmate of Dachau concentration camp.] * * * I proposed to the Federal President that he give me the Chancellorship. It generally takes three or four hours. As for the party we have not yet had the possibility of installing it, but we ordered the SA and SS formations to take over police duty."

Goering: "That's not good enough. The affair is rolling. Please! The Federal President must be told at once that he has to give you power as Federal Chancellor immediately, as he has been ordered * * *."

At this moment a Dr. Muehlmann took Seyss-Inquart's place on the telephone and reported: "The Federal President still refuses to agree and demands a diplomatic action, something official by the Reich. We wanted to make him understand in this hopeless situation there is only one possible thing to do, namely, to say yes. He wouldn't let us see him. It looks as if he is in no way willing to give in."

Goering then delivered his ultimatum as Seyss-Inquart resumed his place at the telephone.

Said Goering: "Go immediately with Lieut. Gen. Muff [German Military Attaché in Vienna] to the Federal President and tell him if the demands as you know them are not accepted immediately then tonight troops will enter who are already marching and deploying along the whole line of the frontier."

Goering continued: "Report to us immediately how Miklas stands. Tell him it's no joke now. Through a false performance he has held on a few moments but the fact is that tonight the march in begins for all Austria. The march in will only be held up and the troops stay on the border if we have a report by 7:30 that Miklas has given you the Federal Chancellorship. If Miklas couldn't understand it in four hours he must understand it now in four minutes!"

Seyss-Inquart: "Well, good."

This telephone conversation between Goering and Koeppler at 5:29 P. M. was then recorded:

Goering: "Koeppler, I should like to orient you. The die is now plainly cast * * * it must be remembered to block the frontiers at once because of the flight of foreign exchange and money. You will see to it that the party with all its formations are put into uniform. The Reds forbidden and disarmed. And then immediately occupying the leading positions in various provinces with reliable National Socialists. That is absolutely desired. It must be fulfilled absolutely."

Koeppler: "Jawohl."

Goering: "Then the Fatherland Front, its present constitutionally controlled activity as the only party must be disposed of at once."

Koeppler: "It should disappear completely?"

Sets Time Limit at 7:30 P. M.

Goering: "Yes. Klausner must get together with the fuehrer of the Fatherland Front and liquidate it. [Maj. Hubert Klausner, now dead, was leader of the Nazi SA in Vienna and was named Minister of Political Education in Seyss-Inquart's Cabinet.] These are demands which must be fulfilled by 7:30 and nothing shall be said against them. * * * We can't wait longer than 7:30. Naturally the concentration is not held up, about 240,000 troops are there. If we do not get any news by 7:30 their entrance will not be delayed."

At 6:28 P. M. Goering had this conversation with Keppler and Muff:

Keppler: "Muff has just now been upstairs with the Federal President who opposed it * * * Muff's action was unsuccessful."

Goering: "Then Seyss-Inquart shall dismiss him! Go upstairs again and tell him plainly that Seyss-Inquart will call out the National Socialist Guard and five minutes from now the troops will get from me the order to march in."

Muff: "The fact is Schuschnigg has been attempting to show the world the National Socialists have no majority and can only be put in through the armed threat of Germany. * * *."

There was a three-minute interruption by the Vienna telephone exchange, then Seyss-Inquart came to the telephone and this conversation followed:

Seyss-Inquart: "The Federal President still sticks to his old viewpoint."

Goering: "Listen, I will wait a couple of minutes until he comes out. If this cannot be, then you have to take over the power, nicht wahr?"

Seyss-Inquart: "Yes, if he threatens, then we are already marching in."

Goering: "Call me on a blitz (urgent) call!"

At 7:57 P. M. Seyss-Inquart put through the call and this was the conversation:

Austrian Government Out

Seyss-Inquart: "Herr Dr. Schuschnigg will give the news on the radio that the Reich Government gave an ultimatum."

Goering: "I heard about it."

Seyss-Inquart: "And the Government has removed itself from office. * * *"

Goering: "So, good! I will give the order for the march in and then you see that you take possession of the power. Notify the leading people about the following: Everyone who offers opposition or organizes opposition will be immediately judged by our summary court, the summary court of our marching troops. Is that clear?"

Seyss-Inquart: "Yes."

Goering: "Including the leading personalities, the same thing for all. * * * Furthermore, the Federal President did not commission you and that is opposition."

Seyss-Inquart: "Yes, indeed."

This conversation between Goering and Muff at 8:26 P. M. was then recorded:

Goering: "Seyss-Inquart should take over the government and carry out the thing quickly now. It would be best if Miklas resigned."

Muff: "But he won't do that. It was very dramatic. I talked to him a quarter of an hour. He declared under no conditions of force would he resign and he won't name a new government."

Goering: "So. And he won't quit under pressure?"

Muff: "He won't quit under pressure."

Goering: "What does that mean? Then he expects to be kicked out?"

Muff: "Yes, he won't move."

Goering: "Ah, good. If a man has fourteen children perhaps he keeps his seat. Now tell Seyss-Inquart he should take over the government." [Miklas, father of fourteen children, was kicked out on March 13.]

At 8:48 P. M. Keppler and Goering had this conversation:

Keppler: "Federal President Miklas has refused to do anything, regardless. The Government has refused to function. Schuschnigg told me they had quit functioning. The old Government ordered the Army not to offer opposition. So shooting is not allowed."

Goering: "Well, that is indeed wurscht." ["Wurscht" is Berlin

siang for "sausage."]

Keppler: "Now may I ask if a prominent personality of Berlin would like to say a few words to the Austrians."

Goering Dictates Plea for Aid

Goering: "I don't know right now * * * now listen: The following telegram should be sent here by Seyss-Inquart. Write it down. 'The Provisional Austrian Government which after the resignation of the Schuschnigg Government sees as its task the restoration of peace and order in Austria, addressed to the German Government the urgent request to support it in its task and to help it to prevent bloodshed. For this purpose it asks the German Government to send in German troops as soon as possible.' "

Keppler: "The SA and SS march through the streets but it is very quiet."

Goering: Listen, the frontiers must be occupied so nobody can escape with their fortunes."

Keppler: "Jawohl!"

Goering: "Seyss-Inquart should call upon the people we proposed to him. He should now form the government as he wanted it and give the news abroad."

Keppler: "Yes."

Goering: "He is the only man still having power in Austria. Today our troops shall cross over the frontier."

Keppler: "Yes."

Goering: "Good. Give him the telegram. Tell him it is not necessary that he send the telegram. He only has to say: 'Agreed!' "

Keppler: "Jawohl."

Goering: "Call me up either at the Fuehrer's or my place. Do it right. Heil Hitler!"

At 9:54 Keppler phoned from Vienna to Berlin and talked with Dr. Otto Dietrich, Hitler's personal press chief. This was part of the conversation:

Dietrich: "We need the telegram urgently."

Keppler: "Tell the General Field Marshal that Seyess-Inquart agrees."

The troops were moving over the border at dawn.

Coal for Soviet Holiday

BERLIN, Nov. 3 (AP).—Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov acted today to assure a warm celebration in Berlin of the twenty-eighth anniversary of the Russian Revolution next Wednesday. Coal dealers in the Russian section were authorized to distribute forty-two pounds of briquettes to each ration card holder in observance of the Soviet holiday.

NEW DELAYS SEEN IN GERMAN TRIALS

Plan to Give Defense Counsel More Time to Prepare Cases Considered by Allies

NUREMBERG, Germany, Nov. 3 (AP)—The Nuremberg war crimes trials, scheduled to start Nov. 20, may be delayed up to six weeks to allow defense attorneys additional time to prepare their cases, it was indicated today.

Examinations still are to be made whether Rudolf Hess and the bed-ridden Gustav Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach will be brought to trial with the first defendants.

Defense counselors are expected to demand additional time before the cases are called before the International Military Tribunal, and court observers said that they did not see how the tribunal could refuse. It was indicated that the start might be held up until Dec. 28 or Jan. 2.

The condition of Krupp has become so critical that he may be removed from the list of defendants scheduled to face trial as war criminals.

Krupp Partly Paralyzed

The stricken munitions king is in a United States Army hospital at Salzburg, where he will be examined by a special commission, including three Russian professors from the University of Moscow, which will decide whether Krupp can be brought to trial.

Krupp is the only one of the twenty-two top-ranking German war crimes defendants known to be alive who is not in jail at Nuremberg. Martin Bormann, also indicted with the group, is not in custody.

Krupp is reported unable to speak and is partly paralyzed. Some authorities say that he may die at any time.

Maj. Bertram Schaffner of Erie, Pa., is a member of the commission, which also includes a British and French representative in addition to the three Russians.

One of the Russians is Dr. Eugen Krasnushkin, a psychiatrist, who has been examining Hess, former No. 3 Nazi. Because of Hess' mental condition, there is a question whether he will remain a defendant.

In the event that Hess is able to face trial, however, he will be represented by Gunther von Rohrscheidt of Berlin, who was named as his counsel in a court announcement today.

A special phychiatrist also has been summoned from the United States to examine Hess.

Four additional defense attorneys were announced today, including D. Theodor Klefisch and Dr. Walter Ballas, both of Cologne, for Krupp; Dr. Walter Seimers of Hamburg, for Admiral Erich Raeder, and Dr. Hans Flaeschner of Berlin for Albert Speer.

Belsen Defense Finds New Witness

Lueneburg, Germany, Nov. 3 (AP). Herman Mueller, an SS official in charge of food stores at the Belsen concentration camp, has been found after a two-month search and will appear in the Belsen war crimes trial next week as one of six final defense witnesses, defending counsel reported today.

Mueller is expected to tell of the difficulties in getting food for overcrowded Belsen, to corroborate Commandant Josef Kramer's testimony that his efforts to supplement the camp's meager food supplies failed. Kramer said bombing raids broke down transport systems.

Woman Adds Accusations

Helena Kopper, 35-year-old Polish woman who became a camp spy for the SS, was cross-examined today by Prosecutor T. M. Backhouse, and added to the accusations already made against several codefendants.

She declared Irma Grese, an SS woman guard, sent women across wire barriers to be shot by guards at the rate of 30 a day at Oswiecim.

"Grese took pleasure in selecting me to carry the shot prisoners away," Mrs. Kopper testified.

Contradicts Schrier

She maintained that she found Heinrich Schrier, a defendant, was in the SS, stationed first at Oswiecim and later in the political department at Belsen. Schrier previously contended he arrived at the Belsen camp after it was liberated by the British. He said he first was in the German air force, then the medical corps and later was in the infantry and was taken to the camp with a load of wounded Germans from the front.

British officers, however, found a picture in his pocket showing him in the uniform of the SS. Schrier testified the picture was taken during a drunken party when he and an SS friend changed uniforms for fun.

Russian Criticism

Moscow, Nov. 3 (AP)—A correspondent for the Government newspaper Izvestia criticized British prosecution of the Belsen war crimes case today; specifically for failure to use evidence dug up by the Soviets at the Oswiecim prison camp in Poland, where most Belsen SS personnel had served.

Writing from Belsen, the correspondent, I. Bachelis, termed the failure "completely unforgivable." He also said the prosecution had failed to invite representatives of the Polish Government, public or press to the trial.

The correspondent said that when he asked Prosecutor T. M. Backhouse if any of the Soviet evidence was being used, he answered with "a perplexed shrugging of his shoulders."

"He hadn't even heard of such material," the writer said.

3 BIG PLANES MISSING

30 Persons Were on Craft From U. S. Base Near Munich

MUNICH, Germany, Nov. 3 (AP)—Three American C-47 transport planes from air bases near Munich have been missing for the last three days and are believed to have crashed with the loss of more than thirty lives.

Two wrecked planes are reported to have been found in mountains of northern Italy and a third near Stuttgart. No report positively identifying these planes or passengers has been received here.

German Arms Plant Destroyed

GEISLINGEN, Germany, Nov. 3 (AP)—United States Army engineers have blown up a $2,500,000 underground munitions factory here designed by the Nazis to make parts for the Messerschmitt 262, the last German rocket fighter plane, it was announced today.

Germans Said To Dodge Jobs

Frankfurt, Germany, Nov. 3 (AP). Released German prisoners of war and others capable of heavy work deliberately are hiding out despite widespread unemployment in Germany, a United States Army report said today.

Italian Red Hits U.S. On Reparations

Rome, Nov. 3 (AP)—Luigi Longo, Communist member of the Consultative Assembly's Foreign Policy Committee, said today he considered that Russia was more generous than the United States in her reparations demands on Italy.

Commenting on published statements attributed to him criticizing the British-American attitude on reparations, Longo said Russia was demanding only $300,000,000, but that the United States, through confiscation of Italian property abroad, would receive billions of dollars.

He insisted Italy has already paid 200,000,000,000 lire ($2,000,000,000) for requisition expenses of hotels occupied by Allied personnel, for Italian raw materials employed for British and American military and civilian purposes and for occupation lire issued by the Allies. [Occupation costs are not generally regarded as part of reparations.]

Mediterranean GI's Leaving Fast, Army Says

Rome, Nov. 3 (AP)—The Army today told American soldiers complaining of delays getting home that redeployment is proceeding smoothly.

The 7th Replacement Depot at Naples handled 21,856 men in October, compared with 30,145 in September, it was announced, and all 60-pointers in the Mediterranean theater are due to sail this month. About 50,000 of the 107,000 GI's left in the theater have 60 points or more.

Badoglio Cites Evidence In Own Behalf

Rome, Nov. 3 (AP)—Marshal Pietro Badoglio in a letter has asked the High Court of Justice to consider that his Government declared war on Germany after Italy's surrender when ruling on his eligibility to remain in the Senate.

The newspaper L'Independente said today that Badoglio wrote the court he would not defend himself against any charges relating to his past political activity.

White Sea-Baltic Canal Being Reopened

Moscow, Nov. 3 (AP)—Pravda announced today that the White Sea-Baltic Canal—an inland waterway which allows ships plying between Leningrad and Archangel to travel only 140 miles instead of around Scandinavia—would be in full operation again next spring.

In giving the news, the Communist party newspaper disclosed for the first time that the Germans had bombed the canal out of use by destroying locks June 28, 1941, a week after Hitler attacked Russia.

Six 'Rebels' Sentenced in Spain

MADRID, Nov. 3 (AP)—The Government announced today that one Spaniard had been sentenced to sixteen years in prison on a charge of rebellion for writing a pamphlet on Masonry and that five others had been sentenced to twelve years each on a similar charge.

Poles to Offer Evidence

WARSAW, Nov. 3 (AP)—The Ministry of Justice announced today that a group of Polish prosecutors would attend the Nuremberg trials to present proof of German war crimes in Poland. All the top Germans to face the Nuremberg court are on Poland's list of 15,000 wanted men.

Gen. Gruenther Gets Washington Post

Vienna, Nov. 3 (AP)—Gen. Mark W. Clark has announced that his deputy commander of United States forces in Austria, Maj. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, 46, has been appointed deputy commandant for the new joint army-navy staff college in Washington.

Gruenther will leave for the United States November 1 and will be succeeded by Maj. Gen. Donald W. Brann, chief of staff of United States forces in Austria. Brig. Gen. Ralph H. Tate will move up a notch and become chief of staff.

Gruenther, a native of Platte Center, Neb., and son of a newspaper publisher, landed at Algiers in November, 1942, and was a key factor in planning the 5th Army's invasion of Italy at Salerno.

Reds Quitting Czechoslovakia

PRAGUE, Nov. 3 (AP).—Premier Zdenek Fierlinger reported to the Czechoslovak Cabinet today that the Russian command expects shortly to demobilize several yearly classes of troops in Czechoslovakian territory and that the Soviet occupation forces will be reduced materially.

Prague Honors Americans

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 3 (AP)Maj. Gen. Ernest N. Harmon of Vienna, Va., commander of United States troops in Czechoslovakia, and Col. Charles N. Noble of San Antonio, Tex., were made honorary citizens of Pilsen today at a ceremony over which Lord Mayor Josef Ulrich presided.

Gets Life for Aid to Nazis

BRUSSELS, Nov. 11 (AP).—Nicolas van Campenhout, who amassed nearly $3,000,000 selling bells taken from Belgian churches, was convicted today by the High Court of selling the metal to German munitions firms during the occupation. He was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Venizelos Resigns Greek Liberal Post

Athens, Nov. 3 (AP)—Sophocles Venizelos, unsuccessful in his attempts to form a new Greek Government earlier this week, resigned last night as deputy leader of the Greek Liberal party, blaming its leader, Themistokes Sophoulis, for the failure.

On Thursday Panayotis Kanellopoulos succeeded in organizing a Cabinet, which, however, did not include any Liberal representation.

BARDOSSY IS DOOMED ASHUNGARIAN TRAITOR

BUDAPEST, Nov. 3 (AP)—A Hungarian people's court today sentenced Ladislaus de Bardossy to be hanged for serving German interests in the war, when he was Premier and Foreign Minister.

De Bardossy, first to be tried in Hungary's war crimes trials, accepted the sentence and demanded immediate execution, asserting: "I beg no mercy."

The former Premier was charged with allowing Adolf Hitler's armies to march through Hungary to Yugoslavia, of sending Hungarian troops into action against Yugoslavia, of arranging a Hungarian declaration of war against Russia without consent of Parliament and of involving Hungary in a war with the United States.

He was acquitted of a charge that he failed to prevent a massacre at Ujvidek.

Bela Imredy, former Finance Minister, and Ferenc Szalasi, who headed the Government at the close of the war, are expected to follow de Bardossy to trial. Several lesser Hungarian figures also will be tried.

Hungary Dooms Ex-Premier

Budapest, Nov. 3 (AP)—Laszlo Bardossy, former Premier and Foreign Minister, was sentenced by a People's Court today to be hanged in Hungary's first war-crimes trial.

"I accept the sentence and demand immediate execution," Bardossy responded. "I beg no mercy."

Charges Outlined

The former Premier was convicted of serving German interests by allowing Hitler's army to march through Hungary to Yugoslavia and throwing Hungarian troops into the attack; arranging the Hungarian declaration of war against Russia without the consent of Parliament, and involving Hungary in war with the United States. He was acquitted on a charge of failing to prevent a massacre at Ujvidek.

Bardossy and a large group of other Hungarian leaders accused of war crimes were captured in the American-occupied zone of Germany and Austria.

HUNGARIANS HOLD ELECTION TODAY

BUDAPEST, Nov. 3.—(AP) Hungarians will vote for parliamentary candidates tomorrow in what is expected to be the first free, secret national election in central Europe since the war's end.

Approximately 3,000,000 of the country's 5,000,000 registered voters are expected to participate.

Hungary has a diplomatic stake in conducting a fair and orderly election, for political leaders believe it would hasten the resumption of full, normal diplomatic relations with the United States and Britain, matching Russia's recognition.

2 CHINESE CITIES CAPTURED BY REDS

Kweisui Falls to Communists Following One Day Attack.

CHUNGKING, Nov. 3.—(AP) A North China provincial capital and a railway city fell today to attacking Chinese Communists, unofficial reports said, as Reds in Chungking received with skepticism a new four-point Nationalist proposal to end the spreading civil warfare.

Unconfirmed reports said Kweisui, capital of the partly-industrialized inner Mongolian province of Suiyuan, fell to the overwhelming force of Communists who opened the attack only yesterday.

These same reports said the vital railway city of Tatung to the southwest also was overrun by the Communists.

Victories Strengthen Position

If true, the twin victories would greatly strengthen the Communist position in inner Mongolia and would hamper attempts by slender Nationalist forces there to join up with fresh Nationalist troops now pouring in by air to the Peiping-Tientsin zone.

Despite these reported successes, Communist sources here expressed fears that the government was about to strike with a heavy offensive to crush the Reds and declared 800,000 Nationalist troops had been massed in northern and east-central China.

A Communist spokesman declared without confirmation elsewhere that fighting had spread to Manchuria, now being evacuated by Russian occupation forces. He said it centered at the south Manchurian port of Hulutao, where Chinese Nationalist troops were landed earlier this week from U. S. transports.

The spokesman countered the Chungking peace proposal with this statement:

"When all Kuomintang (Nationalist) troops throughout the country are asked to stop fighting, the Communists will do likewise."

K. C. Wu, Chungking minister of information, announced the new peace plan earlier in the day and said a reply was being awaited from the Communist stronghold in Yenan.

He listed these four points:

1. Both sides should order their troops to "stay put" and halt all attacks.

2. The Communists should withdraw 10 kilometers (6.2 miles) from the railroads. The government then would agree not to send troops to points abandoned or exposed to Communist raids and would use railway police to guard the lines.

3. The government would consult Communists before moving any troops along the railroads. This conformed with a Communist request but skipped the question of moving government troops by sea and air.

4. The peoples' political council should appoint a supervisory commission to investigate conditions along the railroads and report any violation by either side.

Complete Truce Demanded

The Nationalist peace proposals, the Communist spokesman said, would restrict the Government's cease fire order "to a few hot spots," whereas it should apply all over the country. He agreed to the plan to turn the railways over to police but insisted that Chungking's offer did not include two of the most important railways, the Peiping-Mukden and Tientsin-Pukow railways, both now largely Communist controlled.

Government quarters said the new peace proposals were concessions inspired by a genuine desire to halt hostilities.

Communist sources in Yenan and Chungking declared that Government troops, massing for an all-out offensive, already had surrounded Communist forces in western Honan and eastern Hopeh provinces of northeastern China.

The same sources claimed China's Sixth Army, equipped and trained by the Americans in north Burma, had launched a powerful attack along the Tientsin-Pukow Railroad, badly needed artery over which Chungking proposes to move troops from Nanking to northern China.

The Communists' latest accusations include:

That a plane bearing Chinese Air Force markings killed four and wounded eight villagers in Shantung Province.

That several northern provincial Governors and Nationalist generals were "pro-Japanese."

The Government has published 1,000,000 handbooks marked: "Bandit suppression campaign: confidential."

Chinese Reds Say U. S. Is Meddling

Newspaper Charges Policing Is Active Interference in Internal Affairs.

Chungking, Nov. 3 (A. P.).—Communist charges that the United States is meddling "in the guise of a policeman" in China's internal affairs were publicized amidst reports today of the first large-scale fighting between Chinese Reds and Central Government troops.

In printing the charges, the communist New China Daily News took issue with Lieut.-Gen. Albert Wedemeyer, commanding American forces in China. Wedemeyer said recently that the mission of his troops in assisting the Central Government to take over from the Japanese does not constitute direct action against the Reds.

New China Daily News called it "active interference."

The newspaper mentioned the possibility of United States forces becoming "involved in armed conflict if they remain . . ."

Yenan and Chungking communists spokesmen made the unsubstantiated charge that American reconnaissance preceded the capture by Government troops of a communist-occupied town within ten miles of Peiping.

Report Sixth Army in Action.

The same persons, in reporting China's new sixth army was in action against the Reds along the rail line between Tientsin and Pukow, said these were government soldiers both trained and equipped by the United States while in north Burma.

Growing battles for railroads leading toward north China and Manchuria were reported even as the government pressed the unfinished job of disarming thousands of Japanese after eight years of war.

Some 200,000 Japanese combat troops still retained arms in the northern provinces of Hopei and Shangtung. The schedule calls for their complete disarmament by December 31.

The Communists estimated about 800,000 government troops are massing for an offensive against the Reds, with Communist groups in western Honan and eastern Hopei provinces already surrounded. The Reds said the government is striking powerfully to win all of the North-South railroad between Hankow and Peiping.

Communists Reply.

The communist headquarters spokesman here tonight countered a Central Government peace proposal with the announcement that when "all Kuomintang troops throughout the country are asked to stop fighting, the communists will do likewise."

The Nationalist proposal was designed to bring an immediate cessation of hostilities, K. C. Wu, Information Minister, said in announcing earlier that the offer had been made. He said it contained four concrete points but he did not name them.

The communist spokesman said: "The civil war has been widespread throughout China. The fighting should stop not only along the railways but from south China to Hulutao in Manchuria. The communists approve the proposal to replace communist troops with railway police provided Government troops withdraw to a distance of ten kilometers as requested by the communists."

The spokesman continued: "In other words, all railways should be cleared both of Communists and Government troops and placed under control of guards. To give in on this point would permit Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's soldiers to move into Communist territory at will."

Would Cease All Firing.

The spokesman stressed in his answer to what apparently was the Government's first point, the cease fire order, that it should be general and not directed at selected areas.

He asserted there was general agreement on the third point that the Government consult the communists before moving troops along the railroads. The spokesman declared, however, that the Government did not want to apply this rule to the Peiping-Mukden and Tientsin-Pukow railways, two of the most important in North China.

The spokesman insisted there should be no exceptions to the consultation procedure. Strong communist forces are concentrated along sections of both railroads and reportedly have cut them at some points.

Under WU's proposal, there should be no exceptions to this division of authority, the spokesman said, although there are strong Communist forces along these two sections.

Replying to a Central Government charge that Communist headquarters was delaying the work of the Political Consultative Council by refusing to nominate its members, the spokesman said the problem of civil war must be solved before the council meets.

27 IN ARMY PLANE DOWN IN PACIFIC

27 on ATC Plane Down in Pacific; Aid Rushed to Survivors on Rafts

HONOLULU, Nov. 3—(AP) Seven of the 27 passengers and crew of an Army transport plane which was forced down at sea 450 miles east of Hawaii today have been picked up by surface craft, and others are expected to be rescued soon, the Army Transport Command said tonight.

There are good prospects that all 27 who were aboard the land-based plane may be saved, the ATC said.

The seven reported rescued probably are on one of three liferafts observed near the scene by a search plane. The rafts became separated, but the transport came down only 50 miles from the regular route of patrol ships.

A search plane, one of 10 dispatched to attempt rescue, reported it had spotted the rafts shortly after 1 p. m. (6:30 p. m. Eastern Standard Time) with persons aboard them.

Two Women On Flight

The ATC said the rafts could accommodate the 21 passengers, including a civilian woman and a WAC, and six crewmen of the Liberator-type transport plane.

The transport was bound for the United States West Coast when it was forced down at 7:40 a. m., more than four hours after it left Honolulu. The first rescue plane, which reached the scene an hour and a half later, radioed that the transport was still afloat and persons could be seen clinging to the wreckage.

The ATC did not disclose names of the transports passengers and crewmen, but it was believed they all were military personnel, except the civilian woman. There was no announcement as to the cause of the forced landing.

Enough seaplanes have been dispatched to the area to accommodate 27 survivors, but rescue from the air will depend much upon conditions of the sea, the ATC said.

Honolulu, Nov. 3 (A. P.).—The Army Transport Command reported today that a Liberator-type transport plane with twenty-seven aboard, including two women, was forced down at sea 450 miles from here at 7:40 A. M. Ten other planes were sent to the area to attempt a rescue. The transport had left for the mainland today at 3:20 A. M.

Pauley Aides Reach Honolulu

HONOLULU, Nov. 3 (AP)—The first contingent of the Allied Reparations Commission en route to Japan arrived today and expects to reach Tokyo early next week. Edwin W. Pauley, head of the commission, was delayed on the West Coast and will reach Honolulu Tuesday or Wednesday. Fifteen members of his staff were in the contingent arriving here.

British Sending More Troops To Java

Batavia, Nov. 3 (AP)—A second division of British troops—the 5th Indian—has landed in Java, it was learned today, in the midst of a tense political situation aggravated by an impending breakdown of nationalist negotiations with the Dutch.

British forces in Batavia were under a curfew and were ordered to carry their arms at all times and not to venture out unescorted. It was explained officially that this was simply a tightening of precautions and that the situation in Java was under control.

Won't Deal With Soekarno

The delicate machinery aimed at bringing the disputants in the Indonesian conflict to the conference table was jarred with the announcement of the Netherlands Home Government statement barring negotiations between President Soekarno of the "Indonesian republic" and acting Governor General Hubertus J. Van Mook. The Home Government, however, did not rule out negotiations with other nationalist leaders.

The Indonesians in central Java were known to be in possession of at least 62 Japanese planes.

Small, Disorganized Attacks

The Dutch, stretched thinly across the outskirts of southern Batavia were meeting small, disorganized attacks, but they faced in this area alone a potential force of 30,000 nationalists armed with rifles, pistols and light machine guns. Dutch commanders say, however, that the Indonesians are poor, unreliable fighters.

The 5th Indian Division joins the 23d Indian, already here.

Dum-Dum Bullets Found

At the same time it was officially announced that large movements of Indonesian troops, both afoot and on motor transport and trains, had been seen by air observers in central Java in the areas of Jogjakarta, Magelang and Surukarta.

A British spokesman said dumdum bullets had been found on Indonesians, indicating that "a savage war" was planned.

Half the town of Keborajan, south of Batavia, where Dutch troops are holding a line against sporadic attacks, was declared to have been burned out by an Indonesian raid.

There was a feeling here that the confidence that has greeted the negotiations would snap, and a grave view was held locally that disaster impended.

The statement from The Hague that he had proceeded contrary to their wishes in dealing with Soekarno was expected to fall heavily on the acting governor general, who has tried desperately to solve Holland's greatest colonial political problem. He had been confident of some success when the rebuke came.

Tenseness In Magelang

The atmosphere continued tense in Magelang, where fighting was halted yesterday under a temporary truce negotiated with the aid of Soekarno. The British were reported preparing stern measures.

Brigadier Richard Bethell and Soekarno returned to Semarang after conferring with Indonesian leaders. Orders were issued to Indonesian extremists by the British to stop fighting, and for the time being they were obeyed.

A British statement said the extremists "received more than they bargained for when they picked a quarrel with the Gurkhas" in defiance of Soekarno's cease-fighting order.

Tenseness also prevailed at Soerabaja, where the Indonesians have been erecting roadblocks.

Although no new fighting was reported, the British described the situation at Magelang as "turbulent" and at the Soerabaja naval base as "tense." Indonesians were building road blocks in the Soerabaja area.

A 10 P.M. curfew was clamped on all British troops in Batavia. All personnel were ordered to carry arms at all times and not to appear without escort.

A British military intelligence report said an unidentified "major general" had appeared at Jogjakarta to "lead, discipline and reorganize Indonesian youths" estimated to number approximately 100,000. The youths were said to possess captured Japanese arms and equipment, including machine guns, tanks, mortars and armored cars.

Half Of Town Burned Out

Aerial reconnaissance disclosed Indonesian troops marching in the areas of Jogjakarta, Magelang and Soerakarta, three principal cities in central Java. Large numbers of men were seen pouring into the area by motor transport and by train.

Pilots said Indonesian raids had burned out half the town of Keborajan, south of Batavia. In this region Dutch troops have been holding out successfully against an estimated 30,000 Indonesians attacking in groups of a hundred or more.

In Batavia a grave view was taken of the political situation following the Dutch Home Government's announcement that Acting Lieutenant Governor General Hubertus van Mook had acted contrary to instructions in meeting with Soekarno.

Van Mook's Men Puzzled

Van Mook has tried desperately to solve Holland's gravest colonial problem by negotiations. The rebuke from his Government for dealing with Soekarno puzzled van Mook's supporters, who had supposed he was being given a free hand.

There were no official pronouncements here that Soekarno was unacceptable as head of the Nationalists, although some Dutch political circles expressed the view that the Dutch would negotiate only with "moderates" among the Indonesians.

It was believed the British and even some Dutch advisers had urged van Mook to see Soekarno and his Cabinet members in order to relieve tension.

Indonesians Obey Orders

A statement was anticipated soon from van Mook.

At the meeting with Soekarno, van Mook had issued a statement of Dutch policy which some independent Dutch observers felt was liberal enough to be accepted by the Indonesians with some alterations.

It was feared now that the entire framework of negotiations might collapse. Whether the statement of Dutch policy, not yet published, would be made public remained to be seen.

At Magelang, where a truce has been in effect since yesterday, the British were issuing orders to the Indonesians, who were obeying. There were no new incidents.

Minor Looting Continues

In middle Java, the center of Indonesian military strength, the Nationalists were known to have at least 62 Japanese planes, but were believed lacking the pilots to fly them. British military intelligence said the Indonesians had 79,000 rounds of ammunition.

Formation of an Indonesian army was urged by Merdeka, the Soekarno Government newspaper.

Minor looting continued in Batavia, and one Indonesian was killed last night when he resisted search by police. Authorities said they found a revolver and dumdum bullets on him. A British spokesman said dumdum bullets had been found on other Indonesians.

Stuart tanks rumbled through Batavia streets yesterday, manned by Indonesian police. It was explained that the police were being given evidence that the British were supporting them in keeping law and order in Batavia.

100,000 Indonesian Troops On March in Central Java

Batavia, Nov. 3 (AP)—Indonesian troops up to 100,000 strong and bearing Japanese arms are marching and concentrating in central Java, British pilots said today, while political tension heightened over the Dutch Government's refusal to deal with President Soekarno of the "Indonesian Republic."

The British 5th Indian Division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Eric Carden Mansergh, began landing today at Soerabaja, scene of bitter clashes between Indian troops and Indonesians seeking independence from Dutch colonial rule. Mansbergh's is the second British division to land in Java.

New Rail Lines for India.

New Delhi, Nov. 3 (A. P.).—Plans for construction of almost 3,000 miles of new rail lines in India during the next seven years were announced today. Existing mileage in India is about 41,000.

Premier Blames "Evil Hands"

CAIRO, Nov. 3 (AP)—The riots were strongly denounced today by Premier Nokrashy Pasha as inspired by "evil hands." He promised that "justice will take its full course with the criminals."

Reports from Alexandria said that three more persons had died after yesterday's rioting, bringing the total deaths there to nine. No deaths were reported in Cairo or Port Said, Zagazig and Mansura.

MacArthur Moves to Avert Winter Fuel Famine in Japan

TOKYO, Nov. 3—(AP) General MacArthur moved today to avert a winter fuel-famine in Japan by asking American commanders in China, Korea and the Pacific Islands to give priority to coal-miners in the repatriation of Japanese military forces.

The General's action was prompted by a 50-per cent decrease in coal production on Hokkaido, the northern island from which Japan, now shorn of its far-flung imperial resources, will have to get most of its supply for the hard winter ahead.

MacArthur said the decrease was largely due to the evacuation from Japan of Korean and Chinese miners. The imperial government has estimated that 68,000 Japanese miners were sent overseas with the armed forces during the war.

Stars and Stripes in Yokohama published the assurance of Army authorities that American troops in Japan will not suffer for want of warm clothing this winter. The paper said ships were unloading enough supplies to assure every soldier one sleeping bag and three blankets, and a stove for every five men.

Meanwhile the Kyodo News agency said that a lot of so-called democratic political activity in Japan today is merely "overnight window-dressing" instigated by war-time nationalists.

Kyodo asserted that at least eight of the new political parties which have appeared since the occupation were sponsored by rightists who had no pronounced strength and in some cases were merely one-man attempts to wield political influence.

Nationalists Back Eight Of New Jap Parties

Tokyo, Nov. 3 (AP)—Widely known wartime Nationalists, using an "overnight window dressing of democracy," are sponsoring at least eight of the new political parties which have appeared in Japan, Kyodo news agency said today.

It noted that the Rightist organizations had shown no pronounced strength and many virtually were one-man attempts at political influence. But Kyodo warned that the future activities of the parties bore watching.

Kyodo said two of the most widely known of these Nationalist leaders were Yoshio Kodama, heading what is called the Japan National party, and Ryoichi Sasagawa, current member of the House of Representatives, named by the agency as backing the National Federation of Toilers. The latter recently proclaimed a "finish fight" with Communists.

Wartime Youth Leader

Kodama was a wartime youth leader. Kyodo said he also was purchasing agent for militarists who were stripping raw materials from conquered areas.

Kodama served briefly as adviser to the Higashi-Kuni Cabinet. At that time, sources told the Associated Press "Kodama is known as a militarist backer and was appointed adviser in order to keep him quiet during the readjustment period."

Kyodo said that Maj. Gen. Keizo Kawamura, "who is known as one of the ace right-hand men of (ex-Premier) Tojo," is a leader of the so-called "New Japan party."

Women Hold Rally

But politics was not confined to the male population. The New Japan Women's Alliance, an organization prompted by occupation-won women's suffrage, held its first rally and elected a president, Fusayo Ichikawa. More than 200 delegates, said Kyodo, discussed suffrage, women's part in establishing permanent peace and liberation of women from feudalistic shackles.

The newspaper Asahi said that when the Cabinet meets Monday it will consider property tax and wartime profits tax bills affecting millions and calculated to raise heavy revenues.

The Education Ministry, meanwhile, issued instructions in compliance with MacArthur's orders for the dismissal of all heads of institutions with known militaristic and nationalistic leanings.

Allied headquarters announced a limited mail service for Japanese awaiting repatriation by which they may receive official communications and personal postcards, but no financial or commercial correspondence.

Kyodo said American vessels will repatriate Japanese from South Pacific regions at the rate of 1,000 a day for approximately the next three weeks.

Miners To Come First

General MacArthur asked American commanders in China, Korea and the Pacific Islands to give priority to coal miners in repatriation of Japanese from those theaters. The request was necessitated by a 50 per cent shortage of production on Hokkaido Island.

Two American ships will arrive tomorrow with 3,000 Japanese, the agency said, and thereafter until November 20 one ship will arrive daily with about 1,000 passengers.

2,971 From Manila

Tomorrow's arrivals include 2,971 civilians from Manila and five Japanese army nurses. A Japanese coastal defense ship was due to dock at Kagoshima today with 155 Japanese from Davao in the Philippines.

[A dispatch from Fusan, Korea, said the last large contingent of Japanese soldiers in American-occupied Korea, about 3,500, arrived in boxcars at that port today for ferrying back to Japan. More than 88,000 demobilized Nipponese were evacuated last month, the dispatch said, and since occupation forces landed in September, more than 195,000 Japanese soldiers and civilians have streamed homeward through Fusan.]

Jap Roster's Capture One Of War Breaks

Tokyo, Nov. 3 (AP)—A tiny Japanese lifeboat bobbed for two days off southeastern New Guinea under the sharp watch of hidden Australian patrols in March, 1943, before currents beached it to give General MacArthur's military intelligence its biggest break of the war.

As the boat grounded on little Goodenough Island outside Milne Bay, the Aussies stepped out from underbrush and captured, without a struggle, the boat's occupant, a ramrod-stiff Japanese, who handed them a suitcase full of documents.

Roster Of Jap Officers

The Aussies had waited only for the man. They weren't expecting the documents and didn't know what they were, but they turned them over to American army translators.

Among the papers was a complete roster of all Japanese army officers and their units, as of the previous September.

With the roster as a backbone, plus scraps of information from other sources, the battle plans section of Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby's G-2 built a card catalogue file of some 90,000 Japanese officers and 25,000 to 30,000 Japanese army units, some as small as platoons.

Positions Pinpointed

Cross-checking of these files enabled the Americans to pinpoint Japanese unit positions in the march northward toward Japan.

The story of the lifeboat was disclosed only today by MacArthur's headquarters.

The roster became the chief guide of the battle plans section. It was developed under one of the Americans the Japanese forced from Singapore at the war's beginning—Lieut. Col. George Magruder, Buttonwood lane, Rumson, New Jersey.

Kept Track Of Moves

With it, Magruder and his staff kept track of officers' movements throughout Asia and pegged down their units on information supplied through abandoned battle plans and promotion lists, Japanese APO numbers and neglected letters.

The Japanese who inadvertently supplied the Americans with so much intelligence was a lieutenant colonel of artillery, en route with reinforcements for Lae when his ship was sunk in the battle of the Bismarck Sea. He had carried the records six days while drifting toward Goodenough Island.

quered nation, reduced to the size it was when Meiji ascended the throne.

No Rites At Shrine

No plans were announced for the customary rites at the site of the great Mieji Shrine, destroyed by fire after an American air attack on Tokyo.

Jiji News Agency reported that the Home Ministry's Board of Shrines, responding to American criticism, had undertaken the study of the reformation of state Shintoism.

Status Of Priests

The agency said the study centered around questions of Government-subsidized shrines, treatment of shrine priests on the same status as officials and "elimination of measures to force the people to worship at the shrines."

Jiji said officials explained that the survey was undertaken pursuant to the Allied Headquarters' directive of October 4, concerning freedoom of religion in Japan, and not the result of any directive on Shintoism alone.

Army Opens Big Store In Tokyo

Tokyo, Nov. 3 (AP)—An army post exchange opened on the Ginza today, equipped to handle 10,000 customers daily.

It is prepared to sell at GI prices souvenirs ranging from inexpensive ashtrays to the most costly silks and art objects.

Five hundred kimono-clad Japanese salesgirls were employed, schooled in how to speak English—including "no dates."

The Japanese Department of Commerce and Industry co-operated in contacting huge merchandising organizations. Trade associations put their buyers at the disposal of the Army.

Japs Cooperate

The Japanese mercantile system did a rush job of assembling the stock within a week. Col. Walter A. Metcalf, of the Army exchange central purchasing office, looked for a monthly business of several million dollars.

The Army is making use of nationals interned in Japan, as well as merchandising experts with experience in many United States stores.

The exchange was installed in the once-famed Hattori store, occupying several floors. A branch store will be set up in Yokohama.

625 Sworn In In Japan

Tokyo, Nov. 3 (AP)—The first mass swearing in of enlisted men of the occupation army into the regular United States Army took place today with 625 men of the Americal Division taking the oath. The men were recruited by Capt. Douglas Moore, of Washington Farms, West Virginia.

Mail Service for Japanese

TOKYO, Nov. 3 (AP).—Allied headquarters announced today a limited mail service for Japanese awaiting repatriation by which they may receive official communications and personal postcards but no financial or commerical correspondence.

'Burner' Of Japs Almost Burned Out

Tokyo, Nov. 3 (AP)—Col. R. C. Kramer, "trust buster" of the occupation forces who has "burned" many of the Japanese industrialists with his jabs at Japanese monopolies, was almost burned out himself today.

His Economics and Scientific Section office caught fire from a wastebasket and his desk burned before the flames were halted.

Japanese Find a Flaw

Say U. S. Soldier Is Best in World But He Is Always Eating

HIMEJI, Japan, Nov. 3 (AP).—G. I.s of the 130th Infantry Regiment were conducting a question-and-answer session in their language class. The Americans were trying to learn Japanese while teaching the latter English.

"What's wrong with the American soldier?" was the question. After a long silence one Japanese man replied: "The American soldi : best in world."

"No, no," answered the impatient G. I. "What's worng with him, not what's good about him?" A Japanese woman spoke up—timidly: "American soldier always eating. That's impolite."

Liquor Kills 20 Yanks

Yokohama, Nov. 3 (AP)—Nineteen American soldiers and a merchant seaman died last month on Honshu as the result of drinking poisoned liquor, the 8th Army's provost marshal reported today.

Ten others were poisoned, including one who became blind, but they will recover.

Five of the men were stricken in a cabaret while celebrating their final night in Japan before sailing home to be discharged.

The provost marshal said the liquor was obtained from bootleggers or from dealers who diluted it with methanol or tetraethyl lead.

195,000 Japanese Out of Korea

FUSAN, Korea, Nov. 3 (AP)—The last large contingent of Japanese soldiers in American-occupied Korea, about 3,500, arrived in boxcars at this port today for ferrying back to Japan. More than 88,000 demobilized Japanese were evacuated last month, and since the occupation forces landed in September, more than 195,000 Japanese soldiers and civilians have streamed homeward through Fusan.

Japan Commemorates Birthday Of Hirohito's Grandfather

Tokyo, Nov. 3 (AP)—Japan today commemorated the birthday of the late Emperor Meiji, one of the three major empire holidays of the year, with unusual lack of ceremony.

Emperor Hirohito worshiped the spirit of his grandfather at the shrine within the imperial compound in Tokyo. He reported on the new problems facing the con-

2 Witnesses Link Yamashita To Brutalities of His Troops

Manila, Nov. 3 (A. P.).—The erstwhile "Tiger of Malaya," Lieut.-Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, who was reduced to the status of the jackal of the Philippines by the end of the war, was linked today for the first time directly with the hyena-like brutalities of the barbarous troops he commanded.

A Japanese interpreter who served with the brutal Kempei Tai military police and the Filipino secretary of a known collaborator with the enemy both testified to the fallen Tiger's knowledge of the brutal doings of the Japanese soldiers in a stormy afternoon session ending the first week of Yamashita's trial as a war criminal.

Narcisco Lapus, former secretary to the exiled political Gen. Artemio Ricarte, was brought into court under guard from an internee prison to testify that, in conversations with Ricarte, Yamashita affirmed his order to "wipe out all Fillipinos."

Ricarte returned from exile to the Philippines in 1941 in the role of a "liaison and special envoy from Japanese Premier Hideki Tojo to effect the friendship and prepare the islands for independence under the Japanese rule."

Lapus testified, over the strenuous and repeated protest of the defense that the evidence was "hearsay four times removed," that Ricarte contacted Yamashita at least four times in the latter months of the year, and pleaded with him to spare the Philippines from mass destruction and slayings. But, Lapus asserted, Yamashita was firm in his order to the troops to "wipe out all Filipinos, as they are no longer our friends."

Lapus said that from long and intimate acquaintance he was sure Ricarte had told him the truth and that Ricarte quoted Yamashita directly in repeating the conversations.

Yamashita Commended Work.

Fermin Miyasaki, former interpreter at the Japanese military police headquarters, told the United States Military Commission that Yamashita commended his club-wielding police for their "fine work."

The witness said that Yamashita's commendation was read during ceremonies at the South Manila Japanese military police headquarters last December.

Yamashita praised his police for their fine work in the suppression and arrest of Filipino guerrillas in Manila and immediate vicinity, Miyasaki said.

The witness testified that he saw at least 400 civilians come through the police headquarters. Most of them were given the third degree and at least fifty were beaten and thirty subjected to the water treatment.

Girl Tells of Beheadings.

The Japanese general was subjected to a hysterical tongue-lashing by a 17-year-old Filipina, who had related how blood-mad Japanese shot or beheaded more than 400 civilians in Manila on February 10, while American liberating troops were forcing the invaders into a last stand.

"You ought to be hanged and cut into little pieces," screamed Julieta Milanes, pointing to Yamashita, her cries throwing the hearing into momentary disorder. The Japanese general sat unmoved, as usual.

Yamashita Linked to Terror

MANILA, Nov. 3 (AP).—Two witnesses testified today that Lieutenant General Tomoyuki Yamashita had issued orders to "destroy all Filipinos" and has commened his Japanese gendarmes for their "fine work."

In a stormy session and over the vigorous protests of defense counsel, the witnesses asserted the former Japanese commander in the Philippines knew and approved his troops' brutalities, thus for the first time in the week-long trial offering testimony linking him directly with the crimes.

One of them, Narcisco Lapus, former secretary to the exiled General Artemio Ricarte, told the military commission that in conversation with Ricarte, Yamashita affirmed his order to destroy all Filipinos.

A Japanese, Fermin Miyasaki, former interpreter at Japanese military police headquarters here, said the general had officially commended his police for their "fine work" in handling civilians hostile to his regime.

The witness said he saw at least 400 civilian suspects "handled" by the police. Most of them were beaten, he asserted, and many underwent the water torture or were suspended from the ceiling by their hands, which were tied behind their backs.

960 Chinese Being Repatriated

Manila, Nov. 3 (AP)—The first repatriation of Far Eastern displaced persons will get under way Monday when the steamship Anwhei sails for Amoy with 960 Chinese nationals who were trapped in the Philippines at the outbreak of the war.

Col. Henry R. O'Brien, of Hartford, Conn., chief medical officer of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration in the Far East, will accompany the ship and then proceed to duties in Shanghai.

16 Warships for Transport Fleet

PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 3 (AP).—Sixteen warships capable of carrying a total of 40,000 homeward bound veterans will join the Navy's transport fleet within the next two weeks, Rear Admiral Henry S. Kendall, director, said today.

Newly assigned are:

The Essex-class carriers Bon Homme Richard, Bunker Hill, Hancock, Hornet, Ticonderoga and Yorktown; the light carriers Belleau Wood, Cowpens, Independence and San Jacinto, and the old battleships Arkansas, Colorado, Maryland, Nevada, Texas and West Virginia.

Each of the Essex class carriers will handle 4,000 passengers, and the light carriers and battleships, 1,500 each.

First scheduled sailings: From Pearl Harbor to West Coast—Nov. 6: Maryland to San Diego; Nevada and West Virginia to San Pedro,, Texas and Bon Homme Richard to San Francisco; Nov. 7: Arkansas to Seattle; Hornet to San Francisco; Nov. 8: Colorado and Ticonderoga to San Francisco.

The six battleships, shuttling regularly between Pearl Harbor and the mainland, are expected eventually to average one sailing every third day.

The Bunker Hill will load at Samar, in the Philippines, for her first run; the Hancock at Manus, in the Admiralties, and the Yorktown at Guam, but dates have not been set. The three carriers are being refitted in American navy yards.

The four light carriers, also being refitted, will be used principally to shuttle between forward areas and Pearl Harbor, Admiral Kendall said, averaging one round trip every six weeks.

Future sailings of the big carriers will depend upon proportion of returnees eligible for homeward transportation from various areas.

BRAZIL NAMES 16 GOVERNORS

Army Back At Posts As New State Officials Are Listed

Rio de Janeiro, Nov. 3 (AP)—The new Government of President Jose Linhares named sixteen new state governors today to replace the appointees of the ousted Vargas regime, and the army, which put Linhares into power, resumed its normal functions.

A presidential palace spokesman said the lits of new governors had been held up temporarily to delete the name of Ovidio Abreau, former financial Secretary of State, as governor for the big state of Minas Gerais.

No official explanation was given for the deletion of Abreu's name.

Word of his appointment had precipitated a governmental crisis earlier in the day, when Gen. Enrico Gaspar Dutra, candidate for President in the December 2 elections, threatened to withdraw his candidacy in protest.

Monteiro States Army Hopes

Goes Monteiro, War Minister, denying rumors that he planned to resign, reported that the Brazilian armed forces had returned to their stations.

He said the army wanted now only "to live in the shadow of the law," but added:

"We shall be alert and vigilant, so that the Government may take to good ends the aims and great task of reconstitutionalization of the country."

The Navy Minister, Admiral Dodworth Martins, warned that the population "should not become unduly enthusiastic over the optimism of the moment, for there still exist some malcontents."

The only disturbances today, however, were minor. On the downtown Avenida Rio Branco street fighting occurred after Queremistas infiltrated into a group cheering the candidacy of Gen. Eduardo Gomes, chief opponent to Dutra.

Tear-Gas Bombs Fail

Buenos Aires, Nov. 3 (AP)—Two tear-gas bombs were fired today while police were asking demonstrators in favor of Col. Juan Perón's candidacy for President of Argentina to halt their parade.

The rally was banned yesterday by Interior Minister Colonel Bartolome Descalzo, who resigned soon afterward and was replaced today by Gen. Felipe Urdapilleta.

Military Rule Ends In Brazil

Rio de Janeiro, Nov. 3 (AP)—War Minister Goes Monteiro proclaimed the retirement of the Brazilian armed forces to their normal duties today a few hours after the new Government of President Jose Linhares survived a major political crisis.

Having given the Government to the Supreme Court (of which Linhares had been Chief Justice), the military personnel now wishes only "to live in the shadow of the law," the war minister said.

"But we shall be alert and vigilant so that the Government may take to good ends the aims and great task of reconstitutionalization of the country," he said.

Dutra Causes Crisis

A threat by Gen. Eurico Gaspar Dutra, candidate for the presidency in the December 2 elections, to withdraw over the removal of a Minas Geraes governor brought on the governmental crisis.

Linhares replaced Governor Benedito Valladares of Minas Geraes, an appointee of the ousted President Getulio Vargas, with Ovidio Abreou, former financial secretary of the state. It was also announced that J. C. Macedo Soares, former Foreign Minister, has been named interventor (governor) of the state of Sao Paulo.

Dutra Announces Decision

Throughout the night the private residence of President Linhares was guarded by troops armed with machineguns.

Dutra visited the residence twice during the night, and near midnight announced: "I have a firm intention to participate in the election December 2. I will not withdraw by candidacy."

Backed By Vargas

Dutra was supported by Getulio Vargas, ousted after a fifteen-year-reign by the coup which installed Linhares as interim President. The Linhares Government promptly pledged itself to eradicate all vestiges of the Vargas rule.

Supporters of the opposition presidential candidate, Gen. Eduardo Gomes, were reported to have persuaded Dutra to remain in the race now that Brazil has the opportunity to hold a free election, although Gomes's supporters have contended that Vargas supporters must go.

The Government, meanwhile, has received assurance from the United States, Panama, Mexico and Bolivia that those nations would join the others which are continuing normal relations with Brazil.

Peron Supporter Takes Oath Of Office

Buenos Aires, Nov. 3 (AP)—Gen. Felipe Urdapilleta took the oath as Argentina's new Minister of the Interior today after a Presidential statement at midnight announced the resignation of his predecessor, Col. Bartolome Descalzo, retired.

President Edelmiro Farrel administered the oath in the presence of Cabinet members.

Quijano Present

Another guest was Hortensio Quijano, a dissident from the Radical party who served as Minister of the Interior until former Vice President Col. Juan D. Jerón, still a strong force in Argentina, resigned October 9.

Quijano's presence was interpreted as evidence that Descalzo's resignation was a victory for political forces backing Perón in preliminaries to a presidential election.

Peron Downstairs

In a downstairs corridor while the induction took place was Perón, now retired from the army with the declaration that he planned "to give myself to the Argentine workers."

Descalzo told of "mental strain" in quitting office. He resigned following a clash with Police Chief Colonel Filomeno Velazco, a Perón confidante, over plans for a pro-Perón demonstration through the city today. He banned the demonstration, which Velazco had approved.

Bahamas to End Gas Rationing

NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 3 (AP).—Gasoline and electricity rationing will come to an end in the Bahamas on Nov. 15, the colonial government announced today.

Minority Report On Bomb Bill Presented

Washington, Nov. 3 (AP)—Five objections to an atomic energy control bill approved by the House Military Committee were cited in a minority report made public today.

Signed by two committee members, Representatives Holifield (D., Cal.) and Melvin Price (D., Ill.), it was only the first of several expected before the House tackles the legislation later this month.

Separate Report Predicted

A group of Republicans among the ten committee members reported to have voted against the bill are understood to be drafting a separate report to be filed with the majority views next week.

It was not even certain that all seventeen committee members who approved the bill would sign the majority report.

Holifield and Price declared:

1. The commission proposed for control of atomic energy development should be composed of "full-time, well-paid members." The committee majority recommended a nine-member commission paid $50 for each day of actual work.

Want Them Removable

2. Commission members should be removable by the President "whenever he deems it in the nation's interest." The majority recommended that the commissioners, once appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate, be almost "discharge proof" except for gross neglect of duty.

3. The administrator to supervise the atomic-control program "should be appointed by the President and serve at his pleasure." The majority favored appointment of a $15,000-a-year administrator by the commission itself, with the commission having authority to remove him for cause.

Civilian Chief Proposed

4. To emphasize possible peacetime benefits of atomic energy the bill should specify that the administrator be a civilian, not a military man. The majority would leave this to the commission.

5. The Government "should be the exclusive producer and owner" of materials used in atomic energy development. The bill backed by the majority would permit the commission to license private concerns to produce, refine or process these materials.

Cover-Up Attempt On Sneak Alleged

Washington, Nov. 3 (AP)—Senator Brewster (R., Maine) declared today that an attempt had been made to "cover up" some army information on the Pearl Harbor disaster.

Brewster told reporters this was the only conclusion he could draw from changes he said army officers made in previous testimony when they gave depositions in an inquiry by Major Henry C. Clausen in 1944.

Brewster said Clausen was designated by former Secretary of War Stimson to make a new investigation after an army board had reported on the sneak attack. The result, the Senator added, was that several officers altered their accounts of what happened.

Barred, Two Report

Brewster and Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) complained to the Senate yesterday that the Pearl Harbor committee, of which they are members, had shut them off from sources of information by refusing to let them look at government records.

The Democrats have a 6-to-4 majority on the committee.

Brewster asserted that some vital records were missing.

Chairman Barkley (D., Ky.) said that as far as the committee and its counsel know, no papers are missing.

ITALIANS DISPUTE SURRENDER TERMS

Bonomi Letter to Roosevelt, Bared by Marcantonio, Clouds Nature of Capitulation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—A 2-year-old argument about the extent of the Italian unconditional surrender was reported today by Representative Vito Marcantonio of New York. He described it as one of the reasons behind the secrecy regarding armistice terms.

Mr. Marcantonio made public a 30,000-word letter in Italian which he said was written by former Premier Ivanoe Bonomi to President Roosevelt and which brought out a secret dispute on unconditional surrender. [The State Department plans to make public the Italian armistice terms next week.]

In the letter Signor Bonomi pleaded with Mr. Roosevelt to re-examine and modify the terms. Mr. Marcantonio said that the letter, dated September, 1944, showed:

(1) Two surrender pacts were actually signed—a military armistice on Sept. 3, 1943, in Casibile, Sicily, and a composite military-civilian pact in Malta on Sept. 29, 1943.

(2) The military armistice signed by Lieut. Gen. Walter B. Smith for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and by Gen. Giuseppe Castellano for Marshal Pietro Badoglio, Chief of Italy after the fall of Benito Mussolini, did not mention "unconditional surrender."

(3) The later composite document, signed by Marshal Badoglio, was originally titled "Unconditional Surrender of Italy" and contained the phrase "unconditional surrender" for the first time. The title was later modified to read, "Surrender Instrument of Italy."

State Department Silent

State Department officials said that they could not recall the letter and would make no official comment.

Mr. Marcantonio, who claimed that the authenticity of the letter was "beyond question," said that Marshal Badoglio protested the insertion of the words "unconditional surrender" as "useless injury to the good name of the new Italy * * * and prejudicial to the common cause" in which Italy was to embark as a co-belligerent of the Allies against Germany. Hence the initial secrecy over the terms, according to Mr. Marcantonio.

Mr. Marcantonio said that he was assured that many favorable modifications, in which the United States led the way, had been made.

According to the letter, Marshal Badoglio obtained some modifications along those lines. However, on Nov. 17, a naval protocol signed by British Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, Allied commander of the Mediterranean Fleet, and Admiral Raffaele de Courten, Italian Naval Minister, revived the dispute over the extent of Italy's surrender.

The de Courten-Cunningham agreement provided that the Italian fleet would at first be employed in the war against Germany, each ship under the control of an Allied officer, and that its post-war disposition would be left solely to the Allied powers and within the scope of unconditional surrender.

Mr. Marcantonio added that the letter explained how Marshal Badoglio went to Malta on Sept. 29 to submit his plans for greater use of Italy's resources against Germany and to sign the political, economic and financial clauses of the surrender in accordance with Article XII of the Sept. 3 military armistice.

Excerpts From Letter

An unofficial translation of the Bonomi letter to Mr. Roosevelt read in part:

"At the Malta conference, however, Marshal Badoglio was presented with a document of an entirely different nature which contained not only 'conditions of a political, economic and financial nature' (as specified in Article XII of the military armistice) but also military conditions many of which were more severe than those of the original military armistice of Sept. 3."

"The reasons for submitting the new document," the letter added, "was, according to its preamble, that it was 'appropriate that the conditions of a military nature and the subsequent conditions of a political, economic and financial nature * * * should be drawn up into a single document.

"But the motive adopted had all the aspects of a pretext. The new document specified in fact that its conclusion was 'without prejudice to the continuing validity of the armistice of Sept. 3, 1943.'"

Mr. Marcantonio said that, according to a prior letter written to Mr. Roosevelt by Marshal Badoglio in 1943 and included in the Bonomi letter, the Italians had not expected that their unconditional surrender included Italy's sovereignty but applied only to her military and naval forces and materiel.

Some diplomatic officials said that a modification of the de Courten-Cunningham naval agreement would be among the major changes in the Italian terms and might even return to Italy certain portions of her fleet.

The surrender pact is reported by diplomatic officials to contain three or four amendatory protocols and forty-four clauses, the most important of which is the forty-fourth, specifying the Allies' right to complete control over any political, economic or financial matter in Italy under the full range of unconditional surrender.

Here Are Withholding Taxes Awaiting Truman's Approval

Washington, Nov. 3 (A. P.).—The table below shows the amounts of Federal income tax that will be withheld from pay envelopes in 1946 under the $5,920,000,000 tax reduction bill and compares them with tax money withheld this year. The table is based on one-week pay roll periods.

A single man ordinarily would claim one withholding exemption, a married man with wife and one child three exemptions, &c. The "none" exemption column is designed for use where both spouses work and where one wishes to give the other advantage of both exemptions.

U.S. SUBMARINES IN RESCUE WORK

Navy Reports Many Flyers Saved In War Operations

Washington, Nov. 3 (AP)—The Navy today revealed that 504 United States and Allied aviators were rescued by United States submarines from enemy waters and beaches in some of the most daring and dangerous operations of the war.

Frequently operating under fire, within gun range of Japanese home islands or in mined waters, the "submarine lifeguard league" became an integral part of practically all air strikes against the enemy.

New Era Opened

Just before the end of the war, when submarines' normal ship-sinking job was about done, a third of all the Navy's operational submarines were engaged in some phase of lifeguard duty.

Use of submarines, the Navy said, opened a new era in aerial offensive strategy and provided a tremendous boost to the morale of flyers.

"Instances of extraordinary heroism . . . during the searches of vast expanses of enemy waters in quest of perhaps a single pilot or aircrewman are commonplace in the official records of these operations," the Navy said.

Started In 1943

It was not until the task force attack on Wake Island in October, 1943, that a submarine was specifically assigned to rescue downed airmen. The Skate, on her first war patrol, rescued six naval aviators in waters surrounding Wake.

In the last few months of the war, the majority of Army personnel who survived "ditchings" were recovered by submarines.

Efficiency at the war's end had reached the point where a surviving airman could expect rescue within three hours. Lieut. B. V. Burtch, St. Louis, from the carrier Independence, was picked up by the Silversides four minutes after he abandoned his fighter off Shikoku.

The first rescue of B-29 crewmen occurred off Iwo Jima December 19, 1944, when the Spearfish recovered seven. In May, 1945, the Tigrone, commanded by Commander Hiram Cassedy, New London, Conn., established a record by picking up 30 Army and Navy air personnel off Honshu in a single patrol.

A Maryland man, Lieut. E. H. Clark, Jr., Annapolis, went ashore in a rubber boat from the Charr near Tam Quan Point, Indo-China, with R. L. Chester, torpedoman first class, North Tiverton, R.I. They came back with a fallen navy air crewman, Radioman Charles Hamilton.

NAVY OFFICERS FAVORED SERVICE MERGER LAST YEAR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP) A long-secret survey of Army-Navy opinion on the proposed service merger showed "almost exactly half" of the navy officers interviewed favoring the single department, it was disclosed today.

In the 10 months since completion of the study directed by the joint chiefs of staff, navy opposition to the proposal has solidified.

The report was supplied by President Truman to the Senate Military Affairs committee, which is conducting hearings on the proposal to unify all armed forces under a single department with army, navy and air branches. The committee made the report public today.

Testimony of high army and navy leaders upon which the report was based was turned over to the committee Thursday. It included an endorsement of the one department plan by Admiral Chester M. Nimitz, made at Pearl Harbor December 8, 1944. The navy Thursday made public a statement by Nimitz asserting "I find that now, as a combat commander, I cannot favor it." The admiral previously had declared his present opposition to the plan.

Admiral William F. Halsey similarly has reversed his stand on the proposal.

Forty army officers, 37 navy leaders and three marine generals were interviewed by the staff group, made up of Lt. Gen. Harold L. George and Maj. Gen. W. F. Tompkins, army members; Rear Adm. M. F. Schoeffel and Admiral Jo Richardson, retired, navy members, and Brig. Gen. F. Trubee Davison, army alternate.

"The great majority of the army officers and almost exactly half of the navy officers whose views were heard favored the single department," said the majority report signed by all but Admiral Richardson. Much difference of opinion was expressed as to the form it should take."

The majority report recommended the single department under one civilian secretary, with an air force ranking with the army and navy. In a dissenting opinion, Admiral Richardson said it was not "in the best interests of the nation," to set up a single agency.

The report noted that "unless an acceptable solution is developed by the armed services, Congress may take the initiative and adopt its own bills for reorganization."

Peacetime Draft Approved By Wainwright

Junction City, Kan., Nov. 3 (AP)—In a plea for maintenance of national preparedness, Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright indorsed the President's proposal for universal military training in an address given at a dinner in his honor last night.

"Today we have the powers of evil in Europe and Asia suppressed," the hero of Corregidor said. "Let us keep them suppressed. Let us keep our guard up."

Wainwright said the plan as outlined by the President before Congress would be a means of keeping a trained reservoir of manpower.

Minimizes Reds' Entry

He expressed the opinion that Russia's late entry into the Pacific war had little effect in Japan's decision to surrender. Rather, he declared, it was the steady and uninterrupted advance of United States forces across the Pacific, the naval assaults against Jap outposts, and finally the bombing by the air forces.

Wainwright also spoke for retention of the United States cargo fleet and decried proposals for the sinking of war vessels.

Tomorrow, Wainwright will be guest of the cavalry school at Fort Riley, where he was a tactics instructor in 1920-21. Today is Mrs. Wainwright's birthday and they are having a private celebration. On Monday he will address an American Legion meeting in Kansas City and will lead an American Legion Victory Loan parade Tuesday.

Demobilization Still Too Slow, Engel Says

Washington, Nov. 3 (AP)—Representative Engel (R., Mich.) said today that appropriation cuts voted by the House have forced the Army to accelerate demobilization but that the rate of discharge still is too slow.

A member of an appropriations subcommittee handling funds for the War Department, Engel said Gen. George C. Marshall testified late in September that the Army expected to release 800,000 men a month from November through February.

Million A Month Now

Engel said his information is that the discharge rate has been stepped up to 1,100,000 a month.

"They have had to accelerate demobilization," he added, "because the subcommittee sliced over one billion dollars from the War Department's budget request.

The House approved the cut in passing legislation canceling about $52,000,000,000 in wartime authorizations.

Although the Senate has not yet acted on the legislation, Engel said the Army "knows they're not going to have the money."

Testimony showed that the Army planned to have an average of 2,935,000 men in camps in this country in January, Engel said. He asserted this was inexcusable.

Urges Immediate Release

Some of the men, he said, would be those returning from overseas for discharge but many would be soldiers "who have too many points to be sent across and yet too few to be released."

Engel said that many in the latter category are not needed and called it "cockeyed" to keep them in the Army. All such surplus men ought to be released immediately, regardless of their point scores, he declared.

NHA WILL AID VETERANS

Pledge Given to F. D. Roosevelt Jr., Who Describes Housing

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—Federal Housing Administrator John B. Blandford Jr. said today he had given Lieut. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. assurance that the NHA would do "everything in its power" to ease a housing shortage confronting veterans returning to New York City.

Mr. Blandford said young Roosevelt and a New York committee called on him Thursday to find out what NHA could do to improve the situation..

"I told them," he added, "that we would do everything we can within our power and resources."

He explained to the group, however, that NHA now lacks funds to shift temporary war housing into New York although Congress has been asked for funds for such transfers.

News-Freedom Clause Planned For U. S. Loans

Representatives Would Tie Aid to Requirements Put Into U.N.N.R.A. Measure

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP).—A strong House group disclosed plans today to attach to every future bill for aid to foreign governments "free press" requirements similar to those put into a United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration appropriation measure this week.

Specifically, the group proposes to restrict any foreign loans to nations which give United States reporters full access to news abroad.

The amendment to the appropriation bill does that in so far as the gathering of news about U. N. R. R. A. activities is concerned. The Senate, however, has yot yet acted on that measure.

Still in the House legislative mill is a bill authorizing a new grant of $1,350,000,000 to the U. N. R. R. A. This is in addition to the $550,000,000 fund to which the rider was attached.

In the offing are measures to authorize loans to Great Britain, Russia and other Allied nations, and to enlarge the capital of the Export-Import Bank.

Hanging fire in the House Foreign Affairs Committee is a bill to repeal the Johnson act prohibiting loans to foreign governments in default on past obligations to this country.

All these proposals are likely to be the target of "free press" amendments when they reach the House floor.

If the show of strength made on the U. N. R. R. A. amendment means anything, the restrictions will be written into the other legislation. There were 188 votes for the U. N. R. R. A. amendment, and the total probably would have been higher if it had not been for pleas that the U. N. R. R. A. is strictly a relief agency and should not be hampered in its operations.

"We are going to undertake to require in all foreign-aid legislation hereafter that United States reporters be given free access to news in countries receiving the aid," a Republican leader said.

"We are not asking any nation to borrow our money, but if they want it bad enough they should be willing to let trained observers representing the American public look around and see what it is being used for."

As originally proposed, the U. N. R. R. A. rider would have required general news freedom in countries receiving aid under the bill, but a compromise cut it down to apply only to U. N. R. R. A. information.

The Republican leader's disclosure of plans was based on his expectation that the Republican-Southern Democratic group which shoved through Thursday's amendment would hold together in future votes along the same line. Thirty-two Democrats, mostly from the South, joined 156 Republicans in that vote. Only two Republicans voted against the rider.

WPB WILL CEASE TO EXIST TODAY

Washington, Nov. 3 (A. P.).—The War Production Board goes out of existence today. The new Civilian Production Administration will take over the few remaining wartime controls over industry.

Officially WPB passes from the scene at the close of business tonight. But because of the five-day week, yesterday actually was the last day of full operation.

On Monday, some 3,500 members of a staff that once numbered 23,000 will go to work for the successor agency, CPA. Most of them will be at the same desks, doing the same jobs.

The task that remains is one of administering fifty-two business controls and three priority regulations—all that are left of 650 orders which harnessed industry at one time during the war. Those remaining cover such scarce materials as tin, crude rubber and textiles, as well as authority to crack reconversion bottlenecks and prevent hoarding of supplies.

J. A. Krug, WPB chairman, has not disclosed his plans, except to say that he expects to enter private industry.

U.S. Losing Peace, Says Newsman

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 3 (AP)—"We are losing the peace because Americans are stepping out of the world picture and out of all ideas of the future," Russell Barnes, former head of OWI psychological warfare in the Mediterranean theater, said here last night.

Barnes, Detroit News staff member, addressed more than 250 delegates to the twenty-eighth annual convention of the Press Club of Michigan, which closes today.

Reasons Listed

"I think we are losing the peace," Barnes declared, "because we want to return to peacetime life too rapidly, because we are pulling our troops out of occupied areas too fast and because we have military men in charge of large numbers of conquered people when the military men are not trained to handle the job."

Tom Yarbrough, speaking of his six years' experience abroad as an Associated Press war correspondent, classed the Pacific war theater as tougher than the European because of the "troublesome insects, swiftly changing elements and the area's utter remoteness."

Julio Garzon, editor of La Prensa, New York, spoke on "the challenge of the Latin-American press to the press of the United States."

Reorganization Bill Is Sidetracked

Washington, Nov. 3 (AP)—Legislation granting the President sharply restricted authority to reorganize the Government's executive branch was on a Senate sidetrack today with small prospect of final action next week.

The bill was shunted aside while Republican members of the Pearl Harbor Investigating Committee argued yesterday with their Democratic colleagues for wider latitude in carrying out that inquiry. Then the Senate recessed until Tuesday.

Before the reorganization debate was interrupted, however, Senator Overton (D., La.) managed to write in an exemption for civil functions of the Army engineers.

Thirteen other agencies had previously been safeguarded from merger in the bill approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

4 N. Y. Postmasters Nominated

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP).—President Truman has sent to the Senate the following nominations for postmasterships in New York: Ida Pietrobelli, Cottekill; Harry A. Monroe, Harris; Velma G. Banner, Maryland, and Thomas G. Spring, Morton.

Mormons Call on Truman

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP).—A group of high officials of the Mormon Church, headed by George Albert Smith, president, paid a courtesy call on President Truman today. The White House had stated previously that two apostles of the church, John A. Widtsoe and Thomas E. McKay, who were in the group, were on their way to Europe to plan for re-establishment of church properties.

Prompt Approval Asked On U. S.-British Oil Pact

Petroleum Council Also Seeks End of Price Controls

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP).—The petroleum industry war council asked tonight for prompt Senate ratification of a new Anglo-American oil agreement.

The council, set up at the request of the government to advise it on war-time petroleum problems, said in a statement that "objectionable features present in a previous agreement have been eliminated."

The new one, signed in London Sept. 24, was sent to the Senate yesterday by President Truman.

William R. Boyd jr., chairman, said the council's national oil policy committee has reviewed the revised pact and believes it will "serve a constructive purpose in the orderly development of international petroleum trade."

The council said the agreement should be advantageous to both Britain and the United States, and to their citizens and oil industries, because it will establish machinery for effective and equitable solution of petroleum problems encountered in international trade.

Mr. Boyd announced that the council has recommended that Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, as petroleum administrator for war, ask the Office of Price Administration and Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion to end all price controls on crude oil and petroleum products.

Australian Suggests Migration of U. S. Idle

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3 (AP).—"A large number" of west coast American industrial workers would be interested in migrating to Australia, if the Australian government would offer a more specific statement of the assistance it would give them, Norman Martin, agent general to London for Victoria, Australia, said today.

Mr. Martin said he was convinced from a brief examination of the Pacific Coast situation that only quick completion of Australia's migration policy is necessary "in order to reap the harvest of people now living in California who are interested in moving to the commonwealth."

Hundreds of highly skilled tradesmen, he added, had left their homes in the Eastern United States to come to west coast war plants, and he thought it unlikely that permanent work could be found here for all of them. Thousands, he said, seemed reluctant to return East, and "there was evidence that many would like to go to Australia instead."

U.S. May Buy Two Crops Of Cuba Sugar at Once

May Offer Compromise to End Impasse on 1946 Supply

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP).—American sugar authorities said today Secretary of Agriculture Clinton B. Anderson may ask Congress for authority to buy two Cuban sugar crops at a time to break an impasse in negotiations for purchasing Cuba's 1946 supply.

There's less sugar for American dinner tables than at any time since 1942.

Two-weeks-old negotiations for Cuban sugar were postponed yesterday until Dec. 4 to allow further discussion of problems which developed during the conversations.

Officials who refused to be quoted directly said the Administration would seek authority from Congress to offer a compromise. The compromise, it was said, involves purchase of the 1946 and 1947 Cuban crops for 3.675 cents a pound.

Cuba has been asking that price for those crops and 1948 production as well. American negotiators contended they could not make commitments beyond one crop because the United States purchasing agency operates on a year-to-year appropriation.

Oppose Sale of Wool

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP).—Representative Frank H. Barrett, Republican, of Wyoming, said today that any attempt by Great Britain to sell 380,000,000 pounds of American stored wool on the domestic market will bring "vigorous protests" from Congressmen representing wool-growing states. He asserted as the wool was brought to this country for "strategic purposes only and with the distinct understanding that it would not be sold on the domestic market."

WONDERS AT HAND FOR DAILY LIVING

Glass Dresses, Trousers With Permanent Creases, Even a Mechanical Cow on Way

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—A Senate Military Affairs subcommittee has looked into the future and set down coming wonders in a 167-page volume dealing with 839 developments in wartime technology.

Here are some of the things which are portrayed:

Parading the avenue in spun glass or aluminum dresses, accompanied by gentlemen whose nonshrinkable, never-to-be-shiny serge trousers have a permanent crease.

Houses with windows of insulated glass which would cut the heat bill 50 per cent.

Pastel-colored glass kitchen sinks.

Neon lighting rods.

Bread made from sea water.

A life-preserver quilt to take along on sea voyages.

A mechanical cow which turns out milk and cream from a mixture of water, dried skimmed milk and butter.

Soy bean shoe soles, slapped on at home and sealed with a hot flatiron.

Chairman Kilgore of West Virginia hinted in a statement about the report that peace-time life was going to be something of a dream in which women's stockings would have no runs and a farmer could send a machine out to do his plowing for him.

Over 125 Seized In Dope Raid In D.C.

Washington, Nov. 3 (AP)—A force of 220 police and Federal agents, striking simultaneously at 34 establishments, seized more than 125 persons during the night in one of the Capital's biggest narcotics raids.

The suspects were herded into large vans and taken to police headquarters for questioning. More than 40 were booked today on various charges involving possession of narcotics.

Narcotics Confiscated

Raiders also confiscated several thousand dollars worth of narcotics, including 80 ounces of heroin valued at $4,000.

Col. Edward J. Kelly, superintendent of Washington police, reported that 32 squads took part in the drive.

Police smashed doors to gain entry to some of the establishments. Two suspects were injured in leaps from windows. One was taken to a hospital. Neither was identified by police.

The drive started at 11.15 P.M. last night. Vans sent out by United States marshals operated several hours bringing in the suspects. Police reported they seized 65 ounces of heroin from one.

Among the raid leaders were Boyd M. Martin of Baltimore, supervisor for the Treausry Bureau of Narcotics in this area; and Leroy Morrison, Treasury agent in charge here.

Kelly said it was the largest narcotics raid he could recall in his 39 years of association with the Washington police force. He said the raid was timed to coincide with a similar roundup in New York.

Planned Last March

He said the raid was planned last March and that last Wednesday it was decided that sufficient evidence had been gathered to make the arrests.

Most of the places raided, Kelly said, were in the southwest section of the city. A few, he said, were in the northwest area.

In New York, Garland H. Williams, district superintendent of the Federal Narcotics Bureau, said today that twelve persons charged with peddling narcotics, including one reported to be the leader of gangs operating here and in Washington, were arrested last night.

Williams identified the alleged ringleader as Dominick d'Ercole, 38, of the Bronx.

C. Of C. Leader Optimistic On D.C. Parley

Nov 4 1945

Washington, Nov. 3 (AP)—Eric A. Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, predicted after a White House call today that next week's labor-management conference will "make some notable progress."

"One thing," he said, "is the spirit of good will in which the two groups will meet, and with both sides willing to make concessions. The President is very anxious to have the conference succeed and we all are."

Johnston headed a group of management representatives calling on Mr. Truman. Earlier a group of CIO union representatives called and pledged co-operation.

The Other Conferees

With Johnston were Noah Dietrich, executive vice president of the Hughes Tool Company, Houston, Texas; Charles A. Eaton, Jr., executive vice president, New Jersey Chamber of Commerce; S. B. Grove, executive manager, Toledo Chamber of Commerce; Raymond A. Smethurst, counsel for the National Association of Manufacturers, and Joyce O'Hara, assistant to Johnston.

The CIO representatives were Reid Robertson, president of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers; John Green, president of the Shipbuilding Workers; Julius Empak, secretary-treasurer of the Electric Workers, and Willard Townsend, president of the United Transport Service Employes.

Wage-Price Fight Grows

Notwithstanding Johnston's optimistic note, two days before the opening of the peace conference, fresh coals were heaped on the wage-price fire, and there was a protest that independent unions were being ignored. The protest included a threat that labor union chiefs who attend Monday's conference session will have to walk through picket lines.

Walter P. Reuther, vice president of the CIO Auto Workers, who are seeking a 30 per cent wage increase, said:

1. It is a "national tragedy" that the conference has omitted from its program the "key question" of wages and prices.

2. He will ask for a court injunction to prevent the OPA from granting any "unwarranted increases" in new auto prices over 1942 levels.

The OPA is expected to announce the auto prices within a few days. Reuther asserted at a news conference yesterday that the auto industry was "pressuring OPA" to get "unnecessary price increases."

Independent's Picket Plan

Edward G. Wilms, chairman of the Independent Unions of New Jersey, protested at Paterson, N.J., that non-affiliated labor organizations had been given the "brush-off" in the planning of the labor-management meeting.

"John L. Lewis, Philip Murray, William Green and other labor leaders will have to sneak in the back door or cross the picket line in order to be present at the conference in Washington," he said.

It is understood that Philip Murray, CIO president, will try to place the wage-price problem on the conference program. But this cannot be done unless industry is willing and a United States Chamber of Commerce spokesman said management generally would resist any effort to bring up the question. He said the conference should devote itself to "procedures, not issues."

Meyer Named Conciliator in Steel Dispute

N.Y. Mediation Board Head Will Handle U. S. Steel and C. I. O. Wage Fight

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP).—The government moved today to head off a potential nation-wide steel strike by appointing a special conciliator to handle the wage dispute between the United States Steel Corporation and the Congress for Industrial Organizations steel workers.

Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach appointed Arthur S. Meyer, chairman of the New York State Mediation Board, as a special conciliator in the case.

United States Steel is the largest of the eighty-six basic steel companies and of the total 769 steel and aluminum companies involved in the steel workers' demand for a wage increase of $2 a day.

Lee Pressman, general counsel for the C. I. O., said that whatever is done in the United States Steel case undoubtedly will be followed by the other companies.

The natonal dispute involves 583,727 workers, according to David J. McDonald, secretary-treasurer of the union. A strike vote is to be taken at the 769 companies on Nov. 28.

Secretary Schwellenbach sent identical letters today to Benjamin F. Fairless, president of the United States Steel Corporation, and Philip Murray, president of the C. I. O., and of the steel union.

The letter said Mr. Schwellenbach had been informed that conference on the union demand ended Oct. 23, with the company rejecting the union's demand, and mentioned the union's National Labor Relations Board strike vote notice. It continued:

"President Truman, a few days ago, addressed the nation on this all-important question relating to the current wage demands of workers and collective bargaining.

With cogent reasons detailed in his message, the President appealed to both labor and management that they resolve their differences through sincere collective bargaining. At the same time the President emphasized the need, in the interest of avoiding a deflationary spiral, of protecting wage earners against severe losses in earnings which have occurred since V-J Day.

"I am, therefore, requesting the United Steel workers and the United States Steel Corporation in keeping with the spirit of the President's speech immediately to resume collective bargaining conferences in a further effort to resolve their differences."

To Resume Negotiations

DETROIT, Nov. 3 (AP).—Walter P. Reuther, vice-president of the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers, said today that wage negotiations between the union and the General Motors Corporation would be resumed next Wednesday.

At that time, Mr. Reuther said, the corporation plans to give its answer to the union's briefs supporting its demand for a 30 per cent wage rate increase.

Similar negotiations with the Chrysler corporation are to be resumed on Nov. 15, and will be opened with the Ford Motor Company on Nov. 20.

Mr. Reuther said he had requested Secretary Schwellenbach to assign a conciliator to the negotiations. The union, he said, would make available to the conciliator the verbatim record of negotiations thus far "which establishes the corporation's refusal to enter into genuine bargaining despite our efforts."

Express Driver Raise Okayed

Washington, Nov. 3 (AP)—A presidential emergency board recommended today a 10-cents-an-hous wage increase for 7,500 AFL teamsters employed by the Railway Express Agency in eight large cities. The raise would be retroactive to August 20, 1945.

The board, appointed October 10 to investigate the workers' demands, said failure to grant the increases would result in a work stoppage "which would interfere with the effective transition to a peacetime economy."

Declares Inequities Shown

It said the employés in New York city, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Newark, N. J.; Philadelphia, St. Louis, San Francisco and Chicago "have shown inequities and maladjustments" within the scope of the Administration stabilization program.

The New York metropolitan area employés had asked a 20 per cent raise and the others 10 cents an hour. The board said it found no sufficient reason for recommending a greater increase for the New York employés.

The emergency board was headed by H. Nathan Swaim. Its two other members were Eugene L. Padberg and Henri Burque.

Acts On Work Rules

The board acted on scores of proposed changes in working rules under a local agreement governing the hours and working conditions of 4,150 New York truck operators.

Most of the changes were turned down, including a union demand for a five-day week of forty hours with Saturdays and Sundays off. Employés now work six days a week, with five hours and forty minutes on Saturdays.

"The business of the express agency," the board found, "necessitates work to be done on each day of the week, and even though Saturday is a short day, there is still need for working hours on that day."

Compromise On Vacations

The board also recommended no change in the rule on overtime, but compromised on vacation demands. It recommended a vacation of six working days to employés of one to five years' service and twelve to those of five years and over. The employés had asked ten and fifteen day vacations.

The report gave the present average wage for the workers involved as $1.09 an hour, with New York drivers getting $216.49 a month, Chicago drivers $210.10 and those in the other cities varying amounts.

The increase, the board estimated, would cost about $2,000,000 a year.

Settled 304 Strikes in October

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—The Federal Conciliation Service reported today that it settled 304 strikes involving 318,000 workers during October. Edgar L. Warren, director, also announced that its Detroit office would report directly to Washington "because of the increasing importance" of conciliation work in that area.

Union Threatens Higgins-Closing Reprisal Move

New Orleans, Nov. 3 (AP)—The possibility that all AFL unions in the New Orleans area will be asked to engage in a 24-hour work stoppage highlighted union reaction today to the closing of three Higgins Industries plants here.

The offer of Andrew J. Higgins, Sr., to sell the boat and trailer plants to the unions with which he had been in dispute brought from William L. Donnels, publicity chairman of the New Orleans Metal and Building Trades councils (AFL), allegations of "smoke screen" tactics and a demand for a congressional investigation.

Can't Buy Plants

"He knows we couldn't handle the plants, that we don't have the money and wouldn't know what to do with them," Donnels declared yesterday. "This is just a smoke screen to cover something we don't know about now."

Donnels said that if all other means of obtaining a Federal investigation failed, the groups he represented were considering asking all AFL unions in the New Orleans area stop work for 24 hours as a demonstration.

75,000 To 100,000 Involved

Donnels said today in an interview with the Associated Press that if the 24-hour demonstration is held, "possibly 75,000 to 100,000 AFL members would be affected."

"We will raise such a protest that the Senate and Congress will have to do something," Donnels said. "There is more to this than appears on the surface. We fought for him (Higgins) all through the war. Now he is trying to make a goat out of us and we refuse to be made the goat."

Closed "For Keeps"

Higgins closed the plants "for keeps" Thursday, with the explanation that he had been placed in an impossible position by the local AFL union leadership and by what he called conflicting policies of the War Labor Board and National Labor Relations Board.

The plants had been crippled since Monday by a strike involving about 2,000 AFL union members who wanted contract negotiations continued. Meanwhile, an NLRB hearing was considering a CIO claim to represent a majority of the workers.

Say He Will Crusade

Yesterday the industrialist said: "I am going to crusade to see that men who want to work can get it without paying tribute to anybody." Later he said he ceased manufacturing, although he had $40,000,000 worth of orders on hand and could have provided more jobs than in wartime, in the hope that his action would be "so sacrificial and so soundly taken that it will shock the lawmakers and those that have been abusing power."

He asked for legislation requiring union contractual responsibility and bonding union officials.

Bus Lines Reject D.C. Talk Plan

Nov 4 1945

Cleveland, Nov. 3 (AP)—The presidents of the strike-bound Central Greyhound Lines and Pennsylvania Greyhound Lines today turned down a request of the Federal Conciliation Service that company and union representatives meet in Washington Monday to reopen wage negotiations.

In a telegram to Edgar L. Warren, director of the United States Conciliation Service, President R. W. Budd of Central Greyhound and President S. R. Sundstrom of Pennsylvania Greyhound declared:

"In light of past conferences we do not believe the matter of settlement can be accomplished through further joint meetings at Washington.

"Will Meet In Cleveland"

"However, we will be glad to meet with the union as in the past here in Cleveland if it now feels that something can be accomplished.

"Our offer, which was requested by Union Vice President Sam B. Berrong, still stands and is our top proposition."

The lines have offered a wage payment of 5.4 cents per mile for drivers in the East and 5.3 cents for drivers in the West, and a 10 per cent raise for maintenance men.

The union seeks 5.75 cents per mile for drivers and a 30 per cent increase for maintenance men.

Service continued uninterrupted on the Capital Greyhound Company lines operating out of Washington to the West, although union employés have voted to authorize a sympathy strike. A union official said that despite the vote no early walkout is contemplated.

Oklahoma Strike Set

Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 3 (AP)—Drivers for Southwestern Greyhound Bus Lines in Oklahoma are preparing to strike at midnight, Raymond O. Skinner, chairman of the Tulsa sub-local of the Drivers Union announced.

H. S. McNiel, Oklahoma City, local chairman of the union, said 33 drivers there would strike simultaneously with the Tulsa group.

Skinner estimated that 93 drivers would quit in the two cities and predicted strikes at "other points" soon. He said he expected 30 drivers in Springfield, Mo., to strike when the Oklahoma action became known.

The strikers want pay increases to offset the loss of extra pay caused by cancellation of ODT's 30-mile-an-hour speed limit, Skinner said. Under the limit drivers worked longer hours.

CIO-Fighting C.I.O. Warns On Name

San Antonio, Texas, Nov. 3 (AP)—Phil Hopkins, vice chairman of Fight for Free Enterprise, said today that Free Enterprisers by a "legal coup" had "seized the CIO name in Texas" and warned newspapers and radio stations of the action's "infinite angles."

He said the new organization would take legal steps to "protect the illegal use of its name," or its initials.

"Only this now organized corporation has, in Texas, the right to this name and its use."

New Group Chartered

The Secretary of State in Austin yesterday granted a charter to the Congress of Industrial Organizations. The charter was granted to a group of men active in the organization known as Fight for Freedom Enterprise, and not the labor organization of that name.

O. A. Knight, president of the Oil Workers International Union, said in Fort Worth that he did not believe the new oorganization would achieve its purpose, "which undoubtedly is to embarrass the national CIO."

Hopkins's Statement

Hopkins, in a statement to the press, said:

"I hardly need elaborate on the infinite angles which present themselves for action by us in this situation. Not the least intriguing will be the press releases, newspaper ads, and radio broadcasts by this legitimate, legal CIO and which, you can safely infer, will be quite the opposite in purposes and policy from the self-styled CIO which reportedly has headquarters in Washington (or under Sidney Hillman's hat) and which has intruded itself into Texas."

Knight's Statement

Knight, the oil union president, commented: "This is very surprising."

Knight said Fight for Free Enterprise has been fighting the national CIO in Texas, but said: "Certainly the national CIO is not required to register to do business in Texas. I feel that the incorporators of the new organization will not achieve their purpose, which undoubtedly is to embarrass the national CIO."

"Cleaning Up The Name"

Hopkins, however, said:

"The people of Texas will realize the significance of the formation of this Texas CIO as intended to promote Americanism instead of the communism fostered by the motley group using this name elsewhere . . . [they] will have to adopt a new alias in Texas. We're cleaning up the name 'CIO' for the good of the State."

Chrysler Profits Drop During War

Detroit, Nov. 3 (AP)—Chrysler Corporation in the current issue of the company magazine asserts that its total net profits for three years of war time production were 44 per cent less than for the three preceding peacetime years.

"In the three peacetime years together from 1939 through 1941," the magazine article says, "Chrysler Corporation did $2,182,733,976 worth of business. During the war years of 1942, '43 and '44, together it did $2,608,195,935 worth of war business.

"However, in spite of the larger volume of business in the war, its total net profits for that period were $63,671,068, as compared with $114,796,528 for the peacetime years, or 44 per cent less."

The article adds that in the prewar years approximately 18 per cent of total income was paid out in wages, as compared with around 31 per cent during the war years. Stockholders, it says, received an average of $5.50 per share per year during the three prewar years and $3.17 per year during the three war years.

SECRET ENGINE REVEALED

Chrysler Plane Motor Drove Plane 500 Miles an Hour

DETROIT, Nov. 3 (AP)—The Chrysler Corporation disclosed today that it produced during the war a new secret 2,500-horsepower liquid cooled airplaine engine of unusual design. The engine was described as "more powerful than any engine of similar displacement, yet easier to produce and substantially more economical in operation than other engines of the same type and power."

The engine is a sixteen-cylinder inverted V type, ten feet five inches long and less than three feet in diameter. It weighs 2,430 pounds. In a specially adapted testing plane it developed speeds of 500 miles an hour.

Chrysler said it had delivered the first engine to the Air Technical Service Command in January, 1945, after fifty-six months of engineering and testing.

This Tojo Throws Bottles At Soldiers

Grand Island, Neb., Nov. 3 (AP)—A friend on Okinawa sent Tojo, a monkey, to Lieut. Paul M. Landis of the Grand Island Army Airfield.

Tojo's worst habits, Landis reports, are a thirst for bottled beer and a penchant for throwing the empty bottles at soldiers.

Roosevelt Foundation Is Incorporated

Baltimore, Nov. 3 (A. P.).—The Franklin D. Roosevelt Memorial Foundation, Inc., organized to perpetuate the memory, works and ideals of the late President, was incorporated under Maryland laws today and the chief office established in Washington, with President Truman as one of its fourteen incorporators.

The foundation will have offices "within and without the State of Maryland and in the States, territories or colonies of the United States and in any and all foreign countries."

Blow Torches On B-29's

Wichita, Kan., Nov. 3 (AP)—Electric blow torches are being turned on Superfortresses marked for scrapping at Boeing Aircraft Plant No. 2 on instructions which a plant official said "have come to the company through army channels."

The plant official, who asked that he not be named, said the company could make no further statement on the matter.

Reportedly, sixteen planes were consigned to junk metal and five other planes, not yet in final assembly, were to be sent to Boeing's Seattle plant.

"Surplus items and materials of little value are always destroyed in aircraft plants when Government contracts are terminated," said Major E. T. Cuttyback, second in command of army representatives at the plant.

Chennault Would Help Chinese

Miami, Fla., Nov. 3 (A. P.).—Major-Gen. Claire L. Chennault, resting here before starting a lecture tour, told the Miami Herald in an interview that he would be interested in heading a Chinese air force modeled after his famous Flying Tigers.

"If I can be useful in China to maintain cordial relations between the United States and China, and assist China to maintain peace, I would be interested," Chenault was quoted last night.

He added, however, that he had not been approached on the matter.

To Honor Marshall and Halsey

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3 (AP).—General of the Army, George C. Marshall, Army Chief of Staff, will be guest of honoqr at a Military Order of Foreign Wars of the United States dinner here Nov. 13. Fleet Admiral William F. Halsey will be guest here Friday in ceremonies which will include a thirty-six-mile motorcade.

A. P. Official In From Spain

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3 (AP).—Charles Foltz jr., former Associated Press chief of bureau at Madrid, Spain, arrived today aboard the Magiallines from Lisbon, Portugal. Accompanying him were his wife, Frances, and son, Charles Ireland Foltz. He left for New York to report before going on leave.

Gob Going Blind—Ex-GI Offers Eye; Navy Sends For Family

Charleston, S.C., Nov. 3 (AP)—The Navy is rushing his family to him from faraway New Zealand before he goes totally blind.

And a 42-year-old ex-GI with no dependents who came out of the war whole is offering him—futilely—one of his eyes that he might see.

These things today deeply touched a South Carolina sailor, William Bingham, 24, who has lost the sight in one eye and is losing the sight in the other.

Said the ex-GI:

"I was one of the lucky ones . . . and I get sick at heart seeing some of the youngsters who will go around crippled or maimed for life."

Offer From The Bronx

He is George Brown, 42, of the Bronx, New York city.

For weeks several congressmen have been trying to break through red tape and literal interpretation of regulations to get Bingham's family to him.

Bingham, now in a naval hospital here, contracted a blinding eye disease in the invasion of Okinawa. He'd married a New Zealand girl. They have two small children. They'd been refused a visa to come to America because the father is disabled.

William H. Townes, publisher of the Spartanburg (S.C.) Herald, wrote Attorney General Tom C. Clark, calling attention to Bingham's plight and asking that his family be permitted to come here where a sister lives.

Not Case For Transplantation

Brown saw the story about this letter in a New York newspaper. He sat down and wrote Townes, offering to give Bingham one of his eyes—if surgeons could transplant it.

He wrote:

"You see. . . . I have lived more than half of my life and the loss of one eye would save the sight of this boy who is just beginning to live. . . . I am unmarried; no one to support. . . ."

But Sailor Bingham's affliction is one that isn't, doctors said, remedied by the relatively new operation of corneal transplant, which restores sight in some kinds of blindness.

But anyway, the Navy has now cabled officials in New Zealand to get Bingham's family here just as quick as possible.

SAYS STRIKE HALTS RETURN OF TROOPS

WSA Charges CIO and AFL Machinists' Dispute Has Tied Up Coast Ship Repairs

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3 (AP)—The return of troops from overseas is being delayed because of the strike of AFL and CIO Machinists' Unions in the San Francisco Bay area, the War Shipping Administration said today.

Lieut. Comdr. W. C. Peet Jr., Pacific Coast director of WSA, said the strike had held up vital repair work on twelve troop ships with a carrying capacity of 22,290 men.

Demanding a 30 per cent pay increase, about 10,000 machinists walked off their jobs on Oct. 29. As a result, some 50,000 additional workers are idle.

Officials of non-machinist unions were said to be considering a formal protest to CIO and AFL machinist leaders against the walkout.

Management and labor were reported to be deadlocked over the question of joint negotiations, with each blaming the other in telegrams of protest sent to the United States Conciliation Service in Washington.

Refusal of management to deal with AFL and CIO jointly brought charges from the San Francisco AFL Machinists' Lodge, No. 68 and the East Bay CIO Machinists' Local 1304 that procedure suggested by the Conciliation Service was being violated.

Employers wishing to bargain separately with the unions told Edgar L. Warren, director of the Conciliation Service, that the blanket CIO-AFL proposal was contrary to an agreement reached at a conciliation session Thursday.

Uranium Atom Exhibit to Open

An exhibit on the uranium atom and radio-activity will be open to the public tomorrow from 12 to 4 P. M., on the thirteenth floor of Hunter College, 695 Park Avenue. The exhibit, sponsored jointly by the Hunter Geology and Geography, and Physics Departments, includes a model of the uranium atom, a world map showing the location of known uranium deposits, samples of uranium ore, and pictures, posters and diagrams of atomic energy.

Hunter Reports Craft Hit Into Mountain Near Kent

NEW YORK, Nov. 3—(AP) A Navy plane crashed in the foothills of the Berkshire mountains between Wingdale, N. Y., and Kent, Conn., late today, the Second Service command announced.

Sam Klein, a resident of Wingdale, said he had found the plane atop East mountain and that its two occupants had been killed.

The Army, which earlier had reported the plane to be an Army transport, said it was unable to determine immediately the type of the Navy craft.

Klein said the plane parts was strewn about the mountain top and that Army officials and State police were on their way to the scene. The Army Air force convalescent hospital at Pawling sent medical aid to the remote spot.

Howard Maxson, a resident of Wingate who was hunting on the mountain, said he saw the plane crash upside down.

State police from the Millbrook barracks said they would attempt to bring the two bodies out of the woods tonight. Dense underbrush and the lack of any sort of road from the mountainside would make the removal slow and difficult, they said.

dreds of thousands of civilians since she came here October 22 to take part in Navy Day activities, has suffered considerable damage at the hands of souvenir hunters, officers reported today.

As members of her crew ruefully surveyed results of the public inspection, Lieut. Philip Stromback, damage control officer, opined: "I would prefer battle or fire-damage control."

Lieutenant Stromback said the period from September 5 to October 22 was spent putting the ship in such a shape that "the public would be proud of her." He added: "She's not much to be proud of now."

Visitors Come Armed

Officers said the throngs of souvenir-hungry visitors came armed with pliers, wrenches and penknives. They swept the vessel clean of most everything loose and a lot that wasn't.

Most of the troubles came during an invasion Monday by some 60,000 school children, it was related. Officers said the youngsters:

Sounded a general alarm which sent sailors scurrying to their battle stations.

Attempted to hack out the main deck plate commemorating the Japanese surrender ceremony.

Tried to pull every lever in sight—one of which released a two-ton life raft that thundered onto the deck and cost one child a finger.

Precipitated a general furor simultaneously in which about 150 of their teachers fainted, necessitating the rigging of special bunks to care for them.

Pilfered many fire-hose nozzles.

Penciled countless "compositions" on the freshly painted walls.

It was estimated that by Monday night approximately 1,000,000 persons will have boarded the Missouri during its stay here.

To Go In For Repairs

Tuesday the ship will go to Bayonne, N.J., where part of its radar equipment and top mast will be removed so it can pass under the Brooklyn bridge en route to the New York Navy Yard for repairs.

Simultaneously with the damage survey came the announcement a new skipper would take over shortly.

Capt. Roscoe H. Hillenkoetter, 47, of Washington, who served on Admiral Chester W. Nimitz's staff and commanded destroyers in the South Pacific, will relieve Capt. Stuart S. Murray, who has been nominated for a rear admiralship and will serve in the Office of Chief of Naval Operations in Washington.

NEW LABOR SCHOOL OPENS

First Class of 105 at Cornell Has 60 Veterans and 19 Women

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 3 (AP)—New York's new school of industrial and labor relations, first of its kind in the country, has opened at Cornell University with 105 students.

At first ceremonies yesterday, Dean Irving M. Ives and President Edmund Ezra Day both said the school's success would depend equally on students and teachers. Mr. Ives, Republican Assembly leader, told of the development of the project by a legislative committee which he headed, and said the whole country was watching this undertaking. The school had the support of management, labor, the public and all political parties, he added.

Dr. Day told the first class it would be especially influential in determining the teaching program for the school and said it was "one of the most interesting experiments in all university history in this country."

Sixty veterans and nineteen women are in the class.

(ADVANCE) LONDON, Nov. 3—(AP)—DISCLOSURE THAT USE OF A RADIO-TELEPHONE OVER WHICH FIELD MARSHAL SIR BERNARD L. MONTGOMERY IN EUROPE CONDUCTED SECRET CONVERSATIONS WITH FORMER PRIME MINISTER WINSTON CHURCHILL IN DOWNING STREET WAS DISCLOSED TONIGHT BY THE BRITISH WAR OFFICE.

WITHOUT ELABORATION, THE ANNOUNCEMENT SAID THE DEVICE WAS SO CONSTRUCTED THAT IT PROVIDED THE SECRECY OF A PRIVATE TELEPHONE LINE.

THE RADIO-TELEPHONE EQUIPMENT IN EUROPE WAS BUILT IN A TRAILER AND MOVED WITH MONTGOMERY'S HEADQUARTERS. THE FIELD MARSHAL CALLED IT HIS "NUMBER 10 TRAIN," SINCE IT PROVIDED COMMUNICATION WITH NO. 10 DOWNING STREET, THE PRIME MINISTER'S RESIDENCE.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT SAID AN AMERICAN MISSION HAS GONE TO BRITAIN IN NOVEMBER 1942 TO STUDY THE DEVICE AND RETURNED TO WORK OUT AN AMERICAN VERSION.

KENT WAS DETAINED OCT. 4 TO AWAIT DEPORTATION TO THE UNITED STATES AFTER HE HAD COMPLETED A REDUCED SEVEN-YEAR PRISON SENTENCE FOR VIOLATION OF THE BRITISH OFFICIAL SECRETS ACT. HIS DEPARTURE HAS BEEN DELAYED BY THE BRITISH DOCK STRIKE, THE ATTORNEY SAID.
THE LAWYER, WHO ASKED THAT HIS NAME BE WITHHELD, SAID KENT WISHED TO BE FREE WHILE AWAITING PASSAGE AND THAT WHILE THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT'S DETENTION ORDER WAS NOT ILLEGAL, "EVEN SO KING'S BENCH MIGHT REVIEW IT."
HE ADDED THAT AT HIS REQUEST THE AMERICAN EMBASSY HAD REGISTERED KENT UNDER THE SELECTIVE ACT, SINCE HE BELIEVED THIS WAS NECESSARY FOR KENT'S ENTRANCE INTO THE UNITED STATES.
KENT WAS CONVICTED IN NOVEMBER, 1940, ON A CHARGE OF LARCENY OF AN EMBASSY DOCUMENT AND OF COMMUNICATING DOCUMENTS AND MATERIALS WHICH MIGHT BE OF VALUE TO THE ENEMY. HIS SEVEN-YEAR SENTENCE WAS REDUCED FOR GOOD BEHAVIOR.

NIGHT LEAD BELSEN
BY CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
LUENEBURG, GERMANY, NOV. 3-(AP)-THE BELSEN WAR CRIME TRIALS WILL ENTER THEIR EIGHTH WEEK MONDAY, A MONTH BEHIND THE ORIGINAL SCHEDULE, BUT OFFICIALS TONIGHT SAID VALUABLE LESSONS HAD BEEN LEARNED WHICH WOULD SHORTEN SUBSEQUENT TRIALS AND BRING ABOUT "SWIFT JUSTICE."
ONE LESSON, BOTH DEFENSE ATTORNEYS AND THE PROSECUTION AGREED, IS THAT THE NUMBER OF ACCUSED HEREAFTER SHOULD NOT EXCEED 20 AND THAT EIGHT TO 12 WOULD BE MORE SATISFACTORY. FORTY FIVE ARE BEING TRIED CONCURRENTLY HERE.
HERE ARE SUGGESTIONS AND OPINIONS OF 11 BRITISH OFFICERS AND ONE POLISH OFFICER OF THE DEFENSE COUNSEL ON HOW THE TRIALS COULD HAVE BEEN SHORTENED:
BY MORE CAREFUL PREPARATION OF THE CASE; USE OF ORAL WITNESSES ONLY WITHOUT THE INTRODUCTION OF A MASS OF AFFIDAVITS; AMENDMENT OF THE ROYAL WARRANT (WHICH SETS UP THE PROCEDURE AND ORGANIZATION OF THE COURT) TO PERMIT ONLY A FEW TYPES OF SECONDARY EVIDENCE; RESTRICTING THE ACCUSED TO THOSE OF ONE NATIONALITY TO AVOID TRANSLATING FROM ENGLISH TO GERMAN TO POLISH; SELECTION OF THE ACCUSED BY TYPES, SUCH AS PERSONNEL IN RESPONSIBLE POSITIONS WHO CAN BE CHARGED WITH SPECIFIC ACTS; AND GIVING MORE CARE TO THE SELECTION OF WITNESSES FOR THE PROSECUTION.
AT TODAY'S SESSION HELENA KOPPER, 35-YEAR-OLD POLISH WOMAN DEFENDANT WHO BECAME A CAMP SPY FOR THE SS, DECLARED IRMA GRESE, AN SS WOMAN GUARD, HAD SENT WOMEN ACROSS WIRE BARRIERS AT OSWIECIM CONCENTRATION CAMP TO BE SHOT BY GUARDS AT THE RATE OF 30 A DAY.

MOSCOW, NOV. 3-(AP)-THE MAGAZINE NEW TIMES TODAY DECLARED BALKAN COUNTRIES WANT NO LEADERSHIP FROM TURKEY, WHICH "BELONGS TO THE NUMBER OF THOSE FEW COUNTRIES WHICH UP TO THIS TIME REMAIN UNTOUCHED BY THE DEMOCRATIZING OF SOCIAL AND POLITICAL LIFE."

COMMENTATOR S. BELINKOV SAID TURKEY--WHOSE 20-YEAR FRIENDSHIP TREATY WITH THE SOVIET UNION EXPIRES NOV. 7--FACED THE POSTWAR WORLD WITH POVERTY AT HOME AND LITTLE FAVOR ABROAD BECAUSE, HE SAID, TURKEY HAD GEARED HER ECONOMY TO GERMANY'S NEEDS DURING PART OF THE WAR.

"CERTAIN CIRCLES IN TURKEY CLAIM SHE MUST PLAY A LEADING PART IN THE BALKANS," BELINKOV WROTE. "THE PRESENT SITUATION IS COMPLETELY DIFFERENT FROM THE PRE-WAR ONE. THE BALKAN COUNTRIES NOT ONLY HAVE FREED THEMSELVES FROM THE GERMAN INVADERS BUT THEY HAVE FINISHED FOREVER WITH THE OLD REACTIONARY REGIMES. THEY DO NOT NEED GUARDIANSHIP FROM ANYONE--LEAST OF ALL FROM TURKEY.

"THESE CIRCLES ARE ADVOCATING A FIRM POLICY WITH REGARD TO THE SOVIET UNION, A POLICY INCIDENTALLY THAT IS DIRECTLY OPPOSED TO THAT PURSUED BY THE LATE PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT," THE RUSSIAN WRITER SAID.

"WE CANNOT BUT TAKE COGNIZANCE OF THE EFFORTS MADE TO RETURN TO THE OLD POLICY OF BALANCE OF POWER IN EUROPE WHICH IS NOW BEING SERVED UP IN THE FORM OF A WESTERN BLOC. IS THAT NOT TANTAMOUNT TO JUXTAPOSING THE POLICY OF COLLABORATION AMONG GREAT POWERS TO THE POLICY OF DIVIDING THE WORLD INTO BLOCS WITH A POLICY AIMED AT DISUNITING THE DEMOCRATIC FORCES?"

THE RUSSIAN WRITER SAID THE LARGEST SHARE OF THE VICTORY WAS CONTRIBUTED BY THE SOVIETS WHO FEEL THAT A STRONGER SOVIET UNION IS BETTER FOR THE PEACE AND SECURITY OF ALL NATIONS.

"WE STAND FIRMLY FOR INTERNATIONAL COLLABORATION AMONG FREEDOM LOVING NATIONS, THE FOUNDATIONS OF WHICH WERE LAID IN THE STRUGGLE AGAINST THE COMMON ENEMY," THE WRITER SAID.

"BUT ANY ATTEMPTS TO REBUILD THE WORLD WITH THE AID OF 'ATOMIC DIPLOMACY' CANNOT RESULT IN ANY GOOD," ASSERTED THE COMMENTATOR, COL.M.TOLCHYENOV.

HE SAID FOREIGN NEWSPAPERS HAVE "EXPRESSED THE SOUND IDEA THAT XXX NO MATTER WHAT KIND OF PRODUCTION SECRET ONE COUNTRY OWNS, SOONER OR LATER IT WILL INEVITABLY BE DISCOVERED BY THE OTHERS."

"THE LESSONS OF WORLD WAR 11," HE ADDED, "HAVE SHOWN THAT ONLY THE FIRM COLLABORATION OF PEACE-LOVING PEOPLES WAS ABLE TO SAVE THE WORLD FROM UNSEEN CATASTROPHE.

THE MINISTER SAID IN AN INTERVIEW THAT HIS COUNTRY "CAN SEE NO REASON WHY" THE FRONTIERS FIXED AFTER WORLD WAR I, GIVING CZECHOSLOVAKIA THE CIESZYN AREA, SHOULD NOT BE RESTORED.

(CIESZYN, DISPUTED FOR GENERATIONS, WAS TAKEN OVER BY POLAND FROM CZECHOSLOVAKIA IN 1938, SHORTLY AFTER MUNICH. LATER THE GERMANS TOOK CONTROL. POLISH FORCES AGAIN OCCUPIED THE AREA LAST JUNE.)

ALSO TO BE SETTLED IS A DISPUTE OVER THE GERMAN AREA OF KLADSKO (GLATZ) SOUTH OF BRESLAU. THE POLES HAVE CLAIMED IT, BUT THE CITY OF KLADSKO IS DIRECTLY ON A MAIN HIGHWAY TO PRAGUE AND THE CZECHS ARE OPPOSED TO GIVING IT TO POLAND.

PRAGA, POLAND, NOV. 2 (DELAYED)--(AP)--DR. STEFAN JEDRYCHOWSKI, POLAND'S YOUTHFUL MINISTER OF NAVIGATION AND FOREIGN TRADE, DECLARED TODAY THAT POLAND WOULD "ALWAYS BE AN IMPORT NATION," AND THAT AT LEAST FIVE YEARS WOULD BE REQUIRED BEFORE THE NATION COULD REGAIN ITS PREWAR EXPORT VOLUME.

THE 28-YEAR-OLD MINISTER HELD OUT LITTLE HOPE THAT MUCH TRADE COULD BE CARRIED ON WITH THE UNITED STATES AND ENGLAND BEFORE 1950 BECAUSE POLAND NEEDS EVERYTHING SHE CAN PRODUCE TO MEET HER OWN NEEDS DURING THE RECONSTRUCTION PERIOD.

JEDRYCHOWSKI SAID POLAND HOPED TO GET THOUSANDS OF AUTOMOBILES, TRUCKS, MACHINERY, ROLLING STOCK AND LARGE AMOUNTS OF CLOTHING FROM THE AMERICAN ARMY'S DEMOBILIZED SURPLUSES.

WORKING IN HIS OFFICE IN ONE OF THE PATCHED-UP, SHELL-MARKED PRAGA BUILDINGS WHICH HOUSE SEVERAL GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENTS WHILE QUARTERS ARE BEING REBUILT IN WARSAW, JEDRYCHOWSKI SAID HE WAS HOPEFUL POLAND COULD WORK OUT A 50-50 TRADE BALANCE IN FIVE YEARS, EXPORTING AS MUCH AS SHE IMPORTS. SUCH A BALANCE, HE ADDED, ALREADY HAS BEEN ACHIEVED WITH SOVIET RUSSIA.

HE REPORTED TRADE AGREEMENTS ALREADY WERE SIGNED WITH RUSSIA, SWEDEN, NORWAY, DENMARK, ROMANIA, AND HUNGARY, AND THAT HE HOPED TO NEGOTIATE PACTS WITH THE UNITED STATES AND THE UNITED KINGDOM SOON.

POLAND'S EVENTUAL EXPORTS WOULD INCLUDE WOOD AND FARM PRODUCE TO ENGLAND AND MEAT TO THE UNITED STATES. JEDRYCHOWSKI SAID

POLISH EXPORTS TO THE UNITED STATES BEFORE THE WAR TOTALED [redacted]

AS MANY MEMBERS OF THE PARTY OF THE EXTREME RIGHT, THE CHRISTIAN DEMOCRATS, ARE EXPECTED TO VOTE FOR THE SMALL HOLDERS CANDIDATES.

AT ONE TIME THE SMALL HOLDERS PARTY PREDICTED AN 80 PER CENT SWEEP OF THE VOTE, BUT NOW ANTICIPATE 60 TO 65 PER CENT.

SOME OBSERVERS ESTIMATE THE SOCIAL DEMOCRATS MIGHT POLL AS HIGH AS 20 PER CENT AND THE COMMUNISTS AS LOW AS 10 PER CENT. THE SOCIAL DEMOCRATS RAN A JOINT TICKET WITH THE COMMUNISTS IN THE BUDAPEST ELECTION AND PERHAPS LOST SOME VOTES BECAUSE OF THAT ARRANGEMENT.

UNDER A PRE-ELECTION DEAL HUNGARY IS EXPECTED TO CONTINUE TO HAVE A COALITION GOVERNMENT WITH ALL PARTIES SHARING IN THE RESPONSIBILITY. IT IS BELIEVED THIS ARRANGEMENT WILL BE FOLLOWED EVEN IF THE SMALL HOLDERS GAINED A WORKING MAJORITY IN PARLIAMENT.

IF THE SMALL OLDERS WIN AN OVERWHELMING VICTORY, HOWEVER, RIGHT WING ELEMENTS M DEMAND THAT THE PARTY FORM A GOVERNMENT BY ITSELF.

YOKOSUKA, JAPAN, SUNDAY, NOV.4-(AP)-JAPAN'S TWO MAMMOTH SUBMARINES, EACH EQUIPPED WITH THREE PLANES, WERE INTENDED AS CARRIERS FOR THE BOMBING OF THE PANAMA CANAL, THE NEWSPAPER MAINICHI SAID TODAY.

THE ONLY TROUBLE WITH THESE "JULES VERNE" WAR WEAPONS WAS THAT THEY WERE IMPRACTICABLE, AMERICAN AND JAPANESE OFFICERS AGREED.

THE ATTEMPT ON THE PANAMA CANAL NEVER WAS MADE.

BOTH OF THE SUBMARINES, THE WORLD'S LARGEST AND NOW TEMPORARILY PART OF THE U.S.NAVY, ARE OF 5,700 TONS, 400 FEET LONG, WITH A CLAIMED CRUISING RANGE OF 50,000 MILES.

WHEN THE UNDERSEA GIANTS WERE CAPTURED THEY WERE CARRYING RICE BETWEEN JAPAN AND TRUK, NIPPON'S ISLATED PACIFIC NAVAL BASE.

THEIR PLANES WERE DESIGNED AS SCOUTS TO AID THE EYESIGHT OF A FLEET PROGRESSIVELY BLINDED BY THE LOSS OF ADVANCE POSITIONS.

WHEN THE SUBMARINES WERE FIRST INTRODUCED TO THE WORLD LAST AUG. 19, AFTER SURFACING ALONGSIDE UNITED STATES OCCUPATION FLEET UNITS OFF YOKOSUKA NAVAL BASE IN TOKYO BAY, THE JAPANESE OFFICERS WERE ASKED WHAT THEY HAD BEEN DOING.

"WE NEVER SANK ANYTHING, NEVER BOMBED ANYTHING; WE JUST CRUISED AROUND," THEY REPLIED.

THE JAPANESE SAID THEY HAD BEEN TOYING WITH THE IDEA OF RIGGING UP A PLANE CATAPULT FOR THE LAUNCHING OF BAKA BOMBS--ONE-MAN SUICIDE AERIAL BOMBS SUCH AS THE JAPANESE LAUNCHED AGAINST AMERICAN SHIPS IN THE PHILIPPINE AND OKINAWA INVASIONS.

THE THREE PLANES WERE STORED IN FORWARD HANGARS, AND EACH SUBMARINE ALSO CARRIED AN ADDITIONAL KNOCKED-DOWN AIRCRAFT. THEY WERE LAUNCHED BY CATAPULT AND WERE RETURNED TO THE DECK WITH A LARGE CRANE, WHICH FOLDED ALONGSIDE BEFORE THE VESSEL SUBMERGED.

LAUNCHINGS WERE KEPT AT A MINIMUM, THE JAPANESE SAID, BECAUSE OF THE DIFFICULTY IN RETRIEVING THE AIRCRAFT IN CHOPPY SEAS.

THE AMERICANS ALSO HAVE IN THEIR POSSESSION ONE SMALLER JAPANESE SUBMARINE WHICH CARRIED TWO PLANES, AND MAINICHI SAID TWO OTHERS

HAD BEEN CONSTRUCTED.
THE SUBMARINES WERE BUILT AT THE KURE NAVAL BASE AGAINST THE ADVICE OF GERMAN TECHNICIANS, WHO BELIEVED THEY WERE IMPRACTICABLE.
THEY ARE ATTACHED TEMPORARILY TO U.S. SUBMARINE DIVISSION 22, COMMANDED BY CAPT.R.MCGREGOR (320 WEST 78TH ST.), NEW YORK.
E OF THE LARGEST IS COMMANDED BY CMDR.EDWARD D.SPRUANCE, OF SAN GO, CALIF., SON OF ADM.RAYMOND A.SPRUANCE.

MANILA, NOV.3-(AP)-TWO WITNESSES TESTIFIED TODAY THAT LT.GEN. TOMOYUKI YAMASHITA HAD ISSUED ORDERS TO "WIPE OUT ALL FILIPINOS" AND HAD COMMENDED HIS BRUTAL JAPANESE GENDARMES FOR THEIR "FINE WORK."
IN A STORMY SESSION AND OVER THE VIGOROUS PROTESTS OF DEFENSE COUNSEL THE WITNESSES ASSERTED THE FORMER JAPANESE COMMANDER IN THE PHILIPPINES KNEW AND APPROVED HIS TROOPS' BRUTALITIES, THUS FOR THE FIRST TIME IN THE WEEK-LONG TRIAL OFFERING TESTIMONY LINKING HIM DIRECTLY WITH THE CRIMES.
ONE OF THEM, NARCISCO LAPUS, FORMER SECRETARY TO THE EXILED POLITICAL GENERAL ARTEMIO RICARTE, TOLD THE MILITARY COMMISSION THAT IN CONVERSATIONS WITH RICARTE YAMASHITA AFFIRMED HIS ORDER TO WIPE OUT ALL FILIPINOS.
A JAPANESE, FERMIN MIYASAKI, FORMER INTERPRETER AT JAPANESE MILITARY POLICE HEADQUARTERS HERE, SAID THE GENERAL HAD OFFICIALLY COMMENDED HIS POLICE FOR THEIR "FINE WORK" IN HANDLING CIVILIANS HOSTILE TO HIS REGIME.
THE WITNESS SAID HE SAW AT LEAST 400 CIVILIAN SUSPECTS "HANDLED" BY THE POLICE. MOST OF THEM WERE BEATEN, HE ASSERTED, AND MANY UNDERWENT THE WATER TORTURE OR WERE SUSPENDED FROM THE CEILING BY THEIR HANDS, WHICH WERE TIED BEHIND THEIR BACKS.
HE SAID HE DAILY AND NIGHTLY HEARD THE SCREAMS OF MEN AND WOMEN WHO WERE TORTURED AND FLUNG INTO SMALL CELLS.
ONE WITNESS SAID THE POLICE HELD HIM FOR A WEEK LAST DECEMBER, GAVE HIM THE WATER TREATMENT, JUMPED ON HIM WITH HEAVY BOOTS AND BURNED HIM WITH CIGARETTES TRYING TO GET HIM TO TELL WHAT HE KNEW ABOUT THE GUERRILLAS.
THE DEFENSE OBJECTED STRONGLY TO THE ADMISSION OF LAPUS' TESTIMONY ON THE "WIPE OUT ALL FILIPINOS" ORDER ALLEGEDLY ISSUED BY YAMASHITA, CALLING SUCH EVIDENCE "HEARSAY FOUR TIMES REMOVED."
NEVERTHELESS THE COURT PERMITTED LAPUS TO TELL HOW RICARTE, WHO WAS SENT BY PREMIER DICTATOR HIDEKI TOJO TO "WIN THE FRIENDSHIP OF THE FILIPINOS" HAD PLEADED REPEATEDLY WITH YAMASHITA TO SPARE THE PHILIPPINES FROM MASS TORTURE AND DEATH.

YAMASHITA SPURNED THESE PLEAS, LAPUS TESTIFIED, AND INFORMED RICARTE HE WAS STANDING BY HIS ORDER TO "WIPE OUT ALL FILIPINOS," FOR "THEY NOW ARE HELPING THE GUERRILLAS AND ARE 100 PER CENT ENEMIES OF OURS."
LAPUS SAID THAT FROM LONG AND INTIMATE ACQUAINTANCE HE WAS SURE RICARTE HAD TOLD HIM THE TRUTH.
THE DEFENSE WAIVED CROSS-EXAMINATION OF LAPUS UNTIL THE TRIAL RESUMES MONDAY. AS LAPUS SPOKE, YAMASHITA WHISPERED FREQUENTLY TO HIS COUNSEL AND HIS USUALLY STOLID FACE BROKE INTO A BROAD GRIN.
EARLIER IN TODAY'S SESSION YAMASHITA WAS THE TARGET OF AN HYSTERICAL OUTBURST BY A 17-YEAR-OLD FILIPINO GIRL WHO HAD TESTIFIED THAT INFURIATED JAPANESE SHOT OR BEHEADED MORE THAN 400 CIVILIANS IN MANILA IN ONE DAY LAST FEBRUARY.
"YOU OUGHT TO BE HANGED AND CUT INTO LITTLE PIECES!" SHE SCREAMED AT THE DEFENDANT, CLUTCHING A FRAYED NOTEBOOK IN WHICH SHE HAD KEPT THE NAMES OF NEIGHBORS AND FRIENDS KILLED BY THE JAPANESE.
THE GIRL HAD TO BE TAKEN FROM THE COURTROOM TO REGAIN HER COMPOSURE. YAMASHITA SAT UNMOVED THROUGH IT ALL.

"YOU ARE LAUGHING AT ME," THE GIRL SHOUTED AT THE GENERAL, AFTER TELLING OF THE DAY WHEN HER FATHER, BROTHER AND NEIGHBORHOOD FRIENDS WERE DRAGGED OUT TO TORTURE AND DEATH BY THE JAPANESE.
MORE THAN 300 CIVILIANS WERE KILLED AND MORE THAN 100 WOUNDED IN THE PACO DISTRICT ATROCITIES THAT DAY, SHE TESTIFIED.
AFTER HER OUTBURST THE COMMISSION REQUESTED AN ATTENDANT TO ESCORT MISS MILANES OUTSIDE FOR A MOMENT WHILE SHE REGAINED HER COMPOSURE.
DURING HER TESTIMONY SHE CLUTCHED A FRAYED NOTEBOOK WHICH CONTAINED THE NAMES OF MANY OF HER NEIGHBORS AND FRIENDS WHO, SHE SAID, WERE KILLED BY THE JAPANESE.

WASHINGTON,NOV.3-(AP)-A CUBAN GOVERNMENT SPOKESMAN SAID TODAY THAT DELAY OF THE U.S.SENATE FOREIGN RELATIONS COMMITTEE IN APPROVING THE APPOINTMENT OF SPRUILLE BRADEN AS AN ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE WAS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE RETURN OF COL.JUAN PERON TO POWER IN ARGENTINA

EDWARD CHIBAS, MEMBER OF THE CUBAN SENATE WHO OFTEN SPEAKS FOR THE GRAU ADMINISTRATION, TOLD A NEWS CONFERENCE THE ARGENTINE PEOPLE INTERPRETED THE DELAY AS MEANING THE COMMITTEE DID NOT APPROVE BRADEN ATTITUDE TOWARD THE FARRELL-PERON REGIME.

BRADEN FORMERLY WAS AMBASSADOR TO ARGENTINA. THE FOREIGN RELATIONS COMMITTEE HELD UP ACTION FOR WEEKS ON HIS APPOINTMENT AS ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE IN CHARGE OF LATIN AMERICAN AFFAIRS.

BUT VARIOUS COMMITTEE MEMBERS SAID THE DELAY WAS NOT BASED ON CRITICISM OF BRADEN'S WORK IN ARGENTINA BUT ON DISSATISFACTION WITH THE WAY THE STATE DEPARTMENT HAD HANDLED POSTPONEMENT OF AN INTER-AMERICAN CONFERENCE AT RIO DE JANEIRO. SOME SAID THE DEPARTMENT HAD NOT CONSULTED OTHER AMERICAN REPUBLICS SUFFICIENTLY.

CHIBAS IS REPRESENTING HIS GOVERNMENT HERE AT AN INTERNATIONAL CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE FOR PALESTINE.

HE TOLD REPORTERS THAT "ALTHOUGH THE DEMOCRATIC PEOPLE OF ARGENTINA WILL SOMETIME GET RID OF THE PERON GOVERNMENT, EVERYTHING WILL HAVE TO BE DONE AGAIN."

A RECENT VISITOR TO ARGENTINA, CHIBAS SAID:

"THE ARGENTINES THEMSELVES WILL ESTABLISH THEIR OWN DEMOCRATIC GOVERNMENT BECAUSE THEY ARE PROFOUNDLY DEMOCRATIC AND WILL NOT STAND FOR DICTATORSHIPS ANY LONGER."

BUT IF THE OTHER AMERICAN NATIONS DO NOT MOVE NOW AGAINST THE PRESENT ARGENTINE ADMINISTRATION, HE SAID, "IT CAN BE INTERPRETED IN ARGENTINA THAT THESE NATIONS GIVE THEIR MORAL SUPPORT TO PERON."

ASKED HIS OPINION OF THE RECENT OUSTING OF PRESIDENTS VARGAS OF BRAZIL AND MEDINA OF VENEZUELA, THE SENATOR SAID THE AMERICAS ARE MARCHING "ON THE WAY TO DEMOCRACY." THE MARCH BEGAN, HE SAID, WITH CUBAN ELECTIONS LAST YEAR "WHICH OVERTHREW DICTATOR BATISTA" AND CONTINUED WITH MOVEMENTS IN GUATEMALA, PERU AND VENEZUELA.

BOTH THE BOLIVIAN AND DOMINICAN REPUBLIC GOVERNMENTS, HE SAID, ARE IN THE PATH OF THE DEMOCRATIC PEOPLES OF THE AMERICAS.

WASHINGTON,NOV.3-(AP)-UNITED STATES DIPLOMATIC OFFICIALS WERE REPORTED ALARMED TONIGHT OVER THE SPREADING CIVIL STRIFE IN CHINA.

THEY ARE FEARFUL THAT AMERICAN HOPES FOR A STRONG CHINA AS AN EARLY STABILIZING FORCE IN ASIA MAY BE UPSET.

THEY ARE ALSO CONCERNED THAT AMERICAN MARINES AND ARMY FORCES THERE MAY BECOME INVOLVED IN THE FIGHTING BETWEEN COMMUNIST AND GOVERNMENT TROOPS--WITHOUT ANY INTENTION ON THE PART OF THE WHITE HOUSE OR STATE DEPARTMENT THAT THIS SHOULD HAPPEN.

THESE AUTHORITIES, WHO CANNOT BE IDENTIFIED FURTHER THAN AS TOP ADVISERS ON CHINESE AFFAIRS, APPEAR TO HAVE SPLIT WITH THE LINE TAKEN BY THE MILITARY OFFICIALS -- WHICH IS THAT THERE IS NO DANGER OF INVOLVEMENT.

THE RANKING AMERICAN MILITARY AUTHORITY ON CHINA IS GENERAL GEORGE WEDEMEYER, WHO RECENTLY CONFERRED HERE WITH PRESIDENT TRUMAN AND SECRETARY OF STATE BYRNES.

WEDEMEYER SAID LATER, AS REPORTED IN A DISPATCH FROM CHUNGKING TODAY, THAT HIS TROOPS COULD HELP THE CHINESE GOVERNMENT FORCES ROUND UP DEFEATED JAPANESE WITHOUT DIRECT ACTION AGAINST THE REDS.

THE DIPLOMATS ARGUE THAT AMERICAN INVOLVEMENT MAY RESULT FROM DRIFTING ALONG WITH A POLICY WHICH THEY SAY HAS BEEN OUTDATED BY EVENTS.

THIS ARGUMENT HAS BEEN PRESENTED TO SECRETARY BYRNES ALONG WITH A PROPOSAL FOR A POLICY REVIEW AND TWO ALTERNATIVE COURSES WHICH THE UNITED STATES MIGHT NOW TAKE IN VIEW OF THE FIGHTING.

ONE COURSE WOULD BE TO SAY THAT THE COMMUNISTS ARE LITTLE MORE THAN GANGSTERS, THAT THERE IS THEREFORE NO CIVIL WAR IN CHINA, AND THAT THE UNITED STATES FEELS ITS BEST INTERESTS WOULD BE SERVED BY GIVING CHIANG-KAI SHEK WHATEVER HELP HE NEEDS TO RESTORE PEACE AND ORDER.

THE ALTERNATIVE COURSE WOULD BE TO SAY THAT CHINA IS GOING THROUGH A PERIOD OF EXTREME INTERNAL DISSENSION IN WHICH NEITHER THE UNITED STATES NOR ANY OTHER FOREIGN GOVERNMENT COULD AFFORD TO BECOME INVOLVED; THAT A STRONG AND PEACEFUL CHINA WOULD RESULT MORE QUICKLY FROM ALLOWING THE CHINESE TO SETTLE THE ISSUE THEMSELVES.

Chungking Waits Red Reply On Plan to End China Strife

CHUNGKING, Monday, Nov. 5—(AP) An official dispatch today indicated that the position of the government-held Inner Mongolian city of Kewisui, capital of Suiyuan province, is becoming critical.

The dispatch was received as Chungking expectantly awaited a Communist reply to government proposals for cessation of hostilities. The reply is expected early this week.

The government report said the Communists were closing in on the outskirts of Kewisui and that one column of 10,000 was attacking the northeastern suburbs. Meanwhile, other columns were converging on Dweisui whose garrison, on the basis of previous reports, is heavily outnumbered.

Air Raid Denied

A Communist assertion that a plane bearing markings of the Chinese Air force attacked a village on the Tientsin-Pukow railroad south of Tsinan, capital of Shantung province, evoked an official denial from a military spokesman. The Communist report said four were killed and eight wounded.

The spokesman said that the Chinese Air force, apart from helping disarm the Japanese Air force, had taken no belligerent action anywhere since Japan's capitulation.

Hope of ending the spreading civil war hung on the Communists' reply to a new four-point peace proposal of the government.

Everything depended on an answer from Communist headquarters in Yenan, Shensi province, which if favorable might end the fighting already widespread in 11 provinces and give peace and negotiations another chance to unify troubled China.

There was moderate optimism here, somewhat dampened by the recollection that a peace move by the government last week was followed by more, not less, fighting.

Pessimists took the view that both sides still were stalling for time and that nothing would come of the present exchanges between Chungking and Yenan.

It was pointed out that the Communist spokesman here already had picked holes in the offer, which was styled by Central government quarters as a sincere attempt to avert all-out civil war.

Four Points Listed

The government's offer, issued here yesterday, proposed:

1. That both sides cease attacks.
2. That the Communists withdraw 10 kilometers (6.2 miles) from the railroads, leaving railway police (instead of troops) to guard the lines.
3. That the government thereafter consult the Communist before moving any troops over the railways.
4. That the People's Political council appoint a commission to investigate conditions along the railways and report any violation by either side.

There were no new advices from North China, where unconfirmed reports said the Communists yesterday captured Kweisui, capital of the rich Inner-Mongolian province of Suiyuan and the vital railway city of Tatung to the southeast.

Nationalists Prepared

If the Communists actually hold these cities, their position in Inner Mongolia would be formidable.

(The Nationalists, however, appeared to have their own plans to forestall any isolation of their Inner Mongolian forces.

(Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's top field commander, Gen. Ho Ying Chin, reiterated on his arrival in Peiping today that the government was determined to re-open its lines of communication through Communist-held areas.

(Ho minimized the reported extent of hostilities between Nationalists and Reds. He insisted that so far he had no information of any fighting "on a large scale" in North China.)

A semi-official dispatch reported that Gen. Tu Yu-ming, who is to command the Chinese peace preservation corps in Manchuria, left Ching-wangtao Saturday by destroyer for Yingkow (Newchwang) to make arrangements for landing Chinese Government troops there.

General Denies Fighting In North Is On Large Scale

Peiping, Nov. 4 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's top field commander, Gen. Ho Ying-chin, served notice today that the Central Government was determined to reopen its communication lines through Communist-held areas.

Whether this would touch off large-scale hostilities in North China remained to be seen, but Ho minimized reports of widespread civil war in the northern provinces.

The chief of staff and commander of Chinese field forces made his announcement at a press conference on his arrival in Peiping.

Charges Aim To Bar Troops

He bluntly accused Communist troops of disrupting China's railway system to prevent the movement of nationalist troops from central to North China to take over areas surrendered by the Japanese.

But as for large scale fighting he said:

"Up to the present, and according to all the information at hand which I have seen, there is no fighting on a large scale in North China."

A similar view was expressed here Friday by Gen. Li Tsung-jen, commander in chief of the 5th War Area and Chiang Kai-shek's deputy in the north.

"There may be a small war now in China," he said, "but major differences can be decided by negotiations."

Many Wish To Go Home

Ho said he hoped Central Government troops would be able to move along railway lines unimpeded, because many people in the interior were anxious to return to their homes elsewhere in China and lacked sufficient food and clothing to face the winter.

"That," he added, "is why we are anxious to reopen communications as soon as possible."

The general, who chose the winter palace of the Forbidden City for his meeting with the press, disclosed that after several days in Peiping he would go to Shansi and Suiyuan provinces.

Refuses Comment

Reports of clashes there between Central Government and Communist forces came to a climax last week in a warning from the Nationalist Government's 12th War Zone commander, Gen. Fu Tso-yi that any further advances by the Communist 8th Route Army would provoke real civil war.

Asked for comment on Fu's warning, Ho declined, saying that as commanding general of all Chinese troops he was not in a position to answer.

Ho said the movement of Chinese troops into Manchuria was already under way and that the Japanese in China were 90 per cent disarmed, with the exception of some 200,000 combat troops in Hopeh and Shantung provinces. These he added, would be disarmed by the end of the month.

A plan for the using such disarmed Japanese to rebuild war-devastated cities and districts will soon be put into effect, Ho asserted.

The general brushed aside a question on reported mistreatment of Chinese by Soviet troops in Manchuria.

"Russian military authorities," he said, "have done their best to aid Chinese national troops moving to Manchuria and will help disarm any troops who do not belong to the Central Government."

He emphasized that Russo-Chinese relations in Manchuria were "very close" and mentioned that Soviet authorities even had ordered railroads repaired to facilitate the arrival of Chinese forces.

New Landing Expected On Manchurian Coast

Tientsin, Nov. 4 (AP)—Chinese sources, encouraged by reports of Russian withdrawal from Manchuria's coasts, said today that nationalist troops would make new landings soon north of China's Great Wall.

One landing area will be the Manchurian port of Hulutao, near the northern end of the Gulf of Liaotung.

It was there that the United States 7th Amphibious commander, Vice Admiral Daniel Barbey, attempted to land the Chinese 13th Army but met such objections from Chinese Communists that he landed them instead at Chinwangtao, 85 miles to the southwest, to avoid bloodshed.

[This dispatch thus scotched Chungking reports that nationalist troops already had landed at Hulutao, as well as a Communist claim that civil warfare was raging about the port.]

It was understood Chinese Communists had agreed to permit occupation landings between Hulutao and Chingwangtao, probably at the prompting of Russia.

Shanghai's Memorial Found In Metal Dump

Shanghai, Nov. 4 (AP)—A ten-foot bronze winged Angel of Victory statue, which once overlooked Shanghai's bund from atop a granite pedestal, was found almost intact today in a metal dump where the Japanese had deposited it for melting into munitions.

The memorial, to Shanghai men who died in World War I, was removed three years ago for scrap but the Allied blockade prevented its transportation to Japan. The statue will be repaired and remounted.

Greek-Albanian Border Fighting Is Reported

London, Nov. 4 (AP)—Swiss and Belgian radio broadcasts tonight reported fighting along the Greek-Albanian frontier, but official Greek Government sources in Athens said they were unable to confirm the reports. The area has been a trouble spot since northern Epirus was annexed to Albania in 1914.

The Swiss radio, quoting a French news agency dispatch from Athens, said "disquieting incidents" had taken place along the border and that Greek frontier troops "have urgently asked for reinforcements."

A broadcast from Brussels said "keen fighting is reported on the Albanian frontier between Greek troops and Albanian irregulars." This broadcast also said Greek troops had asked for reinforcements.

No Athens Confirmation

There was no confirmation of these reports either from Athens or Tirana.

Border difficulties, attributed by various sources to disputes over the proprietorship of northern Epirus and alleged persecutions of Greeks and Albanians on both sides of the frontier, have been reported during the last several months.

Greece occupied part of Albania in her war with Italy in 1940-41, but was driven out by the Germans.

Allied Intervention Demanded

Moscow radio June 23 quoted the Greek newspaper Rizospastis as reporting the "Greek military union" planned an armed invasion of southern Albania (northern Epirus), in order to set the stage for a "complete smashing of the left movement."

On July 3 the Greek press under secretary, Danis Zakknthinos, declared Greece would demand Allied intervention to save the Greeks' in northern Epirus from Albanian "persecutions and terrorism."Zakknthinos said that northern Epirus "belongs to Greece, ethnologically and geographically."

Charge Of Persecution

The latest recent charge of persecution came from Greek Press Minister Basil Dendramis, who said October 11 that "thousands" of persons had been killed and "over 200 villages wholly or partially destroyed" by foreign troops and "Albanian terrorists" in northern Epirus.

He charged that after the Germans evacuated Albania, the Albanian "Fronti National," which he described as a terrorist organization, launched attacks on Greeks "with the sole object to wipe out the Greek element of northern Epirus so that when a census was later taken there would be few or no Greeks left."

Truman's Talk To Be Featured

London, Nov. 4 (AP)—The House of Commons will take President Truman's twelve-point foreign-policy speech of a week ago as the basis of its debate on world affairs Wednesday.

The full-dress six-hour discussion was scheduled at the request of former Prime Minister Winston Churchill who told leaders of the Labor Government the opposition desired an opportunity to discuss Truman's statement before Prime Minister Attlee leaves to begin talks in Washington November 11.

Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin told Commons last week that the British Government fully indorsed Truman's program, so it was presumed that either Attlee or Bevin, or possibly both, would take the floor to defend it.

Churchill, who already has discussed this and other foreign-affairs problems with Attlee, Bevin and former Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in private conversations, will speak for the Conservative opposition. Clement Davies will be the chief speaker for the liberal party.

Attlee To Speak November 9

Diplomatic observers said one important result of the debate may be to clear the air a little and thus assist Attlee when he leaves on Friday for his talks with Truman and Canadian Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King on the future of atomic energy and possibly other matters.

It was learned that Attlee will speak on foreign affairs at the lord mayor's luncheon November 9, a few hours before he departs for American. By then, most political observers believe, Britain's much-postponed statement on Palestine may have been made.

Observers said the Government's policy on Palestine also is likely to show an identity of views with those of America.

Two Indonesians Arrive For Youth Conference

London, Nov. 4 (AP)—Two Indonesian delegates who said they represented the Indonesian Nationalist Association in Amsterdam arrived at the week-old world youth conference today and promptly conferred with the Dutch delegation about issuing a "common statement" on the fighting in the Netherlands East Indies.

They were M. M. Darusman and R. M. Suripino, who said they came to the conference at the radioed request of President Soekarno of the unrecognized "Indonesian republic."

"We believe in self-determination for Indonesia, and we approve of resistance to Dutch military reoccupation of our country," Darusman said. "However, we do not approve of Soekarno's wartime policy of working with the Japanese."

11,400 TROOPS LEAVE BRITAIN ABOARD 'MARY'

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Nov. 4—(AP) The liner Queen Mary sailed today for New York today with 11,400 United States troops and 174 civilian passengers on board.

Canadian Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King and Assistant U. S. Secretary of State James Clement Dunn were among the passengers. The homeward bound American military units included six fighter groups and 13 fighter squadrons.

CHILD LABOR CONDEMNED

PARIS, Nov. 4.—(AP) The International Labor conference today adopted unanimously a resolution calling for prohibition of child employes in mines, international controls on the employment of school-age children and the establishment of a permanent international committee on child welfare problems.

I. L. O. Votes Tie to U. N. O.

PARIS, Nov. 4 (AP).—The International Labor Organization conference voted unanimously last night to sever all ties with the League of Nations, its parent body, and adhere to the United Nations Organization. The action came in a vote approving part of a constitution committee report presented by Robert J. Watt, American Federation of Labor delegate.

GERMAN-ASSET GROUP SET UP

4-Power Unit To Seek Holdings Estimated At Billion

Berlin, Nov. 4 (AP)—A four-power German external property commission was formed today to take possession or gain control of German assets abroad estimated as worth possibly $1,000,000,000.

The four occupying powers gave to the commission title to all foreign properties held by German nationals and power to take over such properties. The assets are believed secreted chiefly in Sweden, Switzerland, Spain and Argentina.

The Allied Control Council's edict, which set up the commission as an intergovernmental agency of the council, had the effect of demanding that neutral powers recognize the council as the "government" of Germany and therefore legally entitled to marshal German external assets in its own name.

Properties Described

The measure vested in the commission "all rights, titles and interests" in these properties:

1. Any property outside Germany which is owned or controlled by any person of German nationality inside Germany.

2. Any property outside Germany which is owned or controlled by any person of German nationality outside Germany or by any branch of any business or corporation or other legal entity organized under the laws of Germany, or having its principal place of business in Germany.

In cases of German nationals outside Germany, the law applies "only to such person who has enjoyed full rights of German citizenship under the Reich law at any time since September 1, 1939, and who has at any time since September 1, 1939, been within any territory then under control of the Reich Government."

Austrians Exempted

Specifically exempted were Austrians or citizens of other countries "annexed or claimed to have been annexed by Germany since December 31, 1937."

Also exempted were German assets in the United States, the Soviet Union, France, the United Kingdom and British dominions and "any other United Nations determined by the control council."

The law applies to "all movable and immovable property and all rights and interests in or claims to such property."

U.S. May Get Reparations

The term "person" was defined as including also groups of individuals as well as "any government, including political subdivisions, public corporations, agencies and instrumentalities thereof."

The work of gathering and recording evidence on foreign assets within the four zones of occupation was made the responsibility of zone commanders in chief.

The question of whether any compensation should be made to persons divested of property was left to the future decision of the control council.

One major disposition may be to pay reparations to the United States.

Zhukov Urges Russian Planning For Germany

Berlin, Nov. 4 (AP) — Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov today ordered German administrators in the Soviet ocupation zone to draft a comprehensive economic program for 1946, as an official Red Army newspaper declared the Russian system of state planning "can be used with success in Germany."

Asserting he was seeking the "maximum increase of factory and farm production," the Soviet military governor commanded the directors of industry, agriculture, trade and communications for both zone and individual German states to outline their targets for next year. Zhukov expressed particular concern that crop cultivation be extended and live stock increased.

Use Of Sweet Lupine Curbed

In a front-page editorial, the Red Army organ Tagliche Rundschau asserted that the adoption of Russian methods of "exact concrete planning would be a powerful tool in carrying out the tasks facing all the German economy."

Zhukov also prohibited further consumption of sweet lupine as animal fodder and directed that the entire crop, excluding seed for next year, be turned over to official warehouses. Thus the Russians became the first of the Allied military governments to take notice of a German scientific discovery that converts sweet lupine, a plant of the bean family, into a source of proteins for human consumption.

NAZIS MAY JOIN PARTIES IN RED RULED AREA

BERLIN, Nov. 4—(AP) At the suggestion of the Communists, the four parties of eastern Germany's "United Front" political bloc invited into their ranks today "nominal" Nazis born since Jan. 1, 1920.

Influential throughout the Soviet-appointed German administrations in the eastern provinces but numerically weak, the Communists reportedly were the first to open their membership to young Nazis, provided they were not notorious.

The action today gave the stamp of approval of the Social Democrats, Liberal Democrats and Christian Democrats to the same policy.

HITLER IN ECSTASY OVER AUSTRIA DEAL

Fuehrer Thanked Mussolini Over and Over for Easing Nazi Annexation Plot

By DANIEL DE LUCE

Copyright, 1945, by The Associated Press

BERLIN, Nov. 4—When Hitler learned that Mussolini was not going to interfere in the rape of Austria, the Fuehrer did oratorical flipflops as ecstatic as the jig he performed when France surrendered.

Admitting that he would have been in a "frightful" military position had other powers protected Austria, Hitler declared over and over that he would "never forget" the magnanimity of the Duce.

The King of Italy sent a weak hint to the German Government that he would like Austria's 200,000 Jews to be allowed to escape, but Reich Marshal Hermann Goering was blusteringly firm—as always when loot was involved—and declared, "the Jews can go but they must leave the money."

Openly defying the world but secretly cringing, the Nazis wrote their own condemnation for the historical record in the sordid Austrian affair. Goering's Air Ministry functionaries took down every word as the international telephone lines buzzed during the crisis.

Then, at Goering's own request, they bound the whole record in a neat folder labeled "Secret Archives" and sent it to the Reich Marshal as his personal copy.

The case of Austria seemed like ancient history seven years later when the Red Army swept through Berlin, and the vainglorious record was tossed out unceremoniously in a heap of rubbish in the courtyard of the Air Ministry.

2 Cigarettes Yield History

It was retrieved by two old Germans who were paid two cigarettes to load it and a lot of other dusty papers into my jeep.

Translated and condensed, the volume gives the first inside account from the German side of the seizure of Austria on March 12, 1938.

This record discloses that Prince Philip of Hesse was the go-between in the conversations between Berlin and Rome. Prince Philip, who married Princess Mafalda of Italy in 1925, came into the hands of the Allies last spring when he was found in a camp of political hostages held by the Nazis. Princess Mafalda, eldest daughter of the King of Italy and also a hostage, died of wounds from an Allied bombing in the brothel of Buchenwald concentration camp. The Nazis placed her there for the inmates to care for her wounds.

Prince Philip of Hesse was in a key spot for the Fuehrer's plans. Mussolini had balked the first plot against Austria at the time of the murder of Chancellor Dollfuss in 1934, when he belligerently marched troops to the Austrian border and threatened to intervene against the Nazis.

But now Mussolini had fallen out with France and Great Britain over Ethiopia and Spain, and had spurned their efforts to align a solid front against Germany.

Philip called Hitler from Rome at 10:25 P. M. on Friday, March 11, just thirty-one minutes after the Fuehrer had been informed that the Nazi puppet in Vienna, Arthur Seyss-Inquart, had agreed to a Goering-dictated telegram requesting German troops to march in and prevent "bloodshed."

The Austrian Government of Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg had resigned as the result of a two-hour ultimatum from Goering. Seyss-Inquart had been instructed to step into the vacuum and seize power.

Already orders had been issued to 240,000 German troops on the Austrian border to begin marching at dawn, and Hitler himself was to be on the way in a few hours on a triumphant return to his native country.

Already Hitler was meditating on secret plans against Czechoslovakia.

The Prince opened the conversation:

"I have just come back from the Palazzo Venezia. The Duce accepted the whole thing very friendly. He sends you his regards. The thing had been told him from Austria—Schuschnigg gave him the news Monday. He (Mussolini) said it would be a complete impossibility, a bluff, one couldn't do it. He was answered that it was unfortunately already arranged thus and one could not change it. Then Mussolini said Austria would now be a finished concern for him."

Hitler: "Then please tell Mussolini I will never forget him for this."

Philip: "Jawohl" (yes, indeed).

Hitler: "Never, never, never. Whatever happens, I am now ready to make a different agreement with him * * *. In case the Austrian thing is settled I am ready to go with him through thick and thin."

Philip: "Jawohl, my Fuehrer."

Hitler: "Listen, I shall make make every arrangement now—I feel I am no longer in a frightful position, as would have been militarily the case for us had I got into conflict. You may tell him that I am really heartfully thankful. I will never, never forget him for this. I will never forget him for this."

Philip: "Jawohl, my Fuehrer."

Hitler: "Beautiful!"

French Envoy Rebuffed

Philip: "I should like to say that the French envoy here asked to speak with Count Ciano (Italian Foreign Minister) by order of his Government about Austria. And Count Ciano refused to receive him, and thereupon the envoy made known that they could not foretell the outcome of further negotiations with Italy, which had been discussed."

Hitler: "Yes, I thank you."

Philip: "My Fuehrer, I should like to ask whether I ought to stay here or come back at once tomorrow."

Hitler: "Remain there."

Philip: "Jawohl, tomorrow another report."

Hitler: "Jawohl, thank you."

Philip called back the next day at 12:56 P. M., while German troops were marching into Austria, and got Goering on the line.

Philip: "Here is the Prince of Hesse."

Goering: "This is Goering."

Philip: "You called me up?"

Goering: "No. No, I do not think so. Listen, Prince, I talked with the Fuehrer. He says the whole letter is perhaps not suitable for publication because there are some parts that might cause new difficulties. He will study the letter very quickly and let the Duce know which parts are better left out * * * ."

Philip: "Ciano told me, by order of the Duce, one would be very thankful if a press notice were published in Germany about the loyal behavior of the Duce and Italy to Germany in this affair."

Goering: "One moment. That is an important thing we should like to give out ourselves. If we have waited till now it is because we wished to know whether it was agreeable to the Duce. For us there could be nothing more pleasant than to give expression to our real feeling of great thankfulness at the loyal behavior of the Duce."

Philip: "I will tell him personally."

30.24 — 3 14 15

Goering: "The Fuehrer says he is tremendously lucky. He never doubted a moment in the greatness of the Duce's personality. The feeling he had for the Duce has confirmed itself in a magnificent manner. I congratulate you upon having had a wonderful mission."

Philip: "Indeed, magnificent. I am terribly proud of it."

Goering: "So give the Duce my personal greetings and tell him I need no words; he knows my devotion; I am very fortunate to have known a man like him; a man of his greatness could only act greatly. And also give my regards to Ciano."

Philip: "Where can I reach you by telephone in case there is something important?"

Goering: "Listen, the Fuehrer has gone down there now. He will go to Linz [in Austria] and so show how, after many years, he has got for the first time an opportunity of visiting his parents' graves and there laying a wreath, because he is still a son of Austria * * * He has given me—it will be published at midday—the entire representation of his person as Head of State and Governmental Chief until further notice. So I am now leading governmental affairs and thus, anyhow, things must be brought to me. I am always here. Unfortunately, I cannot leave for a moment, and you can reach me anytime on my telephone."

That afternoon at 3:20 o'clock, Goering again talked with Prince Philip.

Goering: "Prince Philip, do you have the letter there?"

Philip: "Jawohl, it is here."

Goering: "Listen, there will be stricken from this letter only a certain paragraph and then a sentence about C.S.R. (the Czechoslovak Republic). Tell the Duce that the Fuehrer asks him not to publish this because it would get him into new difficulties with France."

An adjutant at this moment delivered the Fuehrer's self-corrected text to Goering.

Letter to Duce Slyly Edited

Goering: "You have the letter there. It starts: 'Your Excellency, in a fatefully heavy hour I address myself to you, Excellency, to bring you knowledge of a decision that appeared demanded by the circumstances and now will be irrevocable.' Then it goes on, 'In the last months I have with increasing apprehension.' Would you strike out the whole page, the whole of Page 2, beginning with 'I have' to where it says 'the State leadership in no way corresponds to the real wish and will of the Austrian people'? And strike out the following sentence, '* * * that the Austrian state not become a branch of the C.S.R. one day'? The Fuehrer asks that this thing about the C.S.R. be left out because it would be a dumb thing."

Again, in the evening at 7:25 o'clock, Goering talked with Prince Philip.

Goering: "I can only tell you over and over the Fuehrer is really indescribably happy over the behavior down there. It shows for certain the Axis * * *."

Philip: "Yes, this is now solid as a mountain. Just before I called up I was with the King. I also reported to him. He was very much in agreement and also sent his regards."

Goering: "In Austria there is unbelievable joy. We ourselves had not believed the participation would be so great."

Philip: "That is so overwhelming."

Philip: "Then the King talked to me about another interesting thing. * * * One thinks it would be very good if one were to open the frontiers for a while so all this dirty mess could get out."

Goering: "But not the ones with foreign exchange; otherwise they would slip away from us. The Jews can go, but they must leave the money there—they only stole it all!"

Nazi Arrogance Persists Despite Occupation Rules

By GODFREY ANDERSON

WIESBADEN, Germany, Nov. 4—(AP) The spirit of Nazism dies hard and is still very much in evidence despite stern measures imposed to denazify the American occupation zone.

Observers in Wiesbaden have no difficulty in finding examples of Nazi arrogance and instances of resort to clever dodges to evade rules laid down by American military authorities.

I have seen men greet each other with the forbidden Hitler salute in villages where no American troops were stationed.

Wives Buy Out Nazis

The military government's law No. 8, forbidding Nazis to manage businesses, hit them hard. But from personal observation, it is evident the smart ones had already prepared by "selling" their shops to their wives and children. Now the wives and children own the shops while the Nazis work for them.

The military government has always shown the greatest respect for property, but is now getting around to look into some of these doubtful cases and the Nazis may be forced to find another dodge.

Perhaps 90 per cent of the shopkeepers here were members of the Nazi party. They are now tending to band together into a tight ring to protect their own interests. There are instances of their trying to keep back the best goods in their stores for former party members and friends.

AntiSemistic Beliefs Held

Long after the American occupation had become effective, many Nazis still maintained a haughty attitude toward Jews. Here are some examples observed in Wiesbaden:

1. In May, a Jew went to the City hall to ask about the possibility of compensation for damaged property. He was told by a municipal official, "You get no compensation, for you are a Jew." The Americans already had abolished the Nuernburg racial laws.

2. A half-Jew wanted to marry an Aryan girl, which was forbidden by Nazi racial laws. When he applied to the registrar, he was told: "I know that the racial laws were abolished by the Americans and I don't feel that you are an enemy, but I have received no orders from the Reich's Ministry of the Interior." The couple was married elsewhere.

3. Four Jewish doctors were released from a concentration camp and applied to the local medical council for reinstatement. The council's spokesman replied: "Sorry, but we have too many doctors in this town, besides 80 per cent of my colleagues are Nazis. I cannot dismiss them or the town would have no medical aid." The Jews complained to the military government and were duly reinstated.

"Football Teams" Formed

In a few villages, the Nazis have formed so-called football teams—but they never play football. The teams are just an excuse to dodge the law forbidding them to meet together. If a burgomaster is brave enough to ban the formation of such a team, they move to another village and set up there.

There is no indication that these Nazis have any secret stores of weapons. Their meetings seem to be political rather than military.

But it is clear that they are striving to keep some cohesion among themselves by cherishing the belief that perhaps Hitler still lives. In the view of these men, the war was not lost by overwhelming allied power but by treachery of the generals who "betrayed" the Fuehrer.

Many liberal Germans believe that women are the greatest danger to American soldiers.

"At first," said one German Socialist "the Americans are shocked and revolted by the mental attitude they find these girls display. But in the course of time, they begin to accept it as natural and even start thinking — in a milder form, of course—that way themselves."

29TH INFANTRY TO LEAVE

BREMEN, Germany, Nov. 4—(AP) The U. S. 29th Infantry division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Charles Gerhardt, expects to leave for home Nov. 10. It will be replaced in Bremen by the 8th Division from Berlin.

Kurt Schuschnigg Arrives In Nuernberg

Nuernberg, Germany, Nov. 4 (AP). Kurt Schuschnigg, former Chancellor of Austria who was imprisoned by the Nazis after the Anschluss in March, 1938, has arrived in Nuernberg, scene of the forthcoming war crimes trials of Nazi leaders.

Some sources said there was a possibility he would appear as a witness against one of the defendants, Arthur Seyss-Inquart, who succeeded him as Chancellor when the Nazis assumed control of Austria.

Italian Uprisings Are Widespread

Rome, Nov. 4 (AP)—Dispatches in Rome newspapers said today at least one person was killed and many others wounded yesterday during disorders in Trieste, while an undetermined number of persons lost their lives in uprisings in Capodistria, 10 miles south of the Adriatic port city.

The dispatches said the disorders in Trieste occurred when Yugoslav sympathizers attempted to interfere with a mass meeting of pro-Italians in Unita Square.

The meeting was held in commemoration of the twenty-seventh anniversary of the Italian occupation of Triests, now claimed by both Italians and Yugoslavs.

Many shots were fired, from 17 to 27 persons were wounded, and 120 persons were arrested, the dispatches said.

The dispatches said a general strike had been called in Capodistria, also on the Adriatic coast, in protest against use of Yugoslav occupation lire.

The Italian Government issued a communique on November 2 appealing to all "Allied governments" to prevent "economic disintegration" in the Venezia Giulia area occupied by the Yugoslavs.

The communique expressed alarm at news from Capodistria, which a government spokesman said was a reference to reports from there saying the Yugoslavs had put more than a billion occupation lire in circulation in Istria and Fiume. The Italians were said to be refusing to honor the occupation money.

Italian Teachers Addressed By Pope

Vatican City, Nov. 4 (AP)—Pope Pius XII today urged Italian teachers to unite and work for "school legislation which respects the postulates of Christian doctrine." He said such action "would be all the more legitimate in Italy, where this important matter is regulated in a solemn pact between the Holy See and the Italian state."

The Pontiff addressed 2,000 members of the Italian Teachers Congress.

Under a Lateran accord signed by Mussolini in 1929 religious instruction was made obligatory in primary and secondary Italian schools. Observers have anticipated this document would be subject to attack from anti-clericals when the constitutional convention debates the form of the new Italian state.

PREMIER TO VISIT U. S.

ATHENS, Nov. 4—(AP) Greece's new premier, Panayotis Canellopoulos, said tonight in an interview that he planned to leave for a visit to Washington and London in about two weeks "to ask for more generous aid" for Greek rehabilitation.

HUNGARY CASTS VOTES FOR PARLIAMENT SEATS

BUDAPEST, Nov. 4 — (AP) Hungarians voted today for parliamentary candidates in the first secret national election in Central Europe since the end of the war. Approximately 3,000,000 of the country's 5,000,000 registered voters were expected to participate.

Each of the major parties entered tickets. These parties include the Communists, the Peasant party, Laborite Social Democrats, People's Democratic party, Small Holders party, and Christian Democrates. Because of their success in the Budapest city election on Oct. 7, the Small Holders party was expected to gain the largest number of seats.

HUNGARIANS SEEK PLANT MACHINERY

BUDAPEST, Nov. 4—(AP) The Hungarian government, seeking to rebuild the country's crippled industries, has appointed Bela Anthazy-Kasnya as an emissary to General Eisenhower's headquarters to negotiate for the return of Hungarian machinery and equipment found in the American occupation zone in Germany.

Ferenc Ban, Minister of Industry, said the equipment, valued at $1,200,000,000, had been taken from Hungary by the Germans. Fingering a quick inventory of the material, he said that its restoration would revive many key units in Hungarian manufacturing.

Anthazy-Kasnya also was to inspect Hungarian boats and barges run up the Danube by Germans and Hungarians fleeing before the Russian army and to arrange for the return of hundreds of horses swept into Bavaria from Hungary's plains by the retreating Germans.

Industry in this country is in a bad state. Many factories were stripped by the retreating Germans. Others were destroyed in fighting. Some planes have been seized for war reparations and those factories which had been confiscated or operated by German occupation authorities revert, by agreement, to Soviet Russia.

The workers are hungry, if not actually starving. Their pay is low, especially in the inflation current in Hungary.

Under terms of the armistice that took Hungary out of the war, the nation's factories were committed to a gigantic output to satisfy Russian reparations. Ban said that when the armistice was signed, Hungary hoped to be able to pay off its reparations. But, he added, the nation then could not know what conditions would be toward the end of the year.

As of Sept. 23, he said, the country's factories were 73 per cent behind the reparations schedule and the 600,000 workers in the country's trade unions were laboring under difficulties.

Part of the blame for the current industrial unrest, including threatened strikes in shipbuilding and heavy industries, he laid to political uncertainty.

Poles and Czechs in Dispute

At Odds Over Coal and Rail Cars Used to Repatriate Poles

WARSAW, Nov. 4 (AP).—Polish-Czech friction over coal and railway cars frequently interrupts the transfer of Poles to their homeland through Czechoslovakia from the American zone of occupation, but 3,000 are now being repatriated daily.

Captain E. O. Staskiewicz, of Buffalo, one of the American officers assisting in the transport of Poles through the American zone, said the Czech Ministry of Transport temporarily placed an embargo on trains carrying displaced persons until Poland provided coal for the engines.

Mannerheim Leaves Finland

Helsinki, Nov. 4 (AP)—Field Marshal Baron Carl Gustaf Mannerheim, Finland's ailing 78-year-old President, sailed from Helsinki today aboard the Finnish steamer Wellamo for Stockholm. His ultimate destination was Portugal, where he will seek a climate more favorable to his health.

RUSSIA DISSOLVES 2 GROUPS SEEKING 'FREE GERMANY'

GILMORE

MOSCOW, Nov. 4—(AP) Dissolution of the Soviet-sponsored National Committee of Free Germany, and its affiliate, the Union of German Officers, was reported today by the government newspaper Izvestia.

Both organizations, which came into being a few months after the Nazi defeat at Stalingrad in February, 1943, unanimously passed a resolution declaring their further existence "superfluous," Izvestia said.

The resolution said the organizations' aim had been the "rallying of German anti-Fascists situated in Soviet Union for the struggle against the Hitler regime and for a Democratic Germany."

Usefulness Ended

It added that in view of "the full defeat of the Hitler state, and the developing in Germany of activity of the democratic bloc of anti-Fascist parties," further existence of the organizations was unnecessary. The resolution also provided for discontinuation of the organizations' newspaper, "Free Germany."

(During the war the activities of the two German groups caused speculation whether Moscow intended them to serve as the nucleus of a Moscow-sponsored German government. The Russians declared such speculation was without foundation).

The disbanding resolution was offered at a meeting outside Moscow by Eric Weinert, president of the Free Germany committee, and by Gen. Walter von Seidlitz, president of the officers' group, Izvestia said.

Fought in Spain

Weinert is a Berlin Communist who fought with the International brigade in Spain, and later fled Germany to Moscow in order to escape falling into the hands of the Gestapo.

Von Seidlitz, who was captured at Stalingrad, had been a correspondent for the German news agency Transocean in Rome before he saw front line duty.

The Free Germany committee was organized in July, 1943, and the officers' group two months later. Into thelatter went many high German officers captured by the Russians, including Gen. Friedrich von Paulus, Nazi commander at Stalingrad.

During the war, both groups issued declarations jointly and separately calling for the overthrow of Hitler and his regime by Germans inside the Reich as a means of achieving salvation for Germany.

SOVIET DIRIGIBLE ENDS 80-HOUR MINE HUNT

MOSCOW, Nov. 4—(AP) The big Soviet dirigible "Victory" has just completed a flight of more than 80 hours over the Black sea, an article by Boris Nemn in the Moscow newspaper Bolshevik reported today. The story said the dirigible "fulfilled a big program of exploratory work" including the hunting of floating mines.

(This is the first mention of Soviet dirigibles to come from Moscow. The dispatch gave no indication of the size of the aircraft).

GUARANTEES TO TURKEY BY U.S. REPORTED

Pledge To Avoid Backing Of Any Act Against Ankara Indicated

EDWIN GREENWALD

Ankara, Nov. 3 [AP—Delayed]—The United States Government was reliably reported today to have assured Turkey that the United States would refuse to support any future action which might jeopardize Turkish independence or Turkish territory.

The assurances were said to have been given in a memorandum which United States Ambassador Edwin C. Wilson handed the Turkish Government late yesterday, five days before expiration of Turkey's treaty of friendship and nonaggression with Russia.

Coincides With Turkish Policy

There was no official indication what the United States proposed specifically with regard to the future status of the Bosporus and Dardanelles straits, the Turkish-controlled sea lane to the Black Sea. Informed quarters said, however, the general tenor of the memorandum coincided closely with Turkish policy.

Turkish policy was indicated by President Ismet Inonu two days ago in his address to the opening session of the National Assembly. He declared Turkey had "no debts to pay to anybody, territorial or concerning Turkish rights, and we will live as men of honor and die as men of honor."

Turkish Satisfaction Reported

[Russia was reported to have proposed in June a new treaty closing the straits to all warships except Russian and Turkish.]

The United States memorandum, coming on the eve of the Russian-Turkish treaty's expiration, was said to have been received with great satisfaction by Turkish officials. Observers expressed belief that the memorandum followed an exchange of letters between President Truman and Generalissimo Stalin.

It was believed the Turkish Government already was familiar with British policy regarding Turkey. Official communications, however, were expected from both the British and the Russians before the treaty expires.

CAIRO POLICE CURB ANTI-ZIONIST MOB

Suppress New Demonstration; Details Guard Foreign Properties.

CAIRO, Nov. 4—(AP) Quick police action today broke up a new anti-Zionist demonstration in Cairo's main business section which was the scene of widespread rioting Friday and Saturday.

A small demonstration started this morning, but was suppressed before it developed into serious proportions. The city was quiet the remainder of the day.

Police continued to patrol the downtown streets in force, however, and special details were assigned to guard foreign establishments. Some shops, normally open Sunday, remained closed and those which re-opened took precautions so they would be ready to close quickly if the rioting was renewed.

Restrictions which had placed Cairo out-of-bounds for British and United States troops were lifted during the day.

The anti-Zionist demonstrations started Friday as a peaceful protest by the Arabs on the 28th anniversary of the Balfour note promising Jews a national homeland in Palestine. Rioting broke out, however, first directed against Jewish shops and then spreading to include shops owned by all foreign interests. Nine persons were killed in Alexandria alone.

Prime Minister Nokrashi Pasha and Abdel Rahman Azzam Bey, secretary of the Arab league, both criticized the demonstrations, saying that the rioting had hurt the Arab cause.

Fouad Azaza Pasha, president of the Arab union, said that Zionist aims for Palestine would be opposed by all Moslems and Arabs in the world.

"Judaism as a religion we highly respect, but Zionism is what all Arabs and Moslems in the world are fighting against," he said.

1,000 Reported Held In Cairo

A BBC broadcast recorded by NBC said more than 1,000 persons had been arrested in Cairo during the last 48 hours as a result of the disorders.

[Dispatches from Jerusalem said the situation in Palestine remained quiet after last week's Arab-Jewish disturbances. The nightly road curfew, however, was extended into a general curfew on certain sections between troubled Tel Aviv and Haifa, and in the Haifa refinery and port area. All persons in these sections were ordered by Maj. Gen. C. F. Loewen, military commander of the northern area, to remain indoors from 5.30 P.M. to 5.30 A.M.

No Casualties In Firing

[The only incident reported in Palestine occurred, police said, when six persons tampering with a fence at the Royal Navy depot near Haifa opened fire when challenged by a police guard.

[A police communiqué said guards returned the fire, but there were no casualties on either side and the persons fled.

[In Haifa, a man was arrested for possession of illegal Hebrew pamphlets.

[The clandestine Jewish radio station, "Voice of Israel," thanked a group of Jewish young men in Cairo who, the station said, defended other Jews during recent riots.

[The Tel Aviv newspaper Davar said the Jewish community in Palestine was concerned over the fate of Jewish minorities in neighboring countries.

["Those Jews living in an atmosphere of persecution and permanent danger of riots know that there is no hope for Jewish communities in those countries but their immigration to Palestine," the newspaper said.]

ARAB CRITICIZES POLITICAL ZIONISM

JERUSALEM, Nov. 4 — (AP) Musa Bey El Alami, Palestine delegate to the Pan-Arab league, said today the Arab people would agree to additional Jewish immigration into Palestine if an immartial United Nations body decided the country's economy could carry the load and if all Allied nations also agreed to accept Jewish immigrants.

The Arab spokesman said it was political Zionism and not the "Jews as such" with which the Arabs disagreed. He asserted that Zionists mainly were concerned with the "number of immigrants" rather than what he said was the much more important problem of whether Palestine actually could absorb a large amount of additional immigration "and yet survive economically."

He claimed the Jewish experiment in Palestine was "built on a false economy" and criticized the Jews for segregating themselves in "water-tight Jewish communities."

"What we really resent," he said, "is the Zionists' refusal to disassociate their political aims from what they describe as a humanitarian issue."

Palestine railroads were back on normal schedules today following the wave of sabotage Wednesday night which paralyzed the country's rail traffic. A British military communique blamed the sabotage on Jews, but did not name any specific group.

It was reported that 30 persons who were suspected of illegal activities had been arrested the past two nights at Tel Aviv.

British Shut Down On News About Operations In Java

MORTON

Batavia, Nov. 4 (AP)—A British announcement that the Army would hold no more press conferences to give information on the military situation in the rebellious Netherlands East Indies drew a vigorous protest today from foreign correspondents.

The ruling, which correspondents said would seriously handicap them in attempts to present an accurate picture of events, also banned interviews with Allied officers unless the officer first obtained permission from the Southeast Asia Command.

To Issue "Handouts"

British military officials said they planned to issue "handouts" twice daily in lieu of the press conferences. The public-relations office agreed to attempt to obtain answers to any questions submitted in writing.

The first statement today said no new incidents were reported in Java, but that some new instances of looting had occurred in Batavia. It said tension had "relaxed considerably in Soerabaja.

The statement tended to minimize yesterday's reports by Allied pilots of 100,000 Indonesian troops on the move in central Java, a prime trouble spot in the fighting between British Indian troops and Indonesians clamoring for independence from Dutch colonial rule.

Soekarno Back In Batavia

President Soekarno of the unrecognized "Indonesian Republic" returned to Batavia after aiding in effecting a truce at Mageland.

The Indonesians said a contact bureau had been set up at Magelang between Indonesians and the British, who will supervise evacuation of internees. A direct telephone communication was set up between Magelang and the port city of Semarang to facilitate settling of any future disputes.

The truce provided also for immediate disarming of Japanese and free access for the British and Amberawa, site of another large camp for internees.

Soekarno's Foreign minister, Soebardjo, said the Indonesian government was ready to load American ships with large supplies of kapok and rubber at a Java port. There was no indication that any Americans were prepared to deal with the Indonesians in purchase of the raw materials.

U.S. Ships Unload Supplies

American ships are in Batavia unloading large quantities of uniforms, medical supplies, foods and trucks sold to the Dutch by the United States Army.

[A dispatch from Sydney, Australia, said 1,600 Dutch troops had reached there on the British liner Stirling Castle from Holland, and quoted their commander, Major Steenhover, as saying the men were prepared for any clashes with the Indonesians.

[A broadcast dispatch from Hilversum in the Netherlands said that no Dutch troops would arrive in Java before November 15].

Would Ship Rubber Here

BATAVIA, Nov. 4 (AP)—Foreign Minister Soebardjo announced today that his "Indonesian Republic" was prepared to load American ships with large quantities of kapok and rubber at an unnamed Javanese port.

He said that he would call tomorrow on the United States Consul General to identify the port and to give details of the cargo. He added that his "government" hoped to sell to American firms to establish credit for the purchase of American goods. There was no indication whether the United States was prepared to deal with the Indonesians, however.

Liberty ships were unloading great quantities of uniforms, medical supplies, food and trucks sold to the Netherlands by the United States Army.

Eight hundred Indonesian deportees from Australia refused to debark from the British ship Esperance Bay until nineteen other Indonesians who had been arrested aboard the vessel were released. Australian authorities said the nineteen were placed ashore in Kupang, Timor, because of an understanding between the Australian Government and Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, Supreme Allied Commander in Southeast Asia.

French Offer Autonomy To Cambodia Kingdom

Phnompenh, Cambodia, Indo-China, Nov. 4 (AP)—The French have offered internal autonomy to the protectorate kingdom of Cambodia as their first concession in an attempt to settle Indo-China's troubles. They chose the least anti-French political unit as a model for their proposed new deal for Indo-China.

However, similar offers are not being extended to other parts of the country until resistance to French reoccupation has ceased.

The negotiations began when the Cambodian premier, Prince Monireth, visited Saigon a few days ago. King Rodom Sihanouk Varmen, 25-year-old pro-French ruler of the protectorate, expressed enthusiasm for the scheme at a press conference yesterday.

YAMASHITA LINKED TO REIGN OF TERROR

MANILA, Monday, Nov. 5—(AP) Defense counsel today was promised "widest latitude" in cross-examination of a witness who testified that Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita himself issued orders to "wipe out all Filipinos" and had commended brutal Japanese gendarmes for their "fine work."

The U. S. military commission of five generals trying Yamashita as a war criminal gave Col. Harry Clarke, chief of defense counsel, virtually unlimited latitude in questioning Narciso Lapus, private secretary of the exiled politico-militarist, Gen. Artemio Ricarte. Both Lapus and Ricarte, who were Japanese-sponsored during Nipponese occupation of the Philippines, were close to Yamashita.

Lapus, himself held as a political prisoner and awaiting trial, was questioned closely by Clarke in Saturday's stormy session, at which the Filipino stated that Yamashita not only knew of but approved of his troops' brutalities. That was the first time the commander of the Japanese Philippines' garrison had been linked directly with atrocities.

The trial entered its second week today.

American Rides Hirohito's Horse In Preparation for Tokyo Rodeo

TOKYO, Monday, Nov. 5—(AP) Emperor Hirohito's white horse, or rather one of his two white horses, has been ridden by an American.

Lt. Dick Ryan, who is staging an Armistice day rodeo in Tokyo, swung astride the Imperial mount, Hatsushimo (First Frost), and for half an hour walked and galloped the pure white stallion in the arena of the Japanese Horse Racing association.

The newspaper Stars and Stripes said Ryan was the first foreigner to ride the horse.

First Frost is in the care of Seino Chuzo, manager of the Racing association's stables and coach of the Japanese equestrian team in the 1928 Olympic games at Amsterdam.

The horse served as a mount for the Emperor, but is of such beautiful strain he is being used to sire future white horses for the Imperial household.

When told that a man at Hanford, Calif., boasted of owning a horse that was full brother of the Emperor's stallion, Chuzo said that was impossible.

(Spencer Kleinhammer of Hanford said his horse, Silver King, was a brother of Silver Tip, which was sold to the Japanese Emperor several years ago.)

Chuzo said there were only two brothers, First Frost and Hatsuyuki, or First Snow. Both are in Japan. He labeled the Hanford horse an "imposter."

The Japanese said that First Frost was born at the Imperial ranch near Chiba, 20 miles northeast of Tokyo. Its brother, First Snow, is a gelding nine years ago, also born on the Imperial ranch and stabled there now.

In recent years, First Snow has been used more often as the Emperor's mount because it is more gentle than the stallion.

Ryan said he would exhibit First Frost during the rodeo to be held at the Meiji Shrine Baseball grounds.

TOKYO, Nov. 4—(AP) Japan's proudest army divisions were wiped out on the edges of the empire and only three first-class ones were available in the late hours of the war to defend the homeland from invasion, U. S. Army records showed today.

The arrogant divisions that led the triumphant Japanese march throughout Asia were chewed up or by-passed and at the end even the great Kwantung army of Manchuria was stripped for Japan's own defense against the feared American invasion.

Army Decline Charted

The decline and fall of the army that once was the terror of all Asia were charted by a card catalogue kept by Lt. Col. George MaGruder while the war was on and confirmed by investigations after occupation.

"In Manchuria when the Russians hit," said the Rumson, N. J., colonel who is one of General MacArthur's intelligence officers, "the last of the Kwantung army's best outfits—the 25th and First Armored divisions—had been sent to the homeland against the expected assault."

The home army of 2,500,000 men also had the veteran 57th division but "the remainder of the home divisions were just thrown together," MaGruder declared.

"The Japanese reinforced the edges of the empire first with troops from the south, then from Central China," MaGruder said. "Finally they were taking units from the bottom of their barrel of trained men."

Shortage Foretold

Months before the surrender, trained Americans studying the card history were able to foretell the growing shortage of military manpower heralding the end of the war.

The notorius 16th division of Botaan death march infamy was smashed on Leyte in the American comeback offensive in the Philippines.

The tide of war swept past three other divisions that were in on the final assault of Bataan and Corregidor and they were rounded up after the surrender—the Fourth in Thailand, the 21st in Indo-China and the 48th on Timor.

Imperial Guards Smashed

The Emperor's "own troops," the Imperial Guards division, were badly mauled in the drive on Singapore and were sent to Sumatra, where they saw no more action.

The 18th division, which was responsible for the rape of Nanking, went from the successes at Singapore and led in the capture of Burma only to be crushed in the British counteroffensive.

The Fifth division, another which was at Nanking and Singapore, was sent to New Guinea where it made the all but successful assault on Port Moresby in a thrust aimed ultimately at Australia.

One regiment was wiped out at Buna, when MacArthur opened his own offensive that lifted the threat to Australia.

The rest were stationed on Timor and nearby islands and were captured there except for one regiment, which was taken ignominiously while trying to sneak back to Japan last August aboard the hospital ship Tachibana Maru. The 55th division, which also marched through Burma, was badly mangled trying to flee the resurgent British offensive and remnants surrendered in Thailand.

Java Conqueror Defeated

Hong Kong fell to the 51st and 38th divisions. The 51st was destroyed in New Guinea and the 38th on Guadalcanal and Bougainville after it had helped conquer Java. The Second division from Java's victorious battlefields also was destroyed at Guadalcanal.

This accounts for 14 divisions, or most of Japan's original conquering units, but many another top division was wrecked on the fringes of the empire. For example, the First was smashed on Leyte, the Eighth and 10th south and east of Manila, the Second Armored on northern Luzon and the Sixth on Bougainville.

The Japanese allowed some veteran units, such as the Ninth division on Formosa, to sit out most of the war in threatened but unassaulted regions.

Translation Of Truman Statement Censored

Tokyo, Monday, Nov. 5 (AP)—The Japanese public was not informed through Japanese language newspapers of President Truman's October 31 statement that the Administration favored the quickest possible transfer of the Government of Japan from military to civilian status.

The article was held up by the civil censorship section of General MacArthur's headquarters on the grounds the translation was vague. Col. Donald Hoover, chief of the section, said four of his translators agreed that Kyodo news agency's version was misleading.

Hoover said the translation would have created the opinion that MacArthur had "lost face" with Truman and that his usefulness therefore would be over.

Jap Youth Group Asks Mediation In Indies

Tokyo, Nov. 4 (AP)—Members of the international independence youth movement, formed in Japan, urged General MacArthur today to intercede and try to halt the fighting in the East Indies and Indo-China.

The organization also asked the Supreme Allied Commander to use his offices in an attempt to persuade the United States to mediate the disputes that have led to bloodshed.

Pending a settlement, MacArthur was urged to use his position to prevent Dutch forces from landing in Indonesia and to persuade the French to withdraw their troops from Indo-China.

CARRIERS SEEK 12 MISSING AFTER AIRPLANE CRASH

8 Persons, 7 Bodies Picked Up at Accident Scene East of Hawaii.

SECOND PLANE DOWN

Passengers Rescued as Pan-American Airways Clipper Lands at Sea.

HONOLULU, Nov. 4 — (AP) Aircraft carriers joined today in a search for 12 persons missing after an Army transport plane made a forced landing in the Pacific east of Hawaii, killing at least seven of the 27 aboard.

In the same general area, a big Pan-American airways Honolulu Clipper en route to San Francisco came down today with engine trouble, but the 13 passengers and crew of 10 were taken aboard a baby flattop and the plane was being towed back to Honolulu, Pan-American announced.

The Army Transport command reported eight persons had been picked up from the calm seas by surface craft at the site of the transport plane landing yesterday 450 miles east of Hawaii. One of two women passengers aboard was among those rescued.

Planes Aid Search

The escort carrier Casablanca was en route to Pearl Harbor with the eight survivors and seven bodies. Planes were aiding surface vessels in the search for the missing. Among the search craft were the destroyer escorts Tills, Roberts, Hemminger, Snyder, Etten and Lanes.

The eight had taken refuge on a life raft, one of three spotted earlier by search planes and hope persisted that the missing 12 still might be found safe on the other two rafts.

Seven ships in all were making wide-circling sweeps of the area. The bodies of the seven victims were recovered but identification was not immediately announced.

The transport plane carrying 21 passengers and a crew of six to the mainland, came down four hours out of Honolulu.

Clipper's Engines Fail

The ATC did not announce the passenger list, and presumably all were military personnel except for one of the women, who was a civilian. Whether she was the one rescued was not disclosed.

The Honolulu Clipper made its emergency landing 630 miles northeast of Honolulu when two engines developed trouble.

L. C. Reynolds, manager of the Pacific-Alaska division of Pan-American, said at San Francisco that none of the 23 persons aboard was injured. They also were military personnel and their names were not announced.

Capt. S. E. Robbins of Palo Alto, Calif., piloted the Honolulu Clipper to a "masterful water landing" in the darkness, said Capt. Fred C. Richards, pilot of another Pan-American flying boat which left Honolulu a half hour after the ship that was disabled.

Circles Over Plane

Richards, of San Francisco, circled for five hours over the stricken clipper, his eight passengers asleep and blissfully unaware that they were participating in rescue work.

Richards said he kept constant radio contact with Robbins and directed the merchant tanker Englewood Hills, which was 35 miles away, and the escort carrier Manila Bay to the disabled plane.

The Honolulu Clipper's passengers and crew were transferred first to the tanker, which was San Francisco bound, and later to the Manila Bay, which was headed toward Honolulu.

Richards brought his plane back to Honolulu. One of his passengers was Nyles Tavares, attorney general of Hawaii.

Plane Broke in Two Army Private Reports

FAIRFIELD, Calif., Nov. 4—(AP) An Army private, first to reach here from the scene of a fatal crash of an Army transport plane east of Hawaii, said today the big plane broke in two after hitting the sea.

Pfc. Melvin J. Shiley, Lykens, Pa., was flight clerk aboard the first plane to leave Hickam Field, Hawaii, after the ill-fated Liberator made its forced landing yesterday 450 miles east of Hawaii.

"We sighted the plane below floating in the water," said Shiley, whose plane circled for a time over the ditched transport yesterday and then continued on to the Fairfield-Suisun Army Air base.

"It was cracked in two with its tail completely torn off. After circling the downed plane, we spotted one survivor on a life raft.

"As we continued to circle, other Army and Navy planes appeared on the scene. They dumped life rafts, Mae West life preservers and other lifesaving equipment in the vicinity of the wreckage."

The plane in which Shiley was riding circled the stricken plane for three hours under radioed orders from the Army Transport command at Hickam field.

During that time, Shiley said, he saw only three persons who had survived the crackup.

The ATC announced that seven persons were killed, eight rescued and 12 are missing. The bodies of the victims were recovered and the search continues for the others.

Shiley said his plane left the scene only after several Navy Catalina flying boats and surface vessels arrived.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4. — (AP) Striving to curb the nation's growing industrial unrest, President Truman will address the opening session of the Labor-Management conference tomorrow at 12:15 p. m. and sharply focus attention on the grave responsibilities resting on leaders of labor and business to steer the country on a path of peaceful reconversion.

It is expected that the Chief Executive will firmly re-state his belief that the only democratic way to industrial peace and prosperity is through genuine collective bargaining with both sides displaying a spirit of give and take.

Hopes Pinned on Parley

The administration has pinned its hopes on this conference as the most practical way for labor and management to resolve many of their major differences during the change-over from wartime to peacetime production.

The President has made it clear there must be a speedy and orderly reconversion not only to keep millions at work and to avoid another depression—but also because of the effect of such an accomplishment on the United States foreign policies.

One government official who declined to permit use of his name said he believed that Mr. Truman will "lay it on the line" in speaking frankly to the delegates of labor and management concerning their responsibilities to each other and to the public.

Spokesmen for both sides already have pledged cooperation and voiced optimism over the results that may be achieved. Likewise, there have been private expressions of pessimism over any concrete solution being reached.

Leaders to Talk

The conference will convene at 11:30 a. m. with Judge Walter P. Stacy, chief justice of the North Carolina Supreme court, presiding. After the opening statement of the chairman and the appointment of a committee on rules of procedure, the President will make his address.

During the afternoon, addresses will be made by Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach; Secretary of Commerce Wallace; William Green, president of A. F. L.; Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce; Ira Mosher, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, and Philip Murray, president of the C. I. O.

For the last few days, the delegates representing labor and the delegates representing business have been conferring on their programs. The A. F. L. delegates held a policy-making meeting this afternoon.

No one can say yet [illegible] the convention will [illegible] are certain to be [illegible] sues injected [illegible] to provide some lively [illegible].

Two Disputes Foreseen

Two probable causes for major collision already have appeared in pre-conference statements of position: (1) A C. I. O. demand for inclusion of wages and prices as a subject for discussion along with full employment and unemployment pay. (2) A management call for enforcement measures to penalize workers and unions in event they fail to live up to contracts.

A. F. L. delegates declined after this afternoon's meeting to give any indication of what line they decided to take on any particular question. The only statement from the meeting was this by A. F. L. President William Green:

"The delegates considered in detail the questions presented in the agenda of the conference. They decided on the broad policies to be pursued by the A. F. L. We are determined to do everything in our power to carry out the objectives outlined by President Truman in calling the conference."

A total of 36 delegates will attend the conference—18 representing management and 18 representing labor. Each will have an alternate.

They were chosen by a committee composed of Mosher, Johnston, Murray and Green at the request of President Truman who asked them to lay definite plans for the conference as representatives of the four major labor and management groups—the National Association of Manufacturers, the Chamber of Commerce of the U. S., the Congress of Industrial Organizations and the American Federation of Labor.

In selecting the labor delegates, eight were named from the C.I.O. eight from the A.F.L., one from the United Mine Workers of America and one from the Railroad brotherhoods.

The delegates are:

American Federation Of Labor

WILLIAM GREEN, president.
GEORGE MEANY, secretary-treasurer, American Federation of Labor.
HARRY C. BATES, president, Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers International Union of America, Washington.
DANEIL J. TOBIN, president, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America, Indianapolis.
WILLIAM L. HUTCHESON, president, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, Indianapolis.
DAVID DUBINSKY, president, International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, New York.
GEORGE HARRISON, president, Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, Cincinnati.
MATTHEW WOLL, president. American Federation of Labor, New York.

CIO

PHILIP MURRAY, president.
R. J. THOMAS, president, United Automobile Workers of America, Detroit.
SIDNEY HILLMAN, president, Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, New York.
EMIL RIEVE, president, Textile Workers Union of America, New York City.
REID ROBINSON, president, International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, Chicago.
ALBERT J. FITZGERALD, president, United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, New York.
JOHN GREEN, president, Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, Camden, New Jersey.
LEE PRESSMAN, general counsel for CIO, Washington.

United Mine Workers

JOHN L. LEWIS, president.

Railroad Brotherhoods

T. G. CASHEN, chairman, Railway Labor Executives' Association.

Management

EDWARD N. ALLEN, president, Sage-Allen and Company, Hartford, Conn.
FULLER E. CALLAWAY, JR., president, Callaway Mills, La Grange, Georgia.
M. W. CLEMENT, president, Pennsylvania Railroad, Philadelphia.
JOHN HOLMES, president, Swift and Company, Chicago.
C. R. HOOK, president, American Rolling Mill Company.
ERIC A. JOHNSTON, chairman of the board, Washington Brick and Lime Company, Spokane, Wash.
GEORGE H. LOVE, president, Consolidation Coal Company, Pittsburgh.
IRA MOSHER, president, Russell Harrington Cutlery Company, Southbridge, Mass.
EDWARD P. PALMER, president, Senior and Palmer, Inc., New York.
H. W. PRENTIS, JR., president, Armstrong Cork Company, Lancaster, Pennsylvania.
W. M. RAND, president, Monsanto Chemical Company, St. Louis.
LOUIS RUTHENBURG, president, Servel, Inc., Evansville, Ind.
OTTO A. SEYFERTH, president, West Michigan Steel Foundry Co., Muskegon, Mich.
H. W. STEINKRAUS, president, Bridgeport Brass Company, Bridgeport, Conn.
E. J. THOMAS, president, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio.
CHARLES E. WILSON, president, General Motors Corporation, Detroit.
HARRY WOODHEAD, president, Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Company, San Diego, Cal.

AFL delegates declined after this afternoon's meeting to give any indication of what line they decided to take on any particular question.

The only statement from the meeting was this by the AFL president, William Green:

"The delegates considered in detail the questions presented in the agenda of the conference. They decided on the broad policies to be pursued by the AFL. . . ."

Truman to Appeal For Industrial Peace In Conference Talk

UNION, BUSINESS CHIEFS TO BE TOLD OF RESPONSIBILITY

President Expected to Stress Need for 'Give and Take' Bargaining.

FRANK SPEECH AWAITED

Spokesmen for Both Labor, Management Pledge Cooperation at Parley.

Another situation which may come into sharp focus during the week is that of Russia's demands on Turkey for Dardanelles rights and for certain Turkish territory in the eastern Black Sea area. The Russian-Turkish treaty of friendship and non-aggression which Moscow denounced months ago formally expires on Nov. 7 and the Russians may use that fact as a psychological lever for bringing more pressure on the Turks to grant their demands.

Russian-American relations are involved because the United States is understood to oppose any establishment of Russian bases on the Dardanelles.

Security council. This may be acceptable to Mr. Truman and Mackenzie King. The President's only policy announcement has been that he hoped eventually the world would reach such a state that the atomic bomb could be outlawed.

It is known, however, that some of the President's scientific advisers as well as some of his diplomatic counsellors believe the best procedure at present is not to rely on any treaty or agreement but to seek an international inspection system in exchange for making available to the world full scientific—though not detailed industrial—information on the bomb and on atomic energy.

Whatever the three decide, it seems certain that they will then take steps to discuss the matter with Russia. Moscow editorial and radio opinion has been calling for international handling of the bomb project. Beyond that, the matter would be taken up with other nations and possibly finally with the United Nations organization.

Indicators Awaited

Diplomats regard the problem so far as Russia is concerned as essentially related to the whole field of American-Russian problems.

How far President Truman and Generalissimo Stalin may be able to settle these general issues through friendly negotiation probably also will be indicated this week.

Prime Ministers to Discuss Atom Bomb with Truman

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 — (AP) The first of a series of moves aimed at eventually controlling or removing the atomic bomb menace will be undertaken here this week-end. It probably will result in a joint Anglo-American-Canadian plan which will then be taken up with Russia and other nations.

Prime Ministers Attlee of Great Britain and Mackenzie King of Canada are due at the White House by next Sunday. They are coming at President Truman's invitation to decide:

1. What possible controls there are to prevent a future atomic war and make certain that the bomb will not fall into the hands of some ruthless international gangster.

2. What steps to take toward putting controls into workable form.

Attlee Favors Council

Indications here are that Attlee will argue initially for handling the problem through the United Nations Security council.

On Tuesday, the Far Eastern Advisory commission will hold its second session after a week's adjournment. The United States and other members are anxious to have Russia represented, to allow an early start on Japanese control problems. Russia, on the other hand, has demanded an outright control commission. A compromise has been discussed between Moscow and Washington for two weeks.

Celebration Scheduled

On Wednesday, Stalin may give some further indication of his general policies and ideas on international cooperation and relations with the western Allies. That is the day of the anniversary celebration of the Communist revolution in Russia and normally the occasion for much parading and speechmaking.

WORLD WAR III WARNING GIVEN

Wainwright Cites Danger If Occupation Weakens

Junction City, Kan., Nov. 4 (AP)— If the Allied nations do not occupy Japan and Germany for "an appropriate length of time and in adequate strength," we may have World War III on our hands, Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, hero of Bataan, predicted today.

General Wainwright made the statement in addressing a Cavalry Day crowd of more than 10,000 persons—many military personnel —at near-by Fort Riley Stadium.

Preceding the General's speech a monument to be presented to the Philippine Islands in memory of the 26th Cavalry unit was unveiled.

One Of Last To Succumb

"In the final assault of the Japanese forces on Bataan," the General recounted, "these stout cavalry soldiers fought to the bitter end as infantry and the 26th Cavalry was one of the last organized units to succumb to the overwhelming power of the enemy."

To prevent such a tragedy recurring, General Wainwright proposed national preparedness under three headings:

1. Universal military training for youth as recommended by President Truman.

2. An intensive recruiting program for the regular Army.

3. Purchase now of Victory

30.24-3/1419

bonds.

Still Need Mounted Unit

At a press conference following the stadium ceremonies, Wainwright said he saw the need for some mounted cavalry in future training and in event of another war in spite of the mechanized war just ended. In many theaters, he explained, horses would be useful, although the bulk of cavalry should be mechanized.

Wainwright said he did not intend to retire until he reached the statutory age, August 23, 1947.

FOREIGN POLICY VIEWS OF GOP

Austin Finds Party In Congress Takes 'Liberal' Stand

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—Senator Austin (R., Vt.) said today he believes Congressional Republicans will take a "liberal" stand on foreign-affairs questions in a projected party policy statement.

Minority steering committee members of both houses talked over the subject last week and Austin said he was agreeably surprised at the sentiments expressed.

"I think we are going to agree on a foreign-policy statement that will be liberal in its aspects," said the Vermonter, who has been in the forefront of those urging international co-operation to solve world problems.

U.S. Must Work To Keep Peace

Senator Millikin (R., Col.) said he thought the congressional Republicans can agree without debate that the United States must work with other nations to preserve the peace.

But he said it is his guess that the minority will urge the strict application of "good business principles" in economic dealings with other nations. The Republicans probably will be for loans, he said, but will want concrete assurances about repayments.

Most Republicans doubt that the congressional party members will be able to get specific on domestic issues.

They cite the fact, for instance, that members are split wide open on the question of universal military training. Some of its strongest supporters and bitterest opponents are in the Republican ranks.

Domestic Problem Greatest

Chairman Taft (R. Ohio) of the Senate steering group said the domestic declarations present the greatest difficulty.

He has been urging that the policy statement be kept short and be confined to fundamentals. He suggested a ten-point program is long enough. Austin thought that a six-point declaration might do.

When the congressional group arrives at its conclusions, it will forward them to Chicago for consideration by the party's national committee meeting December 7 and 8.

No party member he thinks the national committee will try to make any changes in the recommendations. The congressional Republicans, they point out, are the ones who will have to run on the program in the 1946 elections.

Army Develops Camera Making Rank Amateur Equal of Experts

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4. — (AP) The Army has a camera with which its says the rankest amateur can make flawless still pictures in color or black and white, of any action at distances between six inches and 12 feet.

The secret of the camera is a built-in light source, a quartz vapor tube giving a flash of about 1-25,000th of a second duration with brilliancy greater than sunlight.

The camera was developed by the Army's Pictorial service, for army surgeons, from an original idea by Capt. Rollin W. King and a civilian expert, Emanuel Berlant. The light tube was designed and built by the General Electric company. Four cameras have been made, with others now under construction.

RISE IN BASE PAY URGED BY BOWLES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 — (AP) Price Administrator Chester Bowles endorsed proposed increases in the legal minimum pay today with the argument that the long-range effect would be to cut prices.

Bowles took his position in a statement for a Senate labor subcommittee. It is considering a bill to raise the legal hourly minimum wage for workers whose employers operate in interstate commerce, from 40 cents an hour to 65 cents now and to 75 cents after two years.

He had a three-point base for his stand:

"First, judging by our history, I should say that the long-range effects of this legislation would be to reduce prices rather than to raise them. This is because higher wages increase productivity.

"Second, I am satisfied that even the immediate effects in the direction of raising prices will be few in number and small in magnitude.

"Third, even if the price effects were of somewhat greater dimensions, I would still support the proposed revision. I say this in spite of my fear of the huge inflationary forces which confront us. Prices that depend upon sweatshop wages are sweatshop prices. No thoughtful consumer would choose to benefit through lower prices if those prices are based on substandard wages."

Bowles said farmers would benefit from higher wage scales by getting a larger market for their products. Of business, he said:

"Right here at our feet lies our greatest undeveloped market — a market which can be tapped to provide income and employment opportunities for everybody simply by raising the level of minimum wages."

The price chief stated that the highest percentage of workers making less than 65 cents an hour is in the tobacco industry. There, he said, 58 per cent are in that category.

He estimated that if the entire amount needed to raise tobacco workers to a 65-cent minimum were added to the sales price for cigarettes alone, it would come to "about one-tenth of a cent a pack."

FITTING CREDIT FOR GI'S URGED

Farmers' Union Offers Plan For Land Purchases

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—The National Farmers Union today recommended a program intended to give "adequate credit facilities" to World War II veterans desiring to purchase and equip farms.

James G. Patton, union president, criticized the farm-credit provisions in the GI Bill of Rights, asserting in a statement that their "shortcomings are self-evident."

Estimating that 1,000,000 members of the armed forces will be seeking farms or farm employment, and that only 800,000 farm units will become available in the next five years, Patton said "it is quite evident that not all veterans who desire to become farm owners will be able to achieve this objective."

Cost Estimated

Patton said the cost of equipping and operating a family farm may range from $1,200 to $13,000, while the amount of farm loans insured under the GI Bill of Rights is limited to 50 per cent of the loan, or $2,000, whichever is the smaller. He said also that the four per cent maximum interest rate was lower than most local rates.

Noting that the GI bill also makes qualified veterans eligible for loans under the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, Patton said this act "best meets the needs of farm purchasers."

Recommendations Made

The union program announced by Patton recommends:

"1. Funds for the purchase of farms by veterans should be provided under the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act at the terms that loans are now available to tenants, namely a three per cent interest rate, a 40-year repayment period, and a variable repayment plan.

"2. Such appropriations should be made for a five-year period to permit the administering agency sufficient latitude in the encumbrance of these funds.

"3. The size of the loan to an individual veteran for the purpose of acquiring, repairing and improving a farm should be limited to the average value of efficient family-type farm-management units as determined by the Secretary of Agriculture, in the county, parish or locality in which the farm is located.

Amount Of Loan

"4. And the amount loaned to a veteran to purchase, repair and improve a farm should not exceed its reasonable value as determined by the administrating agency.

"5. In case foreclosure threatens within ten years following the initial loan, the veteran-farmer should be given the option of requesting the administration agency to re-evaluate the farm on the basis of average earnings of farms in the vicinity of the veteran's farm during the years that the veteran's loan has has been in effect. If a reappraisal of the farm shows that the original loan plus the veteran's equity is greater than the proven earning power of the farm, the administrating agency should be authorized to compromise the loan. The maximum adjustment should not succeed twenty per cent of face value of the loan, plus accrued interest.

"6. Veterans eligible for farm-purchase loans under the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act should also be provided loans for the purchase of live stock and equipment at a maximum interest rate of five per cent, and probably less."

German Alien Deserter Caught In Washington

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—Walter Korten Koch, 29, sought by the Justice Department as a German alien deserter from the United States Army, was arrested here last night, J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, reported today.

A Department statement said Koch also is wanted at Joplin, Mo., on a charge of violating the Car Theft Act while escaping army confinement. The statement said Koch had lived at Orla, Mo., was inducted into the Army September 19, 1941, and was tranferred to Fort Francis E. Warren in Wyoming.

Because of pro-German statements, Koch was committed to the guardhouse at Fort Warren on Pearl Harbor day and escaped with ten other military prisoners on the night of June 17, 1942, after sawing a bar, it stated.

VETERANS AIDE NAMED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 — (AP) Appointment of Frank W. Kelsey as assistant veterans administrator in charge of the finance service was announced today by Administrator Omar N. Bradley. He succeeds Maurice Collins, under whom he had been serving as assistant director of finance. Collins has transferred to the Federal Security agency.

GERMAN U-BOAT SUNK IN PACIFIC BY U. S. SUB

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—(AP) A 700-ton German submarine was sunk in the Pacific Nov. 10, 1944, by the United States submarine Flounder in the only submarine versus submarine sinking in that ocean during the war, the Navy disclosed today.

The only similar action of the whole conflict occurred in the Atlantic theater when the U. S. submarine Herring sank a German U-boat in the Bay of Biscay.

The Pacific engagement occurred just north of Lombok strait in the Southern Sunda islands, east of Java. The Flounder fired four torpedoes, scoring two hits. It was the first engagement of the Flounder's fourth war patrol, which began Oct. 27.

The Flounder at the time was under command of Comdr. James Edward Stevens, Ridgefield Park, N. J.

RFC TAKES OVER TASK OF SELLING WAR GOODS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 — (AP) The Reconstruction Finance corporation will be open for business Monday in 42 offices to give information to prospective purchasers of nearly $20,000,000,000 of surplus war goods.

RFC takes over the Office of Surplus Property from the Department of Commerce tomorrow. The transfer, ordered Oct. 19 by President Truman, adds the responsibility of selling consumer goods to RFC's present task of disposing of capital and producers' goods—such things as factories and their equipment.

RFC announced today that information concerning all items will be available at any of its 31 regional offices or any of the 11 Department of Commerce Regional Surplus offices.

Tennessee GI Receives Congressional Medal

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—A Tennessee infantryman who led his squad in a two-day stand against attacking Germans, even though wounded, has been awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor.

The War Department said today the nation's highest award had been conferred on Staff Sergeant Vernon McGarity, of Model, Tenn., squad leader with Company L, 393rd Regiment, 99th Division.

Although wounded in the face and legs and ordered back by a lieutenant, McGarity returned to his forward post to battle against a German counterattack near Krinkelt, Belgium, last December.

During the two-day fight (which ended when the little band of Americans was overwhelmed and captured) McGarity destroyed a tank and a cannon which the Germans turned against his position.

The captured Americans were released soon after the Germans had taken them prisoner.

Gen. Doolittle Crosses Continent In Six Hours, 59 Minutes in B-29

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4. — (AP) Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle landed in a B-29 at National airport today six hours and 59 minutes after leaving Oakland, Calif.

The general, who led the first air raid on Tokyo, said no attempt had been made to beat the transcontinental record of six hours and three minutes set last January by a Boeing C-97 flying from Seattle to Washington.

"We just didn't get the predicted winds," he told reporters.

Crewmen aboard the ship said their average ground speed was 369 miles an hour, about 50 miles less than they had expected to make.

Mrs. Doolittle accompanied her husband on the trip which began at 9:24 a. m., E.S.T. and ended here at 4:23 p. m.

When only an hour out of Oakland, crewmen said, they knew they could not set a record because of unfavorable winds.

The Army Transport Command estimated the mileage covered at 2,400 miles.

Doolittle flew a B-29 from Los Angeles to Washington in six hours and 45 minutes last October but the flight was not officially timed, and no record was entered in the books.

Major J. Lawrence Smith, who said he was at the controls throughout today's flight, told newsmen the plane and crew were the same ones that recently flew from Honolulu to Washington in 16 hours and 38 minutes. He added that the plane holds an unofficial record of 12 hours, 20 minutes from Washington to London.

ATC Cuts Number Of Atlantic Daily Flights By Almost Half

Washingotn, Nov. 4 (AP) — The Army's Air Transport Command has cut the number of its transatlantic flights almost in half during the last two months.

ATC officials said today their planes now are making a daily average of nineteen crossings compared with 35 in early September and that a further decrease is forthcoming. Operations on other routes in ATC's global system also are being reduced.

Since V-J day, approximately 50,000 ATC personnel have gone to separation bases or centers, in addition to men leaving through other channels overseas. The rate of release, ATC officials said, is far more rapid than originally expected.

Experienced Men Needed

This release rate has prevented sufficient on-the-job training of new personnel for key operations jobs.

"For example," the ATC explains, "in order to operate safely on long overwater flights, flight crews and ground control personnel of practical experience on those routes are required. The only substitution for this desired experience is extreme caution, resulting in the carrying of extra gasoline and strict interpretation of weather forecasts.

"These cautions have resulted in reducted pay loads and frequency of flights."

Commercial Lines Taking Over

The rapid discharge of men has had its effect on aircraft maintenance at ATC bases, although the command is attempting to offset some of this by putting the remaining experienced men in key supervisory jobs.

The cutback in the Atlantic service of ATC is being compensated for in steadily growing measure by the inauguration of regular commercial lines. ATC had counted on this, but also has arranged to continue European service for requirements, especially to Berlin and Frankfurt, as long as theater commanders deem it necessary.

MacArthur Now Favors Plea For Unified Forces, Says Kenney

NEW YORK, Nov. 4—(AP) General of the Army Douglas MacArthur was quoted by Gen. George C. Kenney today as having said in 1943 that his opposition, in 1932, to unification of the armed forces was "the greatest mistake of my military career."

Gen. Kenney, wartime commander of Allied Air forces in the Southwest Pacific, told a press conference here that when MacArthur was overall commander of Army, Navy and Air forces at New Guinea, he sought MacArthur's views regarding the New Guinea set-up and the General replied, "It's the only way."

Referring to MacArthur's opposition in 1932 to unification of the armed forces, Kennedy said: "That's no reflection on MacArthur. He changed his mind. A lot of us have changed our minds since 1932."

Kennedy recalled he had questioned MacArthur on the 1932 viewpoint and that MacArthur answered, "I opposed it ((unification) with every argument I could think of—it was the greatest mistake of my military career."

"Then," said Kenney today, "I realized I was working with a big man."

Kenney, who had testified in favor of unification before a congressional committee in Washington last week, said today, "The thing is just as simple as the president and board of directors; it has worked in business, so why can't it work in the biggest business of all—national defense?"

Commenting on the Navy's opposition to unification, Kenney said, "The Navy's arguments indicate that it has no good arguments and is only stalling for time."

He expressed fear that unless immediate action toward unification were taken, the public—"and that means Congress, too"—would eventually adopt a "who cares?" attitude.

Kenney declared the airplane had become the decisive element in warfare and that consequently a single air training establishment should be set up to qualify fliers for either land or carrier based operations.

As for the pride of various branches of service in their traditions, Kenney said such things were "big factors in morale" and should be preserved, "but not at the expense of efficiency."

Never Opposed Army-Navy Game, Says MacArthur

New York, Nov. 4 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur today denied a statement attributed to him by the Associated Press that he favored elimination of the Army-Navy football game.

Through a misinterpretation by the Associated Press of statements received by the Senate Military Affairs Committee, it was made to appear that General MacArthur saw in the Army-Navy game a breeder of future dissension between the two services. The Associated Press regrets this.

The General's statement follows:

"The statement that I advocate abolition of West Point-Annapolis football games is completely false. I never even discussed such a subject. I have been one of the strongest supporters of this type of athletics and I thoroughly believe in its efficiency for development of sound characters.

"I repeat what I said when superintendent at West Point 25 years ago, with regard to college athletic sports: 'On the fields of friendly sport are sown the seeds which on other fields and other days will bring forth victory.'"

151 AIRMEN RESCUED BY COAST GUARD UNIT

NEW YORK, Nov. 4—(AP) A Coast Guard air-sea rescue unit, operating from the Marianas under command of Comdr. Anthony J. Deloy, USCG, of New London, Conn., saved the lives of 151 Allied B-29 airmen during the war against Japan, the Coast Guard Public Information office announced here today.

Com. Dejoy, pilot for former Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., headed the unit of amphibious planes and fast surface craft from its formation last April until Sept. 1.

Dejoy received the bronze star medal for his "conduct and complete devotion to duty" as head of the unit.

VICTORY LOAN TRAIN EXPECTED TOMORROW

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 — (AP) A seven-car Victory Loan train containing the original German and Japanese surrender documents and a display of war equipment of the Army Ground Forces was turned over to the War Finance committee and the Army Ground Forces today by George S. Palmer, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

The train will be open for public inspection tomorrow at Grand Central Terminal and is scheduled to leave tomorrow night on a 12-day tour of 20 cities in southern New England.

The train is one of six which will travel throughout 40 states during the current Victory Loan drive.

It is scheduled to be on public exhibition in Stamford, Norwalk and Bridgeport, on Tuesday and in New Haven, on Wednesday.

$1,500 Willed by Marine To Aid Industrial Peace

By The Associated Press.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 4—In a will written in long hand just before he set out for the Iwo Jima campaign, in which he was killed, Lieut. Benjamin R. Toland of the Marine Reserves, 25 years old, left part of his estate for the improving of relations between capital and labor.

Frank J. Sulloway, the executor, announced today at the State convention of the Congress of Industrial Organizations that Lieutenant Toland had left one-tenth of his estate each to the CIO, the American Federation of Labor and the National Association of Manufacturers. He said that the amount probably would be $500 to $600 for each group.

The CIO convention voted to set up a trust fund, the income from which would be paid each year to the member who best fulfilled the desires of the will.

Lieutenant Toland, who was graduated from Yale in 1942, was a son of Edward Dale Toland, a teacher at St. Paul's School, Concord.

Jap Beatings Termed A 'Hell On Earth'

Parsons, W.Va., Nov. 4 (AP)—With only two souvenirs to remind him of the "most terrorizing months I ever want to live," William Smigal, 27, is back at his home in nearby Dougleas recuperating from beatings and other inhumane treatment suffered while he was a prisoner of the Japanese for 40 months.

Smigal, who lost his eyesight entirely for several months and can now see only slightly, says his two reminders of "hell on earth" are a spoon from the home of General Wainwright which he obtained after being captured and a pair of shoes he made from the tires and upholstering of an airplane.

He was employed as a shop foreman for the United States Ordnance Department on Corregidor at the time the island surrendered in May, 1942. He had served a three-year Army enlistment in the Hawaiian Islands, beginning in August, 1938.

Citing an incident which he said was typical of the treatment by the Japs, Smigal said he was among 1,200 placed on a boat loaded with coal going from Bilibid prison to Formosa. He said that storage space was so completely filled that the prisoners were forced to lie upon each other.

"For two days we were forced to stay there without food or water and during that time several prisoners were killed by their mates crazed for want of water and food," Smigal said.

War Facts Collected As Events Took Place

Thomasville, Ga., Nov. 4 (AP)—Fact-collecting by a staff of more than 100 officers and enlisted specialists in the European theater within eight hours after historic events occurred, will simplify the writing of the war's history.

Work of the historians was under direction of Col. William Addleman Ganoe, who suggested a plan for gathering information "before age has begun its distortion."

The colonel, now in Finney General Hospital here, proposed the plan because of the difficulties he experienced in searching national and state archives for facts when he wrote "The History of the United States Army." That history was published in 1924 and revised in 1943.

Unions To Offer Own Records If Congress Probes Higgins

New Orleans, Nov. 4 (AP)—Representatives of AFL unions offered today to throw open their own records and submit their officers to the same congressional investigation they are asking of the closing of the Higgins Industries plants here.

William L. Donnels, chairman of the Metal Trades Council, issued a formal statement which he said was a "concrete" union demand for the inquiry.

"We don't want to tie up the town but we'll do so if necessary to obtain this investigation and protect the integrity of our unions," he asserted.

Favors 24-Hour Walkout

Previously, Donnels had said that if the union demands were not met he would ask all AFL members in this area to quit work for 24 hours.

The statement offered, if the investigation were made, to forget differences afterward and "pitch in under a closed-shop agreement and make more millions for Mr. Higgins."

Donnels, in an interview, reiterated earlier union assertions that closing of the Higgins boat and trailer plants was a "smoke screen . . . to cover up things we want investigated."

Reason For Closing

Andrew J. Higgins, Sr., president of Higgins Industries, could not be reached tonight for comment on Donnel's statement. He said earlier he had been forced to close the plants because of the local AFL leadership and what he called conflicting policies of the War Labor Board and the National Labor Relations Board.

Donnel's statement invited an investigation of the financial standings of the unions, "each and every individual officer," and "their spiritual or moral life."

Questions For Inquiry

"We also ask that the entire financial structure of Mr. Higgins be investigated, starting with January, 1940, up to and including the time of the investigation," the statement said, "listing for special investigation:

"The sincerity of Mr. Higgins's statement that he was closing for keeps. . . .

"All records . . . in Mr. Higgins's files having a bearing on all contracts whether of a private or confidential nature. . . .

"Why he maintained a department to write to service men all over the world inviting them to come work for the vast Higgins enterprises and where and how he obtained their names and addresses. . . .

"The wages paid veterans at the Micheaud plant where the unions have no contract."

Bomb Project Head Goes To California

Los Alamos, N.M., Nov. 4 (AP)—Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, retiring director of the Government's atomic bomb laboratories here, departed tonight for California.

He had announced previously that, after two years and eight months as head of the project, he would become professor of theoretical physics at the California Institute of Technology.

Dr. Norman E. Bradbury, physics professor on leave from Stanford University, succeeds Oppenheimer as project director.

Barkley Calls Palestine Logical Spot For Jews

Los Angeles, Nov. 4 (AP)—Senator Alben W. Barkley, D., Ky.) declared that homeless European Jews must be provided a refuge and Palestine seems the logical place for them.

Speaking before the 20th anniversary conference of the United Palestine Appeal, Barkley, majority leader in the Senate, told his audience that establishment of a Jewish commonwealth in Palestine was another matter to be considered separately and later. The immediate problem, he added, is to find refuge for 1,600,000 Jews remaining in Europe.

Ribbon Won by the Pennsylvania

BREMERTON, Wash., Nov. 4 (AP) — Rear Admiral Ralph W. Christie, Puget Sound Navy Yard commandant, has presented the Unit Commendation Ribbon to the battleship Pennsylvania for long and distinguished war service. It was received by Capt. William S. Moses, skipper of the ship, which is undergoing repairs for damage inflicted by a Japanese aerial torpedo on Aug. 12, just fifty-nine hours before the war's end. She was one of the first to suffer in the attack on Pearl Harbor.

A SIMILAR EXPRESSION CAME FROM MAJ.GEN.FRANK E.STONER, CHIEF OF THE ARMY COMMUNICATIONS SERVICE IN WASHINGTON, WHO SAID:

"IN MANY WAYS THE MODERN MIRACLE OF RADIO HELPED TO WIN THE WAR.

"NOW THESE MILITARY AND COMMERCIAL RADIO NETWORKS, SO NECESS-ARY IN WAR, WILL BE CONVERTED TO PEACE-TIME USE, TO PROMOTE HARMONY AND MUTUAL UNDERSTANDING AMONG NATIONS THROUGH THE WORLDWIDE EXCHANGE OF IDEAS."

WASHINGTON,NOV 4-(AP)-BERNARD M.BARUCH SUGGESTS THAT CONGRESS CALL FOR A NATIONAL FINANCIAL STOCK-TAKING AS THE FIRST STEP TOWARD SOLVING THE COUNTRY'S ECONOMIC PROBLEMS.

THE VETERAN ADVISOR OF PRESIDENTS URGED THE NATIONWIDE INVENTORY OF FINANCES IN A LETTER MADE PUBLIC TODAY BY REP.GORE (D-TENN).

BARUCH DECLARED THE INVENTORY WOULD GIVE "AN OVER-ALL PICTURE OF THE BALANCE SHEET OF THE COUNTRY." SUCH A PICTURE IS NEEDED, HE SAID, NOT ONLY TO HELP PREVENT INFLATION, BUT TO DEAL WITH "ALL OTHER ECONOMIC PROBLEMS, DOMESTIC AND FOREIGN."

HE ASSERTED THE INVENTORY SHOULD ANSWER:

"WHAT ARE OUR PRESENT DEBTS? X X X WHAT DOES THE PUBLIC HOLD IN BONDS, X X X AND WHAT IS OWED TO OTHERS? ALSO, HOW MUCH FURTHER DO WE HAVE TO GO IN DEBT TO PAY FOR WAR CONTRACTS? HOW MUCH WILL WE HAVE TO RAISE FOR BRETTON WOODS (THE INTERNATIONAL MONETARY FUND), UNRRA (THE UNITED NATIONS RELIEF AND REHABILITATION ADMINISTRATION), AND FOREIGN LOANS OF EVERY TYPE?"

ONCE THESE FACTS ARE LEARNED, BARUCH CONTINUED, "WE OUGHT TO EXAMINE OUR PRODUCTIVE CAPACITY AND DETERMINE HOW TO DIVIDE THAT PRODUCTION, FIRST TO SEE THAT ENOUGH OF WHAT IS PRODUCED REMAINS IN THE UNITED STATES TO AVOID DISASTROUS INFLATION, AND THEN HOW MUCH TO ALLOCATE FOR THE REHABILITATION OF EUROPE, CHINA AND THE PHILIP-PINES."

HE ADDED THAT "UNLESS THIS DIVIDING IS DONE WISELY, WE WILL SINK AND THE WHOLE WORLD WILL GO DOWN WITH US."

HE CAUTIONED THAT "WE MUST BE CAREFUL, WHEN WE GIVE AID TO OTHER COUNTRIES, THAT THIS AID IS NOT USED TO NATIONALIZE THEIR INDUSTRIES AGAINST US, TO DESTROY OUR COMPETITIVE SYSTEM."

BARUCH CRITICIZED HASTY TAX REDUCTION. HE SAID "REDUCING TAXES TOO MUCH NOW, AND WITH NO INDICATION OF FUTURE PLANS IS UNWISE, AND MAY BE SERIOUSLY INFLATIONARY."

CONGRESS COMPLETED ACTION LAST WEEK ON LEGISLATION CUTTING TAXES IN 1946 BY AN ESTIMATED $5,960,000,000.

FIGHTING AND DISORDERS WERE REPORTED OVER THE WEEK END IN TRIESTE AND CAPODISTRIA AND ALONG THE GREEK-ALBANIAN FRONTIER, BUT ORDER WAS RESTORED IN PALESTINE AND EGYPT, SCENE OF WIDESPREAD RIOTING FRIDAY AND SATURDAY.

THE CLASHES ALONG THE GREEK-ALBANIAN BORDER WERE REPORTED IN SWISS AND BELGIUM RADIO BROADCASTS, BUT OFFICIAL GREEK SOURCES IN ATHENS SAID THEY WERE UNABLE TO CONFIRM THE REPORTS. NOR WAS THERE CONFIRMA-TION FROM TIRANA, ALBANIAN CAPITAL.

THE SWISS RADIO, QUOTING AN ATHENS DISPATCH OF THE FRENCH NEWS AGENCY, SAID "DISQUIETING INCIDENTS" HAD OCCURRED ALONG THE BORDER, WHICH HAS BEEN A TROUBLE SPOT SINCE NORTHERN EPIRUS WAS ANNEXED TO ALBANIA IN 1914, AND THAT GREEK TROOPS HAD REQUESTED REINFORCEMENTS.

A BRUSSELS BROADCAST ALSO SAID THE GREEKS HAD ASKED FOR REINFORCEMENTS, AND ADDED THAT "KEEN FIGHTING IS REPORTED ON THE ALBANIAN FRONTIER BETWEEN GREEK TROOPS AND ALBANIAN IRREGULARS."

ROME NEWSPAPERS SAID THAT AT LEAST ONE PERSON WAS KILLED AND 17 TO 27 OTHERS INJURED SATURDAY IN RIOTS IN TRIESTE, AND THAT AN UNDETERMINED NUMBER OF PERSONS WERE KILLED AND INJURED IN DISORDERS AT CAPODISTRIA, 10 MILES SOUTH OF TRIESTE.

THE NEWSPAPERS SAID THE RIOTS AT TRIESTE, ADRIATIC PORT CITY CLAIMED BY BOTH ITALIANS AND YUGOSLAVS, BROKE OUT WHEN YUGOSLAV SYMPATHIZERS TRIED TO BREAK UP A PRO-ITALIAN MASS MEETING, HELD IN COMMENORATION OF THE 27TH ANNIVERSARY OF ITALIAN OCCUPATION OF THE CITY.

ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY PERSONS WERE ARRESTED, THE NEWSPAPERS SAID, AFTER MUCH GUNFIRE.

THE CAPODISTRIA RIOTS BROKE OUT AS THE RESULT OF A STRIKE CALLED TO PROTEST USE OF YUGOSLAV OCCUPATION LIRE, THE NEWSPAPERS SAID.

QUIET WAS REPORTED IN CAIRO AFTER POLICE BROKE UP A SMALL DEMONSTRATION YESTERDAY MORNING IN THE MAIN BUSINESS SECTION, SCENE

OF WIDESPREAD DISORDERS FRIDAY AND SATURDAY. A BBC BROADCAST RECORDED BY NBC SAID MORE THAN 1,000 PERSONS HAD BEEN ARRESTED IN CAIRO DURING THE LAST 48 HOURS.

THE BRITISH AND UNITED STATES ARMIES LIFTED RESTRICTIONS WHICH HAD PLACED CAIRO OUT-OF-BOUNDS TO THEIR TROOPS.

DISPATCHES FROM PALESTINE SAID THE ONLY INCIDENT THERE OCCURRED WHEN POLICE EXCHANGED SHOTS WITH A GROUP OF SIX PERSONS WHO WERE REPORTED TO HAVE TAMPERED WITH A FENCE AT THE ROYAL NAVY DEPOT NEAR HAIFA.

U. S., CHINA DENY MARINES IN ACTION IN CHINESE 'WAR'

Communists Opposing Government Troops Charge Yanks Fighting.

BATTLES RAGE

'Reds' Feared Trying to Beat Chung's Forces Into Manchuria.

CHUNGKING, Nov. 5. — (AP) Both Washington and Chungking denied today a Communist charge that U. S. Marines had gone into action in China's civil war, now reported blazing with renewed violence in the north.

The White House in Washington declared flatly there had been no clashes between Chinese Communists and any American forces, as alleged by dispatches from the Red stronghold of Yenan.

A spokesman for China's ministry of war styled the allegations "absolutely false."

K. C. Wu, minister of information, declared the Communists deliberately spread the report "to fan up feeling between China and America and provoke American public opinion to demand the suspension of whatever aid the United States is giving the Chinese government."

Charges Plane Attack

The Communist New China Daily News had leveled a barrage of charges, alleging that 14 U. S. planes had strafed a Red-held town, that Marines fired on the Communists, led an attack north of Peiping and had threatened to attack strongholds with the might of the fleet.

While Chungking awaited a reply from Yenan to its peace offer made over the week-end, the tide of violence was reported rising in the north.

The Communists were said to be attacking or destroying vital railroads in North China and fears were expressed they might try to beat Chung's troops into Manchuria, with its all-important heavy industry.

An official dispatch declared the badly-outnumbered Nationalist garrison at Kweisui, previously reported seized by the Reds, still held out but the position of that capital of Suiyuan province in Inner Mongolia was grave.

One Communist column of 10,000 was battering at the northeastern suburbs, this account said, and other columns were closing on the city. The Communists fought into Kweisui's railway station Sunday afternoon.

Launch Railway Assaults

The Communist's new Fourth army, 40,000 strong, had launched assaults on both the Peiping-Hankow and Tientsin-Pukow railways, two of the most important arteries leading into North China, a government source claimed.

The government source asserted 30,000 Communist troops were marching on the railway terminal and port of Lienyunkang, 340 miles southeast of Tientsin, in a bid to broaden their hold along the Yellow sea.

Gen. Yen Fei Ping, minister of Communications, told correspondents today after a tour of inspection that Communists had destroyed 880 miles of North China railroads, particularly along the Peiping-Hankow and Tientsin-Pukow lines.

He declared the Communists blew up steel bridges, burned cross ties and hauled the rails off to their arsenals to make weapons. The government has put 30,000 Japanese transportation corps troops to work making repairs and some stretches now are back in operation.

The Central news agency declared Communist forces, on the offensive northwest of Hankow since mid-October, were trying to prevent repair of the lines and check the northward advance of the Chungking forces from central areas of China.

Reds Overrun Town

The agency admitted the Communists had overrun a number of towns including Tsaoyang, 140 miles northwest of Hankow, whose fall threatened the government army's west flank along the Peiping-Hankow railway.

The situation in Manchuria took a more encouraging turn. A Chinese dispatch from there reported Soviet troops would begin withdrawing Nov. 10 from positions between the great wall and the industrial city of Mukden along the Peiping-Mukden railroad.

Government troops were concentrating at embarkation points for seaborne landing at the southern Manchurian ports of Yingkow and Hulutao.

Moscow's persistent refusal to permit Chinese landings at the big Manchurian ports of Dairen and Port Arthur was causing disappointment and worry in Chungking but no responsible official would be quoted.

If Chinese Communists infiltrate Manchuria, as they allegedly plan to do, and obtain heavy industry for the first time to sustain their war machine, it is feared here that a protracted all-out civil war may develop.

Some uneasiness also was expressed over recurrent reports that the Communists were shifting their strength from northern Shensi province, in which Yenan is located, northward into Inner Mongolia.

There they would be in a more favorable position because of their proximity to independent Outer Mongolia, with whom Chinese Communists apparently hope to develop a military and spiritual link.

No China Red, Yank Clashes, U.S. Reports

Washington, Nov. 5 (AP)—The White House said today there have been no clashes between Chinese Communists and United States armed forces.

Eben Ayers, assistant press secretary, made the statement to reporters, at first limiting it to "United States Marines." In response to inquiries, Ayers later said he had checked and that the denial of any clashes with the Communists applied to all United States armed forces.

He did not indicate what occasioned his statement.

There were reports, however, from Communist headquarters in China that American Marines had fired on Chinese Communist representatives at Chinwangtao. The Chinese, the dispatch said, "had to reply" to the fire, but withdrew after about an hour of hostilities.

Message From Wedemeyer

Ayers told a news conference that President Truman had received a message from Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commanding general of the United States forces in the Chinese theater.

The General informed the President, Ayers said, that "there have been no clashes between Chinese Communists and United States Marines."

Ayers did not elaborate.

Charges Wedemeyer Lied

Chungking, Nov. 5 (AP)—Chinese Communist protests alleging armed American intervention in China's undeclared civil war broke out anew today and were denied almost immediately in Chinese Central Government circles.

The Communist New China Daily News bluntly called Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer's recent promise of nonintervention "nothing but a lie," and the Communist News Agency reported that "troops and people in liberated areas are indignant at actions of American forces."

The charge against the commander of American troops in China was carried in a dispatch from the Communist headquarters at Yenan. The Americans, it said, not only armed and equipped Central Government troops, "but have invaded our liberated areas in North China, opened fire on us, arrested some of our army personnel and disarmed some of our troops."

Delegation "Fired On"

When American Marines first landed at Chinwangtao, the Communists sent representatives to contact them, but "they were fired upon and had to reply," the dispatch said, adding that Communists withdrew after an hour of hostilities.

After the Marines had occupied Chinwangtao and the near-by town of Haiyang, the dispatch said, the Communists, who were not informed of the American's intentions and considering China's "territorial rights involved," sent six representatives to negotiate with them.

The Americans arrested the negotiators without explanation and before releasing them, asserted the News, "threatened that the Communists would be dealt with by the American fleet and Marines."

Other Charges

The dispatch also charged that:

1. October 18 a detachment of 30 American and Chinese police arrested five members of the staff of the Communist office in the former British concession in Tientsin.

2. American planes "supported puppet troops in threatening our forces."

3. Ten American planes from Nanyuan airfield, in the suburbs of Peiping, flew over the Communist-held town of Kuan on October 21 and dropped leaflets warning the Communists to withdraw in three days.

4. Later the same day, 14 American planes strafed Kuan while a massmeeting was being held.

Earlier, in a dispatch from one of its correspondents, the Communist paper had charged the Marines with "positively" participating in armed intervention in China's undeclared civil war.

Attacks Alleged

"American Marines at Chinwangtao, in co-operation with Kuomintang troops, attacked Communist-liberated areas for days," it said.

"On October 30 a contingent of American Marines and troops belonging to the Kuomintang (Nationalist Government) 94th Army attacked and occupied a point near Shanhaikwan (Linyu). The Americans disarmed eighteen Communist guerrillas."

Chinwangtao, where Vice Admiral Daniel Barbey's United States 7th Amphibious Force recently landed Nationalist troops, and Shanhaikwan are on the Gulf of Chihli, about 150 miles northeast of Tientsin.

"Kuomintang troops were transported in American vehicles to launch the attack on Shanhaikwan," the dispatch continued.

"On October 31 American and Chinese forces from Chinwangtao attacked Pehtaiho and machine-gunned us. Our casualties were heavy and we were forced to withdraw from Pehtaiho."

About 70,000 United States Marines have been stationed in the Tientsin-Peiping area of North China to aid Nationalist forces of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in disarming Japanese forces, and in policing until Chiang can move in reinforcements.

American officials have emphasized that the Marines have been ordered to stand clear of China's civil strife and take no sides.

Official reports reaching Chungking today said 10,000 Chinese Communists were attacking Nationalists in the suburbs of Kweisui, capital of Suiyuan province in Inner Mongolia.

Other Communist columns were rushing toward the Kweisui battle area, indicating that Chiang's troops defending the city soon might be more greatly outnumbered than already reported.

A Government spokesman claimed, however, that Kweisui was "fortunately" still in the hands of the defenders.

He said that Tatung, northern Shensi province junction town on the Tatung-Puchow and Peiping-Suiyan railroads, still was in Kuomintang hands, but admitted the situation was "grave" at both places.

Loss Of Tsaoyang Admitted

The official Central News agency asserted that Communist forces "have been on the offensive since the middle of October" and admitted the loss by Kuomintang forces of several towns, including Tsaoyang, about 145 miles northwest of Hankow.

Several Communist columns, including one more than 15,000 strong, are engaged in the "widespread offensive action."

Observers at Chungking said the seizure of Tsaoyang and other points threatened the west flank of Nationalist positions along the Peiping-Hankow railroad north of Hankow, which apparently is the purpose of the drive.

Aimed At Troop Movement

The Communists are seeking to prevent restoration of traffic along the railroad to frustrate movement of Chiang Kai-shek's troops to north China and Manchuria.

A Government source said that wherever the Communists had succeeded in disrupting the railroads, Government troops were continuing north on foot.

The Communist new 4th Army, about 40,000 strong, the source said, had moved to points north of the Yangtze and had split into two forces, one of which was attacking the southern section of the Peiping-Hankow line and the other the southern section of the Tientsin-Pukow road.

Destruction on the Tientsin-Pukow line has been heaviest just north of Tsinan, capital of Shantung province.

Red Troops Withdrawing

There are between 2,000 and 3,000 Communists within 30 miles north of Nanking, but there has been no fighting as they withdraw, the Kuomintang spokesman said. He alleged that some 30,000 Red troops are heading toward Lienyun on the Yellow Sea at the eastern end of the Lunghai railroad.

A Chinese press dispatch from Changchun reported that Soviet troops at Chinhsien (Chinchow) on the Peiping-Mukden railroad between the Great Wall and Mukden would begin withdrawing Saturday.

Chinese Get U. S. Vehicles.

Shanghai, Nov. 5 (A. P.).—Nearly 15,000 United States Army vehicles have been placed at the disposal of the Chinese National Army for redeployment of its forces in areas recovered from the Japanese.

Col. Herman A. Hauck of Marathon, N. Y., chief of lend-lease in the China theater, said today that lend-lease, inoperative in most categories, was being continued in this case "because of the importance of assisting the Chinese armies in the reoccupation and disarming of Japanese forces in China and Manchuria.

MOSCOW ATTACKS U. S. 'ISOLATIONISTS'

Charges Wheeler, Hoover and Taft Would Use Force on Other Countries

LONDON, Nov. 5 (AP)—The Moscow radio attacked "American isolationists" today and accused them of being "originators of the idea of using economic and military might as a means of exerting pressure on other countries."

Former President Herbert Hoover and Senators Robert A. Taft, Republican, of Ohio, and Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana, were singled out for special mention. "The American isolationists Taft and Wheeler have tried to take advantage of a discussion of international problems for their own provocative ends," the broadcast said, quoting from an article in the Red Fleet's magazine, International Observer.

"Reactionary politicians have zealously opposed collaboration among the great powers and tried to make the most of every difference inevitably arising among the Allies when complicated problems were being solved," the broadcast added. "Only the other day, Hoover proposed to refuse loans to those countries that do not agree to comply with the political demands of the United States."

[On Sept. 17 Mr. Hoover urged that the disposition of lend-lease and other war-period debts be postponed until "five years hence, when the shape of the world is more clear. We cannot today afford having our resources used to keep up armies, to engage in non-productive enterprises, to pay debts to other countries, to go into business abroad in competition with us or to pay for propaganda to upset our Government," he declared.]

The broadcast said that the "isolationists" were now "conducting a spurious campaign against the democratic Governments of Bulgaria, Rumania and Yugoslavia, calling for their boycott."

Russian Assails Foreign 'Cynics'

Moscow, Nov. 5 (AP)—David Zaslavsky, one of Russia's outstanding writers, today charged that "cynics" in both the United States and Europe were following the "fetish of the atomic bomb" instead of believing in the possibility of permanent peace.

Zaslavsky, stating his views in the Communist newspaper Pravda, assailed "rescuers" of war-ravaged Europe "who will come with healing medicine in one hand and a bill in the other."

"There are many cynics in Europe and America," said Zaslavsky, "with whole colonies of malignant bacilli . . . who instead of believing in a lasting peace, follow a fetish of the atomic bomb."

This cynicism, he continued, "is the indifference of exhausted people to their fate. People of this kind of a spiritual state cannot and don't want to toil. They are corroded with doubt."

"Some (cynics) are sitting in big newspapers from where they try to spread their mood over the world," Zaslavsky added.

Accused Men Reply

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 (AP)—Senator Wheeler said today that "Russia and her satellites are the greatest isolationists in the world today."

He made this comment in an interview on the Moscow broadcast denouncing "American isolationists." He added:

"I am definitely in favor of cooperation among the great powers to prevent future wars, but cooperation is a two-way street. To speak of the Governments of Bulgaria, Rumania and Yugoslavia as democratic today is a huge joke. Every intelligent person who knows what is going on in those countries knows they have one of the most cruel forms of dictatorship ever imposed on a civilized people.

"If to be opposed to giving away the United States taxpayers' money to pay debts of other countries, to furnishing them our money to keep up large armies, to completely tearing down our tariff barriers and our immigration laws, and to dividing up the wealth of this country is to be isolationist, then I am perfectly willing to be called isolationist."

Senator Taft said:

"The statement made by the Communist Red Fleet magazine that I am in favor of using our economic might as a means of exerting pressure on other countries is the exact opposite of the truth. I am complimented to be singled out by name as an opponent of communism and to have my name associated with that of Mr. Hoover in this attack."

In New York, Mr. Hoover issued this statement:

"If advocating human freedom, justice, the compliance with agreement, the use of American resources to relieve suffering and their use exclusively to rebuild productivity in the world is isolationism, then the word has a new and noble meaning. If Russia is willing to cooperate to those ends, I welcome it."

BRITISH WARNED FUTURE AIR RAIDS NOT IMPOSSIBLE

LONDON, Nov. 5. — (AP) Home Secretary James Chuter Ede today warned the British people against believing that they never again would be subject to air attack, and urged that the nation's wartime civil defense organization be kept up to date to meet any future needs.

He asked the House of Commons to support a bill which would suspend, rather than repeal, Britain's civil defense acts of 1937 and 1939. The home secretary declared it was necessary to study the need for modifications to meet requirements "should the country be again attacked by air.

Heeding his warning, the lawmakers passed the measure on second reading without a dissenting voice.

Ede spoke a short time after Laborite Tom Stokes demanded that "representations" be made to Russia against a reported plan to expel 4,500,000 Germans from the Russian occupation zone of Germany into the British zone. Hector McNeil, parliamentary secretary of state for foreign affairs, said the government had no knowledge of the reported plan, but that it had "called for an immediate report."

Earlier a British business leader declared that Germany now has "three times more machinery than she had in 1929 x x x and it would not take her very long to get ready for a new adventure she may care to embark upon."

In a letter to the London Times, Lincoln Evans, assistant general secretary of the British Iron and Steel Trades Federation, said:

"We should not forget that German industry was the basis upon which her aggressive policy was founded and it was largely founded to execute this policy."

Ede announced that Britain had sent commissions to Germany to study "saturation attacks of all kinds and the way in which German (air raid) services functioned" and that scientists had been sent to Japan to investigate the effects of the atomic bomb.

"In due course," he declared, "we should know more of civil defense requirements and the best methods of dealing with air attacks. These investigations are now proceeding."

The home secretary repeatedly emphasized the necessity of keeping civil defense abreast of progressing methods of death from the skies. The Japanese study was the only specfic reference made to the atomic bomb.

U.S. AND BRITAIN AGREE ON PLAN TO FREE TRADE

Reported Understanding Is Held Forerunner to Loan Program.

FUND PUT AT 3.5 TO 5 BILLION

Negotiations on Financial Aid Involve Deals to Solve Other Problems.

Washington, Nov. 5 (A. P.).—The United States and Great Britain were reported today to have agreed on a sweeping program for removing restraints on world trade.

This is the immediate forerunner, officials predict, of another agreement on United States financial assistance to Britain. A review of the financial negotiations showed today that the sum probably will be between $3,500,000,000 and $5,000,000,000.

The terms are understood to include: A 2 per cent interest rate; repayment in fifty years, beginning five years after the actual making of the loan. (This five-year span is to allow the British to get back on their feet.) And, lastly, a provision that any time the British Empire fails to take in sufficient funds, its payment for that year may be delayed.

The British negotiators, Lord Keynes and Lord Halifax, transmitted these terms to London about ten days ago. So far as could be learned over the week end, they are waiting for a final decision by the Government.

Favor $5,000,000,000 Maximum.

American negotiators say they would like to establish a maximum $5,000,000,000 for the British here. During the next five years, the British would use only what they needed. But the Americans have concluded that Congress will agree only to a loan which the British can prove they actually need.

Therefore, the Americans tentatively have worked out a minimum figure of $3,500,000,000. Above that would be an additional credit resulting from the post lend-lease shipment of goods to Britain. This is continuing pending final settlement of the loan problem, and the two items together may amount to around $4,500,000,000.

When the British asked for the loan, the Americans responded with a demand that the British break up various trade restraints which United States officials and business men do not like. The British ask tariff reductions in return.

Both Sides Horse Trading.

It was learned that the British agreed to the principle of cutting out the Empire preference system of tariff, but pointed out that it would take some time to accomplish this. Indications were that American officials agreed to work on further tariff reductions, too. It is understood that the British also plan to abandon the empire dollar pool.

In addition to the financial talks, Anglo-American negotiations are still pending on two other subjects—final settlement of lend-lease and disposal of surplus war properties in foreign countries. These are largely technical and are complicated by the lack of accurate inventories.

WORLD YOUTH PARLEY LISTS ECONOMIC NEEDS

LONDON, Nov. 5 (AP)—The world youth conference demanded in a resolution tonight a post-war program for young people of the world that would give them free medical care, higher education at government expense, a maximum forty-four-hour work week and two weeks' vacation with pay.

During the day, a group of five British organizations issue a statement declaring they had refused to send delegates to the meeting because they were waiting for a conference "not on an anti-fascist basis," but more representative of all types of world youth.

The conference defeated, at the behest of opposition led by United States delegates, a British-Canadian proposal that the conference support state financial aid to parochial schools.

Elizabeth Green, 19, of Boston, Mass., representing American Unitarian youth, warned in opposing the proposal that "a few powerful conservative religions would gain control of such funds."

She was supported by Olivia Stokes of New York City, representing the Christian Youth Council of New York, who said:

"Freedom of conscience must be preserved. The teaching of religion has nothing to do with the state."

Briton Wants Protest Of Reputed Russ Plan

London, Nov. 5 (AP)—Laborite Tom Stokes demanded today that Great Britain make "representations" to Russia against the reported expulsion of Germans from the Soviet to the British occupation zone.

His speech in Commons came after Hector McNeil, parliamentary under secretary of the Foreign Office, said the Government has no "official knowledge" of a reported decision of the Russian Government to expel 4,500,000 Germans from the Soviet occupation area. He added that Foreign Secretary Bevin "has called for an immediate report."

New Government Fumbling: Churchill

London, Nov. 5 (AP)—Winston Churchill accused the Labor Government today of "fumbling ineffectively" with national problems of demobilization, housing, reconversion and recovery of trade.

His views were expressed in a letter to Harold MacMillen, Conservative candidate in a Bromley byelection.

"The socialist Government has displayed a greater readiness to arm itself with autocratic powers than to grapple with matters vital to the nation's existence," he wrote.

"It dilates upon its grandiose plans for a visionary future while fumbling ineffectively with the practical problems."

Churchill Gets Title 'Engineer of Victory'

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 5—A journalist by training, statesman by career and bricklayer by hobby, Winston Churchill acquired a new title today—"Engineer of Victory."

Announcing election of the former Prime Minister to an honorary fellowship in the Society of Engineers, Frank Parfett, president, said the title "Engineer of Victory" was justified by the great contribution of engineering to the war effort under Mr. Churchill's leadership.

Britain May Control Private Hospitals

London, Nov. 5 (A. P.).—Legislation to bring Britain's independently operated hospitals under State control was predicted in parliamentary circles today as the next objective of the new Labor Government in its expanding nationalization program. The measure probably will be introduced soon after Parliament's Christmas holidays as part of a comprehensive national health plan now being drafted.

Empire Preferences Backed By Canadian

London, Nov. 5 (AP)—Lord Bennett, former Canadian Prime Minister, told an American Chamber of Commerce meeting today that the United States was asking too much in demanding that Britain abandon empire preferences.

"By empire preferences we are endeavoring to maintain our family lives," he said. "Is it not fair that members of a family should give a little better deal to one another than to strangers?"

Britain to Get German Plants

LONDON, Nov. 5 (AP).—Sir Stafford Cripps, president of the Board of Trade, told Commons today that the Labor government is planning to transplant "certain German plants and machinery" to Britain. The amount, he added, will be determined by Feb. 7.

France In Dark On Council Plans

Paris, Nov. 5 (AP)—A French spokesman said today his Government had received no official word that the Allies had decided to exclude France from Allied Control Council plans for a central administration of Germany.

30.24 — 31427

A Berlin story quoting an official informant said that France's opposition to a central administration for the beaten Reich would not deter the United States, Great Britain and Russia from proceeding with such a plan.

French Claim Stand Clear

The French spokesman said France has made clear that she is not unalterably opposed to the Allied plan, but that France wants her program for internationalizing the Ruhr and detaching the Rhineland from Germany discussed before a decision is reached.

Provision for eventual establishment of a central government for Germany was contained in the Potsdam declaration, to which France was not a signatory. France is a member, however, of the four-power council controlling Germany.

Might Freeze France From Setup

Unanimous agreement is necessary among the four occupying powers on any action taken by the council, but zone commanders may make bilateral agreements among themselves. If France refuses to agree to the central government the other Allies will proceed with the plan on a bilateral basis, it is understood in Berlin.

If this is done it would freeze France out of the central administrative setup and leave a barrier between the French occupation zone and the rest of Germany.

The Berlin informant said that while no ultimatum has been served upon the French "the cards have been laid on the table on a take-it-or-leave-it basis."

I. L. O. Severs Ties With Geneva League

Paris, Nov. 5 (A. P.).—The International Labor Organization voted 116 to 0 today for a revision of its constitution, severing all ties with the old League of Nations and clearing the way for an application for affiliation with the United Nations Organization.

GI's Off Limits In Le Havre

Paris, Nov. 5 (AP)—All of Le Havre except Red Cross and army clubs has been placed off limits to American troops, effective today, as result of clashes between United States soldiers and French civilians, the Stars and Stripes' Paris edition reported today.

The Army newspaper said the order followed two months of increasing violence, including assaults and shootings. Last Friday the French newspaper Havre Libre published an editorial stating that local residents felt unsafe after dark on the streets of the port city, a major staging area for United States-bound troops.

Col. Thomas J. Weed, United States commandant, issued the off-limits order. The Stars and Stripes said it banned soldiers in nearby camps from entering the city unless in groups supervised by an officer. The paper reported all cafes, restaurants, liquor stores, hotels and private homes were forbidden ground.

Army Imposes G. I. Curfew in Le Havre Area

Drastic Curbs Follow 9 Days of Violence Between Soldiers and Civilians

LE HAVRE, France, Nov. 5 (AP).—The Army imposed drastic restrictions on American soldiers in the Le Havre area today as a result of what the Army newspaper "Stars and Stripes" described as two months of increasing violence there involving G. I.'s and French civilians.

The entire city of Le Havre, except Red Cross and Army clubs, was placed off limits to American troops between 6 p. m. and 6 a. m., and Army personnel was barred from all cafes, restaurants, liquor stores, hotels and private homes.

The restrictions were ordered by Colonel Thomas J. Weed, American commandant at the port, following nine successive days of assaults and shootings and an editorial appeal by the local French daily "Le Havre Libre" to American authorities to do something about "the insecurity of our streets" after dark.

British military personnel and civilians in the Le Havre area attached to or working with the Americans were included in the order. Soldiers in camps near Le Havre awaiting shipment home will be allowed in the city only in organized groups under the command of an officer.

The number of soldiers at the port varies from 40,000 to 100,000, depending upon the shipping situation. In addition, there are about 30,000 "static" personnel here operating the port.

The violence was attributed to homesickness and lack of restraint on the part of the American troops and to growing resentment on the part of French civilians in this three-quarter-destroyed, overcrowded city.

Goering, Ribbentrop Aimed To Smash Czechoslovakia

By DANIEL DE LUCE
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BERLIN, Nov. 5—(AP) The two Nazi highbinders, Hermann Goering and Joachim von Ribbentrop, even while greasing the skids for Austria's demise, were laying their lines for an even greater coup—the smashing of Czechoslovakia.

Glib Ribbentrop, the champagne salesman who was made Hitler's Foreign Minister only a month before, was in London where he breakfasted with Prime Minister Chamberlain and smoothly lied that the Austrian Anchluss meant no threat to Czechoslovakia.

Gives British Cue

Preparing the way for Munich, he repeatedly gave the British a cue—the hint of a "German-British understanding."

Pudgy Goering, rhapsodizing over the blue sky in Berlin on the March 13 morning in 1938 when Hitler was proclaiming that Austria henceforth would be the German Ostmark, prompted Ribbentrop on other lies he should tell.

Rather testily, Ribbentrop replied that most of this propaganda already had been imparted to the British in a "grand conversation" with Lord Halifax, then Foreign Secretary. He added that he had received an "excellent impression" of the attitude of the late Neville Chamberlain.

Ribbentrop wanted to come back to Berlin, apparently to share the limelight, but Goering insisted he stay on the job in London.

Goering could not resist gloating that Hitler had left him in the "key position" in Berlin while going off to Austria to receive Nazi plaudits, overshadowed. The Fuehrer was greatly moved when he talked to me last night. Imagine, it was the first time he had seen his homeland again. Now I chiefly want to talk about political things. The story there that we had given an ultimatum is naturally foolish gossip x x x Whether by Schuschnigg's (Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg of Austria) direct order or with his knowledge the Communists and Reds had been armed and were already making demonstrations which were photographed, with 'Heil Moscow' and so on. x x x"

Goering—"Seyss-Inquart (Arthur Seyss-Inquart, the Austrian Nazi who seized power when Schuschnigg resigned) who was already in the government liked us to march in at once. We had already marched up to the frontier because we could not know whether there would be civil war or not. (The telephone records showed Goering dictated the telegram Seyss-Inquart was to send asking for German troops). These are facts which can be proved by documents. The sympathy for National Socialism (in Austria) is complete, and to us, surprising. In the Fatherland Front (Schuschnigg's party) there were about 80 per cent honorable National Socialists. Actually these were all our people. That is the explanation for the wonderful behavior which surprised even us. But is true—except for the Jews in Vienna, apart from these black ravens no one is seen who is against us."

Austria 'On Our Side'

Ribbentrop—"It seems all of Austria is thus far on our side."

Goering—"If there were an election tomorrow—I already have told Seyss-Inquart he should quietly invite representatives of the democratic powers really to convince themselves this election will be on a completely democratic basis—we would get 90 per cent of the yes votes in Austria. Absolutely! x x x"

Ribbentrop—"The situation here is, for the moment they have had a great surprise. But generally they are looking at things with common sense. x x x"

Goering—"The election will take place after our troops are back. Our troops are coming back in the next few days. x x x I would simply propose to Halifax that a couple of really first rate people whom he trusts should be sent by him so they can see the picture. I must say, yesterday you know, when they were saying there the most serious things, war and so forth, I had to laugh lightly because where could be found the conscienceless statesman who would send millions of people to death again because two German brother peoples were once more together. x x x"

Ribbentrop — "Yes that is absolutely laughable. It is also realized here. One knows here, I believe, rather exactly what is going on."

Goering—"x x x I should like to emphasize what the Czech minister who was with me yesterday explained, the rumors that Czechia had mobilized were made completely out of thin air, and they would be satisfied with my word I would not undertake the lightest thing against Czechia."

Farewells All Paid

Ribbentrop—"I was going to fly off. I paid my farewells the day before yesterday to all sides."

Goering—"But the Fuehrer intended, because you are over there, that you would explain how things really are. Above all that it is completely wrong to think Germany gave an ultimatum."

Ribbentrop — "The explanation was plainly given when I spoke very intimately with Halifax and Chamberlain."

Goering—"I hadn't known whether you had spoken with the people already. I wish you would once more, not once more but in general, tell Halifax and Chamberlain the following: It is not correct that Germany gave an ultimatum. That is a Schuschnigg lie because the ultimatum was given to him by Seyss-Imquart, Glaise-Horstenau (Edmund Glaise-Horstenau, Austrian Pan-German in Schuschnigg's cabinet who became vice chancellor after Hitler's coup), and jury (Hugo Jury, later a minister in Seyss-Inquart's cabinet). There was, I believe, a military attache with them, requested by Seyss-Inquart becauseof a technical situation—he was there only to ask, in case Seyss-Inquart requested the support of German troops, permission for them to march in."

Ribbentrop—"Herr Goering, how is it with Vienna, is it all clear there now?"

Goering—"Yes. Yesterday I landed hundreds of airplanes with some companies to secure the airport and they were received with jubilation. Today the first of the 17th division will march in together with Austrian troops. The Austrian troops did not withdraw but everywhere at their stations and in their garrisons they fraternized immediately with German troops."

Ribbentrop—"That clearly was to be expected."

Goering—"x x x We threaten in no way the CSR (Czechoslovak Republic). But the CSR on the contrary has now the opportunity to arrive at a friendly, reasonable relationship with us. Everything is on the supposition that France remains reasonable and does nothing. Naturally if France were to carry out a great mobilization on the frontier then it might become very merry."

Long Talk with Halifax

Ribbentrop—"I had a long conversation with Halifax and told him our principal opinions, also regarding a German-English understanding."

Goering—"You know yourself, Ribbentrop, that I always stood for a most warm German-English understanding. If the English want a really honorable understanding and if the English recognize reciprocally that we also are a proud, free people then nobody could be more glad than I. For at least we are two brother peoples."

Ribbentrop—"I can tell you one thing, Herr Goering, I talked with Chamberlain at breakfast. Right after leaving the table. I got a very good impression of him, and he requested me to give a message to the Fuehrer which I will deliver to the Fuehrer personally. You will be in Berlin this afternoon."

Goering—"I will be in Berlin today. I have the Heroes Memorial day. (Goering spoke at the traditional German Memorial day exercises in Berlin in the place of Hitler.)

Ribbentrop—"I can't tell you this so well over the telephone but it's best I depart today."

Goering—"I leave that to you."

Ribbentrop — "My conversations are concluded and if I sat around further it would look so comic. But I got a really excellent impression of Chamberlain."

Goering—"That pleases me."

Ribbentrop—"I won't talk about it to you over the telephone but I got the impression Chamberlain also has the honorable will for an understanding. I told him in this interview that after removing Austrian problems from the world the undertsanding between Germany and England would be easier than before. I believe he comprehended that."

Britain Restricts Yank Writers

Berlin, Nov. 5 (AP)—The British Army press camp has formally notified American correspondents filing news dispatches from Berlin for distribution to newspapers in the United Kingdom that they may use British communications only as "a courtesy" during "clear time."

The notice was issued after the Associated Press complained that a dispatch by Edward D. Ball on a British press conference about Hitler's supposed death was logged in chronological order by the British copyroom last Thursday night, but actually was not transmitted until all stories written by British correspondents later during the evening had been sent.

Also For Relay To U.S.

Ball's report was intended for distribution to all newspapers receiving the Associated Press service in the United Kingdom, as well as for relay to the United States.

By contrast with the preferential operation of the British communications setup, three American commercial radio companies here accord British correspondents access to their facilities on a basis of equality with American correspondents.

British communications here are operated by the Army and users pay charges to the general post office in London.

Equal Privileges On July 3

When correspondents of the western Allies entered Berlin in a body on July 3, all were granted equal privileges regardless of whether they filed by American or British channels.

Capt. C. P. M. R. Morse, British communications officer, was unable to show the Associated Press any written order upon which the Berlin rules were based but said:

Morse's records showed that British communications personnel did not start transmitting Ball's copy until five hours after they received it.

ALLIES MAY SEIZE GERMANS' ASSETS

Berlin, Nov. 5 (A. P.).—The vast assets which Germans hold abroad—estimated at perhaps $1,000,000,000—may be confiscated under an edict issued by the Allied Control Council.

The council yesterday set up a four-Power German external property commission to seize or gain control of the holdings, which are believed to be concentrated chiefly in Spain, Argentina, Sweden and Switzerland. In effect, neutral Powers will be asked to recognize the council as the government of Germany and thus entitled to German external assets.

The new commission was vested with "all rights, titles and interests" in the foreign properties.

Austrians and citizens of other occupied countries were exempted, as were German assets in the United States, the U. S. S. R., the United Kingdom and British Dominions, and France.

Big 3 Plans New Rule In Reich

Berlin, Nov. 5 (AP)—The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union will proceed with plans for a central administration for Germany without French participation if France persists in her opposition to central rule, an official informant said today.

The Potsdam declaration provided that a central government eventually would be established. The French, who were not signatories to the document, are demanding internationalization of the Ruhr and Rhineland. They also want to see Germany dismembered into economic bits and not rebuilt into an economic entity.

Must Be Unanimous

Under the Allied setup, unanimous agreement is necessary among the four occupying powers on any action taken by the control council. However, zone commanders may make bilateral agreements among themselves. It is understood this is what the three powers intend to do if France refuses to go along.

In effect, this would freeze France out of the central administrative setup and leave a barrier between the French occupation zone and the rest of Germany.

In one sense, such three-power action would be what the French want, since they have expressed a desire to integrate their zone economically—if not politically—with France.

The official informant said that nothing like an ultimatum had been served upon the French but that "the cards have been laid on the table on a take-it-or-leave-it basis." He predicted a showdown would come shortly.

The impasse over French opposition is based on fear of an aggressive Germany which might develop in the future. It is understood to have been one of the main reasons for the current trip to the United States by Lieut. Gen. Lucius D. Clay and Ambassador Robert D. Murphy.

Upon their return, quick action is anticipated to settle the issue.

Meanwhile, the vast assets which Germans hold abroad—estimated to total perhaps $1,000,000,000—may be confiscated under an edict issued by the Allied control council.

Reich May Get Civilian Rule By Feb. 1

Washington, Nov. 5 (AP)—The United States expects to convert the administration of government in the American zone of occupation in Germany to civilian status by February 1, Lieut. Gen. Lucius T. Clay said today.

The deputy military governor of the American zone, back in the United States for a visit, told a news conference that it was certain civil administration for the entire zone could be instituted by June 1 and that "we believe we can do it sooner." The American zone is made up of the states of Bavaria, Wurtenberg and Grosse Hessen.

Subject Of Consultation

The question of installing civilian government is now the subject of consultation among the four Allied powers, Clay said. He explained that the Potsdam agreement requires four-power consultation before any one of the powers could end military rule and install civil administration in its zone. Clay asserted, however, he believed there would be no difficulty in getting an agreement for the United States to institute civil government in its zone.

Clay said the American military government has asked the War Department for 300,000 tons of food to carry the German population through to the next harvest. This amount would be in addition to 200,000 tons on hand left over from military operations in the closing days of the war.

McCloy's Views

The general said it is contemplated that Germany will pay for the food, but for the present it must be financed out of War Department funds. The cost is estimated roughly at $100 a ton, or a total of $50,000,000.

At another news conference Assistant Secretary of War John J. McCloy said he favors civil government for Germany, "but not just immediately."

McCloy, just back from a visit to the European and Pacific theaters for a study of occupation problems, voiced his views at a news conference.

No Sign Of Uprising Seen

While in Germany, he said he saw no signs of an uprising, but that was several weeks ago. He said he had not yet seen the reports turned in by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who last week told of considerable unrest among German youths and discharged soldiers.

McCloy said he saw a great deal of destruction in Japan. It differs from that in Germany. Japan's flimsy houses suffered severely in the fire bombings, he said, while in Germany the shells of burned-out buildings still stand.

Jackson Sees Trial Dress Rehearsal

Nuernberg, Germany, Nov. 5 (AP). Supreme Court Justice Robert Jackson witnessed a dress rehearsal for the Nuernberg trial of Germany's war criminals today.

Accompanied by his executive officer, Col. Robert J. Gill, the chief United States prosecutors inspected the trial room in the Palace of Justice and heard stand-ins for judges, attorneys and witnesses go through a prepared script before microphones.

The mock trial was the first of several scheduled to make sure there are no kinks in the elaborate mechanical system by which the proceedings will be conducted in four languages.

Bormann Status

It was reported today that the name of Martin Bormann will probably be stricken from the list of 24 defendants when the trial opens on the presumption he is dead.

Seventeen members of the United Nations have approved the charter establishing the International Military Tribunal to try the chief Nazis. These countries are the United States, Britain, Russia, France, Greece, Denmark, the Netherlands, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Haiti, Poland, Belgium, Ethiopia, Australia, Honduras, Norway and Panama.

Delay Possible

The United States will be ready to proceed with the trial on schedule on November 20, but the opening day may be delayed beyond that date by defense requests for additional time to prepare, Jackson said.

Jackson said legal representatives for some defendants are expected to request more time in which to prepare their cases. Five defendants, he pointed out, are still without counsel.

U. S. ASKED TO SEND FOOD TO REICH ZONE

American Authorities Suggest German Reparations Pay for 300,000 Tons

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 (AP)—American military authorities in Germany have asked the War Department to supply 300,000 tons of food for the civilian population in the American zone.

Lieut. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, deputy military governor, said today that food was not obtainable in Europe "in any substantial amounts." Occupation authorities have therefore asked that the Army finance shipments from this country, making Germany pay for the supplies later in reparations.

The 300,000 tons would be added to about 200,000 tons left over when military operations in Germany ceased. General Clay estimated that this total of 500,000 tons would suffice to maintain a daily calory rate of 1,550 for the civilian population until the next harvest. In the American zone, planting is expected to be about 95 per cent of normal, but because of the scarcity of fertilizers the actual production will probably be only 75 to 80 per cent, he said.

General Clay seemed satisfied with the progress of the program to convert the government in the zone from military to civilian. By Feb. 1, he said, it is expected that civilian administraton, now confined to the local levels of government, will be expanded to provide civilian direction for the three State Governments in the American zone—Bavaria, Wuerttemburg and Greater Hesse. He expressed the belief that it would be possible to install civilian government for the over-all administration of the zone even earlier than the June 1 date mentioned by President Truman and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Few Russian Solders Marrying Fraulein

Berlin, Nov. 5 (AP)—Russian soldiers fraternize with German fraulein but they are not marrying them, Col. J. Stepanov, Red Army deputy member of Berlin's Kommandantur, said today.

There is a marriage registry at Russian headquarters in suburban Karlshorst where anyone can file intent to marry but no one has applied, he said.

"There isn't one reason why a Russian soldier should marry a German girl," he said. "But there are lots of reasons why he shouldn't—great differences in languages and culture, plenty of Russian girls looking for husbands, and the fact a Russian soldier may be here today and in Siberia tomorrow."

Russians In Berlin Ready To Celebrate

Berlin, Nov. 5 (AP)—Russians started draping the city in red today in anticipation of Wednesday's observance of the "October Revolution," the first of its kind to be held in Berlin.

Soviet kommandatur buildings were decorated with red streamers, and huge portraits of Stalin and Lenin.

ADMINISTERS CAMPS

BAD TOLZ, Germany, Nov. 5—(AP) The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration has taken over the internal administration of 212 displaced persons camps containing 248,179 Allied Nationals in Bavaria, Lt. Gen. Lucian K. Truscott, Jr., said today. The military government which has been sharing administrative responsibility with UNRRA will continue to handle supply, communications and transport for the camps, he said. Only six camps will be retained under control of the Third Army which handled more than 4,000,000 homeless persons in its sweep across Europe.

Factory Demolition Start Set

Bad Tolz, Germany, Nov. 5 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Lucian K. Truscott, Jr., said today that demolition of former German munitions plants will begin November 12 with the blowing up of a smokeless powder factory at Kaufbeuren. Another at Ebenhausen will be blown up November 13.

Patton to Visit Brussels.

Brussels, Nov. 5 (A. P.).—Gen. George S. Patton, commander of the United States Fifteenth Army, will visit the Belgian capital November 14. Plans call for him to be received by Regent Prince Charles and decorated with a high Belgian order.

Whole World Is Asked To Aid Czechoslovakia

Prague, Nov. 5 (AP)—Appealing to the entire world for aid, Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk today declared that danger of famine and disease confronts Czechoslovakia with the approach of winter.

He said 700,000 children were undernourished and half of these already were suffering from tuberculosis.

BRITISH LEAVE DENMARK

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 5. — (AP) British garrison troops departed from several points in Denmark today for Germany, leaving behind them only a military mission in Copenhagen, small RAF personnel and a few scattered platoons.

FRANCO NOTE HINTED

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Nov. 5.—(AP) Sources close to Don Juan, heir apparent to the Spanish throne, said today that a note was about to be delivered to Gen. Francisco Franco, advising him that the prince may issue a formal anti-Franco manifesto in London.

Mannerheim Off To Visit Portugal

Stockholm, Nov. 5 (A. P.).—President Baron Gustaf Mannerheim of Finland arrived here today aboard the Finnish steamship Wellamo en route to Portugal for his health.

Italian Red Escapes Fascist Kidnapers

Rome, Nov. 5 (A. P.).—Communist Leader Luigi Longo narrowly escaped being kidnaped near Grossetto yesterday by three armed men who identified themselves as Fascists, the newspaper La Nazione del Popolo said.

Longo was in the first of two cars proceeding along a country road when the second car was halted by a pistol shot, the newspaper said. The men said they were looking for Longo and when they did not find him, they stole the car and stripped the passengers.

ITALY TO BUY OIL

Rome, Nov. 5 (A. P.).—The United States embassy disclosed today that Allied policy had been changed to permit Italy to buy all the oil products for which she could pay and for which shipping is available.

Previously, Italy was allowed only enough petroleum products to prevent disease and unrest. The Allies previously had supplied Italy with about 40 per cent of her 1938-1939 consumption which was regarded as normal.

Yugoslavs Cheer Fall of Monarchy

Belgrade, Nov. 5 (A. P.).—One hundred thousand people turned out for the biggest mass meeting in Belgrade's history today and cheered Republican Leader Jasha Prodanovitch when he declared that "I am convinced the monarchy will never be revived from its deep grave." Representatives of all political groups in the People's Front spoke.

RUSSIA PLANS CELEBRATION

28th Anniversary Of 'October Revolution' Is Wednesday

Moscow, Nov. 5 (AP)—The Soviet capital took on a gay holiday air tonight as Moscow's millions prepared for the holiest of national days, the celebration Wednesday of the twenty-eighth anniversary of the "October Revolution."

Generalissimo Stalin is expected to launch the celebration tomorrow with his traditional anniversary eve address.

Informed circles said tonight that Stalin had returned to Moscow, ending his vacation of almost a month. Stalin was reported to be in good health and considerably rested.

On Vacation At Resort

The Soviet leader has been on vacation at a Black Sea resort. He was visited there October 26 and 27 by United States Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, and an exchange of views between Stalin and President Truman was effected through Harriman.

Harriman, on his return to Moscow, definitely spiked rumors that Stalin was sick. The United States Ambassador said Stalin was in good health, and appeared greatly refreshed by the vacation, his first since the war.

Moscow Streets Decorated

Harriman spent the two days with Stalin in the latter's villa near Sochi. Well-informed sources here said the conversations produced results which may have an important bearing on future collaboration among the Allies.

Meanwhile, in preparation for the celebration the Russians decorated Moscow's streets with red bunting, and hung red cardboard stars bordered with green from fir trees and lamp posts.

Pictures of Stalin and other Soviet leaders were being placed on every public building.

Russ To Celebrate Revolution Day

Moscow, Nov. 5 (AP)—The Soviet Union decked itself in red bunting today as its millions of citizens, bound by stronger ties of patriotism than ever before, prepared to celebrate the twenty-eighth anniversary of the October revolution.

The ceremonies are expected to begin tomorrow night with a speech by Generalissimo Stalin, who traditionally addresses himself to the Soviet people on the eve of the anniversary.

The celebration commemorates the Bolshevik uprising which overthrew the Kerensky Government. The event is called the October revolution because, according to the Julian calendar in use in 1917, it took place on October 25. According to the present calendar the date is November 7.

HUNGARY GOES CONSERVATIVE

IN ELECTIONS

First General Vote Held In Russian-Occupied Area Since War

Budapest, Nov. 5 (AP)—The moderately conservative Small Holders party tonight had won 58 per cent of the more than 4,000,000 votes cast in yesterday's national parliamentary elections, with more than three fourths of all the ballots counted.

It appeared the Small Holders party majority would hold at about that figure and win for them a sweeping victory in the first general elections held in Soviet-occupied eastern Europe since the war's end.

Former Premier Selected

The laborite Social Democrats were running second with about 22 per cent of the vote and the Communists had about 14 per cent.

The rightist Christian Democratic party and other groups received neglible votes.

Among the prominent men selected for Parliament were Count Michael Karolyi, former Premier now living in London; Zoltan Kodaly, composer; Col. Gen. Bela Miklos, retiring Prime Minister, and Prof. Albert Szentgyorgyi, Nobel prize winner for vitamin studies.

Middle-Of-Road Group

The Small Holders party is a middle-of-the-road group, made up of shopkeepers, small landowners and professional men.

A complete count will be delayed until returns are in from all the county's sixteen national voting districts.

The overwhelming victory of the Small Holders will place them in a dominant position in the Hungarian Parliament, and undoubtedly will result in the formation of a new government. Whether the party will attempt to form a coalition Cabinet or one of its own members, could not be determined immediately.

Confer On New Cabinet

It was regarded as certain, however, that Zoltan Tildy, Methodist minister and head of the Small Holders party, would succeed Bela Miklos as Premier. The Small Holders also were expected to place one of their men in the key position of under secretary of state, who controls the Hungarian police.

Party leaders already were conferring on the new Cabinet, and were expected to announce its formation as soon as final election returns were in.

Outside Opinion Heeded

There was every evidence that the elections were conducted in complete freedom. Voting was quiet and orderly, with only a few instances of violence. It appeared, therefore, that Hungary had removed one of the obstacles delaying full recognition and the restoration of normal diplomatic relations with the United States and Great Britain.

[The United States already has approved the appointment of Aladar Szegedy-Maszak as Hungarian Minister to Washington. This is still short of full normal recognition, since Hungary is a former enemy state with which no peace treaty has yet been concluded. Both the United States and Great Britain have indicated they would not recognize governments of former enemy countries unless they were chosen in free elections.]

Regard for American and British public opinion caused political leaders in Hungary to abandon an earlier proposal, under which all the parties would have agreed on a single slate of parliamentary candidates. This plan was suggested by Marshal Klementi Vorosilov, head of the Russian occupation army, to avoid threatened violence between the Communists and the Small Holders.

Instead of following this plan, each of the country's major parties entered slates.

1 Dead, Many Hurt in Trieste

TRIESTE, Nov. 5 (AP)—Thirty-eight persons were held by Allied police today on charges of participating in week-end riots between Italian and Yugoslav factions, in which one person was bludgeoned to death and many were injured. Uncertain calm finally was restored by British and American troops who are occupying this city, claimed by both Italy and Yugoslavia.

PALESTINE CURFEW EXTENDED TO ROADS

Night Auto Traffic Is Banned Outside Towns—Gort Leaves on Return to London

JERUSALEM, Nov. 5 (AP)—Palestine authorities tonight extended a precautionary motor traffic curfew, banning all movements outside municipal boundaries from 6 P. M. to 5:30 A. M., in a move to forestall fresh outbreakr in the Holy Land.

A curfew order issued yesterday by Maj. Gen. C. F. Loewen, British military commander in the northern area, commanded all persons in the port of Haifa, in nearby refinery areas and in specific sections between Haifa and Tel Aviv to remain indoors between 5:30 P. M. and 5:30 A. M.

Police announced that a further investigation of a reported exchange of shots at the Haifa Royal Navy depot yesterday had proved that all the shooting was done by guards, and that there was no trace of persons having fired on the depot from the perimeter fence, as originally reported.

The administration of Palestine's Government was taken over today by Chief Secretary J. V. W. Shaw after the departure for London by plane of Viscount Gort, who resigned as High Commissioner because of ill health. No successor to Lord Gort has been announced.

[In London today, Prime Minister Attlee refused a request that he make a statement of the British Government's policy on Palestine immigration before he leaves for a visit to Washington.]

Palestine and Cairo Quiet Down

Curfew in Force at Trouble Spots—Arab Offers Plan for Jewish Immigration.

Jerusalem, Nov. 5 (A. P.).—A precautionary dusk-to-dawn curfew was in force at Palestine trouble spots today after a quiet week end in which there was no recurrence of last week's Arab-Jewish disturbances.

Major-Gen. C. F. Loewen, military commander of the northern area, issued the curfew order. It commanded all persons living in specified sections between Tel Aviv and Haifa, as well as residents of the Haifa port and refinery areas, to remain indoors between 5:30 P. M. and 5:30 A. M.

The only new incident reported yesterday occurred when six persons were detected tampering with the fence at the Royal Navy depot near Haifa. They fled after an interchange of shots with guards. There were no casualties.

[Cairo also was reported calm. There was only one small anti-Zionist demonstration yesterday and police quickly broke it up. However, dispatches said that 1,000 persons were under arrest as an aftermath of rioting Friday and Saturday.]

A conciliatory voice was raised over the week end when Musa Bey El Alami, Palestine delegate to the Pan-Arab League, said that the Arab people would agree to additional Jewish immigration into Palestine if an impartial United Nations body decided the country's economy could carry the load and if all Allied nations also agreed to accept Jewish immigrants.

The spokesman explained that the Arabs object not to "the Jews as such" but to political Zionism. He criticized the Jews for segregating themselves into "water-tight Jewish communities."

3 Indian National Army Leaders Put On Trial

New Delhi, Nov. 5 (AP)—The trial of three former leaders of the Indian National Army on charges of murder and of joining with the Japanese began today before an Indian general court-martial.

There were indications, however, that a three-week adjournment may be granted tomorrow to allow defense counsel to continue preparation of its case.

Sympathizers outside shouted "patriots, not traitors." Nine of India's prominent lawyers, including Jawaharlal Nehru, former president of the All-India Congress party, are defending the men.

100,000 GI's Will Leave India-Burma Theater

New Delhi, Nov. 5 (AP)—United States Army headquarters today said approximately 100,000 American troops would be evacuated from the India-Burma theater within three months. Some 123,000, including 20,000 from China, were sent home by November 1.

The schedule calls for 44,000 to leave for the United States during November, 36,000 in December and 20,000 to 30,000 in January. This would leave 20,000 to 30,000 here.

The Army said 11,600 troops from China were due in this theater this month for return to the United States. This will be the last group to leave China by way of India.

Indonesian Seamen Strike

BOMBAY, India, Nov. 5 (AP)—About 250 Indonesian seamen aboard three ships struck today, charging the vessels' cargoes would be used against natives in the Netherlands Indies. Two strike leaders were arrested but they were later released.

Dead "Pidgin" Foreseen

Lagos, Nigeria, Nov. 5—A new and simplified system of teaching English, adopted by the army in West Africa, will, it is hoped eventually eliminate pidgin English in the British territories.

8 SURVIVORS OF CRASH LAND

Ship Also Bears 7 Bodies From Plane Accident Scene

Honolulu, Nov. 5 (AP)—Eight weary, injured survivors of an ATC Liberator transport which made a forced landing on the Pacific Saturday arrived today aboard the escort carrier Casablanca and were rushed to a hospital.

Also aboard the Casablanca were the bodies of seven dead. Search is continuing for twelve others, including a WAC, who were aboard the plane, which crash-landed 460 miles northeast of Oahu.

A special Army board of inquiry, first to board the Casablanca, instructed the survivors not to venture an opinion on the cause of the forced landing—which broke the four-engined Liberator into two—or on certain details regarding their time in the water before they were rescued.

Two survivors, John R. Patrick, a civilian engineer whose address was not available, and Lieut. Karl Harr, Jr., South Orange, N.J., were rushed off the ship before newspaper reporters could contact them. Patrick suffered multiple bruises and Harr lacerations.

Other Survivors Listed

The other survivors, with the ATC's report of their condition:

PFC. ERNEST HAYDEL, 21, New Orleans, compound leg fracture, serious.

CORPORAL HARRY TOBIN, Philadelphia, compound leg fracture, critical.

STAFF SERGEANT ALBERT JOHNSON, 26, Lakewood, Ohio, scalp bruises, favorable.

STAFF SERGEANT ROBERT THOMPSON, Detroit and Ferndale, Mich., brain concussion, serious.

PFC. DONALD MITCHELL, Beaver Falls, Pa., fractured hand, good.

All eight survivors were taken to Tripler (Army) Hospital.

In Water Ten Hours

Haydel said he spent ten hours in the water, sustained by a life-jacket.

Toben, who said he had spent 45 days in the China theater, was en route home for discharge.

Miss Trautman was en route to Seattle on emergency leave to visit a brother, who is seriously ill.

Thompson, a veteran of Okinawa, Saipan and Guam, was on a life raft eight hours.

Miss Trautman said she was first off the plane and believed Patrick helped her, but does not know how she got on the raft because she lost consciousness. She said the plane still was afloat the last time she saw it.

PLANE SURVIVORS SOUGHT IN PACIFIC

Honolulu, Nov. 5 (A. P.).—Seven ships and six airplanes searched the Pacific Ocean 450 miles east of here today for eleven men and a woman missing in the forced landing at sea of an ATC Liberator Saturday.

Meanwhile, two escort carriers steamed toward Honolulu with twenty-three survivors of the forced landing of a Pan-American Honolulu Clipper and with eight survivors and the bodies of seven victims—one a woman—of the crashed Liberator.

Capt. S. E. Robbins of Palo Alto, the clipper's pilot, made such "a masterful landing" on the smooth Pacific after two of his plane's engines failed that none of the ten crew men and thirteen passengers was injured. They were picked up a few hours later by a merchant tanker, the Englewood Hills, which transferred them to the baby flattop Manila Bay for the voyage back to Honolulu—600 miles distant. The clipper was being towed to Honolulu. The clipper's passengers included eleven naval officers and two civilian technicians.

Capt. Fred C. Richards of San Francisco, piloting another clipper which left Honolulu thirty minutes after Robbins's, circled the downed seaplane for five hours until the Englewood Hills came to the rescue. Richards, having consumed much of his gasoline in his vigil, returned to Honolulu with his eight passengers.

10 Japs Arrested In Flyers' Deaths

Shanghai, Nov. 4 (AP—Delayed). The Army disclosed today that nine Japanese soldiers and a civilian had been arrested and charged with cremating three American flyers after parading them through the streets of Hankow last December 16 and beating them into insensibility.

Major Willis A. West, Portland, Ore., who made the announcement, said there was some doubt whether the Americans were dead when cremated.

The atrocity first was reported two weeks ago, but the victims' names never have been announced. They were on a Superfortress that crashed near Hankow, central Chinese city.

Among the Japanese arrested were Col. Kameji Fukumoto, commander of the notorious Japanese gendarmerie in the Hankow area, and Major Sadatsuku Sakai of the terroristic "thought control" police.

Another was Sergeant Major Minoru Hisamatsu of the 34th Army's information and propaganda section, who was quoted as saying he strangled one of the flyers before the cremation.

A fourth suspect was Corporal Yosaburo Shirakawa, who said he strangled one of the other flyers.

All ten were held in Shanghai. Chinese authorities in Hankow also are holding a renegade Chinese civilian accused of participating.

Koreans, Chiang End Conference

Chungking, Nov. 5 (AP)—President Kim Koo of the so-called Korean provisional government departed for home today after conferences with Chiang Kai-shek.

He was accompanied by 27 aides. The group expected to stop three days in Shanghai.

Chiang expressed hope that the Korean leaders would strive for freedom and independence, and cooperate with the United States, Russia, Britain and other United Nations members without discrimination against race or color to "build a new world of peace and happiness."

RETURN TO KOREA

Seoul, Korea, Nov. 5 (A. P.).—Six members of the United Korean Committee of America arrived today from the United States avowedly to aid the Korean Provisional Government.

Their first act was to confer with Lieut.-Gen. John R. Hodge, American occupation commander. The group was led by Jacob Kim Dunn of Washington, D. C.

New Secret Weapon

Saigon, Nov. 5 (AP)—Something new in secret weapons popped up here today. French authorities announced they had captured "a very clever type of Annamese automatic bow" which shoots five arrows at a time from a special magazine.

Only a few days ago the British had announced the capture of an Annamese munitions center—a bow and arrow factory.

INDONESIANS MASS IN CENTRAL JAVA

Situation 'Tense' Throughout Island, Reports British Military.

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 5—(AP) Batavia was quiet again tonight after almost 12 hours of sporadic street fighting, but British military authorities reported large numbers of Indonesians were massing in central Java and said the situation was "tense" throughout the island.

At least one native was shot and one British officer was wounded in a flareup last night and early this morning in the northern section of Batavia, near the Hotel Des Indes.

Grenades Are Tossed

The fighting started after Indonesians tossed two grenades at an Ambonese sentry on duty inside the hotel enclosure, the British said. British signal troops also were fired at from a vehicle moving in the street. The driver of the vehicle was shot.

The wounded British officer was a Seaforth Highlander captain who went to investigate the shooting. He was struck by a bullet fired at random by an Ambonese Dutch guard through the Palisade surrounding the hotel.

Firing continued in the neighborhood most of the night, but no other casualties were reported.

RAF Mosquito and Thunderbolt fighter pilots, carrying out reconnaissance over central Java, reported the massing of Indonesians for "popular meetings." They referred apparently to the Jogjakarta area where members of the Indonesian Youth movement are rallying for a conference, and where reorganization of the "peace preservation army" is proceeding.

The situation at Soerabaja by Magelang, scene of serious fighting last week, remained quiet. The RAF dropped supplies there and reported "It appears that the position is more stable."

Supplies also were dropped at the Dutch naval base of Soerabaja, where British and Indian troops of the 9th and 123rd Indian infantry brigades landed to reinforce the British garrison which narrowly escaped being wiped out by the Indonesians last week.

Evacuation of European internees from the Soerabaja area continued. It was estimated that more than half of the thousands at Soerabaja already had been removed by ship to Singapore.

In Bandoeng, summer capital of Java, the 3rd Gurkha Rifles seized a number of ammunition dumps previously held by the Indonesians. No details of the action were reported.

Negotiations Deadlocked

Meanwhile, efforts to negotiate a settlement of the dispute between the Dutch and the Indonesians were at a standstill. The Dutch were reported planning to bring in many more troops—possibly 20,000 unofficial sources estimated — before Christmas.

They were said to be considering the occupation of a small section of the country, probably the western part, and making it a Dutch Control center where "loyal" people could come and live without fear of being molested by Extremists in the Nationalists' ranks. This area would be extended as rapidly as the Dutch were able to do so.

(An Amsterdam dispatch said that, despite last week's meeting beween President Soekarno of the "Indonesian republic" and acting Governor General Hubertus J. van Mook, neither van Mook nor other Dutch officials had any intention of negotiating with Soekarno.)

Soekarno, asked what the next move in the dispute would be, remained silent, but his secretary, who was present, said, "I think there will be much fighting."

If the Dutch gain control of western Java they could be expected to try to make it a center where pro-Dutch elements of the population could come and live without fear of being molested by Indonesian extremists.

In this Dutch section industries could be rehabilitated and the people fed and clothed from the great stocks the Dutch are just beginning to land. Opponents of the plan point out that the boundary of such an area would become a no-man's land across which no "loyal" natives could pass in safety.

Grenades Start Battle

Indonesian extremists and Dutch troops were involved in the night fighting in Batavia, which broke out when grenades were hurled into the Dutch-guarded area around the Hotel des Indies.

An official British announcement said a Seaforth Highlander captain, investigating the disturbance at the hotel, was wounded by an Ambonese soldier in the Dutch forces, who had just undergone a grenade attack by Indonesians.

British Unit Fired At

A British signal corps detachment also was reported to have been fired at from a passing vehicle, the driver of which was shot.

The sound of desultory firing still was audible in the northern part of the city this morning.

In Soerabaja, troops of the 9th and 123d Indian Infantry Brigades landed during the week end, bringing to a total of five battalions the number of recently arrived reinforcements.

"Popular Meetings" Planned

RAF Mosquitos and Thunderbolts, dispatched on reconnaisance missions over central Java, reported the populace was massing for "popular meetings," apparently concentrated in the Jogjakarta area, where Indonesian troops previously were said to be assembling.

News concerning the general situation was limited by a British decision yesterday to hold no more press conferences to give information on military developments—a decision which brought a strong protest from foreign correspondents.

The ruling also banned interviews with Allied officers without previous permission from the Southeast Asia Command.

Dutch Eye West Java Area As Base For Reconquest

Batavia, Java, Nov. 5 (AP)—Dutch officials were understood today to be considering a plan to gain firm control of a small part of western Java and establish that area as a rallying ground from which they could extend their efforts to end the native Nationalist uprising in the East Indies.

The Dutch plan to bring in many more troops, although there has been no official announcement on the subject. Some unofficial estimates of the size of the reinforcements run as high as 20,000 men before Christmas.

Quiet After Flare Up

Strife-torn Java was quiet today following the flare up of sporadic fighting in the northern section of Batavia during the night. But it was like the quiet before the storm. But the picture as a whole is blacker and more ominous, with tens of thousands of trigger-happy Indonesians armed to the teeth and determined on revolution.

The British are in a dilemma, apparently undecided whether to fight their way through and return the island empire to Dutch control or merely continue to disarm Japanese rescue internees and defend themselves.

Won't Accept U.S. Mediation

At present the Dutch will not accept American mediation, claiming that the Russians, French and Chinese also may wish to have their thumbs in the pie.

Japs Confess To Aussies In Series Of Atrocities

By Vern Haugland

Morotai, Netherlands East Indies, Oct. 31 (AP—Delayed)—Japanese prisoners have confessed to Australians details of a series of atrocities and related how two crashed American airmen were killed.

The flyers, Lieut. L. H. Bollager, 22, and E. R. Alexander, crashed in their P-51 Mustang on Omimajor Island, south of Halmahera, last March 1.

They were not injured and were captured by Japanese Civil Administrator Noguchi and three marines Noguchi said the flyers were taken to Batjan Island in the Moluccas, where they overpowered their guards and escaped to Mare Islet after killing the island commander and two other Japanese.

Americans Killed

A native betrayed them and the Japanese sent a twenty-man patrol which killed the Americans only after one member of the patrol was slain and another wounded. Noguchi is in jail, charged with a number of atrocities.

During Australian investigations in Borneo and near-by areas, the bodies of a number of unidentified American fighter and bomber crews were found in charred wreckages of their planes.

Three unidentified Americans were reported tortured and killed near Wasile, on Halmahera.

Bears West Virginia Name

In the wreckage of one B-25 bomber the Australians found an unsigned Catholic missal and a New Testament bearing the name of Charles R. Wolfe, of Cass, W.Va.

An Australian major obtained from General Ishii, commander of the Japanese 32d Division, details of a number of war crimes in the Southwest Pacific, including a number which had not been suspected. One such report detailed the massacre of 41 lepers, related thusly in a neat Japanese report:

"Tobelo area, Halmahera, March 6, 10 A.M., Mede village. Names unknown; 41 lepers. Direct executioner, Military Policeman Chugoro Kumula. Direct orders Commander Sugahara and Goro Ogihara. Causes: Lepers ordered to move into interior, opposed, mutineered. In respect to details, refer to information to be submitted another day."

Accept Blame, Kill Selves

Another Japanese report said: "Commander 8th Field Military Police, Col. Kikichi Abe, and Military Police Major Sensi Tokinatsu, laying blame upon selves for atrocities, took willfully poison and committed suicide 19 and 18 October, respectively." The record went on to give the full military records.

Another report bore the quaint title "Reports of Investigation Re Mortal Accidents and Extraordinary Dispositions." It included an orderly column naming the victims, their birthplaces, dates and places of "extraordinary disposition or accidents."

The Australian 1st Army, based on Rabaul and controlling New Guinea and New Britain, has arrested hundreds. The Australian military force occupying Borneo and Dutch East Indies areas east of Lombok has 448 Japanese under arrest accused of war crimes.

Another candid report listed "beheadings, shootings and cuttings to death." In one area of Halmahera, forty-eight such executions were listed and in another section of the same island, thirty-six deaths were detailed. Of the Japanese listed as executioners and commanders, seventy-four are under arrest. Most of the victims were Indians, Javanese and Malays.

The Japanese, who grew fat and lived well in the islands, executed many starving Javanese and others for stealing food. Four Indians were beheaded for stealing one package of biscuits. The Australians exhumed a number of headless bodies and found others with execution masks still across their eyes.

Australian investigations have been so thorough and evidence has been so plentiful that officers believe Australia likely will be the first Pacific ally to complete the task of punishing guilty Japanese.

YAMASHITA IRKED BY MERCY PLEA, ASSERTS WITNESS

Scheidler

MANILA, Nov. 5—(AP) Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita showed great anger when a collaborationist leader asked him to revoke his order to "kill all Filipinos," a prosecution witness testified today at the general's trial on war crime charges.

The witness, Joaquin Galang—himself under detention as a suspected collaborator—said he was present when Yamashita rejected a plea by Gen. Artemio Ricarte, Filipino politico-militarist, to "revoke your general order to kill all Filipinos and destroy all their cities."

Yamashita leaped to his feet, Galang testified, clenching his hands and shouted:

"An order is an order! It is my order, and therefore should not be disobeyed!"

Galang said Ricarte has made a fervent plea for revocation of the ruthless order, even going so far as to tell Yamashita that "nobody is at fault for the Filipinos' turning guerrilla, except that the Japanese are taking their food and torturing them."

Yamashita's reply to this reference to Japanese brutality, the witness related, was:

Refused Discussion

"Let's not talk about this any longer. The Filipinos are treacherous, hence they are our enemies."

Defense counsel strongly attacked the credibility of the witness and asked him why, since he had been in protective custody for nearly eight months, he had only seen fit to tell his story.

Galang replied that it was his duty to bring the ex-commander of Japanese forces in the Philippines to justice, and that he wanted to tell his story only when it would do the most good.

Earlier in the session Narciso Lapus, another suspected collaborator, testified under cross-examination that Ricarte told him after seeing Yamashita that the general had ordered the islands "rid of Filipinos before the Americans return."

Lapus described Ricarte as a man who was "trying to save the country he loved."

Other witnesses called by the prosecution described how Japanese troops went about Manila shortly before its recapture by Americans, setting fire to inflammable buildings and dynamiting the concrete structures.

Yamashita, one-time "Tiger of Malaya", sat placidly through the session. Only once did the eyes behind his horn-rimmed spectacles betray sudden interest in the proceedings. That was when the witness Galang pointed in his direction and called him "that man with glasses."

Yamashita Deaf To Mercy Plea, Witness Says

Scheidler

Manila, Nov. 5 (AP)—A Filipino testified today that he heard Japanese Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita angrily refuse to revoke an order to "kill all Filipinos and destroy all their cities."

He was Joaquin Galang, second witness brought from protective custody as a suspected collaborator, at the war-crimes trial of the erstwhile "Tiger of Malaya."

The first was Narciso Lapus, who admitted that he was friendly with the Japanese invaders and then directly accused Yamashita of having ordered the islands "rid of Filipilos before the Americans return."

General Angry, He Says

Galang testified that Yamashita showed great anger when Gen. Artemio Ricarté, Filipino politico-militarist, beseeched the Nipponese commander in the Philippines: "I take this time to ask you again to revoke your general order to kill all Filipinos and destroy all their cities."

Yamashita rose, Galang said, clenched his hands and shouted angrily: "An order is an order! It is my order and because of that it should not be disobeyed! It should be followed—happen what may happen!"

The witness said he overheard the argument at Ricarté's house.

Quotes Ricarte

Galang quoted Ricarté as saying to the general earlier:

"Nobody is at fault for the Filipinos turning guerrilla except that the Japanese are taking their food and torturing them."

Yamishita's answer, Galang said, was:

"Let's not talk about this any longer. The Filipinos are treacherous, hence they are our enemies."

Yamashita's counsel strongly attacked the credibility of Galang and asked him why, since he had been held in protective custody nearly eight months, he had only now seen occasion to tell his story.

Galang replied that it was his duty to see that Yamashita was brought to justice, and that he wanted to tell his story only when it would do the most good.

Lapus's testimony came, surprisingly, under cross-examination by the General's sharp-questioning chief attorney, Col. Harry Clarke.

Lapus said that Gen. Artemio Ricarté, to whom he was private secretary during the occupation, appealed personally to Yamashita four times to spare Filipino lives, but that the General refused to modify his order.

Declined Presidency

Lapus said the Japanese did not trust any Filipino except Ricarté. He stated that Ricarté declined the presidency of the Philippines last year because he envisaged complete dictatorship and didn't want any interference.

As a prosecution witness Saturday, Lapus testified that Yamashita ordered the execution of all Manila Filipinos friendly to the Americans. Today he said the General had ordered the killing of all Filipinos who were hostile to the Japanese at any point of the American landings.

Modifies His Story

Again Lapus testified that Ricarte had attended a rally last year of Makapilis at which Yamashita and Benigno Ramos were present. Makapilis were disloyal Filipinos who fought, under the leadership of Ramos, with the Japanese against the Americans. Saturday, Lapus had pictured Ricarté as "a friend of all Filipinos, considered by the Japanese as one of the gods to his countrymen." Thus twice today he modified the story he told Saturday.

NIP LEADER SEES IMPROVED NATION

Jap Learned 'Good Lesson' from War, Declares Psychologist.

TOKYO, Nov. 5—(AP) Although Japan paid a fearful price, it learned a "good lesson" from the war and fundamental changes probably will result, one of the nation's leading psychologists said today.

Dr. Sadaji Takagi of Tokyo Imperial university expressed these views as the government prepared for an extraordinary session of the Diet which will revoke many repressive laws that stand in the way of remaking the nation.

The Japanese are beginning to realize for the first time, said Takagi, that their country is not the only one nor the best in the world. War and surrender "shattered that illusion," he said.

The people also are benefiting from their contact with the occupation forces, Takagi explained, and this is breaking down some thinking harking back to feudal days. The average man, he added, will start thinking for himself and politically move toward Democracy as all restraints are removed.

"All feelings are undergoing a change as a result of our surrender," summed up Takagi. "It takes time for the reaction to show but I believe there will be fundamental changes in the people.

Some of the barriers slowing this process, which were built around the people by the authorities, will be removed by the forthcoming special parliamentary session. Meeting in December the Japanese press said, the session will revise election laws, ratify the government's abolition of the public peace and order maintenance law and nullify other laws which General MacArthur has ordered abolished.

The trend toward Democracy also was to be noted in labor union movements which the newspaper Mainchi said were sweeping Japan as unemployment mounted. Unionization was particularly strong, it added, in the mining industry but extended to a variety of other fields including white collar workers in some government offices. Formation of a National Federation of Labor Unions is planned by labor leaders.

The tendency to question and change the old order has resulted in cabinet plans to establish a permanent organization to invesigate the causes of war and defeat, Tokyo newspapers said. One purpose of this organization is to determine how to treat the "men who misled Japan."

A tense situation existing in the cold coal mining region of Hokkaido island between Hungary, beaten Chinese and Korean slave laborers and their onetime Japanese overlords was reported eased considerably by American insistence on fair treatment. The Army newspaper Stars and Stripes said that 93,000 miners there were eating better than the average Japanese civilian and had received clothing and stoves from Japanese army warehouses on orders of the occupation forces.

Jap Psychologist Holds Defeat Good Thing

Tokyo, Nov. 5 (AP)—One of Japan's leading psychologists, Dr. Sadaji Takagi, of Tokyo Imperial University, asserted today that the surrender to the Allies and the occupation of his country by American troops would benefit the Japanese people.

"Japan paid a big price in the war, but it learned a good lesson," he added.

For the first time, explained Dr. Takagi, the average Japanese has learned that his nation isn't the only one, nor even the best, in the world.

The war and surrender shattered his illusion of being "a frog in a well."

Feared Yanks At First

"At first the people feared Americans because of stories of their brutality," he said. "But they found out that wasn't true. Now they will attempt to adopt his (the American's) friendly, efficient way of doing things.

"All feelings are undergoing a change as a result of the surrender. Reaction takes time, but I believe there will be fundamental changes in the people."

Indication that one of the changes may already be taking place was noted by the Tokyo newspaper Mainichi, which reported a wave of labor movements, aimed at ultimate formation of a Japanese national federation of labor, was sweeping the country. Workers have already won concessions from management in two instances.

No Major Strikes

Unemployment, food shortages and attempts of some employers to slash wages have given impetus to unionization. No major strikes have yet been called under union auspices.

The most important strikes since occupation began—and the first in Japan in fifteen years—were the sitdown by Chinese and Korean slave laborers in Hokkaido.

Tenseness between the former slaves and the Japanese on the northernmost of the home islands has been eased, however, by American insistence on fair treatment by both sides and improvement of the Chinese-Korean position, Sergt. John Cowden reported in a feature article in the army newspaper Stars and Stripes.

Sold To Zaibatsu

The 93,000 impressed laborers were mostly recruited by Japanese civilians in China, shipped to Japan and sold to the leading zaibatsu houses, such as Mitsui and Mitsubishi, who rented them out to the Hokkaido mine operators, Cowden reported.

The slave laborers struck, and their erstwhile overlords fled. As a result, Hokkaido's coal production fell off 75 per cent.

The 77th Division checked resulting rioting, improved conditions of the laborers and through a priority system of repatriation based on work performed has increased production.

M'ARTHUR WANTS SERVICE MERGER

Tokyo, Nov. 5 (A. P.).—Gen. MacArthur approved today the statement of Gen. George C. Kenney, one of his wartime commanders, that his (MacArthur's) opposition in 1932 to unification of the armed forces "was the greatest mistake of my military career."

Kenney, at a New York press conference yesterday, quoted MacArthur as having made the statement in 1943 and MacArthur agreed when asked about it today. MacArthur explained that since 1932 new "instrumentalities for destruction" have been developed and "with their enormous potentialities have completely changed the application of the principles underlying the art of war." He added that when he made his statement against unification there was "no triphibious warfare," and said:

"Figuratively, the world since that time has shrung to permit simultaneous and coordinated employment of all three dimensions of modern combat. A common denominator now rules every battle area. We have learned during the last four years—and learned the hard way.

"I hope that our future national defense will be flexible enough to profit thereby."

1,500 Yanks Apply For Re-Enlistment

Tokyo, Nov. 5 (AP)—More than 1,500 American soldiers in Japan have applied for re-enlistment.

The 11th Corps headquarters said today most felt "the Army is the best place for a young man in view of the uncertainty of labor

Some seek to increase their knowledge of trades or professions through army training; others hope to acquire new skills.

Marylander's View

Another, T/5 Robert C. Gnegy of Mountain Lake Park, Md., said, "Traveling is more of an education than going to school." He wants to go to Europe then return home to his studies toward becoming a certified public accountant.

T/5 Clarence S. Edmiston of Ogden, Utah, a surgical technician, wants to learn more about his work and said, "I hope that some day I may go to medical school."

ENDS SHORTAGE OF GREENBACKS

Tokyo, Nov. 5 (A. P.).—To relieve an acute shortage of greenbacks for homeward bound American soldiers, $14,880,000 in $1, $5, $10 and $20 denominations arrived by air from the United States today.

Soldiers may embark with a maximum of $150 each, but may take any additonal funds in an Army pay order cashable when he gets home.

Airports To Become Salt Beds.

Tokyo, Nov. 5 (A. P.).—Allied headquarters today authorized the Japanese Government to convert twenty-eight airports into salt beds to relieve a major shortage.

Provost Marshal Named

Yokohama, Nov. 5 (AP)—Brig. Gen. John H. Stadler, of San Antonio, Texas, today was appointed provost marshal for the Yokohama area. He formerly commanded the 5th Cavalry Brigade which relieved the homebound America Division.

Capt. Fitz Named Aide To Blandy

Pearl Harbor, Nov. 5 (AP)—Capt. Harold C. Fitz, of Severna Park, Md., who recently was awarded the Navy Cross for extraordinary heroism, has relieved Capt. William K. Phillips, of Sherman, Texas, as aide and chief of staff to Rear Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, commander of cruisers and destroyers in the Pacific.

Captain Phillips, who has been confirmed by the Senate for promotion to the grade of rear admiral, has been assigned to a bureau in Washington.

Brazil Keeps Eye On Vargas

Rio de Janeiro, Nov. 5 (AP)—Brazil's new judiciary government today appeared to be keeping an attentive eye on deposed President Getulio Vargas, who although ousted in a bloodless coup last week, still speaks with a strong political voice.

The newspaper Diario at Sao Paulo said in an unconfirmed dispatch that the government of President Jose Linhares, former Supreme Court chief justice, was considering the possibility of exiling Vargas temporarily "in order not to perturb the normal democratic revolution of the country."

Gen. Pedro Aurelio de Goes Monteiro, War Minister, declared he knew nothing about such a plan. Earlier, he had termed Vargas's reported candidacy for the Senate as "inconvenient or at least premature."

Vargas, now living on a farm, told a Brazilian correspondent, "I will not accept the candidacy for senator or any other candidacy."

PERON'S FOES SEEKING UNITY

Popular Front Of Opposition In Argentina Visioned

Buenos Aires, Nov. 5 (AP)—The possibility of a popular front of Argentine political parties opposed to the presidential aspirations of Col. Juan Perón arose tonight when the Radical party scheduled a national committee meeting for November 7 to consider a joint campaign proposed by Communists and Socialists.

The Radical party is the strongest in the country and the Socialists are third in point of size. The Communists, while small, are politically astute.

Campaign Fraud Claimed

There were some indications that the Conservatives, the second largest party, also would be willing to join a popular front against the former vice president, since Perón's election might threaten their political structure as much as that of the other parties.

The Socialist party, in a letter to the Radicals proposing the popular front, said the political campaign was "developing in an atmosphere of fraud and violence directed toward the continuation of dictatorship in the person of Perón."

A Strong Comeback

The letter added that "this leads us to propose a union of all democratic forces in the country in order to counteract plans of the military to continue in power."

The Communists, likewise, asserted: "There is a national demand for united action of the democratic parties."

Perón, strong man in the Government of President Edelmiro Farrell, resigned as vice president October 9 following a military coup. With the support of certain labor elements, however, he made a strong political comeback within a few days.

Labor, Management Get Truman Demand For Industrial Peace

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 — (AP) While white-collar pickets paraded outside the labor-management conference today, President Truman gravely warned delegates they must find a formula for industrial peace among themselves or else the people of the United States will find the answer "some place else."

The President did not raise his voice when he made this statement at the conclusion of his talk, but no one present missed the implications as he called on leaders of labor and industry to "furnish a broad and permanent foundation for industrial peace and progress."

"For these answers must and will be found," the President said, "the whole system of private enterprise and individual opportunity depends upon finding them."

Lewis Braves Pickets

With these words the President set the task of the conference which got away smoothly with only the parading pickets adding a discordant note. John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, walked through the picket line twice to attend the morning and afternoon sessions and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, passed through once.

The pickets appeared on Constitution avenue shortly before the conference convened, protesting that independent unions had not been invited to the conference.

They carried signs which read: "30,000,000 workers ignored by Labor department," "the man from Independence, Mo., forgot the independent unions," "we challenge Green, Murray and Lewis to cross this picket line."

Green arrived for the morning session before the pickets appeared, but Lewis saw them when he stepped from a car. He stopped and spoke briefly with one, then went on into the Labor department building where the conference is being held. Philip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, entered through an unpicketed side door.

The pickets laid down their signs, however, when the Presidential party approached and there was no line across Mr. Truman's path.

The highly explosive question of wages and hours was injected into the conference both by Philip Murray and Secretary of Commerce Wallace in their addresses while Green — siding with the views of management delegates — asserted "the introduction of other controversial subjects such as wages, full employment and legislation for consideration of this conference would make failure of the conference a foregone conclusion.

Murray declared "American workers have joined in a crusade for a very simple objective—the restoration to their pay envelopes of loss in take home pay, the maintenance of a human standard of living."

"Strong segments of the American employer group have, to put it mildly, not been receptive to the workers dilemma—the dilemma of shrinking wages and rising living costs," he said. "These employers moreover have not been disposed even to bargain with respect to workers' wage restoration demands."

Warns of Collapse

The threatened result, he said, is a major collapse in labor-management relations.

Since wars are of such vital importance in labor-management relations, Murray urged the delegates to include the question in the conference agenda.

Secretary Wallace stepped into the wage controversy by saying: "If we maintain levels of production and wage income and effective purchasing demand — levels anywhere near approaching full employment—there are clear indications that basic wage rates can be raised substantially in many industries without generally increased prices and without impairment of the profit position. Unless this is done, the contrast between profits and other forms of income would generally be so extreme that business quickly would incur public disfavor."

The President made no mention of wages in his address. He emphasized strongly the necessity for agreement on ways and means of reaching industrial peace, and the responsibility of the conference delegates in achieving that goal. Whether the question of wages is to be included in the conference agenda is to be decided by the executive committee, which will be appointed tomorrow.

Stresses Three Points

These points were stressed by Mr. Truman:

(1) The conference must recommend a definite policy in the field of industrial relations.

(2) Labor and management, in an industry or in a company, must find a way of resolving differences without stopping production.

(3) Both sides must bargain collectively with an open mind and a firm resolve to reach an agreement fairly.

(4) Methods must be found for peaceful negotiation of contracts and once made, contracts must be lived up to.

(5) Labor must end jurisdictional strikes and find some other method of settling inter-union controversies.

(6) Management must stop looking on labor relations as "a stepchild of its business" and stop delaying tactics which defeat collective bargaining.

Reaction to the President's speech, among delegates who would comment, was generally favorable. Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, said the speech "laid the foundation for a superstructure for good management-labor relations."

Mr. Truman was 19 minutes late in arriving at the conference.

Judge Walter P. Stacy, chief justice of the North Carolina Supreme court, chairman, convened the meeting with the assertion that the 36 delegates and their alternates have great opportunity and grave responsibility.

"Whatever is done here will erect the standard to which all men of good will can repair," he said.

After the President's address there was a ripple of speculation when John L. Lewis and Green shook hands and stood chatting while photographers rushed to get their pictures. Green and Lewis were together when they returned for the afternoon session.

Green told the delegates the conference is not expected "to outlaw all disputes and abolish all strife."

"The right to strike is a part of the free enterprise system," he asserted. "By curbing this inherent right we would take a decisive and irrevocable step toward far-reaching regimentation not only of labor but of all industry."

Points Way to Peace

The way to industrial peace, the A.F.L. chief said, is through scientific collective bargaining, union management cooperation, increased use of the government's conciliation service and voluntary arbitration.

Ira Mosher, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, said the management delegates "come unequivocally committed to the principle of free collective bargaining despite our serious misgivings as to the manner in which it is being practiced," and that "we come here with an abiding faith that what we accomplish in the days to come will eventually be translated into terms of security and opportunity and a better life for every American who works for a living."

Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, said frayed nerves and explosive tempers in these post-war days tend to "magnify minor quarrels into major crises and major crises into revolutionary upheavals." He called for "the deliberate cultivation of the sense of proportion."

Johnston suggested acceptance of four fundamental principles:

(1) The nation and industry must accept the fact that labor unions are part of our economic fabric and collective bargaining is an essential part of the democratic process.

2) Management must be permitted to retain the unabridged right to manage.

(3) Recognition that higher living standards come from increased productivity. Anything which retards output or cuts into quality becomes immoral, anti-social and untenable.

(4) Consumer, worker and investor must all share equitably in the fruits of increased production.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach was critical of both labor and management for practices contributing to bad labor relations.

He suggested that perhaps labor should have a "czar" and techniques such as the baseball and movie industries to resolve jurisdictional disputes. To industry he said that management must send responsible people to negotiate with unions because "the office-boy union-buffer type labor relations man will always end up in disaster."

At the opening of the session, Judge Stacy announced the appointment of a "public committee" to hear suggestions from any person or organization desiring to come before the conference. This opens the way for the protesting independent unions to bring their views before the delegates.

Truman's Labor-Management Text

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5—(AP) The text of President Truman's address at the opening of the labor-management conference today follows:

Members of the labor-management conference:

In a radio broadcast to the American people last Tuesday night, I said:

"I am convinced that if labor and management will approach each other, with the realization that they have a common goal, and with the determination to compose their differences in their own long range interest, it will not be long before we have put industrial strife behind us. Labor is the best customer management has; and management is the source of labor's livelyhood. Both are wholly dependent on each other; and the country in turn is dependent on both of them."

Democracy in Action

This conference has been called to provide a nation-wide opportunity to fulfill that objective. Representatives of labor and management are meeting here at this conference table, to discuss their common problems, and to settle differences in the public interest. Here is the democratic process in action—in its best form.

On this conference have been based many high hopes of the American people. Their eyes are turned here in the expectation that you will furnish a broad and permanent foundation for industrial peace and progress.

I want to make it clear that this is your conference—a management-labor conference—and not a government conference. You have not been chosen by me or by any government officials. You have been selected by the leading labor and industrial organizations in the United States. There has been no interference by government in that selection.

By the very nature of the task before you, you appear here not as representatives merely of the organizations which chose you; but as public spirited citizens, who during the deliberations will consider the interests of all groups of our people. Each of you is now a member of the team which the American people hope will recommend definite policy in the field of industrial relations. We must begin with the firm realization that every citizen in our nation has an identity of interest and a great stake in the maintenance of industrial peace and in the development of mature and effective ways of achieving it.

The time has come for labor and management to handle their own affairs in the traditional, American, democratic way. I hope that I can give up the President's wartime powers as soon as possible, so that management and labor can again have the full and undivided responsibility for providing the production that we must have to safeguard our domestic economy and our leadership in international affairs.

Government Without Vote

Your government, although it is acting as your host, has no hand in the direction or the recommendations of this conference. It has no vote.

This is your opportunity to prove that you can come to understanding and agreement without political or governmental pressure. The outcome of the conference rests with the representatives of management and labor. But—as in all other public affairs—the outcome also rests with the American public who, by their interest and concern, can be a constant reminder that arbitrary selfishness and a refusal to see the other fellow's point of view have no place in these meetings.

Our country is worried about our industrial relations. It has a right to be. That worry is reflected in the halls of the Congress in the form of all kinds of proposed legislation. You have it in your power to stop that worry. I have supreme confidence in your ability to find a democratic way to compose industrial difficulties.

Under the patriotic pressure of a desperate war crisis, management and labor have performed a miracle of production for four years—working together voluntarily but under a measure of government control. Those controls must soon disappear. Many have already gone. And yet as soon as the first ones were taken off, industrial strife appeared.

Some of it was expected by the American people in this period of adjustment. But I am sure that they never expected anything like the amount of strife which has been threatened. And I know that the American people do not like it—especially after the solemn promise by representatives of both management and labor that they would cooperate with their government through the reconversion period.

No Blame Fixed

I make no effort to fix the blame. I have tried to lay fairly before the people the position of labor and the position of industry. They both have problems—grave and worrisome problems. But they are not insoluble problems. Essentially they are problems of adjustment to the drastic changes brought about by three and a half years of war.

The important thing is to remember that those problems—and their solution—cannot be allowed to stop us in our struggle to reconvert from war to peace. For until we successfully reconvert our productive capacity, we cannot hope to proceed toward our goal of full employment and an increased standard of living.

If labor and management, in an industry or in a company, find that they cannot come to agreement, a way must be found of resolving their differences without stopping production.

Finding the best way to accomplish that result without government directive to either labor or industry—that is your job.

There are many considerations involved. At the basis of them all, is not only the right, but the duty, to bargain collectively. I do not mean giving mere lip service to that abstract principle. I mean the willingness on both sides, yes, the determination, to approach the bargaining table with an open mind, with an appreciation of what is on the other side of the table—and with a firm resolve to reach an agreement fairly.

If that fails, if bargaining produces no results, then there must be a willingness to use some impartial machinery for reaching decisions on the basis of proven facts and realities, instead of rumor or propaganda or partisan statements. That is the way to eliminate unnecessary friction. That is the way to prevent lock-outs and strikes. That is the way to keep production going.

Must Find Methods

We shall have to find methods not only of peaceful negotiation of labor contracts, but also of insuring industrial peace for the lifetime of such contracts. Contracts once made must be lived up to, and should be changed only in the manner agreed upon by the parties. If we expect confidence in agreements made, there must be responsibility and integrity on both sides in carrying them out.

Some substitute must be found for jurisdictional strikes. Business simply cannot stop, life and property just cannot be endangered, merely because of some internal disagreement between factions of labor, in which management can rightfully have no part and no interest. There can be no moral or economic justification for stopping production while rival organizations contend with each other. Labor has a particular interest in this matter—for nothing is so destructive of public confidence in the motives of trade unionism as a jurisdictional strike.

On the other hand, management too often has looked upon labor relations as a stepchild of its business, to be disregarded until the controversy has reached a point where real collective bargaining becomes very difficult—if not almost impossible. It happens all too frequently that in the actual process of collective bargaining, delaying tactics are practised with the result that there is no real bargaining. There can be no justification for such tactics at the present time, or in the future.

If this conference can recommend answers to the public demand for machinery to prevent or settle industrial disputes, it will have made vast progress toward industrial peace. It will have laid a foundation for an era of prosperity and security.

World Needs Products

The whole world now needs the produce of our mills and factories—everything stands ready and primed for a great future. But situations and circumstances can change rapidly. Our unparalleled opportunity may not long remain open. We must have production—vast production. We must have it soon.

In order to have it, labor and management must work together to expand the economy of our nation—as they worked together to protect the safety of our nation during the war. If we get the production that we need—the production which our resources and industrial skill make possible, the present problem of wages and prices will be easier to solve. Production means employment. It means economic health. It means higher wages and lower prices. It means the difference between strength and prosperity, and uncertainty and depression.

The men in this room direct a cross-section of American industry, and lead American labor of all opinions. But you will fully succeed only if labor and industry as a whole will willingly accept your decisions, and will adopt the convictions developed out of this conference.

The American people know the enormous size of your task. But the stakes are enormous too. If the people do not find the answers here, they will find them some place else. For these answers must and will be found. The whole system of private enterprise and individual opportunity depends upon finding them.

When industrial strife becomes widespread all of us lose the things we need—the wages that labor wants, the earnings and dividends that businessmen and investors want, the products that the consumers want. No realist can expect the millennium of a perfect no-strike, no lock-out era at once. But continued production and an expanding industry—unhampered as far as humanly possible by stoppages of work—are absolutely essential to progress.

That is the road to security at home and to peace abroad. We cannot fail in our efforts to move forward on that road.

Pickets Retire, Let Truman Enter Hall

Washington, Nov. 5 (AP)—Independent unionists withdrew their picket line temporarily from the labor-management conference today to let President Truman enter and address the gathering.

John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers president, walked through the picket line, however, and Presidents William Green of the AFL and Philip Murray of the CIO used an unpicketed side door to the Labor Department auditorium.

There was no disturbance. The picket leader, Edward G. Wilms, said the pickets removed themselves when Mr. Truman approached "out of respect for the dignity of his office."

Protesting Omission

The dozen placarded men and women pickets are protesting the absence of independent unions from the meeting. They have asked that a delegate be accredited from professional and white-collar workers.

Lewis, in crossing the picket line, paused to speak briefly with the picket leader, Wilms.

There was no disturbance. When Wilms was asked why he did not attempt to prevent Lewis from entering the Labor Department auditorium, Wilms said:

"If that's the way he respects labor, it's up to him."

"Man From Independence"

Presidents William Green of the AFL and Philip Murray of the CIO entered by a side door.

"The man from Independence, Mo., forgot the independent unions," read one of the picket banners.

Another said: "We challenge Green, Lewis and Murray to cross this picket line."

Labor is represented at the conference by William Green, AFL president; Philip Murray, CIO chief; Lewis and others.

"Brushoff Alleged"

Wilms, chairman of the Independent Unions of New Jersey, protested at Paterson last week that half a million Eastern independent unionists had been given the "brushoff" in the planning of the conference. Their reqdests for participation, Wilms said, were ignored.

C. W. Werkau, secretary-treasurer of the National Federation of Telephone Workers, told reporters:

"We believe that independent labor should have been granted more representation in the labor-management conference but do not believe that picket lines can correct this situation. We hereby disavow any relationship with the lines."

"Invite Us In"

Wilms sent a wire to Conference Chairman Walter P. Stacy urging: "Let's make the conference democratic. Invite the independent union representatives who are waiting outside."

NAVY DRAFTS PLAN TO TRAIN OFFICERS IN VAST NUMBERS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5—(AP) A far-reaching plan to obtain and educate thousands of officers for the powerful postwar Navy has been approved by Secretary Forrestal, the Navy announced tonight.

Officials said that the plan would assure equality of opportunity to officers who have not granted from the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

The plan, as drafted by a board headed by Rear Admiral James L. Holloway, assistant chief of naval personnel for demobilization, is subject to congressional approval. Legislation to carry it out will be introduced shortly.

Base is Broad

Fundamentally, members of the board explained, the plan calls for basing officer procurement on as broad a base as possible, drawing candidates from the Naval Academy, Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps colleges, and other accredited institutions.

The program calls for doubling the present output of the Naval Academy, the capacity of which is now about 3,000 students. Over-all, however, the postwar Navy officers strength would comprise not more than 50 per cent academy graduates, officials said.

Academy midshipmen would be nominated under the present system and the four year course would be continued.

The second source of officer candidates would be the nation's 52 naval R.O.T.C. units, which now have an authorized maximum enrollment of 14,000 men. They would receive federal aid in financing their college course, including courses in naval sciences. Graduates would receive commissions as ensigns and would obligate themselves to serve on active duty for 15 months to three years.

The third source would be graduates of accredited colleges. They would be eligible for appointment as ensigns upon graduation, and would be sent to an orientation school. There they would get the same training given R.O.T.C. students during their college course. Such officers would be obligated to serve at least two years.

After three years of probationary service, officers would decide whether to seek permanent careers in the Navy. Those so choosing would be screened by selection boards. Those not choosing permanent careers, and those failing selection, would go into the inactive reserve.

Naval Aviation Plan

The fourth factor in the program is the specialized plan set up for naval aviators.

Under that plan, any student in an accredited school could apply for flight training at the end of his second year. After one year of such training, he would be assigned to the fleet. After a year's fleet service he would win his ensign commission, and then would serve another year at sea. Then, if he chose to remain in the Navy, he would go to the Naval Academy to complete his college education.

If he chose to transfer to the inactive reserve, he would go to the college of his own choice for his last two years, with the Navy paying his expenses and $100 per month.

For all officers, both Academy and non-academy, a general line school would be established somewhere on the West coast, which all would be required to attend six years after their graduation.

CONGRESS ASKS ATOM TEACHING

House, Senate Groups Obtain Scientists As Instructors

Washington, Nov. 5 (AP)—The subject of the atom bomb has become so perplexing on Capitol Hill that lawmakers decided today they need more schooling before they can legislate properly.

The Senate's Special Atomic Committee will start night-school classes Thursday to hear scientists unravel some of the mysteries of cracking the atom.

Over in the House, eighteen representatives arranged a discussion for Thursday afternoon, to hear the views of four physicists.

Dr. Condon As Chief Adviser

The senators got their work started by borrowing Dr. Edward U. Condon, head of the Bureau of Standards, as their principal adviser. They also announced employment of James R. Newman, of Washington, writer on mathematics, as a special aide.

The night-school classes will be at the bureau, where Condon and others will give the Senate committee some scientific background.

Senator McMahon (D., Conn.), chairman of the Senate group, said public hearings on atomic-energy control will start after the members feel they have sufficient knowledge to understand the scientific testimony. As part of the education plan, the group plans to visit atomic-bomb plants in Tennessee and Washington State, and perhaps New Mexico, where the first trial bomb was exploded.

House Group To Hear Four

Condon also will be in the group of four scientists who will meet with the informal House committee headed by Representative Havenner (D., Cal.). The others are Dr. H. C. Urey, Nobel Prize winner, and Dr. Leo Szilard, who worked on the atomic bomb, and Dr. L. B. Horst, chairman of the Oak Ridge (Tenn.) group interested in atomic-energy development.

Earlier in the day, the House Military Committee made public the formal report on its bill setting up a part-time commission to supervise atomic-energy research, and to guard the nation's interests.

The group said this legislation is "entirely neutral" on the question of international use of the bomb, that it should be moved through quickly to settle domestic control alone.

"There is no provision in the bill which will prevent or hinder the United States from adopting any international policy which is hereafter deemed proper," the committee said.

A minority report will be filed next week by Republicans who contend Congress should have control over licensing to work in the field of atomic energy. The majority measure allows the commission to grant license, even to a foreign power, with the approval of the President.

HOUSE GROUP URGES ACTION ON ATOM BILL

Wants Control Law Now, Leaving International Issue Till Later.

Washington, Nov. 5 (A. P.).—The House Military Committee urged Congress today to proceed quickly with atomic energy control legislation and to leave international problems for later settlement. In a formal report to the House, the committee asserted that legislation it approved last week is "entirely neutral on the international issues with which so many people are now concerned." The bill is slated for House consideration late this month.

Meanwhile a group of eighteen Representatives arranged for a meeting on Thursday afternoon to hear four scientists discuss atomic energy.

The military group asserted that its legislation adequately deals with domestic control and research and prescribes bounds within which the proposed control commission may act.

"The bill sets down no policy, and is intended to set down no policy concerning international control or lack of control of atomic energy," the committee said. "There is no provision in the bill which will prevent or hinder the United States from adopting any international policy which is hereafter deemed proper."

G. O. P. Group to Dissent.

A group of Republican committee men will file a dissenting repore later this week. Their opposition to the committee bill is based largely on its lack of retention of Congressional control over licensing foreigners to work in the field of atomic energy. The committee bill approves such licenses provided they are granted by the commission with the approval of the President.

The Senate's Atomic Committee, meanwhile, borrowed Dr. Edward U. Condon, new head of the Bureau of Standards, as its chief scientific adviser. The committee decided also to start night school classes Thursday with a visit to the Standards Bureau where Condon and other scientists will begin explaining the mysteries of cracking the atom.

Public Hearings After 'School.'

Chairman McMahon (D.-Conn.) said that the committee will begin public hearings on legislation to control the development of atomic energy as soon as members get sufficient scientific background. The group plans to visit plants in Tennessee and Washington Etate, where the atomic bomb was developed, before starting the actual study of pending bills. ItI also may go to Alamogordo, N. M., near where the first atomic bomb was exploded.

RULING ON WARD SEIZURE REFUSED BY HIGHEST COURT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5—(AP) The Supreme Court refused today to rule whether the government was right or wrong in seizing Montgomery Ward properties in seven cities last Dec. 28.

The government gave the properties back Oct. 18. Next day it asked the court to hold that no cause of action now exists. This was done, the court vacating a U. S. Circuit court decision which favored the government, and dismissing the original complaint.

Ward Asked Decision

The company had pressed for a Supreme court decision on the ground that the properties might be seized again.

The seizure followed an outbreak of strikes at some of the properties on the heels of a dispute over validity of five War Labor board orders against Wards, including maintenance of union membership and the checkoff system.

This was the first opinion day of the new term. The court handed down a series of decisions in which no flat dissent was registered. This is in sharp contrast to the 1944 start. Justice Jackson, absent for the Nazi criminal trials, in which he is chief U. S. prosecutor took no part. Justice Burton, new member of the court, did not write any of today's opinions.

The court also ruled:

1. It will review a Massachusetts Federal court decision on the federal "kick back" act. This law prohibits coercing an employe to give up part of his pay. The Justice department complained that lower court decision exempts union officials even through the payment extracted from a worker is for the "personal enrichment" of a union official.

2. It will pass on the contempt conviction of the Miami Herald and its associate editor, John D. Pennekamp. They were fined in Dade County, Fla., Circuit court because they criticized that court.

3. It upheld a North Dakota law restricting corporation farming, and requiring certain corporations to sell farm land not necessary to their business.

4. It agreed to decide a Utah case involving a state's right to tax federal subsidies received by mining companies in stimulating war production.

Theater Wins Review

5. It will review a suit by a Chicago theater charging a monopoly existed benefiting moving picture theaters in the principal business section. The petition asserted that certain theaters got first use of new pictures and other theaters had to wait three weeks.

It was the second time Montgomery Ward saw a contest over seizure of its property ended as moot, meaning there was no question to be decided. The first died in District court when the government gave up possession May 9, 1944.

"Labor is restive in general," the company pleaded in pressing for a decision in the Supreme court; "Wards has not abandoned its position on the unsoundness and illegality of the checkoff, and the closed shop. It believes these practices incompatible with the liberties of the American people. The unions are discontented because of the government's inability to pay certain back wages 'ordered' by the War Labor board.

"x x x Strikes against Wards have been twice used in a year and a half as a ground of seizure of its properties and the probability of a third seizure cannot be discounted."

The government, however, noted that it had brought the original complaint seeking to force Wards to comply with seizure orders. Return of the properties wiped out the suit's foundation, it said.

Draft Is Halted For Fathers of Three Children

Order Was Requested by Army and Navy; Ban Also Will Apply to Volunteers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 (AP).—Induction of fathers with three or more children under eighteen was halted today.

Selective service put the ban into effect at the request of the Army and Navy.

In practice, the order affects only qualified registrants eighteen through twenty-five, since drafting of older men was discontinued when the war ended.

Draft boards have been under orders to give preference to fathers in granting deferments, but heretofore there have been no outright exemptions of younger men.

The selective service order applies to volunteers as well as non-volunteers.

The Army released 308,000 more soldiers last week, to bring the total since V-E Day to 2,533,000.

Since V-J Day, the Army said in a weekly summary on demobilization, it has discharged 1,941,000. The total for October was 1,270,000.

To Release River Pilots

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5 (AP).—Fifty-two Delaware River pilots, who brought 20,000 ships in and out of the Port of Philadelphia during the war, will be released from Coast Guard duty Nov. 30, Commodore Milton R. Daniels, 4th Naval District Coast Guard officer, said today.

Commodore Daniels termed the pilots the "unsung heroes of the war, who lived on the pilot boats Philadelphia and Delaware, bringing in ships of every description."

Surplus Board Explains Plant Disposal Delay

Symington Defends Refusal to Lease $200,000,000 Steel Property in Utah

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 (AP).—Providing peace-time jobs was named today by the Surplus Property Administrator as the "biggest factor" in disposal of the government's steel and iron plants built for war.

W. Stuart Symington, the Administrator, announced this policy in explaining to Senators why the government had rejected an offer to lease the $200,000,000 Federally owned steel plant at Geneva, Utah.

"I feel that employment is the biggest factor in disposal of any of these properties," Mr. Symington told a sub-group of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, which is considering surplus problems. "We want to keep these people working."

At the same time, Mr. Symington denied that he had been a "tough trader" on an offer by E. Perry Holder, president of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Corporation, to lease the Geneva plant.

"If Mr. Holder calls me a tough trader, it must be based on hearsay," Mr. Symington said. "I have never even met the gentleman or talked with him."

Earlier, Mr. Holder had testified that his five-year lease offer might net the government $5,000,000 a year. He said the government would have to spend another $51,000,000 for equipment needed to convert the Geneva plant to peace-time production of steel products.

Mr. Symington and Sam Husbands, from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, estimated that Mr. Holder's lease offer would bring the government less than $1,000,000 a year. They said Mr. Holder first asked an additional government outlay of $73,000,000 for reconversion equipment.

Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Democrat, of Wyoming, invited representatives of the steel industry, railroads and government agencies to break in at any time with questions or suggestion. Nearly a dozen witnesses and officials were trying to talk at the same time as they disputed costs, earning power and products of the war-time steel plants.

Henry J. Kaiser, industrialist, told Senators that the Kaiser Company was interested in the big Utah steel plant He said it might be integrated with his big Fontana, Calif., steel plant for an "independent Western steel syndicate."

The trouble, Mr. Kaiser testified, is that his industrial engineers and those employed by the government "were 100 per cent apart" on the peace-time value and earning capacity of the Geneva plant.

Anti-Submarine Rocket Bomb Described By U.S. Scientist

Washington, Nov. 5 (AP)—An anti-submarine rocket bomb which falls vertically rather than in a forward curved drop was described tonight by a scientist.

Dr. Frederick L. Hovde, chief of the rocket division of the Office of Scientific Research and Development, said the vertical fall from airplanes was achieved by having the rocket fired backward with the same speed as the aircraft. The forward momentum from the plane was thus neutralized.

Three Rocket Weapons

This missile, known as the retro bomb, was used when planes passed directly over a target.

Dr. Hovde in a radio speech, said the vertically falling bomb was one of three rocket weapons developed to combat the German U-boat.

Others he named as the "mousetrap" and the anti-submarine aircraft rocket.

The "mousetrap" was mounted on small anti-submarine patrol craft. It enabled these vessels to throw a heavy barrage of bombs.

Japs Quit Beaches

The anti - submarine aircraft rocket was a high velocity forward firing rocket which could penetrate the hulls of submarines even though they were partially submerged, Dr. Hovde said.

Dr. Hovde, president-elect of Purdue University, said beach barrage rocket equipment became so effective that the Japanese quit defending the beaches.

"When the war ended," he added, "the Navy had ready for the invasion of Japan new rocket ships with automatic launchers capable of laying down intense rocket barrage up to 10,000 yards inland from the beaches."

OPA Tones Down Tire-Rationing Optimism

Washington, Nov. 5 (AP)—The OPA today substituted a pessimistic note for its previous optimism on when tire rationing will end. But the gloomy view is not shared by the agency that will make the decision.

Officials of the Civilian Production Administration, successor to the War Production Board, said there is a good chance that the program will be terminated by the end of the year or soon thereafter.

Their estimate was sought when the OPA issued a statement designed to tone down optimism generated when OPA Chief Chester Bowles told Congress recently that the end of tire rationing was "in sight."

Million Tires Behind

Rationing officials of the agency believe this gave the impression that the end was imminent, and that it might make enforcement of tire rationing more difficult.

In today's statement Max McCullough, assistant to Bowles, noted that passenger tire applications now exceed supplies by nearly 1,000,000. He added:

"A substantial increase in production will be necessary to permit the ending of rationing within the next few months."

Production Increasing

"The War Production Board (now CPA) has informed us," McCullough continued, "that production has increased in the past two weeks, and we hope this trend will continue."

CPA officials said production had climbed from around 2,500,000 passenger tires in September to a monthly rate of "better than 3,000,000."

They said that, barring strikes, output should hit 4,000,000 soon and that this would quickly eliminate the backlog of applications.

Not Waiting For Balance

CPA officials said they had no intention of holding on to rationing until supply and demand were in balance. "That might be a year or two," said one official, "and the public would never stand for continuation of a wartime program that long."

He said the principal thing is that there is no longer any danger of a transportation breakdown because of a tire shortage. Therefore, he added, it's just a case of building up production to a point where dealers' stocks can be replaced quickly and continuously.

All Domestic Wine Ceilings Suspended

Washington, Nov. 5 (AP)—The OPA today suspended until next April 1 price ceilings on all sales of domestic bottled wine.

The action also applies to wholesale and retail sales of bulk wine. Other bulk sales have been exempted from price control since August 2.

30.24 — 31435

The additional suspensions are being ordered, OPA said, because current prices of these wines are below ceilings.

The agency attributed the lower prices to a 25 per cent increase in wine production this year, and to a reduction of more than 50 per cent in the cost of grapes.

Anti-Trust Curb Upon Unions Proposed

Washington, Nov. 5 (AP)—In a move he said would "curb strikes and labor disputes," Representative Hebert (D., La.) today proposed a broadening of the anti-trust laws to include unions and paid union officials.

Hebert said his plan was not aimed at the rank and file of labor but was intended to apply to leaders "who provoke such outrageous strikes, combinations and conspiracies in restraint of trade, which have crippled wartime manufacturing and are now obstructing reconvension."

A bill drafted by Hebert would make the antitrust laws applicable to any "officers, agents or representatives" of labor organizations "who receive any compensation or profit from such organizations, or from funds collected from the members of such organizations."

Unions Now Exempt

Hebert noted that labor organizations as such now are specifically exempt from the antitrust laws, enacted to prevent restraint of trade.

"I have no doubt that if my amendment to the anti-trust law is adopted," Hebert said, "John L. Lewis could not act so brazenly as to call a strike of hundreds of thousands of coal miners to tie up interstate fuel supply, steel manufacture and the manufacture of so many products needed for business reconversion in this country, nor could Walter Reuther so brazenly announce that he will tie up the General Motors, Chrysler, Ford and other automobile factories."

"Protects Real Laborer"

Hebert insisted that his proposal "is for the full protection of the real laboring man and the real member of a labor union, whom it would protect from being called out on strike and losing his earnings."

Hebert made his plan public as the House Rules Committee called a meeting for Wednesday to consider how soon, if at all, it should permit the House itself to vote on new labor legislation. This would prohibit labor organizations from contributing to political campaigns and strip collective bargaining rights from unions striking in violation of no-strike clauses in their contracts.

The bill before the Rules Committee was approved last week by the House Military Committee as part of a measure repealing major sections of the Smith-Connally War Labor Disputes Act.

261,000 IDLE IN DISPUTES

Most Labor Trouble Involves Higher-Wage Demands

Chicago, Nov. 5 (AP)—As leaders of business and labor convened in Washington today, an unofficial tabulation showed more than 261,000 persons away from work over the nation because of labor disputes.

Most of these controversies were over demands for higher wages to offset the cut in take-home pay suffered when the war's end brought sudden cancellation of war contracts and consequent loss of overtime work.

Developments In Field

Important developments in the labor field included:

1. The Greyhound AFL bus strike spread across the Mississippi River to involve seven more states.

2. The General Cable Company closed its Perth Amboy (N.J.) plant indefinitely because of AFL picketing where no dispute existed.

3. The United States Conciliation Service planned a meeting aimed at ending the seven-state strike of 15,000 CIO glass workers, out two weeks.

Striking AFL bus drivers for Greyhound lines east of the Mississippi were joined by employés of the Southwestern Greyhound Lines, Inc., in seven Southern and Western states. The addition brought the total involved to about 4,300, of which 4,000 were in nineteen Eastern states.

Cent-A-Mile Increase Asked

The strikers on Southwestern Greyhound are asking a cent a mile increase, which would bring pay up to 5.5 cents. The company has offered 5.3 cents. States served are Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Kansas, New Mexico, Colorado and Arkansas.

In the strike in the East, which started November 1, drivers receive 5 cents a mile. They asked for 5.75 and the company offered 5.4.

The General Cable Company announced closing of its Perth Amboy plant and laying off until further notice of 350 office workers "to prevent indignities" such as booing from pickets.

Refused To Cross Picket Lines

There was no labor dispute at the Perth Amboy plant, but pickets from the Bayonne (N.J.) plant set up lines and the Perth Amboy workers refused to cross them.

The 1,000 AFL electrical workers struck at the Bayonne plant October 31 for a 30 per cent wage increase. The company made no immediate statement on whether the Perth Amboy office personnel would be paid during the layoff. The union had no comment.

Also in Perth Amboy, 200 CIO employés of the Bonafide-Genasco Roof Manufacturing Company walked out over the dismissal of 61 older employés Saturday. The company offered no comment but the union called the stoppage a lockout and termed the dismissal a violation of the seniority clause of a contract.

Meeting Is Called

Representatives of the CIO Federation of Glass Ceramic and Silica Sand Workers and the United States Conciliation Service will meet in Washington, possibly Friday, in an effort to end a strike at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass and the Libby-Owens-Ford Glass companies.

More than 15,000 workers have been out since October 22 from the companies' plants in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Illinois, Oklahoma, Missouri and Louisiana. The strike started when contract negotiations became dead locked on wages.

46 States Changed Laws In '45 to Aid Veterans

Mississippi, Louisiana Legislatures Not in Session

CHICAGO, Nov. 5 (AP).—Forty-six states changed laws affecting war veterans, members of the armed services, their dependents and their organizations in 1945, the Council of State Governments reported today.

Mississippi and Louisiana did not hae legislative sessions this year, but because of action taken in 1945 or earlier all forty-eight states now have state organizations to handle veterans' affairs.

Changes made in 1945 in the main were extensions of prior state laws concerning:

Claims service designed to assist all veterans in prosecution of their claims against the Federal government.

Hospitals and home care of veterans and their dependents in state institutions.

Economic grants to veterans and men in service and their eligible dependents to relieve or prevent want and distress,

Employment preferences and preservation of job rights.

Land settlement benefits and occupational and tax exemptions.

New legislation approved in 1945 had for its main purpose the rehabilitation of World War II veterans and concerned:

Bonuses to veterans or legal heirs.

Educational grants to eligible veterans to prevent want and distress when Federal or other benefit is inadequate.

Increased educational opportunities and training courses in state institutions and loans to qualified veterans for their rehabilitation, education or for aid in the purchase of homes, farms or businesses.

3 WIN BACK PAY DESPITE CONGRESS

Washington, Nov. 5 (A. P.).—Three former Government officials, whose salary payments were barred by Congress more than two years ago, won a fight for back pay in the United States Court of Claims today.

Robert M. Lovett, who was an official for the Government in the Virgin Islands, was awarded $1,996.40; Goodwin B. Watson, former employee of the Federal Communications Commission, $101.78, and William E. Dodd, another former employee of the FCC, $59.83. The Comptroller General felt he had no authority to oppose Congress and the salaries stopped on November 15, 1943.

Although the three announced their intention of remaining in their jobs, Dodd and Watson left the FCC shortly afterward. Lovett remained on duty as executive assistant to the Governor of the Virgin Islands until March, 1944, then resigned, accepting a position on the faculty of the University of Puerto Rico.

Lovett, Watson and Dodd were struck from the Federal payroll in 1943 by a rider to an appropriation bill. The congressional action followed a report by a House appropriation sub-committee hold-

Mundt Says U. N. O. Site In U. S. Is Still in Doubt

Tells House of French, English and Dutch Opposition

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 (AP).—Selection of the United States as permanent headquarters of the United Nations Organization is still in doubt, Representative Karl E. Mundt, Republican, of South Dakota, said today.

Although the executive committee of the organization favors locating the headquarters in this country, the move is opposed by England, France and the Netherlands, he told the House.

"They recognize from experience that they can exert greater and more controlling influence upon the destiny of this new organization if they can locate it in The Hague, back in Geneva, in Versailles, or somewhere in the far-flung British Empire," he said.

"Their reluctance to sacrifice such special position is understandable, albeit, I truly believe, unfortunate."

Representative Mundt said he would recommend that President Truman invite the United Nations executive committee to send a commission to the United States to study proposed sites for the "world capital."

Skaneateles Asks To Be U. N. O. Home

Skaneateles, N. Y., Nov. 5 (A. P.).—This village of 2,000, home of Mrs. Jonathan M. Wainwright during the war, seeks to become the headquarters of the United Nations organization.

The village Chamber of Commerce has adopted a resolution in viting U. N. O. to make its headquarters here and Charles T. Major, president of the chamber, has notified Edward Stettinius Jr., United States representative to the international organization, of its action.

France, Russia Place $2,000,000 Steel Order

Portland, Ore., Nov. 5 (AP)—Oregon Steel Mills today announced it had signed contracts with French and Soviet Government representatives in Washington, D.C., for 32,000,000 worth of steel to be used in rehabilitation.

Officials said this was the first foreign cash steel purchase from an American firm since lend-lease was halted.

About $1,500,000 of the raw steel bars will be used for railroads, buildings, bridges and other heavy construction, company spokesmen said, while $500,000 will go for trucks and other equipment. Part of the cargo will go to Russia by way of Vladivostok, part to France via the Panama Canal, and part to Indochina.

Mrs. R. Favors Year Of Universal Training

Hyde Park, N.Y., Nov. 5 (AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt today said she favored a year of universal training, and added: "Boys and girls should spend that year in learning the meaning of democracy."

"I would like to see the camps established near great centers of learning," she said at a meeting of Dutchess county school teachers. "It should not be a year taken out of their lives, but a year of opportunity."

She did not elaborate on training for girls.

With reference to scholarships, Mrs. Roosevelt said "we could learn from Russia, where able young people who pass required examinations have both their tuition and their living paid by the state. Aid to good students should never count as a debt."

Chilean Says We Propped Up Regime at San Francisco

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 (UP)—The United States abandoned the Roosevelt-Hull policy on Argentina and thus contributed to strengthening of the present military dictatorship there, Gabriel Gonzalez Videla, a Chilean Senator, said today at a press conference.

Terming the Argentine dictatorship a "menace to Chile," he said that the Argentine people might have gotten rid of it had not the United States "intervened in its favor."

"One of the biggest diplomatic errors ever committed," he said, "was when the United States recognized Argentina and then urged the Latin-American republics to vote for its admission to the United Nations Conference at San Francisco."

Army Released 308,000 Veterans Last Week

Washington, Nov. 5 (AP)—The Army released 308,000 more soldiers last week to bring the total since V-E day to 2,533,000.

Since V-J day, the Army said in a weekly summary on demobilization, it has discharged 1,941,000. The total for October was 1,270,000.

Truman Has No Plan To Visit Europe

Washington, Nov. 5 (A. P.).—The White House said today that President Truman has no plans for a European visit.

Eben Ayers, assistant press secretary, made this assertion when asked about a report published in Paris that Mr. Truman planned to visit the French capital and Normandy next spring.

Philadelphia, Nov. 5 (A. P.).—The U. S. S. Kirwin, newest of the Navy's high-speed transport vessel, was commissioned yesterday at the Navy Yard. The ship, named for Lieut. John J. Kirwin, Navy hero who died in battle at Salerno, was built as a destroyer escort and converted.

TAYLOR DISCHARGED

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 5 — (AP) Robert Taylor of the movies, formerly Lt. Robert Taylor, U.S.N., is a civilian again. After 27 months as a Navy flying instructor, he was discharged today at a separation center.

Taylor said he would rejoin his actress-wife, Barbara Stanwyck, then take in a hunting trip before resuming movie work.

'MISSOURI' DAMAGED BY VANDAL VISITORS

NEW YORK, Nov. 5. — (AP) Cmdr. Arthur F. Spring, executive officer of the battleship Missouri, today blamed damage to the vessel on "scattered vandals" among the thousands of New Yorkers who visited the ship.

Defaced with chalk marks, her paint scraped off, and stripped of everything loose which might serve as a souvenir, the Missouri scheduled "field day" tomorrow—a gigantic "clean up after the party," as ship's officers termed it.

Cmdr. Spring, however, praised the city for its hospitality.

The Missouri will move Nov. 15 to Bayonne, N. J., and then to Brooklyn Navy yard.

AUSTRIA (600)

(EDITOR'S NOTE: THE FOLLOWING IS ONE OF A SERIES OF STORIES ON THE ANSCHLUSS OF AUSTRIA, AS TOLD IN THE RECORDED SECRET TELEPHONE CONVERSATIONS OF NAZI OFFICIALS RECOVERED FROM THE RUINS OF BERLIN.)

BY DANIEL DE LUCE

COPYRIGHT, 1945, BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BERLIN, NOV. 5-(AP)-ADOLF HITLER KNEW IN 1938 THAT HE WOULD BE IN A "FRIGHTFUL" MILITARY POSITION SHOULD THE OTHER POWERS PROTECT AUSTRIA, AND HE EAGERLY REWARDED MUSSOLINI'S SUBMISSION TO THE ANSCHLUSS WITH A PLEDGE THAT HE WOULD "NEVER FORGET" THE DUCE'S MAGNANIMITY.

HITLER'S FEARS OF FOREIGN INTERVENTION ARE REVEALED IN RECORDS COMPILED BY FUNCTIONARIES OF REICHSMARSHAL HERMANN GOERING'S AIR MINISTRY, WHO TOOK DOWN EVERY WORD AS NAZI CONSPIRATORS MANEUVERED THE SEIZURE OF AUSTRIA OVER INTERNATIONAL TELEPHONE LINES. THEIR TRANSCRIPTS, LABELLED "SECRET ARCHIVES", WERE TOSSED INTO A HEAP OF RUBBISH IN THE AIRMINISTRY COURTYARD WHEN THE RED ARMY SWEPT INTO BERLIN.

TWO ELDERLY GERMANS RETRIEVED THE RECORDS AND LOADED THEM INTO MY JEEP IN RETURN FOR TWO CIGARETTES. TRANSLATED AND CONDENSED, THEY GIVE THE FIRST INSIDE ACCOUNT OF GERMANY'S ROLE IN THE AUSTRIAN SEIZURE ON MARCH 12, 1938.

THIS RECORD DISCLOSES THAT PRINCE PHILIP OF HESSE, NOW IN ALLIED CUSTODY, WAS THE GO-BETWEEN IN GERMAN AND ITALIAN NEGOTIATIONS. THE PRINCE WAS THE HUSBAND OF PRINCESS MAFALDA OF ITALY, WHO DIED IN AN ALLIED BOMBING OF BUCHENWALD.

HESSE PHONED HITLER FROM ROME AT 10:25 P.M., FRIDAY, MARCH 11, JUST 31 MINUTES AFTER ARTHUR SEYSS-INQUART, NAZI PUPPET IN VIENNA, HAD AGREED TO A GOERING-DICTATED TELEGRAM REQUESTING GERMAN INTERVENTION TO PREVENT "BLOODSHED".

CHANCELLOR KURT SCHUSCHNIGG'S AUSTRIAN GOVERNMENT HAD RESIGNED AFTER A TWO-HOUR ULTIMATUM FROM GOERING. SEYSS-INQUART HAD BEEN INSTRUCTED TO SEIZE POWER. TWO HUNDRED AND FORTY THOUSAND GERMAN TROOPS HAD ORDERS TO CROSS THE AUSTRIAN BORDER AT DAWN.

HESSE OPENED THE CONVERSATION, SAYING: "I HAVE JUST COME FROM THE PALAZZO VENEZIA. THE DUCE ACCEPTED THE WHOLE THING VERY FRIENDLY. HE SENDS YOU HIS REGARDS. (MUSSOLINI) SAID XXX ONE COULDN'T DO IT. HE WAS ANSWERED IT WAS UNFORTUNATELY ALREADY ARRANGED THUS AND ONE COULD NOT CHANGE IT. THEN MUSSOLINI SAID AUSTRIA WOULD NOW BE A FINISHED CONCERN FOR HIM."

HITLER: "THEN PLEASE TELL MUSSOLINI I WILL NEVER FORGET HIM FOR THIS. NEVER, NEVER, NEVER XXX IN CASE THE AUSTRIAN THING IS SETTLED, I AM READY TO GO WITH HIME THROUGH THICK AND THIN."

A11

HESSE: "YES, INDEED, MY FUEHRER."

HITLER: "LISTEN, I SHALL MAKE EVERY ARRANGEMENT NOW -- I FEEL I AM NO LONGER IN A FRIGHTFUL POSITION AS WOULD HAVE BEEN MILITARILY THE CASE FOR US HAD I GOT INTO CONFLICT."

HESSE CALLED BACK THE NEXT DAY, WHILE GERMAN TROOPS WERE MARCHING INTO AUSTRIA, AND GOT GOERING.

HESSE: "CIANO (ITALIAN FOREIGN MINISTER) TOLD ME, BY ORDER OF THE DUCE, ONE WOULD BE VERY THANKFUL IF A PRESS NOTICE WERE PUBLISHED IN GERMANY ABOUT THE LOYAL BEHAVIOR OF THE DUCE AND ITALY TO GERMANY IN THIS AFFAIR."

GOERING: "XXX FOR US THERE COULD BE NOTHING MORE PLEASANT XXX AND TELL THE DUCE XXX THE GERMAN TROOPS WHO MARCHED INTO INNSBRUCK HAVE STRICT ORDERS NOT TO GO FURTHER."

GOERING TALKED TO THE PRINCE AGAIN THAT AFTERNOON.

HESSE: "XXX I WAS WITH THE KING (OF ITALY) (HE) TALKED ABOUT ANOTHER INTERESTING THING. XXX ONE THINKS IT WOULD BE VERY GOOD IF ONE WERE TO OPEN THE FRONTIERS FOR AWHILE SO ALL THIS DIRTY MESS COULD GET OUT."

GOERING: "BUT NOT THE ONES WITH FOREIGN EXCHANGE, OTHERWISE THEY WOULD SLIP AWAY FROM US. THE JEWS CAN GO BUT THEY MUST LEAVE THE MONEY THERE, THEY STOLE IT ALL!"

OTHER RECORDED CONVERSATIONS DISCLOSE THAT AT 8:48 P.M., MARCH 11, 1938, GOERING DICTATED THE TELEGRAM WHICH SEYSS-INQUART WAS TO SEND TO BERLIN INVITING THE GERMAN ARMED FORCES INTO AUSTRIA."

LT. GEN. MUFF, SPEAKING TO GOERING, SAID: "THE FACT IS SCHUSCHNIGG HAS BEEN ATTEMPTING TO SHOW THE WORLD THE NATIONAL

30.24 — 31439

SOCIALISTS HAVE NO MAJORITY AND CAN ONLY BE PUT IN THROUGH THE ARMED THREAT OF GERMANY XXX."

GOERING DEMANDED THAT AUSTRIAN PRESIDENT WILHELM MIKLAS, WHO REFUSED TO APPOINT SEYSS-INQUART, BE REMOVED ALONG WITH SCHUSCHNIGG. HIS ORDERS WERE CARRIED OUT AND THE TELEGRAM REQUESTING INTERVENTION DISPATCHED.

AT DAWN GERMAN TROOPS GOOSE-STEPPED ACROSS THE AUSTRIAN BORDER. GERMANY WAS ON THE ROAD TO CONQUEST--AND ULTIMATE DISASTER.

CHUNGKING,NOV.5-(AP)-A UNITED STATES MILITARY MISSION OF AT LEAST 3,500 MEN, PRESUMABLY TO BE HEADED BY LT.GEN.ALBERT C. WEDEMEYER, WILL HELP CHINA REORGANIZE HER GROUND, AIR AND NAVAL FORCES.

AN AUTHORITATIVE AMERICAN SPOKESMAN IN CHUNGKING SAID THE PROJECT ALREADY WAS APPROVED IN WASHINGTON AND WOULD CONSIST OF 2,200 ARMY GROUND FORCE PERSONNEL, 1,300 AIRMEN AND AN UNSPECIFIED NUMBER OF NAVY PERSONNEL.

BRIG.GEN.RUSSELL RANDALL OF LONG ISLAND, NOV 6 1945, FORMER COMMANDER OF THE CHINA-BASED 312TH FIGHTER WING, 14TH AIRFORCE, WAS SCHEDULED TO HEAD THE AIR WING. HE ALREADY IS IN CHINA, WHILE WEDEMEYER, CHIEF OF THE AMERICAN FORCES IN CHINA, IS EXPECTED TO RETURN SOON FROM WASHINGTON.

THE MISSION WOULD BE IN EXISTENCE FIVE YEARS, AND WOULD ADVISE THE CHINESE ON STANDARDIZATION OF EQUIPMENT AND THE WHITTLING DOWN OF THEIR PRESENTLY UNWIELDY GROUND TROOPS.

THE CHINESE AIRFORCE WILL PLACE GREATEST EMPHASIS ON FIGHTER CRAFT. IT POSSESSES A NUMBER OF P-40S AND P-47S, AND HAS PLACED ORDERS IN THE UNITED STATES FOR SOME P-51S.

THE AMERICANS WILL SIMPLY ACT AS ADVISERS AND SUPERVISORS. PLANS CALL FOR IMPROVEMENT OF ALL PHASES OF THE AIRFORCE. WHEN THE TRAINING IS COMPLETED, THE CHINESE AIRFORCE WILL BY NO STANDARDS BE RATED AS FIRST CLASS, SINCE DEVELOPMENT OF JET-PROPELLED PLANES IN OTHER COUNTRIES VIRTUALLY ANTIQUATES THE PLANES NOW UNDER CHINESE CONSIDERATION.

SOVIET PACT, BECAME A FREE PORT AND PORT ARTHUR WAS PROJECTED AS A SINO-RUSSIAN NAVAL BASE BUT BOTH WERE TO BE UNDER CHINESE SOVEREIGNTY.

MOSCOW'S PERSISTENT REFUSAL TO ALLOW THE CHINESE LANDINGS CAUSED DISAPPOINTMENT AND WORRY IN CHUNGKING, BUT NO RESPONSIBLE OFFICIAL HERE WOULD COMMIT HIMSELF TO PUBLIC COMMENT FOR FEAR OF OFFENDING MOSCOW'S SUSCEPTIBILITIES.

MEANWHILE, FRESH REPORTS WERE RECEIVED ALLEGING THAT COMMUNIST FORCES WERE CARRYING OUT A GRADUAL SHIFT FROM THEIR BASE IN NORTHERN SHENSI PROVINCE TO INNER MONGOLIA, WHICH STRATEGICALLY WOULD BE A MORE FAVORABLE POSITION BECAUSE OF ITS CONTIGUITY WITH NOW "INDEPENDENT" OUTER MONGOLIA, WITH WHICH THE CHINESE REDS APPARENTLY HOPE TO DEVELOP A MILITARY AND SPIRITUAL AFFINITY.

ANOTHER COMMUNIST OBJECTIVE APPARENTLY IS TO INFILTRATE INTO MANCHURIA AND THERE TRY TO OBTAIN FOR THE FIRST TIME SOME HEAVY INDUSTRY TO SUSTAIN THEIR WAR MACHINE.

SOME QUARTERS SAID THEY THOUGHT THAT IF THEY SUCCEEDED IN DOING SO, ANY REAL ALL-OUT CIVIL WAR IN CHINA MIGHT BECOME A PROTRACTED AFFAIR WITH THE ODDS SLOWLY SHIFTING IN FAVOR OF THE COMMUNISTS.

CHUNGKING OFFICIALS MEANWHILE AWAITED THE COMMUNIST REPLY TO THE GOVERNMENTS PROPOSALS AIMED AT HALTING THE UNDECLARED CIVIL WAR FOR CONTROL OF MAIN RAIL ARTERIES AND COMMUNICATIONS CENTERS.

UNOFFICIAL COMMUNIST SOURCES, HOWEVER, EXPRESSED CRIICISM OF THE GOVERNMENT'S PEACE OFFER, WHICH ASKED CESSATION OF HOSTILITIES ON BOTH SIDES, WITH RAILWAY POLICE TAKING OVER GUARD DUTIES FROM TROOPS ON THE LINES AND THE APPOINTMENT OF A COMMISSION BY THE PEOPLE'S COUNCIL TO INVESTIGATE CONDITIONS ALONG THE RAILWAYS.

UNCONFIRMED REPORTS SAID THE COMMUNISTS HAD CAPTURED TATUNG, AN IMPORTANT RAILWAY CITY IN NORTHERN SHANSI PROVINCE, NEAR THE GREAT WALL.

IN PEIPING, GEN.HO YING CHIN, CHIEF OF STAFF TO CHIANG, SAID BLUNTLY THAT THE GOVERNMENT WAS DETERMINED TO REOPEN COMMUNICATIONS LINES THROUGH ZONES HELD BY THE COMMUNISTS.

HO MINIMIZED THE POSSIBILITIES OF WIDESPREAD CIVIL WAR WITH THE STATEMENT THAT "UP TO THE PRESENT AND ACCORDING TO ALL THE INFORMATION WHICH I HAVE AT HAND, THERE IS NO FIGHTING ON A LARGE SCALE IN NORTH CHINA."

BUT HE ACCUSED THE COMMUNISTS OF WRECKING THE RAILWAYS TO PREVENT MOVEMENT OF NATIONALIST UNITS TO TAKE THE SURRENDER OF SOME 200,000 JAPANESE STILL UNDER ARMS IN HOPEH AND SHANTUNG PROVINCES. HE SAID THE NIPPONESE WOULD BE DISARMED BY THE END OF NOVEMBER.

HO SAID THAT RUSSIAN AND CHINESE RELATIONS IN MANCHURIA WERE "VERY CLOSE" ADDING THAT RUSSIAN MILITARY AUTHORITIES "HAVE DONE THEIR BEST" TO AID CHINESE NATIONALIST TROOPS MOVING INTO THE TERRITORY.

CHINESESOURCES AT TIENTSIN SAID THAT NATIONALIST GOVERNMENT TROOPS SOON WOULD MAKE NEW LANDINGS NORTH OF THE GREAT WALL. THEY RECEIVED REPORTS OF RUSSIAN WITHDRAWALS FROM THE MANCHURIAN COASTS.

A SEMIOFFICIAL DISPATCH RECEIVED AT CHUNGKING SAID GEN.TU YU-

MING, COMMANDER OF THE CHINESE PEACE PRESERVATION CORPS IN MANCHURIA, WAS EN ROUTE FROM CHINWANGTAO TO YINGKOW BY DESTROYER, TO ARRANGE THE LANDING OF CHINESE NATIONALIST TROOPS AT THE LATTER PORT, 100 MILES SOUTHWEST OF MUKDEN.

SHANGHAI, NOV.5-(AP)-THE CHINESE ARE IN CHARGE AT CANTON, WHERE OLD CATHAY FIRST EXPERIENCED CONTACT WITH WESTERN CIVILIZATIONS. THEY HAVE NOT ASKED FOR HELP AND THEY DON'T TOLERATE INTERFERENCE.

THERE STILL ARE JAPANESE SOLDIERS ON THE STREETS OF CANTON AND THEY WEAR LITLE WHITE GAUZE MASKS. THEY NEED THE MASKS BECAUSE THEY'RE SWEEPING THE STREETS.

THIS PICTURE OF CANTON WAS BROUGHT TO SHANGHAI BY TRAVELERS TODAY. THEY SAID THAT CANTON HAS BECOME ONCE MORE A CHINESECITY, AND IS POLITELY BUT FIRMLY MAINTAINING THAT STATUS.

MOST OF THE JAPANESE TROOPS HAVE BEEN REMOVED. THE FEW HUNDRED WHO REMAIN ARE KEPT HARD AT WORK CLEARING STREETS AND SPRUCING UP VACANT LOTS. BATTLE-HARDENED CHINESE SOLDIERS SEE TO IT THAT THE JAPANESE DON'T LOAF ON THEJOB.

SGT.FRANC (CORRECT) SHOR OF SAN FRANCISCO REPORTED THAT CHINESE AND AMERICAN SERVICE MEN "GET ALONG IN GREAT STYLE DOWN THERE."

"THESE CHINESE ARE AMONG THE BEST DIVISIONS IN GENERALISSIMO CHIANG KAI-SHEK'S ARMY," SHOR ADDED. "THEY ARE AMERICAN TRAINED AND AMERICAN EQUIPPED, MOST OF THEM, AND THEY'RE GOOD LOOKING SOLDIERS.

"MEN OF THE CHINESE COMBAT COMMAND, WHO MAKE UP A MAJORITY OF THE FEW HUNDRED YANKS IN CANTON, HAVE SEEN THEM IN ACTION AND RESPECT THEM. THERE IS A SPIRIT OF COMRADESHIP AND MUTUAL ASSISTANCE THAT IS GOOD TO SEE."

THERE AREN'T MANY BARGAINS IN CANTON, HOWEVER. THE CITY WAS THE CENTER OF THE IVORY AND JADE TRADE BEFORE THE WAR, BUT NOW THE YANKS ARE PAYING PLENTY FOR WHAT THEY GET.

A GOOD CHINESE MEAL COSTS THE EQUIVALENT OF NEARLY TWO U.S. DOLLARS. A BOTTLE OF SCOTCH WHISKEY COSTS ABOUT $30 U.S.

PHNOMPENH, CAMBODIA, ~~KHER~~ INDOCHINA, NOV. 5-(AP)-AN UNPRECEDENTED INTERNAL GRANT OF AUTONOMY FOR FRANCE'S FAR EASTERN COLONIES MAY BE FORESHADOWED IN CURRENT FRENCH-CAMBODIAN NEGOTIATIONS WHICH WOULD ULTIMATELY GIVE THIS PROTECTORATE KINGDOM COMPLETE CONTROL OF ITS INTERNAL AND POLITICAL AFFAIRS.

NOV 6 1945

THE PLAN NOW BEING DISCUSSED WOULD ESTABLISH A FRENCH-CAMBODIAN COMMISSION TO DRAW UP A PACT GIVING THE SOUTHWEST INDOCHINA ~~KHMER~~ KINGDOM INTERNAL AUTONOMY, BUT LEAVING ITS FOREIGN RELATIONS UNDER FRENCH CONTROL.

30.24—31443

REESTABLISHMENT OF FRENCH ARMED FORCES HERE HAS BEEN ASKED BY THE CAMBODIAN ADMINISTRATION, HOWEVER, BECAUSE LEADERS SAY THAT A FRENCH-TRAINED COMBODIAN ARMY OF 4,000 TROOPS WOULD BE INSUFFICIENT TO HANDLE THE KINGDOM'S DEFENSE.

INTERNAL AUTONOMY, WHICH WOULD HAVE TO BE RATIFIED FINALLY BY THE FRENCH PARLIAMENT, HAS BEEN OFFERED INFERENTIALLY IN THE FUTURE TO TONKIN AND ANNAM, PROTECTORATES; COCHIN-CHINA, A COLONY; AND LAOS, WHICH IS HALF PROTECTORATE AND HALF COLONY. BUT NO ACTION WILL BE TAKEN, FRENCH OFFICIALS SAID, UNTIL THE FIGHTING AGAINST FRENCH REOCCUPATION CEASES.

NOV 6 1945

"THERE IS NO REASON TO REFUSE AUTONOMY TO ANNAM," A FRENCH SOURCE ADDED, SAID. HE ~~REXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXX~~ SAID, HOWEVER, THAT THERE COULD NEVER BE A DEAL WITH THE HOCHIMINH FACTION, "WHICH IS IMPRISONED IN THE SLOGAN 'INDEPENDENCE OR DEATH' AND CANNOT RETREAT INTO NEGOTIATIONS FOR AUTONOMY."

THE FIRST TASK FACING THE FRENCH IN HANDLING CAMBODIAN FOREIGN RELATIONS IS TO ATTEMPT TO RECOVER 965 SQUARE MILES OF THE DEST PADDYLAND IN THE KINGDOM, WHICH WAS LOST TO SIAM BY A JAPANESE-DICTATED AGREEMENT. ALTHOUGH SIAM HAS RELINQUISHED OTHER JAPANESE "GIFTS," SHE CLAIMS PROPER OWNERSHIP OF PORTIONS OF CAMBODIA AND NEIGHBORING AREAS.

MOLOTOFF REBUKES US ON ATOMIC POLICY

Molotov Attacks Secrecy About Atom Energy

London, Nov. 6 (AP) — Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav M. Molotov expressed Soviet disapproval of secrecy on atomic energy in a Moscow address today and declared the war discovery must not be used for either oppressions or power politics.

"There ought to be no secrecy about the subject," he said, adding that atomic energy had yet to prove its value in preventing aggression or in the cause of peace.

"We shall have atomic energy and much else besides," Molotov's Russian audience was told.

Stalin Is Cheered

He spoke on the eve of the Soviet Union's November 7 observance of the twenty-eighth anniversary of the revolution, at a giant rally which cheered Generalissimo Stalin as an honorary chairman. The ceremony, broadcast by the Moscow radio, ended without words from Stalin.

Molotov voiced dissatisfaction with the state of negotiations for Allied control of Japan and the progress of European reparation arrangements. He did not mention the United States or any other ally in his comments upon atomic energy.

Recorded Address

As recorded by the Soviet monitor, Molotov said:

"After the victory, some people abroad are exerting efforts in support of a policy of imperialism.

"In this regard we must mention the discovery of atomic energy and the atomic bomb, the use of which showed its tremendous destructive power in the war against Japan.

"Atomic energy has not, however, yet proved its value in the prevention of aggression and the cause of peace.

"On the other hand, at the present time there cannot exist any large-scale technical secrets which could remain the property of a single country or any small circle of states. Therefore, the discovery of atomic energy must not encourage either oppressions or the utilization of the discovery for games of power in foreign policy."

Soviet Science Must Progress

The Russians were told: "We must take as our measure the achievement of modern world technique in all branches of industry and national economy and secure conditions under which Soviet science and technique can be of the fullest service.

"We shall have atomic energy and much else besides."

Molotov further asserted:

"In the treatment of the defeated we should not let ourselves be guided by our feelings, but only by the necessity to prevent a new aggression. This applies to all countries which bear the responsibility for securing peace.

First Suggestion

"We must then mention here the force of atomic energy which was experienced in the war with Japan. Nowadays there ought to be no secrecy about this subject."

This was the first time a high Soviet official had suggested that the United States and Great Britain share their practical knowledge of atomic energy as a means of warfare.

Liberation Important

The Soviet monitor's version of Molotov's remarks concerning Japan was that the liberation of China was of the greatest importance to the world.

"It is thus clear that the Soviet Union considers most important the negotiation of control of all the Allies over Japan," he said. "In this question no satisfactory results have yet emerged, but the importance of satisfactory results is clear to all."

Molotov told the cheering crowd that, with victory in war, "now we can return to peacetime labor."

Apprehensive Of Blocs

"Now that peace has come, every effort must be made not to permit a new aggression," Molotov said. "Formation of blocs in western Europe will not create a peaceful Europe."

The Foreign Commissar was quoted by the Soviet monitor as stating that the war-born British-Soviet-American coalition was being tested in peace and that the failure of the recent London Conference of Foreign Ministers was a warning of pitfalls ahead.

"But difficulties arose before, too," he added. "The coalition, however, always found a solution in the interest of all."

Peace Organization's Need

"Only joint collaboration of all countries that bore the brunt of the war can secure the success of the new international (peace) organization," Molotov said. "Expressions of good intentions are not enough. The Soviet Union was and will be a reliable bulwark in the defense of peace, and is ready to prove it not only by words but by deeds."

The Foreign Commissar said that Nazis soon to defend their lives before the war crimes court at Nuernberg, Germany, would be called upon to answer for the destruction wrought upon Russia during the war.

REDS ASK SHARING OF ATOMIC SECRET

Molotov Declares No Group of Nations Can Control Knowledge.

MOSCOW, Nov. 6—(AP) Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov, asserting the atomic bomb cannot be kept secret, promised Russians tonight that the Soviet Union will have atomic energy and many other things."

A signal bell had to be run to quiet the tumult that welled through the hall of St. Andrew in the Kremlin when Molotov made this statement in his speech on the eve of the 28th anniversary of the Red revolution.

Molotov said the use of atomic energy must not be employed in a political play for strength.

He called for Allied control of Japan, and while he described the London Foreign Ministers conference as a failure, he said "only the joint efforts of the three great powers" could "secure the victories of the democratci countries over Fascism."

The United Nations, he asserted, must not "become the tool of any one great power."

On atomic energy, the foreign commissar said:

"We desire that our nation shall bloom, and that there will be atomic energy and many other things.

"It is not possible that the present time for a technical secret of nay great size to remain the exclusive possession of some one country or some narrow circle of countries.

"This being so, the discovery of atomic energy should not encourage either a propensity to exploit the discovery in the play of forces in international policy, or an attitude of complacency as regards the future of the peace loving nations."

The colossal destructive force of the atomic bomb has not yet been tried, he said, "for averting aggression or safeguarding peace." His speech did not mention the United States or other countries in connection with atomic energy.

Stalin Absent

Generalissimo Stalin, reported to have returned this week from his Black Sea vacation, was not present in the hall, and there was no explanation of his absence. A long message of greeting was sent him.

Molotov asked for reparations from the defeated Axis nations in a spirit free from revenge, and warned his countrymen they still were living in a world "where the root of imperialism still remain."

Referring to this, he said Russia should give great attention to "strengthening the collaboration" gained in victory.

SAYS IT MUST NOT BE USED IN GAME OF POWER

Soviet Foreign Commissar Declares Russia Shall Have Atomic Energy.

'AND MUCH ELSE BESIDES'

He Also Calls for Allied Control in Japan and for Reparation Payments by Axis Powers.

Moscow, Nov. 6 (A. P.). —Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov declared tonight that there should be no secrecy concerning the atomic bomb and that atomic energy must not be used "for games of power in foreign policy."

Russia "shall have atomic energy and much else besides," he predicted in a broadcast speech opening Moscow's celebration of the twenty-eighth anniversary of the Red Revolution.

The Foreign Commissar also called for Allied control of Japan and for reparations from defeated Axis nations in a spirit free from revenge.

While implying that the United States, Britain and Canada should share their atomic bomb secrets with Russia and other nations, Molotov said that "atomic energy has not . . . yet proved its value in the prevention of aggression and the defense of peace."

Avoids Mentioning U. S.

Without mentioning the United States or other countries by name, he continued: "At the present time, there cannot exist any large-scale technical secrets which could remain the property of a single country or any small circle of States. Therefore, the discovery of atomic energy must not encourage either oppressions, or the utilization of the discovery for games of power in foreign policy."

Molotov declared the victorious Allies should be guided in their treatment of the defeated Axis nations "not by our feelings but only by the necessity to prevent new aggression."

Molotov—the first high Soviet official to deal with the subject of atomic power—said Russia must give initial attention to her industry and to the creating of highly skilled technicians.

"We must take as our measure the achievements of modern world technique in all branches of industry and national economy and secure conditions under which Soviet science and technique can be of the fullest service.

Molotov spoke at a huge Moscow rally.

During the day the presidium of the Supreme Soviet awarded Molotov the coveted Order of Lenin. He was one of a group of Russian diplomats receiving decorations.

Plan For Control Of Japan

Declaring that the "Soviet Union considers most important the negotiation of control of all Allies over Japan"—a control which now rests in the hands of General MacArthur as Allied commander—Molotov said:

"In this question no satisfactory results have yet merged, but the importance of satisfactory results is clear to all."

Molotov raised the question of an Allied control commission for Japan at the recent Foreign Ministers' council in London.

Detailing a portion of the price Russia paid in the war, Molotov said the Axis invaders destroyed 1,710 towns and over 70,000 smaller comunities, burned and destroyed more than 6,000,000 buildings, rendered 25,000,000 people homeless and destroyed or damaged 31,850 industrial works employing 4,000,000 workers.

98,000 Farms Wrecked

The invaders also destroyed 98,000 collective farms and 7,000,000 horses and slaughtered or drove away 17,000,000 cattle, he said.

"We cannot forget this," Molotov said, "and must demand from the countries which started the war at least some replacement."

He said the Nazi leaders, now awaiting trial at Nuernberg on war-crimes charges, would be called upon to answer for the destruction upon Russia.

Molotov said that the "decision of the Berlin conference on reparations has not yet made satisfactory progress, but no one among us thinks of revenge."

Regarding future relations among the Allies, he said:

"Only the joint collaboration of all the countries that bore the brunt of the war can secure the success of the new international (peace) organization.

"Good Intentions Not Enough"

"Expressions of good intentions are not enough. The Soviet Union was and will be a reliable bulwark in defense of peace and is ready to prove it not only by words but by deeds."

The Foreign Commissar said the war-born British-American-Russian alliance was being tested in peace and that the failure of the London foreign ministers' conference was a warning of pitfalls ahead.

"But difficulties arose before, too," Molotov continued. "The coalition, however, always found a solution in the interests of all."

Declaring that "every effort must be made" to prevent a new aggression, Molotov said "the formation of blocs in western Europe will not create a peaceful Europe."

Accuses Spain

He accused Spain "and some other countries" of giving "half-open support" to the Axis.

Recalling that when Hitler's troops invaded Russia "not only Germans but many others thought the Soviet Union would not hold out long," Molotov added that "Germany's attack was also a test for our foreign friends, who watched with bated breath the difficulties of our country.

"The Soviet country withstood the test."

LONDON, Nov. 6 (AP)—The text of Foreign Commissar Molotoff's address, as broadcast by Moscow and recorded by the Soviet monitor, follows:

After several years of heavy war, we are celebrating today the twenty-eighth anniversary of the great October Socialist Revolution in conditions of peace and glorious victory over fascism.

Behind us are four years of war against Hitlerite Germany, which tormented our country and the whole of Europe, and also the war in the east, started by Japan, into which we had to join in the autumn of this year. In this heroic struggle, in which the Soviet people have taken a decisive part, peace for the peoples of the whole world has been won and the main hotbeds of world fascism and world aggression in the west and in the east have been liquidated.

Now we have the possibility of returning to peaceful labor to consolidate our victory. As Comrade Stalin said, our Soviet people did not spare energy and labor in the cause of victory.

We have lived through difficult years and now each one of us can say: "We have won and from now on we can consider our motherland rid from the menace of German invasion from the west and from the menace of Japanese invasion from the east." The long-awaited peace has come for the peoples of the whole world.

The Germans invaded our country calculating that the unexpectedness of their bandit attacks would assure them success. Not only in Germany but in other countries also there were many who considered that the Soviet Union would not last long and that in a few weeks or at most, according to some calculations, in a few months, Germany would smash the Soviet Union and Hitler would celebrate victory.

After the comparatively easy successes of the Hitlerites in western Europe, this seemed to many to be inevitable. This conclusion was reached in the first place by those who in general did not recognize the logic of the October Revolution in Russia and also by those who proved unable to understand the truly national character of the Soviet state created by our revolution.

Recalls Early Difficulties

The German invasion of the Soviet Union was a great trial for our foreign friends also, who followed with bated breath the exceptional difficulties that our country experienced in the first period of the war. The Soviet Union remained on its feet despite the unexpectedness of the attack.

The material damage and deep wounds inflicted on it in the first years of the war did not undermine its physical and spiritual powers. The Red Army was able to cope with and recover from the first blows. The Soviet people gathered together and exerted their force to insure a crushing repulse of the enemy.

Then the time came when our army passed from the defensive to the offensive, first on separate sectors of the front and then along the whole front.

The interests of self-defense dictated the need to form a united anti-Hitlerite front of large and small democratic states. It is well known to all that the Anglo-Soviet-American coalition successfully fulfilled its historic task in organizing the common struggle of the democratic countries against Hitlerism.

It is also well known that the opening of the second front in western Europe, when Germany found herself caught in pincers between two fronts, made the position of German fascism hopeless. At the same time, it must not be forgotten that the decisive turning-point in the position on the Soviet-German front took place a year before the opening of the second front, when the Hitlerite troops ignominously rolled back under the mighty and ever-growing offensive of the Red Army.

Now the state created by the October Revolution was able not only to defend itself from the Fascist attack but to pass over to the offensive so as to make an end of the chief hotbed of fascism and aggression. Then it became clear to all that the Soviet power did not resemble the defunct power of czarism in the time of the first World War.

Most Difficult Tests Passed

Now it has become obvious that the Soviet state can with honor stand up for itself and pass the most difficult tests that have ever been in the history of war.

Hitlerite Germany threatened not only the Soviet state. Before their attacks on the Soviet Union, the German Fascists captured Norway, Belgium, the Netherlands, France, Greece and Yugoslavia.

The Germans had among their allies not only Fascist Italy but also several other states that had concluded alliances with Germany. Spain and several other countries gave Hitler full and open support. The threat of Hitlerite attack hung over Britain.

If later the Soviet Union had not won success, the whole of Europe might have come under Hitler's heel. The Hitlerites were already putting the new order into practice on their various fronts.

The voices that echoed the Fascists, like all the Quislings and Lavals, had already started work under their German masters. Everywhere the domination of Hitlerism was established by the destruction of all democratic institutions and working-class organizations.

At the same time, the Hitlerites plundered and enslaved countries and squeezed out of them all the material resources for still further supplying and arming their bandit fascist hordes.

Racist Theories Cited

The first successes of the Nazi attack on the Soviet Union still more turned the heads of the Hitlerites. They began to speak more openly than ever, not only about their adventurist plans for the domination of the German race over all the peoples of Europe, but outside Europe as well. The German Fascists' theory of the domination of their higher race over other peoples who had been put by them into the category of lower races became a direct threat to the existence of European civilization.

In all the states that were invaded by the Hitlerite band, the peoples proved to be badly prepared for repulsing the German invaders. Only gradually, thanks to the efforts of the patriot-democrats, the democratic forces of resistance to the invader began to form and grow.

But even in those countries like Yugoslavia, where the whole people gave support to the revolt against the invaders, there was not enough support to break the military might of Hitlerism. Only when our army passed over to the offensive and began to defeat the German troops, tearing from them the halo of invincibility, were wide possibilities opened for the liberation of the people enslaved by German imperialism.

Moving westward, the Red Army brought liberation to its neighboring countries and the other peoples of Europe. The Soviet armies, with the armies of their Allies, have emerged in the role of liberators of the countries of Europe, including those states that severed their alliances with Germany and entered the ranks of the peoples fighting for the liquidation of Hitlerism.

Thus the cause of the liberation of the countries of Europe from the yoke of Hitlerism will be entered as a brilliant page in the history of our victorious Red Army. Fascist Italy was the first to come out from the side of Germany, which had unleashed the war in Europe.

At the moment of the German attack on the Soviet Union, the Governments of Rumania, Hungary and Finland, having concluded military alliances with Hitlerite Germany, led their countries into the war against the Soviet Union. Bulgaria, the Government of which at that time was made up of Hitlerite agents, also proved to be an ally of Germany.

European Fascism the Loser

Thus European countries with Fascist regimes bound up their destinies with the fate of Hitlerite Germany in the Second World War. Hence the defeat of Germany meant not only the defeat of German fascism. It led to the defeat of fascism in other European countries. Consequently, the significance of our victory must be seen not only in the light of the defeat of German fascism but in the light of the military, political and moral defeat of fascism throughout Europe.

After the ending of the war in Europe the Allied powers were faced with the task of liquidating Japanese aggression in the east to hasten the restoration of peace throughout the world. The Soviet Union could not stand aside in the solution of this question, both by reason of mutual obligations existing between the Soviet Union and its allies and because this was insistently necessary in the interests of our security in the east.

In addition, Japan in the past had attacked our country more than once and there existed in the east for our State a constant threat of Japanese invasion. All this rendered inevitable the entry of the Soviet Union into the war against Japan.

It is not difficult to be convinced that, from the time when German fascism began to suffer defeat after defeat on the Soviet-German front, the result of Japanese aggression in the east was predetermined.

The Soviet Union, which finally took the field against Japan, hastened the latter's defeat and thus hastened the conclusion of the war in the east. Japan capitulated to the Allies, suffering the same fate as Hitlerite Germany. Thereby, not only the plans of German imperialism for mastery in Europe but also the pretensions of Japanese imperialism for mastery in Asia were shattered.

In addition, these countries had regarded until recently their positions in both the west and the east as stages in the conquest of world power, showing by their example the aggressive intentions of such an adventurist war in our time.

The defeat of Japanese imperialism, as the chief hotbed of fascism and aggression in the east, and the liberation of China from the Japanese invaders are of tremendous positive importance for the democratic development not only of the countries of Asia but of countries outside Asia as well.

To consolidate this victory is in the interests of all democratic states. It is therefore understandable that the Soviet Union attaches such great significance to the negotiations among the Allies on the establishment of due control by the main Allied powers who participated in securing the surrender of Japan.

The differences that exist on this question have not yet been eliminated. But the Soviet Union expresses the confidence that all the peace-loving powers are deeply conscious of the need for consolidating victory over the aggressor Japan and for creating in this connection the appropriate conditions for collaboration among the Allied powers.

Coalition's Goal Achieved

Both Germany and Japan were forced to surrender unconditionally to the Allies. Thus the Anglo-Soviet-American coalition achieved the aim it set for itself.

The people of our country can now recognize with satisfaction that a decisive place has been taken by the Soviet Union in the victorious conclusion of the Second World War in the interests of the democratic states, and particularly in the liquidation of the most dangerous seat of fascism and aggression, Hitlerite Germany.

The Soviet people called its war against Hitlerite Germany the great patriotic war. By the example of the Soviet people, patriots of other states learned how one must fight for one's motherland, for its liberty and independence.

It should be noted that the Soviet people not only liberated their own country but also waged the heroic struggle for the restoration of peace and liberty throughout Europe. A year ago Comrade Stalin said: "Today everyone recognizes that the Soviet people, by its selfless struggle, saves European civilization from the Fascist program-makers." This great service of the Soviet people is recognized by all.

Differences in Wars Cited

The Second World War differed in many respects from the First. Above everything else, it differed in the scale on which the nations were involved and also in the loss of life and the material damage that it caused.

Four-fifths of the population of the world took part in this latest World War in one way or another. The number of troops mobilized in both camps exceeded 110,000,000. It is virtually impossible to name a country that was really neutral during these years. An untold price in human life and in the devastation of many states has been paid by humanity for having allowed the Second World War, that is to say, for omitting to take timely measures against the aggressive forces of fascism that unleashed this war on such an unparalleled scale.

This war was forced upon our people, who proclaimed a great patriotic war in answer to the assault. In attacking the Soviet Union, Hitlerite Germany aimed not only at seizing our territory. Hitlerism had declared its aim of the extermination of the Russian people and the Slavs in general, from the moment when the Russian people and the other peoples of the Soviet Union subordinated all their efforts to Stalin's call—"everything for the war"—and finally broke the backbone of the German Army. The Hitlerite savages stopped at nothing in carrying out their big-scale plans in the territories that they had seized.

To forget that would be a crime against the memory of the millions of innocent victims, against their orphaned families, against the entire nation. Nor can we forget the enormous material damage that the German invaders and their allies inflicted on us in the many long months during which they ran wild on Soviet territories.

For all this the major war criminals, before all else, must be made to answer. The German Fascist invaders wholly or in part destroyed or burned 1,710 towns and more than 70,000 villages and hamlets in our country.

They burned or destroyed more than 6,000,000 buildings and left about 25,000,000 people homeless. Among the towns that were destroyed or very severely damaged are some of the biggest industrial and cultural centers of the country, Stalingrad, Sevastopol, Leningrad, Kiev, Minsk, Odessa, Smolensk, Kharkov, Voronezh, Rostov-on-Don and many others.

The Hitlerites destroyed or damaged 31,850 industrial enterprises that employed some 4,000,000 factory and office workers. The Hitlerites sacked and looted 98,000 collective farms, including the majority of the collective farms of the Ukraine and White Russia. They slaughtered, confiscated or shipped to Germany 7,000,000 horses, 17,000,000 head of cattle and tens of millions of pigs and sheep.

The extraordinary state commission has estimated the direct loss alone to the national economy and our citizens as the sum of 679,000,000,000 rubles.

We cannot forget all this. We must demand from the countries that unleashed the war at least part restitution for the damage that they caused. One cannot contest the justice of this desire of the Soviet people. We must not pass by the fact that the decisions of the Berlin conference of the three powers on reparations from Germany have not yet been satisfactorily implemented.

Vengeance Disavowed

However, among us there are no supporters of the policy of vengeance in regard to the defeated peoples. Comrade Stalin has pointed out more than once that feelings of revenge or retribution for wrongs are bad counselors in policy and in relations among nations.

We must be guided in regard to the vanquished nations not by feelings of revenge but by the effort to prevent a renewal of aggression and to put possible new aggressors in a position of liberal isolation among the people. It is not past wrongs that should actuate us, but the interests of safeguarding peace and security for the nations in the post-war period.

It is beyond question that the interests of lasting peace require the peace-loving nations to have the necessary force of arms at their command. At any rate, this applies to the countries charged with the major responsibility of seeing that peace is maintained. However, interests of safeguarding peace have nothing in common with the policy of an armaments race among the great powers, such as is preached abroad by some particularly zealous advocates of the policy of imperialism.

In this connection, a word must be said about the discovery of atomic energy and about the atomic bomb, the colossal destructive force of which was displayed in the war against Japan.

Atomic energy has not yet been tried, however, for averting aggression or safeguarding peace. But it is not possible at the present time for a technical secret of any great size to remain the exclusive possession of some one country or some narrow circle of countries.

This being so, the discovery of atomic energy should not encourage either a propensity to exploit the discovery in the play of forces in international policy or an attitude of complacency as regards the future of the peace-loving nations.

A good deal of noise is also being made about the formation of blocs or groups of states as an end of particular foreign policy interests. The Soviet Union has never joined groups of powers directed against other peaceable states.

Past History Mentioned

In the west, however, attempts of this kind have been made, as is generally known, more than once. The anti-Soviet nature of certain such groups in the p - is equally well known. In any case, the history of blocs and groups of the western powers indicates that they do not tend to bridle aggressors, but on the contrary to encourage aggression, particularly on the part of Germany.

Hence there must be no relaxation in the vigilance of the Soviet Union and other peaceful states on this score. The restoration of world peace has by no means led, and could not have led, to a res-

The Hitlerite savages stopped at nothing in carrying out their big-scale plans in the territories that they had seized.

To forget that would be a crime against the memory of the millions of innocent victims, against their orphaned families, against the entire nation. Nor can we forget the enormous material damage that the German invaders and their allies inflicted on us in the many long months during which they ran wild on Soviet territories.

For all this the major war criminals, before all else, must be made to answer. The German Fascist invaders wholly or in part destroyed or burned 1,710 towns and more than 70,000 villages and hamlets in our country.

They burned or destroyed more than 6,000,000 buildings and left about 25,000,000 people homeless. Among the towns that were destroyed or very severely damaged are some of the biggest industrial and cultural centers of the country, Stalingrad, Sevastopol, Leningrad, Kiev, Minsk, Odessa, Smolensk, Kharkov, Voronezh, Rostov-on-Don and many others.

The Hitlerites destroyed or damaged 31,850 industrial enterprises that employed some 4,000,000 factory and office workers. The Hitlerites sacked and looted 98,000 collective farms, including the majority of the collective farms of the Ukraine and White Russia. They slaughtered, confiscated or shipped to Germany 7,000,000 horses, 17,000,000 head of cattle and tens of millions of pigs and sheep.

The extraordinary state commission has estimated the direct loss alone to the national economy and our citizens as the sum of 679,000,000,000 rubles.

We cannot forget all this. We must demand from the countries that unleashed the war at least part restitution for the damage that they caused. One cannot contest the justice of this desire of the Soviet people. We must not pass by the fact that the decisions of the Berlin conference of the three powers on reparations from Germany have not yet been satisfactorily implemented.

Vengeance Disavowed

However, among us there are no supporters of the policy of vengeance in regard to the defeated peoples. Comrade Stalin has pointed out more than once that feelings of revenge or retribution for wrongs are bad counselors in policy and in relations among nations.

We must be guided in regard to the vanquished nations not by feelings of revenge but by the effort to prevent a renewal of aggression and to put possible new aggressors in a position of liberal isolation among the people. It is not past wrongs that should actuate us, but the interests of safeguarding peace and security for the nations in the post-war period.

It is beyond question that the interests of lasting peace require the peace-loving nations to have the necessary force of arms at their command. At any rate, this applies to the countries charged with the major responsibility of seeing that peace is maintained. However, interests of safeguarding peace have nothing in common with the policy of an armaments race among the great powers, such as is preached abroad by some particularly zealous advocates of the policy of imperialism.

In this connection, a word must be said about the discovery of atomic energy and about the atomic bomb, the colossal destructive force of which was displayed in the war against Japan.

Atomic energy has not yet been tried, however, for averting aggression or safeguarding peace. But it is not possible at the present time for a technical secret of any great size to remain the exclusive possession of some one country or some narrow circle of countries.

This being so, the discovery of atomic energy should not encourage either a propensity to exploit the discovery in the play of forces in international policy or an attitude of complacency as regards the future of the peace-loving nations.

A good deal of noise is also being made about the formation of blocs or groups of states as an end of particular foreign policy interests. The Soviet Union has never joined groups of powers directed against other peaceable states.

Past History Mentioned

In the west, however, attempts of this kind have been made, as is generally known, more than once. The anti-Soviet nature of certain such groups in the p[illegible] is equally well known. In any case, the history of blocs and groups of the western powers indicates that they do not tend to bridle aggressors, but on the contrary to encourage aggression, particularly on the part of Germany.

Hence there must be no relaxation in the vigilance of the Soviet Union and other peaceful states on this score. The restoration of world peace has by no means led, and could not have led, to a retoration of the pre-war position in international relations.

For a certain time Germany, Italy and Japan have dropped out of the list of great powers that determined the tone of international affairs as a whole. This holds for the period when they are under joint Allied control directed against the resurgence of the aggressive tendencies of these countries, not impeding the development and progress of these countries as democratic peaceable states.

Another fact of no mean importance for the future of Europe is that a number of Fascist and semi-Fascist states have now entered on the road of democracy and are endeavoring to establish relations of friendship with the Allied nations. It is clear that the reinforcement of democratic principles in these countries, instead of being obstructed, should be promoted.

In the camp of the Allied countries, too, the war has brought a good many changes. In the great majority of cases the reactionary forces here have been pushed back considerably from their former positions to make way for democratic principles old and new.

A number of European countries have carried out such fundamental social reforms as the abolition of the obsolete system of landed estates, turning the land over to the needy peasants. This undermines the former strength of the reactionary Fascist forces and stimulates the development of the democratic and Socialist movements in these countries.

In certain states such important economic reforms as the nationalization of key industries, the eight-hour working day and others have now been put on the order of the day, giving fresh vigor and confidence to the growing ranks of the democratic movements inside and outside Europe.

Certain reactionary publications are trying to make out that these bold democratic reforms are largely due to the increased influence of the Soviet Union; such arguments, however, are patently unfounded. In a sense it is common knowledge that problems of this kind have been successfully solved in the progressive countries of Europe before now.

This does not mean that the forces of fascism have been crushed for all time, and need no longer be taken into account. You have all heard the Crimea declaration of the three powers on liberated Europe, which says:

"The establishment of order in Europe and the rebuilding of the national economic life must be achieved by processes which will enable the liberated peoples to destroy the last vestiges of nazism and fascism and to create democratic institutions of their own choice."

Much Yet to Be Done

There is still much to be done to insure the correct fulfillment of this declaration. However, there can be no doubt that, in spite of all its unwelcome consequences, the war with fascism, by ending in victory, has helped in many ways to clear the political atmosphere in Europe and to open up fresh opportunity for the anti-fascist forces to revive and develop more than ever before.

Such a position is, undoubtedly, in accord with the interests of the peace-loving states. And it is hoped that the need to destroy the last vestiges of nazism and fascism will come home still more strongly to the nations of Europe.

The Soviet Union has also been true to its policy of consolidating normal relations among all peaceable states. In the war years it established relations of friendship with Great Britain and the United States, with France and China, with Poland, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia. Today, with almost all of these countries it has long-term treaties of alliance and mutual assistance against possible renewed aggression by the states that were the major aggressors in the past World War.

Everything is also being done on our part to normalize matters and establish good relations with other countries that have broken with the policy of hostility and distrust toward the Soviet Union.

The failure of the London conference sounded a certain warning in this matter, but there were also difficulties in the Anglo-Soviet-American coalition during the war. Nevertheless, though not always immediately, the coalition of the three powers was able to find a correct solution in accord with the interests of the entire anti-Hitlerite coalition and one that took into account also the need for further consolidating the collaboration of the great democratic states.

Now a new international organization, the United Nations, has been created. It was set up on the initiative of the Anglo-Soviet-American coalition, which thus took on itself the main responsibility for the results of the UNO's future work. It is clear to us that the United Nations Organization should not be like the League of Nations, which proved utterly incapable of preventing aggression and organizing forces for crushing possible aggression. Nor must the new organization become the tool of any one great power, for the claim of any one state to dominate the common affairs of the world is as unfounded as the claim to world supremacy.

Only by the joint efforts of the three powers who carried the burden of the war can we secure the victories of the democratic countries over fascism. Only such collaboration can promote success in the work of the new international organization for lasting peace.

Expresions of good intentions are not sufficient for this. Such intentions must be proved in ability to carry out this type of collaboration in the interests of all the peace-loving states. The Soviet Union has been and will continue to be a reliable bulwark in the defense of peace and the security of the peoples, and is ready to prove this not in words but in deeds.

The four years of war with Germany were a test for all the forces of the Soviet state, a test from which the Soviet Union emerged with credit. Time and time again events bore out the words of the great immortal Lenin:

"A nation can never be defeated when the majority of the workers and peasants have seen, felt and come to know that they are defending their own Soviet power, the power of the working people, and that they are defending a cause whose victory will make available to them and their children all the blessings of culture, all the fruits of human endeavor."

The Red Army has come out of the war crowned with the victor's glory. It has become a more formidable armed force and stronger than ever in its Soviet fighting spirit. Now returning home from its ranks to peaceful endeavor are millions of men so urgently needed by the collective farms, the factories, the mills—by the whole of our country, which has now addressed itself to the great tasks of securing the new upsurge in Socialist construction.

Sees Party's Hold Stronger

The Soviet people stand more solidly than ever around their party. They are advancing in serried ranks under the leadership of the party of Lenin and Stalin.

It was our good fortune that in those hard years of war the Red Army and the Soviet people were led forward by the great Stalin, the far-seeing and tried leader of the Soviet Union. It is linked with Generalissimo Stalin's name that the glorious victories of our army will go down in history.

Under the leadership of Stalin, the great leader and organizer, we have now set about peaceful construction to achieve a veritable flourishing of the forces of Socialist society and justify the best hopes of our friends throughout the world.

Enduring the hardships and privations of wartime, Soviet men and women worked without rest, and we must pay a tribute of honor to our workers in the rear, particularly to our selfless Soviet women, and to the Soviet youth, whose devotion to their country was supreme. Thanks to them, we were able to keep up the living standard of our people through the hard days of the war.

At the same time, the collective-farm peasantry displayed in wartime their political consciousness and a degree of collective-farm organization on the land. The peasants, men and women, now fully appreciate the value of Socialist emulation on the collective farms, and do much to make good the enormous losses in agriculture resulting from the temporary occupation of a part of our country's territory by the German invaders.

Another factor that enabled us to cope with wartime tasks at the front and at the rear was that the Soviet intelligentsia did its duty to its country. The war brought out vividly how our intelligentsia had developed in the years of Soviet power.

The vast majority of our intelligentsia are acquitting themselves honorably and successfully in their high duties in organizing economic life, training new cadres of experts, protecting the health and raising the cultural standards of the population. We can say with a great deal of satisfaction today that the Soviet intelligentsia is worthy of its people and is faithfully serving its country.

Internal Friendship Grows

The friendship among the peoples of the Soviet Union has grown stronger than ever in the years of war. Our multi-national state, with its differences of language, customs, culture and history has grown still more united, and the different Soviet peoples have come still closer together.

No other multi-national state could have held out under the ordeal through which we passed in the years of war. Only our state, in which there is no room for exploitation of man by man, in which there are no exploiting classes and the workers, peasants and the intelligentsia administer both local affairs and state as equal citizens—only such a state could have withstood the German invasion in the hard years of 1941-42, routed the overwhelming enemy by its own efforts, driven him from its territory and in addition rendered other nations strong assistance in shaking off the alien subjugators.

In our country there are no oppressed or disfranchised peoples now like those that only recently, under the Czarist regime, held a colonial or semi-colonial status.

The right of all peoples to independence and free national development is now acknowledged in the Soviet state, in which all peoples are educated in the spirit of friendship and respect for one another, and also of recognition of the services of each people in accordance with its efforts in developing its national culture and contributing to the further progress of the Soviet state as a whole.

Calls Democracy Unmatched

The high degree of activity of our innumerable trade unions, production, cultural, sports and other working-class organizations, the formation of the collective farms, the constant spread of Socialist emulation in the factories and mills, on the collective and state farms, in the mines and railways—all this reveals a flourishing of true democracy of the people that they did not know in the old days and that cannot exist in any other states, divided as they are into classes of oppressors and oppressed, a thing that Soviet power has long put an end to in our country.

In the rapid strides made by our country's cultural life and in the fact that now our intelligentsia, as the most advanced and cultured section of the population has merged with our people and raised the moral and political unity of Soviet society to a still higher plane—in all this we cannot but discern fresh signs of Soviet democracy, inspiring us with new hope and confidence in our country's future.

In the fact that the Soviets have insured all nationalities continual progress of their national culture, active concern for the development of national talent and growing friendship and brotherly mutual assistance among the equal Soviet peoples—a thing that did not exist in the old Russia and does not exist as yet in other countries under either monarchies or republics—in this we discern the all-conquering force of Soviet democracy and its great value for the truly progressive development of the peoples.

The organizing force of Soviet democracy and Soviet patriotism as a source of heroic exploits made themselves felt with particular emphasis in the years of the war. It is the good fortune of Soviet men and women that the October Socialist Revolution, which saved our country from being degraded to the status of a second-rate power, released the forces of the peoples shackled by the regime of the nobles and feudal lords, and afforded them, on the basis of Soviet power, opportunities for development such as they had never had before.

Victory of Democracy

That is why in our victory over fascism we discern at the same time the great victory of Soviet democracy.

The war took Soviet people far beyond the borders of their country. The stubborn resistance of fascism made our troops enter a number of foreign countries to make closer acquaintance with the life of their towns and villages and to reach such western capitals as Vienna, Budapest and Berlin. In all these countries, including those that had recently sided with fascism, Soviet people had no trouble in finding a common tongue with the laboring classes and democratic circles. Naturally it was not to be expected of Soviet people that they should treat as friends yesterday's enemies from the camp of the servitors on fascism and from the upper classes of society, which had been kept in position by Fascist regimes.

Of course the acquaintance with the life and customs of other nations will be of benefit to our people and will widen their outlook. It is interesting to note, however, that our Soviet people come home with a feeling of still more fervent devotion to their country and Soviet power.

The Soviet Presidium is strong in its kinship with the people. Accordingly the Soviet State, as a State of a new type, has functions that are foreign to states of the old type. Unlike parliamentary democracy, the democracy of the Soviets is a true democracy of the people.

Thus the duties of the Soviet State include the task of educating the people politically in the spirit of defending the interests of the peace, in the spirit of friendship and collaboration among the nations. This, however, does not preclude but, on the contrary, presupposes the necessity of unmasking all attempts to prepare for a renewal of aggression and a resurgence of fascism, a thing that must not be forgotten in the post-war years.

Freedom of Press Interpreted

According to the Soviet Constitution it is a crime to preach animosities among races and nations—anti-Semitism and so on—just as it is not permitted in our press to exalt murder, robbery and acts of violence against human beings. Restrictions of this kind are just as natural under Soviet democracy as things of just the opposite kind, unfortunately, are in some countries.

In some countries, freedom of speech and of the press are still understood to mean that the venal servants of fascism need not even assume masks in order to engage in unbridled propaganda of aggression and fascism, although the peoples of every continent have paid a colossal price in blood and hardship for the orgy of world aggression and fascism.

It is not every state that can undertake the job of educating the people politically; and when Fascist states undertook it the only result was that they trampled on the spiritual life, culture and rights of the people.

The advantages of Soviet democracy have been revealed by the Soviet Union with particularly striking force in the years of war. The U.S.S.R. passed through the fires of the war's ordeal and gained still greater strength as a genuine state of the people. As is generally known, a special responsibility for the political education of the people in our country rests with the Bolshevik party. It is above all to our great party that we owe our successes in this work. That is why there is such deep significance in the Soviet people's words about the leader of the Bolshevik party, of whom they say with gratitude and unbounded affection: "Our teacher, our father, our leader, Comrade Stalin."

General Election Near

We are nearing the new elections to the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R. The new general election will take place after all the trials that the Soviet state underwent in the great patriotic war. Our people will come to cast their ballots with all the wealth of political experience accumulated through these years, after having pondered deeply over the destiny of their country and the events in Europe and the world.

We are nearing the new elections to the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R. The Bolshevik party, together with the wide circles of the non-party Soviet bodies, is preparing for these elections, which it regards as a major manifestation of Soviet democracy and one more powerful means of denoting the unity of our people and further consolidating the Soviet state.

Our country has embarked on peacetime construction. Great new tasks confront the whole of our people. We shall, of course, devote necessary attention to new territories incorporated in the U.S.S.R.

Attention to New Territories

The enemy's invasion of our country prevented us from devoting due attention to arranging the life of the western Ukraine and western White Russia, which before the war had been in the U.S.S.R. only a short time. Now, under the treaty with Poland, a new Soviet-Polish frontier has been established. As a result, all territories inhabited by the White Russians have been reunited in a single Soviet White Russia that will advance confidently along the road of free national development.

Through the treaty with Czechoslovakia, the trans-Carpathian Ukraine has at last become part of our state and now the Soviet Ukraine embraces all Ukrainian territories, a thing of which our Ukrainian brothers dreamed for centuries. Under the treaty with Rumania, Soviet Moldavia now embraces all territories with Moldavian population and this affords them extensive opportunities for further national development.

The western frontier of our country has likewise been shifted to include Koenigsberg Province. This gives us a good Baltic port open all the year around.

Balts' "Independence Restored"

The independence of Soviet Lithuania, Soviet Latvia and Soviet Estonia has been restored. Such are the contours of our present western frontiers, which are of the greatest importance in safeguarding the Soviet Union's security.

In the northwest we have restored our frontier with Finland in accordance with the Soviet-Finnish peace treaty of 1940. Furthermore, the Petsamo area in the north has been returned to the Soviet Union.

Lastly as regards the Far East. Here the Soviet Union retains southern Sakhalin and the Kurile Islands, which are of important value to its security in the east.

It remains to recall the restoration of our country's rights to the Manchurian railways and to the Port Arthur and Fairy [Dairen] areas in the southern part of Manchuria. All these and also the area of our Prokkalau naval base on Finnish territory must receive proper attention from us and, in so far as applies to new Soviet territories, they will require extra attention from our state.

Urgent Tasks Cited

We must cope as soon as we can with the urgent tasks in Soviet territories that were temporarily occupied by enemy armies. The Germans left behind them many wrecked towns and thousands of villages that they had looted. Rehabilitation work was started everywhere immediately after the invader had been driven out, but it is only a small part of the work to be done.

The efforts of the entire Soviet people must be directed to helping in the early and complete rehabilitation of the economic and cultural life of these areas. The restoration of factories and mills, collective farms, machine and tractor stations and state farms, of schools and hospitals, and the restoration of living quarters so that every urban and rural inhabitant of these parts may again have a home of his own—all these are our urgent tasks.

It is vital that concern for men now returning home from the Army and for disabled soldiers and bereaved families should be considered one of the first duties of Soviet organizations. We must do everything to cope successfully with this responsible task and heal the wounds of war as soon as possible.

Civilian Economy Stressed

Now at once we must think about solving the fundamental problems of an advancing national economy, so that within a few years we may considerably surpass the pre-war standard of the country's economical development and secure a considerable improvement in the living standards of the entire population.

Such is the meaning of the decision recently issued by the party and Government for drafting a five-year plan for rehabilitating and developing the national economy of the U.S.S.R. in 1946-50, and a similar plan for rehabilitating the developing railway transport. Our people are well aware of the force of the Stalin five-year plans that have built the might of our state and insured our victory.

We need a fresh upsurge of heavy industry in order to provide the country with metal, coal, oil, locomotives, rolling-stock, tractors, agricultural machinery, motor cars, vessels of various kinds, power stations and many other things. The populations of town and country expect a considerably increased supply of consumers' goods and improved supplies of foodstuffs.

To satisfy the needs of the collective farms and the requirements of agriculture is a matter more pressing today than ever before. Our cultural requirements have grown and have become much more varied.

Not for a moment must we forget our big obligations, providing as we should for the needs of the country's defense, the Red Army and the Navy. We have no more unemployment and shall not have any. In our country there is work for all, for ours is a state of the working people. We also need to think more about the proper organization of labor so that the productivity of Soviet men and women and the quality of their work may yield the highest results.

In our days of advanced technology and extended employment of science in production where it has become possible to harness atomic energy and other great technical discoveries, attention in economic planning must be focused on problems of technology, on the problem of raising the technological power of our industry and training highly skilled technological trainers. We must keep level with the achievements of present-day world technology in all branches of industry and economic life and provide conditions for the utmost advance of Soviet science and technology.

The enemy interrupted our peaceful creative endeavor, but we shall make up properly for all lost time and see to it that our country shall flourish. We will have atomic energy and many other things, too.

Let us tackle these tasks with all our inexhaustible Bolshevik energy, with all the boundless energy of the Soviet people. Let us work as Comrade Stalin teaches us to do.

Peace, Trade Put First

Lastly about our tasks in foreign policy. The Soviet Union has always given first place to promoting peace and collaboration with other countries for universal peace and the development of international business relations.

As long as we live in a system of States, and roots of fascism and imperialistic aggression have not been finally pulled up, our vigilance as regards possible new breakers of peace must not be slackened and efforts to consolidate collaboration among peaceful powers will remain, as before, our most important duty.

We have no task more important than the one of consolidating our victory, which we achieved in a staunch struggle and which opened the road toward a new great rise of our country and a further improvement of the living standards of our people.

Never before did we face the prospect of Socialist construction on so vast a scale or such possibilities for the growth of the Soviet Union's strength. Our people are full of faith in their great cause, the cause of the great October Socialist Revolution.

Long live the Soviet people, the victor-people, and their Red Army and Navy!

Long live and flourish our great country, the home of the October Revolution!

Long live the party of Lenin and Stalin, inspiring and organizing our victories!

Long live the leader of the Soviet people, our great Stalin!

Tragedy of Europe's Jews Is Seen Far from Ended

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON, Nov. 6—Although Hitler has been wiped off the scene, the tragedy of Europe's Jews is far from ended.

The comparatively small number of Jews who managed to survive Nazidom's systematic campaign of elimination now face bitter struggles with hunger and disease.

In the explosive fury of Nazi persecution, 5,700,000 Jews vanished from their European homes, according to figures by the Allied War Crimes commission.

A survey, compiled by Associated Press correspondents across the Continent, showed that since the end of the war there had been an almost complete removal of the anti-Jewish laws which Hitler's legions carried to every land they invaded. But race hatred has not yet been exterminated.

While governments announce measures to help Jews regain the health and livelihoods that persecution stripped from them, their citizens spasmodically loose the violence they were taught to commend by years of propaganda.

From Linz in Austria, from Kracow in Poland, from Holland come reports of anti-Semitic outbreaks.

A synagogue burned. . . shop-windows broken. . . bitter, blood-thirsty pamphlets distributed. . .

In some countries—Poland, Hungary, France—the incidents are attributed to remains of Nazi venom added to the distillation of years of intolerance.

In others—Austria, for example—correspondents report new resentment because starved, sickened Jews are given preferential treatment over other citizens by the American army, acting on orders from President Truman.

In conquered Germany, the surface picture presents a strange about-face.

Former Nazis profess their friendship for Jews, even claim Jewish relatives in frantic attempts to avert Allied punishment for their crimes.

The horrors of the concentration camp are over. From each European capital come reports that no man is held prisoner any longer just because he is Jewish.

But the routine of camp life is still familiar everywhere. Hundreds of thousands of Jews, in Germany, Yugoslavia, Austria, everywhere in Europe, still live in barracks and sleep in cots because they have no homes, no jobs, no money or possessions, no families.

In Holland and Belgium there are several thousand orphaned Jewish children whose future is a question mark.

In eastern Europe, there are practically no Jewish children or old people. Only the hardiest were able to survive.

Most immediate problem for Europe's Jews is physical rehabilitation; for many there is no hope.

Tuberculosis, malnutrition, the long list of diseases due to slave labor and concentration camps, continue to take their toll.

The American army, however, has brought numbers of people back from the road to death. The first Jews repatriated to Budapest were in frightful condition. Those who returned after spending a few months in Allied hands were well-fed, on their way to recovery.

Economic rehabilitation is far more difficult. Several countries have passed laws and put officials to work attempting to recover Jewish property stolen by the Nazis.

In some cases, they appear to be making headway. Ingenious Nazi methods of selling and reselling confiscated property make it almost impossible to disentangle ownership most of the time.

Here is how the situation stacks up country by country, from eastern Europe, where hardships are the greatest, to western Europe, where important improvements seem within reach:

BULGARIA — Situation appears brightest of any eastern European country. The number of Jews, 47,000, remained almost constant through the war.

Intervention by prominent Bulgarian leaders prevented Germans from carrying out wholesale deportations and liquidations.

Bulgarian law provides a five-year prison term for anyone attempting persecution of any minority group.

Blackest Picture In Poland

POLAND—With the largest European Jewish population, Poland presents the blackest picture.

Before the war, there were 3,500,000 Jews in Poland. Now there are between 100,000 and 150,000. Jewish spokesmen say the Germans killed 3,200,000 and the rest fled the country.

The few who remain in Poland are taking a lead in rebuilding the nation's business amid the ruins of war.

There have been several outbreaks, including the burning of a synagogue in Kracow. While the Government is officially trying to help the Jews toward economic rehabilitation, clandestine organizations circulate anti-Semitic pamphlets.

RUSSIA—Only the most meager information is available on the status of Jews in Russia and Russian-occupied areas. However, Russian attitude in the past has been against radical or religious discrimination. There is every reason to believe that Jews under Soviet control are treated in precisely the same way as the rest of the population.

Romanian Anti-Semitism

ROMANIA—Outright persecution of Jews stopped with the war's end, but traditional Romanian anti-Semitism is as strong as ever.

A small number of Jews remain in concentration camps, although they are held as political prisoners rather than because of their faith.

Prominent Jews hesitiate to send their children to public school, although bans against their entrance have been removed, because of the tense atmosphere that prevails.

The Situation In Hungary

HUNGARY — Anti-Jewish restrictions applying to theaters, restaurants, schools, voting and marriage —all have been wiped out in Hungary, but there still is some anti-Semitism.

The Nazis were successful in despoiling Jews of all their possessions, so that they are now in even worse condition than in Bulgaria and Romania.

Fewer than 200,000 of Hungary's prewar Jewish population of 700,000 remain, spokesmen say.

In the last two months over 10,000 were repatriated from Germany and about 30,000 more are expected, said Dr. Louis Stockler, chairman of Budapest's Jewish community.

U.S. Aids Jews In Austria

AUSTRIA—Information available is confined mainly to the American zone of occupation. American sources now estimate that there are about 3,900 displaced Jews in the American zone, including about 960 in Vienna.

These people have been billeted in permanent buildings and are receiving higher rations than average Austrians.

Return of Jewish property is the concern of the Austrian Government, although the United States helps where possible.

The situation of Austrian Jews is difficult to determine, since they disagree among themselves on how many have returned to Vienna. Estimates range from 3,000 to 10,000.

In Bohemia And Moravia

CZECHOSLOVAKIA — Only about seven or eight per cent of Bohemia's and Moravia's prewar population of 180,000 Jews are now in Czechoslovakia.

In these two provinces some progress is being made in restoring lost property to Jewish owners.

Reversion is slower in Slovakia, where the problem is complicated by the influx of Jews from other lands, including Carpatho-Ukraine, which the Czechs ceded to Russia.

Dr. Kurt Vehle, secretary of the Prague Jewish Community, says reports of anti-Semitism in Slovakia have been greatly exaggerated.

From Germany To Palestine

GERMANY — Jews in Germany have the choice of claiming the nationality of the country of their origin or being declared stateless.

Ninety per cent of the Jews in Germany want to go to Palestine, said a spokesman for the American joint distribution committee relief agency.

Only about 10,000 of the 75,000 Jews in Germany are German citizens. Most of the rest are Poles, the spokesman said. About 30,000 are in the American zone of occupation.

Those who return to German civilian life receive special rations, and machinery is being set up to regain their stolen property.

None Remain In Prison Camps

Nevertheless, these Jews have little desire to stay and collect if they can leave the country.

The United States Army displaced person's division reports that about 400 to 500 are being sent to Palestine every two months.

The rest are in special displaced person camps. None remain in concentration camps. Most of them are penniless and, although they look fit, have been worn down so badly that they are unable to work.

There are only about 2,000 Jews up to the age of 16. Children and aged died in concentration camps.

YUGOSLAVIA—Even prewar anti-Jewish laws and regulations have been wiped out in Yugoslavia, but most of the Jews remaining there depend on charity and help from abroad.

About 12,000 out of 75,000 who lived there before the war are alive. The best available information is that about 50 per cent of those remaining will never regain their health.

GREECE—Jews always have had full citizenship rights.

During the Nazi occupation, the Greeks helped a few of the Jews among them to escape persecution. All but 4,000 of the 75,000 Greek Jews were carted off to Poland and Germany, however. Only 3,000 of the deportees returned—starved, emaciated, beaten.

Plight Of Jews In Italy

ITALY—Imitating its Axis partner, Italy imposed the full range of discriminatory laws in 1938.

These were all removed by the government of Marshal Pietro Badoglio in 1944.

During the period they were in effect, however, 22,000 of Italy's 42,000 Jews disappeared or left the country.

For the most, Jews are under the same hardships as other merchants, manufacturers and professional men in a country where industry is at a standstill. There has been no action along the line of economic reparations for Jews whose property was confiscated.

France's Jewish Population

FRANCE—Two hundred thousand out of France's prewar population of 350,000 Jews were saved. Only 3,000 Jews in France have asked to leave the country since the war, and most of these arrived since 1933.

Economically, Jews share the bitter economic prospects for France, compared with European nations farther east.

There is an increase in anti-Semitism which Jewish leaders attribute directly to the after effects of German propaganda.

In Holland And Belgium

HOLLAND — One hundred and four thousand of 129,000 prewar Jews were deported during the occupation and only 3,000 managed to get back.

With few exceptions, those who remain are being disappointed in their attempts to regain their possessions, although their full rights have been restored.

Dr. Salomon Kleerekoper, president of the rehabilitation committee of the Jewish Co-Ordination Commission in Amsterdam, praised the aid which the Dutch have given Jews in their land, but they are, nevertheless, badly off.

BELGIUM—There is no organized anti-Semitism in Belgium and only individual, isolated indications of such feelings have occurred.

The Belgian Government has established convalescent homes and arranged for the care of the small number of Jewish children left.

The few remaining Jews are joining with other Belgians in attempts to rehabilitate the country and get business going again.

SEES FREE NEWS NEED

London, Nov. 6 (A. P.).—The free flow of news around the world is essential to the promotion of international co-operation, Prime Minister Attlee declared at a luncheon meeting of the Newspaper Society today.

"To solve the problems of international rehabilitation and reconstruction, we shall need international co-operation on a scale and of a character never before accomplished," he said. It is to the independent reporting of events by men and women trained in that work "that the ordinary people of all nations look chiefly for their understanding of each other," he continued, adding: "We in this country have long been committed to a belief in the freedom of the press and the liberty of comment, and we shall remain so."

Ship Flying Penicillin To Warsaw Crashes

London, Nov. 6 (AP)—An RCAF Flying Fortress carrying penicillin from Canada to Warsaw crashed today near Muenster, Germany. It was reported unofficially that four crew members were killed.

The penicillin was being flown via Prestwick, Scotland, to a Polish hospital at the urgent request of the Polish Government, which is seeking to combat the spread of venereal disease.

One 5,000-pound shipment was flown to Warsaw by another plane Friday.

Labor Party Suffers First Committee Loss

London, Nov. 6 (AP)—The Labor Government sustained its first defeat in a standing committee of the House of Commons today when some of the party members recorded dissatisfaction over a provision in a bill for industrial injury compensation.

The committee deleted, by a vote of 18 to 11, a three-day waiting period before an injured person could receive compensation.

Unlike a defeat on the floor of Commons, the action does not constitute a challenge to the Government's overall authority. The Cabinet, however, considered the setback, but deferred action pending a caucus of Labor party members tomorrow.

Would Invite Stalin To Britain

London, Nov. 6 (AP)—D. D. Lipson, Independent member of Parliament, submitted to the Government today a request that Generalissimo Stalin be invited to Britain in the near future.

Attlee The Parishioner

London, Nov. 6 (AP)—Occupancy of 10 Downing street means responsibilities as a parishioner of St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, for Prime Minister Attlee. On occasion he reads the lessons.

London, Nov. 6 (AP)—The Moscow radio, quoting a dispatch from Prague, said tonight that Soviet Army forces were quitting Czechoslovakia. The broadcast said the operation would be completed in [illegible] to three weeks.

Change in Czecho-Slovakia.

London, Nov. 6 (AP.).—The Prague radio said today that President Eduard Benes had relieved Josef David, President of the Czecho-Slovak National Assembly, of his duties as Deputy Premier at the latter's request.

FRANCE'S 'LEFT' LISTS PROGRAM

Robt Wilson

Assembly Bloc Asks Nationalization Of Key Enterprises

Paris, Nov. 6 (AP)—The dominant Left-Wing bloc in France's Constituent Assembly today demanded sweeping nationalization of the nation's key enterprises as the newly elected body took over the reins of government from Gen. Charles de Gaulle and started work on a new constitution.

The demands were part of a broad program circulated at the initial session of the Assembly by the Communist and Socialist parties, which control a majority of the delegates.

The program called for labor to share in industrial management, Government - controlled foreign trade, progressive emancipation for natives of France's empire, an uncensored press controlling its own news agency, and closer collaboration among the major Allied powers.

Many Enterprises Included

Enterprises which would be nationalized include the Bank of France and the larger credit institutions, such as deposit and insurance banks and insurance companies; gas and electric utilities; the merchant marine; coal mines and steel; the manufacture of lighter metals, liquid air, cement, explosives, sodium and most fertilizers, and the importation and transportation of liquid fuels.

The proposed steps would go beyond the nationalization program of Britain's Labor Government.

The Assembly accepted the resignation of General de Gaulle as provisional President, submitted in accordance with a referendum vote, but the delegates clearly indicated that they wanted de Gaulle's leadership continued during the seven months before the new constitution sets up a Fourth Republic.

"Caretaker" Government

They probably will elect him Saturday to head the "caretaker" Government.

Ringing applause greeted de Gaulle as he walked into the Chamber of Deputies in civilian clothes—his first formal appearance without the uniform in which he had dressed for five years.

Another storm of applause rose when 81-year-old Paul Cuttoli, temporary chairman of the Assembly, declared in a keynote address that "today a great majority of the French people believe that the chief of the provisional government of yesterday is the man most qualified to preside at the definitive reconstruction of the country's institutions."

Cuttoli called for "an economic and daringly social democracy," and reminded the 540 delegates that "now the nation has spoken—it has shown it is to the left."

Program Published

He also declared the French Army and diplomatic corps "are not animated by the new spirit" of France.

The nationalization program, backed by the Socialists and Communists, was published after a meeting of the former popular front bloc, "the Left-Wing delegation." It is supported by the General Confederation of Labor and the League of Rights of Man.

The Radical Socialists and the Popular Republican Movement (MPR) deferred decisions on the program.

In foreign affairs, the Socialists and Communists called for elimination of "the last Fascist regimes, notably in Spain and Portugal," internationalization of the Ruhr, an agreement with the Allies on German occupation, foreign monetary agreements and French renunciation of territorial expansion in favor of collective security.

Indemnities Proposed

In the nationalization of industry, owners of expropriated industries would be indemnified "equitably" by life-long annuities, to be continued for a period in favor of their children.

In unexpropriated industries, labor would have a voice in management and in hiring and firing, and the confederation's wage scales would be applied.

Other economic measures include development of exports and imports "which do not endanger the country's political independence," and which "require maintaining (Government) control of foreign exchange and monopoly of foreign trade," and "to mobilize French holdings abroad and foreign securities held by our nationals."

DeGaulle Resigns Presidency

Robt Wilson

Paris, Nov. 6 (AP)—General de Gaulle submitted his resignation as provisional president today to the Constituent Assembly, returning the reins of government to France's first elected legislative body in five years.

The assembly, charged by the electorate with writing a new constitution for a Fourth Republic, was expected to ask de Gaulle to continue a caretaker government until later in the week. Then the delegates will name a new provisional president to serve during the seven months assigned the assembly for its task. There seemed little doubt that de Gaulle would be returned to office as provisional president for that period also.

"Daringly Social" Regime Asked

At its opening session today the Assembly heard its first chairman, 81-year-old Paul Cuttoli, call for "not only a political but also an economic and daringly social democracy."

De Gaulle arrived at the Palais du Bourbon as the delegates from France and her empire filed into the assembly hall.

Earlier de Gaulle conferred briefly with Cuttoli, a delegate from Algeria, who presided at the opening session by right of being the oldest member.

The constitution drafted by the Assembly will be submitted to a people's referendum.

The 586-member Constituent Assembly is not yet complete. Some members must yet be chosen in runoff elections in the colonies, which have a total of 64 delegates.

Communists Strongest

The Communists, who won 152 seats in France alone, will have the greatest representation of any single party. The Socialists have 142 members, and the Christian Democratic Mouvement Republicain Populaire has 138, aside from its colonial seats. These three parties' leaders—the big three of France—met late last night to put final touches on their programs for the Constituent Assembly.

While its main work will be the framing of a Constitution, expected to incorporate features of the United States and British systems, the Assembly may also draw up a declaration similar to the American Bill of Rights.

The three big parties, once their ministerial posts have been decided, will press home their programs for continued nationalization of French industry and commerce and other changes aimed at a state-planned economy.

G. I.'S SAIL FOR U. S.

Paris, Nov. 6 (AP.).—The vanguard of the United States Eighth Armored Division sailed for home today from Le Havre.

The Seventy-eighth Division was in the Marseille staging area awaiting shipment. Advance parties of the Twenty-sixth Division reached Camp Pittsburgh in the Oise section for processing. The rest of the Twenty-sixth will arrive soon.

The Army said the Eighty-ninth Division was scheduled to be ready to sail November 28 from Le Havre.

82d Airborne To Leave Berlin

Paris, Nov. 6 (AP)—The United States Army paper Stars and Stripes said today that the 82d Airborne Division, which has been on occupation duty in Berlin for three months, has been alerted for return to the United States, and that its members would start arriving at the assembly area for redeployment November 15. They will be replaced in Berlin by the 78th Infantry Division, the newspaper said.

DISORDERS IN PARIS

PARIS, Nov. 6—(AP) Six attacks on Parisians by men wearing U. S. Army uniforms occurred last night, French police said today. They also reported that two men wearing G. I. uniforms were wounded seriously by shots fired from a speeding automobile.

'Rowdyism' At Le Havre

Le Havre, Nov. 6 (AP)—Leading citizens of Le Havre asserted today that a "small gang of rowdies" was responsible for recent outbreaks of violence involving Frenchmen and American troops.

The United States Army yesterday barred all American soldiers from public places during daylight hours and declared the city itself out of bounds between the hours of 6 P.M. and 6 A.M. on the heels of reports of fist fights and other violence, including a shooting.

United States Army officers for the most part blamed the situation on homesickness or the part of soldiers, coupled with adverse living conditions in war-blasted Le Havre which have strained the patience of its citizens.

French police said the violence was not all caused by the Americans. They said there were numerous instances of attacks by French soldiers against Americans, resulting in fist fights for which it was difficult to fix responsibility.

Goering Phone Call Tells Story

By DANIEL DE LUCE

[Associated Press Copyright]

Berlin, Nov. 6—While the Nazi occupation of Austria was in full swing in 1938, Reichsmarshal Goering received information which he regarded as authentic that France was ready to fight to save Austria but backed down when Britain made it clear France would have to fight alone.

The Germans apparently had intercepted or otherwise obtained possession of diplomatic messages which had been decoded.

Goering regarded the information of the greatest importance. It was Sunday, March 13, and Hitler was in Linz, Austria, and had not yet reached Vienna.

Goering Telephones Information

Without delay Goering got Maj. Gen. Karl Bodenschatz, his chief lieutenant on the spot, on the telephone and with excited, repetitious emphasis instructed him to make sure that the Führer saw the "brown papers" being sent to him.

The record of Goering's telephone conversation with Bodenschatz at Linz at an unstated time on March 13 was kept by the German Air Ministry, along with other telephone communications at the time of the Anschluss. The typewritten record of conversations was picked out of the ruins of the Air Ministry palace a few weeks ago.

This part of the record read:

Goering—Tell the Führer reports have just come—the brown reports—which are completely clear because they were seized. From these it can be seen that an action only miscarried because England rejected it.

"Because England Rejected"

Bodenschatz—Jawohl [yes, indeed], because England rejected.

Goering—The Führer will get them tomorrow morning. The situation was thus: The French, indeed, wanted to get into an action without any reservation and so pressed most hard on the English. I can send you all the decoded cables. And only because England declined the whole action was blown up.

Bodenschatz—Jawohl, the action was blown up.

Goering—Today it is thus with the great powers: France tells its Ministers in the various countries it cannot do anything because England held out, and above all because England refused.

Bodenschatz—Because England refused to do anything.

Goering—To strengthen Schuschnigg in his resistance. If the English Minister in Vienna did that he did it out of his own head. I mention it because of my wish for justice. The Führer will have proofs tomorrow morning that England did not encourage him in resistance but plainly declined to take over a guarantee.

"I'll Tell Him"

Bodenschatz—Jawohl, I'll tell him that.

Goering—The Führer should read over these cables, the ones in the brown sheets. From these one can incontestably ascertain that France wanted first with Italy and England . . . and then only with England.

Bodenschatz—Jawohl.

Goering — England's behavior was decisive here. Just because of that I want to be a little friendly to England.

Bodenschatz—Jawohl. That it was decisive. England really mixed in here decisively. . . . It did not give way to France.

Goering—Yes. Listen, Bodenschatz. It is beyond doubt—until the last minute France declared it was ready without reservation for any action—including military—with all consequences, if England would go along.

Telegram To The Duce

Bodenschatz—Jawohl. And England refused.

Goering—England refused. It is literally true England was not ready to encourage Herr Schuschnigg in his resistance.

Bodenschatz—Jawohl. Because of the telegram to the Duce, which will be published.

Goering—Listen. There is an instruction here which the French Foreign Minister gave to the Minister about the whole course. The thing was, if England had said "yes," France was prepared for everything. And in this instruction is the following interesting sentence: "To our greatest regret, Anthony Eden resigned on the twentieth. This seems to be an indication that perhaps because of the Austrian question Eden was kicked out by Chamberlain."

Bodenschatz—Jawohl.

Vienna Timetable

Goering—When will you be in Vienna?

Bodenschatz—We start from here at 10; by 12 we are in St. Poelten and will have dinner. It will be 2 or 3 o'clock, I guess, before we arrive in Vienna.

Goering—I will take care of these two reports in Linz before that. From them the Führer can judge most clearly the entire behavior of the powers. And then I shall ask whether he would add something perhaps to the instruction he will give me. I also do not know what Henderson [Sir Nevile Henderson, British Ambassador] wants.

Bodenschatz—Jawohl. The telegram for the Duce will be published. I already said that. Then the air force takes part in a parade—in greatest strength. About coming here, the Führer said he will come home Thursday or Friday. Then the Herr General Field Marshal [Goering] can come to Austria. He also talked about Spain and said if the thing [civil war] now comes to an end he will bring back the fighters for a triumphal entrance into Germany. He talked about a medal in various grades and will do it in a grand way, a welcome in Hamburg and then in triumph to Berlin.

Confirms Sentence On Killer of Yanks

Frankfurt, Germany, Nov. 6 (A. P.).—Gen. Eisenhower today confirmed sentence of death on Franz Strasser, convicted of helping to kill five American flyers who crashlanded in Czecho-Slovakia.

The airmen were riddled with bullets after they surrendered to Strasser and three other armed German civilians. Strasser was convicted by a military court on August 24. Two of his confederates are at large. The third committed suicide.

Hess Antagonistic To Treatment

Nuernberg, Germany, Nov. 6 (AP). Physicians outlined today three possible methods of dealing with the mental disturbance which threatens to eliminate Rudolf Hess as a war crimes defendant, but all may be ruled out because of the danger or Hess's antagonism toward medical treatment.

The one-time No. 3 Nazi has told his doctors he wants a "nature cure," and has protested against use of any theory dealing with anaesthesia. They say his idea is that a diet of milk "to warm my brain," and prunes "to aid my elimination," would help him remember past events essential to his defense.

"Nature is my doctor," Hess said.

Three Types Of Treatment

The three medical methods which physicians believe could be used are artificial blood shock; hypnosis, and the use of insulin to burn away sugar reserves and increase the appetite.

The artificial blood shock is induced by injection of an alien type of blood into the bloodstream, and is a treatment used extensively by the Russians, particularly in cases of dementia praecox.

Hess's ailment, amnesia, is a form of hysterical phenomenon and might well respond to such a treatment, physicians believe. The danger involved is that one in a thousand subjects so treated die of undershock.

Hypnoidal Possibilities

The creation of a hypnoidal state, the second method, by the use of ether, leaves the subject just conscious enough to be receptive to suggestion.

The use of insulin to burn away Hess's sugar reserves and increase his appetite for proper foods was believed by Lieut. Col. Rene Juchlif, of Amsterdam, N.Y., to be a method which would cause Hess's amnesia to respond rapidly to his improved physical condition.

Hess, however, protests against injections of any kind, and they could not be given against his will without prejudicing the prosecution's case.

Jackson's Trial Aides Are Named

Nuernberg, Nov. 6 (AP)—Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief American war-crime prosecutor, announced today that nine trial lawyers and an executive counsel would assist him during the trial of 22 top-ranking Nazis scheduled to begin here November 20.

Col. Robert G. Storey, of Dallas, Texas, was named executive counsel. The other appointees are:

T. J. Dodd, of Hartford, Conn., former special assistant to the Attorney General of the United States; Maj. Gen. William J. Donovan, former head of the Office of Strategic Services; Sidney S. Alderman, general solicitor of the Southern Railroad and a trustee of Duke University; Col. Telford Taylor, former general counsel for the Federal Communications Commission.

Col. John Harlan Amen, of New York city, former special assistant to the United States Attorney General; Ralph G. Albrecht, New York attorney; Lieut. Col. Benjamin Kaplan, of New York city; Lieut. Col. Murray Gurfein, of New York city, and Major Frank S. Walis, of Boston, Mass.

Alderman was designated to maintain liaison with the British delegation.

More Time Requested

NUREMBERG, Nov. 6 (AP)—Defense counsel for four Germans formally requested additional time today to prepare their cases. They were Dr. Fritz Sauter, representing Joachim von Ribbentrop, Walther Funk and Baldur von Schirach, and Dr. Hans Marx, representing Julius Streicher.

Attorneys for Hermann Goering, Field Marshal Gen. Wilhelm Keitel and others asked and received a separate mess today because they said that American troops had threatened them. The lawyers had been eating with the troops. Dr. Otto Stahmer, counsel for Goering, complained: "They stared at us and an American soldier said in a loud voice that he would like to bash my head in."

Raids Wrecked Belsen Food System, Nazi Says

Lueneburg, Germany, Nov. 6 (AP). SS Corporal Herman Mueller, called as a defense witness for Josef Kramer, Belsen concentration camp commandant, testified today that the food supply system for the camp broke down under incessant Allied aerial attacks.

Mueller also declared that SS Guard Irma Grese never carried a pistol or whip or beat anyone at Belsen; that Charlotte Klein often made coffee for cold prisoners and that Ilse Forster shouted at prisoners, but never beat them when they took a turnip or potato from the stock pile.

The last of the 45 defendants, Antoni Aurdziej, testified today at the war-crimes trial that he was forced at pistol point by "French officers" to sign a confession branding him as a killer at Belsen.

REMOVE NAZIS FROM OFFICE

LUENEBURG, Nov. 6 — (AP) Nearly 40,000 Nazis have been removed from important positions in the British zone of occupation, a senior officer of the Control Commission said today.

NEW ARMY RULING

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 6 —(AP) The U. S. Army has put budgetary controls on its expenditures in the American zones of Germany and Austria, Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters said today.

Controls similar to those exercised by the Army in the United States will be supervised by a new theater budget division, the announcement said.

Ewald Heinrich von Kleinst, the son of a Pomeranian estate owner, told this story to the Danish newspaper Velingike Tidende in an interview at Munich:

Outraged by Hitler's bungling strategy, some of the highest ranking generals in Germany planned first merely to depose him, but decided on assassination when the military situation at Stalingrad became hopeless in 1943. Their plans included seizing control of the German Home Army. Sealed orders were issued for the transfer of command to the conspirators as soon as Hitler was out of the way.

First Attempt in 1943.

The first attempt on Hitler's life was made in the spring of 1943, von Kleinst said, when the Fuehrer was flown from East Prussia to the Center Army Group on the eastern front for a conference with Maj. Gen. von Treschow, who subsequently was slated for trial for the third attempt on the Fuehrer's life.

A Lieut. von Schlaberndorff, who was assigned to protect Hitler on the Eastern front visit, planted a bomb in the Fuehrer's plane, timed to explode on the return trip, von Kleinst continued. Something went wrong with the mechanism, however, and Hitler landed safely at his headquarters. Von Schlaberndorff flew after him and removed the bomb.

After several false starts the conspirators tried again on February 11, 1944. Von Kleinst said that he and Major-Gen. Helmut Stieff from the organization section of the General Staff were the principals. Stieff was one of the group of German officers convicted by a People's Court in Berlin and hanged in August, 1944. This time the plan was to kill Hitler and Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler together to prevent Himmler, after Hitler's death, from throwing his SS forces against the German Home Army. The occasion was a demonstration of new uniforms, which both of the intended victims were to attend.

Planned to Sacrifice Life.

Stieff was to be present in an official capacity and Von Kleinst said he was to be there as an officer who had gained practical experience with the new uniforms. Each was to carry a brief case containing a bomb timed to explode four and a half seconds after a string attached to the fuse was pulled. Von Kleinst said he and Stieff had agreed to sacrifice their own lives to carry out the assassinations. However, Himmler failed to appear at the last moment and the attempt was put off until the following July.

In an interview with the Swedish newspaper Berlingske Tidende, Von Kleinst repeated the account given by others of the third and final attempt made at Hitler's headquarters, near Rastenburg, East Prussia.

Col. Count Claus von Stauffenberg brought a brief case containing a bomb into the headquarters. A Col. Brandt accidentally kicked the brief case, and, annoyed, moved it outside a thick oak slab that supported the end of the conference table. That slab shielded Hitler from the full force of the blast. Von Kleinst said Von Stauffenberg subsequently was shot.

Agrarian Government To Be Named In Denmark

Copenhagen, Nov. 6 (AP)—Home Secretary Knud Kristensen, leader of Denmark's Agrarian party, promised King Christian today he would form a government from his party.

The Cabinet is expected to be announced tomorrow. Reliable political sources predicted the only nonparty member would be Henrik Kauffman, Danish Minister to Washington, expected to receive the foreign ministry portfolio.

Nazi Officers Tried Three Times to Kill Hitler

Conspirator Reveals Plans Also Called for Seizing Control of German Home Army.

Copenhagen, Nov. 6 (A. P.).—The bomb that exploded in Adolf Hitler's presence on July 20, 1944, represented the third attempt on the Fuehrer's life by a large group of German Army officers, says a German lieutenant who describes himself as one of the few surviving conspirators.

Italy Armistice Details Are Revealed

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—The Allies made public the much-discussed Italian armistice today, spiking some old rumors but failing to clear up entirely why the terms were kept secret for 26 months.

Released simultaneously in Washington, London and Rome, the armistice and related documents—totaling some 10,000 words—disclosed that:

1. Exhaustive unconditional surrender terms—officially still in effect—were imposed on Italy.

2. In practice, however, the Allies never invoked some provisions and modified others substantially at frequent intervals.

3. The terms provided for no final dispositions of Italian territory or property.

Rumor On Ports Groundless

Thus the old rumor that the armistice gave the British a virtual stranglehold on Italian port cities for an extended postwar period was proved groundless. So were many other reports that had been bandied about—not without effect on the Italians—during the two years of Allied silence about the terms.

Then why the secrecy? Government officials explained it to reporters this way:

The State Department and the British Foreign Office had discussed publication of the terms as early as December, 1943.

Useful To Nazis

At that time, Allied military officials objected. They said the Germans and Mussolini's Fascist Government in northern Italy could make good propaganda use of the armistice terms, especially among the pro-Allied Partisan fighters.

The subject was brought up several times subsequently, but the original military viewpoint prevailed virtually until V-E day.

Reminded by newsmen that almost half a year had elapsed since V-E day, the officials, specifying they were not to be identified further, said the British and American governments felt after the Potsdam Big Three Conference that a final peace treaty with Italy would soon be written.

"No Good Purpose"

It was believed, these officials added, that "no good purpose" would be served by prior publication of the armistice terms. What bad purpose might have been served by such publication was not specified.

It was finally decided to publish them after the September Conference of Foreign Ministers, charged with drawing up a final peace settlement, ended in a stalemate in London.

Secretary of State Byrnes recently called the armistice terms "harsh and obsolete." Government officials long familiar with the documents agree. They say the terms are more detailed and sweeping than those imposed on the former Axis satellite countries of Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania.

To Be Superseded

They stress, however, that the provisions still in effect will be superseded entirely by the final peace treaty with Italy.

The documents disclose that the Allies began to relax some of the terms as early as September 29, 1943, just 26 days after the original surrender pact was signed.

On the twenty-ninth Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower wrote to Marshal Badoglio, then head of the Italian Government, that postsurrender developments had "altered considerably the status of Italy, which has become in effect a co-operator with the United Nations."

Became Cobelligerent

That was just two weeks before the Badoglio Government declared war on Germany and became a "cobelligerent" of the Allies.

The original armistice document did not contain the words "unconditional surrender." But it was not until the "additional conditions of the armistice with Italy" were signed September 29 that the statement "accepted unconditionally" appeared.

The original armistice, signed in Sicily on September 3, consists of twelve terse provisions, beginning with the order to Italian forces to cease immediately "all hostile activity."

Italy was called upon to deny to the Germans all facilities that might be used against the Allies; to return all United Nations' prisoners; to transfer her fleet and aircraft to the Allies.

Sweeping Clauses

Two of the clauses are so sweeping as to indicate that the Allies wanted to insure a "catch-all" scope for a hastily written document.

One authorized Eisenhower to "take any measure that in his opinion may be necessary for the protection of the interests of the Allied forces for the prosecution of the war."

The other binds Italy to "other conditions of a political, economic and financial nature" to be drawn up later. These "additional conditions," signed at Malta September 29, go into great detail and give the Allies minute control over all aspects of the military, economic and political life of Italy.

Agreement On Fleet

Included in the documents is a separate agreement for disposition of the Italian fleet, signed September 23. It placed all Italian warships and merchant vessels "unconditionally" at Allied disposal.

Two amendments, added November 17, brought vigorous protests from Italian Admiral de Courten and prompted Badoglio to write a letter to the late President Roosevelt.

Admiral's Protest

These amendments stressed the right of the Allies to "make such other dispositions of any or all Italian ships as they may think fit," and watered down a previous provision that Italian merchant ships would be manned by Italian crews.

Admiral de Courten said the amendments violated the "spirit" of the original agreement. He said they were "at odds with the active collaboration" that had been given the Allies by the Italian Navy.

Also included in the documents is a "commentary" on the armistice documents, prepared by Allied force headquarters in Italy in recent weeks. It explains how the original terms have been relaxed; details Italian military and economic contributions to the Allied war effort, and outlines Allied steps to help get Italy back on its feet economically.

Rome Notes Omissions

Rome, Nov. 6 (AP)—The Italian armistice terms, published for the first time tonight, impressed Romans more with what they did not contain than with what they did.

"Now Italians will know," said Liberal Vice Premier Manlio in the first official comment since the terms' publication, "that their government was telling the truth—that the armistice in no way compromised the territorial and economic future of the nation."

Italian Surrender Terms

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—Here are the twelve terms of the original Italian surrender signed 26 months and 3 days ago today:

1. Immediate cessation of all hostile activity by the Italian armed forces.

2. Italy will use its best endeavors to deny, to the Germans, facilities that might be used against the United Nations.

Disposition Of Internees

3. All prisoners or internees of the United Nations to be immediately turned over to the Allied commander in chief, and none of these may now or at any time be evacuated to Germany.

4. Immediate transfer of the Italian fleet and Italian aircraft to such points as may be designated by the Allied commande. in chief, with details of disarmament to be prescribed by him.

5. Italian merchant shipping may be requisitioned by the Allied commander in chief to meet the needs of his military-naval program.

Territorial-Surrender Clause

6. Immediate surrender of Corsica and of all Italian territory, both islands and mainland, to the Allies, for such use as operational bases and other purposes as the Allies may see fit.

7. Immediate guarantee of the free use by the Allies of all airfields and naval ports in Italian territory, regardless of the rate of evacuation of the Italian territory by the German forces. These ports and fields to be protected by Italian armed forces until this function is taken over by the Allies.

8. Immediate withdrawal to Italy of Italian armed forces from all participation in the current war from whatever areas in which they may now be engaged.

Aid From Italian Forces

9. Guarantee by the Italian Government that, if necessary, it will employ all its available armed forces to insure prompt and exact compliance with all the provisions of this armistice.

10. The commander in chief of the Allied forces reserves to himself the right to take any measure which, in his opinion, may be necessary for the protection of the interests of the Allied forces for the prosecution of the war, and the Italian Government binds itself to take such administrative or other action as the commander in chief may require, and in particular the commander in chief will establish Allied military government over such parts of Italian territory as he may deem necessary in the military interests of the Allied nations.

Commander's Authority

11. The commander in chief of the Allied forces will have full right to impose measures of disarmament, demobilization and demilitarization.

12. Other conditions of a political, economic and financial nature with which Italy will be bound to comply will be transmitted at a later date.

Italian Reparations Necessity Disclaimed

Rome, Nov. 6 (AP)—Foreign Minister Alcide de Gasperi declared here that Italy could not pay reparations and said seizure of Italian property abroad as reparations was "not acceptable" in view of Italian losses resulting from cobelligerency with the Allies against Germany.

Addressing a Popular Solidarity Day crowd, de Gasperi was interrupted by cries of "Long Live America" when he thanked President Truman for the tone of the President Truman's Columbus Day address.

92d Division Units Set To Leave Italy

Rome, Nov. 6 (AP)—First units of the United States 92d Infantry Division, an all-Negro outfit of the 5th Army, will sail home tomorrow from Naples.

All the division's remaining 4,000 men and 300 officers are to sail during the month.

Moore To Command 88th Division

Rome, Nov. 6 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Matthew S. Ridgeway today appointed Maj. Gen. Bryant H. Moore to command the 88th Blue Devil Division, now assigned to occupational duty in Venezia Guilia. Moore, a veteran of Guadalcanal and the western front, succeeds Brig. Gen. James C. Fry.

Fiat Resumes Auto Production

Florence, Nov. 6 (AP) — Using scrap materials salvaged from German and Italian military vehicles, the Fiat automobile plant is now producing approximately 100 cars daily. United States Army ordnance officers recently returned the plant to its Italian owners.

Greece to Seek $3,700,000,000

Athens, Nov. 6 (A. P.).—Finance Minister Gregory Kassimatis announced today that Greece would ask $3,000,000,000 in reparations from Germany, $300,000,000 from Italy and $400,000,000 from Bulgaria. The figures were released after a session of the Advisory Financial Council presided over by Premier Cancellopoulos.

Mihailovic Men Reported in Battle

Athens, Nov. 6 (A. P.).—The newspaper Embros said today that fierce fighting recently took place in Yugoslavia near the Greek border between about 100 partisan supporters of Gen. Draja Mihailovic, the Chetnick leader, and a detachment of Marshal Tito's Government forces.

HONOR SOVIET ENVOYS

Moscow, Nov. 6 (A. P.).—The Presidium of the Supreme Soviet today ordered numerous awards for Russian diplomats. Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov received the coveted Order of Lenin, and so did Andrei A. Gromyoko, Soviet Ambassador to the United States, and the ambassadors to Great Britain, Turkey, China, Yugoslavia and Czecho-Slovakia.

Maxim Litvinov, former Foreign Commissar and former Ambassador to the United States, received the Order of the Red Banner. The same award went to Ivan Maisky, former Ambassador to Great Britain.

Andrei Vyshinsky, Vice-Commissar for Foreign Affairs, won the Order of Lenin.

Jacob Lomarkin, former Consul General in San Francisco and other places in the United States, received the Order of the Red Banner. Lomarkin now heads the press department of the Foreign Office.

Editorial on Hurley Wins Backing of Soviet Press

Herald Tribune Is Quoted on Role of Envoy to China

MOSCOW, Nov. 6 (AP).—The official Soviet newspaper "Izvestia" today published conspicuously a Tass dispatch quoting the New York Herald Tribune as saying that Patrick J. Hurley, American Ambassador to China, was interfering in China's internal affairs.

Publication of the dispatch was interpreted, informed diplomatic circles said, as meaning that Russia probably agrees with such a view.

Finns Arrest Eight Ex-Leaders On Charge Of Aiding Germany

Helsinki, Nov. 6 (AP)—Eight Finnish wartime leaders, including former President Risto Ryti, were arrested today and charged with responsibility for Finland's war with Russia at the side of Germany, it was officially announced today.

Others arrested and charged were former Prime Minister J. W. Rangell and Edvin Linkomies; a former Minister of Finance and head of the Social Democratic party, Vaino Tanner; former Foreign Minister Sir Henrik Ramsay; a former Finnish Minister to Berlin, T. M. Kivimaeki; a former Minister of Education, Antti Kukkonen, and former Minister of Finance Tycko Reinikka.

Trials Expected Next Week

Trials probably will be conducted next week before a people's court composed mostly of laymen.

Parliament recently passed a special law creating the Peoples Court.

Two other prominent Finns, Gen. Rudolf Walden and former Foreign Minister Rolf Witting, also were named as responsible, but Walden is critically ill and was not placed under arrest, and Witting is dead.

Tanner, as the dominant political leader of the time, was accused of failing to take advantage of an offer by Britain and the United States to mediate in the Fall of 1941.

In another section of the indictment Tanner, along with Ramsay, Ryti, Linkomies, Wall and Reinika, was charged with ignoring a similar United States offer in March, 1943.

'Peace Inclinations'

The same six also were held responsible for failing to carry through "obvious peace inclinations in Finland" in the Spring of 1944.

Concerning Finland's agreement with Germany in 1944 to permit Nazi troops to enter all of southern Finland, the indictment said Ramsay, Ryti, Linkomies, Wallden and Reinika all were responsible.

This evidently referred to the pact arranged by the then German foreign minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop.

Kavimaeki was accused of sending false reports from Berlin which overestimated Germany's resources and ability to continue the war.

EX-PRESIDENT RYTI SEIZED IN FINLAND

Helsinki, Nov. 6 (A. P.).—Former President Risto Ryti and seven other Finnish leaders were arrested today and charged with responsibility for Finland's 1941-44 war with Russia at the side of Germany.

Small Holders Lead In Hungary

Budapest, Nov. 6 (AP)—Nearly complete returns in Hungary's national elections today gave the Small Holders' party 59 per cent of the popular vote, with the Communist party gaining to edge out the Social Democrats for second-place standing in the new Parliament.

With 95 per cent of more than 4,000,000 ballots counted, the Communists had seventeen per cent of the popular vote and the Social Democrats eighteen per cent.

By a system of counting mandates for parliamentary seats, the Communists would receive 54 and the Social Democrats 52 of the 315 seats in the new Parliament.

The moderately conservative Small Holders' party appeared assured of 191 seats, or 61 per cent.

Party leaders continued discussions looking toward a new Government under Zoltan Tildy, Small Holders' leader, as Premier, and an announcement may be made Friday. The new Parliament will convene about November 15.

PREACHER'S PARTY LEADS IN HUNGARY

Budapest, Nov. 6 (A. P.).—The Smallholders party, middle-of-the-road organization of shopkeepers, small landowners and professional men, appeared today to have won a substantial hold on the Hungarian Parliament in Sunday's national elections. With returns three-fourths complete, it appeared that the party, headed by a Methodist minister, the Rev. Zoltan Tildy, would keep its margin of 58 per cent of the more than 4,000,000 votes cast. Tildy thus appeared assured of succeeding Bela Miklos in the Premiership, and of placing a party member in the key post of Under Secretary of State, who controls the Hungarian police.

The Laborite Social Democrats were running second as the returns rolled in, carrying about 22 per cent of the vote. The Communists had about 14 per cent. The vote for the Rightist Christian Democratic party and other groups was negligible.

Among the noted personages elected to Parliament were Count Michael Karolyi, former Premier, now living in London; Zoltan Kodaly, composer; Premier Miklos, and Prof. Albert Szent-Gyorgyi, Nobel Prize winner for his vitmin studies.

Admits Seizures From UNNRA

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Nov. 6 (AP)—A Yugoslav spokesman said today that Marshal Tito's Government had taken over trucks and grain from the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration on two occasions to meet emergencies, but denied a Rome report that UNRRA material was being used to supply the Yugoslav Army.

Poulos to Go Back to Palestine

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 6 (AP)—Constantine Poulos of the Overseas News Agency, expelled from Palestine on Oct. 23 at the request of the British military, has been authorized to return. Lieut. Col. George P. Welch, American public relations officer in the Middle East, said British objections had been withdrawn and that Mr. Poulos had been authorized to return to Palestine in Army accommodations. No reason ever was announced for the ousting.

More British Troops Reach Palestine

Jerusalem, Nov. 6 (A. P.).—The troopship Askania arrived at Haifa today and disembarked reinforcements for the Sixth British Airborne Division station in Palestine.

Palesttine Policemen Stoned

JERUSALEM, Nov. 6 (AP).—A number of Palestine policemen were stoned today in Tel Aviv when the constables reportedly tried to arrest an illegal Jewish immigrant from Syria,

CENSORSHIP LIFTED

BEYROUTH, Nov. 6—(AP) Censorship of local press dispatches was lifted today, but the Lebanese government said outgoing news must continue to pass the censors because it "desires to maintain friendly relations with foreign powers and preserve the Lebanese high reputation."

MARINES WILL QUIT NORTH CHINA SOON

Expected to Leave by Dec. 5, Situation in Section Is Precarious.

CHUNGKING, Nov. 6.— (AP) American Marines sitting precariously on the lid of seething North China will go home, probably by Dec. 5, unofficial Tientsin reports said today—leaving China's scrapping Communist and government forces to make their own peace or fight their own war.

Pessimists expected the lid to blow at any moment, and there was evidence today that American military leaders also are increasingly concerned about the possibility of all-out civil war. Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, returning from Washington to his China command, flew to Peiping first, to confer directly with his field commanders in the North China trouble zones.

He reportedly was informing them of official War department policy: That American forces will take no active role in China's internal strife.

Dispatches from Peiping today said there still was no confirmation or denial of Communist claims that American Marines had driven the Reds from the summer-resort town of Peitaiho, near Chinwangtao, with machineguns. Peiping sources doubted the story, and Maj.-Gen. Keller Rockey, commander of the Third Marine Amphibious corps, reiterated his earlier statement that Marines would not fire on anyone except in self-defense.

Tense Situation

Wedemeyer's arrival at the trouble scene highlighted these other developments in tense China:

1. Communists are besieging the city of Yencheng, only 160 miles northwest of Shanghai, the headquarters of Nationalist Gen. Tang En-Po reported.

2. Reports from the Yenan headquarters of the Chinese Reds said today that they were proceeding "full steam ahead" with plans for all-out civil war—in the evident fear that current peace talks in Chungking would fail.

3. Clouds of conflicting rumors cloaked sporadic battling through central and northern China, but an official dispatch acknowledged that Communists had fought their way inside Kweisui, capital of the rich inner-Mongolian province of Suiyan. There were indications the Reds were attempting to consolidate there.

4. Other Red forces reportedly were continuing their strong assaults on two of the major north-south railways, the Peiping-Hankow and Tientsin-Pukow (Tientsin-Hankow) lines, by which any overland movement of government forces to inner Mongolia or Manchuria would be routed. One government spokesman said the Reds had destroyed 800 miles of North-China railroads.

5. There still was no confirmation here of any government troop landings from the U. S. transports at Hulutao or Yingkow, in southern Manchuria, and pessimistic observers here said the complete lack of information may mean there has been a breakdown in reported Russian-Chinese arrangements for the landings. Russian occupation forces are scheduled to leave Manchuria this month. There is no up-to-date estimate of Chinese Communist strength in the area.

6. Communist headquarters at Yanan reportedly was considering the government's recent four-point peace proposal, but the only publicied Red comments have been skeptical in tone. The plan included a provision that Reds withdraw from railroads now in their grasp, and added that the government would talk things over before moving troops on the lines.

Chinese Communists today moderated their charges that American Marines had clashed aggressively with the North-China Reds. Both Chungking and Washington had flatly denied such reports, and a Yenan (Chinese Red) spokesman said today that:

"I don't believe the American attacks (on Communists) were part of a deliberate plan, but since the Americans are 'in the middle' of the government and communist troops it is quite possible the incidents were provoked."

He reiterated the Communists' contention that the mere presence of United States Marines in the disputed areas constitutes "intervention."

Three major marine-occupied areas, Tientsin, Peiping and Tsingtao, were reported orderly today, although unidentified assailants fired at an American jeep in Tientsin and at one in Peiping a few days ago. At the seaport of Chinwangtao, also marine-occupied, there have been disorders and there has been no indication that they have ended.

Some Tientsin observers expect civil war "in full fury" by Jan. 1 and, if Americans remain in the trouble zones, they say, how can they expect to avoid all of the troubles?

China Reds Set For Long War

Chungking, Nov. 6 (AP)—Chinese Communists, reports from their Yenan headquarters in Shensi province said today are proceeding "full steam ahead" with plans for all-out civil war against the Central Government in event current negotiations with Chungking fail.

The Communists, the reports said, envisage a ten-year war and are confident they can win it.

The Red leaders were reported as hoping that civil war would be unnecessary and that a settlement would give them a chance by political means for eventually attaining power.

Hoped To Stave It Off

Communists, the report continued, hoped they might be able to stave off full-fledged civil war by inflicting a few severe defeats to the Government forces and thereby induce Chiang Kai-shek's Government to make concessions.

In the event of open civil war, the dispatches said, the Communists would fight as they did against the Japanese, avoiding positional battles and engaging purely in guerrilla operations. They would use their "People's Militia" as a holding force and the regulars to besiege lightly held towns and outposts.

Report New Support

Communist quarters at Yenan the reports declared, claimed that several Government divisional commanders had come over to them. The Communists are busily trying to enlist the support or at least obtain the neutrality of "doubtful" Government forces in different areas.

The Reds today renewed in a considerably moderated tone their charges that American Marines had clashed with Red Forces in North China.

A Yenan spokesman today admitted that the incidents he reported "might have been provoked."

WEDEMEYER IN NORTH CHINA

U. S. Marines Reported Due to Leave December 5.

Peiping, Nov. 6 (A. P.).—Lieut.-Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commanding United Sthates forces in China, arrived in Peiping today from the United States and was scheduled to confer immediately with top-ranking American Marine, Navy and Army officers in this North China trouble spot.

He flew directly to North China via Tokyo, rather than by way of Chungking, seat of the Chinese Central Government. He was met by Major-Gen. Keller Rocky, commander of the Third Marine Amphibious Corps, and high-ranking Army and Navy officers.

Marines Ready to Quit

Tientsin, Nov. 6 (A. P.).—The United States Marines will be withdrawn shortly from North China, probably by December 5, it was reported unofficially here today.

Known facts seem to support the report, for the Marines virtually have completed their mission in North China—to restore order and help disarm the Japanese.

There are isolated groups of Japanese who have not been disarmed, but Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist troops, who are beginning to arrive in North China in large numbers, should have the situation in hand by that time.

Strong public oppinion in the United States against the Americans becoming involved in a Chinese civil war, which may burst forth in full fury by the end of the year, is one of the factors observers believe is leading to the quick withdrawal of the Marines.

Reds Besieging Yencheng.

Shanghai, Nov. 6 (A. P.).—The communist forces which have withdrawn to the north of the Yangtze River are beseiging the city of Yencheng, only 160 miles northwest of Shanghai, the headquarters of Gen. Tang En-po, commander of Nationalist Chinese forces in the Shanghai-Nanking area, announced today. The siege was the only spot of violence he reported in otherwise calm Kiangsu province of North-Central China. Shanghai is in the southern tip of Kiangsu, south of the Yangtze.

A mixture of puppet troops and Government forces is defending Yencheng, Tang said. Government spokesmen pointed out that Yencheng would be vital to the Communists if they hope to consolidate control of North Kiangsu Province.

Clashes between two Chinese guerrilla forces on the outskirts of Shanghai a few days ago also were disclosed today. Small arms and mortars were fired, but both sides, it turned out, were Nationalists, clashing over some private controversy. The action had sent rumors through Shanghai that Communists were attacking this metropolitan port city.

WOMAN DEFIED JAPS

Shanghai, Nov. 6 (A. P.).—Rigorous athletic training helped Irena Poraj-Budzinska withstand brutal punishment at the hands of the Japanese in Shanghai's Bridge House torture palace. "It took them three days to beat me down," she said gleefully today. "Finally they had to hit me over the head with a huge bunch of keys."

The tall, angular, 36-year-old girl who won the women's motorcycle and calesthenics events for Poland at the 1936 Olympic games in Berlin, is recovering from the effects of two months' confinement in a small concrete cell where she lived and was tortured with fifteen other women. Her sole ambition now is to return to Warsaw. She fled the Polish capital by motorcycle as the Nazis marched in, and reached Krakow despite a knee injury suffered in a skidding accident, and pushed on from there in the company of sixteen other girls, all on motorcycles. Miss Poraj-Budzinska made her way through Italy, Morocco, India and China as far as Shanghai where she was seized by the Japs for investigation.

BOYCOTT HONGKONG MONEY CHANGERS

Hongkong, Nov. 6 (A. P.).—The United States Navy has adopted a boycott to restore the value of sailors' dollars among the Hongkong money changers. Shore patrols were stationed in front of the principal money-changer establishments today to keep sailors out and loudspeakers at the wharf admonished the sailors not to patronize money changers unless the rate was 7.50 Hongkong dollars to one American dollar or better. The American shore commander said that financial men had notified him that the Chinese money changers were attempting to beat down the rate.

When the Americans first came to Hongkong in mid-October, the rate was eight to one. It was six to one a few days ago. Today it was up to 6.80.

Dutch Offer Indonesians 'Partnership' in Empire

Merton

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 6.—(AP) The Dutch disclosed today an offer to Indonesians of "partnership" in the Netherlands empire to end the strife in the East Indies, but Indonesian leaders indicated they would hold out for complete independence.

Java still remained tense, and renewed street fighting with machine-guns, rifles and grenades broke out in Batavia.

NIGHT

The Dutch plan, presented to nationalist leaders last week, was published today despite a warning by President Soekarno of the "Indonesian Republic" to acting Governor General Hubertus J. Van Mook that it might result in increased tension.

Soekarno in a statement soon afterward made no direct reference to the Dutch proposals but declared "up until now there is no sign of the Dutch having other intentions than restoring the old colonial system.

"The Dutch know they are unequal to the task of imposing their domination on us, but they are buoyed up by the hope of being able to utilize allied forces to crush the Indonesians' determination to maintain their sovereignty.

"So long as the world sees no way out of the present impasse except supporting the Dutch claim to Indonesia, that long will Indonesia be unable to contribute its material wealth to the enrichment of the world."

Later Foreign Minister Suburdjo of the Indonesian republican movement suggested that a plebiscite under United Nations supervision be held to determine whether the East Indies should remain under Dutch domination.

He said the plebiscite was "purely his personal opinion," but expressed conviction that it would prove the Indonesians wanted independence.

In event of independence, the foreign minister said, "we can still maintain friendly relations with the Dutch on a treaty basis. We could give the Dutch preferential rights, the Dutch could help us in rehabilitation."

Major points in the Dutch plan were:

Indonesia would be invited to become a full partner in the empire, which would be reorganized as a commonwealth.

The government of the East Indies would be "reconstructed by legal process in such a way that it will consist of a democratic representative body, with a substantial majority of Indonesian members, and a council of ministers under the governor general."

Racial equality would be established, and room made "for the development of business of every size for all racial groups."

A strong armed force would be organized, with all races contributing their support. All persons must surrender their weapons except those "legally entitled or licensed" to carry arms.

The Dutch called on all who want to undertake the work of reconstruction to "join hands," and said they intended to summon a round-table conference at the earliest date to put the plan into effect.

Organization and adhere to the San Francisco charter. He promised a general election. Large credits and shipments of manufactured goods would be sought from the United States, he added.

Dutch Plan Would Make Indonesia A 'Partner'

Merton

Batavia, Nov. 6 (AP)—The Government of the Netherlands East Indies, trying to restore order in this land wracked by a struggle for independence, made public today a plan for "rapid development of Indonesia as a partner in a kingdom which will be constructed to guarantee the self-respect of all member-peoples."

H. J. Van Mook, acting governor general of the Indies, who released the program, disclosed that it had been presented more than a week ago to Indonesian Nationalist leaders as a basis for settlement of their demands. He expressed his hope for a speedy return of order to Java so that a round-table conference might be convened to discuss all aspects of his proposals.

Tension Increases

His statement was issued in an atmosphere of growing tension, emphasized by a new outbreak of street fighting in Batavia between Indonesian extremists and Dutch troops.

Indonesian leaders were reported to have urged Van Mook not to release the document, fearing that his proposals—which are far short of their demands—would only increase the gulf between their people and the Dutch.

Soekarno's Statement

Soekarno, self-styled president of the "Indonesian republic," said in a statement that the Dutch had no reasonable answer for the difficulties and "know they are unequal to the task of imposing their domination on us."

"As long as the world sees no way out of the present impasse except by supporting the Dutch claim to Indonesia, that long Indonesia will be unable to contribute its material wealth to the enrichment of the world," Soekarno said.

Willing To Assume Debts

The Nationalist leader said his "republic," when recognized, would assume all debts of the Dutch East Indies and hand over property to rightful foreign owners, except properties needed by the state. He asserted that his regime intended to take a place in the United Nations

In essence, Van Mook's statement was a reiteration of previous Dutch offers to grant the Indonesians self-government and independence within the limits of a Dutch commonwealth, but it was reinforced by assurances of racial equality and full partnership with the Netherlands.

"Participation Of All"

"Room will be made for the development of business of every size for all racial groups, and the participation of Indonesians, Indo-Chinese and Indo-Arabs in big business will be furthered," the statement declared.

"The central government of this country will have to be reconstructed by legal process in such a way that it will consist of a democratic representative body with a substantial majority of Indonesian members and a council of ministers under a governor general as the representative of the Crown," Van Mook said.

Demands Arms

He asserted, however, that in the interests of restoring order it was necessary that all arms "which have been passed over legally by the Japanese or which have been stolen must be restored to the Allies and the carrying of arms must be restricted to peoples legally entitled or licensed to do so."

"It is doubly necessary to restore order to enable us to proceed with the nomination of representatives by a general consultation that is free of threats and intimidation," Van Mook added.

He promised to bring to justice all those "who knowingly and actively harmed their cocitizens and their country" by collaboration with the Japanese.

An increase in tension at the Soerabaja naval base in eastern Java was acknowledged by British headquarters as Indonesian extremists and Dutch troops continued in a desultory exchange of rifle and machine-gun fire in the streets of Batavia.

PLANE IS OVERDUE ON LONG FLIGHT

HONOLULU, Nov. 6 — (AP) A search was begun late today for a Naval Air Transport service C-54 Skymaster many hours overdue on a 1,600-mile flight from Guam to Manila Bay.

NATS said no trace has been found of the four-engined transport which was carrying 13 passengers and seven crewmen. It last was heard from only 100 miles from its destination Sangley Point, Manila Bay, where it was due at 2.30 a. m. today, Eastern Standard Time.

NIGHT

Names of all passengers and crewmen were withheld.

The Army Transport command announced meanwhile that sea and air search had been abandoned for 11 persons missing from an army liberator-type transport which crash-landed at sea last Saturday. Eight injured survivors and seven bodies were found at the scene by rescue craft.

Search is under way for the NATS plane, enroute from Guam to Manila. It was 15 hours overdue at noon today, Honolulu time, (5:30 p. m. EST) its pilot last had been heard from at 8 p. m. Monday when he was only 100 miles from Sangley Point, the NATS terminal in Manila Bay.

Thirteen passengers and 10 crewmen of a clipper seaplane which also made a forced landing Saturday, 615 miles northeast of Honolulu, were rescued unhurt. Twelve are enroute to San Francisco aboard the army transport John Henry Payne, and one passenger and the crewmen were due at Pearl Harbor this afternoon abgard the escort carrier Manila Bay.

One of those killed in the army plane, the ATC confirmed today, was Mrs. Pollyanna Smith Onnen, 28, a WAC. She was en route to Fairfield, Cal., to be discharged and planned to return to Honolulu to make her home. She recently married John Onnen, sailor from Fort Dodge, Iowa, who also was stationed in Honolulu. She was the mother of an 8-year-old daughter by a previous marriage.

Body Taken To Honolulu

Her body was returned to Honolulu yesterday and will be buried in the Schofield Barracks cemetery here.

Four Gigantic Jap Family Business Dynasties Ended

LANDSBERG

TOKYO, Nov. 6 — (AP) A drastic Allied command directive today dissolved Japan's four gigantic business-industrial dynasties in a move to smash the nation's war-making ability and "encourage" enterprise along peaceful, democratic lines.

These holding companies long had dominated Japanese business and industry and allied headquarters promised there would be further action to overhaul the nation's cartel-controlled economy.

Immediate effect of this trust-smashing action will be to strip the four leading Zaibatsu families of their elaborate inter-locking control of the multi-billion yen industrial empire ruled by the Mitsui, Mitsubishi, Sumotomo and Yasuda holding companies.

It is only the "first step" in the allied effort to encourage free enterprise, said Col. Raymond P. Kramer, American officer who planned the dissolution.

This and succeeding orders, he added, will eliminate the system of highly pyramided structures that might "facilitate any future Tojo's ability to send Japan once more to aggression."

While stressing there would be further reorganization of Japan's big business, Kramer said he was not prepared to specify which other Zaibatsu would be affected. He did announce, however, that the nation's 'big five' banks, mainly controleld by the Zaibatsu, will be overhauled.

The banks he referred to are the Koki (Imperial), Mitsubishi, Yasuda, Sanwa and Sumitomo, with deposits totaling billions of yen.

A survey issued by Allied headquarters disclosed widespread ramifications in the relations of the "big four" trust with business firms throughout the world. The survey named Westinghouse, Tidewater Associated Oil Co., International Telephone and Telegraph, Aluminum Co. of America, Libby-Owens Ford and others as examples of big business linked through stockholdings or agreements with such houses as Mitsui and Mitsubishi.

The survey also reported close relationships between the "Big Five" banks and American banking institutions.

Settlement of debts, stock holdings and other financial matters involved in the international relationships was expected to pose a tremendous problem.

Can Sell To Commission

Under a plan worked out by the Government for the dissolution of the four holding companies—Yasuda, Sumitomo and Mitsui families, whose companies bear their names, and Iwasaki, which controls Mitsubishi—they would be permitted to sell their interests to a holding company liquidation commission. The agency would compensate them with Government bonds.

Zaibatsu family shares of stock would be offered to public sale, with employés of the companies involved given preference. For the present, Kramer said, subsidiary companies would be permitted to remain undisturbed.

Work Through Government

By working through Japanese Government machinery the job of dissolution was begun in a remarkably short time and all four combines knew that they must accept, and they did accept, without quibbling.

Colonel Kramer's plan, approved by General MacArthur and by the Washington authorities, was to have the initiative in these reforms come from the Japanese Government, which would be empowered by MacArthur to carry out a plan ostensibly theirs, but actually Kramer's.

There are many [illegible] and there are still unsolved problems concerning the [illegible] For example, it is yet undecided whether outside capital should be allowed to buy into Japanese businesses owned by the families when these stocks [illegible]

That will be a matter for policy makers of the Allies to decide.

Gen. MacArthur Smashes [illegible] Financial

Tokyo, Nov. 6 [illegible] Arthur today smashed [illegible] greatest financial and [illegible] families and gave notice [illegible] tentions to break up all such [illegible] bines to "aid Japanese [illegible] development along peaceful, democratic lines."

The Japanese Government was ordered immediately to prepare to dissolve Mitsui, Mitsubishi, Sumitomo and Yasuda Zaibotsu and their holding companies and to eliminate their controls of Japanese finances and industries.

MacArthur further told the Government to set up a holding company liquidation association to direct the dissolution under indirect Allied control, and warned that all policies and personnel must have his approval.

To Smash All Such Combines

Along with the directive aimed at the great Zaibatsu interests with their ramifications, which spread throughout the world before the war, the Supreme Allied Commander said he intended to smash all such combines so as to permit "wider distribution of income and ownership of the means of production and trade in Japan."

The Government also was directed to take immediate steps to "terminate and prohibit Japanese participation in private international cartels or other restrictive private international contracts or arrangements."

The sweeping order—the most drastic of all against individuals or corpprotions yet issued by MacArthur—means the complete retirement from Japan's business life of four big families—Yasuda, Mitsui and Sumitomo, whose campaigns bear their names, and Iwasaki, which controls the Mitsubishi interests.

Promises Economic Freedom.

"The way has now been cleared for the first time in Japanese history for the Japanese people to achieve economic freedom," MacArthur said.

All members of the four families were directed to resign immediately from "all offices held by them in any financial, commercial, non-commercial or industrial enterprises" and "to cease forthwith to exercise any influence either directly or indirectly" in their management.

The Japanese Government must present for Allied approval a program for abrogation of current laws and regulations which foster private monopolies and enact new laws preventing monopolies and providing business opportunities on a competitive basis. All securities owned by the holding companies or other "evidence of ownership or control" in any firm must be transferred to the new holding company liquidation commission, after which all holding company directors and officers must resign.

The breaking up of these houses of industry was expected to create an international headache in the question of how to dispose of thousands of shares of stock held by American and other foreign firms.

Supreme Allied Headquarters issued a survey revealing widespread ramifications in the prewar tieup between Japan's four big industrial empires and firms throughout the world.

The survey said that American corporate big names such as Westinghouse, Tidewater Associated Oil Company, International Telephone and Telegraph, Aluminum Company of America and Libby-Owens Ford had business links with such houses as Mitsubishi and Mitsui. All of their stock holdings and unsettled debts pose a huge problem.

There also was a close relationship between the five big, powerful banks in Japan and American banking institutions from coast to coast.

Must Report Rubber Stocks.

Meanwhile Allied headquarters ordered the Japanese Government to report the disposition of all rubber stocks taken by the Japanese from Malaya.

The Japanese Government was also told to submit a report within ten days on detailed operations of the Kempei Tai, the disbanded military police, and the names and present locations of its principal officials.

The newspaper Yomiuri Hochi said that Finance Minister Keizo Shibusawa has presented to the Japanese Cabinet a five-year financial plan to meet the nation's economic crisis. Shibusawa's plan, Yomiuri said, stressed the necessity of a large-scale taxation increase, the revision of commodity prices and the promotion of peace-time industries.

The breaking up of Japan's fabulous houses of industry was expected today to create an international financial headache. The problem is how to dispose of thousands of shares of stock held by American and other foreign firms.

Widespread Ties

Supreme Allied headquarters said a survey revealed widespread ramifications in the prewar tieup between Japan's "Big Four" industrial empires and firms throughout the world.

The survey said that American corporate big names such as Westinghouse, Tidewater Associated Oil Company, International Telephone and Telegraph, Aluminum Company of America and Libby-Owens-Ford had business links with such houses as Mitsubishi and Mitsui.

Tieup With Banks, Too

There also was a close relationship between the powerful "Big Five" banks and American banking institutions from coast to coast.

As an example of Japanese connections, the survey said that in 1923 Mitsubishi signed contracts with Westinghouse Corporation, East Pittsburgh, Pa., and Westinghouse Electric International Company, New York, to obtain technical advice and information. Mitsubishi was permitted to use Westinghouse patents and to manufacture and sell products based on them.

Westinghouse held 53,700 shares of Mitsubishi Electric stock at the outbreak of the war, equaling three per cent of the issue, the survey said. In return for patents and product rights, Mitsubishi paid Westinghouse royalties that reached a peak of 900,000 yen (about $378,000 prewar foreign exchange rate) in 1940.

Other Contracts

Mitsubishi Electric also had contracts with Westinghouse Airbrake Company, Wilmerding, Pa., and National Pneumatic Company, Rahway, N.J.

Tidewater Associated Oil, San Francisco, was a shareholder in the Mitsubishi oil firm and a supplier of crude oil to the company prior to the war.

Mitsubishi Bank had branches in New York, London, Shanghai and Dairen and had correspondent banks in many American cities.

The House of Sumitomo Bank was so powerful it even had branches on three steamships on the Japan-San Francisco run.

Sumitomo Metal Industries Company, Ltd., was closely connected with Aluminum Company of America, which helped establish Sumitomo Aluminum Company, Ltd., 30 per cent of whose stock was owned by Aluminum, Ltd., of Canada, the survey said.

Use of the Sumitomo Metal Industries patent for KS magneto steel was granted to International Western Telegraph Company, a subsidiary of International Telephone and Telegraph, and to Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

Twenty per cent of the stock of Sumitomo Electric Industries was owned by International Standard Electric Company, which was a subsidiary of International Telephone and Telegraph.

Japan Sheet Glass Company, Ltd., a Sumitomo concern, was established in 1918 as a joint enterprise of Sumitomo and Libby-Owens Sheet Glass Company, Toledo, Ohio, which is a Libby-Owens-Ford subsidiary, the survey stated.

The powerful financial house of Mitsui in 1941 had 22 offices in Japan and branches at Dairen, Shanghai, Soerabaja, Java; Bombay, London and New York.

MacArthur's order—the most drastic of all against individuals or corporations he has yet issued—means the complete retirement from Japan's business life of the Big Four families—Yasuda, Mitsui and Sumitomo, whose companies pear their name, and Iwasaki, which controls the Mitsubishi interests.

Curb Hits U.S. Business in Tokyo

TOKYO, Nov. 6 (AP)—Allied headquarters said today that because of restricted living conditions United States business firms would be allowed to send representatives to Japan only if their work would aid in the occupation. Headquarters told the commanders of the Sixth and Eighth Occupation Armies to refer all requests for entry permits to headquarters itself. Requests for information regarding private holdings must go to the War Department in Washington.

Jap Envoy In Dark On Pearl Harbor

Tokyo, Nov. 6 (AP)—Allied headquarters announced today that it had obtained proof that the Japanese Pearl Harbor Premier, Hideki Tojo, had failed to keep the Nipponese diplomatic staff in Washington advised of all developments.

The information was obtained in the huge volume of evidence which the headquarters is preparing for Tojo's war criminal trial.

The trials of Tojo, and other prominent Japanese have been delayed pending further instructions from Washington on important details on the trial of Japan's war leaders.

Nomura Not Informed

The full evidence against Tojo was not disclosed, but a well-informed source said it corroborated the recent statement of the Japanese Ambassador to the United States at the time of Pearl Harbor, Kichisaburo Nomura, that he had not been informed of plans for the Pearl Harbor attack.

Nomura has not been jailed.

One source termed the special Japanese envoy to the United States at that time, Saburo Kurusu, "nothing but a plant" to talk peace while Tojo planned war.

Whether Kurusu accepted the role willingly or unwillingly was not explained.

MASSACRE STORY TOLD

Yamashita Trial Witnesses Describe Slaying Of 6,000

Manila, Nov. 6 (AP)—A frightened child, a priest, a nun and a Filipino laborer, testifying today at the war crimes trial of Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, told how Japanese, infuriated over the impending loss of Manila, shelled, tortured and massacred some 6,000 civilians in the ancient walled center of the city.

Eleven-year-old Rosalinda Andoy, trembling amid a battery of lights, microphones and other courtroom paraphernalia, shocked the throng of trial spectators into tense silence as she sobbed out the story of how her mother and aunts were bayoneted before her eyes and her father led away to be killed.

Scars Of 38 Wounds

Rosalinda showed the court scars of 38 bayonet wounds she said were inflicted by hysterical, drunken Japanese. Even while her mother was telling her to "be a good girl, dearest," a Japanese used the woman for a live bayonet target, the girl testified.

The Rev. Belarmino Decelis, of the Spanish Augustinian order, testified that last February 5 the Japanese jammed 6,000 civilians into the church of St. Augustine, oldest building in Manila.

The men were thrown into the old dungeons which served the Spanish a century ago. Women and children, he said, were kept without food in the church compound until hunger drove them to eating grass and roots of the patio gardens.

Marched To Fort To Die

Four days later the men were taken out and forced to stand in the open streets under heavy artillery fire, then marched to Fort Santiago and massacred.

The laborer, Juan Paloda, testified he was one of 100 persons packed into a stone dungeon 20 feet square. He was stabbed later, he said, and left for dead in a pit with 500 bodies.

Sister Nelly, a nun of the Order of St. Paul, told how the Japanese burned alive a doctor and his patient. The doctor, she said, sought to save the life of the Rev. Cornelius Van Russel, who had been wounded while remonstrating with the Japanese. So the Japanese doused them both with gasoline, hung them to lamp-posts and set them afire.

Suggest U.S. Fire Figured

Defense counsel sought to weaken the impact of part of today's testimony by suggesting that many civilians who died during the final stages of the battle for Manila may have been caught in American artillery or small-arms fire.

In Tokyo the Japanese press was given a detailed outline of the procedure at Yamashita's trial, with the assurance that regardless of the verdict which may be reached "there can be no doubt that he is having and will continue to have a full, fair and complete trial."

Manila, Nov. 6 (A. P.).—A Spanish priest and a Filipino laborer, testifying at the war criminal trial of Lieut.-Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, recounted today the starvation, torture and massacre of 6,000 Filipino and Chinese civilians by Japanese troops before the fall of Manila last spring.

MACARTHUR HEARS FROM CONSTITUENTS

Tokyo, Nov. 6 (A. P.).—Japanese who never until the occupation had opportunity to write their congressmen or any one else in their imperial government are pouring more than fifty letters a day into the office of Gen. MacArthur, praising, complaining, asking personal favors and offering advice. The general asked for the letters, to find out what the Japanese are thinking.

One 68-year-old Japanese asked to be allowed to keep his gun so he could continue to hunt rabbits as he did before the war.

A Nipponese apparently enjoying the occupation wrote: "I would appreciate if Allied

Bank Of Japan's Note Issue Increasing

Tokyo, Nov. 6 (AP)—Kyodo news agency said today that the Bank of Japan note issue was 43,181,000,000 yen ($2,878,700,000 United States) on October 31 and predicted it might go to 55,000,000,000 yen by December 31.

The issue at the close of last month was 13,000,000,000 yen greater than it was when the nation surrendered in mid-August.

JAPS PLAN TOURS FOR TOKYO YANKS

Tokyo, Nov. 6 (A. P.).—Jidosha (Automobile) Corporation plans to open a Tokyo and vicinity sightseeing service for American troops. Five or six buses, with kimono-clad girl barkers, will go into operation about the middle of the month.

TO RELIEVE SPRUANCE

YOKOSUKA, Japan, Wednesday, Nov. 7 — (AP) Vice Adm. John Towers will relieve Adm. Raymond A. Spruance as commander of the U. S. Fifth fleet in a ceremony tomorrow aboard the battleship New Jersey. Towers at present commands a fast carrier task force. The Fifth fleet has been reduced in size from its wartime strength of more than 100 combat vessels to a group carrying out routine patrol functions and minesweeping operations.

BRAZIL TO FULFILL HER OBLIGATIONS

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 6—(AP) President Jose L[illegible]res declared today in his first public appearance since assuming office last week that Brazil's new provisional government would fulfill the international obligations which the country assumed as a member of the United Nations.

Speaking aboard a battleship after reviewing the Navy, the President said Brazil must have a modernized fleet to carry out its duties to the United Nations.

Evidence of the country's settled political situation, meanwhile, was seen in the lifting of the ban on political meetings which was shortly before the resignation of former President Getulio Vargas.

President Of Chile Ends Visit To Mexico

Mexico City, Nov. 6 (AP)—Mexico said good-by to Juan Antonio Rios today as the Chilean President ended a four-day state visit as the guest of President Avila Camacho.

The Mexican Cabinet, other officials and diplomats were on hand at the airport when Rios's plane departed at 9.44 A.M. President Rios has completed an extensive tour of most of North and South America.

President Rios said he planned to spend two days in Guatemala, then proceed to Costa Rica, Cuba and Panama. From there he will take a special plane to Chile.

ATOM SHARING PLAN OFFERED

Put Swapping On '2-Way' Basis, Senators Ask

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—A suggestion that sharing secrets with Russia and all nations should be on a "two-way-street" basis of swapping came tonight from two senators.

Senators Hatch (D., N.M.) and Hill (D., Ala.) agreed, however, that for the present the industrial know-how of the atomic bomb should be kept secret "as a sacred trust."

The senators, in broadcast comment on Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov's speech today, said they concurred in President Truman's view of keeping the bomb secret.

Russia 'Land Of Secrets'

Senator Hill added that "what we should do is to take the lead at once to bring the security council into being and to have the security council start now to take steps to outlaw the atomic bomb."

Asked if peace would not be served best by all nations sharing secrets, Senator Hill said:

"I think that is undoubtedly true, provided Russia, that is today a land of secrets, is willing to do what the United States does and what most of the other nations do—open its doors and permit the newspaper men and representatives of other countries to enter Russia and to see and know and report what is going on."

"What you are saying," Senator Hatch then commented, "is that the revealing of secrets is not a one-way street but must be a two-way street."

New Atomic Bill In Senate

A new atomic-energy control bill, proposing secrecy only on military uses, reached the Senate today.

It came from Senator Ball (R., Minn.) amid signs of a view developing in Congress that progress of knowledge on how to release the universe's fundamental power might be stifled if the Government holds a tight hand on research.

That argument has been advanced by numerous scientists. Ball said it was agreement with it which led him to introduce his bill.

The measure was sent to the Special Atomic Committee, headed by Senator McMahon (D., Conn.), which already has half a dozen other bills.

House Bill Revised

The trend in congressional thinking against tight control over atomic research, as reflected in the Ball bill, was apparent also in the House, where the Military Affairs Committee reported a revised version of the May-Johnson measure.

One change was to relax proposed restrictions on scientific research so long as they do not release sufficient atomic energy to become a national hazard.

Ball's bill proposes to set up an atomic energy commission with research left free, except for controls it might exercise over materials, and by safety rules.

New Bill Would Limit A-Secrecy To Military

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—Senator Ball (R., Minn.) offered a new bill today on control of atomic energy which would restrict secrecy to military weapons using the new-found power.

Ball proposed it as a substitute to the May-Johnson measure approved by the House Military Committee, saying that that bill is too strict and "creates a giant monopoly" in the new field.

The House committee, meanwhile, relaxed restrictions imposed by the May-Johnson bill on scientific experiments. As revised, the measure would permit experiments so long as they do not release sufficient atomic energy to become a national hazard.

"Undemocratic, Impractical"

Ball said in a statement:

"I agree with most of the scientists who have expressed themselves on the May-Johnson bill that as it stands it is not only undemocratic, in that it creates a gigantic monopoly which would function in complete secrecy, but it is also impractical, because its stringent secrecy and control requirements would slow down rather than speed up both fundamental research and research on peaceful application of atomic energy.

"This bill (his own) is an attempt to free research on fundamentals and on industrial application, subject only to broad governmental control through allocation of materials and licensing, while retaining the secrecy required for security only on the purely military application of atomic energy."

Seversky Is Contradicted

CHICAGO, Nov. 6 (AP)—Three scientists who worked on the atomic bomb at the University of Chicago today called Major Alexander P. de Seversky's view of the weapon a "gross underestimate."

A statement issued by Drs. William Rubinsen, Melvin Friedman and Leonard I. Katsin said Major de Seversky, aviation authority, calculated that 200 B-29's with ordinary explosives would do the damage of one B-29 with the atomic bomb.

"If a raid of only 200 'Superforts' with ordinary explosives can wipe out Hiroshima, as the atomic bomb did, these same 200 'Superforts' using atomic bombs could, in a single raid, wipe out 200 cities with a population of about 300,000 each," the statement said.

"The United States has only about eighty cities with a population between 100,000 and 500,000.

"Remember, the bombs dropped on Japan were the first atomic bombs ever made. They are firecrackers compared to what will be developed in ten or twenty years."

Far Eastern Commission Meets Without Russia

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—The American-sponsored Far Eastern Advisory Commission tried to get down to work today on Japanese control policies. But Russia still held aloof.

The members presumably had to go along in an informal manner, powerless to make any policy decisions until the United States and the Soviet Union reach agreement on Japanese control machinery.

No Word From Russ

Eben Ayers, assistant White House press secretary, was asked at his news conference whether President Truman had received any word from Russia on participation in the sessions. Ayers said that to his knowledge, the President had not.

The Russians are said by diplomatic officials to be insisting on the immediate creation of a four-power control council at Tokyo, in which the American representative, presumably Gen. Douglas MacArthur, would have the decisive voice. The four powers would be Russia, the United States, Britain and China.

The United States is insisting, according to the same officials, on creating some sort of less direct control machinery within the Far Eastern Advisory Commission. This body now has ten members. With Russia it would have eleven.

Not Sure Of Powers

Since the United States wants to change the powers of the commission in order to handle the control council problem, the members now assembled here do not even know what authority they may or may not have.

Nevertheless, United States informants said they would begin studies of the various economic and political problems with which they are supposed to deal. They are forbidden to take up military matters.

The commission originally was scheduled to meet two weeks ago. That session was delayed one week, however, in the hope that Russia could be brought in. Last Tuesday the delegates met, were welcomed by Secretary of State Byrnes, were roundly photographed and then adjourned until today, again in the hope that Russia would soon send a representative.

Truman Policy Meets Its First Serious Attack in the Senate

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6 (AP).—Senator Alexander Wiley, Republican, of Wisconsin, launched today the first full-blown Senatorial criticism of President Truman's policies with an assertion that the Administration's legislative program "sounds like a C. I. O. handout."

Senator Carl Hatch, Democrat, of New Mexico, one of Mr. Truman's closest friends when the President was Senator, retorted immediately that the President and his administration "will be judged by the American people at the proper time and in the truly American way."

When Senator Clyde M. Reed, Republican, of Kansas, asked whether Senator Hatch were alluding to the 1948 Presidential election, the New Mexico Senator merely repeated his statement.

The discussion took place on the Senate floor. Senator Wiley opened it by reading a letter which Mr. Truman had written to the Wisconsin Senator replying to the latter's suggestion that a national conference be called on the question of universal peace-time military training.

The President replied:

"Dear Senator Wiley:

"I read your letter of Oct. 13 with a lot of interest, and I appreciate your suggestion very much. However, I am of the opinion that the Congress is the responsible commission to act on this program, and I think the Congress should assume the responsibility.

"In have made a suggestion to them in a message on national defense and several of its different phases, and I am very sure that they will work it out."

Senator Wiley said he thought it "inconsistent" for the President to call a labor-management conference that is "terribly unrepresentative of the parties involved" and decline to call a conference on defense problems.

Then he launched into the first full criticism of the President's program that has been heard in the Senate since Mr. Truman took over the executive office. Previously some of Mr. Truman's individual actions had been assailed, but Senators generally have avoided criticism of their former colleague.

"There is not a single member of this great body who does not bear sincere love in his heart for Harry Truman, the man," Senator Wiley read from a prepared text. "But many of us find increasing dissatisfaction welling up in our minds on the actions of Harry Truman, the statesman."

He said Mr. Truman had made "a wage speech which goes up the hill and back down again and leaves the situation as badly muddled as before."

"The President pleads for a program which out-New Deals the New Deal, which item for item sounds like a C. I. O. handout," he declared. "Spend, spend, spend, with never a heed as how the money is coming and where from. The President gives no sign that he recognizes that America's day of financial reckoning will be at hand if it continues its wild spending jag.

"The President pussyfoots with irresponsible labor dictators who are shamelessly wrecking our reconversion effort."

Senator Wiley said he was "speaking plainly and bluntly because these issues are so important and because the Harry Truman we knew here in the Senate was a square-shooting, horse-sense American."

"I am speaking thusly because it is still my own and millions of others' dearest hope that the Harry Truman in the White House will reverse his march down the C.I.O.-P. A. C. highway to ruin," he declared.

Senator Hatch called this "partisan criticism and fault finding."

The New Mexico Senator said he could see no inconsistency in the President's calling the labor-management conference and in not calling a conference on peace-time military training. He noted that Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, Republican, of Michigan, first suggested the labor-management conference.

He said President Truman was being criticized in the Senate for the first time for "lack of statesmanship," while previously the late President Roosevelt had been under frequent attack "for too much leadership."

LEWIS IS VICTOR, WINS CONFERENCE COMMITTEE PLACE

Head of United Mine Workers Clashes with Murray, CIO Leader.

IMPORTANT GROUP

Representative of Railway Brotherhoods Also Put on Committee.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6. — (AP) Bushy-browed, ponderous John L. Lewis kicked up a storm in the Labor-management conference today with a bid to get representation for his United Mine Workers on the important executive committee—and he won his battle.

While management delegates looked on in silence, labor's top leaders wrangled heatedly for more than an hour over the composition of the committee which will sift all conference business and have the power to include new subject matter in the agenda.

As originally planned, the committee was to have eight members equally divided between labor and management. Labor's half was to be divided between the AFL and CIO.

But Lewis wasn't satisfied with this setup and as a result of his objections the conference finally voted unanimously to increase the committee membership to 16 to make room for Lewis' United Mine Workers and the Railway Brotherhoods. Under the new division, management will have eight seats, the AFL and CIO will have three each and the Mine Workers and Brotherhoods one each.

There was a curt exchange at one time between Lewis and President Philip Murray of the Congress of Industrial Organizations who at first vigorously opposed any change in the composition of the committee.

Murray declared at the morning session there were rumors of a "veritable blitz" to get Lewis and T. C. Cashen, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' association and delegate for the brotherhoods, on to the eexcutive committee and that it was the responsibility of the conference chairman to make any such change.

Lewis reported that Murray had used "despicable and unique Germanic terminology" in referring to him and declared: "Mr. Lewis doesn't care a tinker's malediction whether Mr. Lewis personally is a member of any committee."

"I represent in this conference directly," Lewis said, "just as many human beings who work for a living as any man here."

Supported by Green

Lewis had the support of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who told the conference he "could not conceive of a fairer or broader proposition" than including the Mine Workers and the Brotherhoods on the committee.

Green proposed that labor's representation on the committee be split equally between the CIO, AFL, Mine Workers and Brotherhoods, giving each a single vote, but the conference compromised on this point and held that the CIO and AFL should have the greater part of labor's vote.

Lewis' victory gives him a voice in shaping the course of the conference. For the committee, as outlined in the agenda, will "coordinate the work of the conference: be responsible for the integration of reports of all other committees (except that on rules); if requested it will also consider and may report to the conference on any subject on the agenda not otherwise assigned; it may also deal with such other matters of a general nature as may come before it."

Management Quiet

There were no objections for management delegates to the change in the committee composition as long as the votes remained equal between labor and management.

The conference had just convened and heard a report from the rules committee when Lewis captured the attention of the delegates by rising and asking that "the report endorsing the executive committee be held in abeyance until we know more about the personnel and it is agreed upon."

Murray declared it was understood the committee was to be composed of eight men representing the four major organizations at the conference—the CIO, AFL, National Association of Manufacturers and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

He brought up the fact that Cashen, Brotherhoods delegate, is a member of an AFL union although representing the non-affiliated Railway Labor executives' association, and said he had registered an objection to Cashen's invitation.

"The CIO wants a fair and equitable representation," Murray asserted.

He said the invitation to the conference had been sent by Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach to the Railway Labor Executives' association which selected an officer affiliated with the AFL.

"Whether any additional members of the AFL are to be placed on the executive committee I leave to you or the conference," Murray said to Judge Stacy.

George Meany, secretary-treasurer of the AFL, said the President had issued the invitations to the conference and if any errors had been made they "should be corrected by the man who made them."

It was after this that Lewis made his objection to Murray's statements.

The CIO chief said Lewis' interpretation of his remarks was "absurd" and he had "no intention of indulging in personal castigation or reflecting on any gentleman here."

Automobile Manufacturers Challenge Commerce Report

DETROIT, Nov. 6. — (AP) The automobile manufacturers' association today challenged a commerce department report that the car industry could advance wages over the next two years without increasing costs and still "make high profits."

George Romney, general manager of the association, made public a letter to Secretary Wallace asking for a "re-examination and correction of the statement on the basis of available facts." He asked also for the right on behalf of the car industry to examine and obtain copies of whatever statistical studies authors of the report may have used to support their statements.

R. J. Thomas, president of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) in a statement last Saturday, asserted that the government was withholding information showing the motorcar industry could grant 30 per cent wage rate increases and still make high profits.

The union has demanded 30 per cent wage increases throughout the industry and will resume negotiations with General Motors Corp. on the demand tomorrow. At the same time a strike vote will be taken in Ford Motor Co. plants in support of the demand. Workers of General Motors and Chrysler Corp. already have voted in favor of a strike.

"It would be wonderful," said Romney in the letter to Secretary Wallace, "if the facts supported the department's theories.

Specifically Romney denied the following assumptions in the commerce department statement of November:

1. That materials costs would show no change in 1946 and only three percent increase in 1947 and five per cent increase in 1948 as compared with 1945.

2. That productivity of labor would show an increase.

3. That higher production "in and of itself" means higher profits.

4. That sales and profits of all companies in the industry would be affected alike by the arbitrary changes of wages and costs assumed by the report.

Romney said bureau of labor statistics show that productivity declined 11 per cent between 1929 and 1939, while unit costs per worker increased 21 per cent between 1935 and 1940.

"At this time the only question about reduced labor efficiency in the auto industry is its extent, whether the decline in specific plants is closer to 25 per cent than 50 per cent as compared with pre-war levels," Romney said.

"The possibilities that this deplorable condition discloses," he added, "easily could be turned to the advantage of the consumer and the worker if an end were put to union imposed restrictions on output."

Attacks Report

Romney attacked the use by the Commerce department report of the years 1936 through 1939 as the basis for profits comparison. These, he said, were years of generally unsatisfactory earnings. Each of the smaller passenger car companies operated at a loss during some of those years, he asserted.

The report, he added, explicitly failed to recognize widely varying ability on the part of the manufacturers to pay.

Romney said the request that the Commerce department "re-examine and correct its wage-price and profits statement" was made because unions "are using it as an official government authorization for unreasonable wage ultimatums and because it seriously misled the public as to the facts of the automotive situation."

General Motors corporation in declining today to have a Federal labor conciliator present at the resumption of the wage conferences with the U.A.W.-C.I.O., said in a statement:

"It never has been the practice of the conciliation service to enter a case until collective bargaining has been exhausted. The present dispute has not reached that stage."

Walter P. Reuther, U.A.W.-C.I.O. vice-president, commenting on the corporation's refusal, said:

"This action is a part of the defeatist policy the corporation has pursued throughout the negotiations, a policy of waiting until collective bargaining has broken down instead of taking steps to prevent its breaking down."

CAPITAL STILL STRIKE-BOUND

Both Sides In Transit Case To Meet With Conciliators

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—A strike that paralyzed the Capital's bus and streetcar service and kept thousands of Government workers from their jobs continued tonight, although both sides agreed to attend conciliation talks.

At a tumultuous "continuous meeting" which began before dawn, the drivers voted tonight to send a three-man committee to sit in with Government conciliators tomorrow. Officials of the Capital Transit Company indicated they would be present also.

But the drivers, demanding a pay increase, made plain they had no intention of returning to work immediately. Shortly before 7 P.M. they called an "intermission" to go home and get some sleep, and arranged to continue their meeting tomorrow.

Delegates Affected

Among the hundreds of thousands affected by the strike were delegates to President Truman's labor - management conference, called to write a national peace formula for industry and labor. They had to depend on scarce taxicabs or private automobiles.

Scenes on the Capital's streets included: A naval officer pedaling a bicycle with a Government stenographer in a basket on the handlebars; a Negro riding to work on horseback, and a youth zigzagging down Sixteenth street on roller skates he obviously hadn't used for years.

Many downtown employés were late for work. Those without private cars hitchhiked, taxied, walked, or simply stayed home.

Although congressmen cried out for action, there was no indication that service would be resumed soon.

Conciliation Offered

The Government offered the services of a conciliator, Richard W. Goodrick. But E. D. Merrill, president of the Capital Transit Company, whose streetcars and busses carry 1,500,000 fares a day, declared he would not deal with the AFL union until the men returned to work.

Goodrick has no authority unless both the union and the company agree to work with him. Goodrick planned to talk to the workers late this afternoon.

Congressmen wailed as Washington walked.

Calls It Intolerable

Senator Wiley (R., Wis.) called the stoppage "intolerable and outrageous." He told the Senate there should be a law to prohibit walkouts and to force arbitration for all labor disputes involving public utilities.

Wiley declared the drivers had "thumbed their nose at the labor-management conference."

In the House, Representative Rankin (D., Miss.) said the walkout "must be a disappointing spectacle to service men who thought they were fighting the war to avoid such things."

"Seats Of The Mighty"

Representative Cox (D., Ga.) called it "an assault of organized outlaws" and Representative Arends (R., Ill.) declared:

"Unscrupulous labor leaders are today sitting in the seat of the mighty."

Most Washington residents didn't even know a walkout was being considered, and were left standing at bus stops this morning.

The luckiest workers were those who live in suburban developments in Virginia and Maryland. Many of them are served by separate bus lines, unaffected by the walkout.

The Capital Transit Company serves all of the District of Columbia—and its estimated 800,000 residents.

Two thousand members of Local 689 of the Amalgamated Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employés Union met at midnight in a burlesque theater. They voted to go into continuous session until their wage demands are met.

The workers want a 30-cent-an-hour increase in the driver-operator top rate of 95 cents an hour. The company countered with an offer of 7 cents more during the life of a contract which runs until June 7.

Average Annual Pay, $3,442

The company said in a statement that operators now earn, on the average, $3,442 a year, counting overtime. It said this is a 69 per cent increase over the $2,035 average it said it paid in 1941.

The union claims it represents 4,000 of the company's 4,700 employés.

Police Inspector Arthur E. Miller said there was a 40 per cent increase in automobile traffic today after the 1,000 busses and 1,000 streetcars left the streets.

Apparently the Pentagon was the hardest hit of all Government buildings. The Army's huge home, across the Potomac from Washington, reported 6,700 workers — or more than a fifth of its 32,000 employés—absent today.

This compares with its average of 1,580 workers absent each day.

Hundreds Quit A-Bomb Project Over Job Fears

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP) — Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves said today that hundreds of workers, key men and scientists are quitting the atomic bomb project because of uncertainty over the future of their jobs.

Questioned about a report to this effect, Groves, in overall charge of the atomic bomb project, said he has lost some of his best men, both at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Hanford, Wash., as well as at Los Alamos, New Mexico.

He said field representatives report that in numerous instances departing workers list "uncertainty of the future" as a primary or secondary cause for quitting.

Over A Fourth Have Quit

Although Groves would make no estimate of the extent to which this draining off of key workers has cut production, he asserted that there has been a considerable slowdown.

30.24—3/459

Since peak employment on the project, more than one-fourth of the workers have quit and many more have served notice they intend to leave by the first of the year, according to figures provided by Major John Moynahan, Groves' press representative.

At the peak of employment, other than construction workers, there were 1,700 operational employés and 67,000 other workers on the project. Now, there are 1,400 and 49,000, respectively.

Since V-J day, more than 6,000 workers have quit and about 3,000 more have indicated their intention to leave in the next month or two.

Not all of these have quit or are quitting because of job uncertainties by any means, Groves said.

Many, including most of the scientific workers, offered their services for the duration or for some specific task and now are returning to their personal interests.

True In Oppenheimer's Case

This is true, for example, in the cases of Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, chief scientist, and of the eight other scientists at Los Alamos to whom Groves referred as his first and second teams.

Nevertheless, their going has been a serious loss, he said, and in some instances their jobs will have to be filled "from the third and fourth team men."

The General said permanent employment policies which would remove any uncertainties cannot be drawn until a law is passed clarifying the future status of atomic energy production and research and providing the executive setup which will run the peacetime project. Those policies also include permanent wage scales.

House Debate Slated

The House probably will begin debate in a week or two on a controversial bill to place control of atomic energy production and research in the hands of a nine-man commission.

The Senate will wait until a special committee it created holds public hearings. Members of the Senate group plan first to attend special night courses to learn more about nuclear energy.

CHANGES FAVORED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—(AP) Legislation broadening the GI Bill of Rights to make it easier for veterans to get loans and schooling was approved by the Senate Finance committee today.

Chairman George (D-Ga.) said it probably would be taken up in the Senate later in the week.

The bill would do these things:

LOANS: Authorize government-guaranteed loans based on "reasonable" rather than "reasonable normal" value of property. Veterans have complained that in a rising real estate market they are unable to buy what they want at "normal" prices.

Permit loans to furnish working capital for businesses and farms, as well as for real estate.

Extend the time in which veterans may apply for loans to 10 years after the war, instead of five, as at present.

Raise the maximum term of home loans from 20 to 25 years, and of farm loans from 20 to 35 years.

EDUCATION: Open the educational program to veterans irrespective of age.

Increase the living allowance for single veterans attending educational institutions from $50 to $65 a month, and for veterans with dependents from $75 to $90.

Authorize the Veterans Administration to enter into agreements with state educational institutions for payments of tuition of veterans.

Open the way for veterans to take short technical courses or correspondence courses in state-approved institutions with the government footing the tuition bill. The present $500 per school year limit on tuition stands.

HALSEY DECLARES U.S. MUST KEEP A POWERFUL NAVY

BOSTON, Nov. 6. — (AP) Admirl William F. (Bull) Halsey, whose third fleet smashed Jap opposition from Pearl Harbor to Tokyo, today called on the nation to "keep a mighty right arm to enforce the peace."

The Admiral presented to his former flagship—the veteran carrier Enterprise—a plaque, the gift of the Navy League, commemorating the gallant record of the fighting ship which ultimately will become a national shrine.

Standing before 2,000 officers and men lined up on the flight deck of the "Big E" under a warm sun, the Admiral emphasized his wish that America maintain power to enforce the peace, declaring:

"We owe it to the people who fought and to the shipmates who died in this war."

A few paces forward of the rest of the crew as Halsey spoke were a dozen enlisted men who served on the Enterprise when it was his flagship in 1941—when "The Galloping Ghost of the Oahu coast" was America's only carrier in the Pacific.

With characteristic informality, Admrial Halsey laid the brass plaque on the deck with the comment, "this thing is too heavy both in purpose and in weight."

Then, reviewing the beginning of what he termed his "nefarious" career aboard the Big E, against the Nips, Halsey recalled that the carrier was 150 miles out of Pearl Harbor when the Japs attacked and said, "but for the grace of God and bad weather we would have been there."

During the ceremony, he said, "I love this ship."

Referring to the Japanese, Halsey said, "they call them Nips now, but then we called them something different."

Halsey's ceremonial visit to the Big E included presentation of a bronze star to Lt. Com. John U. Munro of Andover, Mass., who was the Enterprise's first lieutenant and damage control officer.

When a Jap suicide plane crashed into the Big E and started a bad fire, Munro commanded the work of the damage control party which extinguished the flames.

2 Sneak Probers Say Ruling Has

'Halted' Work

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—Two Republican members of the congressional committee investigating the Pearl Harbor disaster declared today the probe "has been brought to a halt."

Representative Gearhart (R., Cal.) told the House that "a true investigation" had been stopped through adoption by the committee of a rule denying individual members full access to secret Government files.

Keefe Adds Comment

Representative Keefe (R., Wis.) arose to agree with Gearhart's remarks and to add:

"The procedure thus far clearly indicates we will get only the facts the Army and Navy wish to give us."

Said Gearhart:

"Someone didn't want us to have full access to the files, so we were deprived of the right. Unless we regain this right the investigation will never be one like the people of Amreica want."

Refers To Jap Code

Gearhart referred to the interception of coded Japanese messages before the Pearl Harbor attack, and said they indicated clearly that Japan was about to strike. But, he asserted, "not a word of warning went forth" to the army and navy commanders in the Pacific.

Keefe interrupted then to declare that a Captain Kramer, whom he did not identify otherwise, is "one of the most vital and important" witnesses in the investigation but that committee members are not allowed to see him.

Keefe told the House that Kramer now is in a psychopathic ward at Bethesda (Md.) Naval Hospital and "whole legions of stories have arisen about the manner in which he was broken down in mind and in health."

Short Speaks Up

"I am surprised they have only locked him up; I am surprised he has not been liquidated," commented Representative Short, R., Missouri).

Earlier, two of the committeemen said the investigators have called specifically for the files of the late President Roosevelt's correspondence with former Prime Minister Churchill.

They said the request was made in a letter signed by William D. Mitchell, committee counsel, and that it also listed other subjects.

These members, asking not to be identified by name, said the items wanted were listed specifically because of the physical problem involved in searching the voluminous White House files made available to the committee.

Data On Charter Sought

Mitchell's letter, they said, asked for any existing Roosevelt-Churchill correspondence on the Atlantic Charter. The Charter was publicized August 14, 1941, nearly four months before the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

Some committee members have said privately that they want to know if there was any exchange between the two leaders about the possible involvement of this country in the war.

In addition, Mitchell was said to have asked for files dealing directly with the Pearl Harbor attack and those bearing on diplomatic relations with the Japanese, including the period when this country was shipping scrap iron and gasoline to Japan.

The committee will meet Thursday in an attempt to fix a program for hearings.

Brooks Urges G.O.P. Members To Quit Pearl Harbor Inquiry

Unless They Get Permission to Dig for Facts as Individuals—Lucas Charges Attempt to Prejudge Case.

Washington, Nov. 6 (A. P.).—Senator Brooks (R.-Ill.) told Republican members of the Pearl Harbor inquiry today that they ought to resign unless they got permission to investigate the December 7, 1941, disaster as individuals.

In a Senate speech, Brooks declared that the minority has a responsibility "to dig in behind the majority views and find the facts."

Previously Senator Lucas (D.-Ill.) had accused Senators Ferguson (R.-Mich.) and Brewster (R.-Me.), minority members of the inquiry committee, of attempting to "try your case in the newspapers and on the Senate floor."

Brooks said that the committee had given authority to investigate to assistant attorneys, and that similar authority in investigating how the Pearl Harbor attack succeeded was given to "a lowly Army major." Addressing himself to Ferguson and Brewster, he shouted:

"Resign, if they don't give you as much authority as an assistant attorney."

Lucas spoke after two House members of the joint investigating committee had contended that the inquiry "has been brought to a halt." Representative Gearhart (R.-Cal.) told the House that "a true investigation" had been stopped by the rule denying individual members access to secret files.

Lucas Charges Prejudgment.

Representative Keefe (R.-Wis.) agreed and added: "The procedure thus far clearly indicates we will get only the facts the Army and Navy wish to give us."

Lucas told the Senate: "I undertake to say that everything connected with Pearl Harbor will come to the surface. But it is a crime and a shame to attempt to prejudice this case with the American people at a time when there is not a single line of evidence submitted."

Said Gearhart: "Some one didn't want us to have full access to the files so we were deprived of the right. Unless we regain this right the investigation will never be one like the people of America want."

He referred to the interception of coded Japanese messages before the Pearl Harbor attack, and said they indicated clearly that Japan was about to strike. But, he asserted, "not a word of warning went forth" to the Army and Navy commanders in the Pacific.

Call Vital Witness Unavailable.

Keefe interrupted then to declare that a Capt. Kramer, whom he did not identify otherwise, is "one of the most vital and important" witnesses in the investigation but that committee members are not allowed to see him.

Keefe told the House that Kramer now is in a psychopathic ward at the Bethesda (Md.) Naval Hospital and "whole legions of stories have arisen about the manner in which he was broken down in mind and in health."

"I'm surprised they've only locked him up; I'm surprised he hasn't been liquidated," commented Representative Short (R.-Mo.).

They said the request was made in a letter signed by William D. Mitchell, committee counsel, and that it also listed other subjects.

These members, asking not to be identified by name, told a reporter the items wanted were listed specifically because of the physical problem involved in searching the voluminous White House files made available to the committee.

Backing Is Seen For 50c. Wage

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—A 50-cent-an-hour national minimum wage was mentioned today as a possible compromise in the Administration's effort to boost the present 40-cent figure to 65 cents.

Representative Ramspeck (D., Ga.), presiding over House Labor Committee hearings on the minimum pay-boost bill, said, "I think we can pass 50 cents an hour, but 65 cents is doubtful."

"Some members feel," Ramspeck said, "that 50 cents is more in line with the theory of what business can stand without increasing prices. That would be a 25 per cent increase, whereas a 65-cent minimum would raise the present 40-cent level about 66 per cent."

Hook Hopes For 65 Cents

Representative Hook (D., Mich.), author of one of several bills proposing a higher minimum wage and broader coverage of workers affected by the wage and hour law, disagreed with Ramspeck, saying he expected the House to approve 65 cents.

Ramspeck said he is not proposing a 50-cent compromise but merely stating what he thinks the House will accept. He added that the committee will complete its public hearings November 15. The debate then will move to the House floor.

The Administration has sent Cabinet members to Capitol Hill to plead for the 65-cent minimum. Representatives of several industries have told House and Senate committees that such a sudden jump in the wage would cause some businesses to close and bring about unemployment.

signed head of the agency selling critical civilian goods, described sales of surplus autos and other goods to veterans as a 'hopeless and impossible task."

W. Stuart Symington, Surplus Property Administrator and until recently Bradley's boss, described Bradley's statement as a "confession of the incompetency of his own agency."

Symington, who set policies for the agencies which do the actual selling, added that he had recently shifted these surplus sales from the commerce department to the reconstruction finance corporation because "over in commerce they had a lot of theories but they got very little selling done."

"We're not going to throw up our hands and quit," Symington said with reference to sales to veterans. He expressed confidence that such sales could be workd out through the 31 RFC regional agencies. He conceded that some of the trucks and autos first offered veterans were without tires, lacked batteries and had grass growing where the engines should have been."

Bradley, initial witness at the unusual late afternoon hearing, testified that he had been able to carry out only 20 surplus selling programs of critically needed civilian goods because of afilure of the army and navy to carry out agreements.

He said the Army announced it would have some 50,000 surplus rolls of new poultry netting, a critical item, available and Bradley set up a nationwide disposal program. Later it was learned that much of the "chicken wire" had rusted while stored cutside and a big share was full of "burlap, feathers and wool strips for camouflage."

The witness said he planned a similar program for sale of surplus bow matches which the Army said had some advertising on them. When the matches were found to carry printed warnings "on venereal diseases" the program was abandoned.

Senator Mitchell (D-Wash) presiding, asked if top Army and Navy leaders had failed to cooperate.

Replying in the negative, Bradley said there was much cooperation "at the top' but lower echelons failed to carry out these agreements.

Senator Kilgore (D-WVa) said it was the responsibility of army, navy and other depot commanders to turn over surplus goods in proper condition.

"Snatching a few depot commanders bald-headed might cure this trouble," he said.

Conflicting Reports Heard On Sale of Surplus Goods

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6 — (AP) Two sharply conflicting reports on sale of surplus army and navy goods to veterans and civilians were placed before the Senate War Investigating Committee late today.

BRITISH DELAYING AMERICAN REPORTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 6—(AP) RCA Communications, Inc., said today it would seek government permission to install a station in the British zone to service American correspondents if the British continued their announced policy of allowing American newsmen in Berlin to use British communications only as "a courtesy" and during "clear time."

At the same time, Press Wireless, Inc., said, "If this attitude on the part of British communications is to persist, there will undoubtedly be pressure brought to bear on American carriers in like manner to favor American correspondents."

The announcements were contained in statements by Thompson H. Mitchell, vice president and general manager of RCA, and A. Warren Norton, president of Press Wireless, Inc.

The British announcement on the use of their communications was made after the Associated Press complained that a dispatch on a British statement about Hitler's supposed death had been delayed five hours, while stories of all British correspondents cleared.

Mitchell said, "Such open action of discrimination is unprecedented in the history of modern international communication."

"It is clearly a case of unilateral action taken by a government operated service, and is in direct violation of international telegraph regulations as I interpret them," he said.

Norton said he noted "with considerable surprise the report that British authorities are discriminating against American correspondents in the matter of handling their dispatches over British controlled facilities."

"This is not a commendable reaction, in our opinion, to the equal treatment which was accorded the British press still so fresh in our minds," Norton added.

SHANGRI-LA WAC HAS POSTWAR PLAN

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6—(AP) Winsome WAC Cpl. Margaret Hastings, who survived the "Shangri-La" valley plane crash in New Guinea last May, confided today that she would "like to find a good man and get married."

The pretty, blue-eyed survivor of the crash in which 21 died and only three escaped told reporters shortly after her arrival to take part in several Victory Bond rallies that changing from corporal to Mrs. has top priority on her post-war planning.

She's now "helping men become civilians" at the Mitchell Field, N. Y., separation center and is hoping for her own discharge next January.

The 47 days of hardship in "Shangri-La" left their mark—she's still five pounds shy of her normal 100 pounds.

NAVY RELEASES ARE PAST 500,000 MARK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6 — (AP) Navy demobilization passed the half-million mark last week-end.

As of last Sunday, it was announced today, discharges totalled 505,000. Present schedules call for release of approximately 1,200,000 by the end of the year, or more than one out of every three persons eligible. The half-way mark is expected to be reached before the nd of January.

"Of those in the Pacific eligible for release," officials told reports, "the bulk if not all will be home by Christmas."

Royall Approved As Under-Secretary

Washington, Nov. 6 (A. P.).—Kenneth C. Royall's nomination as Under-Secretary of War was approved today by the Senate Military Committee. Royall, a Goldsboro, N. C., attorney, is now serving as a special legal adviser to Secretary of War Patterson.

The committee also approved the nomination of Major-Gen. Edward F. Witsell to be adjutant-general of the Army for a four-year term.

Delay Recommended On Merger Decision

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—The Navy, campaigning against a proposed merger of the War and Navy departments, tonight said that two weeks ago the United States joint chiefs of staff unanimously recommended deferment of a decision on the subject.

H. Struve Hensel, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, said at a news conference that the joint chiefs had recommended that the decision be put off until a suggested commission to study various aspects of national security had made its report.

3 Soldiers On Okinawa Killed By Land Mine

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—Three soldiers were killed and five injured October 21 when souvenir hunters exploded an old Japanese land mine near Nahaon, Okinawa, the War Department reported today.

The men, members of the 8th Air Force, discovered an odd-looking box which one of them decided was a Japanese telephone. He pulled a lever and an explosion occurred.

Among the victims was Pfc. Edward E. Leucht, Hebron, Va.

Truman Proclaims Nov. 11 ArmisticeDay

Washington, Nov. 6 (A. P.).—President Truman today proclaimed November 11 as Armistice Day and called on the people to observe it by dedicating themselves to the cause of enduring peace.

Government offices will be closed on November 12. A recent Executive order provided for Government holidays an the Mondays following national holidays that fall on Sunday.

China Asks Credit Of Export Bank

Washington, Nov. 6 (A. P.).—China has asked the United States for a post-war credit which the Export-Import Bank is now considering. Wayne C. Taylor, president of the bank, told reporters about the application after a call on President Truman. He declined to name the amount sought. Congress early in the war voted a $500,000,000 loan to China, used for supplies and to bolster that country's currency.

Taylor said he expected the President to fill in a few days the existing vacancies of the board of trustees of the Export-Import Bank.

Rubber Parley To Open In London November 20

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—Another Anglo-American conference on rubber problems will be held in London beginning November 20, the State Department announced today.

Half a dozen leaders in the American rubber industry will attend as advisers, it said.

British and American officials and rubber experts have conferred previously in Washington.

Their problem: With synthetic added to natural rubber production, the world now can produce more rubber than many experts think it can use.

Jap Surrender Table Used At Memorial

New York, Nov. 6 (AP)—The table at which the Japanese surrendered on the battleship Missouri was used today to hold the bibles at a memorial service honoring Navy, Marine and Coast Guard personnel who died in the recent war.

DISPUTE DELAYS RETURN OF VETS

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—(AP) The return of 3,200 to 3,500 Pacific veterans to the United States in time for Christmas will be impossible because of a controversy between the war shipping administration and C.I.O. Marine engineers over ventilation facilities below decks, Maj. Gen. Homer M. Gronlger said in a statement issued today.

Groninger commander of the San Francisco port of embarkation, said 954 soldiers, replacements for high point men on Saipan, were removed from the Marine Adder today because of the dispute.

The ship had been scheduled to reach Saipan in time to return the veterans before Christmas, the general said.

Rudolph Meriwether, union business agent, said the engineers were not satisfied with the ventilation system and so notified the WSA some time ago.

The general's statement also commented on recent contentions of maritime unions that 20 troopships have been lying idle in San Francisco bay when they could have been used to bring troops home.

Of the ships in question "three were among those being repaired or waiting repair when bay area machinists went out on strike," the general said.

Two others identified as troop carriers are actually freighters, another ship identified as a transport by the union has never carried troops, the statement said.

44,000 Veterans Due At Seven U.S. Ports

Twenty-four ships, carrying more than 31,000 veterans from Europe, are scheduled to arrive at three East Coast ports today, while fourteen ships are scheduled to dock at four West Coast ports with more than 13,000 troops from the Pacific.

At New York, nine carriers, with more than 14,000 troops, are due to arrive; six vessels with approximately 12,000 service men are scheduled at Boston, and nine ships, carrying more than 5,500 are due to dock at Newport News, Va.

"THE FASCIST INVADERS DESTROYED 1,710 TOWNS AND OVER 70,000 SMALLER COMMUNITIES IN OUR COUNTRY," HE SAID. "THEY BURNED AND DESTROYED MORE THAN 6,000,000 BUILDINGS AND 25,000,000 PEOPLE WERE RENDERED HOMELESS.

"THE HITLERITES DESTROYED OR DAMAGED 31,850 INDUSTRIAL WORKS, EMPLOYING 4,000,000 WORKERS. THEY DESTROYED 98,000 COLLECTIVE FARMS, 7,000,000 HORSES, 17,000,000 CATTLE WERE SLAUGHTERED OR DRIVEN AWAY. WE CANNOT FORGET THIS AND MUST DEMAND FROM THE COUNTRIES WHICH STARTED THE WAR AT LEAST SOME REPLACEMENT."

THE SOVIET MONITOR SAID GENERALISSIMO STALIN APPARENTLY WOULD NOT SPEAK ON THE EVE OF THE ANNIVERSARY, AS HAS BEEN HIS CUSTOM DURING THE WAR. MOLOTOV'S ADDRESS WAS THE PRINCIPAL SPEECH OF THE OCCASION.

THE FOREIGN COMMISSAR, DEPUTY CHAIRMAN OF THE COUNCIL OF PEOPLES' COMMISSARS, SAID THE MAIN STRONGPOINTS OF AGGRESSION IN WEST AND EAST HAD BEEN LIQUIDATED. THE RADIO SAID THE CELEBRATION OPENED AMID SCENES OF GREAT REJOICING.

GENERALISSIMO STALIN, BACK IN THE CAPITAL FROM VACATION, WAS PROPOSED AS HONORARY CHAIRMAN OF THE PROCEEDINGS, THE BROADCAST REPORTED.

"WHEN THE GERMANS INVADE US THEY COUNTED ON THE UNEXPECTEDNESS OF THEIR ATTACK," MOLOTOV SAID IN A VERSION HEARD BY THE SOVIET MONITOR.

"NOT ONLY GERMANY, BUT MANY OTHERS THOUGHT THE SOVIET UNION WOULD NOT HOLD OUT LONG. THEY THOUGHT HITLER WOULD TRIUMPH IN A FEW WEEKS OR MONTHS. AFTER HITLER'S EASTERN VICTORIES THIS SEEMED INEVITABLE TO MANY--MAINLY THOSE WHO DID NOT UNDERSTAND THE CHARACTER OF THE SOVIET STATE.

"GERMANY'S ATTACK WAS ALSO A TEST FOR OUR FOREIGN FRIENDS, WHO WATCHED WITH BATED BREATH THE DIFFICULTIES OF OUR COUNTRY.

"THE SOVIET COUNTRY WITHSTOOD THE TEST."

MOLOTOV RECALLED HOW A "UNITED ANTI-HITLER FRONT" OF LARGE AND SMALL DEMOCRATIC COUNTRIES WAS FORMED AND HOW THE RED ARMY ASSUMED THE OFFENSIVE.

"THE ANGLO-SOVIET-AMERICAN COALITION WAS SUCCESSFUL," HE SAID. "THE SECOND FRONT IN WESTERN EUROPE, WITH GERMANY IN A VICE, MADE GERMANY'S POSITION IMPOSSIBLE."

HE SAID THE SOVIET POWER WAS QUITE UNLIKE THAT OF THE CZARIST REGIME OF THE FIRST WORLD WAR AND DECLARED: "THE SOVIET STAGE CAN SURVIVE THE HARDEST TESTS IN HISTORY."

THE FOREIGN COMMISSAR ACCUSED SPAIN "AND SOME OTHER COUNTRIES," OF SUPPORTING THE AXIS.

BUT FOR THE SOVIET UNION, HE ASSERTED, ALL EUROPE MIGHT HAVE BEEN UNDER HITLER. HE SAID NOT ONLY EUROPE WAS THREATENED, BUT THAT

THE GERMANS WANTED THEIR "SUPERIOR RACE" TO DOMINATE EVERYWHERE ELSE."ONLY WHEN OUR ARMY WENT TO THE OFFENSIVE, SMASHING GERMAN TROOPS THEN HE ADDED: WERE WIDE POSSIBILITIES OPENED FOR THE LIBERATION OF ENSLAVED PEOPLES.

"THE SOVIET ARMY, WITH ITS ALLIES, EMERGED AS LIBERATORS OF EUROPE, INCLUDING THOSE COUNTRIES WHICH BROKE WITH GERMANY AND ENTERED THE RANKS OF THE STRUGGLE AGAINST HITLER."

A107 ADD LDN-EVOKE'S JEWS SYNOD AS FOR MAKING A NEW START. JEWS IN ALMOST EVERY COUNTRY FIND THEY HAVE TO BEGIN FROM SCRATCH AS THEY HAVEN'T EVEN THE REMNANTS OF THEIR FORMER POSSESSIONS TO BUILD UPON.

IN YUGOSLAVIA, 50 PER CENT ARE FORCED TO LIVE ON CHARITY AND EAT IN COMMUNAL KITCHENS. SIMILAR CONDITIONS HOLD ELSEWHERE.

FROM COUNTRY TO COUNTRY, OVERALL ECONOMIC OUTLOOK.

APPEAR CLOSELY LINKED TO THE NATION'S GENERAL ECONOMIC PROSPECTS FOR JEWS IN AUSTRIA AND HUNGARY, THEIR CHANCES FOR RECOVERY RATE BELOW THOSE OF THE HARD-PRESSED POPULATION.

IN BELGIUM AND FRANCE, THEY ARE ON AN EQUAL BASIS, ACCORDING TO THE SURVEY.

THE MAIN HOPE OF THE JEWS, REPORT CORRESPONDENTS IN GERMANY AND EASTERN EUROPE, IS TO GO TO PALESTINE.

EIGHTY PER CENT OF THE HUNGARIAN JEWS WHO WERE CONTENT TO REMAIN IN THE LAND OF THEIR BIRTH BEFORE THE WAR HAVE NOW BECOME ZIONISTS, BUDAPEST REPORTS.

THE GREAT MAJORITY OF DISPLACED JEWS IN GERMANY AND THOSE IN WESTERN EUROPE WHO HAVE BEEN UNABLE TO SETTLE DOWN AGAIN IN THEIR HOMES HAVE ALSO TURNED THEIR EYES TO JERUSALEM.

AT PRESENT, ONLY A TINY TRICKLE OF THEM ARE ABLE TO ENTER PALESTINE. THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT IS NOW CONSIDERING WHAT SHOULD BE DONE ABOUT IMMIGRATION LAWS. FIERCE ARAB RESISTANCE MAKES IT IMPROBABLE THAT RELIEF CAN BE AFFORDED ON ANY SCALE COMPARABLE TO THE PROBLEM.

ANTI-JEWISH ECONOMIC LAWS IMPOSED DURING THE WAR HAVE BEEN REMOVED AND FULL ECONOMIC AND POLITICAL RIGHTS HAVE BEEN RESTORED TO JEWS.

THERE APPEARS TO BE NO ANTI-SEMITISM IN BULGARIA.

JEWS ARE HAVING COMPARATIVE SUCCESS IN RECOVERING ANY REAL ESTATE OR STOCKS THAT WERE CONFISCATED, BUT RESTORATION OF PERSONAL AND MOVABLE PROPERTY IS FAR MORE DIFFICULT. THIS AFFECTS THE LARGEST NUMBER OF BULGARIAN JEWS, SINCE MOST OF THEM ARE SMALL MERCHANTS.

THE BEST INFORMATION AVAILABLE IS THAT ONLY ABOUT 40 PER CENT OF THE PROPERTY TAKEN FROM THE JEWS HAS BEEN RETURNED.

ABOUT 30,000 JEWISH HOMES AND APARTMENTS WERE "REQUISITIONED" DURING THE WAR, AND NOT MANY HAVE BEEN RETURNED.

ABOUT 250,000 ROMANIAN JEWS ARE BELIEVED TO HAVE LOST THEIR LIVES DURING EUROPE'S BLOOD BATH.

THERE WAS A SPLIT IN BUCHAREST'S JEWISH COMMUNITY AFTER THEIR LEADER REFUSED TO INSTRUCT ROMANIA'S JEWS TO JOIN THE COMMUNIST PARTY. THE LEADER, DR.WILLY FILDERMAN, WAS ARRESTED AND HELD IN JAIL FOR THREE WEEKS.

THEIR ECONOMIC RE-ESTABLISHMENT CLEARLY WILL BE A LONG, SLOW PROCESS BECAUSE AUSTRIA WAS UNDER NAZI DOMINATION SINCE THE SPRING OF 1938 AND THE NAZIS WERE THOROUGH IN THEIR CONFISCATION SCHEMES.

THERE HAS BEEN A SIMMERING OF ANTI-SEMITISM IN AUSTRIA BASED ON RESENTMENT AGAINST PREFERENTIAL TREATMENT GIVEN FORMERLY PERSECUTED JEWS. IN MOST CASES IT HAS GONE NO FURTHER THAN GRUMBLING ALTHOUGH THERE WAS AN INCIPIENT DEMONSTRATION IN LINZ WHICH WAS QUICKLY DISPERSED.

STOLEN PROPERTY IS BEING RETURNED AND POSSESSIONS OF MISSING JEWS ARE BEING PLACED UNDER TRUSTEESHIP FOR FINAL DISPOSAL IN FAVOR OF JEWISH BENEVOLENT SOCIETIES.

NINETY PER CENT OF THE JEWS IN GREECE ARE IN BAD HEALTH; 30 PER CENT ARE TUBERCULAR. AGAIN, MOST OF THEM HAVE NO MEANS OF LIVELIHOOD AND EXIST ON CHARITY.

YOUNG MEN, WHO ARE IN THE MINORITY, HAVE JOINED THE ARMY AND GOVERNMENT SERVICE.

AGAIN IT IS THE STORY OF NO CHILDREN, FEW AGED. THE MAJORITY OF JEWS ARE WIDOWS UNABLE TO CARE FOR THEMSELVES BECAUSE THEIR HUSBANDS WERE ENGAGED IN COMMERCE WHICH IS PRACTICALLY DEAD.

VIRTUALLY EVERYTHING THE JEWS OF YUGOSLAVIA OWNED WAS DESTROYED OR TAKEN AWAY BY THE NAZIS.

UNMISTAKABLE SIGNS OF ANTI-SEMITISM HAVE SURVIVED THE NAZIS IN HOLLAND, BUT JEWISH LEADERS ESTIMATE THAT THE SENTIMENT IS LESS WIDE-SPREAD THAT IN MOST OTHER COUNTRIES.

LONDON, NOV. 6-(AP)-LEADERS OF THE WORLD YOUTH CONFERENCE DENOUNCED TODAY ALLEGATIONS IN SOME LONDON NEWSPAPERS AND ELSEWHERE THAT THE DELEGATES ARE NEITHER YOUTHFUL OR "REPRESENTATIVE."

REPLYING TO 27 BRITISH YOUNG PEOPLES GROUPS WHICH ARE ABSTAINING FROM THE CONFERENCE BECAUSE THEY CONSIDERED IT DID NOT SPEAK FOR ALL PHASES OF WORLD YOUTH OPINION, MRS. KUTTY [illegible]X HOCKHAM, PRESIDIUM SECRETARY, ANNOUNCED:

"ALL YOUTH ORGANIZATIONS IN EVERY COUNTRY WERE INVITED TO THE CONFERENCE, THE ONLY EXCEPTION BEING FASCIST BODIES."

THE QUESTION OF DELEGATES' AGES WAS RAISED BY THE LONDON SUNDAY DISPATCH WHICH PRINTED A PHOTOGRAPH OF A WHITE BEARDED PATRIARCH SEATED WITH THE PALESTINE DELEGATION. MRS. HOCKHAM SAID THE PATRIARCH WAS ONLY AN OBSERVER AND THAT THE MAJORITY OF DELEGATES ARE FROM 25 TO 30 YEARS OLD.

THE LONDON EVENING NEWS ASSAILED THE CONFERENCE IN AN EDITORIAL YESTERDAY ENTITLED "THE BOOM OF [redacted] 'YOUTH'". THE NEWSPAPER DEMANDED TO KNOW "WHO LET THIS CONFERENCE ASSEMBLE? WHO ALLOTTED THEM PASSAGES TO THIS COUNTRY BY SEA AND AIR." THE EDITORIAL CONCLUDED:

"MEANWHILE TONIGHT, THE REAL YOUNG OF THIS COUNTRY, BLESS THEIR SMUDGED FACES, ARE LETTING OFF FIRECRACKERS WHICH ARE NOT VERBAL, AND [redacted] ARE--FRANKLY--MUCH MORE FUN AND MUCH MORE YOUTHFUL."

YESTERDAY WAS GUY FAWKES DAY, WHEN BRITISH CHILDREN TRADITIONALLY BLACK THEIR FACES, EXPLODE FIREWORKS AND BUILD BONFIRES TO BURN EFFIGIES OF THE MAN WHO ONCE TRIED TO BLOW UP PARLIAMENT.

(ADVANCE) LONDON, NOV. 6--(AP)--BRITAIN'S POSITION AS A LEADING INDUSTRIAL NATION IS THREATENED BY A SERIOUS SHORTAGE OF SCIENTISTS AND TECHNOLOGISTS, A GOVERNMENT COMMITTEE REPORTED TONIGHT AFTER 18 MONTHS OF STUDY.

THE COMMITTEE, HEADED BY LORD EUSTACE, WAS APPOINTED IN APRIL, 1944, TO CONSIDER THE NEEDS OF HIGHER TECHNOLOGICAL EDUCATION IN ENGLAND AND WALES. IT REACHED TWO MAJOR CONCLUSIONS:

1. IF GREAT BRITAIN IS TO KEEP HER PLACE AS A LEADING INDUSTRIAL NATION, THERE MUST BE A LARGER OUTPUT OF QUALIFIED MEN FROM THE UNIVERSITIES AND TECHNOCAL COLLEGES; AND

2. THE GREATEST DEFICIENCY IN BRITISH INDUSTRY IS THE SHORTAGE OF SCIENTISTS AND TECHNOLOGISTS WHO CAN ADMINISTER AND ORGANIZE, AND WHO CAN APPLY THE RESULTS OF RESEARCH TO DEVELOPMENT.

ASSERTING THAT INDUSTRY'S NEED OF MEN OF HIGH QUALIFICATIONS WAS OF PRIME IMPORTANCE, THE COMMITTEE SAID THAT NOT ONLY MUST THE BEST PRODUCTS OF SECONDARY SCHOOLS BE ENCOURAGED TO ENTER INDUSTRY, "BUT THERE MUST BE CLOSE COOPERATION BETWEEN INDUSTRY AND EDUCATION" AND "BETWEEN UNIVERSITIES AND TECHNICAL COLLEGES."

THE COMMITTEE RECOMMENDED THE ESTABLISHMENT OF EIGHT REGIONAL ADVISORY COUNCILS IN ENGLAND AND WALES TO COORDINATE TECHNOLOGICAL STUDIES IN UNIVERSITIES, COLLEGES OF TECHNOLOGY AND OTHER TECHNICAL INSTITUTIONS.

OTHER RECOMMENDATIONS INCLUDED ESTABLISHMENT BY THE MINISTER OF EDUCATION OF A STANDING NATIONAL ORGANIZATION TO ADVISE ON NATIONAL ASPECTS OF REGIONAL POLICY, AND THE SELECTION OF A LIMITED NUMBER OF COLLEGES TO PROVIDE FULL-TIME COURSES IN TECHNOLOGY, AS WELL AS FACILITIES OF POST-GRADUATE STUDIES.

PARIS, NOV. 6-(AP)-GUILDHAUME MYRDDIN-EVANS, BRITISH UNDERSECRETARY FOR LABOR AND HIS GOVERNMENT'S DELEGATE TO THE INTERNATIONAL LABOR ORGANIZATION CONFERENCE WHICH ENDED YESTERDAY, WAS UNANIMOUSLY ELECTED PRESIDENT OF THE ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL AT ITS FIRST MEETING TODAY.

DAVID ZELLERBACH OF SAN FRANCISCO, UNITED STATES EMPLOYER DELEGATE, WAS ELECTED A VICE PRESIDENT.

BERLIN, NOV 6-(AP)-EVEN AS GERMANY PREPARED TO CONSOLIDATE HER AUSTRIAN CONQUEST IN 1938, REICHSMARSHAL HERMANN GOERING AND FOREIGN MINISTER JOACHIM VON RIBBENTROP WERE CONSPIRING TO ALLAY BRITISH FEARS AND CLEAR THE WAY FOR FURTHER AGGRESSION -- THE SEIZURE OF CZECHOSLOVAKIA.

THE PATTERN OF LIES WHICH PASSED FOR NAZI DIPLOMACY HAD ONE CHIEF PURPOSE: TO LULL BRITAIN INTO INACTIVITY WITH VAGUE PROMISES OF A GERMAN-BRITISH UNDERSTANDING.

TRANSCRIPTS OF INTERNATIONAL TELEPHONE CALLS BETWEEN NAZI LEADERS, SALVAGED FROM A BERLIN RUBBLE PILE BY THE MEREST CHANCE, RECORD THESE CONVERSATIONS WHICH TOOK PLACE BETWEEN VON RIBBENTROP IN LONDON AND GOERING IN BERLIN IMMEDIATELY AFTER GERMAN TROOPS MARCHED INTO AUSTRIA IN RESPONSE TO A TRUMPED-UP REQUEST FOR INTERVENTION:

GOERING: "THE SYMPATHY FOR NATIONAL SOCIALISM (IN AUSTRIA) IS COMPLETE AND, TO US, SURPRISING. XXX ACTUALLY THESE WERE ALL OUR PEOPLE. GOERING: "IT SEEMS AS IF ALL IS WONDERFUL PEACE."

LITTLE MORE THAN SIX MONTHS LATER, NAZI SOLDIERS VIOLATED CZECHOSLOVAKIAN SOIL AND OCCUPIED THE SUDETENLAND. THE NAZI LEADERS, MARCHING OVER A PATHWAY OF BROKEN PROMISES, HAD TAKEN ANOTHER LONG STEP TOWARD TURNING THE "WONDERFUL PEACE" INTO GLOBAL WAR -- AND ULTIMATE DISASTER.

ALREADY GOERING AND JOACHIM VON RIBBENTROP WERE LAYING THE LINES TO SNARE BRITAIN'S NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN IN THE MUNICH APPEASEMENT. BUT THREE WEEKS BEFORE, ANTHONY EDEN HAD RESIGNED HIS FOREIGN SECRETARYSHIP IN A SPLIT WITH CHAMBERLAIN OVER THE POLICY OF DEALING WITH THE DICTATORS.

THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT OF SOCIALIST LEON BLUM HAD GONE SO FAR AS TO MOBILIZE SOME TROOPS IN THE MAGINOT LINE, AND HAD SOUGHT TO ALIGN ITALY AND BRITAIN IN A UNITED FRONT AGAINST GERMANY. BUT THE CIVIL WAR IN SPAIN WAS STILL RAGING, AND ITALIAN FOREIGN MINISTER COUNT CIANO REFUSED TO RECEIVE THE ENVOYS OF EITHER FRANCE OR BRITAIN.

THE GERMANS REGARDED A HITLER MESSAGE TO MUSSOLINI AS DECISIVE IN TURNING ITALY AGAINST THE PROPOSED BLOC. THIS MESSAGE DECLARED GERMANY REGARDED THE FRONTIER WITH ITALY AS SETTLED FOR ALL TIME--"IT IS BRENNER."

KOERNEN--"JAWOHL."

GOERING--"THERE STILL IS FOUR OR FIVE DAYS TIME, BUT KEPPLER AT PRESENT THINKS ONLY ABOUT AUSTRIA AND NOT OF GERMANY. AND SCHACHT HAS STILL MUCH KNOWLEDGE."

KOERNEN--"ABSOLUTELY."

BERLIN, NOV 6 --(AP) DANGEROUS UNREST, FOOD RIOTS AND EPIDEMICS LURK AROUND THE CORNER IN GERMANY WITH WINTER XXX EDGING IN SLOWLY AMONG THE SHATTERED, UNHEATED HOMES AND MILLIONS OF REFUGEES POURING IN FROM THE EAST, MAJ. GEN. MORRISON C. STAYER, CHIEF OF THE PUBLIC HEALTH AND WELFARE DEPARTMENT OF THE U.S. MILITARY GOVERNMENT SAID AT A PRESS CONFERENCE TODAY AFTER A TOUR OF THE BRITISH, FRENCH AND X AMERICAN ZONES.

HE SAID HE HAD RECOMMENDED THAT CALORY RATIONS FOR THE NORMAL GERMAN CONSUMER BE RAISED FROM XXX 1,350 TO 1,550 IMMEDIATELY AND THAT A 1,750 CALORY RATION BE CONSIDERED FOR THE WORST AREAS NOT LATER THAN JAN 1, 1946. HE ADDED THAT A LEVEL OF 2,000 CALORIES DAILY FOR THE NORMAL CONSUMER SHOULD BE STRIVEN FOR IF CIVILIANS ARE TO DO THE NECESSARY WORK.

STAYER SAID CONDITIONS IN THE SAAR HAD DETRIORATED AND SERIOUS MALNUTRION WAS IMMINENT IN CERTAIN CITIES ESPECIALLY AMONG WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

IN THE RUHR WHERE THE BRITISH AUTHORITIES HAVE ALREADY ESTABLISHED AN OFFICIAL RATION OF 1,550 CALORIES CONDITIONS HAVE NOT DETRIORATED AND THE SITUATION IS [redacted] "NOT ALARMING," HE SAID.

IN THE AMERICAN ZONE HE REPORTED CONDITIONS SLIGHTLY BETTER THAN IN AUGUST.

BUT IN ALL THREE ZONES STAYER SAID THERE IS A DECREASED RESISTANCE TO DISEASES SUCH AS TUBERCULOSIS AND "A PREDISPOSITION TO EPIDEMICS WHICH UNDOUBTEDLY WOULD GRAVELY ENDANGER THE HEALTH OF THE OCCUPYING TROOPS."

"EVERYWHERE I GO THE MORTALITY RATE FOR INFANTS AND OLD PEOPLE IS HIGH," STAYER SAID.

HE SAID THE GREATEST DANGERS WERE TUBERCULOSIS, DIPTHERIA, THE GONORHEA AND X THREAT OF INLUENZA, TYPHUS, SMALLPOX EPIDEMICS WERE SERIOUS.

TRANSPORT AND FUEL WERE THE GREATEST PROBLEMS IN SUPPLYING THE POPULATION AT PRESENT, HE SAID, POINTING OUT THAT THERE ARE 17,000,000 TONS OF COAL ABOVE GROUND AT PRESENT BUT NO WAY OF MOVING IT TO CONSUMERS.

THE THREE LEADERS, CAPT.SHAH NAWAZ KHAN, CAPT.P.K.SAHGAL AND LT. GURBAKSH SINGH DHILLONINA, ARE CHARGED WITH MURDER AND WITH TEAMING WITH THE JAPANESE DURING THE WAR.

THE ORDERS WERE IDENTIFIED BY LT.D.C.NAG, FORMER JUDGE ADVOCATE GENERAL OF THE I.N.A. UNDER THE LATE SUBHAS CHANDRA BOSE. THE OFFICER MAY BE THE PROSECUTION'S STAR WITNESS.

ONE AWARD, THE PROSECUTION CHARGED, BORE THE TITLE IN HINDUSTANI OF "KILLER OF THE ENEMY." IT WAS TO BE AWARDED INTO TWO GRADES. THE LOWER WAS FOR ANY I.N.A. MEMBER WHO KILLED OR CAPTURED ALIVE ANY BRITISH OR AMERICAN OFFICER OR OTHER RANK IN SINGLE COMBAT OR GROUP FIGHTING. THE OTHER WAS FOR ANY PERSON OUTSIDE THE I.N.A. "WHO WHILE PARTICIPATING IN OR HELPING THE WAR OF INDIA'S LIBERATION QUALIFIES HIMSELF" BY FULFILLING THE SAME CONDITIONS.

THE ORDER, THE PROSECUTION SAID, ALSO OFFERED THE MEDAL TO ANY PERSON ANYWHERE "WHO HELPS THE PROSECUTION OF INDIA'S WAR OF LIBERATION BY KILLING OR CAPTURING ALIVE ANY BRITISH OR AMERICAN OTHER THAN ARMY PERSONNEL WHO IS CLEARLY AN ENEMY IN THE PATH OF INDIA'S FREEDOM."

THE TRIAL OPENED YESTERDAY, WITH NINE OF INDIA'S MOST DISTINGUISHED LAWYERS, INCLUDING PANDIT JAWAHARLAL NEHRU, LEADER OF THE INDIAN NATIONAL CONGRESS, REPRESENTING THE DEFENDANTS.

TRIPLER HOSPITAL,OAHU,NOV.6-(AP)-IT WAS MY ROSARY, GOOD LUCK AND JOHN PATRICK THAT SAVED ME.

I RECEIVED THE ROSARY, A STERLING SILVER ROSARY, TOO, JUST A COUPLE OF HOURS BEFORE I LEFT ON THE PLANE FOR TACOMA,WASH., TO VISIT MY BROTHER, LEONARD, WHO IS ILL. IT CAME FROM MY MOTHER IN FERDINAND,IDA., AND WAS MARKED "DO NOT OPEN UNTIL CHRISTMAS." BUT I DID, AND I'M GLAD OF IT NOW.

PATRICK, I DO NOT KNOW WHERE HE'S FROM, BUT I WAS STANDING ON A WING OF THE PLANE WITH A POWERFULLY ROUGH SEA WASHING AROUND ME. I GUESS I WAS FRIGHTENED BECAUSE I DON'T REMEMBER GETTING INTO THE RAFT WITH HIM. HE'S THE ONE WHO GOT THE RAFTS AND TOSSED THEM INTO THE SEA. IT WASN'T UNTIL I WAS ON THE RAFT AND SAFE WITH HIM THAT MY MAE WEST (LIFE JACKET) WAS INFLATED. HE DID THAT FOR ME TOO. LUCK, IT WAS JUST LUCK ALL ALONG.

IT WAS MY FIRST PLANE RIDE, BUT DESPITE THE TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE, I'M NOT AFRAID OF THEM. I FIGURE IT JUST HAD TO HAPPEN AND IF IT HADN'T HAPPENED TO US IT WOULD HAVE TO SOMEONE ELSE. THAT'S THE LUCK I WAS TALKING BOUT. AND WHEN I TRY TO REACH THE MAINLAND AGAIN, IT WILL BE BY PLANE.

I WENT TO SLEEP SOON AFTER THE LIGHTS OF HONOLULU WERE NO LONGER VISIBLE AND THE FIRST I KNEW AFTERWARD WAS WHEN PATRICK, IN A VERY SOFT VOICE TOLD ME TO PUT ON MY SAFETY BELT, WE ARE GOING TO LAND.

I HAD BEEN ON SHIPS AND THOUGHT IT WAS JUST A PRACTICE UNTIL I HEARD SOME BLOODY MURDER SCREAMS. A WAC WHO WAS AMONG THE SEVEN DEAD RETURNED ABOARD THE ESCORT CARRIER CASABLANCA WHICH BROUGHT US TO HONOLULU, IN EXCITEMENT, GRABBED MY MAE WEST BUT GAVE IT BACK. A COLONEL, WHO WAS A PASSENGER IN THE SEAT WITH ME, AND I FOUND ONE FOR HER.

THE PLANE MADE A VERY ROUGH LANDING, PART OF THE TAIL WAS KNOCKED OFF AND THE PLANE SEEMED TO SPLIT. IT WAS STANDING ON ITS NOSE. I'M AFRAID THOSE IN THE BACK PART MAY HAVE BEEN HURLED AGAINST THE FRONT OF THE PLANE AND KNOCKED OUT.

A61FX

BECAUSE IT WAS MY FIRST PLANE RIDE, I ACTED LIKE A COUNTRY GIRL WHILE THE OTHERS WHO HAD PLANE EXPERIENCE KNEW THE DIFFICULTY WE FACED.

WATER LIFTED THE PLANE, AND THE COLONEL CALLED TO ME TO COME TO THE FRONT OF THE PLANE. WE GOT ON A WING AND I BECAME WORRIED FOR THE FIRST TIME BECAUSE I CAN'T SWIM, AND THE WATER WAS RUSHING UP. THE COLONEL WENT DOWN IN THE WATER AND AFTER THAT I DIDN'T SEE THE WAC. ABOUT THAT TIME THERE WAS LOTS OF SCREAMING.

I DIDN'T REMEMBER MUCH AFTER THAT UNTIL I WAS IN THE RAFT WITH PATRICK. I COULDN'T MOVE MY LEGS THEN, BUT ALL THAT SEEMS WRONG NOW IS MY BACK--AND PAIN IN THE PELVIC REGION. VWHEN I WAS FEELING TO SEE IF I WAS BLOODY I FOUND MY ROSARY. I FOUND IT IN MY VEST AND FELT MUCH RELIEVED.

WE WERE IN THE RAFT ABOUT TEN HOURS BEFORE THE DESTROYER ESCORT TILLS PICKED US UP. LATER WE WERE TRANSFERRED TO THE CASABLANCA. MY TEETH WERE CHATTERING SO BAD SOME CREWMEN OF THE TILLS PUT A PAIR OF ARMY SOCKS IN MY MOUTH. I WAS PLACED ON A STRETCHER AND TRANSFERRED BY PULLEY AND ROPE TO THE CASABLANCA.

THE DUTCH GOVERNMENT AND PEOPLE MUST MAKE UP THEIR MINDS REGARDING INDONESIA, SOEKARNO DECLARED, ADDING THAT THEY HAVE TWO CHOICES:

WASHINGTON,NOV.6-(AP)-TWO MEMBERS SAID TODAY THE PEARL HARBOR INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE HAS CALLED SPECIFICALLY FOR THE FILES OF THE LATE PRESIDENT ROOVELT'S CORRESPONDENCE WITH FORMER PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL.

THEY SAID THE REQUEST WAS MADE IN A LETTER SIGNED BY WILLIAM D.MITCHELL, COMMITTEE COUNSEL, AND THAT IT ALSO LISTED OTHER SUBJECTS.

THESE MEMBERS, ASKING NOT TO BE IDENTIFIED BY NAME, TOLD A REPORTER THE ITEMS WANTED WERE LISTED SPECIFICALLY BECAUSE OF THE PHYSICAL PROBLEM INVOLVED IN SEARCHING THE VOLUMINOUS WHITE HOUSE FILES MADE AVAILABLE TO THE COMMITTEE.

MITCHELL'S LETTER, THEY SAID, ASKED FOR ANY EXISTING ROOSEVELT-CHURCHILL CORRESPONDENCE ON THE ATLANTIC CHARTER. THE CHARTER WAS PUBLICIZED AUG.14, 1941, NEARLY FOUR MONTHS BEFORE THE JAPANESE ATTACK ON PEARL HARBOR.

SOME COMMITTEE MEMBERS HAVE SAID PRIVATELY THEY WANT TO KNOW IF THERE WAS ANY EXCHANGE BETWEEN THE TWO LEADERS ABOUT THE POSSIBLE INVOLVEMENT OF THIS COUNTRY IN THE WAR.

IN ADDITION, MITCHELL WAS SAID TO HAVE ASKED FOR FILES DEALING DIRECTLY WITH THE PEARL HARBOR ATTACK AND THOSE BEARING ON DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS WITH THE JAPANESE, INCLUDING THE PERIOD WHEN THIS COUNTRY WAS SHIPPING SCRAP IRON AND GASOLINE TO JAPAN.

DEMOCRATIC LEADER BARKLEY (KY) TOLD THE SENATE LAST WEEK AS CHAIRMAN OF THE COMMITTEE THAT THE INQUIRY GROUP "CAN SEE ANY PAPER IN WASHINGTON, ANY PAPER IN HAWAII, ANY PAPER ANYWHERE IN THE WORLD THAT BEARS ON THIS INVESTIGATION."

CHURCHILL WOULD NOT GIVE RUSSIA ATOMIC SECRETS

NOV 7 1945

LONDON, Nov. 7 (AP)-Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, hinting that Britain was suspicious of Russia's territorial demands, appealed tonight to the great powers to "really put the cards on the table face upwards."

Bevin spoke in a full-dress debate in Commons on foreign affairs after Winston Churchill had urged that Britain support the United States in refusing to give the secret of atomic bomb production. Russia, Churchill argued, would not share the secret if she alone possessed it.

While Bevin did not name Russia, he said:

"You cannot help our being a little bit suspicious if a great power wants to go right across the throat of the British Commonwealth."

He apparently was referring to reported Soviet demands for sole trusteeship of Tripolitania, former Italian colony on the Mediterranean's southern shore, and a base in Eritrea—two steps which would leave Russia straddling British communications to the Middle and Far East.

Endorse Truman Program

Churchill and Bevin both endorsed President Truman's 12-point foreign policy program and said if this plan had existed in 1914 or in 1939 neither world war would have occurred.

Both men, speaking plainly and bluntly, repeatedly stressed British desire for even closer relations with Russia, and expressed belief that hope for the future must rest on a strong world security league. And both emphasized that the Labor majority and Conservative minority must see eye-to-eye on Britain's foreign policy.

Churchill urged the Labor government not to put "pressure" on the United States, in Prime Minister Attlee's forthcoming Washington talks, to make the secrets of atomic bomb production available to Moscow.

He said the Russians would have to be taken into American arsenals in order to understand how the bomb is produced.

"I am sure," he asserted, "if the circumstances were reversed and we or the Americans asked for similar access to the Russian arsenals it would not be granted.

Shared Many Secrets

"During the war we imparted many secrets to the Russians, especially in connection with radar, but we were not conscious of any adequate reciprocity."

At the same time Churchill praised Generalissimo Stalin and warned against any "state of mind" which might lead to a rupture of British-Russian associations. He said the world outlook in many respects was darker than in 1918 and 1919.

NOV 8 10

"There is none of that confidence now among men that they and their children will never again see another World War, as there was undoubtedly in 1919," Churchill declared. "It is our duty to supply the solid ground on which this hope may rise again—and live."

Bevin disagreed with Churchill on the future outlook, expressing hope that the United Nations organization would be able to maintain peace.

The Foreign Secretary declared that the "great difficulty in achieving international cooperation rests in "whether or not you can entirely obliterate what are called spheres of influence and power politics.

"Sometimes," he said, "in these negotiations—I make the confession, power politics seems to me to be naked and unashamed."

He appealed to the world's great powers to "put their cards on the table face upwards" in an effort to establish international peace.

"We are ready to do it," he cried.

Then referring to territorial demands, presumably those of Russia, he said:

"We have met territorially almost every demand that we ever thought we should be asked. At Moscow, Yalta and all the rest of the conferences, no one dreamed there would be further territorial demands, except here or there—in the (Dardanelles) straits etc."

NOV 8 1945

30.24 — 31471a

LONDON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Excerpts from Winston Churchill's address on foreign policy in the House of Commons today follow:

Mr. Churchill said that the Conservatives regarded the departure of the Prime Minister to the United States as a matter of great importance and continued:

It would not, however, be possible to speak on this subject of the United States without referring to the other great partner in our victory—Soviet Russia. To proceed otherwise would be to derange the balance which must always be preserved if the harmony and poise of world affairs is to be maintained.

I must, therefore, begin by expressing what I am sure is in everyone's heart—the deep sense of gratitude we owe to the noble Russian people and the valiant Soviet armies who, when they were attacked by Hitler, poured out their blood and suffered immeasurable torments until absolute victory was gained. It is our profound desire that these feelings of comradeship and friendship which have developed between the British and Russian peoples should not only be preserved but should be expanded.

Tribute to Stalin

We are all glad to know and feel that Generalissimo Stalin is still strongly holding the helm and steering his tremendous ship. Personally I cannot feel anything but the most lively admiration for this truly great man, the father of his country, the ruler of its destiny in peace and the glorious defender of its life in war.

It is not impossible that we should develop strong differences on many aspects of policy, political, social, even as we think moral, with the Soviet Government; but no state of mind must be allowed to occur in Britain which ruptures or withers those great associations between our two peoples which were our glory and our safety in the late frightful convulsion.

Any idea of Britain's deliberately pursuing an anti-Russian policy or taking part in the making of a combination to the detriment of Russia is thoroughly opposed to British thought and conscience. Nothing but a long period of marked injuries and antagonisms could develop any such matter again in this land.

I must tell the House that the world outlook is in several respects today less promising than it seemed after the German capitulation of 1918 or after the Treaty of Versailles of 1919.

There is none of the confidence now among men that they or their children will never see again another world war, as there was undoubtedly in 1919. It is our duty to supply the solid ground of which this hope may arise again—and live.

Mr. Churchill then said it was, of course, true that these propositions and purposes had been set forth in the declaration of the United Nations at San Francisco in May. Nonetheless this reaffirmation by the President of the United States on Oct. 27 was of transcendent importance.

If such a statement had been made in the summer of 1914, he said, the Kaiser would never have launched an aggressive war over a Balkan question. All would have gone to a great parley between the most powerful governments of those days. In the face of such a declaration, the World War of 1914 would not have occurred. Such a declaration in 1919 would have led to a real treaty of peace and a real armed League of Nations.

Such a declaration at any time between the two wars would have prevented the consequences, he asserted. It would have made the League of Nations a world league strong enough to prevent the rearmament of Germany, which has led us through so much tribulation and danger and led Germany herself to the punishment and ruin that might well shock the soul of man.

Therefore, Mr. Churchill said, he felt it was their duty now in the most definite manner to welcome and salute the noble declaration made by the President of the United States and to make it plain that upon the principle set forth in the twelve articles that followed so wisely upon those of the Atlantic Charter we stood by the United States with a conviction that overrode all other considerations..

Hoped Men Were Wiser

He continued:

We all hoped that men were better, wiser and more merciful than 10,000 years ago, but there was a certain atmosphere of apprehension. There was a growing factor which one might call world opinion most powerful persuasive and most valuable. We understood our common lot, even if we had not the power to control it.

These same deep uncontrollable anxieties some of us had felt before the war occurred, but we had also a hope that we had not got then and that hope was the strength and resolve of the United States to play a leading part in world affairs. Here was this mighty state and nation which offered power and might and sacrifice in order to bring mankind out of the dark valley which we have been traversing.

We should now make it clear to the United States that we will march at their side in the cause that President Truman has defined, that we will add our strength to their strength and that their stern sober efforts shall be matched by our own. If everything else fails, which we must not admit, here is the best chance of survival. Personally, I feel it is more than survival—it may be even safety and with safety the vast expansion of prosperity.

Our friendship might be special, but it was not exclusive. On the contrary, every problem dealing with other powers was simplified by Anglo-American agreements and harmony. The fact that that was so made it all the more hopeful that other powers gathered at the conference would be drawn into the circle of agreement which must precede action.

Mr. Churchill said it was on that basis that he came to the atomic bomb. He continued:

According to our present understanding with the United States, neither country is entitled to disclose its secrets to a third country without the approval of the other.

A great deal has already been disclosed by the United States in agreement with us. An elaborate document, giving an immense amount of information on the scientific and theoretical aspects, was published by the Americans several weeks ago.

A great deal of information is also common property all over the world, but we are told by those who advocate immediate public disclosure that the Soviet Government are in possession of the scientific knowledge and that they will be able to make atomic bombs in a very short time. This is somewhat inconsistent with the argument that they have a grievance and also with the argument, for what it is worth, that we and the United States have at this moment no great gift to bestow such as would induce a complete melting of hearts and create some new relationship.

What the United States did not wish to disclose is the practical production methods, which they have developed at enormous expense and on a gigantic scale. This would not be an affair of scientists or diplomatists sending over formulas. To be effective, any such disclosure would have to take the form of a considerable number of Soviet specialists, engineers and scientists visiting the United States arsenals, for that is what the manufacturing centers of the atomic bomb really are.

They would have to visit them and would have to dwell there so that they could have it all explained to them and the officials would then return to their own country with all the information they had obtained and with any further improvements which might have occurred to them.

Says Russians Do Not Reciprocate

I trust we are not going to put pressure on the United States to adopt such a course. I am sure if the circumstances were reversed and we or the Americans asked for similar access to the Russian arsenals it would not be granted.

During the war we imparted many secrets to the Russians especially in connection with radar, but we were not conscious of any adequate reciprocity.

Even in the heat of the war both countries acted under considerable reserve.

I hope that Great Britain, the United States and Canada will adhere to the policy proclaimed by President Truman and will treat their knowledge and processes as a sacred trust to be guarded for the benefit of all nations and as a deterrent against aggressive wars.

I cannot myself feel the slightest anxiety as a British subject that these great powers are at the present moment in the hands of the United States.

I am sure they will not use them in any aggressive sense or for the indulgence of territorial or commercial appetites. They, like Great Britain, have no need or desire for territorial gains. I feel it must be in the minds of most men here today that it is a matter for rejoicing that these powers of manufacture are in such good hands as the present ones. The possession of these powers will help the United States and our allies to build up a structure of world security. How long, we may ask, is it likely that this advantage will rest with the United States?

In the debate on the address, I hazarded the estimate that it would be three or four years. According to the best information I have been able to obtain, I see no reason to alter that and certainly not to diminish it. But even when that period is over, the process made by the United States scientists—and I trust by our own—both in experiment and manufacture, may well leave us and them with the prime power and responsibility for the use of these dire, superhuman weapons.

Mr. Churchill said he agreed with President Truman that the argument was 100 per cent wrong which said that because of the atomic bomb there was no need for armies, navies and air forces. He continued:

"I should like to hear that that is also the view of His Majesty's Government."

Mr. Churchill said he could not leave the subject without referring to another aspect which was forced upon him by speeches made in recent debate. It was said that unless all atomic knowledge, whether theory or production, was shared among all the nations of the world some of the British and American scientists would act independently. Mr. Churchill said he supposed it meant they would betray their secrets to foreign countries.

Warns Against Leaks

He continued:

"In that case I hope the law will be used against these men with the utmost rigor."

Whatever might be decided on those matters, in his opinion, should surely be decided by parliaments and responsible government and not by scientists, however eminent and ardent they might be. He recalled that Gladstone had said that expert knowledge was limited knowledge.

Mr. Churchill continued:

On many occasions in the past, we have seen attempts to rule the world by experts of one kind or another. There have been the theocratic, the military and the aristocratic, and it is now suggested that we should have a scientistic government.

Mr. Churchill then submitted what he described as a few simple points:

First of all, we should fortify in every way our special and friendly connections with the United States, aiming always at a fruitful association for the purpose of common protection and world peace.

That this association should in no way have a point against any other country, great or small, in the world, but should, on the contrary, be used to try to lead the victorious powers even more closely together on equal terms and in all good faith and goodwill.

That we should not abandon our special relationship with the United States and Canada about the atomic bomb and that we should aid the United States to guard this weapon as a sacred trust for the maintenance of peace.

That we should seek constantly to promote and strengthen the world organization of the United Nations, so that in due course it may eventually be fitted to become the safe repository of this great energy.

Fifthly—and I think this is agreed—we should make atomic bombs ourselves and have them here, even if manufactured elsewhere, in suitable safe storage with the least possible delay.

Finally, let me on behalf of the whole House wish the Prime Minister the utmost success in his forthcoming highly important visit to Washington.

The Bevin Address

Excerpts from Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's address in Commons follow:

I would like to express to all who have spoken our gratitude and thanks for the good wishes to the Prime Minister in carrying out the task which lies ahead of him in his visit to Washington. There is one thing about this country and this House—however much we may disagree on whether we have enough houses or fried fish shops, we seem to agree on the imperative necessity of Britain retaining her moral lead in the world today.

I will now plunge, if I may, into the most acute side of this discussion which came at the latter end of Mr. Churchill's speech, and here I would like to pay a tribute to President Truman for his frankness in taking the world into his confidence, and for endeavoring in such complete form in his twelve points to express what the United States feels about the whole of this great difficulty.

Referring to what he described as the very serious claim of scientists to supersede the state, Mr. Bevin declared that the Government could not surrender to any section of the community its powers or duties in the field of government. He continued:

We have great decisions to make on policy, and sometimes, to be quite frank, you have to enter into arrangements in these developments with other countries, and when you select people to enter into the study and research of these things and they enter into an understanding to observe the honor of their own country, then it ought to be observed as duty, and respected by them carrying out their duties.

The campaign which has gone on recently has not only been disturbing but has been unfair to the responsible members of this House and to His Majesty's Government as well.

Let it be remembered that we are not the sole agents in this matter. I want members to feel that there is a greater disturbance in the United States in the public mind as being the possessors of this bomb and having the responsibility of it than there is among some countries who are not in possession of the bomb.

They are feeling their way in regard to the right thing to do. It is understandable, that before you plunge into a step which may be disastrous you feel entitled to ask not only the conditions you are prepared to observe but the conditions which others who are going to share the trust with you are going to observe also.

I should like to say, speaking for myself, that since I have been in this office—and I think it would be true of my predecessor—I have never for one moment, in considering what decision I should make on this or that issue, considered the atomic bomb for one moment. I have never once allowed myself to think that I could arrive at this or that decision because Britain was in possession of the atomic bomb, or whether she was not.

Mr. Bevin said that, however great the power of weapons might be, any Foreign Secretary who departed from a code of conduct in deciding matters to the best of his ability on the ground of what was right would be drifting to disaster. He continued:

When I have been asked to take a decision upon policy in this or that direction, I have remembered all the time the implied obligations that this House, and this Government, or its predecessor, have entered into in connection with the United Nations.

We say to ourselves if we take this decision, although the United Nations is not yet established, are we taking a decision that ultimately fails to fit into the framework and obligations we are entering into?

That is the test which, if followed carefully, will keep this country on the right lines. Those undertakings are not the undertakings of the old League of Nations. First of all, the number of countries that have signed an undertaking or obligation under the new world organization is far wider than was ever undertaken by the League of Nations.

These very twelve points in this form, with this obligation that the President on behalf of the United States has entered into, never existed at any time behind the League of Nations during the whole of its existence.

The League of Nations had to struggle on with Russia out of it on the one side and the United States out of it on the other. That chauvinism, the war of 1918 did not destroy, but only held in temporary abeyance for a recrudescence at a later stage. That is a great difference in the two decisions.

Therefore, having regard to the declaration of President Truman, and having regard to the wider area the United Nations represents, not from the point of view of their adherence to wider functions which the League of Nations undertook, makes it all the more important to ascertain with careful judgment whether what you are doing will jeopardize the bringing of it to fruition or not.

I am ready to confess there is a conflict, a conflict of principle that only time, understanding and conciliation can reconcile. You get a frightful nightmare of insecurity arising at every turn. On the other hand, you have the principle of cooperation as the goal.

NOV 8 1945

NOV 8 1945

The great difficulty arises, largely because of the terrific struggle of the last six years, as to whether or not you can entirely obliterate what are called spheres of influence and power politics.

Sometimes in these negotiations, I make the confession, power politics seems to me to be naked and unashamed. But the next moment you see searching and striving for the other ideal. So I would ask the House not to be too impatient in this transition period. * * *

Mr. Bevin said things had to be dealt with as much on the economic plane as on the political plane. There were masses of people throughout the world whom the war had led to believe would have a higher standard of living, and the great demand for social justice could not be withheld. Then he said:

NOV 8 1945

The question is whether the demand will become so impatient for satisfaction that you cannot satisfy it quickly enough. I think President Truman realized this in his twelve points.

Doubts Early Atomic Energy

There has been great excitement that atomic energy is likely to produce great industrial energy very quickly. I do not believe it. We ought to get down to a balance about this. It is going to take long, weary, hard and patient work before this new form of energy is available to rejuvenate and revolutionize industrial energy.

I do not think the excitement about it is so justified as people make out.

That encourages me to believe that in view of the fact that the industrial side of the development of atomic energy is both costly and long-term as to be patiently evolved, it gives us time to build up the United Nations Organization for peace efforts and world organization and, as the one evolves into industry, the necessity for its use for atomic bombs will disappear. * * *

I now make an appeal to the great powers on behalf of His Majesty's Government—and we are ready to do it—to really put the cards on the table face upwards.

What is it we want to do? What do we want to retain? For myself and for the Government I have openly said in this house, at the Labor party conference, and on the public platform, that we will take no steps, we will do nothing or allow any of our agents and diplomats to do anything, to stir up hatred or to provoke or create a situation detrimental to Russia in the eastern countries.

If you give that security against attack, intrigue or the stirring up of difficulties, I cannot accept that the natural thing that follows is to close the door and prevent the country from having any contact with those peoples for trade or anything else.

Rejects Moscow Charge

Neither am I prepared to accept the position so often blared from the Moscow radio that claims the right to have friendly relationships with their near neighbors, even as President Roosevelt proclaimed the good neighbor policy with South America.

I am not a criminal if I want friendship with neighbors bordering on the British frontier. What am I doing wrong? I am doing nothing to injure anybody and I am not prepared to accept that position from any other country in the world.

Just as how the government is willing to give, it claims the right to deal with France, Holland, Belgium, Scandinavia or other countries—not a Western bloc—for all purposes.

They are our cultural friends. They are our historical associates. They acknowledge the same democracy as we do. Therefore, I say I am entitled on behalf of the government to have good neighbors in my street just as any other country is entitled to have good neighbors in its street.

You will probably think I am a little energetic about this. But I am a little resentful and I think the house will agree I am entitled to be.

If there have been invading armies in the east of Europe there has been the blast of war in western Europe. Much of Europe's great civilization has been destroyed by this frightful struggle.

Therefore, I welcome President Truman's declaration. I think his declaration is a healthy one. These things are to be done by agreement not by force, not by aggression. They are to be voluntarily entered into by the acquiescence of the people concerned. That His Majesty's Government accepts.

We want it not merely for the protection of ourselves. We do not want it because we are afraid to defend ourselves. We have given great examples of that, heaven only knows.

But coming back to the original speech I made when I took this office, I regard the great economic developments of lifting the burden off the lives of the people as the most important thing in foreign policy and I really believe this country has much to give and much to gain by a proper exchange and arrangement and the contribution of each in cultural, economic and artistic life.

I have often watched little children drinking from a fountain in a park where the cups are hung on chains. One drinks two cups of water and another drinks one. They never kuarrel because there is enough for both. I think this is true of the great productive capacity of the world.

There need be no jealousy, no competition. Our capacity is so great we can do it. * * *

I hope that as the United Nations Organization grows we will succeed in cutting down military expenditure to a minimum, but not to such a point as to make the United Nations Organization ineffective in the face of aggression. * *

Please remember that the atomic bomb might have been preceded by other dangerous weapons if our enemies had been successful prior to the final solution of the atomic bomb. Therefore, don't let us keep our minds solely on atomic bombs

Other Dangerous Studies

There are many, many other forms of scientific investigation of equally disastrous kind. There again it is a question of arriving at a moment of complete confidence as to whom you entrust it. The road to that complete confidence doesn't depend upon sentiments of what you do with scientific discovery, but upon the confidence in the policy you are all following and the obligations you are entering into.

I don't believe that any international legal gentlemen or anybody can devise a plan where an international inspector is worth anything in this matter. The means of carrying it on all over the world may be a check.

The only way in which you can be positive in keeping an international organization is when that organization accepts fully as an obligation and policy that you will trust its word without having to send a policeman around every five minutes.

We have to arrive at that state, but we have not arrived at it yet—we are too near the war.

We agreed to give inventions to other countries. We did not have it in return. It may be that they were frightened to give it to us in return. But we did set an emaple, which was a very big thing.

If our example is to be followed, let it really get into the pool before we take an undue risk. * * *

Our eyes should be fixed upon the United Nations Organization. All nations of the world should be invited to look that way to judge their policy as we do, as to wether it leads to that great goal. It is the only goal and the only way, in my judgment, which can create a world organization capable, masterful enough, united enough to hold in check this evolution of scientific discovery and make it the servant of man and not his destructor.

U. S. IS BACKED BY CHURCHILL ON ATOM BOMB

Wartime Prime Minister Says Reds Wouldn't Share Its Secret.

NOV 8

PRAISES TRUMAN'S 12 POINTS

Singleton

Urges Support of President's Plan in Opening First Debate on Attlee's Foreign Policy.

London, Nov. 7 (A. P.).—Winston Churchill today expressed the conviction that Soviet Russia would not share the atomic bomb secret if she alone had it, and called upon Prime Minister Attlee at his forthcoming Washington talks to bring no pressure upon the United States to divulge the bomb's production details.

Opening the first full-dress debate on foreign policy since the Laborite Government assumed power, Churchill addressed the House of Commons as Leader of the Opposition.

"I am sure," he said, "that were the circumstances reversed and we or the Americans asked for similar access to Russian arsenals, it would not be granted."

The former Prime Minister mentioned the assistance given to the Russians during the war, including radar "and other matters," and said that he was "not conscious of any considerable reciprocity." Almost in the same breath, however, he declared: "Any idea of Britain's deliberately pursuing an anti-Russian policy or taking part in making a combination to the detriment of Russia is thoroughly opposed to British thought and conscience. Nothing but a long period of marked injuries and antagonisms could devolop any such matter again in this land."

Speaking for the Government, Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin told the House that the great difficulty in achieving international co-operation rested in "whether or not you can entirely obliterate what are called spheres of influence and power politics." He also appealed to the world's great Powers "to put their cards on the table face upwards" in an effort to establish peace. "We are ready to do it," he declared amid cheers.

Bevin discounted the possibility that atomic energy could be developed quickly for industrial use. "That encourages me to believe," he said, "that it will give us time to build up the United Nations Organization for peace efforts and that, as it evolves for industry, the necessity for its use for the atomic bomb will disappear."

Backs Truman's 12 Points.

Churchill praised Generalissimo Stalin as a great man, and said that the Russian leader "is strongly holding the helm and steering his tremendous ship."

Churchill also expressed the hope that Britain would adhere to the twelve-point American foreign policy enunciated by President Truman at New York on Navy Day.

"We should make clear to the United States," he said, "that we will march at their side in the cause President Truman has defined. This is our chance of survival and it may even be of safety and, with safety, a vast extension of prosperity."

Declaring that Britain should help the United States guard the atomic bomb "as a sacred trust for the maintenance of peace," Churchill also asserted, however, that Britain "should make atomic bombs ourselves and have them here, even if manufactured elsewhere, in suitable safe storage, with the least possible delay." He declared that the future of the atomic bomb should be decided by parliaments and responsible governments and "not by scientists, however eminent or ardent they may be."

Notes Uncontrollable Factors.

In solemn tones, Churchill said: "I cannot bring myself to visualize another world war. It is a somber thought that, as long as our new World Organization is so loosely formed, such possibilities and their consequences are practically beyond human control. My heart is not carefree. . . . Those same uncontrollable anxieties . . . felt in the years before the war recur. But we have also the hope, which we had not got then, and that hope is the strength and resolve of the United States to play a leading part in world affairs.

"The valley is indeed dark and the dangers most menacing. Yet we know that not very far away are broad uplands of an assured peace. Can we reach them? We must reach them. It is our sole duty."

NOV 8 1945

Referring to a charge that he and the late President Roosevelt had reached a secret agreement on the atomic bomb at Quebec in 1943, Churchill said that he had no objection to the publication "of any document or agreement which I signed," but that neither the British nor the American Government had the right of publication without the consent of the other, "and it would be very wrong of any one to try to force their hand or press them."

Churchill's statement came a day after Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov told the Russians in a Moscow address that the atomic bomb could not be kept secret and that the Soviet Union would have "atomic energy and many other things."

Britain's wartime Prime Minister told Commons that Generalissimo Stalin "is still strongly holding the helm and steering his tremendous ship," the Soviet Union.

"Follow Truman Policy"

In his role as minority leader, Churchill expressed the hope that "We shall adhere to the policy declared by President Truman to keep the knowledge and processes (of the atomic bomb) as a sacred trust, as a deterrent to aggressive wars."

Churchill told Britain's lawmakers that what the United States did not wish to disclose was the practical production methods of the bombs "developed at enormous expense and on a gigantic scale."

To be effective for Russia, he said, the disclosure would have to take the form of a visit by Soviet specialists, engineers and scientists to United States arsenals.

"Russ Would Keep Secret"

"I am sure," he added, "that were the circumstances reversed and we or the Americans asked for similar access to Russian arsenals, it would not be granted."

[C. D. Howe, Canadian Munitions Minister, said in Ottawa two months ago that the United States was the only nation which knew all the details of the atomic bomb, but that the information would be made available to Britain and Canada if they should ask for it. He said both Britain and Canada had decided for reasons of security not to seek complete details.]

Churchill referred to the Russian leader as that "great man, Marshal Stalin."

"Should Expand Friendship"

"It is the profound desire of the House that those feelings of comradeship and friendship which have been developed between the British and Russian peoples should not only be preserved but should be rapidly expanded," Churchill said.

Churchill's statement came in the midst of widespread speculation in the British press over Stalin's whereabouts. Stalin was not present either yesterday or today at the Moscow celebrations marking the anniversary of the Red revolution.

The leader of Britain's Conservative party opened Common's first full-dress debate of foreign policy since the Labor Government assumed power. He declared Laborites and Conservatives were "still united" in matters of foreign policy although divided domestically.

World Outlook Darker

Churchill declared that the "world outlook is, in several respects, less promising than after the German capitulation of 1918," and added:

"It is our duty to supply the solid grounds on which the hope (for the end of all wars) may rise again and live."

Churchill's Speech Called 'Dangerous'

NOV 8 1945

London, Nov. 7 (AP)—Communist member William Gallacher said today that former Prime Minister Churchill's speech in Commons "was of the most dangerous character."

"It was a speech," the Communist said, "that was a hope of a declaration of war against the progressive forces in Europe and the rest of the world."

His statement brought cries of "no" from the other members.

Swiss Reported Slain In Clash With Italians

London, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Exchange Telegraph Agency in a dispatch tonight from Chiasso, reported several Swiss had been killed in clashes between Swiss frontier guards and Italians on the Swiss-Italian border.

The dispatch described the Italians as "smugglers, deserters and former prisoners of war" and said Swiss authorities were considering sending troops to the area.

House Of Lords Last Hope Of Lord Haw Haw

London, Nov. 7 (AP)—Attorneys for William Joyce, Nazi radio propagandist known as "Lord Haw Haw," said today they would attempt to appeal the case of the convicted traitor to the House of Lords, his last hope of escaping the gallows.

Shortly after the Court of Criminal Correction dismissed an appeal of his conviction this morning, his attorneys announced they would apply to the Attorney General for permission to take the case before the Lords.

'Haw Haw' Loses Plea

London, Nov. 7 (AP)—William Joyce, who won the nickname of "Lord Haw-Haw" for his propaganda broadcasts over the German radio, today was denied an appeal from the conviction on a charge of high treason. Joyce, under sentence of death, took the decision with outward calm.

The next step open to his attorneys is to seek the Attorney General's permission to bring the case before the House of Lords for review.

FRENCH HAIL CURB ON G. I.'S

Tell of Nightly Robberies by Men in U. S. Uniform.

Paris, Nov. 7 (A. P.).—A United States Army order barring American soldiers from public places in Le Havre, an order now extended to a 500-square-mile area, was published prominently on the front pages of the French newspapers today along with stories charging crimes by men wearing American uniforms. The newspapers said that robberies and assaults by such men were running as high as thirty a night in Paris.

One newspaper proposed to dub Paris "the City of Insecurity," to match Le Havre's nickname of "the Port of Bitter Men."

There were no anti-American comments. The press was quick to point out that G. I. uniforms could be a convenient disguise for civilian criminals and that, in any case, individual acts of violence in no way represent the conduct of the army as a whole. There were some anxious editorials addressed to soldiers, however, including one entitled: "Americans, Our Friends."

The Army extended to the entire Le Havre port of embarkation area its order declaring civilian bars, restaurants, theaters, hotels and homes off limits to American troops.

The order was hailed as a "reassuring measure" by a leading Le Havre newspaper, which had previously appealed to the United States Army to do something about "the insecurity of our streets."

In Reims, the largest American redeployment center, the communist Mayor Michel Sicra, who once appealed for a sundown curfew for American soldiers, reported that the situation had "greatly cleared up."

U. S.-French Phone Link to Reopen

British Educator Backs SS Guards

Lueneburg, Germany, Nov. 7 (AP) Prof. H. A. Smith of London University Law School contended today that 45 SS guards charged with killing or mistreating prisoners at the Belsen and Oswiecim concentration camps were innocent of war crimes because it was their duty to obey the "national policy" of their country.

Appearing for the defense, Smith declared concentration camps were established in 1933 as a "part of the national policy for degradation and extermination of the Jewish race," and that the accused were "bound by German law to do their duty."

Summing Up Evidence Near

"Whenever there is a conflict between international and domestic law, it is the duty of a citizen to obey the law of hs country," he added. He argued there was no breach of international law and no war crimes because "we are dealing here with an incident which has no logical connection with the war at all."

Smith acknowledged the defense counsel was asking the military court trying the guards "to take a very difficult and unpopular decision, in view of what we all feel about concentration camps . . . but if you take a longer view of it I feel certain the decision of this court to uphold the law as it governers at the time of the act will be one to go down in history as an act of courageous upholding of the dignity of the law. . . ."

Twelve defending officers will begin their individual summing up of evidence tomorrow, headed by Major Claude Winwood, representing Josef Kramer, the chief defendant, and Dr. Fritz Klein.

British Professor On Stand For Belsen Defense

Lueneburg, Germany, Nov. 7 (AP). A. H. Smith, professor of international law at London University, contended today that the "Beast of Belsen," Josef Kramer, and the 44 other SS attendants on trial here were innocent of war crimes under international law.

Summing up for the defense in the long trial before a British military court, Smith declared:

"It is solely up to the court to determine if the accused are guilty or not guilty in the light of international law. The German Government remains liable for all acts committed under its name and the German Government is responsible for payment of the fullest compensation to all non-German subjects who suffered in concentration camps under its jurisdiction. Nothing that can be said here limits the responsibility of the German Government."

Discusses Nuernberg Trials

Smith contended that any decision of the British court in the case of the concentration camp's personnel should not prejudice future trails. He said the Moscow declaration of 1943 provided that war criminals should be tried in the countries where crimes were committed.

Contrasting the Belsen case with the forthcoming Nuernberg trials, Smith said: "Nobody pretends that the Nuernberg trials are being carried out under existing laws. In fact, I might say lawyers on the whole are doubtful of the whole proceedings. It is; at any rate; a special case governed by a special international agreement of all powers concerned."

SCHUSCHNIGG HAILS TRIALS

Ex-Austrian Chancellor Will Testify Against Nazis

Nuernberg, Germany, Nov. 7 (AP). Kurt Schuschnigg, white-haired former chancellor of Austria who will testify for the prosecution in the war crimes trials scheduled for November 20, visited the trial room today and described it as a symbol of justice for which the world had waited years.

"I knew it would happen as far back as 1943, when Churchill and Roosevelt said the guilty Nazis would be punished," Schuschnigg said.

Schuschnigg declaring he might never return to his native Austria, said he had retired from politics and wanted only to live quietly in Italy.

Tolerance Hope For Russia

He is expected to testify against Arthur Seyss-Inquart, Nazi chancellor of Austria, and Ernst Kaltenbrunner, Nazi chief of security police, who are among the 22 high Nazis awaiting trial.

Schuschnigg said the only hope of Austria's future lay in the tolerance and indulgence of the great powers.

"The savereignty of small of dismembered states is only a fiction," he aserted. "The late Wendell Willkie's idea of 'one world' is the only way. Nations are lost unless they recognize that there is only one world."

Schuschnigg was liberated by the Allies from German imprisonment in the closing stages of the war.

Leftist Trend In Germany

Stuttgart, Nov. 7 (AP)—Heads of three German states in the American zone of occupation predicted today a definite leftward trend in forthcoming elections, but none thought the Communists would gain a majority in any region.

BELGIUM HONORS PATTON

Three French Cities to Confer Award on General

BRUSSELS, Nov. 7 (AP)—Prince Charles, the Regent, conferred the Croix de Guerre and the badge of Grand Officer of the Order of Leopold on Gen. George S. Patton Jr. at the royal palace today.

LONDON, Nov. 7 (AP)—General Patton will be made a freeman of Reims, Verdun and St. Thierry, all liberated by his former command, the American Third Army, in a ceremony in Metz, on Nov. 25, the Paris radio said today.

1,000,000 Pay Honor To Stalin

Moscow, Nov. 7 (AP)—The mighty Red Army and Soviet workers, perhaps 1,000,000 strong, paraded through Red Square in a mammoth celebration of the Red Revolution today, but Generalissimo Stalin—hailed as the artisan of victory by cheering thousands—was unexplainedly not there.

Stalin's place on the reviewing stand, dusted by snow, was Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav M. Molotov.

It was the first time in any Muscovite's memory that Stalin, who has been vacationing in the south, had missed this important celebration of the anniversary of the 1917 Socialist Revolution. No explanation was offered officially.

Stalin Honored In Absence

But Stalin was honored in his absence by a 21-gun salute, thunderous cheers and bands when Gen. Alexei Antonov, Red Army chief of staff, shouted, "Long live our commander in chief, Generalissimo of the Soviet Union Stalin!"

Orders of the day from army and navy chieftains called on Russian soldiers and sailors to continue their training, to guard against the "giddiness of success," and to work for friendship.

Atop Lenin's tomb with Molotov were Government heads and leaders of the Red Army and Navy.

Carrying out the ceremonial tradition, Molotov arrived with the official reviewing party and mounted the stairs alongside the tomb at exactly 10 A.M.

Generals Circle Square

Red Army units from the Moscow garrison began to march after inspecting generals—[illegible] horsemen on sorrel mounts—had circled the square to make sure all was in readiness.

The might of the Red Army, twenty men abreast with bayonets, poured through the square by the thousands. After them came tanks and artillery and "katusha," the famed Red Army weapon consisting of rocket launchers mounted on trucks.

A light snow started falling just as the salute to Stalin ended and the parade began.

Harriman Sees Parade

After the armed forces came hundreds of thousands of civilians—workers and peasants—with banners proclaiming their love for the Soviet Union, their affection for Stalin and their determination to strive for Soviet goals.

Four hours later they were still marching and pouring into Red Square.

Prominent among the parade watchers was United States Ambassador W. Averell Harriman—so far as known the last foreigner to talk to Stalin. Harriman visited the Soviet leader at Stalin's vacation villa at Sochi two weeks ago and returned to Moscow with a report that Stalin was in excellent health.

The cold finally proved too much for most of the diplomats, and they broke ranks to buy hot dogs and buns sold on the edge of the square.

Greetings From Bevin

Today's issue of Izvestia carried greetings to the Soviet leaders from many world personages including Prime Minister Attlee of Great Britain, British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. There were no published messages from President Truman or Secretary of State Byrnes.

[In Washington the White House said that Truman had sent a congratulatory message to Stalin. At the State Department it was said Byrnes did not send one because the occasion called for greetings from a chief of state rather than from the Secretary of State.]

The absence of any published messages from Truman and Byrnes caused immediate comment. Greetings from the late President Roosevelt and former Secretary of State Hull in the past always were among the most prominently displayed messages.

There also were no published messages from General de Gaulle or French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault.

Truman Congratulates Soviet Sends Message to Moscow on Anniversary of Socialist Revolution.

Washington, Nov. 7 (A. P.).—The White House said today that President Truman had sent a message to Moscow congratulating the Russian Government on the twenty-eighth anniversary of the Socialist Revolution.

Reporters brought up the question of the presidential message at a news conference with Eben Ayers, assistant press secretary, on the basis of dispatches from Moscow that no anniversary greeting from either Mr. Truman or Secretary of State Byrnes had been published in the Moscow newspaper.

At the State Department, it was said that Byrnes did not send a message because the occasion called for greetings from a Chief of State rather than from the Secretary of State.

Ayers also was asked about reports, some emanating from the West Coast, that Generalissimo Stalin is or has been in the United States.

"If it is so," Ayers said, "we know nothing about it. The President has no knowledge of it."

Later, the department reported Truman's message was filed at 9:45 A. M. Eastern standard time yesterday. Department officials said that messages sometimes are delayed on transmission because of bad radio conditions.

Even if the message went instantaneously, these officials said, it would not have arrived in Moscow until after newspapers had completed preparations for publication today. They added that they expected Mr. Truman's message to be published in Moscow tomorrow or the next day.

Text of Message.

The State Department subsequently made public the text of President Truman's anniversary message to the Soviets which was addressed to President Mikhail Kalinin of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet. The text of the message follows:

"It gives me great pleasure on this national anniversary of the Union of Soviet Republics to send to your excellency and to the people of the Soviet Union the congratulations and best wishes of the peoples of the United States, as well as my own personal greetings and felicitations.

"Through the joint efforts of our two peoples and their valiant armed forces, in alliance with the other peoples of the United Nations, the forces of aggression in Europe and Asia which constituted so dangerous a threat to the freedom and prosperity of the peoples of the world have been totally defeated in the long bloody struggle. The years ahead offer an unexampled opportunity for achieving peaceful progress and improving the lot of the common man. The recent entry into effect of the United Nations Charter is a happy augury for co-operation between our two peoples and the other free nations of the world in the quest for firm, lasting and universal peace.

"I am confident that the challenge presented as a result of our joint victory over the common enemy will be successfully and constructively met through the continued co-operation of our two peoples during the coming years of peace in the same spirit which animated them during the past four years of war.

"Harry S. Truman."

Chiang Sends Message.

Chungking, Nov. 7 (A. P.).—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek today sent a message of friendship to President Mikhail Kalinin of Russia on the anniversary of the Socialist Revolution, stressing "the ever-increasing ties of friendship" between Russia and China.

The Chinese, Chiang said, believe that the Russian people's contribution to "the maintenance of international peace and security" will equal their contribution to the war against the Axis.

Chiang visited the Soviet embassy here this morning to pay his respects to the Ambassador, and Madame Chiang later attended a reception there.

STALIN ABSENT FROM ANNUAL SOVIET PARADE

This Is First Time He Has Missed Celebration of Revolution.

MOLOTOV TAKES LIMELIGHT

His Remarks on Atomic Energy Become Main Topic in Red Square.

Moscow, Nov. 7 (A. P.).—Generalissimo Stalin, for the first time since he became the leader of Soviet Russia, failed to attend the massive parade of soldiers and civilians celebrating the Socialist Revolution in Red Square.

The Premier broke a precedent earlier by allowing Foreign Commissar Molotov to deliver the "State of the Nation" address at

NOV 8 1945

St. Andrew Hall in the Kremlin last night. Stalin did not attend. Foreign diplomats suggested that perhaps he remained away to take none of the attention from Molotov.

Stalin was reported yesterday to have returned to Moscow from a month-long vacation in the south of Russia.

The troops and civilian marchers started pouring through Red Square around high noon and streets for miles around the center of Moscow were filled with tanks, armored cars, parachutists, infantry, cadets, sailors, motorcycle [illegible] mobile gun groups who [illegible]mb of Lenin.

Papers Carry Greetings

[illegible]orkers by the thousands carried banners and slogans.

Newspapers carried greetings from world leaders on this twenty-eighth anniversary of the revolution, but messages from President Truman and Secretary of State James F. Byrnes were conspicuously missing.

Congratulations of Prime Minister Attlee and Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin of Britain were featured prominently in Izvestia, which also carried a message from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. In past years, messages from President Roosevelt have been among the most prominently displayed.

Nearly half the front pages of the newspapers were occupied by a photograph of Stalin in a white summer uniform jacket, wearing his golden star of Hero of Soviet Labor. The photograph appeared to be recent. It bore no caption. Stalin will be 66 on December 21.

Much Space To Molotov

Much of the remaining newspaper space was devoted to Molotov's address, in which the Foreign Commissar asserted that the secret of atomic energy should be a world-wide matter and not confined to any single nation or group of nations.

Millions heard the speech by radio last night; it was read and reread by announcers again this morning.

Molotov's remarks about atomic energy appeared to be the leading topic of conversation among the celebrating millions. A typical comment was that Russia should be given the secret, but would learn it anyway if the United States, Great Britain and Canada did not share it.

Vassilevsky Issues Order

Marshall Alexander M. Vassilevsky, Deputy Commissar of Defense, issued an order of the day to the Red Army telling it to "study and learn with persistence" the lessons of the World War II and shoulder the task of becoming "the faithful guardians of our socialistic nation."

The marshal, who commanded the brief Red Army campaign against Japan, declared the chief task of freedom-loving peoples was "to secure in deeds" a firm and everlasting peace. He said the Red Army had rightful pride that the "decisive role in winning the war belongs to the Soviet Union."

Fleet Admiral Nikolai Kuznetsov, Commissar of the Navy, issued an order of the day to the sea fighters saying "the great leader Stalin demands of the fleet a constant training program and a learning from the experience of the patriotic war."

Warns Against Complacency

The admiral warned the Navy against complacency in victory.

Vassilevsky admonished the army that "there can be no place for giddiness from success." He said history was full of examples of victorious armies losing their fame because of conceit, indifference or failure to learn.

He told the Soviet Union that the new five-year plan must be fulfilled to gain a further blossoming of "material and spiritual forces of the country."

"In international relations," Vassilevsky declared, "the Soviet Union occupies a worthy and becoming place. Democratic masses of other countries see in our nation a reliable stronghold of peace."

U.S.S.R. 'Entering Period Of Peace'

London, Nov. 7 (AP)—Gen. Alexei Antonov, Red Army chief of staff, told a cheering crowd in Moscow today that Russia had "entered the period of peaceful development," but warned that the Soviet armed forces must "continue to perfect themselves" instead of resting on their laurels.

Antonov's address, broadcast by the Moscow radio and recorded in London, was a highlight of the celebration of the twenty-eighth anniversary of the Red revolution.

"Bulwark Of Freedom"

"The Red Army in the future will be a reliable bulwark of the freedom and independence of the socialistic motherland," Antonov declared. "It stood and will stand in the first rank of the United Nations in defense of the peace and security of the peoples of the democratic countries."

Marshal Alexander M. Vassilevsky and Admiral of the Fleet Nikolai Kuznetsov previously had issued orders of the day in which they declared that Soviet forces played "a decisive role" in the defeat of the Axis.

Antonov said the Soviet victories were the result of the "organizing and inspiring role of the Bolshevik party, the result of the correct and wise leadership of the Soviet Government and our great leader and commander of genius, Comrade Stalin."

"Long Live Stalin"

He asserted that "in the period of peaceful reconstruction" upon which she already has embarked Russia will achieve "a new blossoming of the national economy and culture and will still further consolidate the economic and military might of the state."

A wild burst of cheers greeted Antonov, the Soviet monitor said, as he concluded with the cry:

"Long live our beloved leader and commander, Generalissimo of the Soviet Union, Comrade Stalin."

Stalin Breaks Precedent

There was no reference in the broadcast to the whereabouts of Stalin, who broke a precedent last night by letting Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov deliver the annual speech opening the anniversary celebration at St. Andrew's Hall in the Kremlin.

Eisenhower and Zhukoff Toast Allies' Friendship

By The Associated Press.

BERLIN, Nov. 7—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower toasted the Allies' friendship with Marshal Georgi K. Zhukoff tonight in a palace of the Hohenzollerns on this twenty-eighth anniversary of Soviet Russia's birth.

General Eisenhower flew here from Frankfort on the Main for the celebration. The Russian military governor of eastern Germany invited more than 1,000 foreign guests to Caecilienhof, the family home of the former German Crown Prince and site of the Big Three's meeting last summer. He greeted each guest in the banquet hall where President Truman, Generalissimo Stalin and Prime Minister Attlee signed their declaration.

General Eisenhower was the ranking guest. Britain was represented by Lieut. Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's deputy. Over glasses of Russian vodka, French champagne and Polish fruit wine, the party got into full swing around dusk.

EISENHOWER TOAST PLEASES ZHUKOV

NOV 8 1945

Berlin, Nov. 7 (A. P.)—Gen. Eisenhower toasted Allied friendship with beaming Marshal G. K. Zhukov tonight in a palace of the Hohenzollers on the twenty-eighth anniversary of Soviet Russia's birth. Eisenhower flew here from Frankfurt for the celebration.

The Russian Military Governor of Eastern Germany invited more than 1,000 foreign guests to Cecilienhof, family home of the former German Crown Prince and site of the Big Three meeting last summer. Zhukov greeted each guest in the banquet hall, where President Truman, Generalissimo Stalin and Prime Minister Attlee signed their tripartite declaration. Eisenhower was the ranking guest.

Great Britain was represented by Lieut.-Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, Field Marshal Montgomery's deputy.

Over glasses of Russian Vodka, French champagne and Polish fruit wine, the party got into full swing around dusk. Two enterprising American soldiers "crashed" the festivities simply by writing themselves invitations on a Russian keyboard typewriter and putting on the invitations impressive but meaningless stamps in English.

TURKISH-SOVIET PACT ENDS AFTER 25 YEARS

LONDON, Nov. 7 (AP) Turkey's 25-year-old treaty of friendship and non-aggression with Russia ended today but, despite the usual welter of rumors, there was a discernable atmosphere of increasing optimism over the continuation of good neighborliness.

There is no evidence of any new pact likely to be forthcoming soon to replace the one denounced by Russia last March. Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov suggested at that time that discussions be held to reach the basis of a new agreement and Turkey asked Russia to set forth her views.

Turkey's Foreign Minister, Hassen Saka, explained the current situation today at a closed session of the national party's parliamentary council. He also explained the American memorandum on the Dardanelles strait, which is reported to have been exceedingly well received.

This note, in which America assertedly said she could not support any action jeopardizing Turkish territory and rights, did much to ease the tension which had been mounting steadily. British and Russian notes on the vital Strait's matter still are unreceived.

Four Point Program Is Unveiled by United States.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. — (AP) The United States today unveiled a four-point program for decreasing Turkish authority over the Dardanelles and giving the United Nations a voice in its military use.

The program would result in greater rights for Russia in the use of the vital straits between the Mediterranean and the Black sea, but would not give Russia all she wants. Particularly, it withholds American approval from a Russian proposal for Soviet military bases on the straits.

The disclosure came from Secretary of State Byrnes on the very day on which Russia's long-standing treaty of friendship and non-aggression with Turkey expired after being denounced several months ago.

There was a general assumption at the State department that one of Russia's primary objectives in knocking this treaty on the head was to bring psychological pressure on Turkey in order to win concessions over the Dardanelles. On the straits question, the United States, Russia and Britain are all making separate approaches to the government at Ankara.

U. S. Favors Changes

The straits at present are governed by a treaty made at Montreux, Switzerland, a decade ago. Byrnes told his news conference that the United States had written the Ankara government a letter saying that the United States favors these four steps for revision of the Montreux convention:

1. The Straits should be open to the merchant vessels of all nations at all times. They are generally open now except that Turkey may limit passage of merchant vessels in time of war or threat of war.

2. The Straits should be open to the warships of the Black sea powers at all times. At present the warships of any belligerent power may be barred by a neutral Turkey. This puts Russia, as the foremost Black sea power, at a considerable disadvantage in wartime.

3. Except for limited tonnage in peacetime, warships of non-Black sea powers would be denied passage through the straits unless the Black sea powers consented or the United Nations granted authority for passage. The peacetime tonnage figure would have to be decided at an international conference. The present maximum for non-Black sea warships in that sea at any one time is 45,000 tons, Byrnes said.

4. The Montreux convention should be modernized by eliminating Japan as a signatory nation and by substituting the United Nations for the old League of Nations at various points.

Asked whether the United States which has no direct interest in that area would like to become a member of the international combine controlling the straits, Byrnes said that this government is entirely willing to become a member.

Independence Protected

Dispatches had come from Ankara last Sunday saying in effect that the United States had assured Turkey she would refuse to support any action which might jeopardize Turkish independence or territory.

Byrnes said the Ankara stories were incorrect and it was for that reason that he was giving out the American position. He said he was setting something of a precedent in giving out the substance of an American position before a foreign government had replied to the message informing it of that opinion.

Garrett D. Horner, reporter for the Washington Star, said newsmen had been trying to get this information since Monday and he wondered why it had been so long delayed. Byrnes said he did not know that the reporters had any right to demand the information, that he had concluded only today that he would give it out and that he wasn't giving it out in any belief that the reporters have a right to know it.

On other aspects of United States-Russian relations, Byrnes said he would not comment on Foreign Commissar Molotov's speech yesterday in which Molotov asserted that Russia would have atomic energy and discussed other international questions.

Byrnes was told there had been reports that Ambassador W. Averell Harriman had not actually seen Generalissimo Stalin on his recent visit to the Russian leader's vacation place. Byrnes said that Harriman reported holding two conversations with the generalissimo and commented that his health was fine.

New Debate On Leopold

Brussels, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Belgian Senate decided today to reopen debate Saturday on a proposal to allow King Leopold III to return from exile to his throne. The Catholic party made the proposal.

Medical Relief for Italy

ROME, Nov. 7 (AP)—Dr. Charles Muzzicato of New York, chairman of the American Medical Relief for Italy organization, told Crown Prince Humbert today that his group would send Italy $250,000 worth of medical supplies by the end of November.

Jews Thank Pope

aVtican City, Nov. 7 (AP)—Reuben Resnik, director of the American Hebrew Association for Distribution of American Aid to Italian Jews, thanked Pope Pius XII in an audience today for helping Italian Jews during Fascist and Nazi persecutions.

Hungarians Study Coalition Cabinet

Budapest, Nov. 7 (AP)—Hungarian party leaders conferred tonight in an attempt to form a coalition cabinet as complete unofficial returns from Sunday's national elections gave the Small Holders party 60 per cent of the total vote cast.

While official returns will not be available until late tomorrow, it was indicated that 4,890,901 of the 5,500,000 registered voted as follows:

Small Holders	2,869,995
Social Democrats	834,608
Communists	790,327
Peasants	321,658
Civic Democrats	74,313

Of 421 seats mandated for Parliament, 10 will go to outstanding non-party men and the remainder will be allotted: Small Holders, 246; Social Democrats, 71; Communists, 69; Peasants, 22, and the Civic Democrats, 3.

The new Parliament is expected to meet by November 15. There has been no decision yet as to who will be president, but Zoltan Tildy, head of the Small Holders party, is premier-designate.

TRIPOLI RIOTS NEARLY ENDED

74 Jews And One Arab Killed In Three Days Of Disorders

Fred Kriel

Cairo, Nov. 7 (AP)—Seventy-four Jews and one Arab were killed in anti-Jewish rioting the last three days in Tripolitania, but a curfew and "shoot-to-kill" orders to troops tonight had suppressed disorders in most of the Mediterranean colony.

NIGHT

Arab mobs looted Jewish quarters and assaulted Jews in Tripoli, Souk el Juma and Tagiura "in a serious outbreak of rioting, violence and arson" started on Sunday night, British headquarters declared.

Tripoli itself was under heavy guard today and "the provinces remained generally quiet except for the eastern provinces where disturbances were reported from Cussabat and Zliten," a communiqué said.

Minor Clash In Holy Land

Rioting, blamed by the British on "irresponsible elements who in a large majority of cases came from the Arab section of the population," hospitalized 183 Jews, 36 Arabs and 2 Italians.

The new Arab-Jewish clashes followed rioting last week in Egypt, in protest of a national home in Palestine for Jews, in which ten persons were reported killed and 520 injured.

Palestine police today announced one Arab was knifed in a minor clash between Jews and Arabs in the northern part of the Holy Land.

Troops and police in Tripoli were ordered to "shoot all looters and to fire if necessary to disperse groups of more than five persons." A 9 P.M. to 5 A.M. curfew was imposed there Monday, and then extended from 5 P.M. to 6 A.M. throughout all of Tripolitania, the Italian colony where Allied and Axis armies battled in the North African campaigns.

Looting Flares Again

Riots started in Tripoli when "an Arab mob attacked the Jewish quarter" there, the communiqué said, and despite heavy guards, looting, incendiarism and "isolated brutal assaults of Arabs upon Jews" flared again Monday morning. Rumors were spread charging Jews with crimes against Arabs, British said.

On Monday, "undisciplined Arab mobs looted and gutted the Jewish quarter at Souk el Juma and Tagiura," the communiqué said, adding it was now known "that the Jews suffered 36 killed at Souk el Juma and four killed at Tagiura," 5 miles east of Tripoli, with many more injured.

Cussabat and Zliten, where disorders still were reported Tuesday, are 52 and 85 miles east of Tripoli.

Subsersive Elements Arrested

Subversive Arab elements have been arrested, British said.

Tripolitania and Cyrenaica to the east make up the great Italian colony of Libya, whose people have been demanding independence from Italy. The Arab League is supporting their demand. Tripolitania is being administered temporarily by the British on behalf of the Allies.

The British statement declared: "These acts of violence which are unprecedented in the history of Tripolitania (which always had been characterized by friendship and mutual good will between Arabs and Jews) were the work of irresponsible elements who in a large majority of cases came from the Arab section of the population.

"Leading local personalities both among the Arabs and Jews have disassociated themselves firmly from the lawbreakers and expressed their deep regret for the occurrencies.

Curb On Meetings

"Irresponsible elements in Tripoli also attempted to stir up feelings against Jews by spreading false and malicious rumors, alleging that the Qadi (head of the Arab Advisory Council) had been murdered and that Sharia court had been set on fire, allegations which were patently untrue."

The communiqué said British Brigadier Temple, commander at Tripoli, had told members of the Allied Advisory Council that they "must exercise their influence and authority to the full in re-establishing law and order." He banned meetings of more than five persons, warned that other measures might be taken to maintain order, prohibited the carrying of any weapons even sticks and said plunderers would be killed.

Nearly 900,000 In Tripolitania

Tripolitania is the colony over which Russia reportedly asked for sole trusteeship at the recent London Foreign Ministers' Conference. Its population of nearly 900,000 includes 89,000 Italians, 763,000 Moslems and 30,000 Jews.

The Palestine clash broke out when an Arab legion patrol on frontier duty, questioning thirteen Jews stopped near the Minara settlement in the Safed district, was attacked by another group of Jews, the police communiqué said. One Arab was knifed and another knocked out, and the Jews fled when the Arabs fired two shots into the air, it added.

74 Jews, 1 Arab Die In Riots In Tripolitania

Cairo, Nov. 7 (AP)—The British Ministry of Information announced today that 74 Jews and 1 Arab had been killed in anti-Jewish outbreaks in Tripolitania.

DAY

Troops and police in Tripoli, metropolitan center of the Italian colony in North Africa, were ordered to "shoot all looters and fire if necessary to disperse groups of more than five persons."

Seeking Independence

With support of the Arab League, Libyans are seeking independence from Italy. The colony is made up of Tripolitania, the western section, and Cirenaica, the eastern.

Russia openly expressed interest in some form of control over Tripolitania during the conference of five Foreign Ministers in London, indicating she might ask a share in administering that colony and Eritrea.

Foreign Commisar Vyacheslav M. Molotov told newsmen at the conference that there was "a grain of truth" in reports that Russia wanted sole trusteeship over Tripolitania, in a discussion on disposition of Italy's colonies in North Africa.

Curfew Imposed

The Ministry of Information communiqué said stern measures, including the imposition of a curfew, had been enforced to put down "a serious outbreak of rioting, violence and arson by the Arabs against the Jews in Tripoli city Sunday night."

"Arrests have been made of subversive Arab elements," it said.

In addition to those killed, 83 Jews, 36 Arabs and two Italians were hospitalized.

The Ministry said the rioting started when an "Arab mob attacked the Jewish quarter" of Tripoli.

Unprecedented By Tripolitania

It added:

"These acts of violence, which are unprecedented in the history of Tripolitania (which had always been characterized by friendship and the mutual good will of Arabs and Jews) were the work of irresponsible elements who, in a large majority of cases, came from the Arab section of the population. Leading local personalities, both among the Arabs and Jews, have disassociated themselves firmly from the lawbreakers and have expressed their deep regret for the occurrences."

The communiqué said the provinces remained "generally quiet except for the eastern province."

"Cases of incendiarism and isolated brutal assaults of Arabs upon Jews," were reported by the communiqué, hich charged that "irresponsible elements in Tripoli also attempted to stir up feelings against the Jews by spreading false and malicious rumors."

The communiqué said that through Monday night, although the city of Tripoli itself remained quiet, heavy patrols were maintained and "undisciplined Arab mobs looted and gutted the Jewish quarter."

A curfew imposed Monday upon Tripoli between the hours of 9 P.M. and 5 A.M. was extended Tuesday throughout Tripolitania.

Brigadier Temple, British military commander at Tripoli, told members of the Allied Advisory Council that they "must exercise their influence and authority to the full in re-establishing law and order."

Warning On Meetings

The communiqué said Temple issued the warning that "a meeting of more than five persons would be dispersed by force including opening fire, if necessary."

"The Administration will not hesitate to continue or increase these measures until peace is restored," it added.

Carrying sticks or weapons of "any nature" was proclaimed an offense, and any violation was ordered "severely dealt with." Plundering was made punishable by death.

Independence Movement

Leading members of the Tripolitanian National Unity Party were reported to have been arrested in Tripoli last September after a demonstration for national independence during which their followers clashed with Italians.

Abdel Rahman Azzem Bey, secretary of the Arab League, declared at that time that the Tripolitanians were prepared to fight rather than accept domination by any foreign power. This Nationalist movement in Tripolitania has its counterpart in Syria and Lebanon, where the natives have attempted to gain complete independence from the French.

Libya's area is estimated at 679,358 square miles. Its population of almost 900,000 includes some 89,000 Italians, 763,000 Moslems and 30,000 Jews.

Libya was a major battleground during the war. Field Marshal Rommel drove through Libya in his attempt to reach Alenxandria and the Suez Canal—an attempt that the British halted and threw back at El Alamein.

In London, a British Colonial Office spokesman said today that Tripolitania was being administered by the British temporarily on behalf of the Allies.

The disorder there underscored the problem of the future administration of Italian colonies—a question left hanging by the collapse of the recent London Foreign Ministers Conference.

Trusteeship Suggested

While Russia hinted at a desire for sole trusteeship over Tripolitania, the United States has suggested that the area be placed under an international trusteeship.

Italy acquired control of the area in 1911, abandoned it during the first World War and regained control in the early Twenties. The United States has been at war twice with Tripolitania, as a result of Tripolitanian piratical practices in the Nineteenth Century.

British-Ousted Writer Gets Re-Entry Permit

New York, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Overseas News Agency tonight released a dispatch from its correspondent, Constantine Poulos, in Cairo in which Poulos said that because British authorities had not offered a satisfactory explanation for their request that he be expelled from Palestine, United States army headquarters had issued him a re-entry permit for the Holy Land.

Poulos's dispatch said that he had been in Palestine only a week when he was expelled October 23, and that he had filed only one dispatch. In this he said he compared the situation in the Holy Land with what he had seen in Greece a year ago on the eve of the Greek Civil War.

INDONESIANS PRESENT PLAN

Propose British Contact Units To Avert Clashes

MOTON

Batavia, Java, Nov. 7 (AP)—Indonesian leaders today submitted to the British a plan to preserve peace in Java while British troops finish disarming the Japanese and rescuing thousands of European interness menaced by extreme nationalists.

NIGHT

President Soekarno and Foreign Minister Soebardjo of the "Indonesian republic" proposed the plan during a meeting this morning with Lieutenant General Sir Philip Christison, Allied commander in the Dutch East Indies.

The two Indonesian leaders were expected to confer again today with Hubertus J. van Mook, acting governor general, on the deadlocked Dutch-Indonesian dispute over long-range plans for the Indies. Late in the day there was no word of such a conference.

Urges Contact Bureaus

Soekarno suggested to Christison that Java be divided into a number of regions where contact bureaus would be set up consisting of Indonesian local leaders and British officers. This, Soekarno said, would permit the British to carry out their task without further clashes with the Indonesians because the way would be paved in advance by co-operation in the contact bureaus.

Observers believed that Christison would readily accept the plan. Such arrangements already have been made at the Dutch naval base of Soerabaja and at Magelang, but only after serious fighting between British troops and the Indonesians.

Separate statements issued yesterday by Van Mook and Soekarno showed that the Dutch and Indonesians were still far divided. Van Mook proposed a type of dominion status for the Indies under which the Indonesians would share equally in the development of the country, but Soekarno insisted on complete independence.

Only One Stipulation

Apparently the only stipulation the Soekarno Cabinet made before agreeing to meet Van Mook again was that the Dutch recognize their right to self-determination. The Dutch news agency Aneta quoted Soebardjo as saying that he "personally" would be willing to settle the dispute by a plebescite.

Soekarno Government's leaders say that when, and if, they are recognized as the de facto government, they will make a treaty with the Dutch guaranteeing the safety of Dutch private property and will welcome the Dutch on the same basis as other nationals in developing the economy of the country.

Java generally was quiet, but the British Army newspaper said an "uneasy situation" existed at Magelang because of large concentrations of armed youth in that area.

Thirty-one armed Indonesians were arrested in Batavia.

Soekarno will go to Jogjakarto, Java's ancient capital, on Friday to address a national gathering of Indonesian youth movements.

Protest To Mountbatten

New York, Nov. 7 (AP)—A protest against British abandonment of press conferences which provided information on military activities in the Netherlands East Indies was forwarded today to Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten by Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press.

NOV 8 1945

Groups Seeking Compromise In Java

Batavia, Java, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Dutch and Indonesian Nationalists remained at odds today in their search for a compromise to end the bloody strife in the Netherlands East Indies.

Soekarno and Soebardjo, who style themselves President and Foreign Minister of the "Indonesian republic," conferred again with the Allied commander, British Lieut. Gen. Sir Philip Christison. They were expected also to meet informally again with H. V. van Mook, lieutenant governor of the rich islands.

Van Mook has offered the Indonesians a type of dominion status under the Dutch Queen, with the Indonesians sharing equally in the development of the country. Soekarno and his followers insisted they would accept nothing short of complete independence.

Both Sides Jockeying

Separate statements of the two camps yesterday showed that the parties could agree only on the single point that it would be better for Indonesia if the Dutch and Indonesians could live happily together.

Both sides were jockeying for position in which world opinion will play a most important role.

At the morning conference, Soekarno proposed to divide Java into regional sections where contact bureaus would be established to effect liaison between British officers and Indonesian local leaders. Soekarno said this would enable the British to go into any area to disarm Japanese and rescue internees, because the way would be paved by the cooperating councils of British and natives.

To Address Youth Gathering

Soekarno said he would go to Jogjakarta Friday to address a national gathering of Indonesian youth movements.

The British Army newspaper said an "uneasy situation" prevailed at Magelang, where considerable bands of armed youths were concentrated. In Batavia, the British arrested 31 such armed men but others escaped after being warned by a native policeman.

2 Hurt in Australia At Anti-Dutch Riot

Sydney, Nov. 7 (A. P.).—Two persons were injured today when 200 members of the Communist party staged a demonstration on a wharf at Wooloomooloo where a transport was waiting to depart for Java with 1,600 Dutch soldiers. A barrage of bottles and plates was hurled from the ship when the demonstrators booed the soldiers.

CHINESE REDS CLAIM CAPTURE OF TWO GENERALS

Report 70,000 Government Troops Routed in Undeclared Civil War.

TO REMOVE MARINES

Secretary Byrnes Announces U. S. Troops to Leave 'Hot Spots'

CHUNGKING, Thursday, Nov. 8—(AP) Chinese Communists have captured two Central government Army commanders—one reportedly committed suicide—in southern Hopeh province and forced the government armies to retreat, a military spokesman acknowledged today.

The scene of this reversal in China's undeclared civil war is the same one where the Communists claim they have routed 70,000 government troops.

The spokesman said one of the captured generals was Ma Fah Wu, commander of the 41st army. He is understood to have committed suicide. The other was Kao Shu Hsun, commander of the Eighth army.

The spokesman accused the Communists of circulating unfounded rumors about the two generals "in an effort to throw dust in the eyes of the public."

The Communists had claimed a number of generals and the bulk of their troops had surrendered.

The spokesman's version was that the 8th and 41st armies were attacked north of Tzehsien in Hopeh by several tens of thousands of Communists, were "taken unawares and were unable to concentrate in time to ward off the assault."

Captured on Oct. 30

He said their commanders were captured the night of Oct. 30 at different points and their armies subsequently withdrew southward to await orders from Chungking.

A semi-official dispatch claimed government successes in clashes with Communists in southern Honan and northern Hopeh.

The dispatch said Communists attacking Tangho and Sinyeh in Honan and the Han River towns of Siangyang and Fangchun in Hopeh were driven into the mountains where the Reds "say they will make a first stand."

The dispatch said about 30,000 Communists are concentrated at Tsaochow in western Shantung province, preparing to attack the Lunghai railroad.

Fighting on Many Fronts

Intensified fighting flared on several fronts and both Chinese and foreign quarters in Chungking agreed that the situation is nearly beyond repair and full-scale war is almost inevitable.

The Communists claimed:

1. Decisive defeat of eight government divisions, totalling 70,000 men, during which the Reds tightened their grip on the Peiping-Hankow rail line and recaptured the Hopeh province rail junction of Tzehsien on Oct. 25—blocking the northward movement of Chiang's troops along that route.

2. Under able Gen. Ho Lung, the Communists drew their fiery siege ring tighter around Kweisui, capital of inner-Mongolian Suiyuan province. Other Red forces battled for the besieged rail junction of Tatung to the east and prepared to assault Paotow to the west.

3. To the south, Communists attacked in force several points along the Tatung-Puchow railroad, including Hwohsien in southern Shansi province. (The Central government admitted loss of several towns west of the railroad but said it had beaten off more than 30 attacks on the railway itself in four days.)

4. Large Communist reinforcements are pouring into Suiyuan province, and surrender of many of the 70,000 Nationalists along the Peiping-Hankow railroad brought the Reds new weapons. Most troops of the Nationalist 30th and 40th armies yielded with their arms, Reds said.

(The government contended that the Communists were forcibly conscripting manpower in Shansi province, including all males between 15 and 40.)

Asked for comment on the Communist claims of victory, K. C. Wu, Minister of Information, declared: "Communists have circulated so many fabrications that it's no use denying one after another."

The Government claimed:

1. Communists had breached dikes and flooded hundreds of square miles near the highway junction of Taikang in eastern Honan province.

2. Communists' operations west of Kweisui have left 100,000 Chinese homeless; the Communists, said Gen. Fu Tso-yi, have burned villages in all directions around Kweisui, as well as destroyed most of the Peiping-Suiyan railroad between Paotow (west of Kweisui) and Tatung (east of Kweisui).

3. Communists are planning a drive on Taiyuan, capital of Shansi province, if they capture Kweisui.

No Reply To Peace Bid

Communist headquarters at Yenan meanwhile made no reply to the Government's week-old peace proposals.

The Central Government through a spokesman offered only a "no comment" on whether Russia has agreed to permit nationalist troops to land at the Manchurian ports of Dairen and Port Arthur, to replace Russian occupation forces in Manchuria. A Yingkow (Manchuria) dispatch said negotiations for landings there were continuing. Seaborne landings would be the Government's only recourse if overland routes to the north are cut.

U. S. to Remove Marines From China's 'Hot Spots'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—(AP)

The United States is planning to withdraw its Marines from the hot spots in China, Secretary of State Byrnes said today.

His disclosure at a news conference coincided with word from Chungking that a full scale war appears imminent between the government forces of Generalissimo Ching Kai-Shek and the North China Communist armies.

The Marines, reported to total two divisions, went into North China several weeks ago to take over strategic spots from the surrendering Japanese and hold them for release to Chinese government forces. The U. S. Navy and Army airforces then began transporting these government forces to the places where the Marines were holding out, notably such cities as Peiping and Tientsin.

Officials amplifying Byrnes' terse announcement said that it did not reflect any basic change in American policy toward China—a policy which strongly supports Generalissimo Chiang—but means that the northern cities soon will be turned over to Chinese government forces.

These officials, who are experts on Chinese questions, said the real decision on policy will come on pending proposals for supplying American officers to the Chinese army and otherwise giving Chiang Kai-Shek long range assistant.

Clarifies Situation

Following Byrnes' news conference a State Department press officer seeking to clarify the situation made these two points about American assistance to the Chungking armies:

1. When the Japanese war ended the United States had completed equipping and training about 20 Chinese divisions out of 39 scheduled to receive that aid. So far as the State Department knows the 19 others are still being trained and equipped.

2. All lend-lease of military supplies was ended as of August 20 but President Truman's order allowed for exceptions in emergency situations and to cover hardship cases. Under these exceptions Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer could transfer to the Chinese government troops any equipment he desired on a lend-lease basis.

Communists Tell Of Defeating

70,000

Chungking, Nov. 7 (AP)—Chinese Communists claimed a victory today over 70,000 Nationalist troops in fighting along the Peiping-Hankow railroad as the Kuomingtang official news agency reported intensified battling throughout the provinces of Shansi and Suiyuan.

The Communists also said they had recaptured the Hopeh province rail junction of Tzehsien October 25. The already strained relations between Yenan and Chungking were further endangered by the Communist claims.

Under the veteran Gen. Ho Lung, the Communists are tightening a ring of steel around Kweisui, Suiyuan capital, while other Red columns move from the west, preparatory to assaulting the important city of Paotow, also on the Peiping-Suiyuan railroad.

Reds Getting Reinforcements

Large Communist reinforcements are pouring into the province, the Nationalist dispatches said.

Meanwhile, the Yenan forces continued their attacks against the beleaguered rail junction of Tatung in northern Shansi. In the south of the province, Communists were attacking different points along the Tatung-Puchow railroad, including Hohien.

Loss of several towns west of the railroad was acknowledged by the Central Government, but it contended that Kuomintang forces beat off more than 30 attacks against Chaocing in four days.

Area Reported Flooded

A semi-official dispatch reported the Reds had breached the Yellow river dyke near the important highway center of Taiyang in eastern Honan, inundating hundreds of square miles of territory and flooding many towns and villages. The flood threatened to engulf Taiyang.

Further Communist destruction to railroads north of the Yangtze also was charged.

Forces over which the Communists claimed "victory" in the Hopeh fighting included eight divisions, three "equipped with American arms and noted for their combat powers."

The Communist claims, if true, meant that the movement of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's armies along the Peiping-Hankow Railroad toward North China and Manchuria had been smashed.

High Officers Surrender

The Communists said their "victory" over the Government forces along the Peiping-Hangkow Railroad was scored against troops belonging to the 8th, 13th and 40th armies.

The Communists asserted that most of the Central Government troops involved capitulated with their arms. They said that high Government officers who surrendered included Gen. Ma Fa Wu, deputy commander in chief of the 11th War Zone; Gen. Sung Yen-tan, chief of staff of the 11th War Zone.

The statement also listed the name of four divisional commanders likewise alleged to have surrendered.

Demands Punishment

Another official statement from Yenan demanded the arrest and punishment of Gen. Soy In-chin, commander in chief of the Chinese Army, accused of "engineering offensive by 800,000 troops against the liberated areas" dominated by the Communists.

Yenan also clamored for the arrest and punishment of the governor of Shantung, and the governor of Shansi and Gen. Yen Shi-shan.

The Communists branded the three as reactionary pro-Japanese with the Kuomintang who are underminig the national interests since Japan's surrender.

Seamen In China Reported Seized

San Francisco, Nov. 7 (AP)—Charles Miner, Mutual Broadcasting System's correspondent at Shanghai, reported today that a news blackout was clamped down at United States Army headquarters there following the reported seizure by Chinese Communists of several American crewmen from a Liberty ship in the Chinwangtao area.

Newsmen dependent on British sources were told, Miner reported, that some seamen were seized by the Communists, but that some later were released.

An American army spokesman in Shanghai, Miner added, refused to discuss the matter and the United States consul general's office referred inquiries to the Tientsin consulate, saying only "vague" reports had been received on the incident.

Soldiers Booed By Communists

Sydney, Nov. 7 (AP)—Two persons were injured today when 200 members of the Communist party staged a demonstration on a wharf at Wooloomooloo where a transport was waiting to depart for Java with Dutch soldiers. A barrage of bottles and plates was hurled from the ship when the demonstrators booed the soldiers.

U.S. Seamen Reported Seized By China Reds

Shanghai, Nov. 7 (AP)—The reported seizure by Chinese Communists of several American crewmen from a Liberty ship in the Chingwangtao area today brought a prompt news blackout at United States Army Headquarters here.

Newsmen, dependent on British sources, were told that some seamen were seized by the Chinese Communists but some were released with apologies.

American Army spokesmen refused to discuss the matter and the United States Consul General's office here said only that "vague" reports had been received.

Referred To Tientsin

Inquiries were referred to the Tientsin consulate, from which replies were unavailable.

The known facts are the presence in North China of American Marines and the operation of several Liberty ships, arousing considerable resentment among the Communists.

This has produced an anti-American propoganda campaign and at least two minor shooting incidents in which there were no casualties.

First UNRRA Ships in China

SHANGHAI, Nov. 7 (AP)—The first UNRRA relief shipments to China arrived today aboard two United States freighters carrying processed wheat, clothing and machinery. The Davy Crockett docked from Manila with 243,000 bushels of soft cracked wheat. The Emile Vidal was filled with clothing, food, road-building equipment and miscellaneous cargo.

Chiang's Korean Pledge Hailed By Seoul Leaders

Seoul, Korea, Nov. 7 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang's pledge that China will consult with United States, Britain and Russia on Korean self-government was greeted in Seoul today with optimism among political leaders.

"We are doing everything we can to prepare Korea for independence," remarked Lieut. Gen. John Hodge, commanding American army forces in Korea's southern occupation zone. (Russians control northern Korea.)

Dr. Syngman Rhee, elderly Korean patriot and spokesman for political unification drive, observed that "Chiang Kai-shek's offer to consult with other nations will be a large contribution toward peace in the Far East, and an independent and free Korea is the only solution."

U.S. Flyers Who Fell In Borneo Disappeared

Labuan Island, North Borneo, Nov. 6 [AP—Delayed]—Although scores of American airmen crashed or parachuted into Borneo, not one of them has been found alive, nor have their graves been identified, Australian officers said today.

Borneo was the scene of death marches in which white prisoners died hourly. Their bodies were stripped of identification and hastily buried along the way.

The Australians said the Japanese informed them that most Australian, British, Dutch and American prisoners of war in British Borneo at any time was 4,730 in April, 1943, including about 300 civilians, most of them Dutch nuns. Of more than 4,300 known not to have left Borneo, only 1,390 have been found.

DENIED TRAVEL PERMIT

BOMBAY, Nov. 7. — (AP) Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, a leader of the Indian Congress Party, said today he had been officially informed that his request for travel facilities to the Netherlands East Indies could not be granted under existing circumstances. Indonesian nationalists invited Nehru to make an inspection tour of the islands.

Paper Control To Be Suspended

Cape Town, Nov. 7 (AP)—All paper control will be suspended in South Africa after December 1, it was announced today. A government mission to Britain, Canada, the United States and Scandinavia has arrangements for greatly increased quantities of paper, paperboard and allied products, to reach South Africa during 1946.

1,300 WORKERS LEAVE BASE AT PEARL HARBOR

HONOLULU, Nov. 7.—(AP) Thirteen hundred Pearl Harbor Navy yard workers will depart for the mainland tomorrow in the largest exodus of civilian employes since the war ended.

Ens. Claude Horton, employes service officer at the yard, said that 1,000 will leave aboard the Essex-class carrier Hornet, and the remainder on the light carrier Monterey.

JAP ELECTION REFORM DUE

Special Diet Session Forecast. Police Powers Checked

Tokyo, Nov. 7 (AP)—Drastic reform shared the spotlight with imperial tradition today as Emperor Hirohito exercised his royal authority to call a regular session of the Diet while the nation's police chiefs pondered a program of democratization [illegible] it would use housewives to keep an eye on the corner cop.

Emperor Hirohito's imperial rescript called the Diet to meet December 24, but Kyodo News Agency said this might be superseded by an extraordinary session expected to convene December 10.

To Study Election Law

The agency said the special session would consider revision of election laws, and that if such revisions were approved the Diet would dissolve itself. This would automatically postpone the next session until general elections could be held—probably some time after January 1.

The Government meanwhile gave Japan's police system another shakeup by firing more than 5,800 old-line enforcement and surveillance personnel and announcing it would appoint civilian advisory boards in major Tokyo police districts with unprecedented power to criticize and keep an eye on the police.

Kyodo said groups of ten advisers each would be named for each of Tokyo's major police stations—where third-degree methods formerly ruled. These advisers, the agency added, will include representatives of various professions and "middle-class housewives."

Public To Suggest Names

The public will be asked to recommend candidates for such advisory boards, and in addition will be invited to voice criticism of police matters through letter boxes to be set up in each district.

Police chiefs from all parts of Japan meanwhile met at the home ministry to discuss these and other aspects of the task of "establishment of the police as a people's police." They also talked about the collection of civilian weapons and the management of the economic police, whose function is suppression of black market and similar activities.

New Party Appears

Jiujitsu was wiped off the physical training program of Japanese schools. The Ministry of Education also abolished other Samurai-flavored courses in glider-training, fencing and military drill.

A new political organization, the Japan Renovationist party, came into existence, vaguely advocating elimination of feudalism and liberalization of Japanese economy, but upholding tennoism (the Emperor system) and opposing communism.

The newspaper Asahi announced that nearly 300,000 Japanese, including 170,000 demobilized service men, had been repatriated by the end of October.

JAP DIET CALLED TO SIT DEC. 24

Nation's Police System Gets Rough Shake-up.

Tokyo, Nov. 7 (A. P.).—The Emperor Hirohito today called a regular meeting of the Diet for December 24, the Kyodo news agency said, but there were indications [illegible] may be superseded by an extraordinary session expected to begin on December 10 for considering election law revisions.

Japan's once-domineering police system meanwhile got another rough shake-up. The nation's police chiefs met at the Home Ministry to discuss the establishment of a "people's police," the collection of civilian weapons, and the management of an economic police charged with controlling black markets. The Japanese Government ousted more than 5,800 enforcement and surveillance personnel, and announced it would appoint civilian advisory boards in the principal Tokyo police districts with unprecedented power to criticize the public actions of officers.

Some time ago the nation's infamous "thought police" and military police organizations were dissolved on Allied orders and their leaders imprisoned for questioning.

Political Prisoners Released

Also at the command of General MacArthur, the Japanese Government released 507 political prisoners and discontinued "protection and surveillance" over 2,026 other individuals.

Elsewhere on the occupation front:

The Ministry of Education abolished from schools Samurai-flavored courses in glider training, judo, jiu-jitsu, fencing and military drill.

New Political Party

A new political party, the Japan Renovationist party, came into existence, advocating elimination of feudalism and liberalization of economy.

A labor legislation committee was appointed by the Welfare Ministry to frame a law to encourage development of labor unions and provide for mediation of labor disputes.

The newspaper Asahi announced that nearly 300,000 Japanese, including 170,000 demobilized service men, had been repatriated by the end of October by American and Japanese ships.

Japs Denounce Militarists

Reports from Shanghai said strong denunciation of Japan's defeated militarist Government was reflected in the majority of letters to the editor of the Reform Daily News, Japanese language newspaper, in its first month of publication. Under the eye of the Chinese Army, the paper is printed for the 90,000 Japanese in Shanghai awaiting repatriation.

In his first public address since appointment as Premier of Japan's crisis Cabinet, Baron Kijuro Shidehara told a gathering of Kobe and Ocake business men at Osaka that the Government's fundamental policy was to "avoid bargaining in internal government and foreign affairs" as it strives to rebuild Japan.

Wants Public To Decide

He suggested the governmental structure should be revised to the end that "all matters can be decided by public opinion," so that Japan may "uphold her trust and eliminate plotting in dealing with foreign countries."

Inflation, he said, has complicated the serious food, fuel and housing shortages.

Strangle Hold Of Zaibatsu Described

Tokyo, Nov. 7 (AP)—The "Big Four" zaibatsu dissolved by yesterday's directive from Allied occupation headquarters tightly controlled or strongly influenced 380 principal companies and innumerable subsidiaries in their strangle hold on Japan's one-time impressive financial world.

These economic giants—Mitsui, Mitsubishi, Sumitomo and Yasuda—perpetuated power from feudal days through key men and methods. All were eliminated by General MacArthur's order.

The combined capitalization of the companies in which the four big zaibatsu held direct investments totaled 12,145,333,150 yen.

100 Per Cent Holdings

The Yasuda and Sumitomo families hold 100 per cent of the stock in their respective holding companies. The Mitsui families hold 63 per cent and the Mitsubishi (and Iwasaki family) 47.5 per cent.

Translation of yen investments into dollars is completely misleading, because the current rate is too artificial. The percentages of stock held by holding companies and other figures also fail to indicate the complete picture for, as the American announcement said, "Mitsubishi ruled a company wherein its holdings were only five per cent as firmly as it ruled one wherein it held 100 per cent of the shares."

But the gigantic scope of this industrial dictatorship is suggested by a report of Mitsubishi's profits in war enterprises. Officials said it entered war enterprises "reluctantly." But twelve such companies netted a profit of more than 190,000,000 yen.

Within Japan, Mitsui was popularly linked with the army. It firmly secured its position as a major Government financier by successfully gambling upon the Emperor's forces in the post-Admiral Perry restoration.

Link With Navy

Mitsubishi, appearing later on the financial scene, was linked with the one-time less imperialistic, and thereby less profitable, Japanese Navy.

The zaibatsu fattened in times of war through financing Government and military services and widened their influence during the depressions by buying up insolvent companies with their unlimited capital.

All zaibatsu utilized banks, both for profitable Government financing and for the control, through loans, of favored companies. The five major banks hold more than 13,000,000,000 yen in Government securities.

STARVATION HELD JAP PLAN

Santo Tomas Camp Policy Alleged In Yamashita Case

Manila, Nov. 7 (AP)—Systematic starvation was the Japanese program for civilian prisoners in Manila, witnesses testified today at the war-crimes trial of Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, former commander of Nipponese forces in the Philippines.

One American survivor of the regime at Santo Tomas internment camp, A. V. H. Hartendorp, magazine editor, said that Filipino friends brought many packages of food to the camp last Christmas, but that Japanese guards prevented even such Yuletide offerings from reaching the hungry men, women and children inside.

At Least Eight Deaths

Hartendorp testified that at least eight Santo Tomas internees died of starvation or malnutrition in the last four months of Japanese occupation. The Japanese commandant, he said, brushed aside all internees' Convention, and emphasized this Japan did not recognize the Geneva convention, and emphasized this attitude by systematically and progressively reducing rations.

His own weight, Hartendorp said, fell from 180 pounds to 106, and the average weight loss of all intennees was 30 pounds. The children and old people, he said, suffered particularly.

A bill of particulars submitted by the prosecution charged the Japanese with willful faiuure and refusal to provide food and medical attention to more than 3,000 civilian internees at Santo Tomas during the period October 9, 1944, to February 2, 1945 (the day of their liberation).

Executions Also Listed

It also specified the execution "without cause or trial" of more than six internees, and stated that Ford Wilkins, former city editor of the Manila Bulletin and New York Times correspondent, was beaten and tortured.

Among the six internees put to death were Carol Grinnell, chairman of the camp's internee committee and representative of General Electric International; Alfred P. Duggleby, Grass Valley (Cal.), gold mine operator, and Clifford Larsen and B. B. Johnson, American business men.

Piles Of Bodies Described

Earlier today the commission heard Henry Keys, London Daily Express correspondent, tell how he saw hundreds of bodies of civilians piled around the courtyard of St. Augustine Church in Manila.

Another survivor of the final days of Japanese rule in Manila, Sister Candido O'Campo, told how Japanese broke into a convent at night looking for girls.

A Manila undertaker testified he found many bodies of bayoneted and shot civilians in two air-raid shelters in Plaza Ferguson, inside the walled city, including the bodies of several priests.

wholesale brutalities by his command that his own weight dropped from 170 to 106 pounds and that the average weight loss of all internees was 30 pounds.

He said conditions became steadily worse, with the Nipponese commandant making progressive cuts in internees' rations. In October, 1944, the internees' rations were reduced to "only two meals a day, which further endangered our health, particularly that of small children and older people."

On crossexamination, the former editor said: "The Japanese ration was better than ours, I'm certain, because they looked much better than any of us."

Only Three Red Cross Parcels

Hartendorp, long-time American resident of the islands, editor of the Philippine Magazine, said that Santo Tomas internees received only three Red Cross packages—the last on Christmas, 1943.

A bill of particulars covering the Santo Tomas case from October 9, 1944, through the liberation February 2, 1945, charges the Japanese with willful failure and refusal to provide food and medical supplies to more than 3,000 civilian internees. It also specifies that one internee, Ford Wilkins, former city editor of the Manila Bulletin and New York Times correspondent, was beaten and tortured and charges the execution "without cause or trial" of more than six internees for "minor infraction of rules."

Among the six were Carol Grinnell, chairman of the camp's internee committee and representative of General Electric International; Alfred P. Duggleby, of Grass Valley, Cal., wealthy gold of at least twenty persons had been dumped. The victims had been bound with wire into groups of three or four. Apparently the Japanese had attempted to behead them, he said.

Bodies In Church Courtyard

Earlier today, the commission heard Henry Keys, London Daily Express correspondent, testify that he saw hundreds of bodies of civilians piled around the St. Augustine Church courtyard, in the walled city, on February 23.

Keys said a Filipino girl with both feet amputated told him that Japanese had cut off her limbs with a bayonet. He saw Chinese litter bearers struggling to save emaciated and wounded in an effort to get them to American lines. He saw the body of a small boy who had been shot through the back of the skull as he knelt in the church.

Catholic Sister Testifies

Among other witnesses testifying about the bloody day in the Intramuros (walled city) preceding its recapture by American forces, Candido O'Campo, a Catholic sister, said that Japanese troops came inside the convent at night looking for girls. She said she helped bury at least twelve persons killed by Japanese snipers.

A Manila undertaker testified that he went to two air-raid shelters in Plaza Ferguson, inside the walled city, where he found many bodies, all bearing gunshot or bayonet wounds. He said the bayoneted bodies of several clerics were still dressed in their robes. The hands were tied behind their backs.

A Spanish civilian said two Japanese officers came into one shelter, where seventeen persons were cringing in efforts to escape mass killings, and handed him a jute sack. It had wires connected and leading to the outside. He and a companion disconnected the wires, fearing the sack contained an explosive.

The Japanese returned, angry because there had been no explosion, and shot two people. Of the seventeen, only seven survived several days of no food and little water.

Santo Tomas Starvation Planned, Witness Says

Schedler

NOV 8 1945

Manila, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Japanese operated Santo Tomas civilian prison camp under a "planned program of starvation" for approximately 4,000 internees, A. V. H. Hartendorp, magazine editor, testified today at the war-crime trial of Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita.

At least eight internees died of starvation or malnutrition in the last four months of Japanese occupation, he stated.

The Japanese commandant refused to hear internees' complaints because he said Japan did not recognize the Geneva Convention, he testified.

Great Loss In Weight

Hartendorp told the United States Military commission hearing charges that Yamashita permitted mine operator; Clifford Larsen and B. B. Johnson, American business men.

Tells Of Finding Bodies

The final witness of the trial's ninth day, Thomas W. Poole, General Electric employé from San Pedro, Cal., testified to finding the bodies of Grinnell and others, mutilated and bound with wires and in a bad state of decomposition, after he was free from Santo Tomas.

Poole said the bodies of Grinnell, Duggleby and Johnson, who was a representative of the United States Maritime Commission, and Larsen, an engineer with the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific Company, were identified beyond doubt after they had been recovered from a large pit into which the mutilated remains

Rescue Parties Nearing Luzon Crash Survivors

Grover

MANILA, Thursday, Nov. 8,—(AP) Air, sea and land rescue parties are making their way toward the wreckage of a naval air transport service C-54 that crashed near Puerto Real on eastern Luzon Monday night, Vice Adm. J. L. Kauffman, commander of the Philippines sea frontier, announced today.

The other two men aboard the four-engined transport made their way to an army outpost on eastern Luzon.

NIGHT

Fragmentary reports via field telephone from Puerto Real gave few details but said that all 13 passengers and seven crew members were safe. An unreported number were injured.

The plane had been unreported for many hours after it was due at Manila from Guam Monday night, and a widespread search had been begun.

The Navy announced at Pearl Harbor today that the escort carrier Manila Bay would reach Honolulu Thursday with one passenger and ten crewmen rescued after the sea landing of a Honolulu clipper seaplane Saturday. Twelve other pasengers were en route to San Francisco aboard the Army transport ship John Henry Payne. There were no casualties.

None Die In Crash Of Navy Plane

NOV 8 1945

Manila, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Sangley Point Naval Air Station, at Cavite, announced tonight that the naval air transport long overdue there on a flight from Guam had crashed and burned at the edge of the jungle near Puerto Real, on Lamon Bay.

DAY

There were no fatalities, the Navy said, but added that most of the thirteen passengers and seven crewmen aboard the plane were injured.

The information was telephoned to Cavite from an army outpost on eastern Luzon after two of the survivors had made their way through the dense jungle.

Cause Not Yet Known

The message did not give the cause of the crash or the extent of injuries. All names were withheld pending more definite information.

The plane had been the object of a widespread search after it disappeared within 100 miles of its Sangley Point goal.

The Army rushed medical aid from the outpost and the Navy ordered additional assistance from Cavite flown to the scene.

Filipino On Board To Try Gen. Homma

Manila, Nov. 7 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Basilio J. Valdes resigned today as chief of staff of the Philippine Army to take a place on the military commission that will soon try Lieut. Gen. Masaharu Homma, Japan's "Beast of Bataan," on war-crime charges.

Valdes was appointed to the commission by General MacArthur on the recommendation of the Commonwealth Government. He went through the Bataan campaign with MacArthur and escaped to Australia with the late President Manuel Quezon.

Valdes testified this week the war crimes hearing of Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita that he found the bodies of his brother and his nephew in a pit with other slain Filipinos after he returned to Manila with American troops.

Brig. Gen. Rafael Jalondi will be acting chief of staff pending a permanent appointment.

Japanese Girl Slapped

Sailor Protesting Dating of an American Is Held

TOKYO, Nov. 7 (AP).—The Army newspaper "Stars and Stripes" said today a Japanese sailor struck a Japanese girl in downtown Hibiya Park for dating an American soldier, and call it the first open show of resentment against fraternization.

The sailor, Seaman Hisamatsu Masaharu, nineteen, was taken to Provost Marshal headquarters by a group of American soldiers and was turned over to Tokyo police. The girl was given treatment for a split lip.

The American soldiers said Masaharu was one of nine Japanese sailors they saw slapping the face of Japanese girls with Americans.

Right At "Home"

Tokyo, Nov. 7 (AP)—After 78 days at sea, a big new aircraft carrier which had participated in the 3d Fleet's final offensive against the Jap homeland, dropped anchor in Tokyo Bay. Billed for the ship's movie that night was the picture "Destination Tokyo."

Yanks Reburied In Japan

Yokohama, Nov. 7. (AP)—The remains of Americans who died in Japanese prison camps or were killed in plane crashes on bombing raids are being reburied in a cemetery on a hill overlooking Yokosuka harbor, where American fleet units now are anchored.

MAGAZINE LEADS JAPS TO SURRENDER

Pearl Harbor, Nov. 6 (A. P.).—Fleet Headquarters reported today that twenty-two Japanese soldiers and an 18-year-old Geisha girl came out of the wilds of Guam and gave themselves up November 2 after reading in Life Magazine that Japan had surrendered.

The group said that they knew nothing of the capitulation until they saw pictures of the surrender ceremony aboard the Missouri. The surrendered bowing in unison, grinning broadly and holding out a surrender note and the magazine to a startled truck driver.

Fleet Headquarters did not say how the Japanese obtained a copy of the magazine.

Explanation Expected

Mexico City, Nov. 7 (AP)—Jose Giral, Premier of the "Government in exile" set up here by Spanish Republicans, is expected to explain today how he hopes to restore republican government to Spain and to ask the republican Cortes [legislature] for a vote of confidence.

Panama Acts To Check Terrorism

NOV 8 1945

Panama, Nov. 7 (A. P.).—Panama's Constituent Assembly has granted special authority to President Enrique Jiminez to take any necessary measures to prevent "subversive agitation or activity."

The Assembly said the grant of power was necessary because of recent acts of terrorism.

MURRAY SUCCEEDS IN GETTING WAGE BILL CONSIDERED

Action Draws Protest from Ira Mosher, Manufacturers' President.

CITE TRUMAN'S SPEECH

CIO Head Contends President Claimed Pay Increases 'Imperative.'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 — (AP) Top spokesmen for the CIO and the National Association of Manufacturers clashed publicly tonight on whether President Truman's labor-management conference should consider the question of national wage levels.

A few hours after CIO President Philip Murray succeeded in getting a wage resolution before the conference's powerful executive committee—which would have to clear it before it reached the conference floor—NAM President Ira Mosher declared his opposition.

"The labor-management conference is not itself a collective bargaining conference," Mosher said in a public statement.

Putting "Cart Before Horse"

Mosher said it would be putting "the cart before the horse" to take up the wage question without first having found agreement on the collective bargaining principles by which wage and other questions are to be settled by unions and management.

His stand, understood to represent the opinion of the management delegates generally, was believed to have virtually removed any chance that the wage question would reach the conference, since the AFL also opposed its consideration.

Murray's resolution, mildly phrased but calling attention to President Truman's broadcast statement last week that wage increases are "imperative," has not been acted upon by the 16-member executive committee.

Mosher's statement—which an NAM spokesman said was intended as a reply to the Murray proposal—noted that Mr. Truman called upon the parley to set "long-term policies which will make possible better human relationships in American industry."

"This can only be interpreted as the President's hope that this conference will devise the machinery of free collective bargaining by which the wage issue and other issues can be resolved satisfactorily to both labor and management at those levels where they should be considered and settled," the NAM leader went on.

"It would be unfortunate if we were to be diverted from that primary purpose. The successful accomplishment of it is fundamental to the solution of today's industrial problems."

Hold Committee Sessions

After two days of speech making, the conference which seeks to set a course of industrial peace, broke up into committees to study the several items on the agenda. It was the powerful and newly enlarged executive committee which got Murray's resolution.

NOV 8 1945

The text of his proposal: "The executive committee recommends that the following resolution be adopted by the Labor-Management conference. Resolved, that recognition must be given to the fact that collective bargaining between labor unions and representatives of managements in many important situations throughout the country has broken down over the important issue of wages, which has created a very serious crisis for the nation;

"The representatives of labor and management assembled in this conference do hereby make an urgent call upon the labor unions and the representatives of management to engage in genuine and sincere collective bargaining in an effort to resolve this all-important wage issue.

"The framework for such collective bargaining has been provided by the President in his recent message to the nation, in which he stated that 'wage increases are therefore imperative — to cushion the shock to our workers, to sustain adequate purchasing power and to raise the national income.'"

Wages Basic Issue

Murray's action underlined his contention that wages are the basic cause of all major labor disputes and for that reason should be recognized by the conference.

The C.I.O. leader said he did not intend to propose that the conference agree on any fixed percentage increase for all workers, because such details could be worked out by each industry, but he thought the conference should agree that general wage increases could be granted without increasing prices.

"The shadow of wages is constantly hanging over this conference," he told reporters.

Preliminary indications are the C.I.O. will stand alone on this issue of putting wages into the conference agenda. The C.I.O. has three of the executive committee's 16 votes. A three-fourths vote of the committee is required for submission of reports to the conference as a whole.

Management representatives, with eight votes, have said privately the question of wages should not be taken up at this conference, and Ira Mosher, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, has said "not one of the delegates here can make contracts that are binding on the group or industry that he represents."

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said prior to the executive committee that he still felt the conference should confine its attention to procedures for settlement of labor disputes. He is on record as opposing broadening of the agenda to include wage discussions.

With this sentiment opposing Murray's proposal already expressed, it appeared the C.I.O. leader had little chance of success.

Organization of committees was the first order of business. They will tackle the problems of (1) collective bargaining, (2) management's right to manage, (3) representation and jurisdictional questions, (4) conciliation services, (5) initial collective agreements, and (6) existing collective agreements.

McMahon Reports Progress Made at Conference

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 — (AP) Senator McMahon (D-Conn) said tonight that "we have made a good start" toward solving labor problems by the conference method.

The start, he said in a speech prepared for broadcast over a network of Connecticut radio stations, had been made on a national scale with the labor-management conference now being held here.

The Senator, asserting there were two courses that could be taken in tackling the problem of raising wages without raising prices, said:

"One is through the medium of strikes and lockouts, on the picket line, through industrial warfare with all the bad results which have always followed.

"The other course is by the conference method, around the conference table, through collective bargaining. All logic and all reason call for deciding of these problems around the conference table.

"We have made a good start in the holding of this national meeting. Let those of us who are on the sidelines have patience. Let us not criticize at the possible slow beginnings, the possible mistakes and errors of judgment which may be made."

BOTH SIDES TURN DOWN PROPOSALS IN PAY DISPUTE

Corporation Offers 8 to 10 Per Cent Cost of Living Increase.

TERMED BRIBE BY UNION

Company Holds Demand for Thirty Per Cent Rise Is 'Excessive.'

NOV 8 1945

DETROIT, Nov. 7. — (AP) General Motors Corp. today offered a cost of living wage increase to its workers, and the C.I.O. United Auto Workers union promptly rejected the proposal.

The corporation had formally and flatly scorned the union's demand for a 30 per cent wage rate boost, terming the demand "excessive." Instead the corporation offered increases in classifications where, since 1941, wages have not been raised in proportion to the cost of living.

H. W. Anderson, GM vice president, said the cost of living wage increase offer would amount to an average of eight to ten per cent for the corporation's 180,000 hourly-rated employes.

In computing the amount which each worker is entitled, he said the corporation would accept a government finding that living costs have gone up 30 per cent since Jan. 1, 1941.

Term Offer Bribe

Walter P. Reuther, vice president of the U.A.W.-C.I.O., declared that the union "flatly rejects the corporation's bribe offer because we will not be a party to sandbagging the American consumer."

Reuther, who heads the U.A.W.-C.I.O. delegation at Union-Corporation wage meetings, asserted at a press conference:

"The General Motors Corporation, which has been on strike since V-J day against labor, government and the American consumer, today put in writing its previous oral offers to the union that we conspire with the corporation to sandbag the car-hungry public with inexcusable price increases."

At negotiation sessions today, Reuther said he asked corporation representatives "If they would offer us any increase—even one per cent—with the agreement that they would not seek price increases on the basis of the wage raise, and the corporation's answer was 'no'."

The corporation's position was stated in a 34-page brief. The exact amount of increases would be determined through future negotiations with the U.A.W.-C.I.O., General Motors said.

The Labor leader also said GM had renewed its proposal that the U.A.W.-C.I.O. join with the corporation in seeking a revision of the wage and hour act to provide for a standard 45-hour work week instead of the present 40.

General Motors "is just insane" if it thinks the nation will go back to a 45-hour week, Reuther stated.

Charge Facts Distorted

General Motors accused the union of "distorting the facts" in arriving at the conclusion that the "corporation was able to pay increased wages," and added that "prices and past and future profits are out of place in these wage negotiations."

Earlier Reuther, in a telegram to President Truman, asked that the fixing of ceiling prices on 1946 automobiles be withheld "pending a review by the office of war mobilization and reconversion."

C. E. Wilson, General Motors president, in a statement contained in the 34-page brief filed with the union said:

"General Motors rejects the theory of ability to pay as a valid argument for high wages. To demand we should pay our employes more than others pay is just unreasonable as it would be to demand that we pay higher freight rates."

Strikes Caused Unemployment

Wilson said General Motors, "like the rest of the industry, believes in high wages," and added:

"If it had not been for strikes in plans of our suppliers and one or two in our own plants—most of which the U.A.W.-C.I.O. was responsible for—we would have already employed many thousand more workers on productive work and they would be working more than 40 hours per week to meet the demand for our products which so many people need so badly. x x x

"Since we are doing everything we could to speed up production and were willing to pay the extra overtime premium for the work, we did not think there was any merit whatsoever in the take-home pay argument. Paying more money to those who are working will not help those who are temporarily laid off. x x x

"Demands were pressed for the unreasonable increase in wages, without any corresponding increase in productivity over prewar levels, on the assumption that the additional costs could be absorbed from profits previously earned, from tax refunds in case of operating losses or from assumed future profits.

"General Motors is not willing to pay out in excess wages for work not performed money saved up for many years to modernize and expand its plants and provide more good jobs. The money cannot be spent twice. x x x

"The union is really proposing that the taxpayers of the country be called upon to subsidize either unjustifiably high wages or uneconomically low prices on General Motors products."

Wilson referred to President Truman's Oct. 30 address to the nation and the promulgation of executive orders covering wages and prices.

U.S. STEEL BARS FEDERAL MOVE

Firm Rejects Schwellenbach Plan To Reopen CIO Talks

NOV 8 1945

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP) — The United States Steel Corporation declined tonight to accept a proposal of the Secretary of Labor, Lewis B. Schwellenbach, to reopen wage negotiations with the CIO steel workers under a special conciliator.

Benjamin F. Fairless, president of the corporation, in a letter to Schwellenbach said existing steel-price ceilings "do not enable us to grant a wage increase at this time," and that wage discussions would be useless until the price question is settled.

The union, asking $2 a day more pay, accepted the Schwellenbach proposal earlier in the day. The Secretary had named Arthur S. Meyer, chairman of the New York State Mediation Board, as special conciliator.

Strike Vote Scheduled

Fairless said "it seems futile to appear to engage in collective bargaining conferences on the union's demand for a general $2 a day increase until after OPA has acted on the long-pending application for the steel industry for substantial increases in present ceiling prices for steel products to compensate for past heavy increases in costs."

Five hundred thousand steel workers, in 769 companies, are to ballot November 28 on the question of striking.

The special conciliator was named for the United States Steel case only, but Lee Pressman, general counsel of the union, said it would be the pattern for the remainder of the industry.

Asks OPA To Act

Fairless told Schwellenbach that "if progress is desired in the direction of resolving the union's wage demands through sincere collective bargaining . . . the first step is "through prompt and fair action by OPA in granting adequate increases in the present ceiling prices for steel products so as to compensate for substantial past increases in cost."

"In addition," said Fairless, "we must have adequate assurances from OPA that such ceiling prices will also be increased so as simultaneously to compensate for any wage increase which may result from the union's present wage demand.

"We should not be expected by anyone to carry our steel operations at a loss."

Fairless Reply Weighed

A Labor Department spokesman said the Fairless reply, as well as that of the CIO president, Philip Murray, were being considered. A statement may be forthcoming tomorrow, this spokesman said.

Schwellenbach had made his conciliation move on Saturday, hoping to head off a steel strike which might develop after the November 28 balloting.

Murray had accepted, and said he, as president of the CIO steelworkers, was ready to bargain at any time suggested by Meyer.

Hours Row Closes 2 Rubber Plants

[By the Associated Press]

New labor trouble flared today in Akron, Ohio, scene of several strikes in recent months, while disputes across the country kept some 270,000 men and women idle.

The dispute in Akron was at the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, where production was halted at two plants as CIO workers refused to pass picket lines in a dispute involving the rescheduling of 1,600 maintenance and engineering employés from a six to an eight-hour day.

Union Alleges Lockout

A United Rubber Workers spokesman said "unauthorized" picketing began at the plants after workers refused to return to an eight-hour day as directed by the company and an impartial arbiter.

The company ordered machines shut off during the two-hour periods and the union charged a "lockout" and said it would demand that production workers be paid for layoffs. The number made idle by the controversy was not immediately determined.

The executive boards of three labor councils in the San Francisco Bay area planned to meet today to decide whether some 40,000 members made idle by a strike of 12,000 AFL and CIO machinists will continue to observe picket lines. The strike, in its ninth day, started over demands for 30 per cent wage hikes.

Lumber Situation

The six-week-old strike of 60,000 AFL lumber workers in the Pacific Northwest appeared no nearer settlement. Indications were that any CIO lumber workers' acceptance of the compromise 12½-cent hourly pay boost would create a new stalemate in negotiations between the striking AFL union men and operators.

Agents for 15,000 nonstriking CIO workers voted to refer to the membership the compromise offer which an AFL committee had rejected from the same operator group. The AFL union is seeking a $1.10 minimum hourly wage and about 1,000 of its workers have been granted the hike.

Break In Textile Strike

The first break in the strike of textile workers in New England States came as a CIO union official said 1,000 of the strikers at three Connecticut plants of Powdrell & Alexander, Inc., would return to work today.

He said an agreement effected by a Federal conciliator gives the strikers a closed shop, an hourly minimum of 65 cents, an 8-cent general increase, 7-cent hourly premium for third-shift workers, and other benefits. About 17,000 other workers in Maine, Rhode Island and New Hampshire are striking for 30 per cent wage hikes and the closed shop.

Brass Strike Voted

CIO workers at the American Brass Company, in Waterbury, Conn., have voted 5,444 to 559 to strike for 30 per cent pay raises and compensatory bonus for third-shift workers. A CIO spokesman said efforts would be made to effect a "peaceful settlement of issues" and no date was set for the walkout.

The strike of 500 employés of 26 Reading (Pa.) trucking firms left only 12 operating in the city. The AFL local teamsters union said the companies had failed to sign contracts granting wage increases of $4 a week to the workers.

President Rushes to Clear Desk of Domestic Problems

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—(AP) A figurative "man at work—don't disturb" sign was hung today on President Truman's office door.

White House aides said the President is trying to clear his desk as much as possible of domestic problems so that he will be free for three-power discussions of atomic energy this weekend.

It was announced that he and Prime Ministers Attlee of Great Britain and Mackenzie King of Canada will devote most of Sunday —Armistice day—to conferences on the future use of atomic power.

The President said sometime ago that he would initiate discussions with Great Britain and Canada seeking to outlaw use of the atomic bomb and later take up the matter with other governments.

The President had only six engagements on his calling list today, not counting afternoon conferences with James F. Byrnes, Secretary of State, and Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan.

Cancels All Trips

Even smaller calling lists Monday and Tuesday, his aide said, reflect the seriousness with which the President views the international picture and a domestic scene punctuated by industrial strife and a stalled legislative program. He recently cancelled plans for a series of out-of-town trips.

Sunday's discussions, to take place aboard the Presidential yacht Potomac, will start immediately after 11 a.m. armistice day ceremonies at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National cemetery.

After the President lays a wreath on the tomb the party will go to the grave of Sir John Dill, former British representative on the combined chiefs of staff, where Attlee will place a wreath.

They then will drive directly to the yacht, remaining aboard until Sunday night. Byrnes, Lord Halifax, the British ambassador, and Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy, the President's chief of staff, will take part in the conferences.

The President and his distinguished visitors will devote much of Saturday to their initial discussions and there will be a state dinner in honor of the British and Canadian leaders at the White House Saturday night.

To Be White House Guest

Mr. Attlee will be White House guest Saturday and Sunday nights before moving to the British embassy Monday. Mackenzie King likely will stay at the Blair House, where high ranking visitors usually are quartered.

The three governments represented in the discussions are partners in the secret of the atomic bomb.

Meanwhile, the President asked Chairman Cannon (D.Mo) of the House appropriations committee to hurry along action on his request for $107,500,000 in appropriations to expand postwar planning of state and local public works.

The industrial strife, for which the President hopes the current labor-management conference may find a solution, spread close to the White House door. The usual rumble of street cars was not heard on Pennsylvania avenue for nearly two days as a result of a transit workers' walkout, which was called off today.

House Hearing Orders New Bill On Jobs Drafted

Balks at Guaranty of Work for All; Truman Urges Speed on Works Fund

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP).—The House Expenditures Committee today ended six weeks of hearings on the administration's "full employment" legislation and decided it must be changed.

The group authorized its chairman, Representative Carter Manasco, Democrat, of Alabama, to name a five-man subcommittee to draft some type of compromise.

President Truman broadcast a plea last week for action. Representative Manasco told reporters it still "will take some time" to write a bill acceptable to the committee.

The subcommittee includes Representatives Manasco, John J. Cochran, Democrat, of Missouri; William M. Whittington, Democrat, of Mississippi; Clare E. Hoffman, Republican, of Michigan, and George H. Bender, Republican, of Ohio.

The pending bill enunciates a government policy of supplementing private enterprise, when necessary, to assure job opportunities for all. The Senate passed a modified version of this statement. Representative Manasco said the House group would not agree to "any Federal assurance of jobs for all."

Asks Action on Works Fund

President Truman appealed to Congress today for "prompt and favorable" action on a previous request for $107,500,000 to expand post-war planning of state and local public works.

The request, included originally in his Sept. 6 message to Congress, involves $50,000,000 in appropriations and $57,500,000 in contractual authority for the Federal Works Agency.

In a letter to Representative Clarence Cannon, Democrat, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, Mr. Truman said it was his "earnest hope" that the committee give immediate consideration to the matter. The appropriation now available for the purpose, he said, is "entirely inadequate."

Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach predicted today the nation will have 6,000,000 to 8,000,000 unemployed persons by spring. He said the figure probably would drop to 4,000,000 to 6,000,000 by next fall.

Mr. Schwellenbach's estimate was made to the House Expenditures Committee during a plea for passage of full employment legislation.

Last week War Mobilization Director John Snyder also predicted 8,000,000 jobless by spring. Philip Murray, Congress of Industrial Organizations leader, has estimated there will be 10,000,000 without work by then.

Mr. Schwellenbach told the committee:

"It is not only desirable but necessary that the government give clear indication of its intention to establish a program which will result in full employment if our system of private enterprise is safely to maintain itself under the stress of the intricate problems of the post-war period.

"The history of the rise of totalitarianism shows that the country whose citizens are in greatest danger of losing their individual freedom is the one tolerating mass unemployment.

"Fully employed people will need no propaganda to convince them of the superiority of our system over totalitarian systems."

"The difference between the philosophy of a full employment bill and the efforts in the past," he said, "is that it is devised to meet the problem in advance rather than to improvise after the problem of unemployment is created."

Text of President's Letter

The complete text of the President's letter to Representative Cannon follows:

"Dear Clarence:

"I wish to bring particularly to your attention my communication to the Speaker under date of Oct. 18, 1945, (House document No. 343), regarding the supplemental estimate of appropriation to permit the Federal Works Agency to continue and expand the program of advanced planning of state and local public works under the basic authority contained in Title V of the war mobilization and reconversion act of 1944.

"You may recall that in my message to the Congress on Sept. 6, 1945 (House document No. 282), I invited attention to the fact that the appropriation thus far made for this purpose was entirely inadequate and that I would therefore request additional funds in order to speed up this important activity during the reconversion period. It was pursuant to this that I submitted my request of Oct. 18, 1945, for an additional appropriation and contract authorization.

"The matter of advanced planning is one in which I have always had a close, personal interest. To have available for immediate construction a well developed and completely planned shelf of worthy public works projects is the best insurance against the waste which results when a program of construction is undertaken without detailed drawings and specifications being available. The fact that the law requires the repayment to the Treasury of advances when construction is undertaken tends to insure that the public works planned by the use of such funds are needed public projects of worth-while character as the local communities are thereby using their own credit to finance this work.

"It is my earnest hope that your committee will give prompt and favorable consideration to the recommendation made in the message referred to above.

"Very sincerely yours,

"HARRY S. TRUMAN."

Assistant Navy Secretary Attacks Plan Of Army

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—The chasm between the Army and Navy over postwar national defense plans grew wider and deeper today.

H. Struve Hensel, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, criticized before a Senate committee the War Department's proposal for a single armed forces department.

Then, Secretary of War Patterson issued a press memorandum disputing Hensel's statement of yesterday that the joint chiefs of staff had recommended deferment of a decision on merging the armed forces.

Describes Army Proposal

Hensel described the army's proposal as one likely to:

Give power and authority to a "military hierarchy" and set up a "holding company" over the services;

Reduce traditional civilian controls over military and naval affairs to the "vanishing point," and Increase postwar defense costs and reduce efficiency.

Do Not Agree With Navy

Hensel testified before the Senate Military Affairs Committee considering proposals to merge the Army and Navy. His detailed attack centered on a War Department proposal for a single national defense department with coequal army, navy and air forces. It was outlined before senators last week by Lieut. Gen. J. Lawton Collins.

By questions and comments, senators favoring the single department indicated they did not agree with the navy arguments.

Patterson said he believed Hensel was mistaken in telling a news conference yesterday that the joint chiefs had recommended that the merger decision be put off until a suggested commission to study various aspects of national security had made a report.

In his memorandum, Patterson said:

Urged Atomic Bomb Board

"No such recommendation was ever intended to be made by the joint chiefs of staff.

"Early in September, the joint chiefs of staff considered a recommendation that the President should be asked to appoint a board to study the effect of the atomic bomb and other new weapons on warfare.

"On September 27, comments on the proposal prepared by Mr. Hensel were transmitted to the joint chiefs of staff. Mr. Hensel suggested that the scope of the board's investigation be enlarged to cover a number of other fields, including, among six or seven items, organization of the military departments. The joint chiefs of staff considered Mr. Hensel's suggestion and rejected it. They concluded that the board's jurisdiction should be confined to the original proposal.

AGREE TO ASSIGN U. S. TROOPS TO SECURITY GROUP

NOV 8 1945

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 — (AP) Legislation to put substance and force behind American adherence to the United Nations peace organization cleared its first congressional hurdle today.

The Senate Foreign Relations committee approved a measure authorizing the President to negotiate an agrement with other members of the world security council as to what armed forces this country will allocate for maintenance of the peace.

The committee wrote in a restriction that no American forces, other than those covered by the agreement with the security council, are to be used for peace enforcement without specific approval from Congress.

The agreement itself also is subject to congressional approval.

Once the agreement is approved, the President could order the armed forces covered by it into action without asking Congress for further authority.

These provisions for the heart of legislation which undertakes to spell out in detail what this country will do to back up the general pledge it made when the Senate ratified hte United Nations charter last July.

In accepting the charter, it agreed in general terms to join with other nations to maintain peace—and to use force if necessary to maintain it.

Other provisions of the "implementing" legislation would:

1. Authorize the President to appoint, subject to confirmation by the Senate, a United States representative on the security council with the rank of ambassador and annual compensation of $20,000, and a deputy representative with rank of minister and compensation of $12,000. President Truman has said he intends to appoint former Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius to the No. 1 post.

2. Authorize the President to appoint representatives to other agencies of the United Nations with annual salaries not to exceed $12,000.

3 Direct that the representatives "shall at all time act in accordance with the instructions of the President."

Seek Yearly Report

4. Direct that the President make reports to Congress at least once a year, on activities of the United Nation, and make "special, current reports on decisions of the Security Council to take enforcement measures."

5. Authorize the President, when called upon by the Security Council, to regulate or forbid economic relations or communications between any foreign country and any person in the United States.

Although the legislation as approved by the committee has the endorsement of both Democratic and Republican leaders, some controversy in the Senate is in prospect.

Revercomb Demands Draft Be Stopped

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—Senator Revercomb (R., W.Va.) said today that unless the Army and Navy quit drafting men "this week" Congress should proceed immediately to end Selective Service itself.

Revercomb, a member of the Senate Military Committee, said figures show that the draft can now roll to a dead stop without impairing occupation forces.

This comment was in amplification of a Senate speech in which he said the voluntary enlistment program is getting all the men the Army and Navy need. Revercomb added on the floor that unless the services act promptly, "there will be legislation offered."

Cites 50,000 Limit

"You recall that President Truman fixed the number of draft calls per month at 50,000 in order not to delay the return of soldiers who have served overseas," he said.

"Now, it is very patent that volunteers are far exceeding the Selective Service number. It is a matter of reasoning, a matter of logical deduction."

Revercomb also asked for the release of men with dependents. He said the country's peacetime needs make it imperative for these men to take up their lives in the civilian economy.

Other Senators joined in when Revercomb broached his proposal for an end to the draft, with complaints about demobilization.

Promises "Near The Limit"

Senator Moore (R., Okla.) said that promises from army and navy leaders have about "reached the limit" of effectiveness and Congress ought to "give constructive help."

Senator Reed (R., Kan.) said he had heard many complaints about idle ships in the Pacific and at the same time that there are not enough ships to bring men home.

"If the Army and Navy move too slowly," Reed added, "it is up to Congress to act."

Revercomb said that most of the men now enlisting are experienced in the services and that this takes care of the problem of staffing occupation forces in Germany and Japan.

NEW DISCHARGE PLAN OF ARMY

Men In U.S. With 50 Points To Be Released

NOV 8 1945

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—The War Department tonight announced that enlisted men who have 50 or more discharge points and are now on furlough in this country will be released as they report back to the Army this month.

The new ruling also applies to enlisted men now on temporary duty in the United States. They will be classed as surplus and discharged upon their return to a reception center.

At present, the general discharge score for enlisted men is 60 points.

Chief Beneficiaries

Chief beneficiaries of the action, the War Department said, are men who returned from Europe with units originally earmarked for duty in the Pacific. Orders for shipment of these units were canceled following Japan's surrender and they are now scheduled for deactivation.

There was no estimate of the number of soldiers affected.

During the day the department also:

1. Authorized the immediate discharge of soldiers who were prisoners of the enemy for at least 60 days. Approximately 25,000 are affected.

2. Put new restrictions on overseas duty for enlisted men and officers—a step affecting approximately 125,000.

Ruling On Overseas Duty

The department announced that, with a few exceptions, no enlisted man with 21 or more months of honorable service since September 16, 1940, will be sent overseas for permanent duty.

The exceptions are those who are graduates of the Military Intelligence Language School, regular Army enlisted men and volunteers for foreign duty.

Officers who have 33 or more months of honorable service, or 30 months in the case of medical department officers, likewise will not be sent overseas for permanent assignment. This will not apply to reserve officers who have chosen to remain on active duty, to regular Army officers or to those classed as scarce specialists.

Scarce Specialists

The scarce specialists include military government officers, contract termination and property disposal officers, renegotiation officers, legal officers with admiralty law experience, highway traffic engineer officers, and officers classified as superintendent of water division in Transportation Corps.

Officer-graduates of the Military Intelligence Language School at Fort Snelling, Minn., also are subject to overseas service if they are not eligible for separation and have less than 39 months of service.

Army nurses will not be sent overseas if they have twelve points or are 30 years of age. No WAC officers are being sent on permanent assignment.

Personnel will not be sent overseas on temporary duty if their scheduled date for return is later than the date on which they will become eligible for discharge. Such temporary duty will be for short periods, and the orders will require return to the United States upon completion of the duty.

How A Nazi Saboteur Helped FBI Round Up Gang Revealed

NOV 8 1945

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—Tom C. Clark, Attorney General, disclosed today that one of the eight Nazi saboteurs who landed on the East Coast in June, 1942, tipped off the FBI about the Nazi plot.

George John Dasch, one of the four Germans who landed on Long Island, came here from New York and gave the details of the sabotage mission to J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, Clark said in releasing the record of the trial of the saboteurs.

Wanted To Get Out Of Germany

Dasch, who illegally entered the United States in 1922 and returned to Germany in 1939, testified at the trial that his sole purpose in entering the German sabotage school, where the eight were trained for their mission, was to get out of Germany again. He said he had no intention of carrying out his mission.

Dasch is serving a 30-year sentence in a Federal prison. Six of the saboteurs were executed after trial before a military commission. Ernest Peter Burger, who landed with Dasch, received a life sentence.

Clark in a statement gave this account of Dasch's activities:

"On Sunday night, June 14, 1942, a mysterious telephone call was received by the New York office of the FBI. The caller identified himself as Franz Daniel Pastorious and said he wanted it to be known that he intended to contact FBI headquarters in Washington on Thursday or Friday of the following week. The caller refused to give further information.

"At 10 o'clock Friday morning, June 19, a telephone call was received at the office of Director J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI. The caller identified himself as the person who had telephoned the New York office on the previous Saturday night and said his real name was George John Dasch. He said he had just arrived from Germany and had important information.

Told Of Sabotage Mission

"Two special agents of the FBI went to Dasch's hotel room immediately and took him to FBI headquarters, where he was questioned in detail.

"Dasch told of the sabotage mission. He explained that he and Burger had agreed to notify the FBI and that Burger had full knowledge of his purpose in coming to Washington. Special agents were successful in locating Burger in New York where he was put under surveillance with the hope that he would lead to other members of the party."

The FBI was able to arrest all eight saboteurs within fourteen days after they arrived, Clark said, adding:

"Immediately after all saboteurs had been caught officials of various plants and facilities on the list for sabotage attacks were advised by telephone so that they could be on guard against future attempts.

Plants On Saboteurs' List

On the list were the TVA project, source of power for the atomic bomb project; the Aluminum Company of America plants at Alcoa, Tenn.; Massena, New York, and East St. Louis, Ill.; the Cryolite plant at Philadelphia; the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad; the Pennsylvania Railroad depot at Newark, N.J.; the Hellgate Bridge in New York city; Ohio River locks between Cincinnati and St. Louis, and the Pennsylvania Railroad at the horseshoe curve, Altoona, Pa.

"The saboteurs also planned to promote panic and general chaos by placing time bombs in railroad locker rooms and in crowded stores."

Landing with Dasch and Burger on Long Island were Heinrich Harm, Heinck and Richard Quirin. The four who landed near Jacksonville, Fla., were Herbert Hans Haupt, Edward Kerling, Hermann Neubauer and Werner Thiel.

How Saboteurs Were Caught

Clark gave this account of how the group was caught after Dasch had communicated with the FBI. The FBI agents recovered from Dasch a pocket handkerchief which was found to bear in invisible ink the names of several persons who were to act as contacts for the saboteurs. These persons were located and closely watched.

Burger was followed from his New York hotel on June 20. That afternoon he met two men filling the descriptions given by Dasch of Heinck and Quirin. All were arrested.

These arrests cleaned up the Long Island group, but the Florida party still was at large.

Scene Shifts To Chicago

The FBI next centered its investigation in Chicago, where Haupt's family lived. On June 22 Haupt walked into the FBI's Chicago office, saying he had learned that the FBI had inquired at his home about his draft status. He said he had been in Mexico.

Haupt asked the special agent interviewing him if it would be satisfactory for him to go back to work. The agent replied that he was free to do anything he liked.

Haupt left, apparently confident he had thrown the FBI off guard, but agents kept him under surveillance and on June 23 one of the men whose names appeared on Dasch's handkerchief was followed to a spot near the Pennsylvania Station in New York, where he met a person answered Kerling's description.

The stranger was followed. He met two persons in a bar that evening, one of whom answered to Thiel's description. Both were arrested.

Other agents were checking hotels where Neubauer might be. On June 27 agents found that an "H. Nicholas" registered and when he appeared he was identified as Neubauer and arrested.

Allies Had Early Buzz Bomb Tip

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP) — The Allies had a tipoff that the Germans were preparing to launch robot bombs at least six months before the first buzzer was aimed against London and a defense was planned.

This information is contained in a scientific report dealing with the development of the VT or proximity fuse for anti-aircraft shells and other missiles.

The VT, a miniature radio set which causes a projectile to explode automatically when it gets within 70 feet of a target, is credited with a large share in the defeat of the buzz bombs.

Hopkins Report Cited

"Late in 1943," says a report by the allied physics laboratory at Johns Hopkins University, which was prominent in the development of VT fuses, "Allied intelligence reports revealed that the Germans were preparing to launch robot bombs against southern England from enemy-held areas in France.

"From the outset, the seriousness of this prospective attack was recognized and plans for the defense of London were started as early as December, 1943."

The plans included the use of anti-aircraft fire. Since the United States and Britain navies had previously demonstrated the effectiveness of the VT in anti-aircraft fire, the fuse was included in the preparations.

Fuse Tests Were Planned

Thus, as early as January, 1944, plans were under way in American scientific laboratories for testing special fuses against "mockup of buzz bombs expected momentarily to be introduced by the Germans."

The first buzz bomb was launched against London in June, 1944, but three months prior to that time shells containing the fuses were issued to 90 millimeter anti-aircraft batteries in England in preparation for the attack.

The fuses saw only limited use in the early stages of the attack, a navy report says, because of "various limitations to anti-aircraft firing or the safety of civilian population."

Use Increased Gradually

But their use was gradually stepped up—working in conjunction with improved radar and improved gun-directors until finally as a report from an army observer declares:

"The result of the advent of VT fuses was truly sensational increases in 'kills.'"

BYRNES GIVES DATA ON AIMS OF ITALY

Letters Show Rome Agreed to Loss of Territory and Islands Before London Parley

NOV 8 1945

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Italy agreed in advance of the London Foreign Ministers Conference to the loss of territory to Yugoslavia and a return of the Dodecanese Islands to Greece, Secretary of State Byrnes disclosed today.

The Italian Government asked United States backing, however, for its contention that Italy should retain sovereignty over the colonies of Libya and Eritrea, and keep its northern frontier on the Brenner Pass.

Mr. Byrnes released the text of an exchange of letters between himself and Italian Foreign Minister de Gasperi and a second exchange between President Truman and Italian Premier Parri.

Premier Parri's letter to Mr. Truman outlined Italy's position generally, while Signor de Gasperi's message went into great detail on such major territorial questions as the Italian-Yugoslav frontier; the Italian-French frontier; the Aegean Islands and the Italian colonies.

Both letters were written Aug. 22, a little more than two weeks before the opening of the London conference at which a final peace settlement for Italy was scheduled to be drawn up. The conference ended in a stalemate, however, and the Italian treaty still is pending.

Byrnes Praises Exposition

Mr. Byrnes replied Sept. 4, saying Signor de Gasperi's "frank and statesmanlike exposition of the Italian point of view was most useful and will receive careful study."

He assured Signor de Gasperi that the United States "has always desired Italy to take her place in the post-war world as a real factor for peace and progress in Europe."

NOV 8 1945

The peace treaty with Italy, Mr. Byrnes said, "must be such as to permit the energies and talents of her people to serve the great work of national and international reconstruction."

Premier Parri told President Truman he wished to express "my firm belief that in this grave hour you will not fail to assist us with the full weight of your authority."

The President replied briefly Sept. 20, saying he was confident the Allies would achieve a peace "which will enable Italy to rebuild her political and economic structure and assume that place in the community of nations which the qualities of her people warrant and our common interests require."

Major Points in Proposals

The major points of Italy's position, as outlined in Signor de Gasperi's letter, were:

Yugoslavia is entitled to "some rectification" of the present frontier, and in this connection Italy is willing to undergo "the painful loss" of the cities of Fiume and Zara;

Italy would be willing to give the port city of Trieste international status;

Italy seeks to maintain her northern boundary at the Brenner Pass;

Italy and France can resolve their outstanding issues by "direct and friendly negotiations";

Italy concedes that the Dodecanese Islands should be "entrusted to Greece as a compensation and as a token of friendship" between two Mediterranean colonies.

Italy would agree to establishment, presumably by the United Nations, of "strategic areas," air and naval bases in the Tobruk sector and in Mamarica, but wants to retain sovereignty over the Cyrenaica plateau.

Maintenance of Italian sovereignty over Eritrea is essential but Italy would grant Ethiopia's request for a free outlet to the sea.

Surplus-Sale Law Revisions Hinted

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—The problem of selling surplus war goods to civilians and veterans may require another overhauling of legislation by Congress.

Members of the Senate War Investigating Committee offered this opinion today after listening to testimony that ranged from automobiles and trucks to chicken wire and paper matches.

"Bigger Stick" May Be Needed

Senator Mitchel (D.,Wash.), who presided at the yesterday's hearing, suggested that W. Stuart Symington, surplus Property administrator, "may need a bigger stick to deal with agencies that now hold these surpluses."

Senator Kilgore (D.,W.Va.) noted that officials dealing with sales of billions of dollars of wartime surpluses were directed by law to come to Congress for any needed help.

Symington, who replaced the original three-man board set up by Congress, testified yesterday that it might be necessary for him to ask again for additional authority.

Cites Sale Transfer

He said he had transferred the sale of civilian goods from the Commerce Department to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation because "we have got to stop talking and get practical merchandising efforts."

Earlier, William S. Bradley, recently resigned director of the Office of Surplus Property, described the proposal for preferred sales to war veterans as "hopeless and impossible" unless the Government went into the chain store and mail order business on a grand scale.

Taxis May Join In Washington Travel Tieup

Nov 8 1945

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Government tried its hand today at ending the bus and streetcar strike that had left Washington without mass public transportation for a second day.

There was a hint, meanwhile, of possible sympathy action by taxicab drivers.

Three United States conciliation commissioners planned to meet with three union and three transit company representatives in an effort to thresh out the wage dispute.

"Nobody To Strike Against"

The executive board of the AFL taxicab operators scheduled a special meeting to "take some stand" on the transit strike. Charles Garrett, union vice president, said, "we haven't got anybody to strike against" but that the board could order a "holiday."

The always-busy taxicab trade here boomed after yesterday's surprise transit tieup. Streets were clogged as ancient and seldom-used vehicles were pressed into service.

Not A Trolley Moving

Not a trolley or bus of the Capital Transit Company—which serves the District of Columbia and suburban Maryland areas—moved under the AFL Amalgamated Street Railway Employés plan for "continuous meetings." These were scheduled to be resumed at 11 A.M. after an overnight intermission for sleep.

The three-man committee selected by the union at a stormy session late yesterday will press the workers' demand for a 30-cent hourly wage increase. The company adopted a 7-cent bonus plan in September to bring the operators' top rate to $1.02 an hour, but the union balked, saying 5 cents of the bonus had been agreed to by the company in 1943.

ODT Keeps Watch

The Office of Defense Transportation kept a close watch on developments. Col. J. Monroe Johnson, ODT director who seized the strike-threatened Illinois Central Railroad right after the Japanese capitulation in August, expressed the view through a spokesman that his agency still has authority to take over the Capital's transit system if President Truman should so direct.

Whether the 4,000 union members would return to work under Government seizure was a question. They yesterday shouted down a speaker who suggested that they return to their posts when wage negotiations are resumed.

Strike-Backer Applauded

Later they noisily applauded another worker who proposed that they stay away until their three-man wage committee reported "something that looks good."

Although the company had refused to resume bargaining negotiations directly with the union while the strike continued, Edward D. Merrill, system president, said he would accept the Government proposal of conciliation conferences.

The same procedure was tried in the recent oil and current Greyhound bus strikes, but without much success.

Pearl Harbor Files Available To Republicans

Lucas Asserts Committee Men Can See Them if a Democrat Goes Along

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP).—A Democrat promised Republicans today a look at any of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt's files that has a direct bearing on Pearl Harbor, provided that a Democrat goes along.

Senator Scott W. Lucas, Democrat, of Illinois, stood committed to this procedure. Senators Owen Brewster, Republican, of Maine, and Homer Ferguson, Republican, of Michigan, indicated they will take advantage of the opportunity. All three are members of the ten-man Senate-House Pearl Harbor investigating committee.

Senator Ferguson told a reporter he would be "pleased" to go with Senator Lucas to the Government Archives Building, where the Roosevelt papers are stored.

He said that among other things he wants to see correspondence between Mr. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in the period covering the agreements on Atlantic Charter provisions.

Senator Lucas told the Senate yesterday that if Senators Ferguson and Brewster had a lead on anything they thought was "of value and merit," a bi-partisan subcommittee would be assigned to run it down.

Later in an interview, Senator Lucas said he thinks William D. Mitchell, counsel for the inquiry committee, ought to look over the correspondence first and determine what is pertinent to the investigation.

"I would never vote to give them (the Republicans) authority to go into the files as individuals," Senator Lucas told a reporter. "But if Mitchell and Miss Tully can find specific things about which they are inquiring, all right. Any other method would involve reading all of the confidential mesages of President Roosevelt."

Miss Grace Tully, former private secretary to Mr. Roosevelt, has the key to the room in the Archives Building where the files are stored.

Senator Lucas suggested it might be difficult to find specific items. But from a person who has seen the files, it was learned that they are indexed up to the time of the President's death.

Senator Ferguson said he thought it might be well for the Senate-House committee to delay the hearings it has set for Nov. 15 in order to get all information available.

Senator Brewster made a similar suggestion in the Senate yesterday after Senator C. Wayland Brooks, Republican, of Illinois, had urged the Republican members to resign from the inquiry committee if they are not granted permission individually to go into all government records bearing on the case.

Senator Brewster told a reporter the argument over the conduct of the investigation hasn't reached that point yet. "That is a possible course of action, if it should become evident that we couldn't get a fair investigation," he said. Senator Ferguson didn't think he wanted to resign either.

House Drops Plan For Long Recess

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—House leaders said today that plans for a recess from Thanksgiving through New Year's have been dropped.

It was not immediately clear what effect this would have on the Senate, which also had hoped for an extended rest.

The House leaders said the main reason for their decision is lack of action on the Administration's so-called full-employment bill. The Democratic leadership is determined to have the House vote on this legislation before it takes a holiday.

Ramspeck's Edict

"There won't be any recess until late in December, unless the House considers a full-employment bill," Democratic Whip Ramspeck (Ga.) said.

Chairman Manasco (D., Ala.) of the House Expenditures Committee, which is considering the measure, said that hearings may be concluded this week or next. He added, however, that it would take "several weeks" to write a committee version of the legislation.

The Senate has passed the bill in watered-down form.

Other Action Desired

Ramspeck said that while the leadership would like action on several other matters, it will insist only on the full-employment bill.

Other House leaders said they still were hopeful that an unemployment compensation measure would be considered, but that they fear it will remain stuck in the House Ways and Means Committee.

President Truman has asked for a bill providing up to $25 weekly for 26 weeks to unemployed persons. The Senate has passed a modified version which would maintain payments at present state levels for 26 weeks.

GI Discharges Another Issue

Another issue which may complicate the planned House holiday is on discharge of men from the armed forces.

Representatives Shafer (R., Mich.) and Reed (R., N.Y.) already have petitions before the House designed to force action on bills to broaden discharge eligibility requirements. Representative Rankin (D., Miss.) has another pending.

The Mississippian said he intends to force action on his measure before the holidays. It would allow immediate discharge of any man who: (1) Wants to return to school; (2) has any dependents, or (3) has eighteen months of service.

'Pilots Punished For Refusing Storm-Trip'

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—Representative Ploeser (R., Mo.) asked the Navy today to investigate complaints that a navy captain disciplined a group of flyers at Okinawa for refusing to fly through a typhoon after the war.

Ploeser's office made public a letter the Missourian wrote Secretary Forrestal. In it the lawmaker said his informant—the wife of one of the pilots—related that during the recent typhoon the captain ordered six naval flyers and their crews to go to Saipan and obtain beaching gear.

"Because of the immediate and extreme danger in attempting to fly through the typhoon, and because this trip would jeopardize the lives of 66 men, the pilots refused to make the trip," Ploeser wrote.

Wings Threatened

He added that the captain then reportedly told the flyers they would have their wings taken away and would be compelled to remain on Okinawa eighteen months longer, although some were eligible for discharge.

"It is my understanding," Ploeser continued, "that the captain refused to permit the pilots to move their planes to a place of safety, and all planes but one were wrecked in the storm."

Ploeser's office said that one of the pilots whose home is in St. Louis wrote his wife that the captain "made us move ashore on Okinawa without giving us any food, water or a place to live."

Food From Seabees

The flyers succeeded in talking Seabees out of a 50-foot tent, cases of food, cans of water and army cots.

"We have borrowed and stolen equipment from every outfit on the island," the pilot wrote.

He added he was writing the letter in the light of a lamp made from a beer can filled with oil found on the beach. A stove was made from stones and mud.

Ploeser's office declined to make public the name of the flyer.

NEW DISCOVERIES BOOST KNOWN OIL RESERVES IN U. S.

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Nov. 7—(AP) New discoveries have increased the United States' known oil reserves faster than the unprecedented demands of a world-wide war used up oil, Frank Phillips, head of the Philips Petroleum company, said today.

Proved reserves have increased 56.6 per cent from 1937 through 1945, Phillips said in an interview. "And there still are vast areas in the United States favorable for the accumulation of oil which have not been prospected."

Phillips said he could not present possibility of synthetic fuels replacing natural petroleum products.

"In the eight years from 1937 to 1944, inclusive," he said, "new proved reserves in this country totaled 18.5 billion barrels.

"Oil production was 11.1 billion barrels. Thus, all needs, including unprecedented military demands, were filled and reserves increase 7.4 billion barrels, or 56.6 per cent.

"This seems to indicate that if the economy forces controlling oil industry operations are permitted to operate freely, sufficient oil will be found to supply all needs, and the upward trend of reserves will continue."

The never-ending hunt for new oil pools will continue "on a large scale," Phillips, now chairman of the board of the company bearing his name, continued.

He expected the trend in hunting new fields to be toward location of pools through geological and geophysical exploration rather than through actual drilling. The drilling, he indicated, would come later when the oil was needed.

He anticipated a move toward a search for deeper production in the known pools and also exploration "in remote and heretofore inaccessible areas."

Senators Discussing Housing Proposals

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—Ways the Government can help provide homes for families a little too well off for public housing and not financially able to build under FHA are being discussed by members of the Senate Banking Committee.

Senator Ellender (D., La.) said today he has suggested three methods and talked them over with Chairman Wagner (D., N.Y.) of the committee and Senator Taft (R., Ohio), a member and also chairman of a postwar planning housing subcommittee.

Ellender said the problem is this: Public housing takes care of those who can pay only up to $20 a month for shelter and FHA's insured mortgage plan fits those who can pay $30 a month or more.

Three Approaches Proposed

Ellender proposed three approaches to the "between-the-gap" folks:

1. Government mortgage guarantee up to 95 per cent on loans at a low interest rate, perhaps 3½ per cent, on housing in this field. The FHA rate is 4 to 4½ per cent, plus an insurance charge.

2. Provision for a mutual association or housing co-operative. Ellender said what he has in mind is for various groups to form co-operatives to purchase five or six blocks and build homes. The lending companies by dealing with representatives of the co-ops instead of with large numbers of individuals, Ellender added, could reduce carrying costs.

Guarantee To Builders

3. A provision for the Government to guarantee loans at low-rate interest to concerns which would build housing to rent at a rate to be set beforehand by the housing administrator.

So far as most committee members are concerned, these ideas still are in the exploratory stage.

Ellender, however, said he had in mind adding something of that nature to a general housing bill which he and Wagner introduced jointly in August. The Banking Committee has tentatively set hearings on this measure for Tuesday.

That bill is aimed generally at stimulating construction of 1,250,000 new housing units a year for the next ten years. It includes provision for Federal aid to cities to wipe out "blighted" and slum areas, continued public housing, and expansion of the FHA mortage insurance system.

FLU VACCINE GIVEN TROOPS

NOV 8 1945

Success Reported With War-Developed Inoculation

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Army said today a war-developed flu vaccine will have been administered to 7,000,000 troops within the next few weeks in the "greatest mass vaccination against influenza ever attempted."

A spokesman for the Army surgeon general said the new vaccine offered a definite degree of protection against two common types of influenza. He said it eventually will be made available to civilians, but he couldn't say when.

The vaccine has provided such protection against influenza types "A" and "B" which the Army says "have been the main causes of the disease encountered in recent years."

Determining Means

It is not known, however, whether either, both or some still unrecognized type of flu caused the world-wide epidemic of 1918-1919.

The surgeon general's representative said that while there is thus no guarantee that the vaccine would offer protection against an epidemic of the 1918 type, the mass inoculation of troops will do this:

It will offer an accurate means of determining whether a large segment of the population can be protected from the types of 'flu most commonly encountered.

Tests Among Volunteers

In tests among volunteers during the war, the vaccine reduced the incidence of 'flu about 75 per cent among vaccinated persons, compared with unvaccinated controls. Both groups had previously been exposed to disease viruses.

It was found, too, that the disease was milder and of shorter duration among vaccinated persons who did get sick.

The vaccine, developed by Dr. Thomas Francis, Jr., and Dr. Jonas E. Salk, of the Army's commission on influenza, is prepared from "killed" viruses of the "A" and "B" types of flu.

Mate, Held In Chains 15 Days, Files Libel Against Tanker

NOV 8 1945

Corpus Christi, Texas, Nov. 7 (AP). A 10,000-ton tanker, the S.S. Newberg, was seized by a United States deputy marshal today after the first mate, held in chains fifteen days at sea for what his captain said was "insubordination on the high seas," filed a $30,800 libel action against the ship.

Details were brought out at a Coast Guard hearing here today on the petition of Capt. A. H. Miller, of the Newberg, asking revocation of the license of First Mate Charles L. Maes, 55, of Los Angeles.

The Newberg may not leave port until the company posts bond in connection with the libel action.

Wouldn't 'Butterworth Tanks'

Captain Miller logged Maes for insubordination on the high seas and threw him in chains as the tanker was approaching Balboa, October 18. He said Maes refused to "butterworth the tanks" at his order. This is a cleaning operation.

Maes remained in chains for fifteen days, he said in his charges. When the ship docked here November 2, he was transferred to the Nueces county jail. He was released Monday following an investigation by the FBI, asked by Captain Miller when Maes was placed in jail.

U.S. Agency Owns Ship

No criminal charges have been filed against him.

In Los Angeles tonight, Martin Faerber, insurance manager of the Los Angeles Tanker Operators, Inc., said the Newberg was the property of the United States War Shipping Administration, and his company acted only as general agent for the vessel.

He said the company had not been informed of the alleged insubordination of the mate or of his incarceration aboard the Newberg.

35 AMERICANS GET BRITISH DECORATIONS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP) On behalf of King George VI, the Earl of Halifax conferred decorations on 35 United States officers and others in a ceremony at the British embassy today.

The awards and recipients include:

Honorary comander of the military division of the most excellent order of the British Empire (C.B.E.):

Capt. Norman S. Ives, USN, whose insignia was accepted by his widow, of Portsmouth, N. H. "x x x Rendered distinguished service while in command of U. S. submarine squadron 50."

Military Cross (M.C.):

Capt. Robert Lee Ford, Lexington, N. C. "x x x A most successful and inspiring leader to the Greek irregular forces."

FULBRIGHT TO KEEP HIS PLACE IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. — (AP) Senator Fulbright (D-Ark) announced today he intends to remain in the Senate despite reports he is being considered for the presidency of Columbia University, New York City.

Although the senator has received no formal offer, it is understood he has been approached informally by representatives on the university as a possible successor to 83-year-old Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler.

The 40-year-old senator, a Rhodes scholar and former president of the University of Arkansas, said in a statement.

"A year ago you chose me to be your senator for six years. I intend to continue to devote whatever ability I may have to that purpose."

A New York newspaper reported early in October that Fulbright was the unanimous choice of a special faculty committee, appointed to recommend a successor to Dr. Butler. Both Columbia officials and Fulbright declined comment at the time.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder of the Royal Air Force arrived by air from London today for an extended American visit as the guest of General Marshaall. Accompanied by Lady Tedder, Sir Arthur will go to New York on Friday for the first stop on a tour of the country which will continue until Nov. 30.

Marshal Tedder, who served as Allied Deputy Commander-in-Chief for the invasion of Europe, will arrive at Mitchel Field early tomorrow.

The air marshal will devote the first day of his visit to a tour of installations at Mitchel Field and a talk to news representatives, following a luncheon at the Harvard Club. On Saturday he will be guest of the city and in the afternoon attend the Army-Notre Dame football game.

4,000 TRANSIT MEN END STRIKE IN CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Washington's homeward bound throngs found bus and street-car service partly restored tonight after 4,000 AFL Capital Transit Company employes voted to end their walkout.

The carriers, idle for more than thirty hours, began operating again before midafternoon under an agreement which provided a fourteen-day truce for negotiation of union demands for a 30 cents an hour pay increase.

Speakers made it clear at a union rally that failure to reach an accord within the next fortnight might prompt another vote on whether to walk out again.

The truce came after intervention by Representative Jennings Randolph, Democrat, of West Virginia, who as chairman of the House District of Columbia Committee is Washington's unofficial "Mayor."

Mr. Randolph also met with officials of two taxicab unions which had threatened to join the transit workers' walkout, and announced that he had gained from them a commitment not to strike at this time.

At the meeting of bus and cab drivers, union leaders pleaded for approval of the back-to-work pact. There was opposition at first, but local President William F. Simms and his negotiating committee told the men that Army intervention was imminent if the stoppage continued.

'Apple-Polishing' Upgrading Tactics Charged To Navy

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Army And Navy Bulletin, an unofficial publication, says selection of navy officers for flag rank has taken on some aspects of "a popularity contest where the votes determine the winner."

Flag rank is that of rear admiral or higher.

This week's issue says, the Bulletin reported in a statement tonight, that Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of naval operations, is responsible for the "popularity contest procedure" and that it has stimulated the "navy art of polishing the apple."

On The Social Side

"It has put a premium, at least to some extent," the publication says, "on the social side of navy life, on how many people you know—or don't know."

This is the way it says eighteen captains recently were nominated for rear admiral:

Fifty flag officers were asked to pick them from 500 names submitted, arrange them in priority according to their own judgment and send their choices to Washington, "where a selection board, with a minority of members present, went through the motions of the prewar system."

The Navy had no comment tonight.

Senators Study Ship Concessions

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—Foreign nations now using some 600 United States-owned merchant vessels under lend-lease may be authorized to charter them in the future.

This was one of two concessions to foreign countries considered by a Senate Commerce subcommittee today as it worked on a ship sales bill which it hopes to complete before the end of the week.

The second concession which probably will be included in the bill, according to Chairman Radcliffe (D., Md.), will be to permit foreign nations to bid for a Government-owned vessel 90 days after its price has been published. A House measure provides a waiting period of six months.

Radcliffe said the subcommittee agreed that sales prices on all dry-cargo vessels would be set on a basic rate of 50 per cent of prewar cost. Other factors would be taken into consideration, however, before setting the actual sales price.

Further reductions in price, such as five per cent for each year the boat was in service and three or four per cent for war service, might drag the price down.

The prices under the bill could not be set lower than 85 per cent of the vessel's replacement cost during the war. The floor for Liberty ships would be 31½ per cent of war cost because there are so many to be offered for sale.

Radcliffe said the actual sales prices on most vessels probably will range from 5 to 12 per cent below the 50 per cent prewar cost.

'Pappy' Aims To Stay In

Los Angeles, Nov. 7 (AP)—Lieut. Col. Gregory (Pappy) Boyington, of Seattle, Marine ace and holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor, plans to remain in the service if a physical checkup finds him fit. He came here yesterday for the examination following a bond-sale tour.

Clark Urgently Calls For Congress Pay Rise

Cites Loss of U. S. Judges Because of Low Salaries

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP).—Attorney General Tom Clark called urgently today for higher pay for Congress members, saying that they "possibly are the most grossly underpaid people in government.

Also, he said, "we're losing judges every day" because the government doesn't pay enough to keep many good men out of greener pastures in private fields.

Mr. Clark was a witness before the Senate Civil Service Committee, which is considering a 20 per cent pay increase for civil service employees. Also before it are proposals for increasing the salaries of Congress members, judges and departmental officials.

President Truman has backed higher pay for Congress. The most frequently heard figure is $20,000 a year as compared with $10,000 now.

As to judges, Mr. Clark said that only this morning a man turned down a Federal judgeship with the explanation he couldn't afford to take the job, having made $52,000 last year. He emphasized a belief that lower paid people such as assistant district attorneys urgently need a raise. Such a man making $2,800 a year, he said, can't exist on that salary alone if he has a family.

With a smile, the Attorney General declined to discuss possible raises for Cabinet members.

"When they cut down taxes $6,000,000,000 when the money is needed to balance the budget and the national debt is $265,000,000,000.

"Congressmen's salaries to be increased 100 per cent."

Gen. Twining To Receive Honors From British

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, former commander of the 15th Air Force in Italy, will receive tomorrow one of the highest British military decorations, the British Information Service reported today.

On behalf of King George, the British Ambassador, Lord Halifax, will confer on Twining the award of Honorary Knight Commander of the military division of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire (K.B.E.).

The citation said that Twining's service to the British "have been very real and he stands high on list of those who worked together in the common cause."

Hugh Potter Resigns U.S. Construction Post

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—Resignation of Hugh Potter as the Government's construction co-ordinator was announced today by Reconversion Director John W. Snyder.

Potter, former president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, took over the construction post last August 1. He had stipulated that he would not serve more than 90 days.

In a letter to Potter at his home in Houston, Texas, Snyder thanked him for his part in "substantial progress toward breaking the bottlenecks . . . which have been impeding the construction industry." Potter was one of the principal proponents of removing Government controls over construction. These were eliminated on October 15. He also has opposed a move for price ceilings on houses.

2d Armored to Retrain

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP).—The 2d Armored Division, now in Germany, will return to Camp Hood, near Temple, Tex., in January or February, for retraining of those not eligible for discharge. A War Department spokesman said today the veteran division will leave the European theater of operations the latter part of December to return to this country.

U. S. and Britain Not Agreed on Aid

Washington, Nov. 7 (A. P.).—Secretary of State Byrnes said today that there is no prospect of immediate agreement between Anglo-American officials discussing financial aid to Britain.

He told a news conference that he sat in during a two and a half hour discussion today. Although considerable progress has been made on various problems, he reported that the conferees are not yet on the point of agreement.

He said, however, th[illegible] the results of the talks are [illegible]ouraging and he has not cons[illegible]ed the possibility of failure.

Benefits For Navy V-12 Students Explained

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—Navy V-12 students placed on inactive status without any actual service are entitled to most benefits under the G I Bill of Rights, a Veterans Administration spokesman said today.

He gave this exception: They will not be entitled to its educational provisions.

The Navy placed 8,500 V-12 students on inactive duty as of November 1 as it canceled its college training in medical, dental and theological courses.

The Veterans Administration has ruled, the spokesman said, that V-12 students must have 90 days of active service outside of school to be entitled to the education provisions of the G I bill.

G.I.'S CAN HAVE FOLKS AT HOLIDAY DINNER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. — (AP) The American soldier, sitting down to his holiday turkey this year, can have his folks along and invite his best girl if he is stationed in this country.

The War Department said in a statement today they could have their immediate families and one friend both for Thanksgiving and Christmas meals, depending on messing facilities. There will be a charge for guests.

Director Of WAVES Gets Naval Decoration

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—Capt. Mildred McAfee Horton, director of the WAVES, today was presented the Distinguished Service Medal by Secretary Forrestal in ceremonies at the Navy Department.

Captain Horton has headed the WAVES since this branch was organized in August, 1942. She is on leave as president of Wellesley College.

SLOT MACHINES OWNER LIABLE FOR INCOME TAX

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. — (AP) The tax court of the United States has held that Philip Kastel, of New Orleans, and Stamford, Conn., is liable for an undetermined amount of income taxes arising out of his slot machine business.

The Internal Revenue Bureau claims he owes about $300,000. The exact amount he must pay will be determined later by the Bureau and the court.

Kastel, a proprietor of the Bayou Novelty Company, New Orleans, according to testimony brought out at the trial, borrowed $15,000 from Frank Costello, of New York city to open a slot machine business in New Orleans. The case reached the courts when the Internal Revenue Bureau challenged Kastel's returns.

Involved were three main questions: 1—Whether Kastel was guilty of fraud; 2—Whether community property laws in Louisiana would make his wife subject to half of the taxes; and 3—Whether Kastel must pay taxes on amounts he paid to Costello from income, under a private agreement.

The tax court held there was no fraud proven, that Mrs. Kastel was liable to half of the taxes due and that since the income, later split with Costello, first came to Kastel, Kastel and his wife are liable to taxes on the entire amount.

Pay Boosts After Aug. 18 Allowed For Tax Returns

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—Wage increases granted without Government approval after August 18, 1945, won't be liable to disallowance as business costs for income tax purposes.

The War Labor Board announced the change today. Pay hikes lacking Government approval prior to August 18 had been subject to allowance as a cost item by the Internal Revenue Bureau on WLB recommendations. It was one means utilized to prevent manpower pirating by indiscriminate wage raises during the wartime manpower shortage.

Ford Strike Vote On

Detroit, Nov. 7 (AP)—The last of the strike votes in the automobile industry's "Big Three" over a 30 per cent wage rate increase demand began today.

Employés of the Ford Motor Company went to polls set up by the National Labor Relations Board in a voting schedule covering three days.

Approximately 80,000 employés in Ford plants over the country were eligible to vote. The vote is conducted under the Smith-Connally Act, on petition of the United Automobile Workers (CIO).

A strike was favored by large majorities in earlier votes at General Motors and Chrysler corporations.

Wartime Picture Pool Winds Up Operations

New York, Nov. 7 (AP)—The last chapter of operations for the wartime still-picture pool ended today with termination of pooled picture coverage in China, Japan and the Western Pacific theater.

Throughout the war, civilian photographers representing the four organizations participating in the pool—the Associated Press, Life Magazine, Acme Newspictures and International News Photos—provided thousands of war photographs.

Organized shortly after Pearl Harbor at the suggestion of the War and Navy departments, the pool functioned in every theater during the war. After the end of war in Europe, pooling operations ended there as of last June 15.

BEVIN-ATOMIC (220)

NOV 8 1945

LONDON, NOV. 7-(AP)-FOREIGN SECRETARY ERNEST BEVIN SAID TODAY IT WAS A "MISCONCEPTION" TO ASSUME THE ATOMIC BOMB WOULD END THE NEED FOR ARMIES, NAVIES AND AIR FORCES.

"YOU MUST IN THIS WORLD KEEP LAW AND ORDER," HE SAID DURING THE FOREIGN AFFAIRS DEBATE IN COMMONS. "YOU CANNOT CARRY ON CIVILIZATION IN ANY OTHER WAY AND I DON'T SUPPOSE IT IS IN ANY MEMBER'S MIND THAT EVERY TIME SOMEBODY BECOMES OBSTREPEROUS YOU WILL FETCH OUT AN ATOMIC BOMB WITH MOST DISASTROUS RESULTS."

ESTIMATING THAT DURING THE PAST 100 YEARS THE ARMED FORCES OF THE WORLD WERE ENGAGED IN "POLICE DUTIES" 80 OR 90 PER CENT OF THE TIME, THE FOREIGN SECRETARY SAID:

"I DON'T WANT US TO GET INTO A PANIC ABOUT THE ATOMIC BOMB. NEITHER DO I WANT IT TO BE REGARDED AS A SUBSTITUTE FOR ORDINARY NORMAL POLICING OF THE WORLD IN ORDINARY NORMAL CONDITIONS.

"NOR DO I WANT IT TO BE THOUGHT THAT BECAUSE YOU HAVE TO KEEP A MILITARY FORCE IT SHOULD ALWAYS BE REGARDED AS A WEAPON OF OFFENSE.

"I HOPE THAT AS THE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION GROWS WE WILL SUCCEED IN CUTTING DOWN MILITARY EXPENDITURE TO A MINIMUM, BUT NOT TO SUCH A POINT AS TO MAKE THE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION INEFFECTIVE IN THE FACE OF AGGRESSION."

HE SAID THERE WERE MANY OTHER FORMS OF SCIENTIFIC INVESTIGATION WHICH MIGHT RESULT IN WEAPONS "EQUALLY DISASTROUS" AS THE ATOMIC BOMB, SO "LET US NOT KEEP OUR MINDS SOLELY ON THE ATOMIC BOMB."

HE DECLARED THAT THE PRESIDENTIAL DECLARATION WAS BASED ON THE PREMISE THAT THE BOMB "GAVE THE POSSESSOR OVERWHELMING SUPERIOR POWER AND PLACED EVERYONE ELSE ON A LOWER LEVEL."

SAYING THERE COULD BE NO HOPE OF ENDING WARS UNTIL THERE WAS ONE SOVEREIGN STATE OF THE WORLD, HE URGED THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT TO DECLARE A POLICY BASED UPON WORLD ECONOMIC UNITY, CONCERTED PLANS TO DEAL WITH DEPRESSIONS, REDUCTION OF TRADE BARRIERS AND ELIMINATION OF ALL DISCRIMINATION.

LABORITE GORDON WALKER SAID THERE WERE "DISQUIETING SIGNS THAT AMERICA MAY BE PREPARING FOR A WITHDRAWAL FROM GERMANY AND EUROPE."

"IF SHE DOES," HE SAID, "IT WILL BE A GREAT BLOW AGAINST THE INTERESTS OF EUROPE, AGAINST THE LONG-TERM INTERESTS OF AMERICA AND AGAINST THE TENOR OF PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S SPEECH."

CHURCHILL CONCLUDED HIS FOREIGN POLICY OUTLINE BY SUBMITTING WHAT HE TERMED THESE "FEW SIMPLE POINTS:"

1. "FIRST OF ALL WE SHOULD FORTIFY IN EVERY WAY OUR SPECIAL AND FRIENDLY CONNECTIONS WITH THE UNITED STATES, AIMING ALWAYS AT A FRUITFUL ASSOCIATION FOR THE PURPOSE OF COMMON PROTECTION AND WORLD PEACE.

2. "THAT THIS ASSOCIATION SHOULD IN NO WAY HAVE A POINT AGAINST ANY OTHER COUNTRY, GREAT OR SMALL, IN THE WORLD, BUT SHOULD, ON THE CONTRARY, BE USED TO TRY TO LEAD THE VICTORIOUS POWERS EVER MORE CLOSELY TOGETHER ON EQUAL TERMS AND IN ALL GOOD FAITH TOGETHER.

3. "THAT WE SHOULD NOT ABANDON OUR SPECIAL RELATIONSHIP WITH THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA ABOUT THE ATOMIC BOMB AND THAT WE SHOULD AID THE UNITED STATES TO GUARD THIS WEAPON AS A SACRED TRUST FOR THE MAINTENANCE OF PEACE.

4. "THAT WE SHOULD SEEK CONSTANTLY TO PROMOTE AND STRENGTHEN THE WORLD ORGANIZATION OF THE UNITED NATIONS SO THAT, IN DUE COURSE, IF MAY EVENTUALLY BE FITTED TO BECOME THE SAFE REPOSITORY OF THIS GREAT ENERGY.

5. "I THINK THIS IS AGREED. WE SHOULD MAKE ATOMIC BOMBS OURSELVES AND HAVE THEM HERE, EVEN IF MANUFACTURED ELSEWHERE, IN SUITABLE SAFE STORAGE, WITH THE LEAST POSSIBLE DELAY."

TERMING PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S 12-POINT FOREIGN POLICY PROGRAM, PROCLAIMED IN A NAVY DAY SPEECH OCT. 27, A "DOMINANT FACTOR IN THE PRESENT WORLD SITUATION," CHURCHILL SAID:

A141

"SUCH A DECLARATION AT ANY TIME BETWEEN THE TWO WARS WOULD HAVE PREVENTED THE SECOND.

"IT WOULD HAVE MADE THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS A WORLD LEAGUE STRONG ENOUGH TO PREVENT THE REARMAMENT OF GERMANY WHICH HAS LED US ALL THROUGH SO MUCH TRIBULATION AND DANGER AND GERMANY HERSELF TO PUNISHMENT AND RUIN."

THEREFORE, I SAY I AM ENTITLED ON BEHALF OF THE GOVERNMENT TO HAVE GOOD NEIGHBORS IN MY STREET JUST AS ANY OTHER COUNTRY IS ENTITLED TO HAVE GOOD NEIGHBORS IN ITS STREET."

HE ADDED, HOWEVER, THAT "WE WILL TAKE NO STEP, WE WILL DO NOTHING NOR ALLOW ANY OF OUR DIPLOMATS OR AGENTS TO DO ANYTHING TO STIR UP HATRED OR TO PROVOKE A SITUATION DETRIMENTAL TO RUSSIA IN THE EASTERN COUNTRIES."

BEVIN DISCOUNTED THE POSSIBILITY THAT ATOMIC ENERGY COULD BE DEVELOPED FOR INDUSTRIAL USE WITHOUT "LONG, WEARY, HARD AND PATIENT WORK."

"THAT ENCOURAGES ME TO BELIEVE THAT IT WILL GIVE US TIME TO BUILD UP THE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION FOR PEACE EFFORTS AND THAT, AS IT EVOLVES FOR INDUSTRY, THE NECESSITY FOR ITS USE FOR THE ATOMIC BOMB WILL DISAPPEAR."

CHURCHILL SUBMITTED WHAT HE DESCRIBED AS A FEW SIMPLE POINTS:

"FIRST OF ALL WE SHOULD FORTIFY IN EVERY WAY OUR SPECIAL AND FRIENDLY CONNECTIONS WITH THE UNITED STATES, AIMING ALWAYS AT A FRUITFUL ASSOCIATION FOR THE PURPOSE OF COMMON PROTECTION AND WORLD PEACE.

"THIS ASSOCIATION SHOULD IN NO WAY HAVE A POINT AGAINST ANY OTHER COUNTRY, GREAT OR SMALL, IN THE WORLD, BUT SHOULD ON THE CONTRARY BE USED TO TRY TO LEAD THE VICTORIOUS POWERS EVER MORE CLOSELY TOGETHER ON EQUAL TERMS AND IN ALL GOOD FAITH AND GOOD WILL.

"THAT WE SHOULD NOT ABANDON OUR SPECIAL RELATIONSHIP WITH THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA ABOUT THE ATOMIC BOMB AND THAT WE SHOULD

NOV 8 1945

30.24-3M487

AID THE UNITED STATES TO GUARD THIS WEAPON AS A SACRED TRUST FOR THE MAINTENANCE OF PEACE.

"THAT WE SHOULD SEEK CONSTANTLY TO PROMOTE AND STRENGTHEN THE WORLD ORGANIZATION OF THE UNITED NATIONS SO THAT IN DUE COURSE IT MAY EVENTUALLY BE FITTED TO BECOME THE SAFE REPOSITORY OF THIS GREAT ENERGY.

"I THINK THIS IS AGREED. WE SHOULD MAKE ATOMIC BOMBS OURSELVES AND HAVE THEM HERE, EVEN IF MANUFACTURED ELSEWHERE, IN SUITABLE SAFE STORAGE WITH THE LEAST POSSIBLE DELAY."

SPEAKING OF THE ATOMIC BOMB, CHURCHILL SAID:

"A GREAT DEAL OF INFORMATION IS ALSO COMMON VROPERTY ALL OVER THE WORLD, BUT WE ARE TOLD BY THOSE WHO ADVOCATE IMMEDIATE PUBLIC DISCLOSURE THAT THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT ARE IN POSSESSION OF THE SCIENTIFIC KNOWLEDGE, AND THAT THEY WILL BE ABLE TO MAKE ATOMIC BOMBS IN A VERY SHORT TIME.

"THIS IS SOMEWHAT INCONSISTENT WITH THE ARGUMENT THAT THEY HAVE A GRIEVANCE AND ALSO WITH THE ARGUMENT, FOR WHAT IT IS WORTH, THAT WE AND THE UNITED STATES HAVE AT THIS MOMENT NO GREAT GIFT TO BESTOW AS WOULD INDUCE A COMPLETE MELTING OF HEARTS AND CREATE SOME NEW RELATIONSHIP.

"WHAT THE UNITED STATES DID NOT WISH TO DISCLOSE IS THE PRACTICAL PRODUCTION METHODS WHICH THEY HAVE DEVELOPED AT ENORMOUS EXPENSE AND ON A GIGANTIC SCALE. THIS WOULD NOT BE AN AFFAIR OF SCIENTISTS OR DIPLOMATISTS SENDING OVER FORMULAS. TO BE EFFECTIVE ANY SUCH DISCLOSURE WOULD HAVE TO TAKE THE FORM OF A CONSIDERABLE NUMBER OF SOVIET SPECIALISTS, ENGINEERS AND SCIENTISTSN VISITING THE UNITED STATES ARSENALS, FOR THAT IS WHAT THE MANUFACTURING CENTERS OF THE ATOMIC BOMB REALLY ARE.

"THEY WOULD HAVE TO VISIT THEM AND WOULD HAVE TO DWELL THERE SO THAT THEY COULD HAVE IT ALL EXPLAINED TO THEM, AND THESE OFFICIALS THEN WOULD RETURN TO THEIR COUNTRY WITH ALL THE INFORMATION THEY HAD OBTAINED AND WITH ANY FURTHER IMPROVEMENTS WHICH MIGHT HAVE OCCURRED TO THEM."

NOV 8 1945

CHURCHILL SAID "IT IS OUR PROFOUND DESIRE THAT THE FEELINGS OF COMRADESHIP AND FRIENDSHIP WHICH HAVE DEVELOPED BETWEEN THE BRITISH AND RUSSIAN PEOPLES SHOULD NOT ONLY BE PRESERVED BUT SHOULD BE EXPANDED.

"WE ARE ALL GLAD TO KNOW AND FEEL THAT GENERALISSIMO STALIN IS STILL STRONGLY HOLDING THE HELM AND STEERING HIS TREMENDOUS SHIP. PERSONALLY, I CANNOT FEEL ANYTHING BUT THE MOST LIVELY ADMIRATION FOR THIS TRULY GREAT MAN, THE FATHER OF HIS COUNTRY, THE RULER OF ITS DESTINY IN PEACE AND THE GLORIOUS DEFENDER OF ITS LIFE IN WAR.

"IT IS NOT IMPOSSIBLE THAT WE SHOULD DEVELOP STRONG DIFFERENCES ON MANY ASPECTS OF POLICY, POLITICAL, SOCIAL, EVEN AS WE THINK, MORAL, WITH THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT, BUT NO STATE OF MIND MUST BE ALLOWED TO OCCUR IN BRITAIN WHICH RUPTURES OR WITHERS THOSE GREAT ASSOCIATIONS BETWEEN OUR TWO PEOPLES WHICH WERE OUR GLORY AND OUR SAFETY IN THE LATE FRIGHTFUL CONVULSION.

"ANY IDEA OF BRITAIN DELIBERATELY PURSUING AN ANTI-RUSSIAN POLICY OR TAKING PART IN THE MAKING OF A COMBINATION TO THE DETERMENT OF RUSSIA IS THOROUGHLY OPPOSED TO BRITISH THOUGHT AND CONSCIENCE."

HE DECLARED THAT NOTHING BUT A LONG PERIOD OF MARKED INJURIES AND ANTAGONISMS COULD DEVELOP SUCH A SITUATION.

BEVIN, IN HIS "PUT THE CARDS ON THE TABLE" APPEAL TO THE BIG POWERS, SAID BRITAIN WOULD "DO NOTHING OR ALLOW ANY OF OUR AGENTS AND DIPLOMATS TO DO ANYTHING, TO STIR UP HATRED OR TO PROVOKE OR CREATE A SITUATION DETRIMENTAL TO RUSSIA IN THE EASTERN COUNTRIES."

"IF YOU GIVE THAT SECURITY AGAINST ATTACK, INTRIGUE OR THE STIRRING UP OF DIFFICULTIES, I CANNOT ACCEPT THAT THE NATURAL THING THAT FOLLOWS IS TO CLOSE THE DOOR AND PREVENT THE COUNTRY FROM HAVING ANY CONTACT WITH THOSE PEOPLES FOR TRADE OR ANYTHING ELSE," HE CONTINUED.

"NEITHER AM I PREPARED TO ACCEPT THE POSITION SO OFTEN BLARED FROM MOSCOW RADIO THAT CLAIMS THE RIGHT TO HAVE FRIENDLY RELATIONSHIPS WITH THEIR NEAR NEIGHBORS, EVEN AS PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT PROCLAIMED THE GOOD NEIGHBOR POLICY WITH SOUTH AMERICA.

"I AM NOT A CRIMINAL IF I WANT FRIENDSHIP WITH NEIGHBORS BORDERING ON THE BRITISH FRONTIER. WHAT AM I DOING WRONG?

"I AM DOING NOTHING TO INJURE ANYBODY AND I AM NOT PREPARED TO ACCEPT THAT POSITION FROM ANY OTHER COUNTRY IN THE WORLD."

(EDITOR'S NOTE: THIS IS THE THIRD AND LAST OF A SERIES OF STORIES FOR AFTERNOON NEWSPAPERS ON SECRET TELEPHONE CONVERSATIONS BETWEEN NAZI OFFICIALS, RECORDED AT THE TIME OF THE AUSTRIAN ANSCHLUSS.)

BY DANIEL DE LUCE

COPYRIGHT, 1945, BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BERLIN, NOV 7-(AP)-RECORDS OF SECRET TELEPHONE CONVERSATIONS WHICH TOOK PLACE BETWEEN NAZI LEADERS WHILE GERMAN TROOPS WERE MARCHING INTO AUSTRIA IN 1938 INDICATE THEY BELIEVED THAT WAR WAS AVERTED AT THAT TIME ONLY BECAUSE BRITAIN FAILED TO SUPPORT FRANCE IN A THREAT TO FIGHT.

NOV 8 1945

30.24-31489

ON SUNDAY, MARCH 1938, THE OCCUPATION ALREADY WAS WELL UNDER WAY AND ADOLF HITLER WAS IN LINZ, PREPARING FOR A TRIUMPHAL ENTRY INTO VIENNA.

REICHSMARSHAL HERMANN GOERING, EXCITED BY RECEIPT OF WHAT HE BELIEVED AUTHENTIC INFORMATION THAT FRANCE HAD BACKED DOWN IN HER THREAT TO FIGHT FOR AUSTRIA'S INTEGRITY, HASTILY TELEPHONED HIS CHIEF LIEUTENANT IN VIENNA. MAJ. GEN. KARL BODENSCHATZ. APPARENTLY THE GERMANS HAD INTERCEPTED OR OTHERWISE OBTAINED POSSESSION OF DIPLOMATIC MESSAGES WHICH HAD JUST BEEN DECODED.

REPEATEDLY EMPHASIZING THAT BRITAIN HAD REJECTED A FRENCH PROPOSAL FOR ACTION, HE ADMONISHED BODENSCHATZ TO BE CERTAIN HITLER READ THE "BROWN PAPERS" BEING SENT HIM AT LINZ. GOERING APPARENTLY FEARED THAT HITLER, IN THE MIDST OF THE EXCITED WELCOME FROM AUSTRIAN NAZIS, WOULD MISS READING THE PAPERS AND SAY OR DO SOMETHING THAT WOULD UPSET THE APPLECART.

NOV 8 1945

GOERING AND SUAVE FOREIGN MINISTER JOACHIM VON RIBBENTROP ALREADY WERE LAYING THE GROUNDWORK FOR TRAPPING BRITAIN'S PRIME MINISTER, NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN, AT MUNICH, IN BRITAIN, ANTHONY EDEN HAD RESIGNED AS FOREIGN SECRETARY IN A PROTEST AGAINST APPEASEMENT OF THE DICTATORS

IN FRANCE SOCIALIST PREMIER LEON BLUM'S GOVERNMENT HAD GONE SO FAR AS TO MOBILIZE SOME TROOPS ON THE MAGINOT LINE WHILE APPARENTLY SEEKING TO ALIGN BRITAIN AND ITALY IN A UNITED FRONT AGAINST GERMANY. BUT THE GERMANS BELIEVED MUSSOLINI HAD BEEN DECISIVELY TURNED AGAINST ANY ANTI-GERMAN BLOC BY HITLER'S MESSAGE TO THE DUCE, DECLARING THAT THE ITALIAN-GERMAN FRONTIER AT THE BRENNER PASS WAS SETTLED FOR ALL TIME.

RECORDS OF THE TELEPHONE CONVERSATION BETWEEN GOERING AND BODENSCHATZ WERE SALVAGED FROM THE BLASTED RUINS OF THE AIR MINISTRY BUILDING IN BERLIN. HERE ARE SOME EXTRACTS FROM THE CONVERSATION:

BODENSCHATZ: "FROM TONIGHT AUSTRIA AND GERMANY WILL BE ONE REICH. ALL AUSTRIAN TROOPS WILL TAKE THE OATH TO THE FUEHRER TOMORROW."

GOERING: "TELL THE FUEHRER REPORTS HAVE JUST COME -- THE BROWN REPORTS -- WHICH ARE COMPLETELY CLEAR BECAUSE THEY WERE SEIZED. FROM THESE IT CAN BE SEEN THAT ACTION ONLY MISCARRIED BECAUSE ENGLAND REJECTED IT."

NOV 8 1945

BODENSCHATZ: "JAWOHL (YES, INDEED), BECAUSE ENGLAND REJECTED IT."

GOERING: "THE FUEHRER WILL GET THEM TOMORROW MORNING. THE SITUATION WAS THUS: THE FRENCH INDEED WANTED TO GET INTO AN ACTION WITHOUT ANY RESERVATION, AND SO PRESSED MOST HARD ON THE ENGLISH. I CAN SEND YOU ALL THE DECODED CABLES. AND ONLY BECAUSE ENGLAND DECLINED, THE WHOLE ACTION WAS BLOWN UP. X X X TODAY IT IS THUS WITH THE GREAT POWERS: FRANCE TELLS ITS MINISTERS IN THE VARIOUS COUNTRIES IT CANNOT DO ANYTHING BECAUSE ENGLAND HELD OUT, AND ABOVE ALL BECAUSE ENGLAND REFUSED. X X X THE FUEHRER WILL HAVE PROOFS TOMORROW MORNING THAT ENGLAND DID NOT ENCOURAGE HIM IN RESISTANCE, BUT PLAINLY DECLINED TO TAKE OVER A GUARANTEE."

BODENSCHATZ: "JAWOHL, I'LL TELL HIM THAT."

NOV 8 1945

GOERING: "THE FUEHRER SHOULD READ OVER THESE CABLES -- THE ONES IN THE BROWN SHEETS. FROM THESE ONE CAN INCONTESTABLY ASCERTAIN THAT FRANCE WANTED TO ACT FIRST WITH ITALY AND ENGLAND AND THEN ONLY WITH ENGLAND. X X X ENGLAND'S BEHAVIOUR WAS DECISIVE HERE. JUST BECAUSE OF THAT I WANT TO BE A LITTLE FRIENDLY TO ENGLAND."

BODENSCHATZ: "JAWOHL. IT WAS DECISIVE. ENGLAND REALLY MIXED IN HERE DECISIVELY. IT DID NOT GIVE WAY TO FRANCE."

GOERING: "YES. LISTEN, BODENSCHATZ. IT IS BEYOND DOUBT -- UNTIL THE LAST MINUTE FRANCE DECLARED IT WAS READY WITHOUT RESERVATION FOR ANY ACTION, INCLUDING MILITARY, WITH ALL CONSEQUENCES, IF ENGLAND WOULD GO ALONG. ENGLAND REFUSED. IT IS LITERALLY TRUE THAT ENGLAND WAS NOT READY TO ENCOURAGE HERR SCHUSCHNIGG (AUSTRIAN PREMIER) IN HIS RESISTANCE."

BODENSCHATZ: "JAWOHL. BECAUSE OF THE TELEGRAM TO THE DUCE, WHICH WILL BE PUBLISHED."

NOV 8 1945

GOERING: "LISTEN. THERE IS AN INSTRUCTION HERE WHICH THE FRENCH FOREIGN MINISTER GAVE TO THE MINISTER ABOUT THE WHOLE COURSE. THE THING WAS, IF ENGLAND HAD SAID YES, FRANCE WAS PREPARED FOR EVERYTHING. AND IN THIS INSTRUCTION IS THE FOLLOWING INTERESTING SENTENCE: TO OUR GREATEST REGRET, ANTHONY EDEN RESIGNED ON THE 20TH. THIS SEEMS TO BE AN INDICATION THAT PERHAPS BECAUSE OF THE AUSTRIAN QUESTION EDEN WAS KICKED OUT BY CHAMBERLAIN.

BODENSCHATZ: "JAWOHL."

GOERING: "I WILL TAKE CARE THESE TWO REPORTS ARE IN LINZ. X X X FROM THEM THE FUEHRER CAN JUDGE MOST CLEARLY THE ENTIRE BEHAVIOR OF THE POWERS. AND THEN I SHALL ASK WHETHER HE WOULD ADD SOMETHING PERHAPS TO THE INSTRUCTION HE WILL GIVE ME. I ALSO DO NOT KNOW WHAT HENDERSON (SIR NEVILLE HENDERSON, BRITISH AMBASSADOR) WANTS."

BODENSCHATZ: "JAWOHL. THE TELEGRAM FOR THE DUCE WILL BE PUBLISHED. THEN THE AIR FORCE WILL TAKE PART IN A PARADE, IN GREATEST STRENGTH. ABOUT COMING HERE, THE FUEHRER SAID HE WILL COME HERE THURSDAY OR FRIDAY. THEN THE HERR GENERAL FIELD MARSHAL (GOERING) CAN COME TO AUSTRIA. HE ALSO TALKED ABOUT SPAIN AND SAID IF THE THING (THE CIVIL WAR) NOW COMES TO AN END, HE WILL BRING BACK THE FIGHTERS FOR A TRIUMPHAL ENTRANCE INTO GERMANY. HE TALKED ABOUT A MEDAL IN VARIOUS GRADES AND WILL DO IT IN A GRAND WAY -- A WELCOME IN HAMBURG AND THEN IN TRIUMPH TO BERLIN."

British Warn Indonesians To Disarm by Tomorrow Or Face All-Out Attack

TRUMAN SENT JAVA APPEAL

Indonesian Leader Makes Plea After British Ultimatum

Batavia, Nov. 8 (AP)—Fearful that heavy shooting will break out again tomorrow, President Soekarno of the unrecognized Indonesian republic tonight appealed to President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee to intercede and prevent savage warfare throughout Java.

Soekarno's appeal was made shortly after a British commander had ordered all Indonesians to surrender their arms by 6 A.M., Saturday, or face "all the naval, army and air forces under my command."

Points To U.S. Equipment

Soekarno, in his appeal to Mr. Truman, declared that "Asiatic good will toward America was endangered by the fact that the Dutch continue wearing American uniforms, carrying water canteens with the USA sign, continue to drive in USA trucks despite USA warning. . . ."

"Dutch troops," he continued, "are unrecognizable and shoot Indonesians, creating a natural suspicion on the part of Indonesians who have nothing against Americans being here on lawful business.

"American interests are now involved in the struggle. I request that to preserve American good will, please use your good offices to disarm and eventually evacuate all male citizens of Holland of military age."

Claims Red Cross Abuse

In his message to Attlee, Soekarno charged that the Dutch were abusing Red Cross unifoms and had killed Indonesian women and children.

The Indonesian leader said the presence of British troops in Java "was harmful to the good will and understanding between 70,000,000 Indonesians and the British people."

The British ultimatum to Indonesians to surrender their arms was issued by Maj. Gen. E. C. Mansergh, commanding Allied forces in the eastern part of Java. It declared:

"All Indonesians who are not willing to follow these orders will be responsible for the bloodshed which will definitely result."

Called To Resist Dutch

With 100,000 Indonesians reported massing in central Java, the Indonesian-controlled Soerabaja radio summoned nationalist forces to resist any attempt by Dutch offshore to reinforce the British Indian units holding a fortified zone at the Soerabaja base.

Mansergh's message to the Indonesian national governor in East Java called for the disarming of all Indonesians except police, set the Saturday deadline, and asserted:

"I will enforce these orders by the use of all naval, army and air forces under by command."

One Indonesian spokesman declared the ultimatum might precipitate "terrible bloodshed."

It was issued after a day of bloody fighting on the outskirts of Batavia in which 15 Indonesians were killed and two British Indian and two Dutch soldiers were wounded.

Mansergh's letter to the Indonesian governor said: "You are hereby advised that Allied troops will enter the city and neighborhood of Soerabaja and other areas in East Java.

"I have been ordered by the commander in chief of Allied forces in the Netherlands East Indies (Lt. Gen. Sir Philip Christison) to disarm the lawless mob, so that normal life in the city may continue, and the Allied policy of evacuation of Allied nationals and disarmament of Axis forces can be implemented.

"It is my intention to effect this disarmament and restore normal conditions at an early date."

A force of 100,000 Indonesians was reported in the area of Jogjakarta, ancient Java capital, 175 miles southwest of Soerabaja. Gen. Supradyi, their commander in chief and Lt. Gen. Uri had broadcast an appeal earlier today for former Netherlands East Indies military training instructors to report for duty at Jogjakarta.

The cabinet of President Soekarno of the unrecognized Indonesian republic met tonight in an emergency session at Batavia to consider the turn of events.

To Drop Pamphlets

They had received copies of pamphlets the British plan to drop by plane upon Soerabaja tomorrow giving specific directions to the Indonesians on how they must yield their arms, and stating the reason.

In today's battles on the outskirts of Batavia British tanks crashing into the jungles broke up an attack by 1,000 Indonesian youths on an internment camp. Fourteen Indonesians were killed, and two British Indian soldiers and other Indonesians were wounded.

Another band of 300 Indonesians engaged Dutch troops at Tjililitan air field, also on Batavia's outer limits. One Indonesian was killed and two Dutch soldiers were wounded.

British reports said six Indonesian divisions were being formed at Bandoeng, only 75 miles southeast of Batavia. Additional forces of armed Indonesians were said to be pouring into Magelang, about 45 miles north of Jogjakarta. Some residents already had begun to evacuate Magelang.

Meanwhile the Dutch here appeared to be taking a more optimistic outlook, based on the knowledge that Dutch troops were in ships off-shore, and on the hope that the British would give military aid in restoring Dutch power in the Netherlands East Indies.

Indonesians here charged that Dutch troops in trucks machinegunned the Jatingera police station in South Batavia, killing a desk sergeant.

There was additional shooting in Batavia last night behind the hotel Des Indies, near the pavilion where the American consular general, Walter A. Foote, resides. He was not harmed, but several hotel guests had narrow escapes.

(A delayed dispatch from Palembang, in Sumatra, said that nationalists had killed a British doctor, a British officer and several British soldiers of an Allied rescue team near Benkoelen last Tuesday. The natives were said to have charged that the British failed to observe terms of an agreement under which they were permitted to operate).

British Give Ultimatum in Java

Announce Intention to Disarm Indonesians and Restore Normal Conditions.

Batavia, Nov. 8 (A. P.).—An ultimatum declaring a British intent to enter Soerabaja, disarm Indonesians and "restore normal conditions" in east Java was delivered to Indonesian leaders by British Major-Gen. E. C. Mansergh today.

In a letter to the Indonesian Nationalist governor of East Java, Mansergh declared "you are hereby advised that Allied troops will enter the city and the neighborhood of Soerabaja and other areas of East Java.

"I have been ordered by Commander-in-chief Lieut.-Gen. Sir Philip Christison to disarm the lawless mob so that normal life in the city may continue, and to enable Allied policy of evacuation of Allied nationals and the disarmament of Axis forces to be implemented," the general announced.

"Nobody's property is safe," the letter was quoted. "It is my intention to effect this disarmament and restore normal conditions at a nearly date."

The ultimatum disclosed that the Soerabaja Nationalist radio had broadcast a warning to Indonesians that "large numbers of Dutch troops" had arrived off Soerabaja and had called upon Indonesians to oppose the Dutch landing.

Indonesian Attacks Fail.

Members of the unrecognized Soerkarno government met to discuss a report that British aircraft would drop pamphlets tomorrow ordering all civilian Indonesians to surrender their arms. The officials already had received a copy of the pamphlet.

As tension mounted throughout Java, British Indian troops and tanks beat off a band of 1,000 Indonesians near Batavia.

Almost simultaneously Dutch forces threw back another attack on the Tjililitan airfield on the southeast outskirts of the capital, scattering a band of 300 Nationalists after a pitched battle which lasted nearly an hour.

The British colonel whose troops beat back the first attack, aimed at a camp for released Allied internees and war prisoners, said that for the first time the Indonesians appeared to be fighting under organized leadership. He said that when the fighting ceased near the camp the situation was under control, but that the attackers might "come back again after lunch."

[A delayed dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Vern Haugland at Palembang, Sumatra, said reports reaching there told of the slaying by Sumatran nationalists of a British doctor, a British officer and several other high-ranking Britons near Benkoelen Tuesday.

[The men reported to have been slain were members of a unit engaged in rescuing Allied prisoners of war and internees. The reports said the natives charged that the British failed to observe the terms of the agreement under which they were allowed to operate there.]

Casualties Reported

The Indonesians left fourteen dead in the battle at the internee camp. Several Indonesians and two Punjab troopers were wounded. At the Tjililitan airfield one Indonesian was killed, one was captured and two Dutch soldiers were wounded.

At Magelang, near the center of Java, the inhabitants were reported to be extremely uneasy as armed Nationalists gathered from outlying areas, British authorities said. It was officially stated that many Magelang residents already had left the town.

Soekarno prepared to leave tomorrow to confer with other Nationalist leaders at Jogjakarta, ancient capital of the Indies, where the Nationalists are said to have 100,000 troops. Their commander in chief, General Supryadi, has broadcast a call for all former Netherlands East Indies training instructors to report to the Indonesian training center there.

Gathering At Bandoeng

The British said there appeared to be a gathering of extremist elements on "a fairly large scale" at Bandoeng. An official report said Bandoeng, the summer capital, was believed to be the headquarters of six divisions of Indonesians now in the process of formation.

For the first time, British reports referred to the Indonesian Army in military terms. Previously, reports referred to the forces as armed extremists or "members of the so-called peace preservation corps."

Shooting was reported again last night near the Hotel des Indes in Batavia, where United States Consul General Walter A. Foote resides. Several guests in the hotel had narrow escapes.

Dutch Optimistic

Despite these new outbreaks a feeling of optimism pervaded Dutch political circles. The feeling seemed to be engendered by new confidence that Britain would aid in restoring Dutch authority.

Although there was no special pronouncement to this effect by the British, the Dutch said they believed that Queen Wilhelmina and the Netherlands Government had applied extremely strong pressure on Britain for forceful aid if necessary.

The British Psychological Warfare Branch issued a statement over the Batavia radio which referred to the Dutch as "members of the victorious United Nations" who are "returning to the islands over which they held sovereignty before the Japanese invasion—a sovereignty recognized by the British Government."

Troopships which left Holland several weeks ago also are just offshore now.

Soekarno's Cabinet met in an emergency session to tackle what one member described as a "grave situation." A spokesman said the Soekarno government had reason to fear British forces at Soerabaja were about to attempt a deep penetration into Eastern Java for the purpose of disarming Indonesians.

Escape From Java.

Singapore, Nov. 8 (A. P.).—Three thousand Dutch women and children arrived by ship from Java today, most of them refugees from the Soerabaja area.

Nazis' Postwar Plans Cited

NOV 9 1945

London, Nov. 8 (AP)—The United Nations War Crimes Commission said today that German officials and industrialists realized in 1944 that the war was lost and plotted to continue research on secret weapons and to seek huge foreign loans to rebuild their country.

A commission report said Nazi party members who escaped punishment were instructed to "go underground as technical experts" for various plants.

Firm Director Quoted

A Dr. Scheid, director of the Hermadorff & Schoenberg Company, was quoted as telling representatives of Krupp, Rochling, Messerschmitt and other large German firms August 10, 1944, at Strasbourg:

"German industry must realize that the war cannot be won and it must take steps for a postwar commercial campaign.

"Each industrialist must make contacts and alliances with foreign firms, but this must be done individually and without attaching any suspicion. The ground will have to be laid on the financial level for borrowing considerable sums from the various countries after the war."

Officials of the Ministry of Armaments and the Navy were listed as attending. An Armaments Ministry representative was quoted as telling the industrialists that it was "immediately required that the large factories of Germany create small technical offices or reserach bureaus which would be absolutely independent and have no connection with the factory."

Enemy Must Not Get Plans

"These bureaus will have received plans and drawings of new weapons as well as documents which must not be allowed to fall into the hands of the enemy," the arms officials said. "The existence of these is to be known only to a very few people in each industry and by the chiefs of the Nazi party.

"After the defeat of Germany, the Nazi party recognizes that certain of its best-known leaders will be condemned as war criminals. However, it is arranging to place its less conspicuous members in positions with various German factories as technical experts."

Polish 'Gangs' Roam London, Paper Says

London, Friday, Nov. 9 (AP)—The London Daily Mail said today in a front page article that Polish deserters and discharged military personnel had installed "gangsterism in the Chicago model" in London.

The newspaper said that Poles had "so terrorized" the Victoria area of London that the local criminal talent was moving out. It added that "gangsters" carried guns and knives, were willing to fight to kill, and had organized "protective" associations for prostitutes.

The story also asserted that Poles volunteered as guides to take rich visitors to the city's night spots and robbed them.

The Mail said it had made a special investigation "with the approval of authorities," and had turned up "murders, stabbings, beatings up of both men and women and gang fights."

PARIS PAPER SAYS STALIN STILL ILL

PARIS, Nov. 8—(AP) The newspaper Liberation Soir published today a dispatch from the Agence d'Edition de Presse, a small news agency, under a Moscow dateline which said that Generalissimo Stalin was taken seriously ill Nov. 4 and was forbidden by doctors to appear this week at Moscow celebrations of the Red Revolution.

There was no confirmation from any other sources.

Stalin did not review the annual parade in Red Square nor did he deliver the usual address on the eve of the celebration. Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov took his place on both occasions.

The dispatch, which the agency said was from "one of our correspondents," said Stalin suffered a heart attack at his villa at Sochi on the Black Sea coast where he was vacationing and was transferred to a clinic at nearby Gagri. His daughter, Svetlanna, the dispatch said, was called from Moscow.

The agency's report said Stalin's heart attack occurred after a visit Oct. 25 by U. S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman.

According to the dispatch, Stalin's physicians counselled against his appearance during the Moscow holidays. But the Politburo (political bureau of the Communist party), the dispatch added, decided that Stalin should appear although Molotov would read his speech. On the night of Nov. 4, however, the dispatch concluded, Stalin's condition became worse and specialists were sent from Moscow to attend him.

ASSEMBLY HEADS NAMED BY FRENCH

Socialist Elected President Of Constituent Group

NOV 9 1945

Paris, Nov. 8 (AP)—Socialist Deputy Felix Gouin was elected president of France's Constituent Assembly today, while delegates of the Communist, Socialist and MRP (Popular Republican Movement) parties met to draw a common program of action for the coalition government they are expected to form.

Gouin, president of the old Consultative Assembly, was chosen unanimously to head the body which will write a new constitution. Five vice presidents elected without opposition were Joseph Laniel, of the right-wing "Republican Unity" party; Andre Mercier and Jacques Duclos, Communist party, and Henri Tettgen and Francois Bacon, MRP.

The assembly tomorrow is expected to name General de Gaulle as interim president of the Government.

The Communists and Socialists have agreed upon a legislative program calling for far-reaching socialization of industry, and the MRP, the third dominant party, completed its counter "program of action" last night. Differences were to be ironed out today.

Movie of Hess With German Chiefs Shown to Him to Restore Memory

Defendant Shows Intense Interest and Admits Recognizing Hitler and Goering but Claims No Recollection of Participation

Tucker

NUREMBERG, Germany, Nov. 8 (AP)—Rudolf Hess sat in a projection room today and watched newsreels of himself during the days of his greatest power.

Also in the audience, but watching Hess instead of the screen, were Justice Robert H. Jackson, the chief American prosecutor for the coming war-crimes trial; Maj. Gen. William J. Donovan, former head of the Office of Strategic Services, and psychiatrists. Hess, who is one of the ranking Germans facing trial and asserts that he can remember nothing, sat handcuffed to two guards as a 1934 version of "Party Day in Nuremberg" flashed on the screen.

Specially placed lights faintly illuminated his countenance. As the picture started with a rich background of Wagnerian music, Hess leaned forward and half rose from his chair. All eyes were on him; his were intent on the screen.

Sees Himself as Spellbinder

He saw himself as a younger man, a zealot weaving a hypnotic spell over a vast Nazi party congress. In those days, he was Adolf Hitler's deputy. He saw Hitler almost dancing a jig in an ecstacy of appreciation as the Hess on the screen made a three-quarter swing to the audience, crying: "Sieg Heil! Sieg Heil!"

As the movie rolled on, Hess gradually relaxed. Justice Jackson watched him steadily, as did General Donovan. Two American psychiatrists also watched him. So did a Russian psychiatrist.

The officials wondered whether the filmed document of a vanished glory would shake from Hess the amnesia which, he declares, has robbed him of all knowledge of past events. The outcome might determine whether Hess is to live or die.

Also watching the play of emotion was Commander James B. Donovan, of New York, who suggested and prepared the showing.

Once his initial tension passed Hess showed an impassive countenance to the observers throughout the remainder of the film. This never varied as Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Julius Streicher, the late Robert Ley and most of the other defendants paraded across the screen.

As suddenly as it began, the show was over. The lights snapped on.

Almost a full minute of absolute silence elapsed.

Colonel John Harlan Amen, chief interrogator, former special prosecutor in Brooklyn, turned to Hess. As softly as though he were speaking to a child, Amen said: "Do you remember?"

Hess motioned as if to brush his hand against his eyes, but the handcuffs interfered. Slowly he said: "I recognized Hitler and Goering. I recognized the others, but only because I heard their names mentioned and have seen their names on cell blocks in this jail."

"Don't you remember being there?"

"I don't remember. I must have been there because obviously I was there. But I don't remember."

Hess stood between his guards. He looked years older than the man who had just dominated the screen. The justice, the general and the others made room for him to pass. The guards led Hess back to his cell.

Gen. Mitchell Named Nazi Trial Secretary

Nuenberg, Germany, Nov. 8 (AP)—Brig. Gen. William L. Mitchell, of Washington, D.C., has been named general secretary of the international military tribunal to hear war crimes cases. Prosecutors were notified to be ready for opening of trials November 20 as scheduled.

Harold Willeys, of Alexandria, Va., who has been acting general secretary, was made American secretary of the court.

The tribunal announced that it would hold a hearing November 14 on a motion filed by attorneys for Gustav Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach asking that proceedings against the industrialist be deferred because of his physical condition. Krupp is bedridden, partly paralyzed and unable to talk following a series of strokes.

Cuban Investigators Find Men in Prison at Cadiz

MADRID, Nov. 8 (AP). — The Cuban Embassy said today its investigation of a report that twenty-two members of the Spanish Confederation of Labor were held at Cadiz for a military trial had shown that actually thirty-three men were in custody there, accused of Communist activity.

The Spanish government made no comment.

The embassy report was received from Seville in response to instructions from the Cuban Foreign Minister to investigate the affair, which drew protests from several embassies, including that of the United States. Workers' organizations in the United States, Britain and Latin-American countries also had protested.

ROMANIAN TROOPS FIRE INTO CROWD AT ROYAL PALACE

SEVERAL KILLED

Communists Charge Crowd Celebrating King Mikai's Birthday.

By FRANK O'BRIEN

BUCHAREST, Romania, Nov. 8—Romanian troops fired machine guns point-blank into crowds at the royal palace today until a Russian general intervened, silenced their fire, and halted a furious riot between communists and supporters of King Mihai.

NIGHT

I saw at least six persons fall when the troops machine-gunned a crowd at one entrance to the royal square. First estimates said at least five persons were killed and nearly 100 wounded.

Soviet General Susaikov, head of the Allied control commission in Bucharest, ordered the Romanian troops to cease firing, thus breaking up the bloodiest part of a six-hour riot between communists and demonstrators holding a forbidden celebration of the King's birthday.

Lines of armed troops tonight guarded the royal square, scene of the riots, but demonstrators still marched on the outskirts of the square shouting "long live the king" and "down with terror!"—the same fight-provoking slogans they hurled at the communists during the day's street brawling.

The demonstration had been banned by the Soviet-supported government of Premier Petru Groza, long at odds with young King Mihai.

(The Groza government in a broadcast communique tonight charged the riots were "a blind for a revolutionary plot directed against the government" by Juliu Maniu, peasant party leader, and George Bratianu, liberal party leader, BBC said.

(The broadcast, recorded by NBC, charged the peasant and liberal parties "have during recent weeks prepared acts of disorder and mobilized well-known fascist and reactionary elements, under cover of monarchist demonstrations."

(It quoted the Romanian minister of the interior as saying he had decided "to take the most severe and urgent measures to preserve order.")

Trucks Overturned

Guns barked, fists flew and several trucks were overturned in the milling riot which started when communists charged the crowds celebrating the king's 24th birthday.

Fifteen truck loads of communists, waving clenched fists and shouting "Long Live the Groza Government," roared into the square. They tried to disperse between 40,000 and 50,000 Mihai supporters.

The first shots were fired by unknown persons from the direction of the Ministry of the Interior, which faces the royal square. Troops guarding the entrances to the square fired at the demonstrators shortly afterward, but one witness said the officer in charge had ordered his men to shoot over the demonstrators' heads.

At 3:55 p. m. the troops fired again, and it was this time that I saw the six persons fall to the pavement. Two were killed and four were wounded.

The troops involved on both occasions were members of the Tudor Vladimirescu division formed in Russia from among Romanian troops captured in the Stalingrad area.

After the troops fired, Gen. Susaikov, who witnesses said just happened to be passing by, ordered the shooting stopped.

Russian troops in Bucharest remained aloof throughout the day, although well-armed Russian patrols moved about the city tonight pushing in closer to the royal square as night fell.

In addition to the Groza government's forbidding demonstrations today, a government-controlled radio broadcast warned all persons to stay home. Yesterday's newspapers said any celebration would be suppressed.

Despite the warnings, the crowds began to gather peacefully before the palace early today. They shouted "Long Live The King" and waved Romanian flags and pictures of Mihai, who was reported out of the city at Slanio, 90 miles to the north.

Then the communist trucks sped into the square, weaving through the crowds.

For a time it appeared the communists would break up the demonstrations. Suddenly the crowd converged on two of the trucks and overturned them, dumping out the communists. The trucks were set on fire.

Then guns fired from the direction of the Ministry of the Interior. The other communist trucks withdrew, and the communists fired back at the demonstrators who scurried for cover.

The rioting, which broke out during a solemn Te Deum in honor of the King's birthday, contrasted with yesterday's peaceful Communist observance of the Soviet "October Revolution." That observance was sponsored by the Groza government.

The government also had announced that the schools, traditionally closed on a Romanian Monarch's birthday, would remain open today.

King Mihai has been firm in his opposition to the Groza government. He has refused to sign any government decree, which prevents that decree from becoming law.

On at least three occasions, however, the government went over the king's head in establishing three Russian-Romanian concerns. They were an oil company, civil aviation company and a bank.

The action was taken as apparently representing a governmental assumption of the royal prerogatives.

The king appealed last summer to the Allies to help establish a government which would be recognized by the United States, Great Britain and Russia. The Groza government has only Soviet recognition.

Troops and Reds Open Fire On Romanians Cheering King

Attack as Throng of 40,000 Demonstrates in Bucharest on Monarch's Birthday in Defiance of Groza Decree.

O'Brien NOV 9 1945

Bucharest, Nov. 8 (A. P.).—Troops today machine-gunned crowds demonstrating before the Royal Palace in defiance of a Government order prohibiting celebrations of King Michael's twenty-fourth birthday, and communists precipitated a six-hour riot in attempting to scatter the throngs.

DAY

The fighting erupted when fifteen truckloads of communists, waving clinched fists and shouting "Long Live the Groza Government," roared into the Royal Square and tried to disperse the 40,000 to 50,000 people there. At least three persons were killed and perhaps a dozen were wounded in the machinegun fire which began after noon and continued for nearly four hours.

The King himself, at odds with the Soviet-sponsored Government of Petry Groza, was not in the palace, but was reported eighty miles north of Sinaia. The young monarch has refused to sign the decrees of Groza, which would give his edicts the force of law.

Crowds gather early at the palace, ignoring the warnings of the Government. They started shouts of "long live the king" and waved Romanian flags and pictures of the king.

The communists appeared for a time to be breaking up the demonstration. The crowd, however, suddenly seized and overturned two trucks, dumping out the communists and setting their trucks afire. Then a burst of gunfire came from the direction of the Ministry of the Interior. The remaining communist trucks withdrew, firing on the demonstrators who ran for cover.

The Russian troops in Bucharest remained aloof, taking no part.

Troops blocking the entrances of the Royal Square before the palace opened machine-gun fire into small crowds at one of the entries.

The casualties were left lying on the street as this dispatch was being written at 3.55 P.M. (9.55 A.M., E.S.T.).

At Odds With Grozo

King Mihai and the Soviet-sponsored Government of Premier Petru Groza have been at loggerheads for months. The young monarch has refused to sign decrees of Groza, which would give his edicts the force of law.

King Mihai last summer appealed to the United States and Britain to help in the establishment in Romania of a government that would be recognized by all the big powers.

The Groza Government has Russian recognition, but not that of the United States and Britain.

Bulgarians Told Elections Will Be Held

Sofia, Nov. 8 (AP)—The Communist leader Georgi Dimitrov told cheering crowds today that scheduled Bulgarian elections "will be carried out by the government of Kimon Georgiev," Soviet-sponsored Premier.

His speeches were the first in this country since he was exiled 22 years ago. The Soviet Government recently released him from Russian citizenship and from duties as a deputy to the Supreme Soviet. Shortly after Hitler came to power, Dimitrov—then a resident of Germany was acquitted of complicity in setting the Reichstag fire.

He now is running for the Bulgarian parliament as a candidate of the Popular Front party. Agrarians, Social Democrats and independent intellectuals have announced that they will boycott the elections, set for November 18, charging curbs had been fixed upon personal freedom and the press.

The Fatherland Front, or Government party, is attracting large numbers to its pre-election meetings. Government newspapers are jammed with reports of huge rallies.

30 JEWS KILLED IN NEW RIOTING

Arab Mobs Renew Outbursts, Synagogue and Homes Are Fired.

CAIRO, Nov. 8.—(AP) Arab mobs charging into the Jewish quarter of Zanzur west of Tripoli killed 30 Jews, including children, in a new outburst of violence in Tripolitania which has slain more than 100 Jews, the British said tonight.

NIGHT

The mobs fired a synagogue and houses and looted homes at Zanzur in "a particularly brutal attack" Tuesday, a communique said.

Troops opened fire several times to quell the riots which spilled over into the provinces after starting in Tripoli, the bulletin added.

The British announced yesterday that 74 Jews and one Arab had been killed and 133 Jews injured in clashes in the Italian Mediterranean colony since Sunday night.

Five hundred and fifty rioters have been arrested.

The latest rioting occurred Wednesday at Cussabat, 55 miles east of Tripoli, "where two Jews were killed by a mob during the afternoon," the communique said. Troops were used to disperse the mob.

On Tuesday six Jews were killed at Zavia, 30 miles west of Tripoli. Other riots broke out at Zliten, 35 miles east of Tripoli.

Tripoli itself has remained quiet since Tuesday, the bulletin said.

The communique said Arabs in some country districts "have been assisting threatened Jews."

Abdel Rahman Azzam Bey, secretary-general of the Pan-Arab league, commenting on the Tripolitania rioting, asserted that violence served no purpose in settling the Jewish-Arab problem.

TWA OFFICIAL DIES IN AFRICA CRACKUP

Cairo, Nov. 8 (A. P.).—Jack Nichols, vice-president in charge of international operations of Transcontinental & Western Air, and seven other persons were killed yesterday in a plane crash at Asmara, Eritrea, the United States Army announced tonight. The other dead were two TWA men, A. J. Naylor and Milo H. Campbell, and an army crew of five, whose names were withheld pending notification of their kin.

The plane, a B-25 bomber, crashed at 6:30 A. M. as it was taking off for the Ethiopian capital, Addis Ababa. The cause of the crash was still undetermined.

Nichols, a former Representative in Congress from Oklahoma, had been in Cairo for several months making preparations for TWA's passenger service to the Middle East.

Washington, Nov. 8 (A. P.).—Jack Nichols was 49 years old and a native of Joplin, Mo. He was a veteran of the first world war. He served four terms in the House as Representative from the Second district of Oklahoma, fro m1935 to 1943.

Jews Arrive At Haifa

Jerusalem, Nov. 8 (AP)—While police stood by with armed cars and tommyguns to preserve order, 789 Jewish refugees from more than a dozen European countries landed at Haifa without incident from the Canadian Pacific liner Princess Catheleen today.

Most of them spent recent months in UNRRA camps in Italy, where they received certificates for entry from the remaining 3,000 immigration permits under a White Paper agreement now in use by the Palestine Government. The majority plan to settle in Zionist agricultural colonies.

EIGHT ARE KILLED IN CRASH OF B25

NOV 9 1945

CAIRO, Nov. 8 — (AP) Eight persons, including Jack Nichols, vice president in charge of international operations of Transcontinental and Western Airlines, were killed Wednesday when a B-25 bomber crashed at Asmara, Eritrea, U. S. Army headquarters said tonight.

Two other TWA officials, A. J. Naylor and Milo Campbell, and the five Army crewmen were killed.

The Army said the bomber crashed at 6:30 a.m. while taking off from the Asmara field for Addis Ababa. The cause of the crash, the Army said, still was undetermined.

Nichols, a native of Joplin, Mo., and former Oklahoma congressman, was in the Middle East completing arrangements for TWA passenger service. He was elected to the House of Representatives in 1934, and reelected three times.

FRESH RED TROOPS REPORTED IN IRAN

Teheran, Nov. 8 (A. P.).—The Irani Parliament heard protests today about continued Russian occupation of parts of the country.

Dr. R. Etebar, a Deputy, told the Legislature: "Iran fulfilled its pledge to the United Nations charter, particularly toward Russia. The evacuation of Iran has been announced and confirmed by United Nations leaders. Despite this, I regret that today the Red Army occupies forty-five buildings in Teheran and the Russian Occupation Army headquarters are still not evacuated.

"Twelve thousand fresh Russian troops have landed at the port of Bandar Shah (on the Caspian Sea), 80,000 in Astaria and new divisions arrived recently in Azarbaidjan. Why are our gendarmes hindered by the Russian military when they move northward to restore order?"

Premier Hakimi received an almost unanimous vote of confidence.

GEN. WEDEMEYER ADMITS MARINES IN MINOR FIGHTS

NOV 9 1945

American General Says His Troops Not Provoking Trouble.

TALKS RENEWED

Reds Newspaper Demands Americans Apologize for 'Intervention.'

CHUNGKING, Friday, Nov. 9. — (AP) The Communist New China Daily News today renewed its charges that American forces are interfering in China's internal affairs.

U. S. Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer meanwhile said that his troops definitely were not provoking trouble, although they had been involved in minor skirmishes.

Wedemeyer's statement made in Shanghai was the first official indication from an American source that U. S. troops had been involved, in any degree, in fighting in North China.)

The Communist newspaper charged that a unit of American troops spearheaded 300 Chinese government soldiers in taking over a small railroad station on the Peiping-Mukden railway, and arrested Communists in another village as recently as Nov. 1. There was no fighting in either case.

The station was Liushouying, south of Peitaiho in East Hopeh province. The Communists said that Americans appeared to head the government troops. The Reds said they withdrew "to avoid a clash." Later, they said, the station was occupied jointly by American and Kuomintang (Nationalist) troops.

The same day, the Communist story asserted, U. S. armored vehicles led a unit of puppet troops into the nearby village of Tsiashang and arrested some Communist officials and civilians. This incident is being investigated. No protest has been lodged.

Demand Apology

Chinese Communists, charging that Wedemeyer's men were assisting the Nationalists, earlier demanded that the American general apologize for "intervention." The demand was not repeated in today's article.

Later today, National government and Communist representatives renewed conversations over a proposed four-point program for halting the undeclared civil war. Hottest debate centered around Communist demands that Nationalist troops cease immediately all attacks on red-liberated areas, a Communist spokesman stated.

In principle, both sides agreed that fighting should stop, but the Communists made the reservation that this must apply to East and South China as well as to North China. Both agreed to consult each other whenever moving troops along railways. The Communists want this agreement to apply to the western section of the Peiping-Mukden and the southern part of the Tientsin Pukow railroads.

The Communists asked the government to cease using Japanese puppet troops immediately. The government denied that it was using puppet troops.

Two minor points were threshed out. One agreed in principle that an investigation party should go into disputed areas. The second was the National Government's request that technical military problems of the Communist army reorganization be carried out within a month. This would entail the presence in Chungking of Yeh-Ching-Yin, Red army chief of staff.

Deny Plane Report

While the negotiations continued, the Communists said they had learned reliably that the national aviation council plans to send an air force into the fighting, using mostly P-40s (an American plane).

The Reds also said a large quantity of aviation gasoline was rushed to Sian this week and two P-40s, unidentified, flew over Yenan Monday.

(In Washington, a State department spokesman termed "spurious and untrue" a report attributed to a Chinese nationalist newspaper that 3,000 American planes in China would be transferred to the Nationalists).

In an interview today at Shanghai with Associated Press correspondent Richard Cushing, the general said communist army representatives had warned him not to try to land troops at Weigaiwei port, near Tsingtao. They also had protested that Americans had raided the communists' office in Tientsin Wedemeyer said he had referred the latter matter to Maj. Gen. Keiler E. Rockey, commander of the Third Marine Amphibious corps.

Wedemeyer reiterated that his mission is solely to help the central government repatriate Japanese troops. He pointed out there are 1,800,000 Japanese in China and that 40 per cent still carry arms. Because of a shipping shortage, he looks for repatriation to require several months.

To See Chiang Kai-Shek

He arrived in China Tuesday, flew to Shanghai from Peiping today and will leave tomorrow for Chungking to confer with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

Wedemeyer emphasized that the United States recognizes and will continue to support the central government but that Americans "will not become involved in fratricidal warfare in the process."

"We are not supposed to take aggressive action against any Chinese except to protect American lives and property," he said.

He said that only 6,300 U. S. Army personnel will be left in the China theater by the first of next year. These are aside from 53,000 marines in North China.

Gen. Chou En-Lai, No. 2 communist leader who is in Chingking conferring, said today the communists had presented a counter demand in reply to government proposals for ending the civil strike. The Reds asked that the National Military Coupcil issue a cease-fire order along with withdrawal of all government troops from "liberated areas" to points they occupied before the fighting began.

The communists have captured the Shansi province railroad town of Chaocheng and began "the massacre" of its civil servants and Kuomintang (nationalist) party members, a Chinese dispatch reported.

Government defenders of the town; south of Taiyuan, the Shansi capital, withdrew last Saturday night after their ammunition was exhausted, the belated dispatch said. In other parts of Shansi, the fighting continued with unabated fury with four towns under direct Red assault, the dispatch added. It said the Reds had been driven from two of the towns.

The Chinese government meanwhile gathered its military leaders today for an unheralded "bandit suppression" conference in Chungking, and communists termed the phrase another name for an all-out drive to liquidate all communists.

Defiant communists nevertheless took this action:

1. Countered a government "stay put, stop firing" peace plan with demands that all government forces withdraw completely from Red-dominated areas of the north;

2. Demanded that Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, U. S. commander in China, apologize for American "intervention" against the Reds, and reserved the right to demand compensation—its amount as yet unspecified.

3. Forecast a huge government offensive for which, Red spokesmen at Yenan said, 90 divisions already have been massed in the north.

Increasing the tension were reports from Manchuria that no Chinese government troops have been landed at any Manchurian ports. Russians withdrew suddenly from the Southern Manchuria ports of Hulutao and Yingkow, it was reported here today, leaving Chinese Reds in control—and leaving Chinese government troops still aboard their U. S. transports which would not attempt landings against certain Red opposition.

The central government acknowledged battlefield reverses in the fight for the Peiping-Hankow railroad, in which the communists captured two Nationalist army commanders and forced a withdrawal of at least 15 miles in the area south of Tzehsien in southern Hopeh province. The reverse—in which Communists had claimed victory over 70,000 Nationalist troops, effectively bars any immediate government use of the railway.

"Bandit Suppression"

A steady but unannounced procession of arriving top-ranking Chinese government generals today testified to the importance of Saturday's meeting. Chungking sources insisted that it will deal with "bandit suppression," and Chou En-Lai said that obviously it will deal with "the military situation."

The Reds, he said, had incontrovertible proof that Generalissimo Chiang was ordering wholesale liquidation of Chinese Communists in northern provinces, even during peace parleys last month. Chou's "proof" consisted of purported orders to Chiang's generals to begin "full-fledged liquidation of bandits."

Chinese Reds Ask Apology From Wedemeyer

Chungking, Nov. 8 (AP)—Chinese Communists demanded today that Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, United States commander in China, apologize and that compensation be paid for alleged American "interference" in China's internal struggle.

The Reds also demanded that Chinese Government troops withdraw from all Red-dominated areas, as the price for peace; but asserted that the Government, instead, was planning an all-out offensive for which 90 divisions already were being massed in the north.

Four Letters Sent

The demand for Wedemeyer's apology was contained in one of four protesting letters sent to the American commander by the Communists' Yenan headquarters.

Spokesmen at the Communist headquarters at Yenan called "a complete lie," Government claims that the Nationalists have been and would remain strictly on the defensive. More than 70 Government divisions have massed around "liberated areas" of Honan province, and Hopeh province is surrounded by more than twenty Government divisions, the Communists asserted.

NOV 9 1945

Yenan Answer Announced

Chou En-lai, Yenan negotiator here and No. 2 Chinese Communist, announced the Yenan answer to Kuomintang peace proposals shortly after reports that the Russians had withdrawn from the Manchurian ports of Hulutao and Yingkow (Newchwang) leaving the Chinese Reds in command, heightened the already tense atmosphere.

Chou said the Communists demanded that the Kuomintang withdraw to positions outside the "liberated" areas before the civil fighting began and order all Nationalist troops to cease firing.

Situation Called 'Dangerous'

The worried-looking Communist representative told newsmen of the Yenan reply to Chiang Kai-shek's offer and said he would deliver it to Nationalist Government officials later today.

Chou said he would propose a neutral committee be formed to investigate civil war conditions, and in almost the same breath charged Chiang Kai-shek with attempting to exterminate the Communists, while holding peace parleys with them. The investigating committee also would consider activities of American troops in disputed areas.

Has Proof, He Says

The Communists have obtained proof that while the peace negotiations were under way, Chiang ordered his northern generals to "liquidate" the Communists, Chou said.

Orders captured from a Government plane downed in the Chiatso coal-mine region in northern Honan, instructed Yen Hsi-shan, governor of Shansi, in "bandit suppression."

Other orders for "full fledged liquidation of bandits," were given Gen. Hu Tsung-nan, First War Zone commander, and to Gen. Tao Shu-sun, 8th Army commander, Chou said. The orders were captured when Kao and 10,000 of his men laid down their arms and refused to continue fighting against the Communists.

"All-Out Assault Ordered"

By that time, Chou continued, the National Military Council had already ordered an all-out assault on the Communists in liberated areas everywhere.

"This is very clear," he asserted.

Chou said his meeting with Kuomintang representatives tomorrow "looks very dangerous," and obviously, will deal with "the military situation," Gen. Ho Ying-chin, Nationalists chief of staff, is expected to attend.

Chou said that he would suggest that both Chinese and foreign news correspondents be permitted to go freely into the contested areas to gather their news first hand.

Other developments among the growing crisis signs were:

1. The Central Government admitted receiving its first serious setback in the fighting in southern Hopeh province.

2. Communists followed up the announcement in Washington that American Marines would be withdrawn from the trouble zone with a series of four protests to the American commander in Yenan, and held the Americans "responsible for any grave consequence" resulting from their presence.

The reported Russian withdrawal in Manchuria posed still further troubles for the Central Government and greater delays in the landing of Kuomintang troops, none of which has been reported actually landed from American transports as yet.

The turning over of the ports to the Communists would strengthen their position in the area where they have opposed bitterly the presence of the Americans.

The protests, which the Communist New China Daily News said were addressed to the "Chief of the American Military Mission in Yenan," were written by Chu Teh, Communist commander in chief, and Yeh Ching-yin, commander of the 8th Army.

Objections Listed

They objected to the landing of American forces at Chefoo, at the head of the Shantung Peninsula; the "invading" of Chinwangtao; the sealing of the 8th Route Army office in Tientsin; the strafing of the populace at Antseh, south of Taiyuan in Shansi province, and the entry of American troops into the Hopeh, Honan and Anhwei province liberated areas.

Yeh Chin-yin advised the Americans that Chefoo had returned to "normal" under Communist liberation, and asked the Americans not to land there.

"The American Army will be responsible for any grave consequence resulting from the landing of American troops there without prearrangement with our army," Yeh Chin-yin's letter concluded.

Americans Blamed

A second letter likewise put the blame entirely on the Americans for any incidents arising. It was based on "the fact that American troops in Chinwangtao neglected our advice and pushed on toward our liberated areas and repaired the railway line between Chinwangtao and Shanghaikwan."

"By the action of American forces," it continued, "Americans are actually interferring with Chinese internal affairs. There can be no other explanation than that. Efficient measures will be taken by our Army immediately in order to halt such action. If such actions are not stopped you should be responsible for any grave results."

Strafing Alleged

Chu Teh charged in the last of the four letters that American planes "strafed our populace and soldiers in Antseh and attacked our liberated areas."

The Communists, Chu asserted, reserve the rights to ask for damages if investigation ascertains actual losses suffered by the people.

Interference Alleged

About 30 American officers and soldiers, on October 18, surrounded the Communists' Tientsin office and arrested five staff workers, "by this action interferring with China's internal affairs," he said, adding:

"These actions have harmed the traditional friendship of the Americans and Chinese. I seriously request that adequate measures be adopted to assure there be no recurrence of them."

No reply from the Americans was reported.

NOV 9 1945

Two Generals Captured

The Central Government spokesman, in admitting the battlefield reverse, said that two of the Government's top field commanders had been captured by the victorious Red columns.

A Kuomintang spokesman claimed that after the two generals were captured, in the fighting along the Peiping-Hankow railroad north of Tzehsien in southern Hopeh province, the bulk of the Government troops withdrew to the south awaiting orders from Chungking.

Earlier, however, the communists said that 70,000 Nationalist troops were involved and that the bulk were captured after their generals—Ma Fah-Wu, commander of the 41st Army; and Kao Shu Hsun, commander of the Eighth Army—were taken. The Government heard that Wu committed suicide.

Sharply criticising administration foreign policy, Foster also told the House Committee Investigating un-American Activities:

1. President Truman "has put himself at the head of the imperialists in this country by his foreign policy speech in New York.

2. Secretary of State Byrnes is "interfering in the Balkans . . . in an imperialistic way unjustified from the standpoint of American national interest."

Foster said the United States Ambassador to China, Patrick J. Hurley, "should be removed and an ambassador sent there who will work for unity between Chiang and the communists."

Foster also criticized the committee, declaring it "has an anti-Soviet bias and . . . is giving every war monger in the country encouragement . . . by this system of Red-baiting and creating a Red scare."

The committee is questioning Foster to determine whether the activities of the Communist party in this nation are un-American.

China Correspondents Given Time Extension

Shanghai, Nov. 8 (AP)—Accreditation of correspondents in the China theater was extended to January 1 last night by Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, American commander in China.

The end of accreditation was first scheduled for October 15, then postponed for a month when correspondents protested vigorously to their home offices and Washington and to the acting theater commander, Lieut. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer.

Approached by a delegation of correspondents, Wedemeyer granted the new extension with the statement that he was sympathetic to the protests and this would give him time to study the over-all situation. He said that sometime after mid-December he could set a definite termination date.

Foster Scores U.S. on China

Communist Leader Says Administration Will Precipitate Civil War if Troops Stay.

NOV 9 1945

Washington, Nov. 8 (A. P.).—William Z. Foster, the Communist leader, asserted today that the administration will "precipitate civil war" in China unless it removes American troops and stops backing Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's "shaky regime."

BORNEO JAPS GAVE 10 YANKS $173,000

Labuan Island, Borneo, Nov. 8 (A. P.).—Two weeks before their surrender, the Japanese in Borneo learned that the war was nearly over and sought to make up for past ill-treatment by presenting ten American civilian internees with $173,000. The story was told today by Carl Jeremiah Cook, 59 years old, who came here from San Francisco thirty-two years ago.

Cook said the Japs gave each of the ten Americans interned on Labuan more than $17,000, explaining that the United States Government had forwarded the money through Switzerland. The Japanese also opened warehouses of undistributed American Red Cross supplies to the internees in another effort to square themselves, he reported.

The money had apparently been intended for general relief work in Borneo, he continued, adding that the Americans later handed the funds over to a British officer who was placed in charge of their camp.

Jap Occupation May Last 3 To 5 Years

NOV 9 1945

Glenn Babb, foreign editor and former chief of the Associated Press bureau in Tokyo, has returned to the Orient. In the following article he discusses the occupation of Japan after conferences with General MacArthur, Premier Shidehara and other high American and Japanese officials.

By Glenn Babb

Tokyo, Nov. 8 (AP)—America's tremendous task in Japan may be fulfilled within three to five years and with an occupying force of about 200,000 men.

That is the opinion of many of the men here who should know best. They believe this can be done if the present rate of progress is maintained and if there are no drastic changes in policy.

There is confidence here that within such a period militarism can't be eradicated, a reasonable facsimile of democracy planted and a restricted measure of economic well-being restored. Then, according to this view, American and other Allied armies can be withdrawn, possibly to be replaced by some other form of control, with confidence that Japan will be a useful member of the family of nations with no desire or power to make war again.

Views Of Jap, U.S. Leaders

This picture was developed from talks with the highest leaders of both Americans and Japanese. The confidence expressed is perhaps more American than Japanese; there are many Japanese who view the future darkly. A few express the hope that American occupation will last many years. They regard it as a shield against further disaster.

General MacArthur and his staff were among those with whom I discussed Japan's future, but the General would not permit his conversation to be quoted and he is in no way responsible for the statements made herein. My talks with Premier Shidehara and members of his Cabinet contributed to these conclusions.

MacArthur Satisfied

MacArthur is known to be content with the progress of his program of demilitarization and democratization.

In public statements, the supreme Allied commander has expressed confidence that an occupation force of 200,000 for both Japan and Korea will be sufficient after next spring.

Americans and Japanese agree that thus far there has been 100 per cent compliance with the series of hard-hitting directives issued from MacArthur's headquarters. There have been no instances of revolt against American control and there is no evidence of any underground in the making. But those who believe in a relatively short occupation emphasize that one which extends beyond five years will bring new dangers. Either the Japanese will become completely dependent on the Americans or resentment against alien rule will have time to flower into open rebellion.

Japs Get New Freedoms

Changes decreed by MacArthur have bestowed on the Japanese people freedoms they do not yet fully understand how to use, producing a state of flux from which vast changes in the Japanese way of life inevitably must come. The nature of these changes obviously depends on the kind of control exercised by the victorious powers.

It is anticipated that British Empire, Chinese and Soviet units may be added to the occupation armies within a reasonable time and that other powers will be given a larger share than now in the overall policy making. But the Japanese especially hope that the final word will remain with the United States.

The Japanese dread any increase in Russia's share of the control of their fate. Stories of Russian excesses in northern Korea have wide circulation among Japanese leaders, who profess to fear similar developments if there should be a teritrorial division of Japan among territorial division of Japan among Americans, and if the Russians for instance should be allotted the northern island of Hokkaido, which is in American hands.

No U.S. Confirmation

There is no official American confirmation of these Korean reports, since there is no communication between the American and Russian zones in Korea. But, there has been American disappointment over the lack of co-operation there.

Present progress of Russian-Chinese negotiations concerning the occupation of Manchuria, in whih the United States is involved beause American transports are carrying the Chinese forces there, is being keenly followed here as a test of harmony among the powers that crushed Japan.

Favors Christianizing Japan

MacArthur is known to believe that it would be a great thing for the world if Japan could be Christianized, although he feels that this would be difficult because of Japanese materialism and aloofness. But with the destruction of militarism, its strong spiritual weapon, the national Shinto cult, has suffered a drastic setback.

The supreme commander has welcomed the arrival in Japan of a delegation representing the Council of Churches of Christ in America and of an archbishop of the Catholic church.

MacArthur has no present plans for returning to the United States. He is known to regard his responsibility as too onerous in the months ahead to be delegated.

He regards the duty entrusted to him as one of the greatest importance to the future of the United States. He is keenly aware of the vast amount of discussion of Japan in America. Some of his officers feel there is too much "back seat driving," much of it uninformed and unfair; that it tends to force the general's hand in some phases of the program which should not be rushed and that while the overall policy must come from Washington, the immediate means, methods and timing should be left to the commander on the spot.

30.74—31501

300 JAP PRISON GUARDS ORDERED TO FACE TRIALS

Camp Officials Will Have to Answer for Brutalities, Neglect.

PLAN SPEEDY HEARINGS

Arrests Ordered by MacArthur, Economic Round-up Started.

TOKYO, Nov. 8—(AP) General MacArthur ordered the arrest today of 300 more war criminal suspects, mostly guards who ruled by terror and murder over Allied prison camps in Japan.

Supreme Headquarters declared that war crimes investigators "had sufficient evidence in their files to constitute a prima facie case of war guilt against every one of the persons."

The Japanese government was told to round up the 300 and turn them over to the U. S. Eighth Army, which will hold them in Yokohama prison for trial along with bigger fry already under arrest.

The guards and prison camp officials will have to answer for torture, brutalities, starvation and neglect reported by helpless captives liberated when the U. S. Army entered Japan.

(In Washington the Allied Far Eastern Advisory commission was told that MacArthur was anxious to open the trials as soon as possible and that from 1,500 to 2,000 suspects already were in custody).

Three Tokyo bar associations meanwhile named 17 prominent Japanese lawyers as counsel for accused war criminals on the theory the defendants would be allowed their own lawyers, Kyodo news agency reported.

MacArthur approved Chungking's request to turn over 11 members of the Nanking puppet Chinese government, trapped in Japan by the surrender. All are in custody.

Economic Round-Up

The Allied reparations committee at the same time began an economic roundup in an attempt to learn how Japan will pay for her brigandage while she was the wealthy conqueror of much of Asia.

Waldo Drake, acting temporarily as the committee's press representative, said the group would travel throughout Japan, Manchuria, China, Korea, the Philippines and Malaya ferreting out Japanese assets that can be used to foot the reparations bill.

The committee will set out on its journey shortly after the arrival next Tuesday of Edwin A. Pauley, the U. S. member, who will confer immediately with MacArthur.

It will sift through every Japanese asset it can find, from the Emperor's own fortune down to factory machinery that can be used to pay such industrially-poor countries as China.

Later to Japan will come expert trust-breakers from Washington who will be entrusted with the job of taking apart the Zaibatsu, the system of family financial octopuses dating back to feudal times.

Col. R. C. Kramer, chief of MacArthur's Economic Section, said the first job would be to select a Japanese commission which would acquire the holding company stocks of Mitsui, Mitsubishi, Yasuda and Sumitomo. The four companies will be paid for their stock with government bonds.

The Japanese themselves appeared to be too much concerned with the immediate problems of hunger and unemployment to worry about the trials and reparations of the future.

6,000,000 Jobless

Vice welfare minister Koichi Kameyama estimated 6,000,000 men or nearly half of the demobilized service men and war workers were jobless.

JiJi News agency pointed out that the situation would become worse since 6,500,000 demobilized soldiers and civilians had yet to be returned home from the regions of military and economic conquest.

Kenzo Matsumura, Minister of Agrisulture and Forestry, began a tour of Japan's farms and villages urging increased food production to meet the threat or famine this winter.

Kyodo News agency said the Japanese government also would appeal to the Allies for permission to import rice and other food.

In the midst of rising hunger and unemployment, 3,000 representatives of a variety of political organizations—including Japanese communists—met here Wednesday and organized a "league for the emancipation of the people" as the basis for "a people's front."

Kyodo said the meeting, held on the anniversary of the Russian revolution, paid tribute to 200 persons who had died in exile or in Japanese prisons. It did not specify what other parties were represented.

Jap Reparations Being Studied By Allies

NOV 9

Tokyo, Nov. 8 (AP)—The Allied Reparations Commission today began digging into the complex problem of how poverty-ridden Japan can pay reparations for the colossal damage spread by her armies.

All members except the United States commission, Edwin W. Pauley, met with Brig. Gen. Richard Sutherland, General MacArthur's chief of staff, and planned future conferences with other Allied officers as well as leading Japanese officials.

Pauley is scheduled to arrive Tuesday.

Will Tour Pacific Area

Shortly thereafter, said the commission's temporary press representative, Waldo Drake of the Los Angeles Times, the group will leave on a 45-day tour of Japan, Manchuria, China, Korea, the Philippines, Malaya and possibly other invaded areas.

The commission's dual job is to total up the damages and determine what of Japan's few remaining assets will be used for payment. To be considered when the settlement comes will be Emperor Hirohito's personal fortune and Japan's factory machinery.

The United States commission members were expected to do most of the spade work on the amount of reparations to be demanded of the Japanese, but it was understood that Russia was planning its own investigation of reparations for damage done in Manchuria.

Counsel For War Criminals

Other occupation developments:

Seventeen prominent lawyers, including President Somei Uzawa of Meiji University, were named by three Tokyo bar associations to augment the defense counsel for Japanese war criminal suspects. The step was taken, said Kyodo news agency, "in anticipation of the possibility that Allied headquarters will permit special defense counsel" at the war-crimes trials.

An estimated 3,000 persons met yesterday on the anniversary of the Soviet revolution and voted to organize "The League for Emancipation of the People" as the nucleus for a proposed "People's Front of Japan."

6,000,000 Need Jobs

Vice Minister of Welfare Koichi Kameyama told a conference of vice ministers that about 6,000,000 demobilized service men and discharged war workers were in need of jobs.

Jiji news agency reported that 296,533 demobilized soldiers and civilians had been repatriated since the surrender, but that 6,500,000 were still to be brought home. In Manchuria alone, the agency said, there are 700,000 troops and 1,000,000 civilians. Awaiting repatriation from Korea were 85,000 troops and 700,000 civilians.

300 Nips May Face Atrocity Charges

FAR EAST

Tokyo, Nov. 8 (AP)—Arrest of approximately 300 persons on charges of responsibility for atrocities and mistreatment of Allied prisoners of war was ordered today by General MacArthur.

The directive required that the suspects, mostly guards at prison camps throughout Japan, be apprehended by the Japanese Government. Then they are to be turned over "at the earliest practicable date" to the 11th Army Corps to be held in prison in Yokohama awaiting trial.

Specific Charges Not Disclosed

Specific charges against the guards and prison-camp officers were not disclosed by Allied headquarters in announcing the names of those ordered arrested.

Stories told by released prisoners, however, have related all types of atrocities and mistreatment ranging from failure to provide medical treatment to starvation, brutal beatings and unspeakable filth in some camps and hospitals.

Evidence On File

Headquarters said that "Allied officials in charge of war crimes investigations said they had sufficient evidence in their files to constitute a prima-facie case of war guilt against every one of the persons whose apprehension was ordered."

Those held, headquarters added, will be booked "as suspected war criminals" and will include all charged with mistreatment and atrocities against any person of the United Nations during confinement in Japan."

Jap Pilots Try to Kill Official

Former Kamikaze Flyers Seized in Attack on Home Minister Horikiri

NOV 9 1945

Tokyo, Nov. 8 (A. P.).—Two vagrant former Kamikaze pilots who waited with drawn knives in the darkened halls of the Home Ministry attempted vainly last night to assassinate Home Minister Kenjiro Horikiri.

The 61-year-old Minister, attacked as he returned from addressing a meeting of police chiefs on the increase of crime and "chaotic" conditions in Japan, was not injured. The assailants were taken in custody.

At his desk as usual today, Horikiri dismissed the attempt against his life as "unimportant," except as it emphasized the increased "restlessness" among the people.

"The social situation, as you know, is deteriorating," he told the Associated Press in a telephone interview. The attack, he added, increased his personal intention to "work harder for the maintenance of public order."

Horikiri said he possibly would visit the Ueno Park relief station, where the two former pilots have been living with hundreds of other vagrants, many of whom are forced to sleep in the open. The attack, he said, was in protest against conditions at the station.

"Food is the center of the problem," said Horikiri, who as Mayor of Tokyo after the 1928 earthquake learned first hand about the problems of handling large homeless populations. "But the ideological change the people are undergoing and other factors also have increased the unrest. Such attacks may happen again."

The critical food situation, which the Home Minister placed as the focal point of the unrest, has been multiplied by a flourishing black market and the increasing reluctance of farmers to sell their produce at Government prices, which are only about one-thirtieth of the black market.

The Nippon Times reported that many Chiba prefecture farmers were allowing their sweet potatoes to rot in the ground rather than accept Government pay rates. The people of Tokyo are traveling by the hundreds of thousands to the countryside over the week ends to supplement their food rations with black market produce.

MacArthur Asks Cabinet Include Professionals

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur has expressed his belief that "the professional heads" of the armed services should sit in as ex-officio members of the President's Cabinet.

The General's suggestion is included in a transcript taken by the joint chiefs of staff special committee. This group interviewed top army and navy leaders on a proposal to set up a single department of national defense.

"Speak, But Not Vote"

The transcript, made public by the Senate Military Committee which is considering Army-Navy merger plans, quoted MacArthur as saying at Leyte in the Philipines December 3, 1944:

"I believe that the professional heads of the services should be ex-officio members of the Cabinet. They should be present at all Cabinet meetings without power of voting, but permitted to express their opinion, and above all else, to hear the Cabinet as they discuss not only external affairs of the United States but internal problems."

Brig. Gen. F. Trubee Davison, member of the Army-Navy staff committee, was quoted as telling MacArthur that his suggestion was not possible "in the Cabinet today the way the Government is set up."

Cites "Founding Fathers"

MacArthur added:

"It was our forefathers who wrote the Constitution looking at Europe, fearful of military dictation and military influence, and they made the great mistake of trying to keep the military isolated."

Discussing MacArthur's suggestion today, Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D., Col.), acting chairman of the Military Committee, said: "I disagree heartily with that plan. I think our forefathers were pretty wise. We have got to continue civilian control of the military agencies."

Senator Austin (Va.), ranking Republican member, said he did not wish to engage in a direct controversy with MacArthur, but added that this country must continue its "traditional attitude to maintain clear civilian control over the military branch."

Stresses "Counterbalance"

"This civilian control has contributed to the orderly development of our Federal system," Austin continued "We must have care we do not spoil this counterbalance to sudden and unforeseen changes in our civil government."

MacArthur noted that although the President is commander in chief his decisions are "nonprofessional" and "influenced to some extent by the political outlook of the United States because the President of the United States, whoever he may be, has been, and always will be by our system of government, a servant of politics.

"He depends upon the suffrage of the people, and to survive he has to yield to some extent to the suffrage of the people. . . . There have hardly been two (Presidents) who have the same concept as to what their duties are."

"Have Suffered In Past"

The General said military department leaders "have suffered frightfully in the past" because they did not know what went on in the Cabinet sessions.

"It is no answer to say the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy are present," MacArthur continued.

"They are not the professional heads of the services. However they may want to protect professional interests, they haven't the professional knowledge to do so, and they are not able to come back and tell the services what went on."

Mother Tells Of Own Bayonet Wounds At Yamashita Trial

Manila, Friday, Nov. 9 (AP)—A Filipino woman cuddling a 3-months old baby testified at Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita's war crimes trial yesterday that the Japanese took her son, 10, and her daughter, 6, from her and bayoneted them to death.

Although she told the Japanese troops she was pregnant and pleaded with them, they killed her children and bayoneted her five times, the witness said. She described atrocities in and around Lipa municipality, Batangas province, early this year.

Planned Destruction

The acting Mayor of Lipa testified "the Japanese had deliberately planned for the destruction of Lipa by leaving drums of gasoline in large houses and buildings and bottles in small houses."

He said the Japanese burned and blasted utilities and took quantities of civilian cars, clothing and food before evacuating to the hills.

Another witness in the Yamashita war crimes trial told today of his miraculous escape from a well into which 300 Filipinos were hurled when Japanese troops rampaged south of Manila early this year, killing and raping.

The testimony of Pampilo Umali came as the prosecution of Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita began presenting evidence that the Japanese mistreated or slew 25,000 men, women and children in seven months in the southern province of Batangas.

Umali said he was among 700 men "and I don't know how many women" who were rounded up Feb. 15. The men were tied up and the women were led away, many never to be seen again.

"We were led off to a well about three feet wide and 60 feet deep," Umali testified. "When my time came about 200 already had jumped and after I jumped at least another hundred followed me."

Umali lay all day and part of the night in this well of living and dying while the Japanese fired into the bodies, pushed in rocks, a sewing machine, and bamboo shoots.

About midnight, he said, some Filipino women came. They dropped ropes and somehow he and five others managed to disentangle themselves from the weight of bodies and debris and climb to safety.

In the same doomed 700 was another witness, Victor Manquiat, who said his group of about 300 was taken to another well because the one into which Umali was thrust was all but filled with bodies.

Ran For Freedom

But Manquiat never jumped. He broke his bonds while being led off and ran to safety although wounded twice by the wild firing guards.

To these stories of mass massacre was added the testimony of a war crimes investigator, who ranged through Batangas taking the stories of survivors and sifting army intelligence reports.

The investigator, Lt. James P. Healty, Jr., of San Francisco, said that the Japanese on the pretense of hunting down guerrillas set whole villages afire and forced the villagers at gunpoint to perish in the flames.

The military commission trying Yamashita for his life agreed to hear some testimony about guerrilla activity but emphasized that it could not be used to excuse the cruelties of Japanese soldiers.

The defense contended that the raids of guerrillas would explain why Yamashita was unable to control his troops bent on revenge.

The defense sought to show that the massacre of more than 12,000 civilians in the rich coffee town of Lipa, in Bantangas province, last March came after repeated guerrilla attacks by night on Japanese communications.

Eusilio Linotoc, a Filipino, had testified that he had been lured by the Japanese into Lipa by the promise of getting a pass, and was shoved instead into a group of soldiers who bayoneted him repeatedly.

Speaking hoarsely because of a bayonet wound in the throat, Linotoc said he lay for hours on the ground strewn with the corpse of his fellow villagers — "maybe a thousand."

Yamashita was handed a picture of Linotoc showing 15 bayonet wounds in the back. The Japanese general took a look, then shrugged his shoulders.

women liberators were captured and never seen again.

To Another Well

Another Filipino, Victor Manquiat, said he was trussed up and marched off with 300 to another well. The one Umali had been in was filled with bodies by that time.

En route, Manquiat dashed to freedom but was hit by two of seven bullets Japanese soldiers fired after him. He returned to the well a few days later and found the bodies of many of the men and women with whom he started the march.

Manquiat said that none of the Jap Terror In Batangas Described

Scheduled

Manila, Nov. 8 (AP)—The grim story of a Japanese reign of terror in Batangas province, where 25,000 men, women and children were brutally mistreated or murdered in seven months, began to unfold today before the military commission hearing war-crime charges against Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita.

Survivors have said that the death toll of civilians was far greater in Batangas than it was in Manila. Populations of entire villages, these survivors have reported, were held at bay at the point of Japanese guns while the invaders burned down all their homes.

6,000 Ran Rampant

The prosecution's first Batangas witness was Lieut. James P. Healey, Jr., of San Francisco, a war-crime investigation officer who said he learned that some 6,000 Japanese soldiers ran rampant over the province from October 9, 1944, to May 1 of this year, committing acts of brutality on the grounds their victims were guerrillas.

Next witness was a Filipino, Pampilo Umali, from the province, who related that he was tied up with "about 700 men and I don't know the number of women but there were many," and "led off to a well about 300 feet wide and 60 feet deep."

One by one, they were made to jump into the well, Umali said.

"When my time came, about 200 had already jumped and after I jumped at least another 100 followed me."

Before Japanese soldiers covered the well with native bamboo sheets, Umali said, they threw in some rocks, "dropped a sewing machine," and fired in many shots.

Some time after midnight, the witness continued, some Filipino women sneaked to the well and lowered ropes, up which six men climbed to escape. Many of the marchers was seen alive again.

Stabbed By Soldiers

A youth from the village of Antiopolo, Eusilio Linotoc, said he and hundreds of his townsmen were marched two at a time to "Japanese who kill people."

He said he was pushed into a group of a dozen soldiers who stabbed him in the thighs, back, hands, stomach, back of the neck. "I didn't count how many times—I shudder whenever I remember." He said he regained consciousness hours later on a river bank littered with the corpses of other Antipolo residents, "maybe a thousand."

Yamashita was shown a picture of Linotoc's fifteen back wounds, and shrugged his shoulders.

The defense announced it would attempt to show that the killing of more than 12,000 civilians in the rich old Batangas province town of Lipa was in retaliation for constant night attacks on Japanese communications lines by Filpino guerrillas.

Not Grounds For Excuse

Commission members then ruled that they would hear limited testimony on guerrilla action but warned that they would not consider it grounds for excusing cruelties perpetrated by Japanese soldiers.

The prosecution wound up its presentation of Manila testimony with introduction of a deposition declaring that Red Cross packages intended for American civilian internees were found looted in the headquarters of Yamashita.

Today General Yamashita observed his sixtieth birthday.

FIND GRAVES OF FLIERS EXECUTED BY JAPANESE

TOKYO, Friday, Nov. 9 — (AP) The graves of 14 American B-29 fliers, executed by the Japanese after they bailed out over Osaka, have been found by the U. S. Sixth army.

They were hidden in the undergrowth of a Japanese military cemetery and marked only by pieces of plank bearing partial identifications.

The men were buried in Sanadayama Military cemetery in the heart of Osaka. Incomplete names cut on pieces of wood were stuck in each grave.

One plank merely bore the words "Graves of American Soldiers."

Identifications tentatively were made of nine of the 14 fliers but in all but one case only the last name and rank was obtainable. The names were not disclosed pending notification of next of kin.

MIKADO DISCARDS MILITARY UNIFORMS

Tokyo, Nov. 8 (A. P.).—Emperor Hirohito has discarded his army and navy uniforms for regal attire featuring chrysanthemum crests.

For his visit to Ise next week to report the end of the war to the Sun Goddess, the Mikado will wear a dark blue, rather plain uniform. The high-collared, straight-lined suit will be distinguished by chrysanthemum crests on the sleeves, collar and cap. The only spot of color will be a chrysanthemum gold medal suspended from the throat.

Hirohito wore military uniforms, replete with Samurai sword, during the war.

Salvaging Jap Ships

Tokyo, Nov. 8 (AP)—A Tokyo company today began the ten-year job of salvaging 60 Japanese merchant ships sunk by submarines along the west coast of Hokkaido in the final weeks of the war.

TOWERS COMMANDING U. S. FIFTH FLEET

TOKYO, Nov. 8—(AP) Raymond A. Spruance hauled down his flag from the mast of the battleship New Jersey today and turned over command of the U. S. Fifth Fleet to Vice Admiral John H. Towers.

At ceremonies aboard the battleship at Yokusuka naval base Towers, former task force commander, said he hoped to "successfully continue" Spruance's work as commander of the fleet which polices the waters of Japan.

The Fifth Fleet, which in war had a strength of more than 100 combat vessels, has been reduced sharply in size for the routine patrol work. Spruance's new assignment has not been announced.

'WELL DONE! CARRY ON,' SAYS NIMITZ TO MARINE CORPS

NOV 9 1945

PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 8—(AP)—With a "well done! carry on!" Admiral Nimitz saluted the marine corps today on its 170th birthday anniversary.

The Fleet Admiral said that when he sent his first anniversary message to marines three years ago he knew most of them, weary of malaria, bombing and the constant attacks of the stubborn foe, would read it in the fox-holes of Guadalcanal and say:

"Where's our Navy?"

"We knew where it was," Nimitz said in today's message, "but we couldn't answer that question aloud. A year later we were stronger. The marines were marching up the Solomons and getting ready for the Marshalls and knew we were there, but 'carry on' were hard words in Bougainville and New Georgia."

Nimitz said their 1944 birthday gave him an opportunity to congratulate the marines for some of the most glorious victories in all history—Tarawa, Saipan, Guam, Tinian, and Pelelu.

"The words were proud but the emphasis was grim—well done! carry on! There still were Iwo, Okinawa and Japan to go."

Now, the Admiral said, he could change the tone of his greetings to the marines.

"Today," he exulted, "in the capital of a thoroughly beaten Japan, we stand together in victory. With these words I salute your victories: Honor your dead and hail your future. Well done! carry on!"

Talk By Nimitz Called Last For Pacific Fleets

Pearl Harbor, Nov. 8 (AP)—Fleet Admiral Nimitz, greeting the Marine Corps on its one hundred and seventieth anniversary today, asserted he was "speaking for the last time on behalf of the officers and men of the Pacific fleets."

He did not amplify the phrase, and fleet headquarters here declined comment on its possible significance.

Previous reports that Nimitz was to succeed Admiral Ernest J. King in the Navy's top command were denied in Washington and greeted here with strict silence.

BRAZIL OPENS OWN WAR CRIMES TRIAL

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 8. — (AP) Brazil opened its own war criminals trial today with preliminary testimony against two defendants, Margarida Hirschmann, an attractive young blonde, and Emilo Baldino. They are charged with broadcasting Axis propaganda in an attempt to lower the morale of Brazilian troops fighting as part of the Fifth U. S. Army in Italy.

The two are accused of broadcasting Milan radio's "yellow green" hour, named for Brazil's national colors. The defense attorney claims that both were forced to make the broadcasts, which were in Portuguese, against their wills. Margarida, he claims, is if German parentage and was taken to Germany by her father before Brazil entered the war. The prosecution charges that she broadcast first from Berlin and later from Milan.

Baldino, of Italian ancestry, his attorney said, went to Italy some years ago to study music. After Brazil entered the war, the defense said, he was forced to make the propaganda broadcasts or go to a concentration camp.

UNITED NATIONS AIR FORCE URGED

NOV 9 1945

Former Governor Stassen Offers Plan To Control Bomb

New York, Nov. 8 (AP)—Capt. Harold E. Stassen, USNR, tonight proposed the formation of a United Nations air force to be equipped with a limited number of atomic bombs and urged that thereafter the manufacture of the bombs be banned by all nations as "a crime against mankind."

"I suggest the United States propose an amendment to Article 26 of the United Nations Charter providing that no nation shall manufacture an atomic bomb, and that the manufacture of such a bomb would be a crime against mankind," he told the sixty-fifth annual dinner meeting of the Academy of Political Science.

"The present plants would manfacture the number required for the world stabilization force and then stop," he continued.

He said he was speaking as an individual and "not in any sense for the Navy or the Government."

Would Amend Charter

Stassen suggested that the United States propose an amendment to the United Nations Charter which would give the Security Council the right to establish a small United Nations air force.

The force, under his proposal, would consist of "five bomber squadrons and ten fighter squadrons, manned by volunteers from the United Nations, not more than one fifth of the personnel of any squadron to be of any one nationality background."

The air force, he suggested, should be based at five suitable places around the world, "and that the United States furnish five atomic bombs to each of these five bomber squadrons at the five bases around the world to serve as the stabilization force for world order."

Favors Making Few Bombs

He said "the present plants would manufacture the number required for the world stabilization force, and then stop.

"I suggest that the United States propose to the United Nations that the Security Council be given the right and the duty to establish an atomic commission of distinguished scientists, with the power and the duty to thoroughly inspect all nations, including our own, to ascertain the fulfillment of the foregoing charter provisions."

The proposed international air force, he said, would be financed by a small tax on all international travel.

Scientists Must Register

"I propose that no one shall engage in any nuclear or atomic research without registering with this United Nations Atomic Commission, but that once having registered, any scientist would be entirely free to carry on scientific research and to publish his results to the world.

"I wish to emphasize that scientific freedom is just as important as academic freedom or freedom of the press to our way of life. The registration should be merely for the protection of mankind as to the location of the research and to facilitate the inspection of the activities."

Calls Proposals Sound

Stassen said he knew "full well that proposals of this kind will be attacked," adding:

"There will be those who call them visionary, but I might ask whether or not to fail to seek some such method would not be blindness. Are not each of these proposals in fact practical, sound and attainable?

"Some of the clamor of opposition will come from those who will say that such a proposal will violate the absolute national sovereignty of the member nations. Yes, it will. But the narrow concept of absolute nationalistic sovereignty belongs in the same historical discard as the theory of the divine right of kings.

Would Not Lose Sovereignty

"The proposal that I make would not cause the people to lose sovereignty. They would be simply delegating a portion of their inherent sovereignty to a new and higher level of governmental machinery where it can be more effectively administered for the people's welfare.

"The concept of absolute nationalistic sovereignty no longer serves the people of this world. It is a barrier that prevents that successful co-operation which every other fact of modern life demands. It is a fertile source of those clashes and frictions that lead to war."

Puts Bomb On World Level

Stassen declared that under an alternative policy of "secrecy and suppression" the pressure of all governments would be on their scientists to develop the explosive and the destructive powers of atomic energy.

The speaker described his proposal as "placing the control of the atomic bomb definitely on the world level," and declared:

"To my mind, it is the only basis that has real hope for future peace, stability and progress."

Hutchins Asks U.S. Aid In Atomic Research

Chicago, Nov. 8 (AP)—Large-scale Government support of scientific research and training was recommended today by Chancellor Robert M. Hutchins in his annual report on the University of Chicago.

In the field of atomic energy, he called for unrestricted investigation and the free exchange of scientific information.

Federal support of education, Hutchins said, however, should not be confined to the field of science.

Proposes Foundation

He asserted:

"Progress in social science, the humanities and law is quite as important to the peace and prosperity of the world as the maintenance of natural science."

Hutchins urged establishment of a national research foundation for scientific education and study as proposed by Vannevar Bush, head of the Federal Office of Scientific Research and Development.

The chancellor said the proposed foundation, which would cost the Government $122,500,000 annually by the fifth year of its operation, "seems as nonpolitical as any agency of government could or should be."

The text of the address of Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, delivered at the annual dinner of the Academy of Political Science last night, follows:

Mr. Chairman, Distinguished Guests and Fellow-Citizens:

There can be little doubt that we meet at the opening of one of the crucial decades of history. A world-wide war, tenfold more destructive than any previous war, has ended.

It ended, and left in its wake a billion of the men and women and little children of the world hungry and short of food. It ended, and left a quarter billion of the people of the world without shelter. It ended, and left a half billion of the earth's inhabitants, including many on every hemisphere, seething in the ferment of political and social unrest. It ended, and left fifty millions of mankind wounded or ill or long, dreary distances from home, at strange locations to which they had been swept by the flood tides of the conflict. It ended, and left little white crosses, row on row, around the globe, as signposts of the youth, virility and manhood that was no more and as symbols of the sorrows in the hearts of their loved ones.

It ended, as the United Nations were preparing to put into effect their charter for peace. It ended, and left the production and distribution systems in great areas of the world disrupted and destroyed. It ended, in a rapid succession of guns that shot farther, of airplanes that flew greater distances with heavier bomb loads, of rockets that outsped sound itself.

It ended, with the awesome flash at Hiroshima and Nagasaki, signaling to the world that science had unlocked the devastating and disintegrating force of the atomic bomb. It ended, and we face the future. And, what of that future? What shall our course be?

Frank Discussion Held Needed

I believe the best way to discuss that future course is to take up specifically one of the world's problems. I believe we can best come to grips with the issues of the days ahead by discussing frankly and in detail our policy on the world's major challenge of the future—atomic energy. Needless to say, I speak as an individual and not in any sense for the Navy or the Government.

Seeking to find the wise policy as to atomic energy, it is important that we first endeavor to clarify basic factual information.

First of all, the successful development of the sustained neutron chain reaction resulting from nuclear fission, and the manufacture of the atomic bomb, was a result of many years of effort by scientists of many countries, including Denmark, France and Germany, culminating in the specific intense work by large groups from England, Canada and the United States in the Manhattan Project in Washington and Tennessee, and in groups at Berkeley, Chicago, Columbia, Los Alamos, Clinton, Hanford and elsewhere.

Second, scientists do not anticipate that there can be any successful scientific counter-measure to an atomic bomb. There appears no scientific theory that would provide for its neutralization or its advance detonation.

Third, the production of atomic bombs requires an installation of such size that a rigid inspection by competent scientists could ascertain the presence or absence of such production.

Fourth, it appears likely that the tremendous energy developed can at some future time be harnessed and controlled for peaceful and constructive purposes for the benefit of mankind.

Fifth, there is nothing about the scientific features or fabrication methods of the production of the bomb that cannot be ascertained in a relatively short space of years by any group of able scientists and engineers anywhere in the world.

Sixth, the destructive power in one small bomb is greater than a thousand of the greatest bombs made previously, and it is physically possible to manufacture these by the hundreds and to further increase their destructive power.

NOV 9 1945

Alternatives Are Listed

If these are the correct basic facts, then what should the policy of America be? Obviously, there are a number of alternatives. The first is the policy of secrecy and suppression. Under this policy we would provide for heavy penalties against anyone who would reveal any part of the information that was not already public. We would keep our own scientists under surveillance. We would investigate all reports of any of our scientists meeting with scientists or representatives from other countries. We would follow a policy that is inherent in the preface of the Smythe report. I quote:

"All pertinent scientific information which can be released to the public at this time without violating the needs of national security is contained in this volume. No requests for additional information should be made to private persons or organizations associated directly or indirectly with the project. Persons disclosing or securing additional information by any means whatsoever, without authorization, are subject to severe penalties under the espionage act."

Under this secrecy and suppression policy, we would give to our Government extreme powers which it has never approached before in time of peace. And, what would be the result?

Throughout the world other scientists and other engineers would pursue the same discoveries, would experiment and develop, until they too had atomic bombs. Throughout the world the pressure of all Governments would be on their scientists to develop the explosive and the destructive powers of atomic energy. Throughout the world the research and experimentation and the utilization of atomic energy for peaceful and constructive purposes would be retarded.

Here in America, for the first time in peace, we would be restricting the freedom of science. For the first time in peace, we would be departing from that basic liberty and openness of science which has led in the past to our superb scientific achievements. America would become less attractive as the home of scientists and we would begin to establish conditions of a nature similar to those which caused many scientists to flee from Germany and seek refuge elsewhere.

If We Rely on Good Faith

Or, as a second alternative, we can say we have no secrets from our Allies, and open up our entire records and details of production to every one of the United Nations, and rely on their good faith in their use of this information.

What then would be the result? Many other nations would manufacture some of the bombs. There would be an uneasy apprehension between nations as to what their future course might be. Changing policies of Government and changing leadership would be viewed with uncertainty around the world. Relations between nations would be carried on with the dread of possible surprise attacks.

All of history says that good faith alone is not sufficient for the peaceful relationship between men. Good faith must be coupled with a framework of order, of law, and of justice. Under the give-away alternative, there would be no guarantee of reciprocal openness of information. We would, in effect, be increasing the armament of every other individual United Nation. There is no logical reason why each nation of the world should have the power to destroy other nations. Balancing of power has not proved in the past to be a road to peace, but rather a road to war.

New Government Level Sought

It is the third alternative that I advocate tonight. This is the alternative of placing the control of the atomic bomb definitely on the world level. To my mind, it is the only basis that has real hope for future peace, stability and progress. To my mind, the splitting of the tiny atom, and the destructive release of its tremendous energy, urgently requires the uniting on this great earth of the constructive energy of all mankind.

This new development is one additional powerful reason for developing a new and higher level of Government to serve mankind. The progress of science, of communication, of travel and of mass production, have already brought the people of the world close together. All of history tells us that whenever men are living close together, they require a government of some form to prevent anarchy and chaos, to establish order and justice, and to facilitate progress and well-being. The world needed government on a world level before the atomic bomb. Now it has become an imperative.

I present tonight specific detailed recommendations, not because I am insistent that these are the precise answers, but rather because it is my observation that to discuss a subject in broad terms that mean all things to all men, does not contribute to clarification or decision. I present exact detail in order that men might differ with me and from the discussion of those differences we might find the way to the best answers.

I suggest that the United States propose an amendment to Article 43 of the United Nations Charter, an amendment granting to the Security Council the right and the duty to establish and maintain a small United Nations Air Force of five bomber squadrons and ten fighter squadrons, manned by volunteers from the United Nations, not more than one-fifth of the personnel of any squadron to be of any one nationality background, to be based at five different suitable bases around the world, to be financed by a small tax on all international travel, and that the United States furnish five atomic bombs to each of these five bomber squadrons at the five bases around the world to serve as the stabilization force for world order.

I suggest the United States propose an amendment to Article 26 of the United Nations Charter providing that no nation shall manufacture an atomic bomb, and that the manufacture or possession of such a bomb would be a crime against mankind. The present plants would manufacture the number required for the World Stabilization Force, and then stop.

I suggest that the United States propose to the United Nations that the Security Council be given the right and the duty to establish an Atomic Commission of distinguished scientists, with the power and the duty to thoroughly inspect all nations, including our own, to ascertain the fulfillment of the foregoing charter provisions.

To Guard Scientific Freedom

I propose that no one shall engage in any nuclear or atomic research without registering with this United Nations Atomic Commission, but that once having registered, any scientist would be entirely free to carry on scientific research and to publish his results to the world. I wish to emphasize that scientific freedom is just as important as academic freedom or freedom of the press to our way of life. The registration should be merely for the protection of mankind as to the location of the research and to facilitate the inspection of the activities.

I know full well that proposals of this kind will be attacked. There will be those who call them visionary, but I might ask whether or not to fail to seek some such method would not be blindness. Are not each of these proposals in fact practical, sound and attainable?

Some of the clamor of opposition will come from those who will say that such a proposal will violate the absolute national sovereignty of the member nations. Yes, it will!

But the narrow concept of absolute nationalistic sovereignty belongs in the same historical discard as the theory of the divine right of kings. The proposal that I make would not cause the people to lose sovereignty. They would be simply delegating a portion of their inherent sovereignty to a new and higher level of governmental machinery where it can be more effectively administered for the people's welfare. Principles of government must stand the test of service to the people if they are to be respected.

The concept of absolute nationalistic sovereignty no longer serves the people of this world. It is a barrier that prevents that successful cooperation which every other fact of modern life demands. It is a fertile source of those clashes and frictions that lead to war. And, might I add, that the diplomats' squeamishness about abstract sovereignty, as they refuse to take steps to prevent war, does not impress the millions of men who have seen the intimate innards of their pals spread over the landscape by war.

Measures of world cooperation, steps of effective working together, machinery that serves mankind, should be judged on their own merits, not by seeking to apply to it the outworn shibboleth of absolute nationalistic sovereignty.

"Self-Interest" Argument Hit

Another argument in opposition that will probably be made is that this proposal does not serve the "self-interest" of America. It will be argued that we now occupy a position of great power with our armed might and the possession of the atomic bomb; that we should use this power for our own enlightened "self-interest" rather than diffuse it on a world-wide basis.

Permit me to meet that argument head-on. In my judgment, if the selfish interest of America becomes the official guiding light of our world policy, it will be one of the most tragic phases of American history. The doctrine of "America First" is purely and simply the extension of the doctrine of "Me First." There is, and there will be, a considerable measure of this doctrine in life. But if it ever becomes the officially accepted standard to be followed by everyone, the tragedy, chaos and suffering, the demoralization and disintegration, will be indescribable. Selfishness is not a virtue for individual life. Neither should it be considered a virtue for national life.

It is my view that the first pennant nailed to the mast of our foreign policy should state the objective to promote the slow, steady march of social, economic and cultural progress of all mankind and the general welfare of one world at peace.

Nothing less than that is worthy of America. This does not mean a policy of waste and extravagance. It does not mean the encouragement of idleness in other lands. It does not mean a careless charity that undermines the recipient and dissipates the resources of the giver. It does not mean placing the welfare of any other individual nation above that of America. It does not mean that we should be weak in armed force. It does not mean we love America less.

But it does require a broadness of concept of our policies. It does require that in our domestic activities we constantly be concerned as to their effect on peoples of other parts of the world. We are today the most powerful nation in the world. We do have the greatest productive capacity. We do have a homeland—thank God—that has not been ravished by war. We do have an economy that is healthy and strong. If we seek to be selfish and narrow in this position, that same selfishness and narrowness will pass on down to groups within our country. America will be divided. It will be bigoted and intolerant. And our economy will wither. We shall lose that precise powerful position which we seek selfishly to maintain.

More Than 'Lip Service' Asked

The broad policy I advocate means specifically that we must do more than give lip service to the United Nations Organization. We must do more than cooperate in a manner of detached, aloof interest. We must seek constantly to give it vigor and vitality and contribute to its growth. I know there are those who speak of its inadequacy. It is true as I said long since, that it is only a "beachhead in the battle for peace," that it is only "a very small" step in the right direction."

But it is nevertheless a tremendously important step. It is a vital beachhead. It has brought together all of the essential elements for effective world administration. It directly and indirectly represents three-fourths of all the peoples of the world. Its purposes are right. I read them to you:

"1. To maintain international peace and security, and to that end: to take effective collective measures for the prevention and removal of threats to the peace, and for the suppression of acts of aggression or other breaches of the peace, and to bring about by peaceful means, and in conformity with the principles of justice and international law, adjustment or settlement of international disputes or situations which might lead to a breach of the peace.

"2. To develop friendly relations among nations based on respect for the principle of equal rights and self-determination of peoples, and to take other appropriate measures to strengthen universal peace.

"3. To achieve international cooperation in solving international problems of an economic, social, cultural or humanitarian character, and in promoting and encouraging respect for human rights, and for fundamental freedoms for all without distinction as to race, sex, language or religion; and

"4. To be a center for harmonizing the actions of nations in the attainment of these common ends."

United Nations Can Develop

Its machinery and powers are limited. Its veto is restrictive. But it is flexible. It can grow. It can be amended. It can be changed. Do not sell the United Nations organization short. Do not undermine what you have in an academic discussion of what you wish you had.

The United Nations organization can be developed in any manner the United States, the Soviet Union, Great Britain, China and France and a majority of the other nations wish it to be developed. And, realistically, there cannot be effective world government without the agreement of those powers. The United States must continue to give leadership in this growth and development. I am tremendously encouraged by the ratification of the necessary five and twenty-four, by the successful completion of the work of the preparatory commission in London, and by the fact that in less than two months the first Assembly of the United Nations as a definite functioning organization will take place.

This has been a bright spot amidst the dark clouds of the deterioration of our world relationships which occurred at the London Conference of Foreign Ministers, a conference, it should be remembered, that had no connection with this United Nations organization and was not planned and prepared for in the same thorough manner.

The broad policy we are discussing means that we must promptly reconvert, develop full production and proceed with plans for the exchange of some of the results of our great productive capacity, with those who need it now, for future raw materials and investments and trade and tourist opportunities.

We should not overlook that the basic long-range facts of the world economy are encouraging, even in this tragic winter. The threat of Nazi and Japanese domination has been removed. This good earth has the capacity to produce enough food for all the people in it. The materials are here to construct shelter for all who wish it. There is room on the globe for all the people on it.

But the science of government has not advanced as rapidly as have the other sciences, nor as rapidly as has the growth of population itself. We need intense study of this art of living together. This study should involve not only the development of mechanisms of government on a new and higher level for the conduct of those affairs that cannot be carried on successfully on the old basis of the nationalistic state, but it also means the development of more effective government at local and national levels.

Democracy's Study Advised

The value of a periodic choice by the people between alternatives in administration needs earnest discussion and analysis. The avoidance of a complete political fragmentation of the population in a democracy to a point where no effective government of continuity is possible needs emphasis. The Federal principle, its strength and its flexibility; the relations of the economic, social and political structures; the specific question of federated economies, coexistent with political alliances; and the comparison of men's existing governments with what they had previously rather than with an abstract ideal, all need searching consideration.

These must challenge the best of intelligence the world can apply to them. Surely we have learned through two tragic wars and a world-wide depression in a single generation that the failure of men to learn how to live together can destroy and devastate much of what all their other intelligence, invention, study and toil can create.

This same broad foreign policy also means that throughout the world we must constantly emphasize basic human rights more than American rights. I am convinced that if we follow such a broad policy as we have discussed tonight it will not result in our own impoverishment—it will not result in our own weakness. In fact we shall thrive and grow and be happier under the challenge of this course. We shall find that after the decade goes by we have a healthier economy. We shall find that we have access to more raw materials and greater markets than we otherwise would. We shall find that we have a greater measure of good-will throughout the world; that we have more jobs at home; that we are at peace.

In any discussion of the seriousness and scope of our discussion this evening there always arises the question of how it shall be concluded. Permit me to merely say—let us face the future with confidence.

hoped.

Here is the situation:

1. Foreign Commissar Molotov has replied to an American proposal for an Allied control agency in Tokyo which would be subordinate to the Far Eastern Advisory Commission in Washington. There are strong indications that Molotov turned down this proposal and that Secretary of State Byrnes is not inclined to compromise the issue further.

Dardanelles An Issue

2. The United States has laid a four-point program for revising control of the Dardanelles before the Turkish Government. This would give Russia some advantages in the use of the straits which she does not now have. But it falls far short of Russia's reported desire for military bases on the vital link between the Black Sea and the Mediterranean.

3. A Russian-Turkish treaty of nonaggression and friendship, which had run for many years, expired yesterday following Soviet denunciation. Diplomatic officials say they fear that Russia may make a few psychological passes at Turkey in order to gain the right to set up Dardanelles bases on Turkish soil and also to win over certain territories in northeastern Turkey which the Russians have claimed.

Atomic Energy Problem

4. The problem of the atomic bomb and peacetime uses of atomic energy becomes more acute, in the opinion of diplomatic authorities, as the time approaches for conferences among President Truman and Prime Ministers Attlee of Britain and Mackenzie King of Canada. These talks will open Sunday.

Byrnes declined yesterday to comment on Molotov's speech in Moscow Tuesday saying that Russia would have atomic energy and that the secret of the bomb could not be kept. But the subject evidently was very much on Byrnes's mind, because he went directly from the news conference to the White House to discuss with Mr. Truman preparations for the week-end talks.

Wants Rule By Four Powers

In the case of Japan, Russia is reported by Allied diplomatic authorities here to be standing firm on her contention that Japan should be administered by a four-power council in which the United States would have, according to Byrnes, a dominant voice.

The United States is reported by informed American officials to be holding out for an agency in Tokyo with about the powers which Russian suggests but subordinate to the Far Eastern Advisory Commission.

Message To Turkey

On the question of Turkey, Byrnes gave his news conference the substance of a message he said had been sent to Ankara last week after it was reviewed by President Truman. This proposed a four-point revision of the Montreux convention, a treaty which controls the Dardanelles. Under the revision, Turkey would make some concesions to Russia and the United Nations Organization.

The Secretary denied that the United States was taking a position alongside Turkey to prevent any future action which might jeopardize Turkish independence or sovereignty. Byrnes said the four-point program he outlined is the limit of American interest with Turkey at the present time on this question.

U.S. And Russia Make Little Progress On Problems

Merged Forces 'Might Have Lost War'

NOV 9 1945

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—Vice Admiral Charles M. Cooke, Jr., said today that if the United States Army and Navy had been operating under a single department they might not have won the war.

The deputy chief of naval operations told the Senate Military Committee in prepared testimony:

"It is my belief that not only would the supervision of the war have been less efficient but, taking into consideration the probability of a seriously hampered growth of the Navy during the past twenty years, we are confronted with the very real possibility that the victory would have been delayed for several years, or that we would not have won the war at all."

Cooke said that "during this greatest and most complex war in all history, the United States has been singularly blessed by the correctness of the strategic decisions reached and actions taken in Washington."

"Cataclysmic Plan"

"The decision of no one of the United States chiefs of staff has prevailed in all cases, but the chief of staff dealing with a matter primarily in his particular field has, I believe, usually been right."

He declared the service integration plan advocated by the War Department "would be more than revolutionary; it would be almost cataclysmic" in its effect on the Navy.

Under the plan, he said, the chief of naval operations "would be in charge of an organization operating, in a large degree, in a vacuum, divorced from contacts with field forces and field commanders."

Confined To Recommendations

The chief would be "one fifth of the proposed United States chiefs of staff, the authority of which organization would be confined to recommendations only on military strategy, tactics and budget requirements," Cooke said.

The proposals, he added, "allow the Navy to retain a so-labeled, so-called 'fleet air arm.' The 'fleet air arm' is what was allotted to the British Navy by the Royal Air Force at the end of the first World War.

"As we all know, the British Navy entered this war with a navy almost fatally defective in its air arm and had to come to the United States Navy to get aircraft with which it could defend its ships from air attack and contend on even terms against a modern navy as possessed by the Japanese. The development of a British air-sea offensive power was out of the question.

Likened To Proposal

"And yet we have proposed here an organization of the armed forces which would put the United States Navy in the same position as was the Royal Navy in 1941, from which inferiority it has not yet by any means fully recovered."

The Army and Navy developed a partnership during the war which "should be continued and should be strengthened," Cooke said. "I do not believe, however, that the possibility of growing co-operation and integration will be promoted by marriage forced upon an unwilling Navy."

Revised G.I. Bill Of Rights Wins In Senate Vote

House Gets Measure After Plan to Include Widows in Benefits Is Defeated

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP).—A revised "G. I. bill of rights," easing the way for veterans to get government-backed schooling or loans, received Senate approval today after a proposal to extend its benefits to widows of veterans was shouted down.

Passage on a voice vote sent the measure to the House, which approved G. I. amendments last summer. The Senate bill is a substitute, however, retaining only the House title.

Snator Edwin C. Johnson, Democrat, of Colorado, floor manager for the bill, estimated its changes would make the program cost the Treasury $9,000,000,000 over the years of it operation. He said the cost of the original G. I. bill, enacted in June, 1944, was estimated at $7,635,000,000.

Senator Warren G. Magnuson, Democrat, of Washington, offered the amendment to give widows of veterans the benefits of the bill. "It probably will involve only a very minimum, particularly of younger women," he argued.

He was thinking particularly, he said, of young widows who are the breadwinners for families and might want to improve their job opportunities by schooling at government expense.

Senator Johnson replied that the Finance Committee had considered that proposal as well as a suggestion from Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana, that the benefits be extended to children of veterans, but had decided against both.

The Coloradan noted that widows reecived a pension and suggested that any additional aid for them should be through legislation amending the pension laws rather than through the G. I. measure. Senator Magnuson's amendment lost on a voice vote.

Here are the chief changes which the legislation would make in the existing law:

Give any veteran of World War II, regardless of age, the right to go to school with the government paying expenses of such tuition and books up to $500 a year. The present law applies to veterans whose schooling was interrupted by service and declares that is presumed to be the case of those who were under twenty-five when they entered the Army or Navy.

Increase from $50 to $65 the monthly living allowance for student-veterans without dependents and from $75 to $90 the allowance for those with dependents.

Bring under the program short technical training courses and correspondence courses if the cost does not exceed $500 a year.

Authorize the Veterans Administrator to make agreements with state institutions for payments in lieu of tuition. (Some state institutions charge no tuition or very little).

Permit government guaranty up to one-half, or not more than $2,000, of loans to veterans to buy homes, businesses or farms, provided the property was purchased at a "reasonable value." The existing law reads "reasonable normal value." Senator Johnson said the Finance Committee was reluctant to strike out the "normal" but decided that under present property prices the loan provisions would serve little purpose if left unchanged.

Permit guaranteed loans to cover working capital, seeds and farm machinery as well as real estate.

Increase the amortization period for non-farm loans from twenty years to twenty-five and for farm loans from twenty to forty.

PEARL HARBOR FILE IS DENIED TO BREWSTER

Inquiry Committee Votes, 5--5, Not to Let Him See Navy Papers.

FOLLOWS ORDER BY TRUMAN

President Directs His Department Heads to Give Joint Group Full Information.

Washington, Nov. 8 (A. P.).—A Senate-House committee denied today to Senator Brewster (R.-Maine) the right to look into Navy Department files in search of what Brewster said is a missing message bearing on the Pearl Harbor disaster.

Brewster's motion that he be given authority to look through the files was defeated on a five to five tie vote, Chairman Barkley (D.-Ky.) told reporters after a closed meeting of the investigating committee.

Barkley said the committee also rejected, six to four, on a strict party division, a motion by Senator Ferguson (R.-Mich.) to postpone the start of public hearings from November 15 to November 23.

Senator George of Georgia was the only Democrat to support Brewster's plea to examine Navy files.

In connection with Brewster's proposal, Barkley said it was the feeling of the Democratic members that if one Senator is granted permission to search Government files, others would want the same authority.

Follows Trnmen Order.

The committee's action came shortly after President Truman had ordered that the committee must be supplied with any information it desires.

His memorandum, addressed to Federal department and agency heads, as well as to the joint Chiefs of Staff, authorizes all employees under them to give the committee "any information of which they may have knowledge."

The White House said that the President sent out the memorandum last night.

In it he also requested the department heads to authorize employees, even if they aren't questioned by the committee, to "come forward voluntarily" and report any information which they may believe has not been disclosed previously to the congressional investigators.

Truman Makes Correction.

"This directive," the President said, "is applicable to all persons in your departments or agencies whether they are in the armed services or not and whether or not they are called to testify before the joint committee."

After the memorandum was issued, Senator Lucas (D.-Ill.) told reporters that Mr. Truman had agreed to correct what Lucas called a mistake in the order. Lucas said committee members called the White House after it was learned that Mr. Truman had deleted a part of the memorandum which would permit employees to volunteer information to individual members. The order will be changed, Lucas told reporters, to put that section back in. Under the changed memorandum information can be volunteered to the individual members. But, he said, the new order would not allow individuals to go into Government files—which is what Republican members have sought.

Lucas said Mr. Truman had been under a misapprehension in signing the original order today, believing that the wording he deleted would have permitted the individual members to go into the files. He previously had declined to sign such an order.

At today's closed session, Lucas said the committee adopted a rule of procedure proposed by him to prevent interruptions in testimony when hearings begin November 15. Under the rule, which he said was approved unanimously, William D. Mitchell, committee counsel, will first question the witness. His questioning must not be interrupted by Senators.

Then Chairman Barkley will call on committee members in order. They may ask questions without interruption by other Senators or by the counsel.

"That will give us a clear, orderly record that can be understood," Lucas said.

Text of Memorandum.

The text of the President's memorandum follows:

"Section 3 of the concurrent resolution creating the joint congressional committee on the investigation of the Pearl Harbor attack reads as follows:

" 'Section 3. The testimony of any person in the armed services, and the fact that such person testify before the joint committee herein provided for, shall not be used against him in any court proceeding or held against him in examining his military status for credits in the service to which he belongs.'

"In order to assist the joint committee to make a full and complete investigation of the facts relating to the events leading up to or following the account, you are requested to authorize every person in your respective departments or agencies, if they are interrogated by the committee or its counsel, to give any information of which they may have knowledge bearing on the subject of the committee's investigation.

"You are further requested to authorize them whether or not they are interrogated by the committee or its counsel to come forward voluntarily and disclose to its committee or to its counsel any information they may have on the subject or to its inquiry which they may have any reasons to think may not already have been disclosed to the committee.

"This directive is applicable to all persons in your departments or agencies whether they are in the armed services or not and whether or not they are called to testify before the joint committee."

The President's memorandum came at a time when both Republicans and Democrats on the investigating committee were contending that political considerations are imperiling the value of the whole inquiry.

More Food Allotted to Europe

NOV 9 1945

50 Per Cent Increase Made for Period From October to December.

Washington, Nov. 8 (A. P.).—This country has allocated to liberated areas of Europe and French North Africa about 50 per cent more food for the October-December period than was available to them in the previous quarter.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson told his news conference today that nearly 4,000,000 tons would be marked for this form of export.

Countries to which this food is being made available include those served by the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration—principally in southeastern Europe — France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Norway, Italy as well as French North Africa.

In addition, about 750,000 tons have been allocated to the United Kingdom and about 1,500,000 tons elsewhere, including United States territories.

Anderson said he hoped it would be possible to maintain this increased level of allocations for food-desolated areas during the first quarter of 1946.

"But we are not necessarily promising it," he said.

This country, the Secretary said, will have ample supplies to keep home consumption at present levels.

But he said that while meat supplies are improving, it may not be possible to end meat rationing until after December.

Anderson previously had said he hoped to end rationing of food fats and oils—butter, margarine, lard and shortening—by the end of this year.

May Have to Ration Fats.

But he said today it now appears that rationing of fats and oils may have to be continued during the first six months of 1946. The reason: 1945 domestic production of food fats is now estimated to be about 250,000,000 pounds short of expectations.

Anderson said also that he saw little hope for any material improvement in domestic sugar supplies before 1947. Some form of rationing, he predicted, will be necessary through next year. The principal reasons for this, he said, are: Philippine production will be much slower in getting reestablished than had been expected, and civil strife in Java is preventing movement of supplies from that area.

In discussing the European

food situation, Anderson said that supplies are shortest in Germany, and that the Army is expected to ask for an allocation of supplies for the American-controlled portion of that country soon. He indicated that any supplies which may be made available for Germany will be limited largely to potatoes, available here in large quantities.

Anderson said the total amount of food available for allocation for the last quarter of this year was about 37,000,000 tons. Of this amount, about 29,000,000 tons, or 78 per cent, will go to United States civilians.

DULLES TALKS TO PEACE UNIT

NOV 9

Calls Upon United Nations To Attack "New Enemies"

Philadelphia, Nov. 8 (AP) — John Foster Dulles today called upon the United Nations to attack the new enemies of mankind — want, fear, disease, intolerance and the like.

In a speech at the opening session of a two-day meeting of the Commission on a Just and Durable Peace, Dulles said that peacemaking inevitably is a disruptive process and urged establishment by the United Nations organization of unifying forces to offset the divisive influences of peace negotiations.

Dulles, adviser to Secretary of States Byrnes at the recent Council of Foreign Ministers in London and general adviser to the American delegation at the San Francisco conference, presided at the meeting.

Program Of Strategy

The commission, instituted before Pearl Harbor by the Federal Council of Churches to seek a just and durable peace based on spiritual principles, met to discuss a program of strategy designed to help further the successful operation of the world's peace machinery.

Chairman of the commission, Dulles said that nations which sat on the same side of the table planning a common effort against common enemies now find themselves sitting on opposite sides.

"We must not let that be the pattern of the future or allow that procedure to make the permanent grooves in which our future lines will fall," he said.

Militarists' Opinion

He told the delegates that the Nazis and Japanese militarists "considered the Christian virtues to be contemptible weaknesses" and added:

"Today, Protestant Christians need to work more closely together. They need to work on parallel lines with Roman Catholics and Jews, whose views about world order are much like our own."

"If people and lands are shifted about merely to serve the strategic or economic advantage of the most powerful victors, such settlements will not be lasting or produce peace."

'War of the Pushbuttons' Could Destroy Whole Cities

NOV 9 1945

By FRANCIS J. KELLY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—(AP) A "war of the pushbuttons" with the hearts of America's largest cities blasted from the back rooms of foreign consulates was envisioned today by the Senate atomic energy committee's chief scientific advisor.

Dr. Edward U. Condon, director of the national bureau of standards and mentor to the Senate atom group, declared such a prospect confronts the nation unless a world organization is created "with complete power to know what is being done everywhere."

For he said in an article written for Army Ordnance Magazine:

"The atomic bombs are such small and simple devices that it is easy to visualize an enemy nation bringing them in small pieces, under cover of diplomatic immunity, and assembling them quietly in the closets or back rooms of their embassies and consular offices in our chief cities.

"Then when the decision to make war is reached, the ruler of the enemy nation has merely to say the word and his agents in our country touch off the dozen or two bombs so planted in each of our major cities.

"And within minutes the entire hearts of each of them are utterly destroyed — made to resemble the recently released photographs of Hiroshima."

The whole nature of warfare has been changed by the bomb, he declared, adding:

"Fortunately there are signs that our political leaders realize the seriousness of the situation and are trying to use it to bring about a world union of peoples and an end to war."

In his new role as advisor to the Senate committee entrusted with atomic energy control legislation, Condon arranged to lecture to them tonight on nuclear physics. Dr. Harold Urey, University of Chicago Nobel prize winner, agreed to participate. Condon promised some "physical demonstrations" along with the lectures, held for committee members only at the bureau of standards.

New Developments

With British Prime Minister Attlee headed for Washington to confer with President Truman on the new world problem, atomic developments came thick and fast.

Four young scientists who worked at the laboratories and factories where the bomb was developed announced formation of a Federation of Atomic Scientists, and these statements at a news conference:

"A continuing monopoly of the atomic bomb by the United States is impossible.

"There can be no specific defenses against the destructive effects of the atomic bomb.

"In view of the existence of the atomic bomb, no nation can, in this new age, feel secure until the problem of the control of atomic power is solved on a world level."

The four scientists are Drs. Lyle B. Borst, William M. Woodward, H. H. Goldsmith and Irving Kaplan. The oldest is 38, the youngest 29.

Flyers Favor Bomb Secrecy

Sacramento, Cal., Nov. 8—(AP)—The American flyers who dropped the atomic bomb on Nagasaki don't think the secret of the deadly missive should be entrusted to any international custodianship.

There was a shouted chorus of "Hell, no" when they were asked their personal opinions on the subject at a news conference at Mather Field after their arrival from the Marianas in "The Great Artiste" B-29 today.

They were also in accord in the belief the atom bombs will not be a factor in preventing future wars.

Bomb Will Not End Wars

Staff Sergeant John B. Kuharek, flight engineer, of Columbus, Neb., expressed it this way, and there was no disagreement:

"People have been throwing rocks at each other ever since the Stone Age. I don't think they're going to quit now because a new weapon of war has been developed, deadly as it is."

"If someone else gets a hold of that bomb some of you people on the Pacific Coast are going to be mighty sorry," commented navigator Capt. James F. Van Pelt, Jr., of Oak Hill, W.Va. "Give anyone else that bomb? That's the damnedest thing I ever heard of."

The crewmen under Major Charles W. Sweeney, of North Quincy, Mass., were told they were free to air their personal opinions but not to reveal any information.

Capt. Kermit K. Beahan, bombardier, was the only member of the crew not present. He returned earlier on the record flight from Hokkaido to Washington.

Destination Unknown

No technical description of the action of the bomb was permissible but, said blister gunner Sergt. Raymond Gallagher, of Chicago, "I don't ever want to see another go off. No matter how much is written about that explosion you can't put into words what that bomb did. The American people would have to see it to realize what happens. Let's keep the atom bomb to ourselves."

Mather Field revealed today that the other atom-dropping plane, the "Enola Gay," passed through Sacramento yesterday to an unannounced destination. "Only a few" of the officers of the Superfort which blasted Hiroshima were reported aboard. "The Great Artiste" will leave later but its destination also was withheld.

NOV 9 1945

JAP SCIENTISTS WERE ON TRAIL OF ATOMIC POWER

NEW YORK, Nov. 8—(AP) Japanese scientists tried to learn how to use splitting uranium atoms to make a substitute for coal, after miscalculating the possibilities of making a bomb.

This report was made tonight by Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of the Massachusetts institute of technology, who recently returned from Japan, in a talk to the Grocery Manufacturers of America, Inc., in annual meeting here.

The Japanese who headed the oriental bomb project was Nishina, well known to American physicists and himself a competent investigator. He had a cyclotron which was the counterpart of one of the large cyclotrons of the University of California, where these high energy machines were used to obtain some of the key information on the American bomb project. Nishina used his cyclotron in the same way.

His miscalculation was that the neutrons, the fast atomic particles which make and spread the chain reaction that is the atomic explosion, would not spread fast enough to make an efficient bomb. This was an easy mistake to make. The Americans undertook long and brilliant team studies to figure out how to make their chain reaction fast enough.

After dropping the bomb idea Nishina and his associates continued work on the atomic power angles. The slow and non-explosive burning is easier to attain, and was actually done in the American project in December of 1942.

However, the Japanese had only about 22 pounds of uranium metal. For either bombs or power many tons are required to get the adequate quantities of explosive type atoms.

They were looking for uranium deposits in Manchuria and elsewhere. After a bombing raid destroyed their headquarters and materials they stopped. But they started to resume atomic bomb research right after the Hiroshima bomb.

Atom Bomb Changed Cattles' Color

And Rancher's Beard Is Streaked With Gray After First Test of Lethal Weapon.

Alamogordo, N. M., Nov. 8 (A. P.).—State Livestock Inspector Alfred Hunter reports that cattle changed color and a rancher's beard became streaked with gray following the first atomic bomb test near here on July 16.

Confessing that he was skeptival before seeking the cattle, Hunter said the red-coated, white faced Herefords appeared to have a heavy frost across their backs. Several came off the C. M. Harvey ranch twenty or thirty miles from the bomb test site.

He said the new color was not deep and that the cattle showed no signs of injury.

Will Wrye, a rancher at Bingham, N. M., said that following the explosion of the beard on the sides of his face first appeared to have been seared and now was growing back hite, while the hair on his chin remained brown. He said he neither saw the bright flash nor heard the rumble which neighbors reported at the time.

aFrm hands at the H. O. Bursum ranch near Carrizozo, N. M. told Hunter that their cat was entirely black before the bomb test. Now it is half white.

Row Delays Hearing On Peacetime Draft

Noon Bell in House Saves Bill from Vote—Likely Defeat.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—(AP)—Universal military training was saved from a vote—and likely defeat—in the House Military Affairs committee today by the noon bell.

Unmoved by a plea for the bill by Secretary of War Patterson, who said that 250,000 Americans may die in one day if war comes again, an opposing bloc led by Rep. Short (R-Mo.) tried to force a vote on the measure.

The committee session broke up in a row after Short was overruled on his demand for a roll call on his motion to defer action until next year or until after the Senate has acted. Backers of the bill blocked the roll call by contending the committee was not legally in session since it was after noon and the House itself was convening.

Because of absences of committee members, opponents of the legislation apparently had a majority at the time.

"You can say this bill is dead," Short told reporters after the vote was blocked. He said he would strive every day the hearings on it continue to force a vote on deferring action.

Secretary Patterson led off testimony on the bill, patterned after President Truman's recommendations that young men 18 to 20 years of age serve a year to build up a giant reserve of trained forces in the event of an emergency.

He said he wasn't trying to be "melodramatic" in picturing the horrors of future war. The men who led America to triumph in this war are in "unanimous agreement."

Patterson said, that the next one will bring on this set of problems:

The U. S. will be the first target.

The attack may come with lightning speed with weapons from far off launching sites.

Without an immediate counter-offensive, the country's very ability to survive may be challenged.

Time in the new atomic age will be the most important factor.

Said Patterson:

"In the war just ended a quarter of a million American fighting men gave their lives on foreign battlefields. If war comes again more than that number of men, women and children may be wiped out in a single day in their own homes."

NOV 9 1945

30.24-31507

No great supply of atom bombs will serve the purpose, he stressed. The existence of such a bomb, in fact, "enormously increases" the need for trained citizen-soldiers "capable of swift mobilization in the event of an atomic or airborne attack."

Without a trained force spread throughout the country to handle the disaster of such a lightning attack, the escretary told the committee, the nation might be swept by defeatism "after the first enemy blow."

Patterson estimated that 700,000 young men would be trained annually as citizen soldiers, each receiving $30 a month pay but without obligation to serve in combat. That sort of induction still would be left to selective service and then only by act of Congress.

ADMINISTRATION EMPLOYMENT BILL TO BE MODIFIED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—(AP) Speaker Rayburn told President Truman today that prospects were brighter for some type of "full employment" legislation, but another prominent Democrat served notice the administration bill would be vastly modified.

The latter, Rep. Manasco (D-Ala.), declared that the measure as now drawn would alter the American system of government. The bill has been bogged down in a House committee.

Rayburn (D-Tex.) said at a news conference that he informed Mr. Truman this morning: "We now believe we will get some type of full employment bill."

Earlier Rayburn told reporters the House "will get somewhere soon" on the legislation.

Simultaneously, however, Manasco, chairman of the House Expenditures committee, which is considering the measure, told the House:

"We are being urged and high-pressured by every known method to report this bill out.

"A bill of this type in all probability would change our system of government for years and years to come.

"It would remove any necessity for the Congress of the United States. I think that is the intention of some of the people who are back of this bill."

On the other hand, Rep. Patman (D-Tex.) told the House that all the "Fascists" in America are opposed to the bill. He explained that he did not mean everyone who opposed it is a Fascist.

Rayburn said that his expectation of action was based on a decision yesterday by the Expenditures committee to conclude six weeks of hearings on the measure.

The group voted to have a five-member subcommittee attempt to write a compromise version of the legislation.

Manasco told a reporter today that the subcommittee would not meet for "several days."

He added that "trying to predict when we'll have a bill ready is like attempting to predict how many unemployed there will be in 1950."

Manasco agreed, however, that a compromise version probably would be drafted "in due time."

The legislation requested by Mr. Truman, would spell out a federal policy of supplementing private enterprise, when necessary, to assure job opportunities for all able and willing to work. Sponsors argue that it would help quiet labor unrest in the nation.

U.S. BUILDS AIRPORT IN SAUDI ARABIA

Confirmation Follows Release of Soldiers' Complaint Over Assignment to Project

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—Representative Philip J. Philbin of Massachusetts, Democrat, said tonight that an airport being built by the United States Army at Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, "is destined to be turned over to the Government of Saudi Arabia."

Mr. Philbin has made public two letters from American soldiers, whom he did not identify, protesting because they were assigned to work on the project, which he termed "quasi-private."

He declared in a news release that the airfield was being built at a cost of $6,000,000 by soldier labor battalions, American civilians, Italians and native labor under "an agreement drawn up by the State Department" with Saudi Arabia.

A State Department official said the negotiations for the airport were undertaken by the State-War-Navy Coordinating Committee about two years ago after the United States Joint Chiefs of Staff had called the project "a military necessity." The official said the State Department had entered the picture only to carry out the necessary negotiations with King Ibn Saud.

He said the airport would be on the direct "great circle route" from Cairo to Karachi, India, and that it was designed to replace an airport used during the war at Abadan, in southen Iran. The airport, he said, will be near the American-Arabian oilfields, with their colony of about 2,000 Americans. He added that it would cost only about $4,000,000.

SENATE IS ASKED TO APPROVE BILL ON U.S. DELEGATE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—(AP) The Senate Foreign Relations committee said today that congressional approval of an administration bill will serve notice on the world the United States is ready to take effective action to keep the peace.

The bill, introduced by Chairman Connally (D-Tex.), would define the powers of the American delegate to the World Security Council.

Under its terms, the President would be authorized to vote for the use of forces assigned to the security council without further action by Congress. He could not add to these forces without congressional approval, however.

The committee said in a report that it realizes the powers to be granted to the President by the bill are "very great."

"However," it said "the basic decision in this regard was made when the charter was ratified and this provision is simply a necessary corollary to our membership in this organization."

The committee said it believes that the security council must be placed in the most effective position possible to act, "since the prompt and effective application of economic and diplomatic sanctions by all of the United Nations (or even the threat of possibility thereof) may avoid the necessity for the use of the armed forces available to the security council."

"The better prepared this country is to participate promptly in action of this kind, the more effective will be the security council and the more hope there will be that the United Nations may serve its major purpose, namely, the prevention of armed conflict," the report said.

Lewis Opposes C.I.O. Resolution on Wages

NOV 9 1945

Calls It 'Namby Pamby'—Steinkraus Says 'Let's Get On with the Job.'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—(AP) The controversial wage issue popped up again today in the National Labor-Management conference with John L. Lewis fighting a resolution backed by the C.I.O.

Fred Smith, the official conference press officer, gave newsmen an account of what went on at a closed session of the conference executive committee.

Murray, president of the C.I.O., had proposed that the committee adopt a resolution favoring President Truman's conclusion that wages can be raised generally without increasing prices and also urging resumption of collective bargaining.

According to Smith, Lewis opposed the Murray resolution as "namby pamby" and too "conservative." He was quoted as saying that business is entitled to whatever profits it can obtain and labor entitled to get whatever share of those profits it can from management by collective bargaining.

Smith said Lewis opposed the Murray resolution "under any circumstances" and argued that prices should be left to competition among business concerns.

Fears New Wage Formula

Later an aide to Lewis said he had based his opposition on a belief that the Murray proposal would lead to another Little Steel Formula. That formula limited general wage increases during the war to 15 per cent above January 1, 1941 pay levels.

Lewis was quoted by his aide as saying that collective bargaining broke down during the war because of the War Labor board and its little steel formula. He wanted to be free, he said, to try and get as much for the worker as "can reasonably be given" when price controls are dropped and to let management worry about prices and profits.

A.F.L. President William Green was reported by several of those who attended the meeting to have expressed himself "in full accord with everything Lewis said." Green commented that he, Murray and Lewis had all learned their economics in the same school, the miners' union.

Smith told reporters Murray "clarified" his resolution today at the request of Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, and David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America. Murray said he did not intend that the conference deal with any specific percentage wage increases for all branches of industry, Smith related.

The press officer further said that members of the executive committee, which must pass on any matters to go before all delegates for consideration, seem to feel better about the Murray resolution after the C.I.O. head's explanation.

He said the committee may take some action on the resolution in a modified form at the next meeting of the committee next Tuesday.

Smith said Murray made clear that he did not intend to "inject in the conference the question of relationship between wages and prices." Murray had told reporters yesterday he merely wanted a conference declaration for the President's principle of higher wages within the present price structure to maintain purchasing power.

A second resolution was presented today to the executive committee by Murray. It would have the conference declare itself for this principle:

"To minimize work stoppages and for the purpose of furthering sound collective bargaining, I urge the incorporation of an anti-discrimination clause in collective bargaining contracts which will seek to protect the interests of all people regardless of race, color, religion, national origin or ancestry."

Steinkraus Issues Statement

Herman W. Steinkraus, president of the Bridgeport Brass company, Bridgeport, Conn., and a delegate to the conference, issued the following statement tonight:

"Collective bargaining is today under way between employers and employees in hundreds of plants and industries throughout the country, as most people know. The truth is that the only 'breakdown' in collective bargaining anywhere is a result of the manner in which it is being practiced, not in its principle or in management's acceptance generally of that principle.

"Management fully recognizes what the American people and employees in American industry really want, and is striving hard for industrial peace and real collective bargaining throughout America.

"We are here at the call of the President to do a job. That job as we see it is to find and outline ways and means of improving the practices of genuine collective bargaining. Let's get on with the job."

C. I. O. Charges General Motors With Violating Wagner Act

U. A. W. President Says Allegation Is Based on Refusal to Bargain on 30 P. C. Wage Rise.

Detroit, Nov. 8 (A. P.).—The C. I. O. United Automobile Workers announced today that a charge of violating the Wagner act would be filed against the General Motors Corporation. Walter P. Reuther, vice-president of the U. A. W.-C. I. O., said he would file the charge personally at the Detroit office of the National Labor Relations Board this afternoon.

The charge ensues, he said, from the corporation's "refusal to bargain collectively" with the union over the latter's 30 per cent wage increase demand.

Reuther said the union, which yesterday turned down a corporation compromise offer for a cost of living increase, was taking the position that General Motors was violating the labor law in refusing to negotiate on the basis of its "price and wage" position, although it has pleaded "inability to pay" the demanded increase.

There was no immediate statement from General Motors.

Reuther also said the Government would be asked to name United States conciliators to attend further negotiations since, he said, the negotiations now were "deadlocked." Earlier in the week General Motors had refused to permit Federal conciliations until a deadlock had been deemed to exist.

Text of Reuther Statement.

Reuther's statement said:

"Our specific charge against General Motors is that the corporation while pleading inability to pay a wage increase without price increases, has refused to discuss with the union its ability to pay, its profits and its price position.

"This constitutes a violation of the act under section H (5), which declares it to be an unfair labor practice for an employer to refuse to bargain collectively with the representative of his employees.'

"The doctrine is well established that when an employer advances the affirmative defense of inability to pay, the burden of proof is on such employer to establish his inability to pay by producing the cost data on which his plea is based.

"The union also is charging that since August 18, 1945, the corporation has continually and repeatedly demonstrated bad faith in that it has refused to consider the union's demands."

Ford Workers Favor Strike.

A showdown between the union and General Motors had been expected after the union's rejection of G. M.'s counter-offer. The U. A. W.-C. I. O. has threatened a strike at G. M.

Simultaneously, early returns from yesterday's National Labor Relations Board election among 80,000 Ford Company employees showed that a heavy majority favored a strike to support the wage requests.

No reports were available on balloting in Ford plants in the Detroit area, but Ford workers at Kansas City, Buffalo and Green Island, N. Y., recorded overwhelming sentiment in favor of a strike

FAIRLESS ASKS PRICE OF STEEL RISE WITH PAY

Gives Notice of Corporation Stand in Firm Letter to Schwellenbach.

SUSPENDS TALKS WITH C. I. O.

His Rebuff to Truman's Policy Adds to Labor-Management Delegates' Woes.

Washington, Nov. 8 (A. P.).—President Truman's Labor-Management Conference toiled through a bulging agenda today, but United States Steel Corporation held the capital's attention with a sharp rebuff to Mr. Truman's wage-price policy.

Through its president, Benjamin F. Fairless, the corporation notified Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach it would not resume wage talks with the C. I. O. steelworkers until it had the Government's answer on steel price increases. Fairless dashed cold water, also, on Mr. Truman's proposal that employers grant wage increases now, then wait six months before seeking a price ceiling adjustment from OPA if profits dwindled too sharply.

Fairless said that if wages are boosted, additional steel price increases—beyond those already pending—will be needed and the corporation will insist on assurances from OPA that they would be granted simultaneously with any wage hike.

Schwellenbach May Reply.

Philip Murray, president of the C. I. O. and of the United Steel Workers, had accepted Schwellenbach's proposal that collective bargaining be resumed—in what Murray said was the spirit of Mr. Truman's wage-price speech last Tuesday—under a special conciliator.

The Labor Secretary's office said that Schwellenbach had received both Fairless's and Murray's letters, was considering them, and might issue a statement today.

This new road block in the administration's drive for labor peace loomed just as a minor but irritating snag was cleared away—the thirty-hour tie-up of all bus and streetcar service in Washington.

Delegates could again ride the trolleys to the labor-management conference, if they chose, under a fourteen-day truce arranged between striking A. F. of L. traction workers and the Capital Transit Company. Full service was scheduled today while wage demands are negotiated.

On Capitol Hill, House members pursued two legislative approaches to industrial peace. The Rules Committee prepared to act on anti-strike legislation already approved by the Military Committee. The bill would deny collective bargaining rights to unions violating no-strike clauses, and make offending unions liable for civil damages. An Expenditures Sub-Committee began planning a compromise version of the so-called full employment bill.

Murray and N. A. M. Head Clash.

But the thirty-six management-labor delegates found a riper topic in last night's clash between C. I. O. chief Murray and Ira Mosher, president of the National Association of Manufacturers on the issue of whether to bring wage discussions onto the conference floor.

Murray succeeded in getting a wage resolution before the powerful Executive Committee, the first step. But Mosher issued a public statement last night declaring his flat opposition. Mosher's reaction, taken to typify that of the management delegates generally, was regarded as a probable death-blow to Murray's effort to have the national wage issue considered by the meeting. A. F. of L. President William Green already had declared against its discussion, leaving the C. I. O. apparently outvoted in the executive committee and on the floor.

"The labor-management conference is not itself a collective bargaining conference," Mosher said, adding that it would be "unfortunate" if the wage or other questions should divert the conference from the primary goal of devising workable bargaining machinery.

ARMY OFFICER FACES CHARGE

NOV 9 1945

Use Of $13,000 In U.S. Funds In Cards Is Alleged.

Boston, Nov. 8 (AP)—An Army transport officer of the troopship Belle Isle was arraigned today on acharge of embezzling $13,000 in Federal funds, some of which, FBI men said, was used in a card game with a messman on his ship.

Robert C. Russell, 30, of Aiken, S.C., ship transport agent, civilian army employé, pleaded innocent before United States Commissioner Martin T. Hall and the case was continued until November 15.

Played For $500 A Card

E. A. Soucy, Boston FBI head, said that Russell and a messman played for a while at $500 a card while the Belle Isle was lying off Greenland on October 9.

A card game among several crew members for high stakes finally narrowed down to a two-man game between Russell and a messman, Soucy said, and in order to recoup his losses, Russell allegedly took over the army funds in his custody and continued the game at $500 a card.

The messman, Soucy added, is confined to a hospital at Greenland as a result of a fracas that followed the card game and will be brought to Boston to face charges of receiving stolen Government funds.

$12,700 Recovered

The Boston FBI head said that $12,700 found in the possession of members of the vessel's crew was recovered by army authorities at Greenland and was impounded for disposition.

When Russell's counsel objected to the $15,000 bail asked by Charles E. Cunningham, Assistant United States Attorney, an FBI agent admitted that a large amount of money had been located and taken over by the government, but said that it was up to the parties concerned to prove and the court to determine whether the funds were those actually taken.

Bail was set at $15,000 and Russell was taken to East Cambridge Jail to await hearing.

ATTLEE TO SPEAK BEFORE CONGRESS

Washington, Nov. 8 (A. P.).—Prime Minister Clement Attlee of Great Britain will be invited to address a joint session of Congress next week, Speaker Rayburn said today as he left a White House conference with President Truman and other congressional leaders. Attlee is coming here on Saturday for discussions of atomic energy with President Truman and Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada.

Rayburn did not give a specific date for Attlee's address but said it would not be on Monday. The speech will be broadcast, he continued, adding that he knew of no plans for a similar address by the Canadian Prime Minister.

Earlier, Eben Ayers, assistant White House press secretary, told reporters he did not know the exact time of Attlee's arrival here on Saturday.

Russia Seen Refusing Loan

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—Representative Wolcott (R., Mich.) expressed belief today that Russia will reject a loan from the United States if it is conditioned on press freedom for American newsmen.

Wolcott said his opinion was based on indirect reports he has received since his return from Moscow last month. He added that such a condition should be imposed on any loan.

Russia reportedly wants to borrow $6,000,000,000 from the United States, and Wolcott said she seemingly feels "she will be doing us a favor by taking it."

The lawmaker asserted this apparently stemmed from statements such as those of Secretary of Commerce Wallace that the United States will have to make heavy exports to achieve 60,000,000 postwar jobs.

Wolcott said he was convinced that "Russia needs the loan more than we need to give it."

Decision On Cut In Car Discount Is Postponed

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—The House Small Business Committee resolved unanimously today that OPA should withhold announcement of any proposed reductions in discounts for automobile dealers pending completion of committee hearings.

A copy of the resolution was sent to OPA Administrator Chester Bowles after testimony opposing the proposed reductions was submitted by W. L. Mallon, president of the National Automobile Dealers Association.

Mallon, whose statement was unanimously described by the committee as "convincing," asserted that the proposed reductions were "unfair," and had been arrived at by the OPA without a "thorough investigation of the facts."

Wording Of Resolution

The committee resolution, introduced by Representative Leonard Hall (R., N.Y.), declared:

"It is the sense of the House Small Business Committee that pending completion of its hearings on the automobile dealers' discount rate situation that no Government order which might in any way change the present established discount rate shall be issued."

Mallon said the discount is a "long-established markup" which dealers are allowed by manufacturers on new cars.

24 P.C. Discount

Prices of new cars are set at the factories. Dealers then are given certain discounts which average, Mallon said, about 24 per cent on each car.

He said the discount represents the gross profit before any expenses.

"This 24 per cent gross profit may sound generous at first sight," Mallon said, "but the net profit that results after expenses are paid is small—somewhere between one and two per cent.

"Certainly," he declared, "such a return would not justify a top slash of 50 per cent in discount such as OPA says is possible."

OPA contends that the cuts are necessary, Mallon said, to help absorb the increase cost of new-car production.

A "Simple Way" Out

He proposed what he termed a "simple way" for the Government to meet the situation—permit the dealer discount to remain "at the time-proven present level."

"This," Mallon said, "would give every one of the nation's 35,000 or more dealers an opportunity to start rehabilitating his business on the same basis as where he left off when the war curtailed his operations."

Supreme Court Picketed By 3 Women

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—Now it's the Supreme Court that's being picketed.

Three Altoona (Pa.) sisters paraded in front of the impressive white building yesterday. They carried placards which claimed that the constitutional rights of one of them, Mrs. Edith Nycum, have been violated.

Conviction Review Denied

The Supreme Court recently refused to review Mrs. Nycum's conviction in a police magistrate court for failure to get a permit to display signs.

Mrs. Nycum said her niece, Margaret Shields Emerick, was slain November 16, 1941, but that city and Flair county authorities called the death a suicide and refused to conduct a coroner's inquest.

She was arrested, she said, after she put up signs in protest. This, she declared, deprived her of her constitutional right of freedom of the press.

Bradley Favors Civil Service Pay Boost

NOV 9 1945

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP) — Gen. Omar Bradley said today he is concerned over the possibility the Veterans Administration will not be able to pay salaries good enough to do the job ex-service men "need and deserve."

The four-star officer, now heading VA, testified in support of a bill to raise civil-service pay scales twenty per cent. The matter is before the Senate Civil Service Committee.

Higher Salaries Seen Need

"Higher salaries are an absolute necessity to the rendering of that highly efficient care which we are obligated to give those who have borne the battle, their widows and orphans," Bradley said.

"My concern is that, because of existing low salary schedules, I may not be able to secure and retain the high-caliber personnel necessary to accomplish the colossal job."

Bowles Backs Move

Price Administrator Chester Bowles also indorsed the legislation, with emphasis on paying salaries large enough to attract top-notch men from private life.

"Too many Government officials are so frightened of making mistakes, they do nothing," Bowles said. He suggested that men with "gumption enough" to take necessary risks could be had if salaries were raised from the top civil service level of $9,800 to $15,000 or $20,000.

Truman Nominates 2 Bank Directors

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—President Truman today nominated Herbert E. Gaston, of New York, and Robert Tenbrock Stevens, of Plainfield, N.J., as directors of the Export Bank.

At the same time, he sent to the Senate the nomination of Chester C. Davis, St. Louis banker and former War Food Administrator, as a member of the advisory board representating the public in the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion. He succeeds William H. Davis.

Now Assistant Secretary

Gaston is now an Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. Stevens is a textile distributor, a director of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and a director of several corporations.

The Export-Import Bank appointments leave one vacancy, Eben Ayers, assistant White House Press secretary, said.

William McChesney Martin, former president of the New York Stock Exchange, was named as a director several days ago. James F. Byrnes, Secretary of State, is the fourth member of the five-member board. Wayne C. Taylor is president of the bank.

Ayers said the President has not designated a chairman. The chairmanship formerly was held by the Foreign Economics Administrator by virtue of his office. Leo T. Crowley, former FEA Administrator, has been mentioned by the President as one of those under consideration as a director.

Patterson Stays Troops About to Sail for Pacific

Halts Transport for Screening Under New Point System

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP).—Robert P. Patterson, Secretary of War, stepped in today to block the overseas movement of a shipload of soldiers who were about to leave San Francisco for the Pacific.

Representative Melvin Price, Democrat, of Illinois, told a reporter that Mr. Patterson, at his request, had ordered the transport, the Marine Adder, held at Angel Island until all aboard with twenty-one months of service or thirty-six points have been removed.

Calling attention to the fact that the Army only yesterday had lowered its point score and service requirements for those who would be relieved of overseas duty, Representative Price added: "I was informed by long distance that the Marine Adder would leave anyway because it had received its sailing orders. But Secretary Patterson has assured me the troops will be re-examined and eligible men removed before the ship leaves."

The Congressman estimated that about 85 to 90 per cent of the men aboard the vessel would be exempt from duty overseas.

U. S. S. GLOUCESTER PART OF RED NAVY

Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 8 (A. P.).—Seafaring folk of this 300-plus year old port learned with surprise today that the Navy frigate Gloucester which has never been seen here now is part of the Soviet Navy.

Mayor Weston U. Friend recently wrote to Representative George J. Bates asking the Congressman to try and get the 301-foot long craft here for Navy Day exercises.

Bates's answer came today and explained that the type vessel had been decommissioned in September and transferred under lend lease to Russia. The Congressman indicated that the ship might be returned to the United States after an emergency period had passed.

The Gloucester, launched at Superior, Wis., in July, 1943, served in convoy work and as an Atlantic winter patrol vessel.

Palestine for Jews Favored by Mead

Buffalo, Nov. 8 (A. P.).—International politics, intrigues and jockeying should not deprive 100,000 refugees in Europe of the right to settle in Palestine," says United States Senator James M. Mead (D.-N. Y.).

Speaking at Temple Beth-El last night, Mead said the refugees should be admitted to Palestine immediately.

"The Jews have historical, legal and moral rights to a homeland there," he said.

Navy Story of Explosion

Report Says 3 Died and 29 Were Hurt on Okinawa

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP).—The Navy said today three Navy men were killed and twenty-nine were injured in an explosion on Okinawa Oct. 10.

Officials here said they had no information on the cause of the accident or other details.

Survivors of three ships wrecked in the typhoon which struck Okinawa Oct. 9 reported on their arrival in San Pedro, Calif., yesterday that from 50 to 100 sailors and Seabees were killed when they built a fire over a Japanese ammunition dump to dry their clothes.

The Navy said, however, that its only report on such an accident was that relating to the explosion which resulted in the thirty-two casualties.

War Under Secretary Confirmed By Senate

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—Kenneth C. Royall's nomination as Under Secretary of War was confirmed today by the Senate.

Royall fills the vacancy left by the elevation of Robert R. Patterson to Secretary after Henry L. Stimson resigned the Cabinet post.

Royall has been serving as a legal adviser to the Secretary with the rank of brigadier general. He is a Goldsboro (N.C.) attorney.

HENDERSON FAVORS KEEPING RATIONING

NEW YORK, Nov. 8—(AP) Leon Henderson, former OPA administrator and now chief economist with the research institute of America, said he favored food rationing in this country as a means of helping feed the peoples of Europe.

Addressing a session of the 65th annual meeting of the academy of political science, Henderson said that providing Europe with food necessities would be "just as good an investment as the $4,000,000,000 loan we are likely to make Great Britain."

Henderson made his remarks in reply to questions at a forum session.

The real food crisis in Europe is still to come, said Dr. John M. Cassels of the food program office of the foreign economic administration.

Dr. Cassels called food the key factor in assisting European post-war recovery, and said the Allies had not fulfilled their promise to keep the countries of Europe well-fed after their liberation.

Department Of Labor Job For Marine General

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—President Truman has selected Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine of the Marines to become director of the retraining and re-employment administration of the Dejartment of Labor.

The White House said today his nomination will go to the Senate later. Legislation is pending to permit General Erskine to stay in the Marine Corps while serving in the civilian post.

General Erskine is a native of Columbia, La., and his home now is at La Jolla, Cal. He is 48.

He helped train amphibious troops for the Aleutian campaigns and commanded the 3rd Marine Division of Iwo Jima.

OFFERS SLOGAN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—(AP) A Democrat contributed a slogan to the Republicans today in case they decide on a 1948 ticket headed by Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and former Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts.

The slogan, as suggested by Rep. Melvin Price (D.-Ill.):

"Join the Hodge-Podge Lodge,
And go daft with Taft."

Price made his contribution in a House speech replying to Rep. Mason (R.-Ill.), who recently suggested Taft for president and Lodge for vice president.

Tedder Tours Washington

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP).—Air Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder of Great Britain, accompanied by Lady Tedder, today took advantage of his first opportunity to get an extensive look at this American capital, after visiting General of the Army George C. Marshall for an hour this morning. The marshal toured the city in an automobile. He lunched with the commanding officer of the United States Army Air Forces, General of the Army Henry H. Arnold, and dined this evening at the British Embassy. He is scheduled to leave tomorrow for New York on the first leg of an extended trip around the country.

Britain Receives O.K To Purchase U.S. Wheat

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—The Agriculture Department today authorized the British Food Mission to buy 4,196,250 bushels of wheat in November and an equal amount in December.

The purchases will be made in the open market and must be shipped to the United Kingdom from Atlantic ports.

Discharged War Dog Attacks Nisei Woman

Albany, Cal., Nov. 8 (AP)—Rex, a German shepherd dog released ten days ago after eighteen months of service with the Army in the South Pacific, was put under observation today after leaping a 6-foot fence to attack Mrs. Ume Akagi, 65, Berkeley woman of Japanese descent.

His owner, Fred Hoffler, working in his yard at the time, said the dog's hair suddenly bristled. Then, without warning, Rex cleared the high wooden fence and rushed at the woman. Hoffler pulled the dog off her, but Rex had already bitten her on the right leg, necessitating first-aid treatment.

Hoffler ascribed the dog's action to war training. He said Rex had never acted that way before.

Europa Soon To Sail As U.S. Troopship

New York, Nov. 8 (AP)—The S.S. Europa, former German Luxury liner captured last May at Bremerhaven, was nosed into its pier on the Hudson River today preparatory to sailing soon for Southampton, England, as an American troopship. Definite time of sailing was not announced.

The 49,746-ton vessel, which once had a passenger capacity of 2,200, now is a black-and-gray transport with bunk space for 6,500 troops.

19 Ships Bringing 15,000 Vets

[By the Associated Press]

Nine transports, carrying more than 9,000 European war veterans, are scheduled to arrive today at three East Coast ports, while ten ships with nearly 6,000 troops from the Pacific are due at three West Coast ports.

Scheduled to dock at New York are two ships with more than 3,000 men, at Newport News, Va., two ships with more than 500, and at Boston five ships with more than 5,500.

FRANKFURT, GERMANY, NOV 8 --(AP) GERMAN JEWS IN THE AMERICAN ZONE OF OCCUPATION WERE "PRACTICALLY ANNIHILATED" UNDER HITLER AND THE FEW SURVIVORS ARE "FEARFUL OF WHAT MIGHT COME IF THE OCCUPATION FORCES WERE WITHDRAWN" JUDGE SIMON RIFKIND, GEN. EISENHOWER'S ADVISOR ON JEWISH MATTERS REPORTED.

RETURNING FROM VISITS TO THE TINY REMNANTS OF WHAT ONCE WERE LARGE JEWISH COMMUNITIES IN HEIDELBERG, STUTTGART, AND MANNHEIM HE DECLARED THAT SO FAR THERE HAD BEEN FEW RESTITUTIONS

TO JEWISH OWNERS OR COMMUNITIES OF JEWISH PROPERTIES SEIZED BY THE NAZIS AND THAT SUCH " COMMUNAL FACILITIES AS EXIST HAVE BEEN REQUISITIONED FOR THEM BY THE MILITARY."

NOV 9 1945

RIFKIND SAID HE HAD NOT YET GONE THOROUGHLY INTO THE MATTER OF RESTORATION OF PROPERTY BUT HE SAID HE HAD BEEN TOLD THAT AT PRESENT THERE WAS NO MILITARY LAW TO PROVIDE FOR IT.

IN THE THREE CITIES "I MET NO JEWS WHO HAD NOT INTERMARRIED WITH NON-JEWISH GERMANS," HE SAID. "I COULD NOT FIND ANY OTHERS, FOR IT APPEARS THAT SHIPMENT TO CONCENTRATION CAMPS OF MOST OF THOSE WHO INTERMARRIED WAS DEFERRED, THEREFORE SOME SURVIVED.

RIFKIND DECLARED "HITLER WON HIS WAR AGAINST THE GERMAN JEWS." HE ADDED THAT THERE WAS A CONSPICUOUS ABSENCE OF CHILDREN.

NOV 9 1945

IN STUTTGART A CHECK OF THE RATION LISTS SHOWED THAT ONLY 200 JEWS REMAIN OUT OF A PREWAR COLONY OF 4,500. AMONG THE SURVIVORS THERE ARE ONLY TWO CHILDREN.

CHUNGKING, NOV.8-(AP)-LT.GEN.ALBERT C.WEDEMEYER WAS QUOTED IN ADVAICES FROM PEIPING TODAY AS SAYING UNITED STATES FORCES MIGHT BEGIN MOVING OUT OF STRIFE-TORN NORTH CHINA BY MID-NOVEMBER.

THE U.S.COMMANDER IN CHINA TOLD CORRESPONDENTS THE AMERICAN WOULD LEAVE AS SOON AS THEIR WORK WAS ACCOMPLISHED, BUT MEANTIME HE WOULD "BROOK NO INTERFERENCE."

"I WILL USE ALL THE FORCE AVAILABLE TO PROTECT AMERICAN LIVES AND PROPERTY," SAID THE GENERAL, ACCUSED BY COMMUNISTS OF INTERFERING IN CHINA'S INTERNAL AFFAIRS. THE COMMUNISTS HAVE DEMANDED HE APOLOGIZE.

WEDEMEYER DECLARED THE UNITED STATES HAD A "CLEAR AND DEFINITE" MISSION TO REDISTRIBUTE CENTRAL GOVERNMENT TROOPS--WHICH THE REDS HAVE CALLED "INTERFERENCE"--AND HELP DISARM AND DEPORT NEARLY 4,000,000 JAPANESE IN THE CHINA THEATER.

WEDEMEYER REITERATED THAT U.S. FORCES WOULD NOT BE INVOLVED IN ANY CIVIL STRIFE AND DENIED COMMUNIST ALLEGATIONS THAT HIS TROOPS HAD AIDED NATIONALIST TROOPS IN ACTUAL FIGHTING WITH RED FORCES.

HE ADDED THAT U.S.MARINES HAD BEEN ASSIGNED TO DISARM JAPANESE ONLY IN THE AREA OF TIENTSIN AND AROUND THE PORT OF CHINWANGTAO TO THE EAST. PEIPING WAS LEFT TO THE CHINESE.

IN RESPONSE TO A DIRECT QUESTION, WEDEMEYER SAID NEITHER THE U.S. ARMY NOR MARINES WOULD ASSIST THE CENTRAL GOVERNMENT IN OPENING RAILWAY COMMUNICATIONS BETWEEN PEIPING AND THE COMMUNIST STRONGHOLD OF KALGAN IN SOUTHERN CHAHAR, OR FROM PEIPING TO HANKOW.

ADD CHNG (MOOSA) NL xxx bandits

A CHINESE COMMUNIST SPOKESMAN AT YENAN ASSERTED THAT MORE THAN 70 GOVERNMENT DIVISIONS HAVE BEEN MASSED AROUND COMMUNIST "LIBERATED" AREAS OF HONAN PROVINCE, AND MORE THAN 20 DIVISIONS AROUND SIMILAR ZONES IN HOPEH PROVINCE. GOVERNMENT CLAIMS THAT NATIONALIST FORCES HAVE REMAINED ON THE DEFENSIVE, HE SAID, WERE "A COMPLETE LIE."

CHOU EN-LAI, WHO WAS TO PRESENT THE COMMUNISTS' COUNTER PEACE-PROPOSAL TO THE CENTRAL GOVERNMENT IN CHUNGKING TODAY, SAID THAT HE ALSO WOULD PROPOSE CREATION OF A NEUTRAL COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE CIVIL WAR CONDITIONS AND TO INQUIRE INTO ACTIVITIES OF AMERICANS IN DISPUTED AREAS.

HE WOULD ALSO SUGGEST, HE SAID, THAT CHINESE AND FOREIGN NEWS CORRESPONDENTS BE PERMITTED TO GO FREELY INTO DISPUTED AREAS "TO SEE FOR THEMSELVES" THE TRUE SITUATION.

THE COMMUNISTS, HE REITERATED, ARE NOT RETREATING FROM THEIR FIRM CLAIM THAT THEY HAVE THE RIGHT TO ACCEPT JAPANESE SURRENDERS IN THE AREAS WHICH THE REDS DOMINATE.

(IF CENTRAL GOVERNMENT TROOPS, FLOWN INTO SUCH AREAS TO ACCEPT THE JAPANESE SURRENDER, NOW WERE WITHDRAWN, THE NEARBY COMMUNISTS LOGICALLY COULD EXPECT TO ASSUME CONTROL FROM THE FALLEN NIPPONESE.)

COMMUNIST DEMANDS FOR APOLOGIES AND COMPENSATION FOR AMERICAN "INTERFERENCE" IN CHINA'S INTERNAL AFFAIRS WERE CONTAINED IN LETTERS OF PROTEST SENT AT INTERVALS FROM OCT. 6 TO NOV. 4 TO AMERICAN MILITARY LEADERS FROM THE REDS' YENAN HEADQUARTERS. THEY WERE SIGNED BY GEN. YEH CHING-YIM, COMMANDER OF THE COMMUNIST 18TH GROUP ARMY, OR GEN. CHU TEH, COMMUNIST COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF.

NOV 9 1945

THE DETAILED CHARGES OF "INTERFERENCE," ACCORDING TO THE REDS' NEW CHINA NEWS AGENCY, INCLUDED ALLEGATIONS THAT:

1. AMERICAN PLANES ON OCT. 21 STRAFED "OUR POPULACE AND SOLDIERS" AT ANTSEH, SHANSI PROVINCE; CASUALTIES AND DAMAGE NOT YET DETERMINED. ON TH MORNIN

SOLDIERS" AT ANTSEH, SHANSI PROVINCE: CASUALTIES AND DAMAGE NOT YET DETERMINED. ON THE SAME MORNING, AMERICAN PLANES DROPPED LEAFLETS AT KU-AN, HOPEH PROVINCE, DEMANDING THAT "OUR ARMY EVACUATE THE ARA WITHIN THREE DAYS OR BE ATTACKED."

2. AMERICAN OFFICERS AND MEN SURROUNDED, SEARCHED AND TOOK OVER OCCUPANCY OF THE TIENTSIN OFFICE OF THE REDS' 18TH GROUP ARMY, OCT.16, LATER RELEASING THE COMMUNISTS BUT RETAINING POSSESSION OF THE OFFICE AND WEAPONS THEY HAD CONFISCATED.

3. AMONG OTHER AREAS, AMERICANS "INVADED" CHINWANGTAO, NORTHERN SEAPORT OF HOPEH PROVINCE, THUS "ACTUALLY INTERFERING WITH CHINESE INTERNAL AFFAIRS."

THE LETTER CONTAINING THIS ACCUSATION ADDED THAT:

"EFFICIENT MEASURES WILL BE TAKEN BY OUR ARMY IMMEDIATELY IN ORDER TO HALT SUCH ACTION. IF SUCH ACTIONS ARE NOT STOPPED, YOU SHOULD BR RESPONSIBLE FOR ANY GRAVE RESULTS."

THE FIRST LETTERS OF PROTEST WERE ADDRESSED TO COL.IVAN D.YEATON, YENAN OBSERVER; THE LAST, DIRECTLY TO LT.GEN.WEDEMEYER.

NOV 9 1945

THE FIRST OF THE SERIES HAD NOTED THAT IT WAS "DIFFICULT" FOR THE COMMUNISTS TO UNDERSTAND WHY AMERICANS HAD ASKED PERMISSION TO "TAKE OVER CHEFOO," ON THE SHANTUNG PENINSULA, AND NEARBY YENTAI AND WEIHAI, SINCE THERE WERE NO JAPANESE IN THAT VICINITY.

THE LETTER SAID THAT ON OCT. 1 AMERICAN FLEET OFFICERS HAD STATED THAT THERE WAS NO PLAN TO LAND IN YENTAI. THE AMERICANS ASKED, HOWEVER, THE LETTER SAID, THAT SOLDIERS BE PERMITTED ASHORE

ON THE WESTERN END OF KUNGTUNG ISLAND FOR RECREATION AND THAT NOV 9 AMERICAN OFFICIALS BE PERMITTED TO INVESTIGATE AMERICAN PROPERTIES IN YENTAI.

THE COMMUNISTS AGREED, HELPED THE NAVY SURVEY THE YANTAI COAST AND ACCORDED THE VISITORS "FRIENDLY ASSISTANCE,". THE LETTER CONTINUED. THEN, IT RELATED, AN AMERICAN DESTROYER ARRIVED ON OCT. 3 WITH A U.S. MARINE COLONEL WHO DECLARED THAT MARINES WOULD LAND AT YENTAI AND ORDERED COMMUNISTS TO WITHDRAW FROM THE CITY, REMOVE DEFENSE INSTALLATIONS ALONG THE YENTAI COAST AND HAND OVER CONTROL OF THE CITY "IN AN ORDERLY MANNER" TO U.S.FORCES.

THE LETTER SAID THAT COMMUNIST GEN.CHU TEH WAS "GREATLY SURPRISED" BY THIS.

IF THE KUOMINTANG TROOPS MADE THEIR ESCAPE SOUTHWARD THEY WOULD HAVE HAD TO BYPASS TZEHSIEN, THE RAIL JUNCTION TOWN, WHICH THE COMMUNIST FORCES CAPTURD OCT.25. committed suicide

THE SPOKESMAN ASSERTED THAT THE GOVERNMENT TROOPS WHICH HAD MOVED FROM THE SOUTH INTO THE CIVIL WAR ZONE "WERE TAKEN UNAWARES AND WERE UNABLE TO CONCENTRATE IN TIME TO WARD OFF THE ASSAULT" BY TENS OF THOUSANDS OF COMMUNIST SOLDIERS.

FIGHTING FLARED IN OTHER NORTH CHINA PROVINCES, WITH THE GOVERNMENT SEMI-OFFICIALLY CLAIMING SUCCESSES IN NORTHERN HONAN AND SOUTHERN HONAN AND NORTHERN HOPEH.

SECRETARY OF STATE BYRNE'S ANNOUNCEMENT IN WASHINGTON THAT THE MARINES WOULD BE WITHDRAWN FROM CHINA, CONFIRMED TUESDAY'S "UNOFFICIAL REPORT" FROM TIENTSIN THAT THE MISSION IN THE DISPUTED AREA WAS COMPLETE AND THAT AMERICANS WOULD BE PULLED OUT WITHIN A MONTH.

BYRNES DID NOT SAY WHEN THE MARINES WOULD BE RELIEVED OF THEIR TASK OF HELPING WITH THE DISARMAMENT OF JAPANESE AND MAINTAINING PEACE, AN INCREASINGLY DELICATE JOB AS TENSION BETWEEN THE CHINESE FACTIONS INCREASES.

THE MARINES ARE LOCATED AT PEIPING, TIENTSIN AND TSINGTAO, AND IN THE CHINWANGTAO AREA ON THE GULF OF CHIHLI, NOV 9 1945 NORTHERN HOPEH AND JEHOL PROVINCES.

CHINESE COMMUNISTS' DEMANDS TODAY THAT CENTRAL GOVERNMENT TROOPS BE WITHDRAWN FROM ALL RED-DOMINATED AREAS AS THE PRICE OF PEACE IN CHINA APPEAR TO REITERATE THE REDS' PREVIOUS STAND--WITH ONE RATHER IMPORTANT DIFFERENCE.

THE JAPANESE NO LONGEER ARE A CONTROLLING FACTOR IN SUCH AREAS, AND IF CENTRAL GOVERNMENT TROOPS WHO WERE FLOWN INTO SUCH SPOTS TO ACCEPT THE NIPPONESE SURRENDER NOW ARE WITHDRAWN, THE NEARBY REDS MIGHT BE EXPECTED TO CONTROL AT LEAST INDIRECTLY ALL SUCH ZONES.

THE CHINESE COMMUNISTS FROM THE START WANTED TO ACCEPT JAPANESE SURRENDER THEMSELVES, IN RED-DOMINATED AREAS; THEY HAVE OPPOSED THE ARRIVAL OF NATIONALIST TROOPS TO PERFORM THAT PLEASANT TASK. NOV 9 1945

NOW THEY SAY, IN EFFECT, THEY WON'T EVEN TALK PEACE UNTIL THE NATIONALISTS GO BACK TO THE SOUTH. I IS THE SAME OLD DEMAND--BUT SINCE JAPANESE LARGELY HAVE SURRENDERED, THIS SHARPENS THE QUESTION OF WHO SHALL INHERIT THEIR POWER IN SUCH AREAS.

SURABAYA SHELLED IN BRITISH ATTACK, INDONESIANS STATE

Bombardment of Java Center After Ultimatum Deadline Said to Be Intense

NOV 10 1945

ALLIED COMMAND RETICENT

Troops Sent Into Naval Base

in Strength to Back Terms for Extremists' Surrender

Morton

By The Associated Press.

BATAVIA, Java, Saturday, Nov. 10—A spokesman for the unrecognized Indonesian Republic reported that British forces started shelling Surabaya, eastern Javanese naval base, at 6 A. M. today. The bombardment was said to be increasing in intensity at 8:45 A. M.

The Indonesian report was not confirmed at noon by the headquarters of Lieut. Gen. Sir Philip Christison, Allied commander in the Netherlands East Indies. General Christison's headquarters issued a statement that it had "nothing to report" and that "communications were not working well."

The Indonesian spokesman said that many Indonesians were killed or wounded by the shelling. He added that the British presumably employed both artillery and warships.

The report of the shelling came after the Indonesians had received an ultimatum to surrender their arms by 6 A. M. today. Earlier, British reinforcements were reported to have assumed new positions in Surabaya, where an explosive tension reigned.

The Indonesian spokesman indicated the British had opened fire to prepare a cover for the advance of British troops into the city.

Maj. Gen. E. C. Mansergh, commanding British forces that have been holding the perimeter around the docks and airfields of Surabaya, had warned the Indonesian Nationalist extremists he would enforce the ultimatum "with all the sea, land and air forces at my disposal."

British planes showered leaflets on the naval base, outlining the exact procedure for unconditional surrender by the Indonesians. A Dutch monitor at Soerabaja, however, said Nationalist leaders were exhorting their followers by radio to battle to the last.

A general uprising threatened all through the rich island of Java, led by an army of 100,000 Indonesians determined to resist restoration of Dutch colonial rule.

British In Key Positions

British military authorities admitted frankly the situation at Soerabaja was critical. They announced that clashes to date in the naval base had caused 303 British and Indian casualties, including 31 killed, 189 missing and 83 wounded.

They brought in new forces of the 5th Indian Division yesterday, and deployed their troops into key positions. British were spread around a part of the perimeter of Soerabaja, in the port area, and occupied a seaplane base west of the city's airfield.

Besides instructing Indonesians on how to surrender their arms, Lieutenant General Sir Philip Christison, Allied commander in the Dutch East Indies, issued a proclamation declaring the British would "tolerate no resistance" in seeking out and punishing those responsible for the slaying of Brig. A. W. F. Mallaby, about ten days ago.

'Extremists' Are Target

Christison asserted the current British action was not "an attack on the liberties of the Indonesian people" nor an attempt to settle political future of Indonesia by force.

He said the situation in Soerabaja differed from the rest of Java and "doesn't concern the rest of Indonesia."

"The British have no quarrel with the people of Indonesia," Christison added, stressing that it was the "extremists" in Soreabaja who would be punished.

"It is only on those who attack us or prevent us from carrying out the tasks set out for us by the United Nations at the Potsdam conference that we shall turn the full strength which has defeated Germany and Japan," he said.

He promised that "all law abiding citizens will have an opportunity of disassociating themselves from the lawlessness of the extremists, and thus show their good faith to the world."

The instructions for yielding of arms, given in advance to Indonesian contact bureaus, provide that the Indonesians march in single file and drop their arms at a place a certain distance from where the Nationalists will be required to sign an unconditional surrender.

President Soekarno of the unrecognized Indonesian republic fearing an outbreak of shooting in Soerabaja may spread to savage warfare in all Java, sent appeals to President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee and to the United Nations security council to intercede.

(In Washington the White House said no such appeal had been received.)

In his communication to Attlee the Indonesian leader charged that the Dutch have succeeded in their alleged intention to create a misunderstanding between the Allied forces and the Indonesian people."

He charged that "irresponsible elements" among Allied troops were guilty of robbery and rape while on duty, and that the Netherlands East Indies civil administration was guilty of abuses in its efforts to restore Dutch colonial rule. He said that many clashes between Allied forces and Indonesians were engineered by the Dutch.

The British were said to be eager for American arbitration, and some observers said the Dutch could be persuaded by the British to accept the Americans as umpire in any negotiations.

General Uprising Feared As Java Tension Rises

Morton

Batavia, Nov. 9 (AP)—British planes dropped leaflets on Indonesian forces at Soerabaja today calling for their unconditional surrender—a move which may signal a general uprising by well-drilled, Japanese-trained Nationalists throughout the entire island of Java.

The ultimatum ordered the Nationalists to lay down their arms before 6 A.M. tomorrow.

Issued in the name of Lieut. Gen. Sir Philip Christison, Allied commander in the Netherlands East Indies, the leaflets said the order would be backed up by the use of all naval, army and air forces under his command.

More Troops Arrive

A British army official admitted the situation in Soerabaja was critical. He announced that more troops of the 5th Indian Division arrived there yesterday, and unofficially it was learned that 4,000 Dutch troops would land in Batavia tomorrow.

Christison pointed out that the Soerabaja situation was different from that existing elsewhere on the island, and that the extremists at Soerabaja who were guilty of attacks on the British would be punished.

His statement said: "It is only on those who attack us or prevent us from carrying out the tasks set for us by the United Nations at the Potsdam Conference that we shall turn the full strength which has defeated Germany and Japan."

Indonese Massing

The Indonesians were reported massing 100,000 strong in central Java, and leader after leader took to the radio last night urging the people not to lay down their arms but to fight, a Dutch monitor in Soerabaja said.

Observers here said the struggle between the Dutch and Indonesians now had become so bitter that it seemed only intervention by the United Nations, or possibly by the United States, would bring about a peace formula.

President Soekarno of the unrecognized Indonesian republic already has appealed to President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee to intercede to prevent warfare on the island. He also has appealed to the United Nations Security Council for the removal of all Dutch forces in Indonesia pending completion of the Allied mission.

U.S. Stand Uncertain

It was said on the highest authority that the British would welcome United States arbitration, although the Dutch are known to consider this matter a family affair. It is believed, however, the Dutch could be persuaded to accept the United States as umpire.

The leadership of the Indonesian army posed a mystery. It was said here that some military mastermind must be directing the military effectiveness of the Indonesians, normally a soft and gentle people.

Also a mystery was the present disposition of the 20,000 Japanese troops who were at Soerabaja, who seemed to have disappeared suddenly from the scene.

NOV 10 1945

Places Responsibility

The ultimatum declared that all Indonesians who failed to comply with his orders "will be responsible for the bloodshed that will definitely result."

The pamphlets ordered all Indonesian leaders to come to Batairaweg (in Soerabaja) not later than 6 A.M. tomorrow, marching one by one and prepared to surrender all types of arms by placing them on the grounds a certain distance from the scene where the Nationalists would be required to sign the surrender.

Punishment was promised for any natives found thereafter in unauthorized possession of arms.

Mallaby Killing Cited

The British also told the Indonesians they would "tolerate no resistance" in seeking out and punishing those responsible for the killing of British Brigadier A. W. F. Mallaby last week while he was trying to effect a truce.

Members of Soekarno's government, meeting in emergency session last night at Soekarno's Batavia villa, were grave. They had seen advance copies of the order, which charged atrocities to Nationalist groups.

New Big-Three Parley Seen By British

NOV 10 194

New York, Nov. 9 (AP)—A CBS broadcast from London said today there were reports "that Marshal Stalin is in Washington" and that the atomic energy discussions might turn into a Big Three meeting, but that these reports were not taken seriously in the British capital.

J.B. PARRIS

London, Nov. 9 (AP)—The possibility of another meeting of President Truman, Generalissimo Stalin and Prime Minister Attlee was advanced in the London press today, and diplomatic sources, pointing out there had been no meeting of the statesmen since the final defeat of the Axis, said such a conference in the near future could not be ruled out.

The Daily Express in a front page story said: "It is more than likely that Attlee and Truman will confer with Stalin" after the Truman-Attlee meeting in Washington.

"Many informed diplomats believe that this meeting (of the Big Three) may be held very soon," wrote the paper's diplomatic correspondent, Guy Eden.

Rumors On Health

There has been no official indication that Stalin would meet President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee after the Washington talks. And on both sides of the Atlantic there have been unconfirmed reports that Stalin was not in good health.

Geoffrey Cox, political correspondent of the News Chronicle, speculating on a Big-Three meeting, wrote that "all that can be said definitely on the subject is that British official opinion is certain the Russian leader is not ill and not in Moscow.

Yacht Journey Plans

Cox added that "those who know in Washington" can also think of no reason, "except some desire for security of a very unusual kind, which would induce Truman and Attlee to set out for a yacht journey on cold, wind-swept Chesapeake Bay in November."

The London press displayed reports from Washington and Paris concerning Stalin's whereabouts. One report said the Soviet leader was still on his holiday in the Black Sea port of Sochi; a Paris report had him in a nursing home near Sochi. None of the reports had any official stamp.

MOSCOW WARNS COLLABORATION IS BEING TESTED

Pravda Remark on Serious Strain Underscores Red Interest in Bomb.

ATTLEE OUTLINES HIS AIMS

Says He's Coming to Discuss With Truman World Affairs in Atomic Age.

Gilmore

Moscow, Nov. 9 (A. P.).—Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, declared that British-American-Soviet collaboration is undergoing serious tests, thus underscoring today's intense Russian interest in the forthcoming Washington conferences on atomic energy.

Political observers here said their impression was that following the speech of Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav M. Molotov November 6—but not necessarily because of it—leaders of the United States and Britain might suggest a sharing of the secret of atomic energy if not the atomic bomb.

"Secret Can't Be Kept"

In this speech Molotov suggested that it was not possible for any great technical secret "to remain the exclusive possession of some one country or some narrow circle of countries" and said: "We will have atomic energy and many other things, too."

Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, said in an editorial yesterday that collaboration between Britain, the United States and Russia was under serious strain.

Today the Russian people heard by radio and read in the press lengthy excerpts from the foreign policy speeches delivered before Commons in London Wednesday by Winston Churchill and British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin.

600 Words On Bevin

A Tass news agency dispatch from London carried about 600 words on the address of Bevin and slightly more on thata of Churchill, former Prime Minister. Tass said "the major part of Bevin's speech was dedicated to questions of the use of the atomic bomb and atomic energy" and quoted Churchill's expression of hope that President Truman's policy of secrecy would be maintained.

[Churchill said "I am sure if the circumstances were reversed and we or the Americans asked for similar access to the Russian arsenals it would not be granted." The Soviet account, as transmitted from Moscow, did not contain that quotation.]

Stalin Visit Denied

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—While British newspapers speculated today that there was a possibility of a Big Three meeting soon, Prime Minister Attlee's office and the White House denied knowledge of any plans of Premier Stalin to visit Washington.

ATTLEE HOPS OFF FOR WASHINGTON

Prime Minister to Confer with Truman on Atomic Bomb.

Tom Williams

NOV 1

LONDON, Nov. 9—(AP) Prime Minister Attlee flew tonight toward Washington for atomic energy talks which he hoped would help achieve a world "safe for the common man" and banish fear of the atomic bomb.

Speaking at a Lord Mayor's luncheon, Attlee said he would discuss world affairs with President Truman and Canadian Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King "in the light, the terrible light, of the discovery of atomic energy."

"I go to the consideration of these high matters not downcast or depressed," he said, "but in a spirit of high endeavor to try to serve my fellow men."

London newspapers speculated that Premier Stalin might join Truman and Attlee for Big Three conferences in Washington, but a spokesman at No. 10 Downing street said "as far as we know here, there is nothing in that report at all." Moscow dispatches showed that Russia was keenly interested in the British-American-Canadian atomic energy talks.

Attlee left London at 6:30 p.m. (1:30 p.m., EST) in a Skymaster plane, followed by another plane carrying Sir John Anderson, chairman of the British Atomic Energy committee.

Attlee's flight to Washington via Newfoundland was expected to take 19½ hours.

NOV 10 194

In Washington, congressional leaders arranged for Attlee to address a joint session of the House and Senate at 12:30 p.m. EST, Tuesday.

"I want a world which will be safe for the common man," Attlee declared at the luncheon.

"London learned its lesson. Only by the world learning the same lesson can civilization endure. The foundation of world order must be laid in the hearts of men.

"I go to America x x x with just this in view. I want to exchange ideas with the President and the Prime Minister of Canada to see how best we can lift from the ordinary man and woman this spectre of fear that haunts him today.

"I want to consider with them how best our common ideals of peace, freedom, tolerance and economic prosperity for all people can be realized."

Domination Barred By Bomb: Attlee

London, Nov. 9 (AP)—Prime Minister Attlee, speaking a few hours before he was scheduled to board a trans-Atlantic plane for the United States today, declared that in the face of such a danger as the atomic bomb "one cannot conceive of any extension of territory or any grandiose dream of domination which has the slightest value."

Unless new human relationships are devised between peoples, "destruction on an unbelievable scale might fall upon our civilization," the Prime Minister said in a speech at the Lord Mayor's luncheon. "We have to get together with all the nations to consider how we can live together in peace."

Bomb Prime Factor In Visit

NOV 1

"My principle purpose in visiting President Truman is to discuss with him and Mr. Mackenzie King (Prime Minister of Canada) world affairs in the light—the terrible light—of the discovery of atomic energy," Attlee explained.

He added that he was "not downcast or depressed" about the future. "I am going to Washington in the spirit of high endeavor to try to serve my fellow men."

Attlee said it was his view that people must look to the United Nations and their close unity of purpose "especially that between Britain, the United States and Russia," as a foundation of peace.

Fears Reality Not Realized

Declaring he was afraid that the majority of people do not yet realize what the discovery of atomic energy means to the world, he continued:

"I do not think that they yet understand to what an extent it is necessary to readjust our ideas. We cannot be sure the science applied to warfare will not discover some more terrible weapons."

OCCUPATION PLEDGE URGED

Europe Said to Need Assurance U. S., Britain Will Stay in Reich

LONDON, Nov. 9 (AP)—Dr. Vera Micheles Dean, research director of the Foreign Policy Association of the United States, demanded today that the United States and Britain formally declare they will stay in Germany as long as is necessary. Dr. Dean has just made a trip through Germany.

"Unless this declaration is made, Europe cannot settle down because at present every country is afraid Germany may rise again," she said.

"We must indicate that we will stay long enough to see that this does not happen, whether it is ten years or 100 years. On the way in which we succeed or fail in handling Germany will depend the future of Europe and the relationship of the Big Three.

Cunningham Replaces Gort In Palestine

London, Nov. 9 (AP)—Lieutenant General Sir Alan Cunningham, former commander of the famous British 8th Army in Africa, has been named high commissioner of Palestine and Transjordan to succeed Lord Gort, who resigned last week because of ill health.

In addition to fulfilling the duties of high commissioner, Cunningham, who is 59, will act as commander in chief of British forces in Palestine, recently the scene of Jewish-Arab rioting.

Shrivenham, England, Nov. 9 (AP). Molly Leiber, of Chicago, one of the American girl delegates to the World Youth Conference, told a group of 300 soldiers attending the Army University last night that ten of the U.S. delegates will accept official invitations to visit Russia and Yugoslavia.

The group will attend first a world student congress in Prague starting next week.

French Group Delays Election

Robt Wilson

Paris, Nov. 9 (AP)—France's constituent Assembly in its first major decision today postponed until next Tuesday the election of an interim President—expected to be General de Gaulle.

Disagreement between the Communist and the Christian Democrat M.R.P. parties over whether the Government should subsidize parochial schools was the main factor in the postponement.

De Gaulle Remains Aloof

The vote came during a debate on a common reform program. Various speakers said agreement on that subject was of prior importance to choosing an executive leader. The vote for postponement was 350 to 40.

De Gaulle, regarded as an almost certain choice for interim president while the assembly works for seven months on a new constitution, remained aloof from the political dickering.

The French leader has made clear that he would not accept unless the "big three" parties, which include the Socialists, submerge differences for the sake of national unity.

Compromise Plan Discussed

The M.R.P. party has not announced adherence to the Leftist program indorsed by the Communists and Socialists. The Communists say this is because the program is opposed to government subsidy of religious schools.

Later today Communist and Socialist deputies discussed a compromise proposal which would permit government subsidies only for missionaries.

The Communists say parochial school subsidies would in effect be a return to methods of the Vichy regime, since it had reinstituted those long-abolished funds. The M.R.P. party says it favors freedom of education for all religious faiths.

Reich Reparations Parley Opening

Mel Most

Paris, Nov. 9 (AP)—Representatives of seventeen Allied nations met here today for a conference that will divide up the still unknown total of reparations to be exacted from the western German zones now under the control of Britain, France and the United States.

The Soviet Union is not represented. Under the terms of an agreement made at Potsdam, 25 per cent of the total reparations levied on the zone will automatically go to Russia and the other nations will divide the remainder.

"Grave Responsibility"

"We recognize we have a grave responsibility in giving a real meaning to the peace in Europe," said United States Minister Plenipotentiary James W. Angell, who heads the American delegation.

The session was to open with introductory addresses from each delegation leader presenting his country's general claims for consideration. The nations represented are the United States, the United Kingdom, France, Australia, Belgium, Canada, Denmark, Egypt, Greece, India, Luxembourg, Norway, New Zealand, the Netherlands, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and the Union of South Africa.

NOV 10 1945

Claim-Trimming Is First Job

The conference's various committees were expected to take about three weeks to complete the preliminary job, which, a French Foreign Office spokesman said, would be "trimming the claims of each nation."

The types of reparations to be exacted have not been definitely decided. The matter is in the hands of the Allied Control Commission in Berlin, which could decide that some types of industrial equipment, for instance, are not available for reparation payments because they are necessary for a minimum German economy. In the case of German military and naval material, the Control Commission itself will decide what will be distributed and what will be destroyed.

Problem A Broad One

A questionnaire drawn up August 28 and sent each country for figuring war damages left room for replies on a wide variety of points ranging from war expenditures and damages to the number of soldiers captured by the Germans, the payment of Nazi occupation costs and the economic consequences of Nazi occupation.

The conference is also charged with the task of setting up a permanent inter-Allied reparation agency that will sit in Brussels as a liaison group.

who died in anonymity. There can be no higher honor paid, they feel, than to give name to the nameless and write the tragic ending to the military histories of men whose families cling to futile and tormented hopes.

They lie, these men, beneath shallow mounds along the death-trap hedgerows of Normandy, beside woodland streams of the Marne where their fathers fell before them, in the still forests of the Ardennes Hills where the snows that covered warm bodies will fall again soon.

Thousands Elsewhere.

In other theaters there are other thousands—among the minefields of Anzio and the raw crags of the Appenines in Italy; on shrapnel-laced Pacific islands and in green Burmese jungles.

Nearly half of the unidentified dead in the European theater flew with the USAAF in planes that never returned. Their graves are scattered even more widely—from England's coast to the Swiss Alps and beyond Berlin to the Oder river.

The tiny mounds cared for by French, Dutch or Belgian families on their farms are hardest to find. But they are being found—dozens every week—byspecially trained jeep teams working mile by mile along bomber flight lanes and across fields where battles raged. Experts—anatomical specialists, identification technicians and interpreters—do their work well.

military cemeteries in the European theater. So careful has been the identification check that there are only 3,362 unidentified dead in the cemeteries at present, in addition to the 22,000 unlocated dead. Twenty-nine of the cemeteries are in France, three in Belgium, two in England, and one apiece in northern Ireland, Holland and Luxembourg.

Except for the few whose families make arrangements for return of their bodies to the United States, the soldier dead will remain in those cemeteries, under perpetual care arranged by the Army. Only legislation by Congress would change that plan.

No soldiers will remain buried in German soil. Temporary cemeteries there are being closed and the bodies returned to the lands which hailed the fallen heroes as liberators.

Nation's Claims to Be Scaled

PARIS, Nov. 9 (AP)—"We recognize we have a grave responsibility in giving a real meaning to the peace in Europe," said the United States Minister Plenipotentiary, Dr. James W. Angell, who heads the American delegation.

The conference's various committees were expected to take about three weeks to complete the preliminary job, which a French Foreign Office spokesman said would require "trimming the claims of each nation."

Types of reparations to be exacted have not been decided definitely. The matter is in the hands of the Allied Control Commission in Berlin, which could decide that some types of industrial equipment, for instance, were not available for reparation payments because they are necessary for a minimum German economy. In the case of German military and naval material, the control commission itself will decide what will be distributed and what will be destroyed.

A questionnaire drawn up Aug. 28 and sent to each country for figuring war damages left room for replies on a wide variety of points ranging from war expenditures and damages to the number of workers deported to Germany, the number of soldiers captured by the Germans, the payment of Nazi occupation costs and the economic consequences of Nazi occupation.

The conference also is charged with the task of setting up a permanent inter-Allied reparations agency, which will sit in Brussels as a liaison group.

Army Hunts Unknown Soldiers

Presses Task of Finding and Identifying 22,000 Bodies Missing in Europe.

Paris, Nov. 9 (A. P.).—The United States Army is pressing a determined search to recover and identify the bodies of 22,000 unknown American soldiers who lie in nameless graves between the littered beaches of Normandy and the wreckage of Berlin.

As Armistice Day draws near and soldiers and civilians prepare to do homage to America's war dead, men of the United States Graves Registration Service are redoubling their efforts to solve the riddles of the fighting men

Some Still in Foxholes.

Some bodies are discovered still crouched in foxholes. More are found in graves, where the men were buried unofficially, usually by farmers or townspeople after the fighting swirled on.

Identified or not, each body is removed to one of the thirty-seven permanent United States

Stalin Is Reported Stricken

Paris Newspaper Says He Suffered Heart Attack at Resort Last Sunday.

Paris, Nov. 9 (A. P.).—The newspaper Liberation Soir published yesterday under a Moscow date line a dispatch from "one of our correspondents" which said that Generalissimo Stalin had suffered a heart attack while vacationing at Sochi on the Black Sea coast and had been placed under the care of specialists.

There was no confirmation of this report from any other source. Stalin did not deliver his usual annual address on the eve of the Moscow celebration of the Red Revolution, nor did he review the annual parade in Red Square on Wednesday. His place in both instances was taken by Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav M. Molotov.

The Liberation Soir dispatch said that doctors had forbidden Stalin's appearance at the celebration. It said he was stricken last Sunday and was removed to a clinic at Gagri, not far from Sochi. His daughter, Svetlanna, was called from Moscow, the dispatch added.

[In a broadcast from London today CBS said that there were reports in the British capital that Stalin is in Washington and that the atomic energy conference opening there on Sunday may turn into a Big Three meeting. CBS added that these reports were not taken seriously and a little later A. P. quoted a spokesman at Prime Minister Attlee's resident as saying: "As far as we know here there is nothing in that report at all." On Wednesday reporters asked Eben Ayers, the assistant White House press secretary, about another report that Stalin was in the United States, and Ayers replied: "If it is so, we know nothing about it. The President has no knowledge of it."]

Churchill To Review Parade

Paris, Nov. 9 (AP)—Winston Churchill, former British Prime Minister, will review an Armistice Day parade of French troops here as a guest of British Ambassador Alfred Duff Cooper, the French news agency said tonight.

EISENHOWER FLYING TO U.S.

Trip Seen Prelude To Assignment As Chief Of Staff

Frankfurt, Germany, Nov. 9 (AP). United States headquarters announced today that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower would leave "within a few hours" to testify before congressional committees in Washington, and authoritative sources predicted his trip was a prelude to an assignment to succeed Gen. George C. Marshall as army chief of staff, perhaps late in December.

The official announcement said Eisenhower would return to Europe on November 23 after testifying in the Capital and appearing in Boston and Chicago.

But rumors have long been current that Eisenhower would become chief of staff, and they have been given credence by the slow exodus of officers of his command into War Department positions where they could carry out his policies.

Backs Armed-Force Merger

It was said unofficially that Eisenhower would stay in Europe only a short time after November 23 to wind up his command in Germany and Austria.

It was learned that Eisenhower's trip home had been requested by the War Department. The American commander is expected to advocate to Congress the consolidation of the armed forces into a national department of defense.

He was one of the original and most outspoken advocates of unification of the armed services into one striking force as the chief lesson of this war.

[In Boston the Governor's office said Eisenhower would arrive by plane there at 1 P.M. Monday, weather permitting, and that the Governor planned a reception and state dinner for him at 7 P.M. that evening.]

To Be Honored By Legion

The headquarters announcement said:

"Weather permitting, General Eisenhower is leaving within a few hours for a short trip to the United States to appear before committees of Congress.

"He will stop briefly in Boston on his way to Washington, and will later appear before the American Legion convention at Chicago to accept the Distinguished Service Medal of that organization.

"He expects to be back in this theater by November 23, so that he may keep immediately thereafter engagements in Scotland and England."

Eisenhower also is expected to report to President Truman on the status of military government in Germany.

If Eisenhower becomes chief of staff, sources here believe he will be succeeded as commander in Germany by Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, former United States commander in the Mediterranean theater.

Davis To Make Trip

Marshall, who reached the retirement age of 64 last December 31, is known to have expressed desire to retire soon. Only two weeks ago, however, President Truman said he still needed Marshall in the top post of chief of staff.

Brig. Gen. Thomas Jefferson Davis, Eisenhower's adjutant general since the supreme commander first went to England in 1942, is scheduled to leave with his chief, and it is reported he will become chief of personnel in the adjutant general's office in Washington.

Another of Eisenhower's top officers, Maj. Gen. Willard S. Paul, already has become assistant chief of staff in charge of GI (personnel).

Reassignment of key figures such as these usually precedes the transfer of the commander in chief in one theater to another.

'Ike' Is Reported Set To Succeed Gen. Marshall

Frankfort, Germany, Nov. 9 (AP) General Eisenhower will leave for the United States within "a few hours" to testify before congressional committees, his headquarters said today.

The announcement did not state the nature of Eisenhower's testimony, but it is expected that he will support the stand of the United States Army chief of staff, Gen. George C. Marshall, for consolidation of the Army, Navy and Air Forces into one defense department.

While the announcement said Eisenhower would return to Europe by November 23, authoritative sources predicted his stay then would be short and in the nature of a farewell to his command in Europe before assuming duties as army chief of staff, succeeding General Marshall.

Eligible To Retire

General Marshall reached the retirement age of 64 last December 31 and is known to have expressed desires to retire around his sixty-fifth birthhday. His tenure as chief of staff predates the outbreak of the war on September 1, 1939. Rumors have been current since September that Eisenhower would succeed him.

But as recently as October 25, President Truman declared in Washington that he needs General Marshall as chief of staff.

Eisenhower commands American forces in the European theater and is chief occupation officer for the United States. Authoritative sources express the belief that Eisenhower will be succeeded in Germany by Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, former American commander in the Mediterranean theater.

Close Aides Going Back

A vanguard of general officers who have been close to General Eisenhower in Europe already is moving back to the United States to take over positions in the War Department.

Maj. Gen. Willard S. Paul is one of the officers who already has left for Washington. Brig. Gen. Thomas Jefferson Davis, who has been Eisenhower's adjutant general since the supreme commander first went to England in 1942, is scheduled to leave with Eisenhower. Davis, it was reported, will become chief of personnel in the adjutant general's office in Washington after a month's leave.

The War Department has said that Paul, a native of Worcester, Mass., and former commanding general of the Twenty-sixth Infantry Division, has been appointed Assistant Chief of Staff in charge of G-1 (personnel), succeeding Major Gen. Stephen G. Henry.

Usually Precede Changes

This shifting of key staff officers nearly always precedes shifts by the commander in chief in one theater of operations to another.

Eisenhower's impending trip to the United States is concerned primarily with problems other than the chief-of-staff position.

He has been asked by Mr. Truman to present personally his view on the Military Government here.

Eisenhower has been one of the outstanding proponents of one over-all command of the fighting forces, and the combination of the Army, Navy and Air Forces under one head.

Murphy Back From D.C.

Ambassador Robert Murphy and Lieut. Gen. Lucius Clay, Eisenhower's deputy, returned this morning from Washington and both conferred with Eisenhower.

Also accompanying the American commander will be Chief Warrant Officer Nana Rae, his personal secretary.

Text of the headquarters announcement:

"Weather permitting, General Eisenhower is leaving within a few hours for a short trip to the United States to appear before committees of Congress. He will stop briefly in Boston on his way to Washington and will later appear before the American Legion convention at Chicago to accept the Distinguished Service Medal of that organization.

"He expects to be back in this theater by November 23, so that he may keep immediately thereafter engagements in Scotland and England."

Boston Makes Plans

BOSTON, Nov. 9 (AP).—General Eisenhower will arrive at Logan International Airport, East Boston, at 1 p. m., weather permitting, on Monday from Frankfurt am Main, the office of Governor Maurice J. Tobin announced today. A state dinner and a reception are planned by the Governor for the general Monday evening at 7 p. m.

The Governor's office said Mrs. Eisenhower would meet her husband at the airport and proceed with him in a motorcade to the Hotel Statler. In the car with the general will be the Governor, the general's aide and Major General Willard Paul, commander of the 26th (Yankee) Division, the State House said.

General Eisenhower will be in the Armistice Day parade scheduled for Monday afternoon at 2 p. m., the Governor's office said. He will be accompanied by an honor guard of two military police companies. The Hotel Statler's Georgian Room, which seats 300, has been engaged for the state dinner Monday.

ZHUKOV REPORTED PLANNING U.S. VISIT

NOV 10 1945

Yank Who Crashed Potsdam Party Quotes Soviet General

Berlin, Nov. 9 (AP)—Russian Marshal G. K. Zhukov was quoted by a party-crashing American staff sergeant today as saying that the Allies' "job in Germany could be completed in less than ten years if the Germans are co-operative and display an earnest desire to rid themselves of any taint of militarism and Nazi ideology."

Staff Sergeant Harold Kempner, of Philadelphia, a reporter for Grooper, an army weekly, had no invitation to the reception Wednesday night in the palace of the former Hohenzollern Crown Prince, but managed to bluff his way in and drank vodka with so many generals that "the novelty wore off."

Zhukov Hopes To Visit U.S.

Kempner is a native of Russia and once lived in Lithuania. He said Khukov told him that he hoped "to be in the United States early next spring," and sent this message to American soldiers:

"Give them my regards and tell them the war is over, but there is still a big task ahead."

The Philadelphian, a one-time school teacher, said Zhukov's aides eyed him uneasily as he told the marshal:

"The watch market is the only medium of social relations between American and Russian soldiers and there is an urgent need for establishing an inter-Allied club in Berlin where Allied soldiers could get to know each other better."

"Sounds Good To Me"

He quoted Zhukov as replying:

"That sounds good to me. The watch business is surely no way of promoting better understanding between soldiers."

Kempner said he saw Zhukov go into a room with General Eisenhower, the ranking guest, and added, "I just got as near to the door as I could and waited. I thought for a while the vodka was going to get me before they came out, but I hung on."

The sergeant said he had trouble only once all evening, and that was when he arrived at Potsdam without an invitation and without knowing where the reception was to be held.

He solved the problem by going to the Russian commander of the guard and telling him he was going to the party and needed an escort.

He got one, and after that "there was nothing to it."

G. I. Crashed Party and Interviewed Zhukov

Sergeant Learns Russian Marshal Thinks Allied Occupation Could End in 10 Years.

Berlin, Nov. 9 (A. P.).—An American staff sergeant who "crashed" Marshal G. K. Zhukov's reception Wednesday night quoted the Russian military leader today as saying the Allied occupation of Germany "could be completed in less than ten years if the Germans are co-operative."

The sergeant, Harold Kempner of Philadelphia, is a reporter for Grooper, the weekly newspaper of the American Military Government. Kempner had no invitation to Zhukov's party, at which Gen. Eisenhower was the ranking guest, but after he got in he went straight to the point.

The sergeant said Zhukov, answering a question, replied:

"Our job in Germany could be completed in less than ten years if the Germans are co-operative and display an earnest desire to rid themselves of any taint of militarism and Nazi ideology."

Speaks Fluent Russian.

Kempner, who was born in Russia and lived in Lithuania, asked the Marshal in fluent Russian when he would visit the United States. He quoted Zhukov as replying:

"I am anxious to visit your land but important work will keep me busy here for a while. I hope, however, to be in the United States early next spring."

Kempner said the Marshal's aids began eyeing him and his ribbons from both the Pacific and European wars with some uneasiness, but he kept right on and told Zhukov:

"The watch market is the only medium of social relations between American and Russian soldiers and there is urgent need for establishing an inter-Allied club in Berlin where Allied soldiers could get to know each other better."

"That sounds good to me," the sergeant quoted Zhukov as saying, "the watch business is surely no way of promoting better understanding between soldiers."

Message for Yanks.

When he asked Zhukov if he had any message for American soldiers, Kempner said the Marshal replied:

"Give them my regards and tell them the war is over but there is a big task ahead."

Kempner said Zhukov looked healthy and was so amiable that he tapped his interviewer on the shoulder once or twice.

"There was nothing to it," Kempner commented, "I saw Gen. Eisenhower and the Marshal go into a room together, so I just got as near the door as I could and waited. I thought for a while the vodka was going to get me before they came out, but I hung on."

He said there was a "great deal of brass" around drinking vodka with him and that he passed the time of day with so many generals "the novelty wore off."

Visited With Russians.

He said he had an amiable conversation with Zhukov's chief of staff while waiting for the Marshall and Eisenhower to emerge. He got around to talking with staff members of the Moscow newspapers Izvestia and Pravda and the news agency Tass. They apparently put the idea into Kempner's mind of an Inter-Allied club.

Kempner said the only trouble he had all evening was when he arrived at Potsdam without an invitation and didn't know where the reception was being held. He solved that one by going to the Russian commander of the guard and telling him he was going to the party and needed an escort. He got one and soon was in the former Hohenzollern palace of the former crown prince.

Yanks Wire Daily $10,000 In Flowers

Berlin, Nov. 9 (AP)—Orders for nearly $10,000 worth of flowers a day are being radioed to wives, sweethearts and mothers of American soldiers, now barred from sending home stacks of American dollars converted from bigger stacks of German occupation marks.

New currency exchange regulations, effective tomorrow, put a stop to a 40-day gold rush in which the troops converted millions of dollars in marks into postal money orders.

Orders Up To 500 Daily

Many soldiers turned to a communications office, which instituted a trans-Atlantic floral delivery service, anticipating "about 50 orders a week."

Limited to a $10 minimum and $25 maximum, orders are pouring in at the rate of about 400 to 500 daily.

There was a final scramble today in all of Berlin's several post offices by soldiers trying to beat the deadline and send their marks home in the form of dollars. One office alone did $200,000 worth of business today.

Currency Exchange Book

The last 40 days was the final period in which American personnel could send home what they certified was three months' accumulated pay and other funds "derived from legal sources."

Tomorrow a currency exchange control book will be issued, showing a soldier's monthly receipts in cash pay and allowances. Against these figures will be entered the soldier's transfers, so that none will be permitted to transfer more than he can show he legally received.

STRIKE IN BERLIN

Berlin, Nov. 9 (A. P.).—German workers in the Thyssen Iron & Steel Corporation repair shops have staged the first strike in Germany under Allied occupation, quitting work for one day in protest against the reinstatement of a managing director who held the same position under the Nazi regime. The shops are in the British zone.

About 150 men returned to their jobs today after the 24-hour stoppage. Most of them were repairmen and construction workers supplying rails and bridge parts.

The workers contended that the director served as liaison man between the company and the Gestapo during the war.

U.S. Reported Getting Tough With Russians On Allied Council

Frankfurt, Nov. 9 (AP)—A stiffening of the American policy of making concessions to Russia without reciprocation was seen tonight by some observers of the Allied Control Council.

The council has brought many fundamental differences into the open and, while the western Allies have given ground on many points, the Russians have made no major compromises.

Although American members of the council have been on friendly personal terms with Russian members, this has made no difference in the Russian stands, which are dictated by Moscow, observers said.

Yankee Attitude Adopted

It is feared that the policy of giving in to the Russians was interpreted as a sign of weakness, some sources said, and the Americans consequently have adopted the attitude of the hard-headed Yankee trader.

Apart from the Russian attitude in the control council, the speech in Moscow by Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov asserting that there should be no secrecy about atomic energy has had an unfavorable reception among some American military men in Germany.

As one American officer put it: "Why should we share any secrets with them? They will not even let us visit territory of the country we helped conquer, without being arrested."

American soldiers, accustomed to easy access to Canada and Mexico from the United States, have been irritated by military barriers which the Russians have erected along every road leading into their occupation zone.

Policy Of United States

On another point, it was learned that the United States is making clear to France that centralization of administration of Germany in accordance with the Potsdam agreement would proceed whether or not the French agree.

The American stand was backed by Russia and by Britain to a large extent.

It was learned this policy received full sanction in Washington, where it was reviewed by Lieut. Gen. Lucius D. Clay and Robert D. Murphy, General Eisenhower's deputy and political adviser, respectively.

Murphy and Clay returned from Washington today for a meeting of the control council tomorrow.

U. S., RUSSIA TO QUIT SLOVAKIA BY DEC. 1

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—(AP) The State department announced today that the United States and Russia plan to withdraw their forces from Czechoslovakia by Dec. 1.

"Allied forces which have remained in Czechoslovakian territory x x x are no longer needed to protect the Czechoslovak people against Nazi depredations," the State department announcement said.

The continued presence of the Allied forces "undoubtedly constitutes a drain on the Czechoslovak economy," is delaying recovery and rehabilitation, the announcement added.

The department said U. S. military authorities intended to withdraw the American forces by Dec. 1 and this government has learned the Soviet government is making similar plans.

Reich Is Seen Stripped To Famine Point

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—The House Postwar Economic Policy Committee intends to tell Congress that 8,000,000 or 10,000,000 Germans will die of starvation and disease unless:

Russia quits stripping Germany of consumer goods industries not considered part of a war-making potential, or

The United States, as the only nation able to, feeds the Germans who otherwise would starve as a result of the Russian reparations collections.

A committee member said these are among findings in a report agreed to by the committee and soon to be released.

This member also said some of the criticisms of Russia made a month ago by Chairman Colmer (D., Miss.) and six other members of a subcommittee after a two-month tour of Europe had been "softened" by the full committee. This was due, he said, by including in the report statements that some of the Russian practices recited are necessary under present conditions.

The report, he added, also emphasized at some length Russia's need for American loans.

He said, too, that the report will urge rapid reconstruction of Germany to the point where she can feed herself and become a factor in American trade without representing a war threat to the rest of the world.

FIVE NAZIS DIE TODAY FOR KILLING U.S. FLIERS

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 9—(AP) Five Germans will be hanged at 1 p.m. tomorrow (7 a.m. Eastern Standard Time) for murdering six U. S. fliers who bailed out of a disabled plane Aug. 26, 1944.

They were convicted by a United States military court recently. Gen. Eisenhower confirmed the capital penalties, his headquarters announced today. The men, to die at Bruchsal near Heidelberg, are Joseph Hartgen, Friedrich Wust, Johann Seipes, Johann Opper and Philip Gutlich.

Death sentences of two women, Margereta Witzler and Kathe Reinhardt, were commuted to 30 years imprisonment. Testimony showed they were instrumental in forming the mob which beat and stoned the fliers to death. Three other persons received prison terms and one was acquitted.

Eva Braun Wrote to Sister of Plan To Commit Suicide with Hitler

GARMISCH PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Nov. 9—(AP) Eva Braun wrote a farewell letter from Berlin last April 23, saying she and Adolf Hitler had abandoned hope and decided that neither of them would be captured alive, her sister, Mrs. Margaret Gretl Fegelien, disclosed today.

The letter was ferreted out by the counter-intelligence corps after an attempt at concealment by the pretty, 30-year-old Gretl, who insists it was "looted by American soldiers," thus spoiling her plan to sell it and others for publication.

Members of Eva Braun's family, now living in a single room in the little village of Ruhpoling, claim all they got out of her being Hitler's mistress was two gifts from the fuehrer, a silver bowl and a watch—both since taken by American soldiers.

"Now the neighbors all hate us because of the close connection with Hitler," complained Eva's father, Fritz Braun, a former Munich manual training teacher, now earning a meager living as a carpenter.

He said he had hated Hitler for years for taking his daughter but "finally we had to become reconciled to the situation." He never rose higher than a block worker in the Nazi party.

Both parents say they are sure Eva and Hitler are dead, and Gretl said she was too. She doubts, however, that the two were married at the last minute because, she said, Eva never even discussed that possibility.

Eva's parents maintain her romance with Hitler was "true, idealistic love," but Eva's last letter showed that she was not blind to the monetary value of her position. Even while planning suicide, she urged Gretl to guard Hitler's letters "because they will be valuable some day."

G. I.'S PASS THE HAT SO LAD MIGHT SEE

Gorizia, Italy, Nov. 9 (A. P.).—A little Italian boy blinded from a kick by a German Army horse may see again because American soldiers are passing the hat to pay for an operation in the United States. Eight-year-old Giuliano Cabbia was sent by American soldiers to a school for the blind at Padua a year ago. He has been playing the accordion for the Eighty-eighth Division, and earning substantial sums by giving concerts.

The Eighty-eighth Division started a collection to finance a trip to the United States. There's $1,516 in the kitty already, and enough more in sight to meet the State Department's requirement that the boy have $4,000 for passage and doctor bills.

More or less adopted by the Eighty-eighth, Thirty-fourth and Eighty-fifth divisions, Giuliano wears a complete G. I. uniform, including sleeve patches of all three outfits.

Italian PW Repatriation

Rome, Nov. 9 (AP)—The Ministry of War disclosed today that 743,000 Italian prisoners of war had been repatriated by October 31, but added that a shipping shortage was delaying the return of 502,000 still held in foreign countries, including 36,000 in the United States.

Portugal Detains Some Oporto Party Members

Lisbon, Nov. 9 (AP)—Some members of the Oporto Democratic movement were detained today for refusing to hand over to a Government investigating committee the lists of Democrats who signed a demand for postponement of elections scheduled November 18.

The Government of Premier Antonio Oliveiro Salazar ordered the investigation of lists of supporters of the demands on grounds a number of signatures were obtained under false pretenses.

The Democrats claimed the investigation was a form of intervention in their opposition to the election. They contend there is insufficient time for an opposition campaign.

Meanwhile, the War Ministry announced that all army officers in active service who signed the postponement petition or attended opposition meetings would be punished.

Singer's House Requisitioned

Parties Agree On New Hungarian Cabinet

Budapest, Nov. 9 (AP)—With a virtual agreement reached on the composition of the new Hungarian Cabinet, it appeared today that Zoltan Tilday, Smallholders party leader and Protestant minister, would take the oath of office next Monday.

The Communists will hold three Cabinet posts, Social Democrats three, Peasant party one and Smallholders five. A Smallholder also will be president of the Assembly.

BUCHAREST TENSE FOLLOWING RIOTS IN ROYAL SQUARE

NOV 10 1945

By FRANK O'BRIEN

BUCHAREST, Romania, Nov. 9—(AP) Bucharest was tensely quiet today after Thursday's Royal Square riots which the Soviet-sponsored government of Premier Petru Groza immediately blamed on an "anarchial movement" directed by Romania's National Peasant and Liberal parties.

A check of hospitals and morgues showed at least thirteen were killed and 80 wounded in the six-hour-long fighting, climaxed when Romanian troops machine-gunned the crowd.

A ministry of interior communique declared the Liberal and Peasant parties had for, "weeks prepared a movement of disorder" culminating in the strife yesterday between Communists and supporters of young King Mihai.

But eyewitnesses disagreed, declaring the battle started only when Communists tried to break up the demonstration by 40,000 to 50,000 persons gathered in the Royal Square to observe Mihai's 24th birthday anniversary. The Groza government, tiffing with the King ever since it refused Mihai's request that it resign, had forbidden any demonstrations.

Charge Fascist Acts

The communique charged the demonstrators had "committed Fascist acts, attacking public buildings" under the "cloak of a monarchist demonstration."

The demonstrators waved Romanian national flags, and pictures of Mihai, but I saw no party banners other than Communist placards on the walls. Demonstrators stripped some of these from government buildings.

Gunfire broke out when Groza government troops stationed near the ministry of interior, facing the Royal Square, fired on persons ripping down the Communist posters. Sporadic fire followed, and later troops fired again at a crowd at one entrance to the square.

Russian General Susaikov, head of the Allied Control Commission here, intervened and halted the shooting.

The communique declared the demonstration was "premeditated and organized by the direction of these two (Peasant and Liberal) parties which encourage the remains of fascism in our country," and said "the ministry of interior has decided to take urgently the most severe measures to maintain order and the exercise of civil liberties."

The Royal Square was blocked off today by government troops and the public address system blared light, gay music.

Arab Criticizes Truman On Jews

Jerusalem, Nov. 9 (AP)—Dr. Izzat George Tannous, head of the Arab office in London, today criticized President Truman's suggestion that 100,000 Jews be admitted to Palestine, declaring the President "knows it cannot be done without the use of force."

"There is no better country in which to settle the Jewish humanitarian problem than America itself," he suggested in an interview.

"We feel that Palestine already has taken much more than its share of Jewish immigrants," Tannous continued, "and what makes us even angrier is that these people who talk most about letting more Jews into Palestine are people who would never think of coming here to live."

The Arab people, he said, "fear American pressure, and fear there is a great Jewish influence on American Government."

Tannous, who recently returned to the Levant to attend his wife's funeral, said Palestine was not a Jewish problem but an Arab problem, "because we want peace and freedom in our country."

"As things stand now," he said, "we have no Government of our own in Palestine. Everything is done by the British."

To Protest Palestine Film

London, Nov. 9 (AP)—The Arab office in London said today it had protested to United States Ambassador John G. Winant on the March of Time film on Palestine.

The film, just released in England, "grossly misrepresented (the Arabs) in a manner to arouse contempt and antipathy for them," a spokesman said.

The attention of the British Government also has been called to the film with special reference to likely repercussions should the film be shown in Palestine, he added.

14,000 In Australia Seeking Ship Passage

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 9 (AP)—Shipping circles estimated today that 9,000 persons in Australia now are awaiting ship transportation to Britain while 5,000 war brides and business men are seeking passage to the United States.

Some applicants for passage to Britain have been on the waiting list for two years.

Admiral's Plane Sent For Ill Gob's Family

Auckland, N.Z., Nov. 9 (AP)—Admiral Paul Hendren's personal plane arrived here today to fly Mrs. William T, Bingham and her two children to the United States, where her husband—an enlisted man in the Navy—is now going blind.

Bingham married while serving in New Zealand and later saw service on Pacific islands, where he contracted an eye infection. He has never seen his younger child.

Bingham is now in the Charleston (S.C.) naval hospital.

Sailors Home-Bound Do K.P. for Civilians

HONOLULU, Nov. 9—(AP) The Stars and Stripes said today 1,300 Navy enlisted men homebound for discharge aboard the Monterey were being required to take turns washing dishes for themselves and for 1,500 civilians aboard the Army-operated ship.

The Army newspaper quoted Lt. Col. J. P. McGuinness, troop commander on the Monterey, as confirming the report that the high-point military personnel was required to do K. P. duty.

"I personally am very much against service men having to do K. P. duty for civilian passengers," the Stars and Stripes quoted the colonel as saying.

Cabinet Changed In South Africa

Johannesburg, Nov. 9 (A. P.).—Prime Minister Jan Christiaan Smuts announced today several cabinet changes brought about by the withdrawal of the Labor party from the wartime coalition and the resignation of Labor Minister W. B. Madeley.

Col. F. Steyn, Minister of Justice since 1939, succeeds Madeley in the Labor post; H. G. Lawrence, Minister of Welfare and Demobilization, becomes Minister of Social Welfare and Justice, and Dr. Henry Gluckman, chairman of National Health Services, enters the cabinet as Minister of Health and Housing.

Seesaw Battles Are Raging Along Sections of Railroads in Shansi, Hopeh.

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNGKING, Saturday, Nov. 10, —(AP) A Chinese Communist spokesman charged today that an American ultimatum was served this week on the commander of Red troops at Shanhaikaan, coastal terminus of the great wall, to withdraw his forces 100 kilometers from either side of the Peiping-Mukden railroad.

There was no American confirmation.

The spokesman said the alleged ultimatum was delivered Monday and was rejected the following day. He added no reports had been received of resultant fighting.

The Peiping-Mukden railroad is one of the main overland arteries for the entry of Chinese Nationalist forces into Manchuria.

Chinese Communists issued a blunt "stay out" warning today to Nationalist troops waiting ominously by the thousands on Manchuria's southern border, along the historic Great Wall near American-guarded Chinwangtao.

The Reds cancelled abruptly a scheduled afternoon peace talk in Chungking and said they would oppose entry of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's troops into Manchuria or any other "liberated areas."

The government, they charged, is using 49 armies aggregating 127 divisions—nearly 1,000,000 men—for "this civil war," plus 350,000 puppet troops. Forty-nine of the government divisions are supplied wholly or partly with American equipment, they asserted.

Bitter Battles Reported

Bloody seesaw battles between Communists and Nationalists along sections of railroads in Shansi and Hopeh provinces were reported today in a semi-official dispatch.

More than 8,000 Communists troops were reported launching repeated attacks on the city of Hwohsien in southern Shansi.

The dispatch listed the recapture by the Nationalists of three rail points but also told of wrecked sections of railroads.

Chiang's troops, pouring from American transports in the American-secured North China port of Chinwangtao, are facing "strong Communist forces" along the Great Wall 10 miles to the north—ready for the main round of China's undeclared war, Associated Press Correspondent Richard Bergholz reported from the scene.

Semi-official sources in Chungking confirmed his report, conceding that the government likely will make its major drive to Manchuria by moving eastward from the Chinwangtao area along the Peiping-Mukden (Manchuria) railroad. Nationalists hope to reach Manchuria this month to replace withdrawing Russian occupation forces.

A Chinese Red spokesman asserted that many airplanes were massed at Peiping, ready to carry government troops to Changchun, Manchurian capital. He inferred that Reds had no way of blocking airborne movements, but added that if any passage of ground forces through liberated areas were attempted it would instantly be challenged.

He included the railroad town of Peitaiho, near Chinwangtao, in the liberated areas from which, he said, Nationalists must withdraw if the government is to comply with Red demands for a return to pre-fighting status. He insisted that Peitaiho was taken forcibly from the Communists by government troops spearheaded by U. S. Marines.

Chinwangtao, Peiping and Tientsin, currently occupied by Marines, fall into a different category, he said, but are "subject to future negotiations."

The Communists addressed a vigorous protest to President Truman against American "armed intervention in Chinese internal affairs," and asserted that weapons which America made to defeat Japan "have through the hands of Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer (U. S. commander in China) become weapons for slaughtering the Chinese people."

American transportation of Nationalist troops to Red-liberated areas, the Communist spokesman here declared, "will only prolong the civil war." Civil war, he said, began "Sept. 17, when the National Military Council distributed anti-bandit handbooks."

Adding that peace talks, resumed Thursday, had made "no progress," he repeated Thursday's Communist allegations that an unheralded meeting of Nationalist military talent here Saturday will likely have "evil effects." The conference, insistent but unofficial reports said, will deal with "bandit suppression." Communists maintain that this is merely another name for war on Communists.

(Associated Press Correspondent Fred Hampson reported after visiting the Peiping area that the tense situation there involves not only Communists but "the remnants of puppet forces, brigands, hangovers from warlords' armies, agrarian reform leaders, and a lot of people who just like to raise hell.")

Bergholz, in Chinwangtao, confirmed the report that Reds—in that area, at least—have been largely fighting with words rather than bullets. He termed the local areas near Chinwangtao "dangerously tense," but said there had been no major action in the past two weeks.

Shanhaikwan, coastal terminus of the Great Wall, north of Chinwangtao, likely will be the hottest spot when and if the main push of Nationalists toward Manchuria begins, he reported.

Presence of the American Marines probably have been a major factor in averting violence, Bergholz wrote: One Marine guarding a bridge "is a more potent deterrent to a Communist attack than a battalion of Nationalists . . . No wonder the Communists complain that Americans are actively as well as passively aiding the Nationalists."

Lt. Gen. Wedemeyer, who reported yesterday that Marines had been in "minor" clashes—he didn't say how many, if any, were wounded—also reiterated his previous statement that their withdrawal from the country may begin by mid-November.

NEW CHARGE AGAINST YANKS

Nationalists Told to Withdraw From Rail Town Reds Say Marines Helped Take.

Moosa

Chungking, Nov. 9 (A. P.).—Nationalist troops began pouring today from United States ships into the Chinese port of Chinwangtao and fanning out to Manchuria's southern border, along which Communist troops were arrayed.

At the same time a spokesman for the Chinese Communists said they will oppose any attempt of Government troops to land in Manchuria or enter any other "liberated areas" of North China.

He declared that Nationalist forces would have to withdraw from the railway town of Peitaiho, near Chinwangtao, which he contended the Nationalists had occupied behind a United States Marine spearhead.

This was the latest Communist charge of American intervention, which earlier in the day had been denied by Lieut.-Gen Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of United States forces in China. Wedemeyer was quoted in a Shanghai interview as saying that American forces had been caught in minor clashes, but insisted there was no intervention.

Wedemeyer, in Shanghai, denied intervention, but said his troops had been caught in minor skirmishes.

Simultaneously, representatives of the Chinese Government and the Communists reported some progress as they resumed negotiations on a four-point peace program. A Red spokesman said the chief obstacle was a demand that Nationalist troops be withdrawn immediately from all Communist-liberated areas.

Use Of U.S. Planes Charged

Even as peace negotiations continued, a Communist spokesman charged that the National Aviation Council planned to throw American-made P-40 fighter planes into the undeclared war. He also asserted that two unidentified P-40s flew over Yenan, Communist headquarters city, Monday and that a large quantity of aviation gasoline was sent to Siam this week.

In Washington, a State Department spokesman, taking cognizance of a Chinese Nationlaist newspaper report that the Chinese Government would acquire 3,000 American planes, said it was "spurious and untrue." There are not that many American planes in China, he added.

Conference Canceled.

The communist spokesman said the demand for withdrawal of Nationalist trops from Peitaiho did not include the areas of Chinwangtao, nor Peiping and Tientsin farther west, but these too would be the subject for future negotiations. The communists have insisted that the Nationalist troops withdraw from "communist-liberated" areas of North China as a condition for peace discussions.

A scheduled afternoon conference between Chungking and communist representatives on the Nationalists' latest peace offer was canceled at the last moment by the communists.

Earlier, the contending parties had reported some progress after a resumption of the negotiations.

It was learned from Chinwangtao that possibly because of the presence of American Marines in strategic positions in that area, fighting has not broken out, despite the fact thousands of Nationalists and communists oppose each other at Shanhaikwan (Linyu), the ancient city which forms part of the Great Wall and is its eastern anchor on the Gulf of Chihli, ten miles north of Chinwangtao.

The peace negotiations found both Nationalists and Communists agreed that the fighting should stop—but disagreed on concessions. Communists insisted that fighting should be stopped throughout China at once. They demanded that the Government quit using Japanese puppet troops—a charge the Nationalists deny.

Point Of Agreement

Both sides agreed in principle that an investigation party should survey disputed areas, a minor point.

The Government insisted that technical military problems of reorganizing the Communist Army be completed within a month. This would require that Yeh Ching-yin, chief of staff of the Red Army, come to Chungking, a mission he has avoided in recent weeks.

Capture Of Village

The Communist New China Daily News, while specifying that the latest asserted United States intervention had been bloodless, charged that American troops and armored vehicles spearheaded the Nationalists' capture of a railroad station and a village.

The Daily News appealed to the Communist newspaper Daily Worker in New York to "urge the American people and Government to cease the spearheading and transporting of Kuomintang (Nationalist) troops by United States forces to Communist-liberated areas; and finally to discontinue any help to the Kuomintang accentuating civil war in China."

Seizure Of Rail Station

The Daily News said American troops led 300 Chinese Nationalists in seizing a small railway station at Liuhouying, south of Peitaiho on the Peiping-Mukden railway. It also charged that United States armored vehicles helped puppet troops arrest Communist officials and civilians in near-by Tsaishang.

The New China Daily News appealed to the communist newspaper Daily Worker in New York to "urge the American people and Government . . to cease the spearheading and transporting of Kuomintang troops by United States forces to communist-liberated areas, and finally to discontinue any help to Kuomintang accentuating civil war in China."

Wedemeyer said he had referred to Major-Gen. Keller E. Rockey, commander of the Marine Third Amphibious Corps, an earlier charge that Marines had raided a communist office in Tientsin. He reiterated a previous statement that forty per cent of the 1,800,000 Japanese in China still are armed and pointed out that the American's mission is to assist the Chinese in demobilizing and repatriating these troops.

To Confer With Chiang.

The general, who is due here tomorrow to confer with Generalissimo Chiang-Kai-shek, emphasized "we are not supposed to take aggressive action against any Chinese except to project American lives and property." He said redeployment of American troops would start soon and that by the year's end only 6,300 United States Army personnel were to be left in China. However, there are more than 50,000 Marines in North China, where they were sent weeks ago to assist in disarming Japanese.

The peace negotiations found both Nationalists and Communists agreed that the fighting should stop—but disagreed on concessions. Communists insisted that fighting should be stopped throughout China at once. They demanded that the Government quit using Japanese Puppet troops—a charge the Nationalists deny.

Chiang's Forces Face Reds At Great Wall

By Richard Bergholz

Chinwangtao, Nov. 9 (AP)—American-transported Chinese Nationalist troops have moved into battle positions opposing the Yenan Communist forces along the eastern end of the Great Wall of China, boundary between disputed North China and Manchuria.

But, possibly because of the presence of American Marines in strategic positions in the area, fighting has not broken out, despite the fact that thousands of Nationalists and Communists oppose each other at Shanhaikwan (Linyu), the ancient city that forms part of the Great Wall and is its eastern anchor on the Gulf of Chihli, ten miles north of Chinwangtao.

The elements of two Chinese Nationalist armies, the 13th and the 52d, were put ashore by United States amphibious forces under Vice Admiral Daniel Barbey.

Spread Out Along Wall

At first the Chinese troops crowded into this relatively small harbor city and milled about doing nothing before they spread out toward the Great Wall of China—and the strong forces of the Communist 8th Route Army along it.

From all indications, the Communists are well dug in both in and around Shanhaikwan and are sufficiently mobile to swing either direction to combat any forced entry into Manchuria along that sector.

A serious and historic test is building up between the Nationalists and the Communists in the vicinity of the Great Wall, but at the moment the civil war has not broken out in the coastal areas.

Dangerously Tense

After a week of touring the critical areas I am convinced that, although many local areas are dangerously tense, open, full-scale warfare has not begun because neither the Communists nor the Nationalists have felt the time or circumstances propitious.

NOV 10 1945

But the crucial test is building up about ten miles north of this Nationalist port, which was originally secured by American Marines to become a major debarkation port for Kuomintang soldiers in North China.

It is becoming increasingly doubtful that any Nationalist troop landings in any size will be made north of the Great Wall, at least with the aid of American naval forces. If Chiang's Government is to regain Manchuria by force—assuming the Nationalist-Communist negotiations at Chungking are futile—the main fight will be along the Grea' Wall, and Shanhaikwan is currently the focal point of the tension.

"Mock Warfare"

But during the tour of Communist-controlled areas I was impressed with the mock warfare now going on. It makes you think of a group of schoolboys playing at war. First one side and then the other will march and countermarch all over the countryside, causing all kinds of excitement and speculation. Positions are changed and strengthened, but save for a few stray shots there is no fighting.

Neither the Communists nor the Nationalists do extensive patroling. They rely on espionage instead. It is a common practice, I am told, to dress troops in civilian clothes and send them into enemy lines to determine positions and strength.

Railroad As Example

Incidents along the important Tientsin-Chingwantao railroad illustrate the kind of mock warfare now going on. This rail line, an important feeder line for Nationalists and the only outlet for the rich North China coal mines, wanders over fertile flatlands, crossing numerous streams. From a military standpoint, it would be easy to cut. But as yet the Communists have failed to make any serious all-out attempt to knock out the line. So far, they have made only harassing attacks with a nuisance value.

The reason the Communists haven't made a major attack on the railroad may lie with the United States. On each of several large spans are small forces of 1st Marine Division men as guards. They have been put there, obviously with orders to stand guard duty, but to keep out of trouble.

That Deters The Reds

If the Communists were to assault one of these objectives, the Marines couldn't escape involvement. Thus the presence of one American at a bridge post is a more potent deterrent to Communist attack than a battalion of Nationalists.

The Communists complain that Americans are actively as well as passively aiding the Nationalists and opposing the Communists. They accuse Americans of hypocrisy in claiming noninvolvement while putting Marines in critical areas.

TWO CHINESE ARMIES TO QUIT INDO CHINA

CHUNGKING, Nov. 9 — (AP) Having disarmed 30,000 Japanese in northern Indo-China, two Chinese occupation armies will be withdrawn to China, Gen. Lu Han, commander of the occupation forces, told a news conference today.

If any violence should break out in the Chinese-occupied zone between French troops and native Annamese, he added the Chinese attitude will be neutral. Thus far, he said, there have been no armed clashes between French and Annamese in the Chinese-occupied zone, because there have been no French troops in that sector.

One Chinese occupation army is withdrawing from Haiphong to China because of supply difficulties, he reported, and another soon will follow.

He denied that Chinese had refused to allow French troops to reenter Indo-China from China's Yunnan province, explaining that the French were greatly outnumbered by Annamese and evidently were unwilling to go in.

Shipping Held Enough To Get Marines Home

Chinwangtao, Nov. 9 (AP)—There is enough shipping available in North China to get the great bulk of American Marines home by Christmas if that is to be the American policy, Vice Admiral Daniel Barbey, commander of the 7th Amphibious Force, said today after receiving a report that all Marines would be withdrawn from "troubled areas."

The Marines here are near near-by Shanhaikwan to hear the enough to the "troubled area" at skirmishing of Chinese Government and Communist forces and to see the wounded being brought in.

There are approximately 53,000 Marines in North China (previous reports indicated from 60,000 to as high as 70,000) and virtually all are deployed in "troubled areas." From Tsingtao northward they are located in areas still held or threatened by Communists.

1,500 CHINESE LOST WHEN SHIP HITS MINE

HONG KONG, Nov. 9—(AP) A Chinese river steamer struck a mine in the mouth of the Canton river yesterday and sank with the loss of from 1,500 to 1,600 Chinese, mostly soldiers en route to the civil war zone of North China.

Survivors brought here by junk said today the explosion came with terrific force and the steamer, the Hai Chu, sank within a few minutes, trapping hundreds below decks.

The 1,000-ton vessel had been ferrying the Chinese Eighth army from Canton to Hong Kong, and at least 1,700 soldiers were among the 1,800 persons aboard. Two Europeans on the Hai Chu were reported safe.

ANNAMESE ATTACK FRENCH NEAR SAIGON

SAIGON, Indo-China, Nov. 9—(AP) French troops pushing south of Saigon by land and river were heavily attacked by Annamese nationalists near Tanan, a nationalist stronghold, and one French garrison was reported to have asked for help from British Indian forces.

The fight near Tanan, 25 miles southwest of Saigon, continued last night. Japanese deserters were reported helping the Annamese in resistance against French reoccupation forces. In one sector, a Japanese-manned 75 was said to have opened fire on the French.

Heretofore, Annamese resistance has consisted mainly of sniper fire and felling trees across roads in this sector.

The French have taken over key points surrounding an area of more than 1,500 square miles, largely south of Saigon, but make no claim to controlling Annamese resistance within the area.

The night before last, Annamese and Gurkhas exchanged night-long rifle fire in a southern residential sector of the capital itself.

North of Saigon, the British are concentrating on disarming Japanese soldiers, and so far have gone no farther than about 25 miles from the city.

ANNAMESE FORCE BATTLES FRENCH

Saigon, Nov. 9 (A. P.).—Bitter fighting resulted yesterday when French troops were met by strong resistance from Annamese nationalists in the vicinity of Tan An, thirty-five miles southwest of Saigon. The engagement began when French overland columns and river-borne forces sought to continue reoccupying territory south of the capital. As they approached Tan An, a stronghold of the Viet Minh (native nationalists), the Annamese hit back. There were indications that Japanese deserters were collaborating with the nationalists.

The fighting continued last night. There were reliable reports today that one French garrison had requested the aid of British Indian forces.

JAP LIBERALS CAMPAIGNING

Platform Seeks 'Democratic System' Under Hirohito

Tokyo, Nov. 9 (AP)—Japan's new Liberal party plunged today into the empire's first peacetime election campaign with a platform calling for a "democratic system" under Emperor Hirohito.

Assembling in Tokyo for the inaugural rally, party members served notice they would battle the Communist program to "overthrow the Emperor and establish dictatorship."

A few Communists filtered into the park where several thousand persons were attending the rally and heckled the speakers, but there were no disorders, members reported.

150 Candidates In Field

Ichiro Hatoyma, the party's president and a former member of the House of Representatives, told correspondents the Liberals had agreed to co-operate with the Socialists after the election.

The party placed in the field a list of 150 candidates—most of them admittedly inexperienced in politics—pledged to the principle of living up to the Potsdam declaration for a peaceful Japan.

Among the candidates is Hachiro Arita, a Foreign Minister before the war, who will stand for the Diet from the Niigata district in the forthcoming election, which probably will be called in January.

The position of the Liberal party, with 50 members in the present Diet, was challenged by the new Minponto (peoples) party which claims 250 Diet members, Kyodo News Agency reported.

Nation's Economy Studied

Minponto will organize formally November 16. Kyodo predicted it would become one of the most influential under the the new era of political freedom granted by General MacArthur because of its heavy Diet membership.

While the Japanese were sampling their new political freedom, reparations experts were beginning a preliminary survey of the nation's economy to determine how it could pay for the ravages of its lost war.

Edwin W. Pauley, United States representative of the War Reparations Commission, was en route here by plane while members of his staff opened discussion at supreme headquarters.

Says Russia Entitled To Little

He said before leaving San Francisco that Japan's economy "will be reduced to a bare minimum" by stripping her of her war potential and asserted he would investigate reports that Russia had been removing industrial machinery from Manchuria as reparations.

Pauley asserted Russia was entitled to little if any indemnity for her part in the Pacific war and that the industries Japan built up in Manchuria should go to China as reparations.

Japanese sources here claimed Russians had landed light forces on the small islands of Kunashiri, Shikotan, Shitosu, Suisho and Taraku off the eastern coast of Hokkaido, northernmost of Japan's home islands.

Money Deals Thwarted

Supreme headquarters reported large-scale attempts to spirit back to Japan huge sums of money from former Japanese-occupied territory had been nipped and the funds frozen.

The household of Korean Prince Ri Ri tried to transfer five and one-half million yen from Korea to the Osaka branch of the Imperial bank in Japan.

That was the largest attempted deal, headquarters said, but the latest was an attempt by one Uzami Yonsichi to bring in 1,818,000 yen he had collected from the Japanese navy in payment for rice purchased from the Korean commodity company.

Uzawa Refuses To Defend Tojo In War Trial

Tokyo, Nov. 9 (AP)—Fusaaki Uzawa, prominent Japanese lawyer appointed to defend war criminals, today declined to participate in the defense of Hideki Tojo, the "Pearl Harbor Premier," because "Tojo personally was responsible for the war."

Uzawa, president of Meiji University, nevertheless said that Tojo should be given a fair trial—"although I am not sure that he deserves it"—because of the international importance of the case.

"Tojo Personally Responsible"

The 73-year-old Uzawa said he would not defend any Japanese charged as a war criminal unless he personally was satisfied the accused was innocent. He said he believed Tojo would find it difficult to obtain Japanese counsel.

Uzawa said he shared the opinion of "Japanese who believe Tojo is personally responsible for the war," particularly since he acted on his own responsibility and refused to listen to contrary opinions.

The former Premier is nearly recovered from an attempt to commit suicide.

Named Without Consultation

"When the war started, I personally thought perhaps it was inevitable, but today I know it was not inevitable," added Uzawa. "There was a trend toward war in this country and I won't defend anyone who led those trends, although perhaps there might be some of Tojo's civilian Cabinet members who were dragged into war themselves."

Uzawa said he was named to the war criminal defense body without consultation; then associates asked him to accept because of his age and influence in Tokyo's leading law association. He figured in some of the country's leading political and criminal cases in his 50 years as a criminal lawyer. He formerly was a member of the House of Peers.

Tojo's trial will be important internationally because he was at the head of the Japanese Government at the outbreak of hostilities and "therefore judgment of him will set an important precedent in international law," Uzawa said.

Brutalities "Very Bad"

"If the accounts of brutalities in prison camps are true, that was very bad," the lawyer said, but asserted Emperor Hirohito should not be classed as a war criminal because "he never participated in the Government and never had the power of veto, as does your President. He merely says what is brought to him by the ministers because he trusts them. But at the surrender, the Emperor reached the point where he no longer trusted the ministers and therefore stepped into the open."

Joseph B. Keenan, former assistant to the United States Attorney General, was named by General MacArthur to counsel his legal staff for the trials of Tojo and other persons charged with planning and waging war in violation of treaties.

Emperor Idea May Die With Shinto

By Glenn Babb

Tokyo, Nov. 9 (AP)—The Emperor of Japan to outward appearances retains the religious veneration and devotion of a vast majority of the 75,000,0000 defeated and dazed Japanese, but powerful ferments are working which may change this in a few years.

American policy has been to permit Japan to retain the Emperor and use his prestige to make smooth the surrender, occupation and program of democracy dictated by the conquereors. But there has been no promise of continuing Allied support for the imperial institution, and the ultimate decision on the Emperor concept must be made by the Japanese people.

Little Change For Hirohito

Thus far there is little evidence of danger to the throne. The Communists clamor noisily for the Emperor's removal, but they are an infinitesimal minority. Nearly all other parties which mushroomed in the wake of American-imposed freedoms call for democratic changes without touching the "sacred and inviolate" position of the Mikado.

Meanwhile, Hirohito goes about his functions as high priest and divinely descended ruler of his people with little or no alteration of the ancient Shinto rituals. Last week he performed the customary rites of worship in palace sanctuaries on Meiji Setsu, birthday of his grandfather, Emperor Meiji, and one of the three big holidays on the Japanese calendar.

Next week Hirohito is journeying to Ujiyamada in ancient Ise province, 250 miles southwest of Tokyo, to worship at grand shrines dedicated to the sun goddess, Amaterasu, chief deity of the Shinto Pantheon and divine ancestress of the imperial house and the Japanese race. To her he will report the "termination of the war," according to official announcement.

But emperor worship is inextricably linked to the Shinto national cult which militarists made their chief spiritual weapon. There are numerous indications that Shinto has lost vastly in popular esteem. Whether the emperor concept can survive Shinto's decline is a moot question.

I have found Tokyo's chief Shinto shrines almost deserted. On a bright Sunday afternoon, such as prewar, would have brought thousands to Meiji Shrine on Tokyo's outskirts to worship the spirit of Hirohito's grandfather, founder of the modern Japanese Empire. Only four Japanese were seen in the Shrine's broad approaches, two obviously demobilized army officers and two giggling schoolgirls. The main shrine, hitherto one of the main focal points of national religio-patriotism, was burned in a fire raid last April, but enough subsidiary buildings remain to give the devout a place to worship if they want to worship.

Few At Yasukuni Shrine

Attendance at Yasukuni Shrine, where are enshrined the souls of all of Japan's fallen warriors, was not much greater. Similar neglect was found at the shrine to General Nogi, hero of Port Arthur, and other Shinto temples.

On the same day, Asakusa Park and playground at the other end of Tokyo drew thousands. Long queues waited at theaters and movie houses. Throngs pushed through the streets and chatted with curbstone merchants whose small stocks replaced destroyed shops. It was obvious that Tokyo wanted to forget the war and all that bred it.

May Change Political Life

Shinto's manifest decline may have far-reaching developments in Japan's political as well as religious life. An American State Department spokesman recently announced that American policy is to make it impossible for Shinto to continue its prewar role in the national scheme. To this end the Japanese Government will be required to cease all financial support.

But Shinto's eclipse may be achieved without any Allied action. Shinto and its great shrines always have been supported by the state, not the people. Observance of its rites was a duty from which release will be welcomed by many. What will rush into the vacuum left by Shinto's decline remains to be seen. It could be Christianity or it could be communism.

Would Affect Emperor

Hirohito's hold on the people would be greatly affected by decline of the cult which claims for him veneration on the grounds he is the Son of Heaven and the current manifestation of a "line unbroken for ages eternal." Unquestionably, Hirohito's prestige and that of the imperial house suffered form his visit to MacArthur at the American Embassy. That the Son of Heaven should leave the sacred palace to visit an alien mortal was a tremendous shock to millions of devout Japanese. The effect was intensified when Japanese newspapers published a picture showing the American conqueror towering over the stooped figure of his visitor.

However, there are many Japanese who assert that Hirohito's firmness in ending the war and carrying out the surrender made him personally more popular with the masses than any previous Mikado.

NOV 10 1945

Told To Revise Constitution

MacArthur has directed the Japanese Government to revise the Constitution to give full play to democratic processes. The Cabinet obviously is loathe to make any changes affecting the Emperor's place. Foreign Minister Yoshida argues that the Constitution is democratic but was misused by militarists. Premier Shidehara says the clause which states that the Emperor is sacred and inviolate had a counterpart in the British saying that "The King can do no wrong."

Such men, rated as "liberals" in prewar Japan but likely to find themselves overwhelmed in political tides loosed by surrender, profess to believe that the Emperor can remain in a limited monarchy, patterned after the British monarchy. Some such compromise may be achieved, but there seems little chance that the god emperor concept can long survive the enfeeblement of its chief support, Shinto.

MIKADO WANTS DURABLE PEACE

Tokyo, Nov. 9 (A. P.).—Emperor Hirohito today expressed hope that "Christian churches of the world will now devote themselves to a just and durable peace."

His statement was made during an audience granted to five American Protestant church leaders. Dr. Walter W. Van Kirk of New York, spokesman for the American deputation, said the initiative in staging the audience, and others to follow, was taken by the Imperial household ministry.

Hirohito told the first of a series of audiences for some 1,000 churchmen that "I think the coming of this deputation is a matter of utmost consequence to Japan."

Dr. Douglas Horton, New York, chairman of the deputation, replied: "Christians of America and Japan are eager to join hands and forces for an era of goodwill."

Jap Movie Houses To Show 45 U.S. Films

Tokyo, Nov. 9 (AP)—Japanese movie houses will show 45 American feature motion pictures, starting in mid-December, General MacArthur's headquarters said. There will be supporting short subjects of news and educational topics.

Among the films, selected for showing to conquered peoples, are "The Men in Her Life," "Once Upon a Time," "Madame Curie," "Lost Angel," "In Old Oklahoma," "Song of Nevada," "Going My Way," "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," "All That Money Can Buy," "Snow White," "The Butler's Sister," "Flesh and Fantasy," "Phantom of the Opera," "Sun Valley Serenade," "Remember the Day," "Gold Rush," "The Southerner," "Casa Blanca" and "Watch on the Rhine."

SOVIET SAID TO HOLD NORTH JAPANESE ISLES

TOKYO, Nov. 9 (AP)—Maj. Gen. R. J. Marshall, Deputy Chief of Staff for Gen. Douglas MacArthur, said today he had heard reports the Russians had occupied five small islands off the east coast of Hokkaido, but "there's nothing definite."

He commented after Japanese sources said relatively light Soviet forces had occupied Kunashiri, Shikotan, Shitosh, Suisho and Taraku Islands. Hokkaido is the northernmost of the Japanese home islands. North of it are the Russian-occupied Kuriles.

The Russians announced the occupation of Kunashiri and Shikotan islands in the southern Kuriles last Sept. 1. They said that the occupation of the two islands had completed the conquest of the entire 1,350-mile chain of Kurile Islands stretching north from the Japanese homeland.

Russ Occupy Isles, Report

Tokyo, Nov. 9 (AP)—Japanese sources said today that Russia had occupied five small islands off the east coast of Hokkaido, northernmost of the Japanese home islands. Relatively light Soviet forces, the sources said, occupied Kunashiri, Shikotan, Shitosu, Suisho and Taraku islands.

Red Share In Jap Reparations Opposed

NOV 10 1945

San Francisco, Nov. 9 (AP)—Edwin W. Pauley, United States representative on the War Reparations Commission, is en route by plane to Tokyo today, convinced of two things — that Japanese economy must be reduced to a bare minimum and that Russia is entitled to little, if any, indemnity for its part in the Pacific war.

He and his newly announced special assistant, United States District Judge Pierson M. Hall, of Los Angeles, began their flight to the Far East here last night.

Pauley said he is anxious to get to Manchuria "as fast as I can" to investigate reports that Russia had been removing industrial machinery from that area.

Assets On Continent

The United State policy, he asserted, is to leave Japanese assets intact in Manchuria and China, where they will be considered part of the reparation payment to the Chinese.

He said here yesterday that the Japanese civilian economy "will be reduced to a bare minimum by removal of every industrial war potential and other equipment not absolutely needed."

Pauley said reparations in Japan will take the same pattern as in Germany, where he was chairman of the American Reparations Delegation. He will now devote his full time to Japan, where he already has a staff of 22 men.

In Goods And Cash

He declined to estimate the amount of indemnity to be set for Japan, but said it would be in both goods and cash.

"I take the position that Russia is entitled to no reparations from the Nipponese, or at best, very slight reparation, since it entered the Pacific war at a very late date," Pauley declared.

His recommendations will be presented to the Far Eastern Advisory Council.

Survey Is Begun

Tokyo, Nov. 9 (AP)—The American Reparations Commission staff began its survey of Japanese economy today in preparation for the determination of Nippon's war bill and how it shall be paid.

H. D. Maxwell, chief adviser to Edwin W. Pauley, American representative to the Allied Reparations Commission, said the group received "splendid co-operation" from Maj. Gen. R. J. Marshall, deputy chief of staff to General MacArthur, and Col. R. C. Kramer, chief of supreme headquarters' economic section.

The Americans will continue preliminary work under Maxwell until Pauley's arrival from the United States.

Graves Of Slain B-29 Flyers Are Found

Tokyo, Nov. 9 (AP)—The crudely marked graves of fourteen executed B-29 flyers, hidden in undergrowth, have been discovered in Osaka, the United States 6th Army disclosed today.

Nine of the fourteen have been identified tentatively by means of names cut on pieces of plank stuck into the ground, but they are being withheld until next of kin have been notified.

The grim discovery resulted from a letter sent to General MacArthur's headquarters by a Korean who told of eighteen flyers being shot down June 5 to 6 during a raid on Osaka.

Prisoners In Basement

The eighteen were brought in as prisoners and held in the basement of the Prefecture Building, where two died a few days later from wounds.

Other Koreans held in the same prison told army investigators that the remaining sixteen were marched daily from prison cells to be questioned by the brutal "thought police." On returning to the cells, the flyers showed signs of beatings.

This routine continued until August 6, when fourteen of the group were taken from the cells blindfolded and deprived of their shoes.

Never Returned

The Koreans said the flyers never returned.

Japanese guards were quoted by the internees as saying the flyers "were guilty of crimes against civilians by bombing their cities and strafing their hospitals and that they were going to be executed."

[The letter the Korean wrote to headquarters said two of the flyers were to be liberated and returned to the United States. Their fate apparently is unknown.]

Sixty Army officers visited the basement of the jail. On the wall they found a calendar with the days chalked off—through August 6. There were seven cells, 5 by 10 feet, with the only ventilation from a small opening high on the cement walls. There was evidence that the flyers, crowded several to a cell, had been forced to kneel for long periods of time in awkward positions.

The graves were found in Sanadayama military cemetery in the heart of Osaka, where Japanese place urns containing the ashes of their military dead.

Even in the case of the nine tentatively identified dead all but one plank marker carried only the last name and rank.

YAMASHITA TRIAL RECESS ORDERED OVER WEEKEND

MANILA, Nov. 9—(AP) Witnesses in somber procession testified today that Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita's soldiers slaughtered 1,000 men, women and children on southern Luzon last March.

When the story of horror and death was done, the military commission hearing war crimes charges against the Japanese general recessed for the week-end to allow the voluminous transcript to be brought up to date.

Much of the populations of the town of Cuenca and nearby villages in the southern province of Batangas perished at the hands of the frenzied Japanese, who knew by then the war was lost, the witnesses said.

Their sad stories of how their villages died had a sameness about them, except that some estimated the death toll higher or lower for it was hard to tell among the corpses how many had fallen.

They said the Japanese would come to the villages, order the people outside, bind them with wire, and then go to work shooting or bayoneting men, women and children.

Or sometimes, as two women witnesses testified earlier in the hearing, the Japanese would vary the technique by herding the panic-stricken Filipinos into ravines, toss in grenades and blaze away with machineguns until all inside ceased to move.

A Filipino girl said she was tied to a mango tree with 16 others and was bayoneted twice. Then the Japanese threw a grenade and she was wounded by 15 fragments.

It was hard to get the testimony because the Filipinos spoke in their own dialect. Once the defense questioned the accuracy of the translater, saying three Filipino newsmen had been catching discrepancies.

The three newsmen were sworn, but about the worst they could testify to was that once the translator said "east" when the witness had said "west."

The commission apologized to the translator for the defense allegations, decided henceforce that two translators would be used, then called a night session to go back over some of the challenged testimony.

At the night session two witnesses were called to tell their stories all over again. The commission ruled they were "substantially" the same as before.

WOMEN RECALL JAP SLAUGHTER

Tell How Families Were Killed in Philippines.

Manila, Nov. 9 (A. P.).—The first details of a mass slaughter perpetrated last February 16 and 18 by the Japanese in a ravine near Taal, Batangas Province, were related today by two black-clad women at Yamashita war crimes trial. Both lost members of their families in the slaughter.

While tears streamed down her cheeks, Mrs. Conchita Lualhati testified that the soldiers of Lieut.-Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita set fire to a village forcing her family to seek refuge in a nearby sugar plantation. Pursuing Japanese diverted the fleeing people toward the ravine.

"I could hear screaming from men, women and children as shootings became intense and the Japanese started showering people with grenades," she told the commission in a halting, choking voice. "The Japanese were dashing around laughing and shouting during this terrible time."

Her husband and 1-year-old daughter were among the more than fifty dead she saw in the ravine.

Juanita Barrion, 26 years old, told of losing her mother, father, three sisters and four brothers. They were victims of machine gun and rifle fire and grenades. She related how, as Japanese fired point blank into the ravine, she pretended to be dead. She left the ravine later to search for food for a four-months'-old brother. When she returned there was only a heap of scattered bones in the area. Exploding grenades had blasted the gory scene.

She said she was unable to ascertain why the Japanese committed the killings and the firing of the villages, inasmuch as no American soldiers were close by.

The Yamashita defense has contended the Japanese in the area acted to crush guerrilla activities which were hampering the Nipponese in their losing defensive campaign.

New Jap Party Claims 250 Diet Members

Tokyo, Nov. 9 (AP)—Kyodo News Agency said today more than 250 Diet members are expected to join the new Minponto or Peoples party when it is organized November 16, promising to make it one of the most influential of the newly created groups.

Kyodo said an extraordinary session of the Diet is expected to be convened about December 1 to consider a Government-drafted bill for revision of the general election law.

Jap Loss Laid To Production Failure

Fukuoka, Japan, Nov. 9 (AP)—A veteran of 34 years' service in the Japanese Navy, Rear Admiral Masao Aoki, today told officers of the United States 32d Division he believed Japan lost the war because the nation failed to meet production needs.

A major factor in the failure to reach war-production goals, he said, was wholesale drafting of skilled workers into the army.

Aoki said the turning point in the war was the combination of Japanese navy defeat at Midway and army defeat at Guadalcanal.

Japan's sole major weapon against invasion near the war's end, he said, was the kamikaze corps, but its planes and their bombloads were too light to be effective.

70,000 Letters A Day To GI's In North Japan

Yokohama, Nov. 9 (AP)—United States troops in northern Japan receive about 70,000 letters daily through the 7th Base Post Office in Yokohama, staffed by 14 officers and 435 enlisted men.

Officers said letters from the United States now reached Japan eight to ten days from the mailing date, but packages required 30 to 90 days en route.

'Our Greatest Hour,' Geiger Tells Marines

Pearl Harbor, Nov. 9 (AP)—"This is our greatest hour," Lieut. Gen. Roy S. Geiger told the men of his command on this the one hundred and seventieth anniversary of the Marine Corps.

"We have developed an invincible amphibious force and our ranks will not be reduced again.

"In memory of those who in death forever guard the beaches of our triumph and in honor of our heroes, both living and dead, let us resolve that the corps will always be faithful and ready."

Geiger also expressed appreciation for efficient and dignified service of the women's reserve.

Navy Refloats 90 Ships at Okinawa

Pearl Harbor, Nov. 9 (A. P.).—Ninety of the 226 vessels beached or sunk at Okinawa by a typhoon early last month have been refloated during the past two weeks, Fleet Headquarters said yesterday. The ninety range from small landing craft to 10,000-ton ships.

The Navy expects to refloat nearly 70 per cent of the 226.

PERON REPORTED WED

Buenos Aires, Nov. 9 (A. P.).—A friend of Col. Juan Peron said today that the 50 year old former Vice-President married Eva Duarte, a tall and attractive blond, on October 18, last. Peron is still considered the strong man behind the Argentine military government. His first wife died in 1939.

The informant said a Buenos Aires municipal official performed the ceremony before intimate freinds, including Government officials in an apartment in Buenos Aires and that the couple now were on a honeymoon at an island resort about twenty miles north of the capital. Peron is expected to run for Persident if elections are held next year.

DOOLITTLE URGES ARMY AIR FORCE OF 400,000 MEN

Says Service Also Wants Post-war Air Reserve of 1,000,000.

Washington, Nov. 9.— (A. P.).—Lieut.-Gen. James H. Doolittle told Senators today that the Army Air Forces wants a post war establishment of 400,000 regular officers and men and a reserve of 1,000,000.

The veteran flier said these figures have been approved by AAF leaders under Gen. H. H. Arnold, AAF chief, but had not yet been accepted by the War Department or joint chiefs of staff.

The former 8th Air Force chief testified before the Senate Military Affairs Committee in favor of a single National Defense Department with air raised to equal power with ground and sea forces.

He outlined the Air Force plans after Senators observed that the Navy had detailed post-war plans while similar data were lacking on air forces.

Pictures Next War.

In response to questioning, Doolittle also offered these opinions:

The next war—if twenty years intervenes—will be conducted by pilotless, gyro-stabilized, radar controlled, and radio-directed projectiles utilizing atomic bombs or some more powerful force.

The battleship now is obsolete. Aircraft carriers now are at their peak development and soon will be obsolescent because they can be sunk.

The United States must maintain a line of far-flung bases for national defense.

For Single Department.

Doolittle, leader of the first air raid on Tokyo, predicted that the nation's future military planes will be able "to go to any part of the world and return to bases in America." Furthermore, he asserted, other countries will have the same sort of air power plus atomic bombs.

To assure the nation's safety in such a world, he contended it is necessary to create a single national defense department, with air co-equal to ground and sea forces.

"No ships can interpose their steel hulls and 16-inch guns between us and that attack," he said.

"No force tied to the ground can counterbalance its threat. It is a threat of air power and it must be met by air power."

The General said that 5,000 first-line bombers, fighters and other military craft must be constantly ready on airfields, with a large reserve of replacements. Approximately 3,000 tactical and training aircraft, he added, should be available for the National Guard Reserve.

The Army is backing plans to consolidate the War and Navy departments, and the Navy is opposing them.

During the Senate committee hearing this morning on the merger plans, Senator Hill D-Ala) asked Doolittle if he would comment about two recent statements Hill attributed to top ranking Navy admirals: one by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz crediting sea power with forcing the Japanese surrender; the other by Admiral Mark Mitscher saying Navy carrier-based craft won the air war with Japan.

War Won by Teamwork

"Admiral Nimitz and Admiral Mitscher are great commanders," said the General who led the first bombing raid on Japan.

"But this war was won by teamwork. Each of the three agencies did its best. No single agency alone was responsible. I do feel very strongly it was not seapower that compelled Japan to sue for peace. And that it was not carrier strength that won the air war.

"Our B-29 boys are resting uneasily in their graves as a result of those two comments."

Army-Navy Merger Plan Battle Rages at Hearing

Doolittle's Testimony Before Senate Group Protested by Forrestal.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—(AP)—The Army-Navy quarrel over proposals to merge the armed forces grew so hot today that the Secretary of the Navy protested directly to the Secretary of War over testimony given by Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle.

Doolittle had told the Senate Military Affairs committee that "our B-29 boys are resting uneasily in their graves" because of naval commanders' claims about the part their forces played in the Pacific victory.

Sends Letter to Patterson

Quickly, Secretary of the Navy Forrestal dispatched a letter to Secretary of War Patterson urging that an "honest difference of principle" not be allowed to "degenerate into an exchange of personalities."

He said he questioned whether "death in any particular line of duty—and the resultant grief at home—should be appealed to in order to advance any individual point of view."

Forrestal wrote Patterson:

"For some time, I have been concerned about the tone of the testimony which Army and Navy officers have been giving before the Senate Military Affairs committee on the merger of the War and Navy departments and this morning an incident occurred which finally prompts me to write you this letter.

"During his testimony this morning, Lt. Gen. Doolittle, referring to statements made by Admirals Nimitz and Mitscher about the role of sea power in the Pacific, said:

'Our B-29 boys are probably resting uneasily in their graves as a result of those statements.' Gen. Doolittle also referred to arguments advanced by witnesses before the committee as 'hypocrisy.' As civilian head of the naval service I should not let charges against high ranking naval officers of hypocrisy of partisanship to the point of callousness go unnoticed. But to avoid adding to the undesirable heat which it seems to me has already entered these deliberations, I refrain from making any direct reply. Moreover, the Navy air-sea record speaks for itself of our concern for the B-29 crews.

"I question whether we should allow the discussion of a proposal on which our departments are divided to lead us into impugning the good faith of people who disagree with us and I question especially whether death in any particular line of duty—and the resultant grief at home—should be appealed to in order to advance any individual point of view. The fact that an officer of Gen. Doolittle's caliber and admitted high qualities could be led to accuse responsible commanders of any service of disregard for the sacrifices made by the men of another service illustrates precisely the general drift of events which gives me such deep concern.

Cannot Revive Spirit

"If we allow an honest difference over principle to degenerate into an exchange of personalities, we shall do irreparable harm to the end which we all seek in the name of national security: The comradeship of all branches of the armed services. Once destroyed in a passing controversy, that spirit cannot be revived by any legislative fiat or organizational chart.

"As I have said before, it seems to me we might avoid such injurious acrimony by elevating this whole deliberation to the level of a special inquiry by a presidential commission on the national security. Such a commission on one aspect of national security—the import of new weapons—was proposed by the joint chiefs of staff in their memorandum to us of Oct. 24. In any event, I hope you will join with me in seeking to keep the discussion of the proposal now before congress free from personalities which may leave lasting scars.

"I particularly want to caution all members of the naval service who may discuss this question publicly or privately against questioning the good faith and humanity of people who disagree with them: For that reason I am making this letter public."

Doolittle, in his testimony, urged an American airforce ready for instant action in any part of the world. He asserted that battleships are now obsolete and carriers are becoming so.

He told the committee that General H. H. Arnold, airforces chief, and other AAF leaders want a post-war establishment of 400,000 regular officers and men to man 5,000 first-line bombers, fighters and other aircraft. They also want a reserve of 1,000,000 officers and men , with 3,000 tactical and training planes, he said.

The agile, partly bald veteran who commanded three air forces during the recent war urged immediate congressional approval of the single national defense agency with air power promoted to equal status with land and sea forces.

TAX REDUCTION BILL SIGNED BY PRESIDENT

NOV 10 1945

Law Will Save Individuals $2,644,000,000 and Business $3,136,000,000—Takes 12,000,000 Off Rolls.

Washington, Nov. 9 (A. P.).—The White House today announced that President Truman had signed the bill giving individuals and business a slash of $5,920,000,000 in 1946 taxes.

Mr. Truman thus became the first President in sixteen years to sign a general tax reduction measure. Not since Herbert Hoover put his signature on a "Christmas present" slash in 1929 has there been an overall reduction of pocketbook levies.

Congressional sponsors of the legislation said it would stimulate business in the reconversion period and create jobs.

The White House announcement this morning said the bill was signed yesterday.

Benefits the New Law Confers.

The legislation does the following:

1. Removes 12,000,000 low income persons from the tax rolls and assures reductions of 10 per cent or more for individuals making up to $50,000 annually. Smaller cuts are provided for those with incomes over $50,000. Total reductions for individuals amount to $2,644,000,000.

2. Provides special tax treatment for veterans of world war II, forgiving all levies on the service pay of enlisted men in wartime and giving officers three years in which to settle with the Government.

3. Clips $3,136,000,000 off the burdens of business next year, principally through repeal of the war-imposed 85.5 per cent excess profits tax on corporations.

4. Repeals the $5 use tax on automobiles and boats at a saving of $140,000,000.

5. Freezes the social security tax in 1946 at 1 per cent on employees' pay and employers' pay rolls. Without the "freeze" this tax would have jumped January 1 to 2.5 per cent for each.

No Cut in Excise Taxes.

The bill makes no change in the excise levies on the so-called luxury items such as liquor, luggage, furs, jewelry and cosmetics.

Congress sent the tax bill to the President amid demands for cuts in Government spending and for a balanced national budget. Sponsors voiced the hope that the 1946 cut would stimulate business and increase national income to such an extent that the Treasury would suffer no actual loss in revenue.

After the $5,920,000,000 cut is made, fiscal experts estimate, the Treasury will collect next year approximately $26,500,000,000. They said the national debt will increase by about $12,000,000,000 in 1946. Revenues hit a peak of more than $45,000,000,000 in 1944. They were about $5,000,000,000 annually before the war.

12 Millions Off Tax Rolls.

The bill removes from the tax rolls next year the 12,000,000 persons who now pay only the 3 per cent normal tax levied on all net income above $500 regardless of the number of a taxpayer's dependents. This is accomplished by applying the individual surtax exemptions—$500 for the taxpayer and $500 for each of his dependents—to the normal tax. This means that a man with a wife pays no income tax until his earnings pass $1,000. If he has one child, taxes do not start until he earns over $1,500. The exemption increases by $500 with each dependent.

For individuals, the new law also cuts three percentage points off each of the graduated surtax brackets, and after the taxpayer computes his bill on this basis, he is allowed to make a further cut of 5 per cent on the total before sending his check to the tax collector.

In addition to repeal of the excess profits tax, corporations benefit by elimination of the capital stocks and declared value excess profits levies, and reductions in the combined normal and surtaxes ranging from 2 to 4 per cent, depending on the size of earnings.

Shouts Mark Sharp Clashes Over Pearl Harbor in Senate

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—(AP) A Republican senator accused White House advisors today of using "devilish ingenuity" in an asserted effort to restrict information reaching Pearl Harbor investigators from Army and Navy files.

Senator Brewster (R-Me) threw the accusation in a shouted Senate argument as the Pearl Harbor row boiled over again on both sides of the capitol.

The Senate dispute arose over a supplemental memorandum issued today by President Truman, requesting government department heads to authorize their employes to volunteer information to any members of the Senate-House committee investigating the Dec. 7, 1941 disaster.

The memorandum concluded with the notation that "this does not include any files or written materials."

The Democratic contention is that only the committee as such, or its counsel, should have access to the files. The Republican argument is that individual members should be permitted to see the records, and that the Truman directive today would prevent government officials from even discussing information in the files with individual committee members.

Depends on Advisers

Brewster told his colleagues he thought Mr. Truman had depended on his White House advisers and cabinet members in signing the new order. The Maine senator said the President was "dependent on the Secretary of the Navy, the Secretary of War, Samuel I. Rosenman and White House advisers in this matter."

He went on to say the order "seems to have been designed with devilish ingenuity to leave the members of the executive department up in the air as to what they are supposed to do."

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich), who with Brewster touched off the Senate row, declared:

"If the committee is to be crippled, if it is to go into this investigation on crutches, then the Senate wants to know and Congress wants to know and the people want to know."

Brewster added:

"This new order seems to make it impossible for us to discuss with Army and Navy officials and government employes information that is contained in the files."

Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky, chairman of the investigating committee said the Republicans were attempting to create an impression that the committee is being "gagged" and those who want to see the inquiry fail would like that.

"The President has done exactly what we asked him to do and that is to permit people in the government to volunteer any information they have," Barkley contended.

"When the public has heard the testimony, it will be entirely satisfied with the course this committee has voted to pursue," Barkley added.

New Tax Table

NOV 10 1945

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—The table below shows the amounts of Federal income tax that will be withheld from pay envelopes in 1946 under the $5,920,000,000 tax reduction bill, and compares them with tax money withheld this year.

The table is based on one-week pay roll periods.

[Note: A single man ordinarily would claim one withholding exemption, a married man with wife and one child three exemptions, etc. The "none" exemption column is designed for use where both spouses work and where one wishes to give the other advantage of both exemptions.]

'Changed' Views On 1941 Attack Face Checkup

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) said today he wants to know why some army officers reportedly changed their stories about the Pearl Harbor disaster.

Ferguson said he and Senator Brewster (R., Maine) will ask the Senate-House Investigating Committee to call before it some of the officers Brewster has contended "repudiated in substantial respects" testimony they had given before an army inquiry board.

"We want some of these officers called in and asked why they changed their stories," Ferguson said.

Cites Affidavits

"We want to know how it was possible for their memory of events to be better three years after the attack than it was earlier."

Ferguson added that he was referring to changes in testimony he said came about through the collection of affidavits by Major Henry C. Clausen of the Judge Advocate General's Department.

Brewster read in the Senate last week an order by former Secretary of War Stimson which made secret and top-secret papers available to Clausen.

"Amazing Contradictions"

The Maine Senator told his colleagues that Clausen was sent around the world to get affidavits with the result that some "amazing contradictions" developed in testimony.

Chairman Barkley (D., Ky.) of the Senate-House group said Stimson will probably be called as a witness during the hearings which begin next Thursday.

Barkley also listed former Secretary of State Hull as a likely witness.

"Won't Be Prepared"

Ferguson contended that the committee's 6-to-4 rejection yesterday of his motion to delay the start of hearings until November 23 would find members unprepared for the testimony.

"We are being asked to start without making adequate preparations," he said. "I understand the exhibits which will be placed in the record won't be ready for study until Monday."

Ferguson added that a revised order President Truman is expected to issue still would leave Republican members "operating on a crutch."

What Order Would Permit

The proposed order would permit Government employés to volunteer information to individual committee members but would not allow them to look into departmental files unless the committee itself orders such a search by a subcommittee.

Brewster got one Democratic vote yesterday on his request for permission to look into Navy files. But he lost on a five-to-five tie, despite the temporary support of Senator George (D., Ga.). It takes a majority for a motion to carry in the committee.

Capt. Kramer Ready to Testify

NOV 10 1945

Pearl Harbor Figure Denies He Is Held Incommunicado in Hospital.

Washington, Nov. 9 (A. P.).—Capt. Alwin D. Kramer, naval intelligence officer, said today he was "prepared to testify at any time" in the House-Senate investigation of the Pearl Harbor disaster. He is a patient at Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital.

Representative Keefe (R.-Wis.) a member of the investigating committee, told the House Tuesday that a Capt. Kramer, whom he did not further identify, was "one of the most vital and important witnesses" in the inquiry, but that committee members had not been allowed to see him.

Keefe stated that "whole legions of stories had arisen about the manner in which Kramer had fallen into ill health.

In a statement released through the Navy Department, Capt. Kramer said:

"I did not desire to make a statement to the press, but will do so in view of the grossly incorrect and distorted statements that appeared in the newspapers.

"I have been a patient in the hospital for some weeks and as for my being beset and beleagured as the newspapers said, I'm feeling very well. My treatment by the Navy has been as fair and considerate as it could possibly be. Statements appearing in the press earlier in the week are as far from the truth as could possibly be.

"As regards the issues in this case—the question of testifying before the committee of Congress investigating Pearl Harbor—I am available at any time and have been available to the committee and am prepared to state fully anything I know that they may want to know. I was not held incommunicado.

"The proper approach simply was not made to see me. I was downtown shopping yesterday when attempts were made to interview me.

"The dental work and other things that I am being treated for does not necessitate my staying each day in the hospital. I can leave the hospital at my own discretion."

Calls Search Impeded.

Meanwhile, Senator Brewster (R.-Me.) reported that President Truman had declined to sign an order to permit individual members of the Senate-House committee to collect evidence on the Pearl Harbor attack.

The order, he said, was unanimously recommended by the committee. Instead, he told reporters, the President had signed an order which the Maine Senator interpreted as not allowing Government officials to discuss with committee members information contained in Government files.

Brewster said that the order differed from a draft discussed with the President yesterday over the telephone by Chairman Barkley in the presence of other committee members. Barkley had said Mr. Truman agreed to the terms of the order in the telephone conservation.

The new order signed today, Brewster said, specificially bars individual members from searching Government files. Republicans had requested such authority but it had been denied by the committee.

2 Broad Plans To Help Veterans Gain Support

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—Two broad projects to help veterans resume peacetime pursuits attracted strong support in Congress today.

One proposal is to revise the GI Bill of Rights to simplify loan procedure and liberalize educational benefits. It passed the Senate unanimously yesterday. House leaders said they expected speedy concurrence.

Program For Jobs

The other plan is to have a Federal agency formulate a co-ordinated national program to help veterans get jobs.

Under identical bills proposed yesterday by six legislators, the wartime Retraining and Re-employment Administration would be revitalized and put to work on the program.

The measure was introduced by Senator Magnuson (D., Wash.) for himself and Senators Edwin C. Johnson (R., Col.) and Wayne Morse (R., Ore.) and by Representatives Edith Nourse Rogers (R., Mass.), Domengeaux (D., La.) and Savage (D., Wash.).

Provisions Of Legislation

The legislation directs the agency to "formulate a veterans' job and integrated national program" which shall:

1. Explore and foster trades and sciences to provide work.
2. Develop natural resources.
3. Perfect transportation development.
4. Provide for scientific research for new industries.
5. Provide training and education to equip veterans for new jobs.
6. Make plans to forestall unemployment.
7. Co-ordinate Federal functions relating to veterans.
8. Assist and co-operate with local governments in a uniform pattern of help for veterans.
9. Develop service centers to give veterans advice, information and counsel.

NIMITZ UNOPPOSED TO JAP-AMERICANS

IN NAVAL SERVICE

NOV 10 1945

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP) Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander of the U. S. Pacific fleet, asserted today he has no personal objection to enlistment of Japanese-Americans in the navy.

Nimitz's views were expressed in a letter released by the Japanese American Citizens league. It was in reply to a request from the league for his comment on the Navy policy of not accepting Americans of Japanese descent.

The letter said that Japanese-Americans had served with distinction with the U. S. Army "as interpreters, as fighting men and in other activities," he added:

"The Navy policy of non-acceptance of such citizens was promulgated as a matter of general expediency early in the war. The Navy department has stated that this policy is not to be construed as reflecting on the loyalty of any applicant.

"I feel that I cannot comment on this policy because I have borne neither responsibility nor authority in its formulation.

"However, such a policy is always subject to re-evaluation.

"Personally I have no objection to acceptance by the Navy of United States citizens of Japanese descent, provided they meet all other usual requirements."

Joe Grant Masaoka, respresentative of the league, had said in his letter to Nimitz that Japanese-Americans in the Army had served side by side with the Marines, a branch of the Navy, in some Pacific campaigns.

End of O. P. A. And Rationing By Feb. 15 Urged

N. A. M. Also Advocates Freedom of Workers to 'Join or Not Join Union'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP).—Removal of all Office of Price Administration price ceilings and rationing by next Feb. 15 and freedom of workers "to join or not to join a union" were advocated today by the National Association of Manufacturers.

The N. A. M., which said it represented 80 per cent of the nation's industrial concerns, presented its reconversion proposals to the House Committee on Post-War Planning, headed by Representative William M. Colmer, Democrat, of Mississippi.

Speaking for the association, John Airey, president of the Kings-Seeley Corporation, of Ann Arbor, Mich., said, "Industry finds itself caught in a squeeze resulting from the rise in costs of production and the restrictions upon prices."

The N. A. M. made these other recommendations:

1. Discontinuance of war-time subsidies not later than the termination of price control.

2. Repeal of the excess-profits tax on Dec. 31, 1945, and a 20 per cent cut in corporation and individual income tax burdens. (The tax revision bill recently approved by Congress and signed by President Truman repeals the excess-profits tax and reduces individual and corporation burdens, though not by 20 per cent).

3. Foreign finance and foreign shipping should again be trusted to individual enterprise.

4. Immediate clarification by Congress of the exact legal rights of veterans in so far as jobs in industry are concerned.

Mr. Airey said that if any price-control regulation is to be continued it should be rent controls, except on new buildings.

Clarence E. Randall, vice-president of the Inland Steel Company, of Chicago, presented the N. A. M.'s labor views, saying:

"The association advocates the re-establishment of free collective bargaining at the plant level. I use the word re-establishment intentionaly because in many ways and at many times during the last few years it has not been free. . . .

"The association advocates the establishment of equality of responsibility and obligation in the performance of labor contracts. For many years past it has been the employer only who has been held responsible. . . .

"The association urgently advocates the elimination of compulsory payments by workers as a condition for securing or retaining employment. If the American tradition is to be maintained, each working man must be free to join or not join a union as he may desire. And it follows from this that he must be free to resign from a union which he has previously joined if he no longer finds himself in sympathy with the leadership or objectives of that organization.

"The doctrine of union maintenance and compulsory check-off was imposed upon industry during the war without its consent, and industry must be freed from that conspiracy to coerce the individual freedom of the worker."

Robert R. Wason, president of Manning, Maxwell & Moore, Inc., of New York, and chairman of the N. A. M. Reconversion Council, presented the council's general recommendations.

SENATOR CHARGES FEDERAL WORKERS CONDUCT LOBBY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—(AP) Government employes were accused in the Senate today of lobbying to get their own bureaus and agencies exempted from proposed authority for President Truman to reorganize the Federal government.

Senators Lucas (D-Ill.) and Hatch (D-N.M.) told their colleagues they had heard of such activity.

"Why I have even had telephone calls from as far away as New Mexico," Hatch said.

NOV 10 1945

NOV 10 1945

Lucas asked why employes of any agency which was functioning properly should be "up here lobbying."

Nothing to Fear

"If they are operating their bureaus to give the taxpayer value received, they have nothing to fear from reorganization," he declared.

The Senate debated the reorganization bill for nearly three hours but reached no vote before getting sidetracked onto a discussion of the Pearl Harbor inquiry.

Leaders hope to get back on the measure next Tuesday.

The legislation would authorize the President to draft plans for shifts and consolidations of agencies to effect economy and efficiency and to submit those plans to Congress.

Chief point of controversy is the circumstance under which such plans would have effect of law.

Under the bill as reported by the Judiciary committee, a plan would be effective within 60 days after submission unless House or Senate adopted a resolution disapproving it.

Before the Senate are two amendments.

One, by Senator Donnell (R-Mo.), would require that both Senate and House adopt a resolution of approval before any plan became effective.

The other, by Senator Byrd (D-Va.), would let the plans become effective unless both Senate and House adopted resolutions of disapproval within 60 days.

Amendment Assailed

Hatch assailed Donnell's amendment as one which would "absolutely kill the bill." With its adoption, he declared, there would be no point at all in the legislation since the President can now submit any legislative proposal he desires, including suggested changes in government structure, to Congress for its affirmative action.

Donnell replied that without his amendment Congress would be giving the President an "unconstitutional delegation" of legislative powers.

Byrd, veteran advocate of economy in government, argued for his amendment, saying "12 years of study have convinced me that that is the only way we can get worthwhile reorganization."

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) asked whether any money was saved under the reorganization authority given the late President Roosevelt by Congress in 1939. Byrd said that none had, but added that President Truman is "far more economy-minded" than his predecessor.

"That reorganization was conducted by Franklin D. Roosevelt and this is going to be conducted by Harry S. Truman," the Virginian asserted. "In my mind that is a great distinction."

The House already has passed a reorganization bill containing a provision similar to Byrd's. Its measure exempts only six agencies completely from reorganization.

The bill reported by the Judiciary committee exempted 13 and one more—the Army Engineers—has been added by floor vote.

FORD'S EMPLOYES VOTE FOR STRIKE BY NEARLY 11 TO 1

NOV 10 1945

Favor Walkout if Necessary to Force 30 Pct. Wage Increase.

G-M OFFER SCORNED

C.I.O. Union Rejects General Motors' Offer of 8 to 10 Pct. Hike.

DETROIT, Nov. 9—(AP) More than 90 per cent of the Ford Motor Co. employes voting in a National Labor Relations board election favored striking to support their 30 per cent wage increase demands, the NLRB announced tonight.

The vote was 42,235 for a strike and 3,951 against, with 372 ballots voided.

Three-Day Ballot

The strike vote, the third conducted by the NLRB among C. I. O. United Auto Workers' members in plants of the auto industry's "big three," was taken over a three-day period.

General Motors corporation and Chrysler Corp. employes already have voted overwhelmingly in favor of strikes to back their wage boost demands.

The UAW-CIO petitioned for the strike elections when it presented its wage increase demands to the auto industry. Union leaders emphasized, however, that the strike vote did not necessarily mean a strike would be called. They said every effort would be made to settle the dispute peacefully.

G-M Offer Rejected

Meanwhile the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers' union again rejected a General Motors offer of an eight to 10 per cent cost of living wage increase and assailed the proposal "as pure economic poison."

The rejection was contained in a brief filed at the resumption of negotiations over the union demand for a 30 per cent wage rate increase. Previously the union had filed with the National Labor Relations board a charge of unfair labor practices against the corporation and the management had asserted the charges were "unjust and absurd and not borne out by the facts."

The corporation's proposal, the union brief asserted would mean "in the automobile industry, a return within three years to the three or four day work week and six months working year for those who get jobs at all."

It would mean, the union brief went on, "unemployment and shrinkage of purchasing power among wage earners, farmers, professional people and over-saving by management and stockholders of big corporations." This, the union contended, would result in "chronic mass unemployment, scarcity in the midst of over-production and want in the midst of surpluses."

General Motors' offer of a cost-of-living wage increase, to cover upturns since Jan. 1, 1941, was contained in a brief filed by the corporation at the wage negotiations on Nov. 7.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 — (AP) The labor-management conference was said today to have cleared the collective bargaining shoals on which the postwar parley of 1919 foundered.

Dr. George W. Taylor, conference secretary, gave this word to reporters as employer and worker delegates, behind closed committee doors, sought agreement on basic labor relations issues.

Dr. Taylor, former War Labor board chairman, said that in all of the six conference committees it was "fair to say" that there was full acceptance of the collective bargaining principle.

Twenty-six years ago the conference that followed World War I broke up in angry disagreement because it could not adopt a resolution stating that workers are entitled to be represented by unions or persons of their own choosing

While such a right now is written into the Wagner labor relations act, Taylor seemed to view this general acceptance of the principle as a wholesome indication for the current sessions.

Procedures Being Studied

However, the committee set up to study collective bargaining declarations which could be endorsed by the conference has made no report thus far, and Dr. Taylor said it was "still analyzing" procedures.

A committee on existing collective agreements studying wildcat and "quickie" strikes, Taylor said, appeared to be in agreement that if there is to be a no-strike, no lockout clause in contracts, there must be some quick terminal point in grievance procedure. A provision for deciding grievances based on contract interpretations is needed, Taylor said.

NOV 10 1945

"A great number of strikes occur under existing agreements," said the conference secretary, "but we can't say there won't be strikes unless there is somebody to say this is how such and such a clause is to be determined in the contract. It is pretty generally agreed that we must have no-strike, no-lockout clauses, that it is almost standard now."

The committee on representation and jurisdictional questions was engaged in analyzing National Labor Relations board procedures and exploring the possible improvement of machinery for the settlement of jurisdictional disputes by the unions themselves.

A committee looking into ways to strengthen the conciliation service is hearing conciliation commissioners and others.

Other Labor Activity

Other labor developments:

After a conference between OPA Administrator Chester Bowles and Benjamin F. Fairless, president of U. S. Steel corporation, an OPA spokesman said Bowles had promised to make a decision on steel price increases as soon as possible.

Fairless rejected a proposal by Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach to negotiate with the C. I. O. Steelworkers on their $2-a-day wage increase demand with a special conciliator looking on. Fairless based his rejection on the ground that price increases already were overdue and that the corporation required assurance that any further wage increases would be offset by price allowances.

Representatives of the C. I. O. Steelworkers and the Pullman-Standard Car Co., Chicago, were summoned by the War Labor board to a compliance conference before Disputes Director Peter Seitz, to discuss the company's reported rejection of a WLB directive on computing vacation pay.

President Truman sent a letter to WLB Chairman Lloyd K. Garrison, setting forth a policy for performing wage stabilization functions which do not expire under the stabilization act until next June 30. The board itself is striving to liquidate before Jan. 1.

G.M. Calls Union Charge 'Unjust And Absurd'

NOV 10 1945

Detroit, Nov. 9 (AP)—General Motors Corporation today described as "unjust and absurd" union charges that it has refused to bargain collectively over the demand for a 30 per cent wage rate increase for its 325,000 employes.

The company statement, issued a few hours after the United Auto Workers (CIO) filed a complaint with the National Labor Relations Board here, said the union's position was "not borne out by the facts."

"Our Proposals Rejected"

"The union has demanded 52 hours' pay for 40 hours' work and General Motors has made two counterproposals, the latest of which was an increase of approximately ten per cent to cover an adjustment in the cost of living that has occurred between January, 1941, and September, 1945," the G.M. statement declared.

"The union rejected both of our proposals but, notwithstanding, the union's charges, General Motors will . . . continue today discussions of our latest proposals," declared H. W. Anderson, G.M. vice president.

Reuther Also To Talk On

Walter P. Reuther, UAW vice president, who filed the union complaint, also indicated willingness to continue negotiations in an effort to settle the wage controversy.

"As far as we are concerned, we'll still continue negotiations, hoping the corporation's attitude will change and that they will begin to bargain in good faith," he asserted.

Reuther, in his petition for Government intercession in the dispute, charged that the corporation "while pleading inability to pay a wage increase," declined to discuss its "ability to pay" with the union.

Conciliation Situation

In Washington, the United States Conciliation Service declined comment on the UAW's charges, but said that if the company now agrees, it will name conciliators to attend the union-management meetings. The company previously rejected a union proposal for presence of the conciliators.

Additional importance was attached to the General Motors situation as preliminary reports from all sections of the country showed that Ford Motor Company workers had followed the lead of Chrysler and General Motors in calling for a strike if their demands are not met.

Lewis May Offer All-Labor Wage Plan At Parley

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—John L. Lewis may try to draft a wage bargaining policy on which labor's divided forces can unite at President Truman's labor-management conference.

Lewis last night denounced a resolution offered by Philip Murray, president of the CIO, declaring it would limit labor's wage gains to the price advances of "a bottle of milk, a pair of shoes or a straw hat."

On Investors And Industry

With support from William Green, AFL president, Lewis outlined to the conference's executive committee—and later to reporters—a wage program that would free labor to seek whatever it could "reasonably" get.

"We believe in the right of investors to get a return on their investment, of industry to make a profit, of labor to negotiate freely," the mine workers' chief said after a clash with Murray in the closed committee meeting.

Free competition within industry, as peacetime production rises, Lewis said, will serve as a "limitation on prices and a brake on profits, while increased efficiency and competition will lower the cost of articles to the consumer."

Murray's Resolution

Asked whether he would try to frame some declaration of wage bargaining policy on which all of labor's 36 delegates to the conference could agree, Lewis paused, then said: "We might come to that."

Murray's much-disputed resolution, held in the executive committee since Monday, would put the labor-management meeting on record as favoring full and prompt collective bargaining under the wage policy broadcast last week by President Truman—that wage rises are "imperative."

Although Murray's resolution did not mention the price-control phases of Mr. Truman's wage-price message to the nation, Lewis held that these were part of the policy. He denounced Murray's entire resolution as "innocuous, feeble and namby-pamby."

Lewis On Price Control

Lewis told reporters his free-bargaining theory did not mean that he advocated immediate abolition of price controls. He said he believed Mr. Truman meant to do that at the "opportune moment."

But he said the UMW could not subscribe to "Government control of prices and profits and the fixation of wage scales" as a policy to which labor should adhere. "Our economy must be a free economy," he said. "We cannot base a post-war economy within the limitations laid down by the President."

AFL Chief Backs Lewis

Fred C. Smith, the conference press officer, said that Green expressed himself "in full accord with everything Lewis said" on the wage question. Smith also predicted that the Murray resolution would be altered before it reached the floor.

Management delegates were merely spectators to the feud in labor's ranks, but one issued a statement indicating impatience with the protracted controversy over wage and price questions. "The conference's job as we see it," said Herman W. Steinkraus, president of the Bridgeport Brass Company, Bridgeport, Conn., "is to find and outline ways and means of improving the practices of genuine collective bargaining. Let's get on with the job."

Lewis's Unanimity Fight

However, still another conference fight swirled around Lewis, who holds only one of the labor delegation's eighteen votes. The AFL and CIO have eight each, and the railway brotherhoods one. Management's eighteen votes are divided between the National Association of Manufacturers and the United States Chamber of Commerce.

The UMW chief is advocating that any decision of the conference be unanimous. The tentative rule at present requires assent of fifteen delegates from each side.

Would Give Veto Power

"That would disenfranchise six of the 36 delegates," Lewis said. "It goes against the standard rule of bargaining, the 'unit vote' system under which management and labor must achieve unanimity before any decision is approved."

Asked whether the "unit rule" woud not allow a single delegate to block any convention action, Lewis replied: "Certainly, but no one company or union is going to be bound anyway by any decision it doesn't vote for."

Murray Hits U.S. Steel

While conference committees plowed through preliminary tasks, some delegates spent off-hours at other things.

Murray, holding a news conference after yesterday's session, denounced as "shocking and arrogant" the action of the United States Steel Corporation in refusing a proposal of Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach that the company and the CIO United Steel Workers resume wage negotiations immediately. The union accepted the proposal.

LIQUIDATION OF 3 HIGGINS PLANTS VOTED

Stockholders Back Chief On Closing Down Due To Labor Troubles

NOV 10 1945

New Orleans, Nov. 9 (AP)—Stockholders decided today to liquidate three Higgins Industries, Inc., boat-building plants which have been beset by labor troubles.

They unanimously backed up President Andrew J. Higgins, Sr., who closed the plants November 1 in the midst of a strike by 2,000 American Federation of Labor workers.

The first union reaction came from William L. Donnels, publicity chairman.

"Playing To Galleries" Charged

"I think Higgins is still playing to the galleries," Donnels said. "He has the idea of striking a mortal blow at labor and making of himself a martyr and hero overnight. But it is not working out that way.

"I think he planned all along to liquidate Higgins Industries."

A stockholders' announcement said that the out-of-court liquidation would take place immediately under Higgins and Morris Gottesmann, secretary-treasurer, who led the company through a vast wartime invasion craft construction program.

"Does this mean that Andrew Higgins is through in New Orleans?" the boatbuilder was asked.

"Higgins Not Through; Period"

"You asked me if Andrew Higgins is through in New Orleans," came the reply. "Andrew Higgins is not through. Period."

Beyond that, he would not amplify the stockholders' statement, which declared that existing contracts would be carried out "if possible" by the liquidators.

Higgins would not clarify the point of whether "existing contracts" meant a backlog of $40,000,000 in contracts claimed by the company for pleasure and commercial craft.

Gottesmann later explained, however, that this clause referred to approximately $5,000,000 worth of contracts on which work already is under way or for which parts have been fabricated. If they are completed, he estimated, about 1,000 persons will be employed until next March.

Stockholders' Statement

The stockholders' statement follows:

"The stockholders of Higgins Industries, Inc., have to announce that in accordance with the announced intention of its president, Andrew J. Higgins, Sr., on November 1 and in accordance with the recommendations of the committee of its board of directors, they have unanimously voted to place the company and all of its subsidiaries in voluntary liquidation out of court and have appointed Andrew J. Higgins, Sr., and Morris Gottesmann coliquidators.

"The liquidation of the company's affairs becomes effective immediately.

"The liquidators will, if it is possible for them to do so, complete all contracts on hand."

The Subsidiaries Involved

The subsidiaries involved, said Gottesmann, are the Higgins Engine Company, located in one of the strike-bound plants, and the Higgins Plastics and Aircraft companies. The two latter, at the Government-owned Michaud plant here, are manufacturing atomic-bomb parts and airborne rescue boats, both for the Army.

The Michaud plant had experienced no labor troubles.

Gottesmann said the majority of the company's stock was owned by himself, Higgins and S. W. Labrot, of New Orleans. There are "about ten minority stockholders," he said.

"Absolutely no opposition" was raised to the liquidation at the stockholders' meeting, Gottesmann declared, asserting that "it was entirely unanimous."

Unions To Insist On Probe

Donnels said he planned to confer with union officials on the announcement, and added that a statement may be forthcoming later from the union committee.

"The AFL unions will insist more strongly than ever now upon an investigation of the closing of the plants," Donnels added. "If necessary, we'll even send a delegation to Washington."

The unions have asked President Truman and Congress to make an investigation.

Donnels, discussing the pending Higgins case before the War Labor Board, said:

"Higgins barred our representatives from his plants and told the War Labor Board to go to hell, in so many words, and we just couldn't work under those conditions."

New Orleans Wants Higgins

A. C. Terrebonne, president of the Young Men's Business Club, after a conversation with Higgins late today, told the New Orleans Times-Picayune:

"Mr. Higgins says he's through and that he has offers from everyone in the United States. He says he doesn't feel that the people in New Orleans are doing enough to keep him here."

"We are going to do everything within our power to keep Higgins operating in New Orleans," Terrebonne said.

Says Contracts Must Be Kept

Senator Vandenberg Declares Violations Imperil Bargaining and Must Stop.

Washington, Nov. 9 (A. P.).—Senator Vandenberg (R.-Mich.) told the Senate today that a trend toward violation of union-management agreements reached through collective bargaining must be stopped before it becomes intolerable.

NOV 10 1945

He based his speech on a two-day work stoppage earlier this week by employees of the Capital Transit Company in Washington.

"The public suffered," he said. "The public business suffered, but the biggest casualty was the integrity of collective bargaining contracts."

He said he was convinced from a study of the contract that the work stopage was in violation of at least two clauses.

"This kind of irresponsibility cannot exist much longer," he declared, adding: "I am not talking about wages, hours or working conditions. I am talking about honor, about the faith by which men live."

He said the labor-management conference now in progress here would fully justify its existence if it found either an effective voluntary formula to prevent such occurrences, or point the way toward appropriate legislation to establish collective bargaining on a basis of mutual responsibility.

Collective Bargaining Accepted.

George W. Taylor, secretary of the labor-management conference, said today that it is fair to say that in every committee there has been full acceptance of collective bargaining.

The former chairman of the War Labor Board told a news conference that this was the issue which broke up a similar conference after the first world war, called by President Wilson in 1919.

The greatest dissension so far in President Truman's conference has been within the ranks of labor. John L. Lewis may try to draft a wage bargaining policy on which labor's divided forces may unite.

Taylor declared that the committee on grievance procedure appears to be in agreement that there must be some terminal point to grievance procedure if there is to be no-strike, no lockout provisions in the contracts.

Must Be Time Limit.

This means, he said, that there must be some provision for a final interpretation of contract clauses to dispose of grievances which frequently lead to strikes.

Taylor expressed the opinion that in order to make termina procedure work there must be a time limit within which decisions can be obtained by the ultimate umpire.

Taylor said hearings would be held Wednesday to determine whether these independent unions should be given representation. One union asking admission is the independent unions of New Jersey, whose members picketed the conference on its opening day.

WAR ATTITUDE HELD LACKING

Navy Official Assails Rush Toward Demobilization

San Francisco, Nov. 9 (AP)—H. Struve Hensel, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, said today that "what is most terrifying" in the nation's rush toward demobilization "is that we have already demobilized our thinking."

"Scarcely a vestige of our war attitude remains," Hensel said in an address before the San Francisco Comomnwealth Club. "We may still realize that there are problems to be solved if we are to remain secure. But we want an easy solution—a stroke of magic."

Suggestions Criticized

The assistant secretary said "there is a startling resemblance in our expressions of thought to those of the thirties.

"There are the cliches to the effect that we fought for the right to avoid fighting again. There are suggestions that everyone now should look out for himself. . . .

"We are completely enchanted with the thought that our national security may be preserved by the simple sweep of the pen, such as a revolutionary merger of the armed services. We are carried away by the suggestion that future wars will be fought with push buttons. That will mean nothing for us to do.

'Essentials Of Power'

"There does not seem to exist any longer the sturdy belief that trained men, mobilized materials, applied brains and patriotic self-sacrifice are the essentials of strength. . . . Whether we want to face it, our thinking has turned away from country to self. That is the path which leads to weakness and not strength."

Terming such things as universal military training, retention of sea power and conservation of natural resources "essentials of power," Hensel added:

"Proper national thinking is, however, the primary source from which all such trappings of power will flow."

WALLACE SAYS FIGURES STAND

NOV 10 1945

Secretary of Commerce Replies to A. M. A. Charge.

Washington, Nov. 9 (A. P.).—Secretary of Commerce Wallace maintains that there is "no basis" for an assertion by automobile manufacturers that the public was "grossly misled" by a Commerce report on wages and prices. His views were expressed in a letter, made public today, to the Automobile Manufacturers Association.

Last week Wallace issued a report stating that the department had decided a 10 per cent wage increase could be granted workers in industry generally without increasing prices. The report added that automobile industry workers could be granted a 15 per cent increase in 1946 and additional 10 per cent increase in 1947 without a price rise.

At a news conference earlier this week, George Romney, general manager of the A. M. A., said the Wallace report was "doubtful as to validity," and, "at worst, wholly unfounded on fact." Wallace's letter was in reply to statements made by Romney at this conference.

"This report," said the secretary, referring to the Commerce Department analysis, "has been in preparation since early in the year. The department continually carries out analyses of the economis situation and prepares reports on current developments.

"The report in question summarizes a detailed and comprehensive study of sales, costs, productivity and profits. This study was prepared by able statisticians who analyzed all available data, such data coming in large part from the published reports of the automobile companies. There is no basis for your conclusion that the public was grossly mislead."

What Romney Challenged.

Romney had challenged commerce figures and statements on productivity. He asserted that there was a decline in the 20's and 30's and criticized the department for making contrary assertions. Wallace in his letter said the Commerce Department, which was using Bureau of Labor statistics, was referring to 1929-1939 output per man-hour when it reported an increase while Romney evidently interpreted the report as referring to total production.

Wallace agreed that Bureau of Labor Statistics data showed that total production in 1939 was one-fourth less than 1929. He said the report did not say, that every company was in a position to give an equal wage rate increase.

22 NAVAL FLIERS PERISH IN CRASH OF TWO PLANES

NOV 10 1945

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Nov. 9 —(AP) Five bodies have been recovered from Corpus Christi bay today, scene of the collision of two Navy planes which cost the lives of 22 men last night.

Two long-range patrol seaplanes, skimming about 200 feet above the surface of the bay in the dark, collided and sank about eight miles out.

Six survivors were picked up. One died at the Naval hospital, and the condition of the other five was reported serious but favorable today.

The bodies of 16 other men listed by the Navy as "presumed lost" are still being sought.

Naval officials said today that one plane was taking off from Spoil island, a minor naval base, and the other was coming in for a landing.

After the collision one plane plummeted into the waters immediately but the pilot of the second plane fought a short vain battle to regain control. His ship was seen to wobble awkwardly and then fall, striking the water with terrific force.

Both ships were of the type known as "Mariners."

The accident was one of the most serious ever to occur at the naval base here, one of the largest in the nation.

Names of the victims have not been released.

President, Premier Confer Tomorrow

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—President Truman set aside a White House spare room tonight for Prime Minister Attlee, who arrives tomorrow for atomic-energy discussions which may influence the future of world peace.

Occupied with preparations for the conferences, in which the two will be joined by Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada, the President decided to forego his usual weekly news conference.

While British newspapers speculated that there was a possibility of a "Big Three" meeting soon, both the Prime Minister's office and the White House denied knowledge of any plans of Generalissimo Stalin of Russia to visit Washington.

To Meet Aboard Yacht

The President, Mr. Attlee and Mackenzie King will hold a policy discussion aboard a yacht on the Potomac Sunday after paying an Armistice Day visit to Arlington National Cemetery.

At the cemetery, in an 11 A.M. ceremony, they will place wreaths on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier and the near-by grave of Sir John Dill, former British representative on the combined chiefs of staff.

Lord Halifax, British Ambassador; James F. Byrnes, Secretary of State, and Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy, the President's chief of staff, will participate in the discussions Sunday afternoon.

State Dinner Set Tonight

The two distinguished visitors will be honored at a state dinner at the White House tomorrow night.

President Truman, who has emphasized his belief that the know-how behind the manufacture of the atomic bomb should remain the secret of the three partner nations, is anxious to outlaw its use.

He said some time ago that he would initiate discussions with the British and Canadians looking to its renunciation and later bring other nations into the discussion.

ATOMIC AGE GOVERNMENT ADVOCATED

NOV 10 1945

United Nations Charter 'Pitifully Inadequate,' Says Minnesotan

Cincinnati, Nov. 9 (AP)—Senator Ball (R., Minn.), calling the United Nations Charter "pitifully inadequate" in the atomic age, urged tonight a new international conference to strengthen it to a "superstate."

In a speech at a meeting of the Cincinnati Foreign Policy Institute, the Senator proposed that the United States, Britain and Canada take the lead in calling a conference at which the delegations would be "half politicians and half scientists."

To anyone who might wonder whether Russia would agree, he suggested that the Soviet leaders were "tough-minded realists" and added:

"Perhaps an invitation to Russia's leaders and scientists to observe a demonstration of the atomic bomb dropped in Siberia might help. And as a last resort, there is always the possibility of organizing the rest of the world and leaving Russia in self-imposed isolation."

Says He Believes Scientists

Ball said he believed the scientists who say there is no defense against the atomic bomb and that 40,000,000 Americans could be killed in one night.

Yet in the face of this tremendous new force, he said, the governments of the United States, Britain and Russia "are acting as though we still lived in the world of the Nineteenth Century."

"We talk one world but we do not act as if it is one world."

Six major changes must be made, he declared, if the United Nations Organization "is to be strong and democratic enough to give us and our children even a hope of peace."

Would Change Veto Power

Ball listed:

"First—The veto power of any one of the five permanent members of the Security Council must be eliminated, and decision to take action against a threatened aggression made by a majority vote of six or seven members, with any member nation directly involved in the issue not permitted to vote. . . .

"Second—We must create a true international police force, composed of quotas of various nations thoroughly mixed and under an international command . . . This force should occupy key bases and strong points throughout the world and no individual nation should be permitted to have military bases outside its own territory. . . .

"Third—The international force should have the only legal and authorized stockpile of atomic bombs permitted in the world. . . . All manufacture of such bombs should be under the strictest supervision of the Security Council.

For Interchange Of Knowledge

"Fourth—The Charter should provide for the complete interchange of all scientific knowledge, including military applications as well as all others, among all member nations, and for the free inspection by scientists and others acting as agents of the United Nations, of any and all activities in every nation.

"Fifth—The Security Council should be authorized and directed, the instant any nation violates the agreement on free interchange of knowledge by closing its borders or refusing complete freedom of inspection, to order the international police force to move in on such nation and discover and destroy any secret preparations for war being made. . . .

"Sixth—And last, we should rewrite the trusteeship provisions of the Charter and place directly under its administration such trouble spots of the world as Java, Indo-China, Korea, Trieste, Palestine and perhaps even Austria and Bulgaria. At the same time, it might be a good idea to turn over to the United Nations the administration and occupation of Germany and Japan."

MARINE CORPS 170 YEARS OLD TODAY

Birthday Will Be Celebrated Throughout World

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—The United States Marine Corps will be 170 years old tomorrow.

Not having any fighting on hand for the first time in four years, it will take time out to eat birthday cake and hear its exploits praised.

"In this first year of peace," said a Marine Corps release, "celebrations are the biggest in the corps' history. Wherever Marines are stationed there is a birthday cake. Parades, banquets, public gatherings and special radio broadcasts will occur in different parts of the United States. Overseas, where Marines are occupying the Japanese homeland and former Jap-held territory and at stations in China, there will be reviews and parties."

Birthday Proclamation

A birthday proclamation issued by the corps recounts that "during 95 of the 170 years of its existence the corps has been in action against the nation's foes. . . . From the fighting tops of the Bon Homme Richard to the occupation of Japan, Marines have firmly established their reputation as fighting men."

In the recently ended war, the proclamation concluded, "the heroism of Marines who fought and died throughout the fighting to keep eternally bright their watchword of 'Semper Fidelis' brought forth the full and open realization of all Americans that the Marine Corps is indeed the finest fighting organization in the world."

Forrestal, King Thankful

Secretary of the Navy Forrestal and Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King issued statements felicitating the Marines.

"We are thankful that the long road to victory which began three years ago at Guadalcanal has now been traversed," Forrestal said. "A world at peace will not forget the immortal chapters written along that road by the United States Marine Corps."

CROPS OUTPUT SLIGHTLY OFF

Production In October Sinks Below Wartime Records

NOV 10 1945

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—Crop prospects declined slightly during October to bring the aggregate indicated production about one half of one per cent below the record wartime crops of 1942 and 1944, the Agriculture Department reported today.

Nevertheless record crops were reported for wheat, oats, rice, tobacco, sugar cane, peaches, pears, early and midseason oranges grapefruit, almonds, hops and truck crops for market.

Near-record crops of hay, potatoes, flaxseed, soybeans, peanuts, pecans, walnuts and grapes are being harvested.

Larger-Than-Average Crops

Indications point, the department said, to larger-than-average crops of barley, sweet potatoes, sugar cane for syrup, and buckwheat.

Below-average crops were reported for rye, sugar beets, broom corn, sorgo syrup and dry beans.

The cotton crop, on the other hand, is the smallest since 1921 and the second smallest since 1899.

The department said prospects for corn—the major live-stock feed—cotton, soybeans, sweet potatoes, potatoes, dry beans, peanuts and some fruits declined during October.

Weather Mostly Favorable

While October weather was mostly favorable for harvest, the department said previous detrimental effects on some crops could not be overcome. Hence, some downward adjustments were made from October estimates, which had forecast a total crop production equal to the records of 1942 and 1944.

The corn crop was estimated at 3,073,966,000 bushels, or about 4,000,000 bushels less than was forecast a month ago. Production last year reached a record of 3,228,361,000. Production for the 1934-43 period averaged 2,433,060,000 bushels.

Estimates on wheat and most other grains were unchanged from a month ago.

This year's tobacco crop passes the 2,000,000,000-pound mark for the first time in history. The department said most of this crop is in curing barns or in market channels.

Some Make Record Yield

The department said oats, tobacco and potatoes made record yields per acre, and that all crops with but four exceptions—peanuts, dry beans. Buckwheat and broom corn—yielded above average.

Very little corn had been husked or picked in the corn belt by November 1 because of the high moisture content of the crop, the department said, adding that farmers preferred to take full advantage of the excellent drying weather during October to let the ears cure more on the stalks.

The department said October weather was favorable for live stock and poultry. High production levels of both milk and eggs were continued although egg production was five per cent below the record October output of last year. The volume of milk produced on farms was said to have reached a new record for October, but the seasonal decline in production was greater than average.

525,756 Draft Cases Probed By F.B.I.

By Brack Curry

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—The FBI has investigated 525,756 World War II draft violations, involving enough men to fill more than 30 infantry divisions—and new cases are being opened daily.

Investigations during the past five years resulted in 12,789 convictions. Sentences imposed to date total more than 34,000 years, with fines of $1,089,181. On September 30 the FBI had 15,727 pending draft-delinquency cases. On November 11, 1918, there were 295,184.

The Baltimore FBI Bureau recorded 156 convictions and 9,487 cases closed after the subjects had complied with the law.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, in an interview, outlined the FBI's current policy in enforcing the Selective Service Act:

"Under instructions issued by Attorney General Tom C. Clark, there has been no reduction in the intensity of selective service investigations.

"No new cases have been opened on persons 26 years of age and older since announcement of Japan's acceptance of the Potsdam ultimatum on August 14.

New Cases Being Opened

"However, reported violations prior to that time by persons between 26 and 38 years of age are receiving the same preferred attention which has been given selective service matters throughout the emergency period. New cases on registrants who have not reached their twenty-sixth birthday are being opened daily and investigations are being pressed."

Explaining that draft violations became possible on October 16, 1940, the first registration date, Hoover emphasized this point:

"From the inception of its work on selective service cases, the FBI has followed the policy of making men available to the armed services rather than putting them in jail for technical violations. Prosecutions generally have taken place in the aggravated cases."

World War I Record

He added: "The record of 12,789 convictions thus far compares with World War I, when more than 10,000 men were prosecuted for the single offense of failing to register. During World War I a total of 15,111 persons were convicted for slacker activities, but less than one third went to prison and their terms averaged less than 30 days each.

"Violation of selective service laws is now a felony and the maximum penalty is five years in prison and a fine of $10,000."

Technical Violations

Many persons with no intention of evading military service technically violated the Selective Service Act. In such cases the FBI hustled the registrant to an induction center and no charges were

NOV 10 1945

NOV 10 1945

preferred.

"These men almost invariably made good soldiers," Hoover said, "and they would not have been of any value to their country in jail."

What the FBI calls "aggravated cases," involving deliberate efforts to escape the draft, were another story.

Hoover cited the case of a St. Louis bartender who in 1942 adopted a Spanish alias, went to Mexico, assumed Mexican citizenship and then re-entered the United States, posing as an alien. FBI agents nabbed him in San Francisco.

Judge's Comment

In sentencing him in 1944, a Federal judge commented: "If you had been inducted into the Army in December of 1942 and had used the same ingenuity in military service that you have used to avoid it, you would have been at least a colonel by now."

A New York registrant literally hid behind his wife's skirts. After changing his name five times and living at a half dozen addresses, he was arrested crouching behind his wife's dresses in a bedroom closet. He got three years.

A recluse in a heavily-wooded section of Upper Michigan said he didn't know about the requirement to register, that he had lived alone for twenty years, had no radio, read no newspapers and did not know the United States was at war.

When taken to town to register, he "was visibly excited by the autos, traffic and people," FBI agents reported. The United States attorney declined to prosecute the registrant, who was over-age and had a glass eye. He returned to the woods.

Some Were Women

Some investigations turned up—not draft dodgers—but women.

A 35-year-old Texas ditch-digger failed to report for induction. "He" was located in Phoenix, Ariz., sent to an induction center and rejected—as a woman.

In 1942 the Unalaska (Alaska) board asked the FBI to locate a registrant. The FBI found him—although he had sailed to the South Seas, across the South Pacific to Chile and finally to Panama. There he was arrested. The registrant contended that when he left the United States men of his age were not being drafted. He was accepted by the Navy and the complaint dropped.

WLB Sets Up New Stabilization Unit

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—The War Labor Board tonight moved to create a division, with labor, government and industry representative, to carry out wage stabilization functions during the remainder of the board's existence.

The board acted at the request of President Truman, who said in a letter to Lloyd K. Garrison, chairman, that he would establish in the Labor Department a successor agency to this temporary tripartite division.

The Wage Stabilization Act expires next June 30. It gives the War Labor Board certain duties to guard against unstabilizing wage increases or decreases. Since the act does not expire for six months after the WLB's anticipated dissolution, the President was required to provide some machinery to carry out the stabilization functions.

Equal Representation

Mr. Truman asked the board to create a division—one with equal representation for labor, industry and the public—to perform these stabilization functions and to assign to the division the necessary members of the board and staff personnel in Washington and in the field.

"Upon the termination of the National War Labor Board in accordance with its liquidation program I shall issue an appropriate executive order transferring the personnel so assigned, and the functions and funds of the division, to a successor agency to function until the expiration of the Stabilization Act," the President said in his letter, made public by the WLB tonight.

"The successor agency will be a quasi-judicial entity within the Department of Labor, independent with respect to policy, decisions and control of personnel. This program meets with the approval of the Secretary of Labor and the stabilization administrator, subject to such conclusions and recommendations, if any, which may be made by the labor-management conference now in session."

First Steps Taken

Following these instructions, Chairman Garrison issued orders to the twelve regional boards declaring that the national board had taken steps to create the wage stabilization division.

"The functions of the stabilization division will be to carry out the board's responsibility for passing on voluntary applications for approval of wage adjustments and enforcement cases arising under the wage stabilization program," Garrison said. "The division will take over all pending applications and cases of this sort. The division will not deal with any dispute cases."

Garrison assigned as public members W. Willard Wirtz, whom he designated as chairman, and Sylvester Garrett, who has been chairman of the Philadelphia regional board since November, 1942. The industry and labor members will be announced shortly.

Newsprint Supply Is Causing Worry

NOV 10 1945

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—Some newspaper publishers, as well as Government officials, are increasingly apprehensive over a diminishing supply of already scarce newsprint, Col. J. Hale Steinman said today.

The chief of the Civilian Production Administration's printing and publishing division, himself a publisher of Lancaster (Pa.) newspapers, declined to say whether this might lead to extension of newsprint-consumption controls.

The Newspaper Industry Advisory Committee in September asked removal of Government restrictions at the end of the year. Usually the War Production Board, and its successor, CPA, have complied with industry committee suggestions.

U.S. Mills Output Drops

Now, Steinman says, newsprint production from United States mills is dropping several thousand tons below estimates in this last quarter and some publishers are dreading the scramble to buy in a free market if controls go off December 31.

Several months ago Steinman predicted a "dog-eat-dog" newsprint buyers' fight if Government controls are revoked while the supply is many thousands of tons short of increased demand.

Newsprint consumption now is pegged at from two to twelve per cent, on a sliding scale formula, less than the adjusted base tonnage for 1941.

If Controls Are Ended

Unrestricted consumption is likely to mean a demand for 110 per cent of the newsprint consumed in 1941, Steinman estimates. He considers the 10 per cent increase in demand over the last prewar year a conservative figure.

Steinman says the supply will fail to meet the demand by tens of thousands of tons.

Government officials say they are as anxious as publishers to get rid of newsprint controls.

President's Ship On Cruise

Portsmouth, Va., Nov. 9 (AP)—The new presidential flagship Williamsburg, complete with two small pianos, fireplaces and bedroom radios, sailed tonight for a shakedown cruise down the Atlantic Coast.

She will be delivered to President Truman late this month, after any "bugs" brought to light by her shakedown have been corrected. More than 400 civilian workers and the ship's crew of four officers and 60 men have labored in three shifts a day for two months to convert the ship to presidential use.

Commodore James K. Vardaman, naval aide to Mr. Truman, told news men who inspected the ship today that the President was expected to use the Williamsburg frequently for conferences.

NOV 10 1945

Called Command Ship

Emphasizing that the Williamsburg "is not a pleasure craft, but a command ship," Vardaman said the conversion was executed along "utilitarian" lines, so that she can go to sea as a combat command ship on ten days' notice, plus the additional time required for installation of armament.

Examples of the utilitarian lines of her conversion include her exterior paint which is gray instead of the white which characterized the former presidential yacht Mayflower, and the installation of fireproof, soundproof wallboard rather than paneling in the presidential quarters.

The only new installations aboard, Vardaman explained, were two bedrooms, a living room and two baths for the President. Built over the ship's fantail, these quarters replace the communications office which was moved to the forward part of the vessel.

Guest quarters include a lounge, and four bedrooms with baths. Electric logs adorn the living room and lounge fireplaces. The furniture is bleached mahogany veneer.

Cruising Range 7,500 Miles

Two officers who rose from the enlisted ranks are the Williamsburg skipper and executive officer. They are Capt. John H. Kevers, of Washington, D.C., a veteran of 43 years' naval service, and Lieut. C. R. Hampton, of Havre, Mont. Kevers was skipper of the U.S.S. Potomac, the Williamsburg's predecessor as the presidential flagship, which was withdrawn recently by the Navy when she was declared unsafe for ocean cruises.

The Williamsburg has a cruising range of 7,500 miles. She was built by the Bath Iron Works at Bath, Maine, in 1931 as an ocean-going private yacht, and was named Arras. She was acquired by the Navy in April, 1941.

LEHMAN ASKS FUNDS TO FINISH UNRRA TASK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—Herbert H. Lehman, director general of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, said tonight that although its relief mission was "less than half done it must stop operations soon it more funds were not provided."

"We have now to complete our work in Europe and the Far East," he said. "The future work of UNRRA depends entirely upon the granting of the further contribution which the UNRRA council of the forty-seven nations has recommended to the Government.

"UNRRA must cease operations within a very short time if these contributions are not received. The catastrophe in which such a stoppage would involve the nations dependent upon us is too serious to contemplate. I'm sure the peoples of the United Nations will not allow so terrible a threat to the future of the world."

Mr. Lehman discussed UNRRA's accomplishments and problems in a speech before the "UNRRA staffs society" on the second anniversary of the signing of the international agreement for creating the agency.

Taking note of criticism of UNRRA's work, he said that he had not heard complaints about it when he visited stricken countries receiving help, such as Italy, Greece and Yugoslavia, but only after he returned to this country "which has never felt the pangs of hunger, cold or homelessness."

A Sacrifice, A Medal

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—An infantry sergeant killed while attracting to himself the full firepower of the enemy so that his squad could move into Japanese positions has been awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor.

The War Department today announced the posthumous award to Staff Sergeant Ysmael R. Villegas, of Casablanca, Cal. The action occured on the Villa Verde trail on Luzon last March. The Japanese were intrenched in foxholes overlooking the only route for advance. Villegas saw that a concerted attack would mean high casualties to the Americans, so he moved forward alone to distract the enemy.

Running like a football player, he charged the first Japanese position and killed one Jap soldier with his rifle. All enemy weapons in the area were brought to bear on him. Bullets spurted about him. He whirled and headed for another Japanese foxhole, killed the rifleman there and then headed for another. He killed five Japs in that manner and was heading for a sixth when a tornado of fire cut him down. The men of his squad, inspired by his action, charged and overwhelmed the enemy.

Ethridge to Discuss Plans With Moscow

Washington, Nov. 9 (A. P.).—Mark Ethridge, Louisville publisher, will visit Moscow soon to discuss with Soviet officials details of his fact-finding trip to Bulgaria, Secretary of State Byrnes announced today.

Ethridge is on a special mission for Byrnes to Bulgaria and Romania. He's trying to determine whether the provisional governments of those countries are representative and whether their plans for national elections are democratic.

Byrnes said that Ethridge, who is publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times, has received Soviet approval for his Moscow visit.

PW's Won't Believe Jap War Is Over

San Francisco, Nov. 9 (AP)—Many prisoners of war who refused to believe the conflict had ended were included in a group of 682 Japanese nationals loaded aboard the transport Sea Flasher for Yokohama and their homeland.

Those who refused to believe Japan was conquered and the country occupied insisted they were only being removed to another prison camp, authorities said. The convinced expressed a desire to return, regardless of the wartime propaganda that capture was a disgrace.

In the group were 271 civilians who had been interned. The contingent was the third sent back to the homeland.

Truman Lauds Stand Of Church Council

Philadelphia, Nov. 9 (AP)—President Truman told the Commission On a Just and Durable Peace today that the position in "international thinking" taken by the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America has helped Americans get a clear understanding "of our place in the world community."

The Chief Executive, in a letter to Commission Chairman John Foster Dulles expressing regret that he could not address a session of the group's two-day meeting, wrote: "We often hear it said that spiritual values are indestructible only as long as men are ready and willing to take action to preserve them. In the future, as in the past, men will look to their churches for leadership in this good fight."

GEN. BLUEMEL GETS DSM

Jersey Officer Commanded Division at Bataan Before Capture

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9 (AP)—The Army's Distinguished Service Medal was presented at the Presidio today to Brig. Gen. Clifford Bluemel of Trenton, N. J., who commanded the Thirty-first Division in the defense of Bataan before his capture by the Japanese who held him prisoner more than three years.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. John Theodore Bluemel of Trenton, the general directed his division from Zambales Province to Bataan, covered the withdrawal of Second Philippine Corps troops, and later commanded a sector in the Bataan Defense.

General Bluemel was held in Japanese prison camps in Formosa and Manchuria where the citation accompanying his award said he "bore with soldierly fortitude the savage abuses and privations to which he was subjected."

Maj. Gen. Conger Pratt, western defense commander, made the presentation at ceremonies attended by General Bluemel's wife and others of his family.

Bush Backs Raise For Scientists

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—Dr. Vannevar Bush today got enthusiastically behind proposals to pay top Governmen tscientists as much as $15,000 a year.

The most they can hope for now under civil service is $9,800.

Bush, head of the Office of Scientific Research and Development, testified at hearings by the Senate Civil Service Committee on legislation to raise Government pay.

"Science More Important"

"Science is far more important to our whole economy than it has been in the past," Bush declared.

"Only the best qualified technical men will be able to supply the guidance and direction which the Government will need for many of its activities that must necessarily be changed and expanded with that growing technology."

20 P.C. Increase Called For

Legislation before the committee, headed by Senator Downey (D., Cal.), provides for a twenty per cent increase in Government pay generally.

The committee has been informed by Arthur S. Flemming of the Civil Service Commission that President Truman would approve a boost to $15,000 a year in the service's top.

GENTNER HEADS OPA HERE

Acting Regional Administrator Is Named by Bowles

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—Price Administrator Chester Bowles announced today the formal appointment of Leo F. Gentner as administrator for the Office of Price Administration, New York region.

Mr. Gentner has been acting regional administrator since last July 31. The region includes New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

1,000 RABBIS TO MARCH ON CAPITAL MONDAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 9. — (AP) Rabbi Baruch Korff, advisor to the Hebrew Committee of National Liberation, said today 1,000 rabbis would "march on Washington" next Monday to petition President Truman, the Congress and British Ambassador Lord Halifax to aid in bringing about the immediate transfer of 100,000 Jews from Europe to Palestine.

Korff said between 300 and 400 of the rabbis would leave New York City for Washington and would be met there by delegations from other cities in the east. He did not name the cities.

Korff said the rabbis would be met at Union station in Washington by a congressional group headed by Senator James Mead (D-N. Y.) and House Majority Leader John W. McCormick (D-Mass.).

NAVY ORDERS RELEASE OF 3 OIL REFINERIES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 — (AP) The Navy announced today it would relinquish control of three Ohio oil refineries seized by the government as the result of strikes, effective at 12:01 a.m. tomorrow.

The refineries involved are the Standard Oil Co. of Ohio at Lima; the Canton Refining Division of the Central Pipeline Co., Canton; and the Sun Oil Co., Toledo.

Under Presidential order, the Navy took over these three refineries and 50 others on Oct. 5 after C.I.O. oil workers struck in a demand for higher pay.

The three companies petitioned the Navy to release the plants on the grounds that there was no labor dispute at the present time.

HEADS NAVY NURSES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—(AP) Appointment of Lt. Cmdr. Nelly Jane Dewitt as superintendent of the Navy Nurse corps, succeeding Capt. Sue S. Dauser, was announced today by Vice Admiral Ross T. McIntire, surgeon-general of the Navy.

Lt. Cmdr. Dewitt has served in the Navy Nurse corps since shortly after her graduation from Stamford Hospital training school, Stamford, Conn., in December, 1918, except for a two year period between October, 1920 and October, 1922.

She attained the rank of lieutenant commander in October, 1944. The position of superintendent carries with it the rank of captain.

B-29's Knocked Out 60 Jap Cities: LeMay

Miami, Fla., Nov. 9 (AP)—B-29's had knocked out 60 of the 100 Japanese cities marked for obliteration when the war ended, and the atomic bomb had no effect in bringing the conflict to a quick end, Maj. Gen. Curtis C. LeMay, chief of staff of the Strategic Air Forces in the Pacific, said here.

"Japan was licked and the atomic bomb was only a face-saver," he declared.

The outspoken 38-year-old officer said air power had made the "greatest contribution" in winning the war and asserted that it would be the "cheapest" way to maintain peace.

He asserted Japan would be occupied "from now on," and added, "that goes for Germany too."

U. S. Frees Philippine Funds

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP).—President Truman has signed a bill unfreezing about $71,000,000 in Philippine funds which have been held in the United States Treasury, the White House announced today. The money represents Philippine excise and cocoanut oil taxes.

Nazism Not Being Sold To GI's, Officer Says

Boston, Nov. 9 (AP)—The suggestion that German girls were selling nazism to American soldiers was pronounced "silly" today by Lieut. Col. Clarke Newlon, former Dallas (Texas) newspaper man who returned on the S.S. Kemp Battle exactly two years after he landed overseas.

Most American soldiers, he said, do not date German girls.

Newlon was questioned by Capt. Harry T. Fontaine, public relations officer of the Port of Boston Air Division, about reports that German frauleins were selling Nazi doctrines to Americans.

"That is not accurate," responded Colonel Newlon. "The idea is silly. You could never do it to an American GI or officer."

Philadelphians Pay Tribute To Halsey

Philadelphia, Nov. 9 (AP)—A smiling Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., today received the tribute of an estimated 1,000,000 cheering Philadelphians.

The 3d Fleet commander, here to help the Victory Bond drive, traveled 31 miles over city streets carpeted with torn paper, ticker tape and confetti.

At a bond rally after the parade, Halsey told more than 5,000 persons that "there is much to be done" although "the war is over and victory has been won through blood and pain."

"The peace is a long way from won," he said.

General Bluemel Honored

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9 (AP).—The Army's Distinguished Service Medal was presented at the Presidio today to Brigadier General Clifford Bluemel, of Trenton, N. J., who commanded the 31st Division in the defense of Bataan before his capture by the Japanese, who held him prisoner for more than three years. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Theodore Bluemel, of 314 West State Street, Trenton.

Hall Named to Aid Pauley

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP).—Federal Judge Pierson M. Hall, of the Southern District of California, was designated by President Truman today as an assistant to Edwin W. Pauley on Japanese reparations. Mr. Pauley, accompanied by a staff, is now en route to Japan to begin work on the reparations question. He holds the rank of special ambassador in the work.

Many May Escape Overseas Duty

San Francisco, Nov. 9 (AP)—More than 9,000 Army officers and men awaiting shipment at the San Francisco port of embarkation to foerign assignments are being screened today as the result of new War Department regulations concerning overseas duty.

The change in eligibility requirements, announced yesterday brought a reprieve for more than 600 servicemen scheduled to leave yesterday aboard the transport Marine Adder.

High-Point Men Removed

The vessel was held at Angel Island by order of Secretary of War Robert Patterson until all high-point men had been removed. It sailed for Saipan last night with its original complement reduced to 296.

Another vessel, the Sea Perch, left yesterday with its original company of 24 officers and 255 enlisted men screened down to 15 officers and 61 non-coms.

The transport General Robert L. Howze will load about 250 service men today instead of an expected 1,100.

Many Being Screened

Army officials have reported here that 8,753 officers and men at the Camp Stoneman and Fort McDowell staging areas are being screened as a result of the new War Department directive.

Enlisted men with 21 months of service or 36 points, and officers with 33 months of service are to be exempt from foreign duty.

Buckeye Division To Sail Home Nov. 15

Washington, Nov. 9 (A. P.).—The War Department reported today that the Thirty-seventh (Buckeye) Division, now in the Pacific, is "tentatively" scheduled to sail for home on November 15.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars announced yesterday the receipt of a cable from members of the division's 140th Field Artillery Battalion complaining that some of them had been in service more than five years and had ample points for discharge.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars took the matter up with the War Department, and was advised that the division will probably sail from Manila November 15, a spokesman said.

The cable to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, signed by First Sgt. Frederick P. Renner "and 530 others," said the battalion sailed for overseas May 26, 1942.

RAIL REMOVAL PRECEDENTS

City Officials Cite Past Ready Agreements By B.T.C.

line in every instance unless it is stated specifically otherwise.

Supporting the belief that the company previously recognized its responsibility for track removal and pavement replacement, James G. Phillips, attorney, and contract examiner for the Department of Public Works, recalled that the company agreed, with little objection, to a franchise in 1936 specifically stating that it would be required to remove the rails and fix the street if the line ever was abandoned.

Ordinance Cited

The franchise was granted by ordinance to replace one expired franchise and another with three years to run for tracks in East Monument street between the Edison highway and Cresson street. The tracks were being relocated at the time in connection with plans for the widening of the street.

Even since then, Mr. Phillips said, the company has accepted franchises for short stretches of track with the obligation written in to remove the rails and replace the pavement.

Steam railroads, he said, have been making such agreements with the city since 1928.

Revival Of Discussion

Other city officials pointed out there was little discussion about the responsibility of the company for removing rails and replacing pavement until the company sought to avoid the responsibility in a proposed tax law presented to the city in connection with the planned abandonment of about half of the existing streetcar lines.

Much of the ease with which the company agreed to the work may have been due, city officials admitted, to the fact that some of the rails were in good condition and were needed by the company in other sections of the city at a time when rail was hard to obtain.

VIOLENCE BROKE OUT WHEN TROOPS FIRED ON 50,000 DEMONSTRATORS WHO IGNORED AN ORDER OF THE SOVIET-SPONSORED GOVERNMENT OF PREMIER PETRU GROZA BANNING CELEBRATIONS OF KING MIHAI'S 24TH BIRTHDAY.

TROOPS GUARDED THE ROYAL SQUARE, SCENE OF THE RIOTING, LAST NIGHT, BUT DEMONSTRATORS CONTINUED TO MARCH ON THE OUTSKIRTS SHOUTING "LONG LIVE THE KING," AND DOWN WITH TERROR."

THE GROZA GOVERNMENT BROADCAST A COMMUNIQUE CHARGING THE DISORDERS WERE "A BLIND FOR A REVOLUTIONARY PLOT DIRECTED AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT" BY JULIU MANIU, PEASANT PARTY LEADER, AND GEORGE BRATIANU, HEAD OF THE LIBERAL PARTY.

FIRST SHOTS IN THE RIOT WERE FIRED BY UNKNOWN PERSONS FROM THE DIRECTION OF THE MINISTRY OF THE INTERIOR, FACING THE SQUARE. THE FIRE WAS INCREASED BY TROOPS GUARDING ENTRANCES TO THE SQUARE, ALTHOUGH THERE WERE REPORTS THAT THE OFFICER IN CHARGE ORDERED HIS MEN TO FIRE OVER THE HEADS OF THE DEMONSTRATORS.

LATER TROOPS OPENED FIRE AGAIN, APPARENTLY INTO THE CROWD.

CAIRO, NOV. 9-(AP)-TRIALS OF RIOTERS ARRESTED IN ARAB DEMONSTRATIONS IN TRIPOLTANIA, IN WHICH MORE THAN 100 JEWS WERE SLAIN, HAVE BEGUN IN MILITARY COURTS IN TRIPOLI, AND FUNERALS OF VICTIMS, INCLUDING CHILDREN, HAVE PASSED "WITHOUT INCIDENT."

A COMMUNIQUE FROM THE BRITISH MINISTRY OF INFORMATION DECLARED "IRRESPONSIBLE ELEMENTS" HAD NOT YET CEASED ALL THEIR ACTIVITIES, AND THAT ALL FORCE NECESSARY WOULD BE EMPLOYED AGAINST THEM TO MAINTAIN ORDER.

THE TRIALS BEGAN YESTERDAY. THE FUNERALS WERE HELD WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

THE BULLETIN SAID THAT "MALICIOUS RUMORS" CONTINUED TO CIRCULATE THAT THE GRAND QUADI, HEAD OF THE ARAB ADVISORY LEAGUE, HAD BEEN SLAIN. THE RUMORS SPREAD TO THE EASTERN PROVINCE OF MUSARTA, WHERE THEY WERE QUELLED ONLY WHEN THE GRAND QUADI SPOKE TO THE QUADI OF MUSARATA BY TELEPHONE.

MUFTI MOHAMMED BULASAB EL ALEM CALLED ON THE ARAB POPULATION OF TRIPOLTANIA TO RETURN TO PEACE AND ORDER AND RESTORE THE "PREVIOUS HAPPY RELATIONSHIP" BETWEEN THE ARABS AND JEWS, THE MINISTRY SAID.

HE WAS QUOTED AS SAYING THAT "HE AND OTHER LEADING MEMBERS OF THE ARAB COMMUNITY COULD NOT CONDEMN TOO STRONGLY THE VIOLENT AND BRUTAL ACTS OF THE RIOTERS, WHICH WERE CONTRARY TO ALL PRINCIPLES OF LAW, HUMANITY AND TRUE RELIGION."

CHINESE-RUSSIANS (500)

BY RICHARD BERGHOLZ

CHINWANGTAO, CHINA, NOV.9-(AP)-THE RUSSIANS ARE NOT ACTIVELY BACKING CHINESE COMMUNIST ARMIES IN MANCHURIA AS FAR AS AMERICANS ON THE SPOT CAN LEARN--NOR ARE THE SOVIETS HELPING CHUNGKING TROOPS GET THERE.

THIS GENERALIZATION IS BASED ON AMERICAN OPERATIONS IN THE MANCHURIAN AREA AND ON TALKS WITH HIGH-RANKING AMERICAN OFFICERS WHO HAVE DEALT DIRECTLY WITH THE RUSSIANS.

THE AMERICANS HAVE HAD THREE PRINCIPAL CONTACTS WITH THE RUSSIANS.

THE FIRST WAS WHEN IT WAS PLANNED THAT U.S. AMPHIBIOUS FORCES WOULD LAND CHINESE NATIONALIST TROOPS AT DAIREN, MANCHURIA'S MOST IMPORTANT PORT.

THE RUSSIANS REFUSED TO PERMIT THE LANDING, SAYING THE RECENT SINO-RUSSIAN AGREEMENT MADE DAIREN AN OPEN PORT WHICH COULD NOT BE USED FOR MILITARY OPERATIONS.

NOV 10 1945

THE NATIONALISTS COMPLAINED THIS PERMITTED CHINESE COMMUNISTS TO STRENGTHEN THEIR HOLD ON MANCHURIA AND VIOLATED THAT SAME AGREEMENT BY WHICH RUSSIA RECOGNIZED GENERALISSIMO CHIANG KAI-SHEK'S REGIME AS REPRESENTING THE CHINESE NATION.

THE SECOND CONTACT CAME WHEN VICE ADM.DANIEL BARBEY SURVEYED THE POSSIBILITY OF LANDING CHINESE NATIONALISTS AT THE MANCHURIAN PORT OF HULATAO, NORTH OF DAIREN IN THE GULF OF LIAOTUNG.

CHUNGKING HAD ADVISED THE LANDING WOULD BE UNOPPOSED. THE AMERICANS INVESTIGATED AND FOUND THE COMMUNISTS HEAVILY ARMED AND READY TO RESIST THE NATIONALIST LANDINGS OR THE ENTRY OF ANY OTHER GROUP.

BARBEY ALSO LEARNED, HOWEVER, THAT THE RUSSIANS HAD PULLED BACK FROM HULATAO. THE ONLY RUSSIANS BARBEY FOUND THERE WERE TWO YOUNG LIEUTENANTS WHO HAD WANDERED IN TO SEE WHAT WAS GOING ON.

IT WAS PRETTY WELL ESTABLISHED THAT THE RUSSIANS WERE NOT

NOV 10 1945

PREPARED TO BACK UP THE BELLIGERENT CHINESE COMMUNISTS.

THE THIRD CONTACT CAME AT THE PORT OF YINKOW DUE EAST FROM HULATAO, WHERE THE CHINESE NATIONALISTS HAD SAID THE RUSSIANS AGREED TO GUARANTEE AN UNOPPOSED LANDING.

A176KX

A PRE-LANDING INVESTIGATION AGAIN SHOWED A GREAT DEAL OF CHINESE COMMUNIST BELLIGERENCE, AND WHAT RUSSIANS WERE THERE PROFESSED IGNORANCE OF ANY AGREEMENT WITH CHUNGKING.

THE NATIONALISTS WERE UNABLE TO PRODUCE AN AGREEMENT IN WRITING AND SUDDENLY ALL RUSSIAN FORCES WITHDREW FROM YINKOW TOWARD MUKDEN. CHINESE COMMUNISTS REMAINED IN CONTROL OF YINKOW.

IN ALL THREE CASES, THE AMERICANS DECLINED TO RISK AMERICAN LIVES IN MANNING VESSELS CARRYING CHINESE NATIONALIST TROOPS TO WHAT PROBABLY WOULD BE AN OPPOSED LANDING. APPARENTLY, THAT WILL CONTINUE TO BE AMERICAN POLICY.

THUS IT SEEMS INCREASINGLY EVIDENT THAT THE ONLY WAY THE NATIONALIST FORCES ARE GOING TO GET INTO MANCHURIA IS TO FIGHT THEIR WAY IN BY LAND.

IT IS PROBABLE THAT RELATIVELY FEW NATIONALISTS WILL BE IN ANY KEY MANCHURIAN CITIES BY DEC.2, THE DATE ON WHICH THE RUSSIANS AGREED TO WITHDRAW FROM THIS VITAL REGION OF NORTH CHINA.

THE WITHDRAWAL OF THE RUSSIANS AND THE INABILITY OF THE NATIONALISTS TO RE-ENTER MANCHURIA IN FORCE WILL CREATE A POLITICAL VACUUM WHICH THE CHINESE COMMUNISTS ARE IN POSITION TO FILL.

THIS WOULD RESULT IN THE CREATION OF A CHINESE COMMUNIST-CONTROLLED AREA WHICH WOULD BE A SOURCE OF CONFLICT FOR YEARS TO COME OR A NOMINALLY AUTONOMOUS NATION SIMILAR TO OUTER MONGOLIA.

SO FAR, IT HAS BEEN MOSTLY HARASSING ATTACKS WITH A NUISANCE VALUE. GRANTED THEY HAVE BEEN VERY EFFECTIVE IN THEIR LIMITED WAY, THESE ATTACKS STILL CAN'T BE CONSTRUED AS A SERIOUS EFFORT TO CUT THE RAILROAD. IT TOOK ME FIVE DAYS TO TRAVEL BY TRAIN FROM TIENTSIN TO CHINGWANGTAO--NORMALLY A SIX OR EIGHT HOUR RUN--BUT I DISCOVERED VIRTUALLY ALL DELAY WAS DUE TO THE FACT THE CHINESE WERE AFRAID TO TRAVEL AT NIGHT AND BECAUSE MINOR HARASSING ATTACKS HAD REMOVED A FEW SECTIONS OF RAILS OR HAD DAMAGED THE ROADBED OR MINOR BRIDGES.
IF THE COMMUNISTS WANT TO KNOCK OUT THE RAILROAD, IT WOULDN'T TAKE A VERY LARGE FORCE OR MUCH TIME. THERE ARE LONG STRETCHES THROUGH THE FLATLAND WHERE IT OBVIOUSLY WOULD BE IMPOSSIBLE TO GUARD EVERY MILE OF TRACKAGE. AND THERE ARE A FEW LONG TRESTLE BRIDGES WHICH, IF DESTROYED, WOULD BE HARD TO REBUILD. A BRIEF BUT CONCENTRATED ASSAULT ON THESE BY COMMUNISTS COULD TIE UP RAIL COMMUNICATIONS FOR A LONG TIME.
BUT COMMUNISTS AS YET HAVEN'T MADE ANY LARGE SCALE ATTACK AGAINST THE RAILROAD. AND THE REASON MAY LIE WITH THE UNITED STATES. ON EACH OF SEVERAL LARGE SPANS ARE SMALL FORCES OF FIRST MARINE DIVISION MEN AS GUARDS. THEY HAVE BEEN PUT THERE OBVIOUSLY COMPROMISING ORDERS TO STAND GUARD DUTY BUT TO KEEP OUT OF TROUBLE.

NIGHT

NOV 11 1945

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 10—(AP)—British warplanes and artillery blasted at Soerabaja and Indian troops attacked toward the heart of the great naval base today in battle against Indonesians who rejected a British ultimatum for surrender of their weapons.

A nationalist spokesman declared British naval guns were bombarding the city of 500,000 inhabitants, that many were killed, and that families were fleeing and carrying out a scorched earth policy.

Strong Indonesian forces were reported marching on Soerabaja from inland Jogjakarta, nationalist stronghold 175 miles to the southwest.

Meet Light Resistance

British declared their initial advance met only light sniping and machinegun fire. An official statement said the shelling and bombing were ordered because Indian troops had suffered casualties from stiffened Indonesian resistance, and "stronger measures were necessary."

Shelling started at 6 a. m. today (6 p. m. E.S.T., Friday)—the deadline hour set by ultimatum for the Indonesians to surrender their arms—preparing the way for the infantry.

Four Thunderbolts bombed and strafed the postoffice and government buildings, and one plane was damaged but landed safely, the RAF said.

There were no immediate estimates of casualties on either side.

Advices from Jogjakarta, where 100,000 armed Indonesians are reported concentrated, declared hotheaded Indonesian youths were already marching toward Soerabaja shouting "fight for freedom!"

Indonesian "President" Soekarno had gone to Jogjakarta to address a youth rally, which broke up when news of the British attack was received. Soekarno was expected to return to Batavia tomorrow.

There were no indications yet that the Soerabaja battle had set off any widespread outbreaks throughout Java, as Indonesian leaders had predicted might result.

Late tonight Allied troops used mortars in a short but sever clash with Indonesians in the Kramat sector of Batavia, and firing was heard behind the hotel Des Indes.

Indonesian "Foreign Minister" Soebardjo said he had received a "private and unofficial" report from the telephone manager at Soerabaja, saying the exchange was being abandoned.

The telephone manager reported Indonesian families were fleeing the city and carrying out the "scorched earth" policy, he said.

The British said they were shelling Indonesian "strong points."

The British moved into the city and its perimeter and the dock area in a "slow advance." They did not specify the extent of their gains, but an Indonesian source said the Indian infantry had pushed through two suburbs.

Soebardjo said the republican cabinet had given "full authority" for decisions at Soerabaja to the Indonesian governor, Dr. Soerio, feeling that he was best qualified to judge the local situation and the feeling of the people.

A British statement asserted that the arms in possession of the Indonesians belonged originally to Japanese troops and sailors, 20,000 of whom were still to be rounded up in the Soerabaja area.

In a series of orders and statements before the attack, the British maintained they were only carrying out the mandate of the United Nations in rescuing prisoners of war, and internees, and in rounding up the defeated Japanese.

British Commander Maj. Gen. E. C. Mansergh had issued stringent instructions that the Indonesian police and the T.K.R. (army) regulars could retain only rifles and 10 rounds of ammunition per man.

Republican leaders had asserted that if given time they could have collected any unauthorized arms.

Mansergh told Soerio by letter that the arms to be surrendered included tanks, armored cars, spears, blowpipes and poisoned arrows.

They prescribed that no more than five police or TKR men could assemble together, and that larger assemblies would be regarded as hostile and would be attacked.

He warned that if fighting started, any Indonesian crowds collecting in the streets or squares would be strafed by British planes.

Broadcasts over the Indonesian-controlled radio in Soerbaja urged the Indonesians not to surrender their arms, but cautioned them against starting hostilities.

Soebardjo disclosed he had visited Lieutenant General Sir Philip Christison, Allied commander in the Netherlands East Indies, yesterday urging him not to enforce the ultimatum.

The Foreign Minister declared previously in a letter to Christison that measures for immediate disarming of the "irresponsible part of the population will inevitably lead to clashes, bloodshed and still greater disorders."

Soebardjo said he was told by Christison that the British had waited as long as they could.

Batavia, Java, Nov. 10 (A. P.).—British Indian troops, engaging in full-scale warfare to disarm the resisting Indonesian Nationalists, opened an attack on Soerabaja today. British shells and bombs raked the naval base of 500,000 population.

DAY

The British report said that the shelling was directed against Indonesian strong points. The British did not specify the extent of the Soerabaja area occupied during the day's "slow advance," but Indonesian spokesmen said the British had moved through two suburbs.

Indonesians were evacuating their families from the city.

Indonesian spokesmen said that British naval guns as well as land artillery opened fire at 6 A. M. in preparation for the attack by the full Fifth Indian Infantry Division.

British planes — Mosquito bombers and Thunderbolt fighters—strafed and bombed the post office and government buildings in Soerabaja and one Mosquito was forced down. The Nationalists said that large numbers of native youths assembled in Jogjakarta, 175 miles to the southwest, had decided to proceed to Soerabaja to reinforce their countrymen and were rallying to the cry of "fight for freedom."

NOV 11 1945

Scorched Earth Hinted.

Foreign Minister Soebardjo of the so-called Indonesian Republic said that the telephone manager at Soerabaja had reported that the natives there apparently had decided to carry out a scorched earth policy in their flight. This account would indicate that the natives had little hope of standing and fighting in the city. Soebardjo added that the telephone exchange had been abandoned.

He also announced that the Nationalist Cabinet had given Dr. Soerio, Indonesian Republican Governor of Soerabaja, full authority for decisions at the naval base since he was better able to judge the local situation and the feeling of the natives.

A British spokesman said the natives were putting up a growing resistance. The Nationalists reported that many Indonesians were killed or wounded. At stake in the developing war is control of the wealthy Dutch East Indies with a population of 41,000,000 Indonesians.

Lieut.-Gen. Sir Philip Christison, the Allied commander in the islands, announced the opening of the British attack. The British troops jumped off from positions which they held around the city in the face of light sniping and machine-gun fire.

A British command statement said that the British still had to round up 20,000 Japanese troops and sailors in the Soerabaja area, and that the arms which the British demand that the natives surrender belonged originally to these same 20,000 Japanese, commanded by Admiral Marda and Gen. Iwabu. The British declared that they were carrying out a United Nations mandate to rescue war prisoners and internees and collect and remove the defeated Japanese.

An official announcement said that Major-Gen. E. C. Mansergh ordered the shelling and air assault after mounting Indonesian resistance inflicted casualties on the Indian troops.

The statement pointed out that Mansergh had warned in advance that he would inforce his ultimatum that the Indonesians surrender all their arms by 6 A. M. today "with all the sea, land and air forces at my disposal."

"As casualties were being suffered by our troops, Mansergh decided stronger action was necessary" and called upon R. A. F. bombing planes based at Soerabaja, the announcement declared. Nationalist sources reported that many Indonesians were killed or wounded by the British bombardment.

Broadcasts from the nationalist radio station throughout the night urged Indonesians not to give up their arms but instructed them not to attack the British unless attacked first.

The Indonesian Government immediately telegraphed a report of the Soerabaja fighting to President Soekarno at Jogjakarta, the former Javanese capital. Reports of the outbreak at Soerabaja followed a last-minute breakdown of peace negotiations with the British.

ACCORD REPORTED ON JEWISH ISSUES

NOV 11 1945

U.S. And Britain Said To Agree On Joint Committee

PARIS

London, Nov. 10 (AP)—Reliable sources said tonight that Great Britain and the United States had agreed upon creation of a joint committee to deal with the questions of Jewish immigration into Palestine and displaced European Jews.

NIGHT

These sources said agreement on main issues was reached recently, but that Prime Minister Attlee wanted to discuss the question with President Truman in their Washington talks before any British statement on Palestine is made.

Bevin Statement Forecast

Foreign Office sources said Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin would state the Labor Government's position on Palestine, with a reference to America's attitude, in Commons possibly next Tuesday.

Diplomatic quarters believed Bevin would announce formation of a British-American plan calling for immediate rather than long-term action.

The British were said to believe that a substantial increase of immigration into Palestine would be possible if the country were placed under international trusteeship, while if they bear sole responsibility only a small increase would be possible.

To Deal With Refugees

Diplomatic quarters said it was "fairly certain" that Bevin would deal also with the problem of thousands of Jewish refugees in the British and American zones of occupation in Germany.

London estimates say there are 65,000 Jewish refugees in the American and 200,000 in the British zone who want to go to Palestine or some other country. Some European experts here declare, however, that if the Jews were given a guarantee against persecution many would prefer to remain in Europe.

Meanwhile, a Cairo dispatch said the Arab League would inform the British and American governments that no decision should be taken on Palestine without prior consultation and agreement with the Arabs.

Bevin To Talk On Palestine

London, Nov. 10 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin will make a statement in Commons early next week on Britain's policy toward Palestine and possibly will refer to the United States attitude, Foreign Office sources said today.

Although Britain and America were understood to be agreed on a plan for solving the Zionist question, Prime Minister Attlee is expected to discuss the situation once more with President Truman while in Washington and before the Labor Government's policy is announced.

Diplomatic quarters speculated that Bevin would disclose a joint British-American plan for immediate rather than long-term action. His statement probably will be made Tuesday or Wednesday.

Youth Parley Avoids Palestine Declaration

London, Nov. 10 (AP)—The two-week conference of delegates from 63 countries who organized the World Federation of Democratic Youth ended today with delegates sidestepping the thorny problem of Palestine.

A two-man Palestine delegation tried in vain to get the organization to go on record favoring held in establishing a Jewish state in Palestine.

Romania's Report On Riot Is Disputed

London, Nov. 10 (AP)—A Foreign Office spokesman declared today that information received by the British Government was contrarry to a statement by the Romanian Government that Thursday's riots before the royal palace in Bucharest were stirred up by anarchists to promote violence.

The spokesman said the British Government must disassociate itself in the most categorical terms from the statement made by the regime of Premier Petru Groza.

Peaceful, British Say

He said information received here was that the demonstration was "peaceful, with a carnival-like atmosphere," and, had it been allowed to proceed, would have done much toward improving the Romanian situation.

Thirteen persons were killed and 80 wounded, Associated Press dispatches from Bucharest said, when Romanian troops fired into a crowd of 50,000.

British Unions Ask Voice On Industry

London, Nov. 10 (AP)—Charles Dukes, chairman of the British Trades Union Congress, asserted today that British unions "must have a voice in the direction of industry at higher levels" in order to assure a maximum peacetime production.

"Many of our basic industries are being allowed to decay and schemes put forward by employers have done little to improve their position," he told the Trades Unions Conference.

The labor leader recalled labor's wartime share in "consultative organization," which he said eliminated "all friction between management and work people." He added that "full production can only be achieved by the establishment of works councils and production committees."

UNO Savants Pick Paris as Fixed Seat

London, Nov. 10 (A. P.).—Delegates from forty-three countries voted today to make Paris the permanent headquarters of the newly established United Nations Education, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO). The decision was reached five days after the 250 delegates assembled, and it virtually completed their work. Tentative plans call for the first Paris meeting in May. Meanwhile a temporary commission has power to aid educational rehabilitation in war devastated regions.

Soldier Seeks Painting By Churchill In Trade

London, Nov. 10 (AP)—An English soldier in a letter to former Prime Minister Churchill offered to swap a first edition of the Allied Post, first invasion newspaper of the war, for a landscape painted by Churchill during his recent vacation in Italy.

"I regret that I must decline your request, as I am merely an amateur painter who paints for his own satisfaction," Churchill replied.

DE GAULLE CHOICE HELD UNCERTAIN

NOV 11 1945

Party Wrangling Over Reform Program Causes Doubt

Paris, Nov. 10 (AP)—Election of General de Gaulle as France's interim President was said in official circles today to be "not at all certain" as a result of party wrangling over the Communist-Socialist reform program made public earlier this week.

The Communists want to pledge the President, whose election is set for next Tuesday, to support the entire left-wing program, some parts of which are being opposed by the Popular Republican Movement, (MRP), third largest party in the constituent assembly.

Demands Free Rein

De Gaulle, according to a Government source, will accept the presidency only if he is given a free rein.

The former head of the provisional government, it was explained, feels that the program is too extensive in scope to be handled during the seven-month life of the assembly, which also will be busy writing a new constitution.

The program calls for nationalization of such key enterprises as the Bank of France, merchant marine and gas and electric utilities, and for diplomatic rupture with Spain, French renunciation of territorial expansion, and suppression of all subsidies "direct or indirect" for religious education.

The latter issue is one of the points of discord. The MRP has agreed to the ban on state subsidies, but balks at what it describes as further Communist demands forbidding even private donations for religious education.

De Gaulle In Seclusion

One result was that France was technically without a government over the armistice week end. De Gaulle, officially not a candidate for the interim presidency, went into seclusion.

A Government spokesman termed the situation "a serious political crisis."

Meanwhile, de Gaulle was in the comfortable position of knowing that there were no other candidates for the presidency.

"The deadlock is complicated," the spokesman said, "because no one wants the presidency; but at the same time, this favors De the same time, this favors de Gaulle, because it will tend to force the parties to accept his conditions."

De Gaulle Would Set Pace

PARIS, Nov. 10 (AP)—General de Gaulle, according to a Government source today, will accept the Presidency only if he receives a free rein. The former head of the Provisional Government, it was explained, feels that the program is too extensive in scope to be handled during the seven-month life of the Assembly.

The program calls for nationalization of such key enterprises as the Bank of France, the merchant marine and gas and electric utilities, for diplomatic rupture with Spain, French renunciation of territorial expansion, and suppression of all subsidies "direct or indirect" for religious education.

DeGaulle Bids Adieu To Departing Yanks

Paris, Nov. 10 (A. P.).—Gen. Charles de Gaulle sent greetings yesterday to United States soldiers being redeployed home.

The message, published by the French news agency, said: "I send you cordial greetings of all French soldiers and thankful greetings of the people of all France. We will never forget you. Think of us sometimes. We have fought together, suffered together and triumphed together. Hand in hand, our two countries must march toward the future."

France Doomed 2,366 in Purge

PARIS, Nov. 10 (AP)—The deadline for bringing French collaborationists before special purge courts expired today. A total of 2,366 death sentences were pronounced in 52,439 cases heard before Nov. 1.

MERGER VIEWS OF EISENHOWER EXPECTED SOON

General Is En Route to U. S. as Controversy Rages Between Services.

FORRESTAL FILES A PROTEST

Complains to Patterson About Utterances of Doolittle Before Senators.

Frankfurt, Germany, Nov. 10 (A. P.).—Gen. Eisenhower took off for Paris en route to the United States at midafternoon today to testify before congressional committees. The General's C-54 climbed into overcast skies and a near freezing drizzle.

Forrestall Voices Concern.

Washington, Nov. 10 (A. P.).—Gen. Eisenhower was headed for the United States today amid indications he will be asked for his views in the increasingly bitter controversy over consolidation of the armed forces.

Announcement from Eisenhower's Frankfurt headquarters that he will "appear before committees of Congress" came only a few hours before the Secretary of the Navy protested to the Secretary of war against utterances by Lieut.-Gen. James H. Doolittle during the testimony in support of the merger proposal.

Secretary Forrestal told Secretary Patterson in a letter: "If we allow an honest difference over principle to degenerate into an exchange of personalities, we shall do irreparable harm to the end which we all seek in the name of national security; the comradeship of all branches of the armed services."

Doolittle Gives Views.

While Doolittle was before the Senate Military Committee yesterday Senator Hill (D.-Ala.) remarked that Admiral Chester W. Nimitz had said sea power brought surrender of the Japanese, and Admiral Marc Mitscher had credited Navy carrier-based airplanes with winning the Pacific air war.

NOV 11 1945

Said the former Eighth Air Force commander:

"Admiral Nimitz and Admiral Mitscher are great commanders, but this war was won by team work. Each of the three agencies did its best. No single agency alone was responsible. I do feel very strongly it was not sea power that compelled Japan to sue for peace. And that it was not carrier strength that won the air war. Our B-29 boys are resting uneasily in their graves as a result of those two comments."

Forrestal Writes Patterson.

Forrestal said in his letter to Patterson:

"Gen. Doolittle also referred to arguments advanced by witnesses before the committee as 'hypocrisy.' As civilian head of the naval service I should not let charges against high ranking naval officers of hypocrisy or partisanship to the point of callousness go unnoticed.

"But to avoid adding to the undesirable heat which it seems to me has already entered these deliberations, I refrain from making any direct reply. Moreover, the Navy air-sea rescue record speaks for itself of our concern for the B-29 crews.

"I question whether we should allow the discussion of a proposal on which our departments are divided to lead us into impugning the good faith of people who disagree with us, and I question especially whether death in any particular line of duty—and the resultant grief at home—should be appealed to in order to advance any individual point of view."

EISENHOWER SETS NEWS SOURCE RULE

Correspondents To Interview Only Officers Listed

Frankfurt, Germany, Nov. 10 (AP). General Eisenhower's headquarters directed today that henceforth news be channeled to correspondents through a senior officer to be selected by each of the headquarters' various divisions.

The order, read to correspondents by Lieut. Gen. Walter B. Smith, Eisenhower's chief of staff, bore the title: "Subject: Methods of facilitating efforts of accredited correspondents to obtain news promptly and accurately."

Laid To Baring Of Secrets

The disclosure by some officers of information classified as secret was believed to have prompted the order.

At a press conference with Smith some correspondents raised the question whether the order would ing effect invoke a form of censorship. The order restricts correspondents from going to any officer for news other than the division news spokesmen whose names will be given on a list to be distributed later.

After some discussion, Smith said the order would be given a 30-day trial and added that after that period a new approach would be taken if the order was found not to work.

"Freedom Of Self-Defense"

"The order was put out to protect ourselves less from correspondents than from our own people," Smith explained. He added that "freedom of the press also means freedom of self-defense against bad reporting."

"The intention of the order," he said, "is to assist representatives of the press in obtaining information on newsworthy events and activities authoritatively, accurately and promptly. The policy continues in this theater of facilitating the efforts of accredited correspondents to have access to all news that does not involve security considerations."

'IKE' TELLS YANKS TO IMPROVE DRESS

Eisenhower Says Conduct In Europe Must Be Better

Frankfurt, Germany, Nov. 10 (AP). General Eisenhower today directed his unit commanders to take immediate steps to improve the dress and behavior of American troops in Europe to prevent the Army from getting "a bad reputation."

In a letter to the commanders, Eisenhower said "our standards of courtesy" had fallen below those "that Americans habitually observe at home," that careless and reckless driving was taking a considerable toll of life, and that proper army dress was not being observed.

He said the conduct of the soldiers was excellent in most cases, but declared the "remaining relatively small minority can give us a bad reputation that will take our country a long time to overcome."

"The German propaganda machine has been selling to the people of Europe very cleverly and for four years the idea that Americans are an uncouth, ill-behaved, irresponsible group of gangsters who will overrun their countries and make shambles of them," he said. "We must prove this charge to be completely false."

Bavarian Opera Head Ousted

FRANKFORT ON THE MAIN, Germany, Nov. 10 (AP) — United States Army Headquarters said today that Hans Knappertsbusch would be removed as general music director of the Bavarian State Opera and prevented from conducting musical organizations in the American zone of occupation. Knappertsbusch was blacklisted because it was learned that he participated in Nazi-sponsored musical activities, although he was never a member of the Nazi party.

Trial Briefs Issued In Cases Of Twelve Nazi Defendants

Nuernberg, Germany, Nov. 10 (AP)—Trial briefs on a dozen of the Nazi defendants facing hearings here on war crimes charges were handed [illegible] today.

Col. Howard A. Brundage, River Forest, Ill., chief of the conspiracy section, said the briefs blueprinted the individual responsibility of the defendants with relation to the war guilt conspiracy as set forth in the indictment.

U.S. Gets 70 To 90 Press Seats

Allocation was made of press gallery seats to more than 300 newspapers and news agencies representing more than 30 nations. The United States will have from 70 to 90 correspondents, Britain about 50, France 40 and Russia from 25 to 40. There will be five German reporters representing the United States zone of occupation. Other nations will have from one to five representatives.

There will be three seats at each sitting of the court for the Associated Press, the United Press, the International News Service and other news agencies; large dailies having European bureaus will have two seats each, as will large broadcasting companies.

The trial briefs presented today were for:

Herman Goering, prepared by Frank Patton, former attorney general of New Mexico, and Lieut. Otto H. Korican, Los Angeles economist.

Rudolf Hess and Wilhelm Frick, by Karl Lachman, Washington, D.C.

Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel and Col. Gen. Alfred Gustav Jodl, by Capt. J. W. Auchincloss, New York, and Capt. Robert Claggett, Kansas City.

Hans Frank and Baldur von Schirach, by Major William Baldwin, Detroit.

Admiral Karl Doenitz and Admiral Erich Raeder, by Naval Lieutenant Richard Heller, New York.

Franz von Papen and Constantin von Neurath, by Capt. Norman Stoll, Washington, D.C.

Arthur Seyss-Inquart, by Major Joseph D. Bryan, Chicago.

The chief prosecutors for Great Britain, France and Russia disclosed the names of attorneys who will assist them in presenting their case in the war-crimes trials.

Newsmen Assigned Seats At War Trials

Nuernberg, Nov. 10 (AP)—Allocation of seats in the press gallery for the trials of top-ranking Nazi war criminals was made today to more than 300 newspapers and news agencies representing more than 30 nations.

The United States, with 70 to 90 correspondents, will have the largest representation. Britain will have about 50, France 40 and the Soviet Union between 25 and 40.

Five German Reporters

Five or more German reporters, representing the United States zone of occupation, will represent the German press, a spokesman for the information division said.

Preparations for the trial's coverage, made by the public relations office of United States forces, European theater, include three seats at each sitting of the court, for the Associated Press, the United Press, the International News Service and other news agencies. Large dailies, with European bureaus, will be given two seats each.

Large broadcasting companies will have two men each and news magazines will have one each. Monthly magazines will rotate their coverage.

Nazis Who Slew GI Flyers Hanged

Bruchsal, Germany, Nov. 10 (AP). Five German civilians, all protesting they had done nothing wrong, were hanged in the gloomy, rain-drenched yard of Bruchsal Prison today for the murder of six American flyers who parachuted from a disabled plane near Ruesselsheim on August 26, 1944.

The condemned men were Joseph Hargen, Friedrich Wust, Johann Seipel, Johann Opper and Philip Gulich. They started mounting gthe gallows at 1.15 P.M. and the last one dropped through the trap at 4.10 P.M.

Statements Permitted

Wearing German prison clothes and white skull caps, they were permitted to make last statements as they stood on the gallows. Four of them were accompanied by Protestant clergymen and the fifth by a Catholic priest.

Protesting his innocence, Hargen said he fired pistol bullets into one of the injured and helpless Americans because the American "stuck his tongue out at me."

Prayer For Executioners

"God forgive you, you do not know what you're doing," Hargen added just before the trap was sprung.

The five men were convicted at Darmstadt last July 25. Of the remainder of eleven defendants in the case, one was acquitted, two were sentenced to five years imprisonment, one to fifteen years and two women were sentenced to be hanged. The sentences of the women were commutted to 30 years imprisonment by Lieut. Gen. Geoffrey Keyes, commander of the United States 7th Army.

U.S.-Ruled Berlin Paper To Quit

Berlin, Nov. 10 (AP)—The only official newspaper of the American occupation forces in Berlin, the Allgemeine Zeitung, will cease publication tomorrow, it was learned today. This will leave the Berlin field to one British and six Russian-controlled papers and the German-edited Tagesspiegel, licensed by United States authorities.

The decision to end publication was in line with the American policy to turn over newspapers to Germans free of any Nazi taint at the earliest possible time.

Popular In Berlin

Withdrawal of the Allgemeine Zeitung, probably the most popular of the papers published in Berlin, will leave the Neue Zeitung of Munich as the only large newspaper in Germany directly controlled by American occupation forces. There are small papers in Regensburg and Bayreuth.

Appearing twice weekly, the Allgemeine Zeitung drew its news from all the main agencies of the world and the OWI and presented it objectively with a minimum of editorial comment.

The Soviet-controlled papers in Berlin usually print news only from the Soviet Tass agency, the Soviet newspaper Pravda and Izvestia and the Moscow radio, although American dispatches occasionally are picked from New York if they point up the Soviet view.

Stalin To Return To Duty Soon, Diplomat Says

NOV 11 1945

Moscow, Nov. 10 (AP)—A foreign diplomatic source said today that a high Soviet official had indicated that Generalissimo Stalin was expected to return to active duty about the middle of November.

He said that when he inquired why Stalin did not appear at the Red Square parade on the twenty-eighth anniversary of the Russian revolution November 7 he was told that it would have been very risky for anyone coming from the warm climate of the south, where the Generalissimo spent his recent vacation, to expose himself several hours to the frigid temperatures of Moscow's streets.

"This seems the most logical explanation of Stalin's absence I have yet received," commented the diplomatic source, who cannot be identified by name.

Whereabouts Mopt Question

The whereabouts of Stalin are still a subject of considerable speculation, but if this report is true it might explain also the fact he did not attend the Kremlin meeting addressed by Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav M. Molotov the previous day. It is not likely that he would have shown up for the Kremlin speech and then failed to review the traditional parade.

The assumption among the better informed foreign diplomats is that Stalin—as United States Ambassador W. Averell Harriman reported him to be when he saw him at his vacation site in late October—is well and will return to his job in due course.

Reds and Yanks Quit Czechoslovakia Soon

Prague, Nov. 9 (Delayed), (AP.)—Premier Zdenek Fierlinger announced to the Provisional Parliament today that Russian and American occupation troops will leave Czecho-Slovakia in a short time. He indicated the Russian and American Governments had reached an agreement to withdraw simultaneously.

The first homeward bound Russian troops already have left Pisek in South Bohemia, official quarters disclosed. This is the region where the Russian troops first met the Americans.

REPRESENTATIVES TO AUSTRIA NAMED

Provisional Government Will Take Similar Action

Vienna, Nov. 10 (AP)—The United States and Great Britain today named "political representatives" to the Austrian Provisional Government, which will send similar representatives to Washington and London.

The United States appointed John Erhardt, who will continue also in his present duties as American adviser to Gen. Mark Clark, American member on the Allied council in Austria.

French Choice Expected Soon

Great Britain named Harold Mack. France is expected to announce her choice soon.

Announcement of the appointments was made at a regular council meeting, and followed Russia's unilateral action requesting the Austrians to exchange representatives with Moscow.

The Russian request was made after the council voted last October 20 to extend authority of the present government of Chancellor Karl Renner to all Austria. The Russian choice has not been disclosed, but probably will be Eugene Kisselev, now a political adviser.

Other Action By Council

In another action today the council examined a large number of laws enacted by the Renner Government, and approved 125 for national validity "after some amendment in certain cases."

The council announced also without elaboration that an agreement had been reached on measures to be taken for dealing with the influx of Germans from surrounding countries such as Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia, from which they had been expelled.

125 Renner Laws Approved

VIENNA, Nov. 10 (AP)—In another action today the Council examined a large number of laws enacted by the Renner Government, and approved 125 for national validity "after some amendment in certain cases."

STORM IN BELGIUM OVER KING LEOPOLD

Brussels, Nov. 10 (A. P.).—Tempers flared and the corridors rang with accusations today when Catholic Party members in parliamentary debate attacked the Belgian Government for opposing the return of King Leopold to his throne.

Edmond Ronse, first spokesman for the Catholic Party, accused Socialist Premier Achille van Acker of preparing a Socialist revolution, suppressing freedom of speech and evading his constitutional duties.

"Go ahead and say it," Van Acker shouted when Ronse suggested he had knowledge of Government activities he would like to reveal but could not, because he was a former member of the Government.

When Ronse declared the last words of every Belgian soldier who died fighting were "Vive le roi, vive la Belgique," Leftists arose and shouted "Never, never."

A spokesman close to the Government said it appeared likely that Van Acker would have to ask for a vote of confidence because of the violence of the attack.

To Watch Greek Elections.

Athens, Nov. 10 (A. P.).—An informed source reported today that Britain, the United States and France would advise the Greek Government next week that they had decided to send observers to determine whether free elections could be held in Greece. The notification will be conveyed by Hector McNeil, British Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, who is due to arrive in Athens from London next week, said this informant, who cannot be identified by name.

Ethridge Still In Bulgaria

Sofia, Nov. 9 [AP—Delayed]—Mark Ethridge, publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times, continued his fact-finding survey of Bulgaria today. Several morning newspapers here erroneously reported that Ethridge, who is on a special mission for Secretary of State Byrnes, had left for Bucharest.

Military Council to Go.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Nov. 9 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Bulgarian newspapers announced today that the Council of Ministers had abolished the military law under which Bulgaria has been operating since 1939.

Finns Fill Cabinet Posts

Helsinki, Nov. 10 (AP)—The Finnish Government announced today that Onni Peltonen, locomotive engineer, has been named Minister of Communications and Labor, and V. Vesterinen, Minister of Agriculture. Peltonen succeeds Eero Vuori, new Minister to London, and Vesterinen replaces K. T. Jutila, new Minister to Washington.

Artillery and Mortar Fire Heard as Reds Block Path to Manchuria.

U.S. MARINES ENCIRCLED

American Forces Not Involved in New Incidents, Report Says.

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNGKING, Nov. 10—(AP) Artillery and mortars thundered today along the cosatal end of China's great [illegible] as the Chinese Communist [illegible] divisions blocked the path of hundreds of Nationalist troops into industrially-rich Manchuria.

The booming of heavy weapons first was heard during the night in the U. S. Marine-guarded port of Chinwangtao, Associated Press correspondent Richard Bergholz reported, signalling the first heavy fighting in the undeclared civil war.

The action began near Shanhaikwan, coastal anchor of the wall north of Chinwangtao where the Reds' crack Eighth Route Army is solidly entrenched.

The wounded had been trickling in from the front even before the big guns opened fire.

Intensified fighting was reported far inland, and also flared south of Chinwangtao along the railroad

Patton Is Taking Over In Eisenhower Absence

Latter Departs by Plane for Paris En Route to U. S.

BERLIN, Nov. 10 (AP).—General George S. Patton jr., as the senior American officer present, will be in command of United States forces in the European theater during the visit of General Dwight D. Eisenhouwer to the United States. Patton, who now heads the skelton staff of the 15th Army has headquarters at Bad Nauheim

Americans Send Home $65,000,000 In Month

Berlin, Nov. 10 (AP)—American soldiers in the European theater sent home slightly more than half of the cash pay they drew in September, Lieut Gen. Walter B. Smith, chief of staff to General Eisenhower, said today.

At a press conference, Smith said the troops drew $107,000,000 and sent home $65,000,000—an amount he described as a "reasonable proportion."

LIDICE ORPHANS SOUGHT

Berlin Paper Appeals to Germans to Help Atone for Crime

BERLIN, Nov. 10 (AP)—The Berliner Zeitung today called upon all Germans to help trace the lost children of Lidice, who were scattered after the Germans had destroyed that Czechoslovak town in revenge for the death of "Hangman" Heinrich Heydrich.

Czechoslovak authorities have provided the names of ninety-three children dispersed throughout Germany after the Nazis had slain all men of Lidice over the age of 15 and put the women in a concentration camp.

The Zeitung, organ of the Berlin City Government, urged that the children's names be posted in all public buildings and that every individual aid in the search as "a work of atonement," with a special effort to restore them to their mothers for Christmas.

Poland Limits Political Parties To Present Six

Warsaw, Nov. 8 [AP—Delayed]. The National Council of the Homeland, Poland's legislative body, refused today to authorize the creation of new political parties, thus limiting official recognition to the six now in existence.

Simultaneosly, it was reported that five of the seven men who petitioned President Boleslaw Bierut to recognize the "National party" had been seized by the secret police and accused of being "Fascists."

Official Parties Listed

The council's action limits official sanction to these parties: PPR (Polish Workers), PPS (Polish Socialists), PSL (Polish Peasant) SL (Peasant party), the Democratic party and the Stronnictwo Pracy (a Labor party.)

The governmental organ Zycie Warszawy said those who wished to establish new parties were representatives of "Polish fascism."

The men who proposed the establishment of the "National party" based its principles on the old Nationalist part, headed by the late Ignace Jan Paderewski.

"True Democracy" Cited

They contended in their petition that their party's program stood for "true democracy as practiced by the Western powers."

Marshal Michael Rola Zymierski, commander in chief of the Polish Army, told the army newspaper Polska Zbrojna that the nation intends to maintain a peacetime army of more than 250,000 men.

He said this represents a drastic cut from the 30 infantry divisions and 40 cavalry regiments which Poland had in 1939.

Protest on Tiso Arrest

PRAGUE, Nov. 10 (AP).—Persons protesting against the arrest and confinement of the Rev. Josef Tiso, former puppet president of Slovakia, smashed windows and distributed leaflet in Bratislava today. Remnants of Tiso's disbanded Hlinka guard were believed to have participated. Bratislava police were alerted to prevent further disorders.

to Tientsin.

An unconfirmed Chinese report said one Nationalist platoon was annihilated near a first-aid station set up to care for wounded at Nationalist-held Pehtaiho junction, 15 miles south of Chingwangtao.

Marines Neutral

Although almost encircled by the fighting which—until today—has been sporadic, U. S. Marines had been involved in no new incidents, Bergholz said.

Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of American forces in China, said today in his first Chungking news conference since his return from Washington that all American forces will be out of China by early spring, leaving only a 6,000-man military mission.

They will not, he emphasized, help the Nationalists reach vital Manchuria, from which the Russians are withdrawing and in which the Chinese Reds hope to build a vast, militarily and industrially powerful "base area."

Wedemeyer said Marines would remain "non-partisan," and would not make any further landings in North China or move to any other points from their present stations at Peiping, Tientsin, Tangku (near Tientsin), Chinwangtao and Tsingtao.

Communists in Chungking, where peace talks have thus far been fruitless, reiterated complaints against American "intervention." One Red spokesman protested against any American financial, as well as military aid, declaring that any loan to the Nationalist government would "prolong this civil war."

Bloody Battles

In the North-China inland province of Shansi and in Suiyuan province of inner Mongolia fighting raged in what a semi-official dispatch called "bloody, see-saw battles."

One dispatch reported recapture by the Nationalists of the important railway junction of Shihkiachwang in Hopeh province—although the government never had previously acknowledged its loss. It is a strategic point on the north-south Peiping-Hankow railroad.

An official dispatch also recorded the arrival of "large numbers" of Nationalist troops at Paotow, western terminus of the Peiping-Suiyuan railroad west of Kweisui, besieged Suiyuan capital.

Their arrival "appreciably strengthened" the defense of Paotow against Communist attacks, the dispatch said—thus giving the first indication that Reds actually were attacking this Nationalist stronghold.

From all accounts, Kweisui still was in the hands of its outnumbered government garrison, which reportedly had beaten off a steady succession of strong Red attacks.

All the inland action involved the few transportation routes which Nationalists would take to reach North China, inner Mongolia and Manchuria.

Trustworthy reports here indicated the Communists were trying to establish, in inner Mongolia and Manchuria north of the Great Wall, a "base area" to provide them with supplies and troops for a long war—hoping thus to obtain far greater concessions in any negotiations with Chungking.

Observers who have visited the zone recently report that Communists in event of a full-scale civil war would count greatly on support of their "people's militia," an indoctrinated but poorly equipped army of country folk which helped them in guerilla battling against the Japanese.

These militia men, the observers say, were impressed by the social and other reforms introduced by the Communists—particularly by enforced reduction of rents—and would be willing to fight for the Reds again, just as they did against the Japanese.

Communists, observers here add, doubtless want to straddle firmly the stretch of the Peiping-Mukden (Manchuria) railroad north of the Great Wall—so that even if Chinese government forces win control of the rails as far north as the Wall they could not easily get beyond it toward Manchuria's important industrial areas.

Heavy Fighting Breaks Out At Great Wall

Chungking, Nov. 10 (AP)—Heavy fighting broke out today at the southern gateway to industrially rich Manchuria, where Chinese Communist and nationalist troops opened up with artillery for the first time in China's undeclared civil war.

Associated Press Correspondent Richard Bergholz said in a field dispatch that the fighting appeared to center around Shanhaikwan, fortress city at the eastern end of China's Great Wall.

American Marines on guard duty in the near-by port of Chinwangtao said the thunder of artillery and mortars could be heard throughout the night.

Reds Strongly Intrenched

The Communists were strongly intrenched in and around Shanhaikwan. The thousands of Nationalist troops landed from American ships at Chinwangtao must seize the city if they intend to move overland into Manchuria.

New clashes were also reported along the main railroad from Chinwangtao to Peiping. United States Marines are on guard at strategic points along this railroad to keep coal shipments moving.

Official dispatches here also reported that fighting still raged in the northern provinces of Shansi and Suiyuan, and said large numbers of Nationalist troops had arrived at Paotow, western terminus of the Peiping-Suiyuan railroad.

This was the first indication that Paotow, a Nationalist stronghold in Inner Mongolia, was under siege.

Kweisui Holding Out

From all accounts available here, Suiyuan's capital of Kweisui, east of Paotow, still held out against repeated Chinese Communist assaults.

While the fighting flared, Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of United States forces in China, predicted on his arrival from the trouble zone that all American forces in China would be out of the country by early spring.

Wedemeyer, accused by the Communists of intervening in the civil strife, asserted that the United States would not help move Chinese Nationalist troops into Manchuria.

He declared emphatically that United States forces and resources were "not being employed to assist the Central Government against dissident groups."

Chinese-Red Matters

Difficulties in debarkation of Chinese nationalist troops in Soviet-secured Manchuria, he added, are matters between the Chinese and Soviet Governments.

He added: "We won't be able to move Chinese troops to Manchuria by air. The Chinese themselves can do that."

The Chinese, he explained, have already obtained twenty American transport planes and want to buy 50 more. Asked how many surplus American planes were available in the theater for purchase by the Chinese, Wedemeyer said he did not know, that an Army-Navy liquidation board is disposing of surplus goods in China, save for medical supplies bought by the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Commission.

Other sources had estimated the supply of surplus planes in the theater as low as 1,000.

"Non-Partisan" Action

The American commander emphasized, however, that the United States would continue to assist in the repatriation of Japanese from the Chinese theater. He insisted that American forces would remain "non-partisan" as far as the strife between the Central Government and the Communists is concerned.

Wedemeyer expressed regret about isolated clashes between "my men and dissident groups," but asserted that in no instance had the Americans taken the initiative.

The General said that United States Marines would not land at other areas in China nor move to any other points within the country from their present stations at Peiping, Tientsin, Tangku near Tientsin, Chinwangtao and Tsingtao.

Open Line For Coal

He asserted they will help keep open communications between Tientsin and Chinwangtao port for the shipment of coal to Shanghai from the Kailan mines northeast of Tientsin.

Wedemeyer said the Marines would remain in China only until the completion of their mission—the disarming and repatriation of Japanese troops. He said he did not expect that the Marines would stay until the last Japanese has been removed from the country.

He also made it clear that United States forces would not operate in Manuchuria, but said American cadres would accompany Chinese troops to a port of debarkation in Manchuria if arrangements were made with Soviet authorities.

Conference With Chiang

The American commander said he reported to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek last night on his return from a trip to the United States and discussed with Chiang the redistribution of Chinese forces.

"I am concerned about the situation," Wedemeyer told newsmen, "but it would be premature for me to discuss it as I've just come back."

Meanwhile, a Communist dispatch reported that National Government authorities last Monday sealed Communist army offices in Sian, Shensi province. A Chinese press report from Moscow quoted the Chinese Embassy as saying Premier Stalin had sent Chiang a letter "connected with a certain important situation."

Chinese Communists, meanwhile, made a new charge of American intervention even as the Navy Department in Washington was emphasizing that the Marines are not in China "for any purpose connected with the conflict" between Reds and Nationalists.

Report Of Ultimatum

A Communist spokesman alleged that an American ultimatum was served last Monday on Red troops to withdraw 100 kilometers from either side of the Peiping-Mukden railroad. The spokesman said the Red commander at Shanhaikwan turned it down.

The Navy Department statement added that the Marines were there "for the purpose, and the purpose only, of assisting the Chinese National Government to obtain the surrender of Japanese forces there and to carry out the surrender terms in accordance with international agreement.

Vice Admiral Daniel Barbey told Bergholz in Chinwangtao that there was sufficient shipping in North China to get the bulk of the more than 50,000 Marines in the area home by Christmas if that is to be American policy.

Wedemeyer Backs Bidrick Mission Report

Chungking, Nov. 10 (AP)—The United States "almost definitely" has decided to place a postwar military mission in China to train Chinese soldiers, sailors and airmen, Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of American forces in China, said today.

The projected "military advisory group," he said, would range from 2,000 to 6,000 men, drawn from the regular United States Army and Navy. It would not participate in military action, he asserted.

Wedemeyer commented that he had been mentioned as head of the mission, but declared he was not ready to say whether he will accept until final decision on its establishment is announced from Washington.

Randall Mentioned

Correspondents learned that Brig. Gen. Russell Randall, wartime head of Randall's Raiders in China, had been mentioned prominently as chief of the proposed mission's air wing.

Wedemeyer told reporters at his first press conference since returning to Chungking from Washington that he hoped the mission would be established soon if it is to be established at all, so there would be no break in liaison between American and Chinese military men.

U.S. Vessels Still Carrying Chinese

Hong Kong, Nov. 10 (AP)—While Chinese Communists protested the role of the United States in Central Government military affairs, American ships continued today to carry Chinese Government troops to the North China trouble zone, a United States Army spokesman said.

Three transports jammed with well-equipped troops of the Chinese 8th Army sailed yesterday from the Kowloon docks, bound, a United States officer said, for Tsingtao. Previously the Chinese 13th Army was transported from here to North China.

United States Navy personnel returning this week from Haiphong, Indo-China, said two Chinese armies had been moved from there recently in a score of American ships and that it was understood one army went to North China, the other to Formosa.

The 8th Army force being shipped from Kowloon has been assembling here more than a week from South China's Canton sector, coming by train, truck, boat and afoot. Approximately 1,500 Chinese troops who were drowned when a Canton River steamer struck a mine Thursday were members of the 8th Army.

Japanese Said to Join Reds

SHANGHAI, Nov. 10 (AP)—Headquarters of the Chinese Ninety-fourth National Army at Tientsin reported today that some of the Japanese troops at Tangshan, sixty miles northeast of Tientsin, had joined Chinese Communist forces.

The Chinese Eighth Route Army was reported concentrating in twenty-four villages north of Tientsin. It also was reported entrenched near Shanhaikwan, 150 miles northeast of Tientsin at the coastal end of the Great Wall, where Chinese Communist and Nationalist troops are fighting.

Sabotage of rail lines leading northeast of Tientsin continues. At Tangfang, forty-seven miles northeast of Tientsin, rails were torn up, said the Ninety-fourth Army headquarters report. A train was derailed at Lutai two days ago.

A battalion of American marines was sent to Pehtaiho to reinforce marines strung out in that general area.

Korean Sees Freedom Soon

Shanghai, Nov. 10 (AP)—Chairman Kim Koo of the Korean provisional Government said at a news conference today that he was certain that the present cotrusteeship of his homeland by the United States and Russia was transitory and Korea would soon be free of occupation forces.

Arab League To Send Notes

Cairo, Nov. 10 (AP)—The Pan-Arab League reached a secret decision on the Palestine question at a meeting tonight and declined to announce any details except that the decision was unanimous and that notes had been prepared for presentation to Britain and the United States.

8 Crash Victims Buried

Cairo, Nov. 10 (AP)—8he bodies of TWA Vice President Jack Nichols and seven others killed November 7 when an Army plane crashed at Asmara, Eritrea, were brought to Cairo today and buried temporarily pending transfer to America.

Ceylon Takes Step To Dominion Status

Colombo, Ceylon, Nov. 10 (A. P.).—The Ceylon State Council yesterday voted 51 to 3 to accept a British white paper proposal for a new Ceylon constitution as a step towards a dominion status. The white paper recently recommended a constitution modeled on British lines with a bicameral legislature and a cabinet of ministers to replace the present executive board.

Aga Khan Speaks

Calcutta, Nov. 10 (AP)—The Aga Khan, former president of the League of Nations Assembly, said today that if the atomic bomb should remain secret he would like that secret to be held by the United States "because then I would know that the bomb will never be used for aggression."

In an interview the Aga Khan, spiritual leader of 10,000,000 Ismailian Moslems, said he favored the creation of a "supernational state" to regulate production of atomic bombs. He added, however, that he doubted whether even such a state would provide an entirely effective control.

SABOTAGE, SNIPING CONFRONT FRENCH

Attack Pressed On Annamese Resistance Center

Saigon, Indo-China, Nov. 10 (AP)—Sniping and sabotage broke out anew in the Saigon area today as strong French forces, armed with American lend-lease equipment, continued to clean up newly captured Tay Ninh, Annamese resistance center 58 miles northwest of here.

NIGHT

An official French statement said Annamese set fire to a fuel dump at the Saigon airport and burned an unused cinema during the early morning hours, while firing flared up in the powerhouse area of Cholon.

Fight Rages In Bamboo Forests

It also reported sniping near Thudaumot Airfield, where Japanese forces were concentrated for disarmament. Several arrests were made and some arms were seized.

Capture of Tay Ninh, opening the first overland link with food-rich Cambodia, was announced yesterday after a bitter battle, in which the 9th and 11th French Colonial Regiments and elements of the veteran French 2d Armored Division took part.

Fighting raged late into the night in a bamboo forest 6 miles from Tay Ninh, where French encountered the focal point of Annamese resistance. French said they had seized "a large number of important documents," an indication that they may have discovered the long-sought headquarters of the Viet Minh, Annamese Nationalist movement.

No Details On Arms Used

Although the French were known to be using United States-made equipment, including tanks, army officials refused to furnish details or estimate the amount of American arms used.

The reopening of a land route to Cambodia will expedite the movement of food supplies to Saigon. Up to now, the only way Cambodia's rich food surpluses could reach here was by Japanese-manned river convoys.

The new route also will be used for the movement of two divisions of Japanese troops from Phnom Penh, capital of Cambodia, to Saigon for disarmament.

Cargoes On Way To Indo-China

Meanwhile, a French economic expert, Lieut. Col. Jean Esquisaud, said the first consignments in a $160,000,000 rehabilitation and re-equipment program for Indo-China were en route from Los Angeles in one Victory and one Liberty ship.

The cargoes are part of the 300,000 tons of industrial machinery and supplies which will be sent here from the United States and England under agreements which already have been drawn, he said.
